IN EARTHQUAKES AS WELL AS ECLIPSES, BELLEVILLE SEEMS TO BE DECIDEDLY OUTCLICKED

Citizens Felt Tremors, But Didn't Know Meaning Of It

STIRLING RATTLED

Radio Set Failed to Function During Ten Minute Period

The earthquake was felt in Belleville and district on Saturday night, though tremors were not so distinct nor of as great duration as at many points in Canada. Though residents believe they felt the quake, now that there has been definite information received that the quake registered its many points in the United States and Canada—yet it is believed by some who witnessed that they felt the quake before they knew an earthquake being concerned.

At the Y.M.C.A. about 9.15 o'clock Saturday night the top floor there was a shudder of about a half minute duration which jarred billiard and pool cues from the mechanical. Wonder was expressed, and the visitors were set so that the Montreal concert would be the one which would be heard over the machine had again "tuned in." In about ten minutes time, the same was heard again as plainly as before. The interval was the space of time during which the tremors had been felt throughout Canada.

Belleville, Were Shaken

The earthquake was felt quite distinctly at Stirling by almost every citizen of that village. The shock was first felt there about 9.25 o'clock, and probably those who attended the pictures about there felt it to best advantage. The windows in the pictured house rattled for more than four minutes most loudly at times than others. As first it was believed that a snowstorm was the cause of the rattling, and probably no one was aware of the cause, until after the visit of the reporter for information on the radio. Some heard the news of the earthquake from folk in Canada and the United States. There was absolutely no panic in the place at no one really knew what caused the unusual occurrence at the time.

Over in Picton the shock was also felt quite distinctly. Windows rattled and clothes on fresh floors quivered sufficiently to make the dishes inside, and cause mild alarm among those behind. who unaccustomed to such crashes as it. One man somewhat described as occurring in the haunted houses of story books. did not for the moment know the real cause.

Aged Sexton Was Brutally Attacked

Found Luckily By Warden Who Returned Late

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto March 2—Returning to the Don Jail at Bayview Barnabas Anglican Church in the west end of the city about 9 before midnight to find an attack made on the sexton there the evening previous by F. J. Perrin, one of the church wardens, Grand Constable Saturday, aged sexton, lying in a semi-conscious condition and bleeding to death from wounds. Mr. Hockaday, who is eighty-three years of age, has apparently been assaulted by robbers and at Western Hospital where he was rushed it was found he was suffering from a broken nose, seven severe cuts to face, while two teeth had been knocked out. He was unable to give any information to police early to-day.

TO INTRODUCE ART OF FENCING HERE

Dr. James D. Tower plans to introduce fencing to the city as a spectator sport to the ancient sport of fencing, as he intends to hold classes in the Assembly Hall at the Y. M. C. A. in so far as Belleville is concerned, this is a new departure—the sport that is different,—and it is open to both sexes for full experience, poise, quick thinking and act

Dr. Tower, while attending Queen's as a very active fencer, and on Tuesday evening will meet anyone who is interested, at the Y. M. C. A., where the matter may be fully discussed.

Provincial Police Do Snappy Work

Arrest Men Soon After Cottages Entered; Sentenced On Saturday

Quick service is the record of Provincial police in a recent case here. Receiving a complaint on Friday night that a summer cottage near Bancroft had been entered recently and goods stolen, Inspector C. E. Gurnett immediately communicated with Provincial Constable Percy McCoy, stationed at Bancroft. Police arrested two men and brought them to Belleville Saturday morning. Saturday night they were sentenced.

Samuel S. Sergeant, 52, was sentenced to serve 30 days in the county jail here when he was found guilty of theft of goods from Col. Maxey's summer cottage near Bancroft. Owen Grant, 38, his companion was found guilty of a similar charge and was sentenced to serve 15 days in the county jail.

The men were convicted before County Judge J. F. Wills, Police Magistrate Harmon, at Bancroft, Saturday afternoon.

The men were convicted of stealing fishing tackle, clothing and provisions from the cottage.

Old 2nd Battery Planning Re-union

Rounding Up Names of Belleville Men For Coming Event

The Intelligencer is happy to be of assistance in another worthy enterprise, which concerns the old battery men, and this morning, in a letter received from Captain Frank C. Badgley of Ottawa.

The letter explains that a re-union of the Original members of the second field artillery brigade, C.F.A., will be held in the near future. This unit, it will be remembered, was the second of the first Canadian contingent under the command of Major (now Brigadier General) C. H. Macdonn, D. S. O; C. M. G.) and the personnel of this unit was largely made up of Belleville men.

Captain Badgley, who is secretary position of the re-union further explains that a temporary committee composed of Col. Jas. Peck, chairman, Lt. Col. H. A. White, Messrs. Peter Bleecker, J. J. Wannamaker, Tyrwhitt, W. Farmer, Walter Ackland, Ed. Tarrow and Captain Bingham have recently appointed at a meeting of the Ottawa "originals" of the battery to make definite arrangements regarding the re-union.

The committee, it is understood is going into the matter more fully decided that before anything definite regarding this affair can be done, every earmark effort should be made to "round up" as many of the old battery men as possible, especially those from Belleville and district.

The old battery records, are of little use in locating the men, as they were originally served with the battery going to various districts, and changes of residence either during or after the war. The chief hope, therefore, lies in newspaper publicity.

Captain Badgley will be glad to hear from all readers of this paper, whether from friends who can give information as to their present whereabouts. Communications should be addressed to:

CHICAGO MARKET

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, March 2.—This unofficial estimates, current that except for a beginning March 24, arrived here this morning, having been detached from the Mediterranean fleet. The work of preparing the warship for the trip will be undertaken immediately.

Will automobiles be run by compressed air? The photo shows, top, a new type of German compressed air locomotive, which, despite its diminutive proportions, has traction power comparable with some of the larger types of steam locomotives, and, bottom, new baby engines which also feature concentrated traction power. The trend of the experiments seems, from these illustrations, to be directed at the elimination of locomotive bulk.

Church Crowded At St. Andrew's Recital

Mr. Leo. Riggs at the Organ Pleased Belleville Friend's

Another of Mr. Leo B. Riggs' splendid organ recitals drew a large crowd to St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and people who left their warm firesides to face the blizzard of yesterday afternoon, felt well repaid, as they listened to the strains of the organ played by a master hand. The selections yesterday were chosen from many requests and the appreciative audience listened attentively to the favorite selections. Mr. Riggs knows how to bring out the tones of the organ and his performances are always well received. The many lovers of Belleville hope for further musical treats such as they enjoyed yesterday and on several previous occasions.

The following selections composed the program: Concert Overture in C Major by Hollins; Caprice Viennois by Kreisler; Deep River by Burleigh; Mendelssohn's Wedding March from Midsummer Night's Dream; Italian, French, Russian, American and Scotch Folk Songs; Pastore in D Major by Lemmens; Unfinished Symphony by Schubert; March, Slave, by Tschaik ow sky.

TO PICK COMMITTEE FOR TOURIST CAMP

The city council will meet in regular session this evening. There are several recommendations from the various committees to be endorsed or rejected as the case may be. A committee will possibly be appointed to take into consideration a parking place for cars, also a site as a tourist camp.

At Third of Series of Song Services at Y.M.C.A.

The third of a series of song services at the Y. M. C. A. after Credit hour night filled the assembly hall to capacity. It was in charge of the students of Albert College with James Cook as chairman and the college council presiding, and Prof. S. Auglin at the piano.

The special musical numbers were violin solo by Gerald Kidd; vocal solo by Arthur Harwood. Prof. R. Argue gave a most interesting address, as he called on his hearers to think. Showing that world betterment has always come as men have dared to think through and then act and remain loyal to their convictions. There are problems confronting us to-day and should be especially called for clear thinking on at least three outstanding problems which should be solved by the coming generation if the world was to advance in a real betterment of fellowship based on mutual understanding and love. These problems were World Peace, the race problem and capital and labor.

MARCH COMES IN LIKE A REAL LION

March arrived in Belleville and district Sunday as per schedule, and in a cloud of snow received an idealist in the minds of citizens as to whether or not the heralic entry was as becomes a spring lion or a retarded lamb.

It was a bit colder Saturday night but no immediate indications that the elements had "something brewing," were evident. Sunday broke over the city in a drab color with a few, agitating gale wind blowing moderately. The first real signal for the current snow storm which broke about 10.30 o'clock in the morning.

Wet clouds of snow wafted their way in succession with a moderate gale blowing mercilessly into the faces of unprepared pedestrians. The storm continued until the middle of the after noon when it settled quietly to cover the ardent snow shovelers their opportunity for the next few hours.

It was wet snow which packed rapidly, and to-day on March 2nd the sleighs are in evidence for the first time. The shock is naturally proclaimed by reason of the fact that the month is the shortest month of February, and one of the most pleasant and enjoyable of years. There were a series of January thaws in February, yet this month is enough, and a little cold weather. Probably March will make up for the deficiency of heat. There is not a modest start, but one fact remains. March came in like a lion—she must retire like a lamb.

CUSTOMS RETURNS INCREASE $10,000

The customs returns for the port of Belleville for the month of February show an increase of $10,753.49 over those for the same month last year. The figures are as follows:

1925—$160,888.60
1924—150,135.11

Increase $10,753.49.

Telephoned Report Says Another Followed Early This Morning

NO DAMAGE DONE

Survey of Northern Ontario Shows Mines Do Not Suffer

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Quebec March 2—That the origin of the seismic disturbance which shook the North-eastern part of this continent on Saturday night was in the vicinity of the Saguenay River was proved beyond a doubt this morning as a result of a long distance telephone conversation with agent harvey of the Dominion Express Company at Chicoutimi.

That official gave out the surprising information that about 9.30 o'clock, he experienced, the latest one having occur ed at 8 o'clock this morning.

In North Ontario

(Canadian Press Despatch)

North Bay, Ont., March 2.—A complete survey of the Northern Ontario mining field made yesterday and this morning by representatives of the Canadian press indicates that no damage was done to any of the underground workings by the earthquake on Saturday night. One peculiarity of the quake seems to be that it was felt severely in some sections, yet in others not more than a mile distant it would not be felt at all.

Cobalt, for instance, hardly felt it, but Haileybury, on the other side of Lake Timiskaming was rather severe. Where there was sand or clay underlay, in the South Porcupine field the shock was sharp. On rock formation it was not felt.

In the 800 feet level of Hollinger mine the men did not know there had been a quake.

Seismic Origin

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, March 2.—Having virtually decided that the disastrous Japanese earthquake originated in a sub-strata rock, movements of which are felt in the eastern part of the United States or in eastern Canada, seismologists are endeavoring to chart the epicentral disturbance.

Some held that tremors which shook the large area of the continent were caused by the sliding of the land portions known as the "Sundian fault," which lies deep in the Atlantic's bed off the Maine coast. Others placed the disturbance south of Bermuda in the Quebec province. The region lies in Cepedo Land, principally reticulated formations, which extends from the St. Lawrence to Alabama.

In the city of Quebec, windows were broken and a few small shacks were overturned.

Covered Wide Area

The notification service of the United States and Eastern Canada. Seismologists at the Jesuit College of the Great Lakes were shaken by an earthquake beginning in the neighborhood of 9.30 o'clock on Saturday night. The disturbance was recorded there to be alarmingly apparent from Nova Scotia to Alberta, over a line approximately 1,500 miles in length, while from Washington to south of the Canadian mining districts of New Ontario in the north the trembling of the earth was recorded by the delicate instruments and rattling of windows.

It is split up with Area of the quake, no great damage is reported to have occurred. Sale Of Suit Causes Big Fuss In Court

Défendant Alleges Hebrew Woman Treated Him Unfairly

Of a grist of Division court cases heard this morning before Judge F. J. Wills, there was one outstanding case because of its unusual nature.

Jake Goldberg and his wife Annie, dealers in clothing, sued H. Macdonald of Frankford for $8 which amount they claimed was the balance due them for suit of clothes which they had sold him on October 4th, 1924, for $20. Macdonald, who pleaded not guilty, illiterate and could not make out the receipt which was given for the purchase and as the Hebrew dealers cannot write English, Rosina Gerald (Vance at number two station, across the street from the Goldbergs store, was called over by the Goldbergs to write out the receipt. Macdonald was discharged after his bank account had been exhausted in their trade, but this he did not realize. He did so, and the purchaser made his mark.

Goldberg claimed Macdonald was the man who bought the suit, but Vance would not swear to the identity as she was in the court room, before the case was dismissed.

Macdonald, on the stand, told of illness three and a half miles east of Frankford, but denied being in Belleville that day. Furthermore he said that the only clothes he owned in the world were on his back, and they were not a year older like the suit which the Goldbergs sold. Goldberg said the man who bought the suit was taller and stouter than the defendant.

"Why the Goldbergs did not even know my name when I was in the store over this matter before," explained Macdonald. "They met me on Front street in front of a hotel, and Mrs. Goldberg rushed up and grabbed my clothes, and insected them. Then she asked if I was the man in court."

Witness thought that was pretty unusual behavior for a stranger, and her actions surprised him.

"I had to go home an alley and lost my clothes up," he explained amid subdued laughter.

Vance, which the man wore and which Mrs. Goldberg thought she recognized, was purchased at the Belleville Company store at Preston' ayear ago Christmas, the man said.

C. A. Payne defended MacDonald.

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

Heredity

THERE is a good deal of bunkum about heredity.

It is a very convenient alibi for many failures.

Heredity of course is a thing over which we have no control. We cannot pick our fathers and mothers, nor our ancestors. But my case makes it the duty of those who are not to have children.

Nature has provided for this contingency. The wise man exercises his faculties within the control that nature has provided for him. He knows what he can and what he cannot do. By doing not less than 51 almost 95 as an excuse for not doing what he can do.

There is a legend of Fredia somewhere. She was a man that all his life had to bear about his father's corpse. There is no doubt that evil tendencies descend from generation to generation. Put the main thing is that we survive their strength.

Everybody's heredity runs back to God, and most of the incidental evils that have descended from our ancestors can be overcome by determined efforts.

There are very few in our surroundings that will not give way before a resolute will.

Every time a mother who is about to give birth to a child, or one who has a young child, is distressed over whether or not he will inherit the weaknesses of his father. This usually is a futile worry. As a rule we do not inherit weaknesses. We inherit strength. The tendency is far every baby to revert, to the status of the original stock. This is called the law of reversion to type.

This is what keeps the world healthy and strong. Not the vagaries of individuals, but stock remains solid.

There is a tendency for every American child of Anglo-Saxon parents to be of the Anglo-Saxon type. There is a tendency also for an American child of Latin parents to be of the Latin type.

The one will probably be sturdy, blond and of large physical frame, while the other will probably be slight, dark and wiry.

There is as much room for the efforts of one in the world as there is for the efforts of the other.

The world will always need the solid and vigorous northmen, and it will always need the more volatile southerner. There is plenty of room for both.

Such a thing as a child's inheriting the disease tendencies of his parents, such as drunkenness or addiction to drugs, is rare. His inspirit may be that of his grandfather, or uncle, or brother, or of his mother, but rarely that of his father.

Our heredity is our race. Ours is something that we must expect unquestionably to do our full of us to make the best of that equipment that has been given us by Heredity.

Dutchy's Diary

Earthquakes and Walking

On Saturday evening, thousands of inhabitants of North America were alarmed when for upwards of two minutes they felt the earth shaking at their feet. From Northern Ontario down to the Southern States and in a wide area east and west, shocks were reported before any of the most severe in decades. Roofs were shaken off. Street signs fell. Chimneys were knocked from the wall. Dishes tumbled. Theatre crowds became panicky.

Short in duration as the shock was, and happily not a catastrophe, the experience was no doubt exceedingly disturbing to the multitude who passed through it. Many of those in the area affected are most likely thinking seriously of doing likewise they have never travelled before, the uncertainty of life, the possibilities of the world coming to an end, man's insignificance as he is measured with the universe.

Yet how solid this old earth of ours usually is!

Talking about earthquake, aren't they odd when their height is taken the first few steps alone—babies we mean. The latest addition to the family, Nicholas, is two, play fest on Friday and yesterday, started out on little journeys of three and four steps. You could tell by her face it was a great adventure. The possibilities of locomotion while in an upright position came to her suddenly. You could see a look of calculation in her eyes. She moved her right leg, shifted her balance, and she sat down easily.

But the idea had taken root. She tried it again in a moment and she time a real step was taken.

"That's the girl."

Not knowing parental ejes were upon her, she was startled by the commendation, but feeding on praise, she took another and another, ever so slowly and carefully.

Then came the earthquake. Too confident perhaps, she became little careless. After swaying cautiously she sat down with a thud that fairly shook the house. You'd wonder how a baby could fall so hard.

There was silence for quite a time, broken only by the rude cripple of the boy who was watching correctly. The experimenter seemed to be thinking the situation over seriously. Evidently she was offended for she looked at us all carefully and then retired to her blocks.

The walking lesson repeated to-day, however, and it looks as if they will continue for a week or so.

Thirty Years Ago

A farmer of Thurlow who is now a very old man, had three brothers in police court this week on a charge of destroying his fruit trees and today the boy's father got even by having the farmer up on five different charges.

Mr. and Mrs. John Cornelius' arranged and successfully carried out a driving party last evening. The destination of the party was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jos. S. Middlemas, at the D. and D. Intersect. About thirty of the left went out and this number was supplemented by others from the immediate vicinity.

A letter received in this city yesterday states that Angus Dickson, who left for South Africa is doing well there. He says the country is being overrun with fortune seekers from all parts of the world; they are arriving at the rate of 3000 per month and there is not work for many of them. Angus says that people are better off in many ways but rather likes the life.

Dr. Yeomans's has been in attendance on the ten-year-old son of Michael Farrell, of Marysville, and called Dr. Walk of this city into consultation. These doctors with two others successfully performed an operation for tuberculosis by pendicitis. The death rate in similar cases used to average from 75 to 80 per cent, but by the use of modern appliances and advanced methods the percentage has been reduced from 10 to 15. The young patient is doing well.

Restore Gray Or Faded Hair

LOOK YOUNG! BRING BACK ITS NATURAL COLOR AND GLOSS WITH SAGE TEA

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous. Just a few applications will prove a revelation to your hair in fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the best recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not a sin, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and after another application or two, your hair becomes dark, glossy, soft and lustrous.

So degrading and vulgar have become the plays carefully produced on Broadway that a leading lady, Miss Helen MacKellar, has revolted and threatened her withdraw as the star of a play, because she believes the words she has to speak and the actions she has to exhibit are damaging to the reputation of a woman. The result has been a storm of protest from press and public against these "gutter organs" which invariably picture aspects of life that are not attractive. "Clean up Broadway" is now the cry.

The world will always need the solid and vigorous northmen, and it will always need the more volatile southerner. There is plenty of room for both.

Such a thing as a child's inheriting the disease tendencies of his parents, such as drunkenness or addiction to drugs, is rare. His inspirit may be that of his grandfather, or uncle, or brother, or of his mother, but rarely that of his father.

Our heredity is our race. Ours is something that we must expect unquestionably to do our full of us to make the best of that equipment that has been given us by Heredity.

THE PULPWOOD EMBARGO

The Daily Intelligencer quotes along the following interesting comment on the pulpwood embargo situation, published by the Ottawa Journal.

"The motive behind the movement for an embargo on Canadian pulpwood is plain. It is, in the main, to provide that the employment and wages incidental to the conversion of pulpwood into paper shall go into the country of our own exchange, not into that of our chief customer. It is to prevent the existing condition whereby every cordage of pulpwood that leaves the Canadian woods, compared with 43 pounds in the United States.

Thus it will be seen that we have fewer daily papers per capita, our papers are of smaller size, and our consumption of newsprint is less in proportion. The Montreal Herald gives the reason as being that Canadian business firms do not advertise as largely in proportion as American business firms.

FOREST RESPONSIBILITY RESTS

Before the Barrie Kiwanis Club, Robert Yeomans of Toronto told the members that "it isn't your town, it's you", and proceeded to show that there is a direct responsibility upon every citizen for the kind of civic government that exists. He had heard, as others have, that municipal government is breeder of corruption and were the street to be believed there was little or no honesty in civic administration. Investigation has revealed that in 99 cases out of 100 the municipal government was clean and decent and where there was anything wrong it was due to the apathy of the citizens, which Mr. Yeomans placed in three classes. There are: 1, the man who votes, knows why he votes and is prepared to serve when called upon; 2, the man, who votes and forgets all about it; 3, the man who forgets to vote. In conclusion the speaker said, and said very truly, "A country's greatness does not depend upon physical things, necessary and wonderful though they be. Its success depends on the type of citizens. Looking over the history of towns and cities, it will be found that where one town or city progresses over the other it is in large measure due to the character and enterprise of its people."

NEWSPAPER COMPARISONS

(Toronto Globe)

The Natural Resources Intelligence Service has issued an interesting comparison of consumption of newsprint in Canada with that of the United States.

Canada has, according to the latest newsprint directory, 114 daily papers, with a total average daily circulation of 1,646,900 copies. With a population of 8,715,483, as shown by the last census, this gives a daily newspaper for every 5.1 of the population.

The United States has 2,300 daily papers, with an estimated aggregate daily circulation of 43,000,000 copies. On the basis of the population figures of the 1920 census, 105,711,000, a daily newspaper is provided for every 3.2 of the population.

Per capita consumption of newsprint also shows a much higher ratio in the United States as compared with Canada. In 1924, using census figures of population, the Canadian consumption of newsprint was 30.4

Tailored Simplicity

Generally speaking Coats follow straight lines and usually reach the hem of the dress. Besides charmeen, Point Twill, Gabardine, French Covert and Suede Cloth, there are new novelty Cloths to complete the range of materials. Embroidery, braid and buttons all play an important part while some models show a tendency to forsake straight lines by the introduction of small pleats at the sides.

Colorings are conservative or new and original—in either case most attractive and every model is carefully lined.

Well Known Man Of Kingston Dies

Alexander J. O'Brien, Merchant, Passed Away Reading Paper

Kingston, March 2—Seated in his chair at home with the newspaper in his hands, Mr. Alexander J. O'Brien, one of the city's best known tailors and ex-aldermen, was suddenly stricken Friday night and died without a moment's notice. He had been down street that evening and had two teeth extracted. After returning home he was resting easy with the evening paper in one hand and a handkerchief in the other, presumably for the nurse who stood near by. His head drooped forward and he was dead. Members of the family who were in the room with him had no other till notice of his passing. The deceased was 67 years of age. Dr. J. G. Boast, who was hastily summoned, pronounced the cause of death as heart failure.

The late Mr. O'Brien has been a well and respected citizen for the entire city for many years. He was in the tailoring business practically all his life, and had the enviable reputation of being one of the best in his line of work.

EASTERN ONTARIO CHEESE IS BEST

It was announced at the short course which was conducted at the Eastern Ontario Dairy School, Kingston, during the week that during 1924 there were about 60,000 boxes of cheese manufactured in Eastern Ontario and passed through the grading station. Of these 20,119 were cured cheese, firsts, specials or better, which is the best record in the Dairying Division records.

The cheese makers in Eastern Ontario are anxious to make the best possible cheese, which was shown up in the past year when the percentage of the best test cheese was increased by over 15 per cent.

It was stated that 60 per cent. of the cheese manufactured in Canada came from Eastern Ontario factories.

In Central Ontario, which includes the district around Belleville, about 27,000 boxes of cheese were made last year.

Not Hopeful at Oshawa

What will Oshawa's tax rate be this year? Council is hopeful of the amount awaiting the relief of the City Council and many items are non hopeful. With an increase in the estimates asked by the Board of Education which will approximately add 5 mills to the rate and another increase in the estimates of the Board of Health of $1,000 and the Police Department of $4,000, ratepayers are wondering what "relief" will be asked by the Council." Other department also want more money, to carry on the affairs of the city.

Peterboro Cuts Rate

In session for the second time this week, the Peterboro Finance Committee succeeded Friday night in its object to cut down the tax rate for the year from 36.36 mills to an even 36 mills.

This resulted from the finding of approximately $5,000 and the reduction of the estimates by that amount.

Deceased was in her 84th year and a former resident of Belleville. Her husband predeceased her five years ago. The body will be brought here tomorrow for interment in Belleville cemetery.

JOHN BLAKELY

Despite the inclement weather Sunday afternoon, there was a large number in attendance at the funeral of the late Mr. John Blakely of Foxboro, the victim of the railway accident at Napanee on Friday last. The body was conveyed from the family residence to the Foxboro church where Rev. Mr. Snell, pastor, conducted an impressive service. The church was filled to the doors with sympathizing friends. Floral tributes covered the casement took place. Members of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way on the C.N.R. were present and the burial service was read by Rev. J. Vandervoort and W. Mossman. The many beautiful floral tributes were mute expressions of sympathy. Bearers were Messrs. H. Phillips, W. J. Christie, H. Bailey, C. Post, C. Stewart and J. Bronson.

SARAH JANE KEHOE

There passed away at her home in Queensboro, Ont., on Monday, Feb. 23, 1925, at the age of 80 years, Sarah Jane Kehoe, beloved wife of Edward Kehoe, and a resident of Queensboro, Ont., for many years.

The late Mrs. Kehoe was born at Actinolite and lived there with her parents until her marriage to Mr. Edward Barry. Then she came to Queensboro with her husband, where she has since resided.

Death for her meant the ending of a well-spent Christian life. She was beloved by all. Every home knew her and welcomed her. Every visit was a benediction and comfort and her many acts of kindness to every one marks a useful earthly existence.

At her graveside services present were her husband and four sons. To them and to all who mourn her loss her heroic, peaceful and blessed death will be an inspiration.

The funeral took place on Thursday morning to St. Henry's Church in Queensboro where a Solemn Requiem High Mass was celebrated by her parish priest, Rev. Father O'Riordan. In his funeral sermon he said (following) tribute to the life she had led.

Many spiritual and floral offerings were received, including the one by which she was held. The remains were interred in St. Joseph's Cemetery in Queensboro.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, four sons, four sisters and one brother, Messrs. Garry, James and Frank Barry of Queensboro; Mr. Dan Barry of Madoc. Misses Annie and Hattie Kehoe, Queensboro, Mrs. Fleming of Toronto. Mrs. John Smith of Belleville. Mr. Michael Kehoe of Toronto.

May her soul rest in peace.

MAROONS 1, HAMS 0

Montreal, March 2—Montreal Maroons pieced a clock upon Hamilton's aspirations of finishing in first place in the N. H. L. race, and thus eliminated bye in the initial play-off series, when the local "pros" won 1 to 0 victory. Moved from the league leaders here Saturday night. The defeat of the Wanderers at least down to one point over Toronto St. Patrick's.

The teams battled throughout the first two periods with no score, but in the minute of the third half passed before "Dinny" Dinsmore battled the disc into the visitors' net for the only counter of the contest. The goal came after a scramble by Hay. The latter carried the puck close to Forbes and shot. The goalie blocked the puck, and Noble nearly got the rebound. In stopping the second shot Forbes fell to one side of his net, and "Red" Green jumped into the breach and was immediately subject to a second another shot which came net-wards. This time the disc dropped right in front and Dinsmore poked it in.

Hamilton's play was mostly individual with Billy Burch doing most of the dangerous attacking.

London Motor Club has called a mass meeting of city and county motorists for Saturday afternoon next to plan the campaign of the Ontario Motor League against the proposed enforcement of a three-cent gasoline tax.

On Saturday Mr. J. Y. R. Walbank and Mrs. W. McLea Walbank of the firm of Messrs. R. W. Walbank & Sons motored Stock Exchange, were the guests of Mr. Fred Kinsella, manager of the local branch.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Nolan, formerly of Belleville, residing at 608 St. Clarens Ave., Toronto, entertained Belleville friends now residing in Toronto at a social evening at their home on Friday, March 13th. Those present were delighted in until midnight when lunch was served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. T. Clare, Mr. and Mrs. Brereton, Mr. and Mrs. R. Bhandt, Mr. and Mrs. Mr. and Mrs. C. Houston, Mr. and Mrs. C. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. C. Mount, Mr. and Mrs. D. Fisher.

MALLORY—SMITH

Bridge Street Church Parsonage was the scene of a pretty wedding this morning when Eleanor Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Smith, 14 Bettes St., of this city was united in Marriage to Lawrence H. Mallory, son of Mr. B. Mallory, County Treasurer of Prince Edward County. The bridal couple were accompanied by a few of their intimate friends. Rev. Dr. J. F. Edmiston performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Mallory left on the 11.30 train for Toronto and points West.

On their return they will reside in Sidney. Miss Gale her attended the bride and Mr. Geo. B. Clapp acted as best man.

With 37 stitches in his arm, lacerated when I caught in a wire fence, Norman Middlemiss, of Bradford, is in the hospital with a good chance of recovery.

Herbert United Farmers' Club has completed arrangements for another hare-destroying drive in the Paris Plains district, to eliminate this fruit tree pest, which naturally is becoming a nuisance.

One thousand dollars' damage was done by a fire which broke out in the home of Mrs. T. M. Tetzon, 388 Maitland street, London, caused by a gas stove in a bathroom. The loss is covered by insurance.

Protection Matter Of Life or Death

Guelph, Ont., Feb. 27—I quote solely the reception was tendered at this labor centre Friday night to Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, Conservative leader, when upwards of 2,000 people turned out, a large percentage of whom were workingmen, and braved the zero blasts in order to hear that head the story of how the Liberal regime at Ottawa has brought about a period of depression through their inadequate handling of the tariff situation; and how the Conservative party, the lowering of the tariff is driving out of Canada each month a population practically equal to that of the city of Guelph.

The reception, after witnessing the reception, declared it was quite worth while to escape the zero blasts to accompany which he is compelled to keep at Ottawa; and he felt that if the people of Canada could only be brought to a realization of the real causes which are producing the depression of the age, there could be no doubt of the fact that at the next election they would sweep the "Tax-Tariff-Tinkering Liberals" out of power, and would put in their place the Conservative party, whose record in other days, had stood firm in the cause of tariff and of Canadian prosperity.

"I am not asking the people of Canada to elect me on my personal merit," Mr. Meighen declared "but I am asking for their support because the Conservative party, of which I am the leader, has the same tariff policy which can possibly save the situation. The necessity of a sound, protecting tariff for Canada is a matter of life or death for Canadian prosperity, and the experience of the past has shown that."

Crying Need of Protection

Mr. Meighen went on to point out how there is in an era such as this a necessity for tariff protection for every country of the world, and with a general necessity for adjustments, it becomes of double importance that Canada should be adequately protected in view of the highly-protected condition of the United States, in view of their high state of commercial advance and their general lure for the Canadian Workmen.

In the face of these conditions Canada, without protection, had no chance of commercial progress. Canada might have prolific resources but before they could be developed to the advantage of Canada, Ingersol of Is the advantage of the States, Canadian workmen must be kept at home as Hon. Mr. Meighen put it. "We cannot adopt such a course and provide us to compete with the United States, otherwise we fall by the wayside and we must be crushed by them.

FASHIONS & FOIBLES

Turning backs first one way then another as you stitch them, is the astonishingly simple way of making the new surplice bodice trimming used on French ensemble coats.

At Fenzer's recently at lunch a smartly dressed woman wore a French ensemble costume with a coat of tricolored-colored twill, lined with a cream-colored silk with printed classy in three tones of brown. The coat was full length and the very simple frock matched the coat lining. The distinguishing feature of the coat was the tucked trimming which is being used on much of Paris' coats of heavy silk, crepe, crepe satin, etc. The tucking it gives just enough trimming and body to the coat, and is well cuffs, and takes the place of fur.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

The orator sat bolt upright with his cup in his hand, feeling if the truth must be told, rather full of the bubbly jest; but he looked from one to the other with the most genial smile as if they were a set of children playing at some fascinating game. And the lady Elaine, as she bent over the cozily served, was thinking, wondering whether there could be two Marquises of Nairne, and whether this one, who was so courteous to her and so genial with his blind dependent, could be the wicked man of whom she had often had always heard, but the other one!

"This is a strange thing," said Luigi, musingly, "in our land we only take it when we are ill, and at first, when the marquis offered it to me I did not like it, but now I do not know now why you in England drink it, and are so fond of it. It is a most beautiful ladies pour it out for you and drink it with joy, and their voices chime in with the tinkle of the cups and spoons! Ah, yes; I understand! I know!"

Elaine, glancing up, saw the maestro nod his head, with a gesture of sage wholly gentle regard for his dark, yet shining curls.

"What you do not understand and know, my friend?" Lord Lexmar, he said.

"You shall have your music now," he said. "It is all I can give you in return for your kindness, Miss Delaine."

He began to play—just as one begins to play when he has not the faintest idea into words his own thoughts and feelings, and Elaine, with her head inclined, and gradually there stole over her a serious expression as she had heard good music at the Daresfield concerts, but never like this, that it seemed to her as if a spell were being woven about her; as if she and the beautiful gallery were drifting in a dreamy, floating, drifting! And yet all the time she felt rather than saw the tall form of the marquis, as he leaned against the back of one of the high chairs beside her.

Presently as the power of the music grew more strongly on her, she was conscious that his eyes were on her face, and though she tried to keep her own downcast, she felt constrained to raise them.

She did so reluctantly, half fearfully, and their eyes met! It's long steady gaze, beneath which she knew that she was growing pale.

It was almost with relief that she heard the music change into a tender and pure old spell-weaving tone, and with a low cry she rose suddenly, her hand grasping the edge of the table as if in search of some support.

The marquis seemed also to awake from the dream, for he let the fill ed chair fall back into its place, and walked toward the window.

The strains of melody died away in the distance, and the maestro turned and spoke.

It was the major who didn't understand it in the least, and who infinitely preferred the performance of a military band—who broke the silence.

"Thank you. Thank you very much, Mister—er—maestro," he said, admirable! Eh, Elaine? Really admirable!"

Elaine rose and went softly to the musician, who sat with bowed head as if he had lost the sense of hearing with the last notes of the music, and timidly put her hand on his, which still rested on the keys.

He looked up with a start.

"Thank you, lady," he said in a very low voice. He appreciated the silent

"Play again!" she said. She had already forgotten the marquis, who stood at the window looking at the gallery.

"Ah, yes; but something more cheerful, shall it be?" said Luigi, and he sent the chords of a festive song leaping about the gallery. They he stopped suddenly, and as the major was beginning to enjoy himself and beat time with his foot, he said, "I will do," he said. "And now, will you do something for me?"

"I?" she said wonderingly.

He nodded and smiled, his face turned to hers.

"Sing something for me."

Elaine shrank, and answered:

"I sing to you!" she said.

"To me and the maestro, and the good major your father," he responded. "Do not say 'No'——"

"Certainly not!" cut in the major; "Elaine would not be so ungrateful, sing that little ballad about the father girl, Elaine."

Elaine was too unself-conscious to be shy, but she shook her head.

"The Fisher Girl's Lament, of Schubert? I know it," said Luigi eagerly, and he took up a music stool beside him.

The maestro came forward and turned over the music.

"Here it is," he said quietly.

"Ah, yes; and my violin——" and Luigi began to unpack the case from a case, and the Italian took it eagerly and began to tune the strings. It is a sweet voice. It is the voice I like; better, far better than that artificial one of the concert-room or the opera. She has only been heard a ballad sung like that! And what shall I say to thank you?"

Elaine laughed.

"Don't you think you have said enough?" she said. "And pass——"

"Nothing!" Certainly! Tremendously long rest, indeed! But really then—my music——"

The maestro came across to Elaine.

"And I, too, have said nothing," he said.

Luigi Zanli's voice broke in suddenly almost with anger.

"His she gone?" he asked.

The three looked at him in question-ingly.

"Meaning Miss Delaine, Luigi?" said the marquis. "No, she is here beside you."

"That is strange!" he said spoken-lessly. "I thought I heard the rustle of a dress at the end of the gallery."

They all looked around, the musicians waited, but not quickly, to the stairs.

"There is no one there," he said. "You are mistaken for once, Luigi."

"Yes!" assented the blind man, but doubtfully.

"But I am going now indeed," said Elaine, giving him her hand.

"And will you come again?" he said, turning his face toward the marquis as if begging him to second the invitation.

"We will hope so with all our hearts Luigi!" he said. They went down the stairs, the maestro accompanying them and handing Elaine into the open air, the strains of the organ following them in a kind of plaintive appeal. It seemed to Elaine's ears like a long drawn out "Come back! Come back!"

Talking to the major, the marquis walked beside them as far as the bridge.

He took it, looked at it for a moment, then held it out to Elaine unseen

"Take it," he said, "and do not hesitate to use it. No one will discover it." Then he added—in response to a) sudden significance, "Good-morning, Miss Elaine." But after the major had shaken his hand, and repeated half a dozen times his thanks for the—"treat" in musical treat," the marquis held Elaine's looking at her in silence for a moment. Then he said in a strange, low voice, the gate shut to on its spring with a click between them, and the marquis walked back to the house.

With a heavy, thoughtful mien he strode on to his cottage. He was thinking that his daughter might yet be the Marchioness of Nairne.

Elaine hastened to her room, feeling strangely excited and tired, and taking off her hat and jacket, threw herself on the bed and behind her closed eyes she enacted the whole of the incidents of the strange visit.

How long she lay thus, half asleep, half awake she did not know; but she was aroused suddenly by a quick, hurried knocking at the door, and her half sis's voice:

"Elaine! Elaine!"

She pushed the hair from her flushed face and opened the door.

"Look here!" he exclaimed in a hush ed voice, and biting his lip with an expression of annoyance and vexation. "Here's a most extraordinary thing! He—he's gone!"

"He gone! Who?"

He drew her by the sleeve of her dress to the window, and pointed.

"Who? Why, the—the—Italian fellow!"

The red flag with the Nairne arms had disappeared from the tower. The marquis had gone.

Do this and keep his clothing soft, pure and comfortable

Nothing is so sensitive as baby's skin! Even the slightest roughness in his diapers, shirts and binds will inflame and irritate it.

Much trouble is directly due to washing diapers with harsh, soap-soap containing free alkali. The alkali clings to the little garments in the form of a strong, white powder—almost impossible to rinse out. This causes "diaper rash".

To save baby's skin, use Lux for washing all his clothes. In Lux the mildest, purest, gentlest cleanser in the world. Lux contains no free alkali, and the pure suds rinse out completely. Lux keeps baby's garments soft, clean, comfortable and safe!

How to wash diapers
Remove solid matter at once and wash diapers in cold water. Whirk two tablespoonfuls of fine lace dark suds in a tub of very hot water. Let diapers soak a few moments, then dip up and down, pressing suds repeatedly through them. Rinse thoroughly in three waters.

That Brantford city, because of the heavy demands upon its coffers, the industrial depression and the fact that no capital expenditures were being taken on, will not this year pay $13,000 to the Brant County as the city's share of the suburban road agreement, is the opinion given by Mayor M. M. MacBride.

Frank J. Mitchell, Mayor of Windsor, was asked to join other Ontario cities in a protest against the proposed three cents a gallon tax on gasoline. The request came from head-quarters of the Ontario Motor League at Toronto. The mayor will put the issue up to the Aldermen and a protest is certain to follow.

Belleville Mausoleum

TO BE ERECTED ON A BEAUTIFUL SITE IN THE BELLEVILLE CEMETERY

STONE — MARBLE — BRONZE

Mausoleum Burial - Now Within Your Reach

Since the beginning of civilization, Mausoleum Burial has been justly considered as the superior method of interment for human remains. Its advantages over earth burial are apparent to all, both from the standpoint of sentiment and sanitation.

Hitherto, only the wealthy have been able to afford the great cost of individual mausoleums. Today, people of moderate means may share in the privilege of mausoleum entombment for their departed at little more than the cost of earth burial

Belleville People Are Supporting The Project

The Belleville Mausoleum will be built on that magnificent central site the "Chapel Circle", which already has been plotted out in the cemetery.

The building when completed will appear as the above illustration depicts, a dignified substantial structure of solid monolithic construction, with cut stone exterior and with polished marble for the interior finish. All doors and fittings will be of bronze, the metal that above all others defies the ravages of time. This beautiful structure will endure for ages—a lasting home for the mortal remains of Belleville's beloved dead and a standing testimony to the foresight and artistic appreciation of its supporters.

THE NEW BELLEVILLE MAUSOLEUM IS DESIGNED PRIMARILY FOR 320 COMPARTMENTS

The mausoleum will be erected only large enough to accommodate those who make arrangements in advance. The limited accommodation provided makes it essential for all those interested in securing space, to make their reservations at once.

CEMETERY COMPANY TO CONTROL

The Belleville Cemetery Company after thoroughly investigating the mausoleum proposition, entered into an agreement with the Mausoleum Company for the construction of the mausoleum for Belleville Cemetery.

The system devised for the control and upkeep of Belleville Mausoleum is ideal. When completed the building will be turned over to the Cemetery Company, and each subscriber for compartments will receive a title deed of freehold ownership. The Cemetery Company will thereafter be responsible to the owners for the perpetual maintenance of the building without further charge.

Subscribers pay no money until construction starts, and an entire year is allowed, dating from the first payment, in which the balance may be paid—terms that are convenient for all.

Death Ray Theme Of Moving Picture

The Story Without a Name At Belle Theatre To-night

You've heard loads about "The Story Without a Name," now see it for yourself on the screen.

Agnes Ayres and Antonio Moreno are featured in the leading roles of the new Irvin Willat Paramount production, "The Story Without a Name," which will be shown to-night at the Belle Theatre.

The story is an adaptation by Victor Irvin of the Photoplay Magazine Radio-Prize Title story, which will appear on the screen at the Belle under the title of the fans themselves selected for it. Arthur Stringer, author of Gloria Swanson's picture, "Manhandled," and also the Paramount production, "Empty Hands," wrote the story which is one of the biggest screen novelties seen in many a long day.

"The Story Without a Name" is a gripping melodrama crammed full of pell-mell action. It is the life of a young inventor and his "death ray" which is destined to open the eyes of the world.

No doubt, you've read yards of publicity given this feature in the press of the country lately. But have you ever really stopped to consider its possibilities? How much would you like to see this death-dealing instrument at work? Well, here's the chance of a life time. The "death ray" and the radio are both features of this new Paramount production which is eagerly awaited by fans all over the country—fans who participated in the magazine contest for selecting a title for the picture—fans who heard of the contest and the picture that was to come when it was broadcast from the sixty-odd radio stations throughout the U. S.—all fans in general, in fact. Every one's going to see this picture. There's never been anything quite like it before.

Playing in support of the principals in "The Story Without a Name" is a great cast which includes Tyrone Power, Dagmar Godowsky, Louis Wolheim, Ian Maxwell, Maurice Costello, Jack Bohn and other players, prominent on both stage and screen.

If you're looking for thrills, by all means see "The Story Without a Name."

Film Resembles The Stage Play

"Secrets" a Splendid Production Now Showing at Griffin

Norma Talmadge's screen version of the stage drama, "Secrets", now showing at the Griffin Theatre, has been filmed almost as it was played on the stage.

For the first time since the evolution of the cinema a stage play has been transported to the screen in identically original form. The most ed question as to whether such a transposition could be made without alteration has at last been answered.

Frances Marion prepared the screen script of Edgar Selwyn's amusing New York stage success which Frank Borzage directed with Miss Talmadge and Eugene O'Brien heading a celebrated cast. Miss Marion found that the dramatic devices upon which the stage play relied could be applied as well to the screen production.

Instead of altering the action and tampering with the motives and idea of the story, as it is often charged unfairly against the "movies", she divided off the stage manuscript according to camera scenes, added a few exterior scenes, and handed it over to Producer Joseph M. Schenck with the original dramatic form intact.

Mr. Schenck, Miss Talmadge and Director Borzage all concurred, after a study of her script, that it was adequate for the screen presentation, so the finished job is the stage play in celluloid.

The spoken words were converted into subtitles, which means that the subtitles for the most part will be conversational, helping to develop the action of the story rather than to cover elapses of time.

In "Secrets," Norma Talmadge has again for her leading man Eugene O'Brien, the most popular with the sex part with whom she has ever played. The Talmadge-O'Brien combination was broken up a year ago, when O'Brien decided to retire from the stage, but public demand was so persistent, that Producer Schenck was compelled to lure O'Brien back to the screen.

"Secrets" is Norma Talmadge's greatest picture. In this Joseph M. Schenck production Norma plays four roles, that of a girl, a young mother, a middle-aged matron and an aged woman. The picture is cast in four periods, 1923, 1888, 1870 and 1858, and the action takes place both in the far West and in modern society settings in all four periods. Norma wears a remarkable range of characterization.

Frank Borzage, of "Humoresque" fame, directed "Secrets," with the veteran Gaetano Gaudio's as his camera man. Heading Norma's all star cast is Eugene O'Brien, "the perfect lover," and a fine array of stars both stage and screen.

Others in the cast are Gertrude Astor, Charles Ogle, Emily Fitzroy, Lucien Littlefield, Marcia Harris, Dial George Nichols, Francis Feeney, Winston Miller, Frank Elliott, Clarissa Selwynne, George Cowell, Harvey Clark, Alice Day, May Giraci, Percy Williams, Florence Wicks and Winter Hall.

The beautiful gowns were designed by Clare West, while Stephen Goosson, art director, created the massive sets. The photoplay was adapted by Frances Marion from the famous stage play of the same title.

Recreation Alleys

Mrs. Fred Binford was the lucky winner at the Recreation Alleys on Saturday when she won the second prize to be awarded by Mr. C. Hoskins. The prize on Saturday was a box of chocolates to the lady making the highest single score. Mrs. Binford rolled 283 and although there were plenty of lading tried to take that score the honor remains the same. Mrs. Binford will receive a box of candy as the result of her fine effort. The prize on Monday will be a box of chocolates donated by Bill Gilbert and will run all week. The lady holding the highest score will receive prize.

The Rodgers' Hounds won from the Flat Roofs at the Recreation alleys on Friday in the C.N.R. Night Hawk League by over 300 pins. The game was fairly even until the last when the Flat Roofs weakened badly and their opponents rolled a good score. High bowlers were Morey, 433 and Michael, 407.

The Wolves of the North made it a clean sweep in over defeating the Quinte Do's. The losers got off to a bad start but after the first game managed to hold their own.

The Station C.N.R. team after losing the first game to the Ladies' team by one column, with a vengeance, gotting a lead on the Car Dept. of over 200 pins in the first game, with Jack Williams' brother Bert, famous for his 12 consecutive game the Car Dept. captain, Dave Brown, the Wanderers rolling one of the best games of the season, 227, coming in the third game and gathering 760 and the Beaver Lodge team, quick to take advantage of the rolling, 622 and with assistance of the bowling of the lone wiser got by the skeet across the line ahead of the Wanderers will not the Hikers at a good place to win the season. Lynch, was high with 224 and 619 for the winners Orlando was high.

CANADA TO BE MEASURED BY HER CITIZENS

Representative's Influence No Greater Than Opinion of Public

KIWANIS SPEAKER

Professor McArthur of Queen's Delivers Illuminative Address

Brigadier-General Arthur H. Bell, who has been appointed to the command of M.D. No. 2, Toronto, as successor to Col. A. H. Borden. The new O.C. has a distinguished record, having served in South Africa and the Great War. He was formerly in command of the Calgary military district.

After showing how Canada has taken her place side by side with the other nations of the world in world conferences, the Kiwanis speaker declared to-day that Canada's influence in the world circles would increase only to the extent to which her citizens as a whole were educated on the affairs of the world. The moral and intelligent people of Canada to be consulted with regard to world problems and to take an interest in Canada's part in the solution of them.

The speaker was Professor D. McArthur, of Queen's University, who lectures on the subject of history, and showed by illustrations in the Dominion's wonderful growth of the great march of international events. He was introduced by Allan Wren Bailey who described the visitor as hailing from the "Limestone City" and the "eastern suburbs of Belleville." Dr. Gerry Geroge Carrothers announced that the meeting next week would be held in Bridge's cafe, and that the ladies would be welcomed. Mr. Geroge Gill famous evangelist, would be the speaker.

A Brief History

Professor McArthur described his talk as one on "Our Imperial relations, the reference to their foreign aspect."

"During the circumstances leading up to the present situation he said that in the early years of the past century there was a great difference of opinion on the question of responsible government for Canada. In the wake of this reaction, there came rebellion, and, later, provision was permitted to govern their own affairs.

In 1841, he continued, there was a great line of separation drawn between Canada and the United States, and also between imperial aspect.

With the formation of the confederation, which Canada took increasing responsibility for world-wide affairs. This set distinction could no longer be maintained.

In 1884, for example, a reciprocity was entered into between the Canadian Government, headed by Lord Elgin and Washington. Lord Elgin acted upon the advice of the Canadian Government, but as representative of the Crown.

That sort of relationship continued until the Great War, the speaker said, when Canada's share in this struggle had demonstrated a new relationship between Canada and other countries, and at the termination of the war Canada had developed a new status, we had the beginning of a new phase in Canada's foreign relationship. It was acknowledged then that Canada had a right to have say in peace as in war, in accordance with her standing as a supporting nation.

The Imperial Conference prior to the Versailles gathering Canada had her share of representatives working with the delegation from the other parts of Empire.

Following the Treaty of Versailles, we had the Armament Conference at Washington, Canada, Australia, and the other portions of the Empire were direct representatives.

A Backward Step?

Then came the reciprocity era in the Laurier Conference, that perhaps was the peculiar characteristics of the foreign relations of Canada.

We presume we may act as your representatives in the meeting held in London to Canada after the Lausanne Conference, but have not been asked. Canada's position is not, desiring to sign a treaty in which she had no active part in, and if Germany signs the treaty of Lausanne.

Can't Lessen Learned

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

The Best Defense

It is necessary for every nation to be ready at all times to defend itself.

Probably, when you sit down to its genuine belief, every patriot in the United States will say that the best defense of a country lies in its armies and navies. Perhaps he is mistaken in this. Perhaps the world is not ready for any other kind of defense. Perhaps it is necessary for every nation, for its individuals, to be prepared to use its arms at force, but stand up for its rights.

There is such a thing of fighting too much to others.

But whatever may be the case in this direction, it seems remarkable to suppose that the best defense of any nation is to make the arts of peace transferable into the arts of war. In other words, if in time of peace we can so develop a rapid means of communication from one part of the country to another, or from one country to another.

If war comes all these airships could be immediately converted into weapons of offense.

They are the longest arm yet known. The old arrow used to shoot a few rods; the bullet went further; and the cannon ball further still. The airship is the furthest of all. It can carry offensive weapons many miles from its base. It can flood foreign cities with poison gas, or explosives. Before it vessels at sea are helpless. If is the most perfect weapon of offense known, and keeps the most perfect means of defense for a country.

Every country ought to develop properly its air force in time of peace, by increasing its business in time of peace, but its effectivity in time of war.

It should be stated also that the price of one man-o'-war at sea is equivalent to the price of many airships.

It is difficult to get away from the pastland adopt new methods, but as far as the future can be envisaged, that nation will be dominant which rules the air. And that will only be the most prosperous in time of peace, but the most dangerous in time of war.

If necessary, the Government ought to give aid toward the development of our air force.

Dutchy's Diary

(Copyright, 1925, by Publishers Syndicate)

Thursday, February 26.—Percy Hall's prominent lawyer placed a book under the city's favorite sport, hockey, and then pulled the pin. Looking at the situation from a distance of two hundred miles, we'll predict that the explosion of the echo of the explosion will be heard for several days.

This legal light is F. C. Mathis, K.C., Arrow vice-president of the O.H.A. for many years and member of the Stratford Hockey Club. His case is filing damages in alleging that the Stratford Senior O.H.A. team, are professional players and spoiling the game for the youngsters of the community. Considering that he wouldn't get a toy of his play with the teams as it is to-day, he says: "If it a case of easy money for hockey players and hockey players to-day are little less than pool room loafers and cigaret fiends."

It is altogether likely that F. C. Mahins knows more about the Stratford Hockey team than we do. He seems to speak as if he had something up his sleeve in case of a showdown. But when Mr. Mahins goes out of his way to make a general statement of that kind against hockey players and hockey teams, it will be a case of his head in a hornet's nest.

The brand of hockey which the Public in Ontario watches these days is not served up by loafers and cigaret smokers. The man who cannot recognize who does not take the best of care of his health cannot make a place in good hockey circles.

Belleville players were not group winners, but they are certain cut fellows and to apply, Mr. Makin's remarks to them or to other players in the province would be nothing short of libel.

Now that we are really sure that there was an earthquake on Saturday night, some interesting stories are going around concerning experiences of Belleville people.

One lady was seated in a rocking chair reading the paper. Contrary to what you might expect, she was not rocking. Then for no apparent reason, the chair began to rock by itself. To others of the family, she expressed her astonishment and her statement of what happened was taken as a joke.

"Look", this lady said. And following her fingers the others saw the hanging lamp swaying gently.

It looked like the handwork of Spiritualism or Christian Science.

Up on Front street, a merchant went through all the emotions of dis appointment, anger, and then rising thirty, he took a flashlight out to the back to look-up and see that everything was all right. He decided before closing the store. He was on his way back when a pile of goods shifted at one side of the room.

Sure that a thief was in the room the merchant called to two others at the front and instituted a search. But all of their experiences in the realm of the supernatural were confined to Ninety per cent of the people and all the children love the dear dog and cat. I have a very little knowledge of terrier admired by everybody that I would love to exhibit, and then would felt a beautiful pure white part Persian cat that would delight to exhibit it. A beauty indeed with hair white as snow and eyes blue as the sky. She was proud of that skin disease that kills so many cats, mange in the the head and body but a couple of applications of the right remedy cured her and I would like to exhibit her in the cat show. I have no doubt there are hundreds and hundreds of cats and women and children in it only in the city but in the country also who would be delighted to exhibit their dogs and cats. Therefore I say to the directors, give them a chance to do so and thereby boost the exhibition.

Yours truly,
D. H. ACKERILL, V.S.

Letters To The Editor

CITY WATER

To the Editor of the Intelligencer:

Sir,—In your report there who are filtering the water have to clean their filters more and more twice a day on account of the mud and filth in it, even though the ice is in the Bay. Will the Editor just enquire when the city was extending the intake pipe I wrote a letter advising the attention should be in the direction of Zwicks Island. My reason was that in that direction the water was deeper and the bottom stoney or gravelly and there were many springs there.

Our city water at every analysis here before was always pronounced pure and we never had an epidemic of typhoid or any other epidemic the result of impure water.

The water was always pure looking and had a pure sweet taste. Lamentably the new intake pipe was laid in in the shallow water to the west along the shore amongst the weeds in the mud. I notice a bad taste and muddy appearance. All this is the result of expert advice and lack of common sense. Many of inlisters' springs were placed there by Providence and it was left for the spend a billion dollar asset to us in the way of health. There is a fine spring water very near the mouth of the old intake. Now what are we going to do about it? Are we going to build a filtration plant costing half a million or are we going to either do away with the new intake and go to the old one or better still extend the old one out into deeper water towards the stoney or gravel bottom springs there is no lack of the magnificent mineral springs are.

While the public is moving me, Mr. Editor, please allow me space for a few remarks on another subject nearly our new fair grounds. Some years ago we had a fine fall fair, then four day exhibition fair and it was a splendid success year by year, because it was properly managed. Then came the old agricultural societies were real good but finally it fell under the embarrassment with the result in two years it was no more. Then the fair was started by new management thought it should be as similar to the big Toronto fair and to do this they got a lot of new features such as balloon ascensions, tight-rope walking, acrobatic feats, and they got the militia from Toronto to come down and have a sham battle, and a lot of lead in two with their swords and so on. This was all very well for the first year, but the next year the Agricultural exhibit of stock, etc., fell off one half and the next year likewise. The second year the fine Belleville fair was up exhibit. As an instance of how good the first fair was cut the following will suffice. The people of the best roadster at the carriage stallion was $25.00. This was cut to $7.00. A man across walk in horse was expected to fit him properly and bring him to the fair and stay four days for the chance of winning seven dollars. Is any wonder two years fix of the fair?

We are a city, yes, but more properly speaking we are a good big farming town and we want a real agricultural fair and not a portion of it still more horse races. People never tire of seeing the horse and cattle and I would appeal to the management that a dog and cat exhibition be held one week previously.

Yours truly,
D. H. ACKERILL, V.S.

WE BUY RAW FURS

Throwing A Scare

A group of men who own great areas of Canadian timberland and make a handsome profit on the direct sale of Canadian wood to United States interests, are spending thousands of dollars on propaganda work against a pulpwood embargo. It is apparently more valuable for them to do business with United States men this way than to have the wood manufactured here and give employment to Canadian workmen.

These men are willing to put out hints that if Canadians clamp on an embargo United States will buy pulp elsewhere. They would scare the uninformed that Canada's market for pulp would be cut off.

Pulpwood is becoming one of the most depleted natural resources in the world. There are signs already of a serious shortage of this most necessary commodity in the publishing world.

Supposing that financial interests in the the Republic were to become peevish because Canada dared to protect her own interests, these interests are not going to cut themselves away from Canada as a source of supply, just for revenge. They are too business-like to act that way.

Sessional Indemnity

Any proposal to increase the sessional indemnity of members of parliament, federal or provincial, is bound to be unpopular. That in Ontario is consequently not arousing intense favorable enthusiasm. It is but fair to say, however, that the only provinces which pay their members less indemnity than Ontario are New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. The figures are: Quebec, $2,00; Alberta, $2,000; Saskatchewan, $1,500; British Columbia, $1,800; Nova Scotia, $1,500; Manitoba, $1,600; Ontario, $1,400; New Brunswick, $1,000; Prince Edward Island, $500.

You Never Can Tell

For years it has been the current belief in Canada that Camillus Jarvis, sen., the Toronto financial magnate could dash off a cheque for a million dollars any day and still have a few millions left. It therefore came as a surprise, when the judge fined him $800,000 for irregularities in connection with the sale of government bonds, to find that his estate fell $100,000 short of the amount of the fine. According to the affidavit of his attorney, Mr. J. F. Helmuth, K.C., an appraisal of his entire estate, including farms, horses, stocks and bonds reveals assets of only $412,244. As a false financial story could easily be exposed, this appraisal must be taken at correct. It is only another instance showing that "you never can tell." Perhaps a lot of other so-called multi-millionaires are also wrongly adjudged by being placed in the "multi" class.

The Heavy Fire Toll

Fire, the relentless and heartless enemy of man, is taking its usual toll these days and emphasizing the fact that a sudden of carelessness is the chief aid to its campaign of destruction, says the Montreal Star. Inflammable material of a fiamd dress costume kills its story once more in the serious burning of three persons, one of whom at least is not expected to live. In spite of the warnings of the authorities, in spite of the propaganda issued by fire prevention organizations, men and women persist in dressing themselves in tinder and then set that only deeds contact with an open flame to be set in a blaze. On the same page of the issue of the Montreal Star which tells the story of this carnival party is the record of the destruction of thirty bays of domestic mail, which is a suggested may have been due to the careless throwing down of a cigarette. These two stories are typical of conditions in Canada many millions of dollars every year. Camp fires left smoldering are responsible for millions more. Then there are the kitchen fires that are lighted with gasoline, the Quebec heaters that are left unattended with draughts wide open until they fire the rafters, the defective wiring which a slipshod workman strings and an ineffective inspector overlooks. Millions, millions and more millions of money earned by the sweat of labor goes up in smoke year after year. The newspapers preach of carelessness and the people read and—forget.

"Station MEOW broadcasts all night."—Detroit Free Press. "How about Station BABY?"—Portland, Me., Express. "Day AND night."—Kansas City Star. "Day AND night."—Kansas City Star. And Dad supplies the static.

HORSES AND AUTOS

(Washington Post)

In 1900 the United States was credited with having about 13,000,000 horses. Between 1923 estimated the number of horses on farms at 18,500,000. These figures appear to take no account of horses not on farms. How many in the aggregate would be classed properly as work on farms, there has been diminution in numbers, horses are still used in cities, but not much over 50 per cent. is a little more than a score of years and in face of the unprecedented use of motor cars does not indicate the disappearance of the horse. The chief effect of the increase of motor cars has been along the line of supplementing the horse. The automobile would never have ousted horses but the former not been invented.

When Lord Birkenhead told the Press Club the other day that the news of Mr. Baldwin's illness brought him when he was wrong and attacked him in his speech at the Queen's Hall, it was for that is one of the "sure fire" jokes here.

The late Sir William Harcourt furnished an early version. An editor once protested to him at the time of his support "when you are right."

"Right, then," said Mr. William. "it is when I am wrong that I want support!"

Lord Birkenhead, who proposed to give a dinner in honor of the new premier, was your word of honor, not to support us!"

A good testimonial was read, a lunch of home-made goodies was served, and the following address presented to them.

Brighton, Feb. 3rd, 1925.

Dear Mrs. Lake:—As you leave us to-day to make your home in the Motor City, we feel that we cannot let you go without some expression of our true friendship and the years just past have been a source of great pleasure to you very much and without doubt this feeling of regret is mutual.

We trust that you may always remember her as having a warm place in our hearts. We feel that there is no missing link in the chain of friendship here and that it may always exist intact in the years to come.

We wish you every success and happiness in the future. As a small token of our good-will kindly accept this gift from us.

T. Toronto. It was Miller who communicated with General Secretary R. S. Sidersky who made the offer with the good word along to Dr. Alexander. Every town entering a team automatically has the competition, will play off on March 30th, and under the following set of rules:

The Competition will be a Five-Pin Tournament only.

Brunswick Balke-Collender pins or other maker of like dimensions and quality in first class condition shall be used.

The rules governing the scoring shall be the four pin basis as known down in any frame to score, except when a player is "spared," or "strikes" out on tenth frame.

Only bowling alleys of the following standard dimensions shall be used: Length of bed—75 feet. Width of bed—42 inches.

Contestants to be eligible must have been members of their local Y.M.C.A. thirty (30) days previous to the closing entry date, March 28th, 1925. Association Employed Officers shall not be eligible to compete.

Associations wishing to enter teams must be members of the Athletic Section of Canada.

Application for membership will be sent upon request.

Each Association may enter one team of five men only.

Association must make entry with full names of contestants and substitutes to reach Secretary of the Local League, Dave Miller, Broadview Y.M.C.A., Toronto, Ontario, on or before March 28th, 1925.

Entrance fee of $2.00 per team must accompany application for entry.

Expenses of the Tournament will be met with free entry, and the actual expenditure for winning team will be donated by interested members of the Canadian Associations.

Teams shall bowl three consecutive games on their own Association alleys on such special request as local or outside alleys is endorsed in writing by two of the following officers of the Association, viz: the President, General Secretary, Physical Director. Such requests must be mailed to the Secretary of the League with the entry blank.

Scorer and Referee—The Board of Directors or the Local Department Committee shall appoint an official scorer and an official referee.

The scorer shall keep a record of each team's bowling and record the results. Scores must be vouched for by a representative of the Board of Directors or Physical Department Committee and the General Secretary or Physical Director.

The Referee shall serve as foul line judge, settle all questions in dispute and see that all frames are completed. He must examine all pins and scores for each series and certify to their being in good order.

Tournament Games will start at 8 o'clock on the evening of March 30th 1925.

Immediately after the contest the Secretary shall send official scores to Dave Miller, Broadview Y.M.C.A. Toronto Ont. Official scores shall also be sent to J. H. Crocker, National Council, 46 Alloway Ave., Toronto, Ont., not later than the day following the Tournament.

Only Associations sending night letgrams on the evening of March 30th 1925 will be included in the above list. Official letter of confirmation must be mailed the same night to Mrs. Following.

It is recommended that some suitable recognition should be given to the individual bowling the highest three games and, also, to the individual bowling the highest individual score in any one game. A special trophy will be donated to the winning team.

The team bowling the highest total pinnage for three consecutive games, will be recognized as being the Canadian Championship and thereby entitled to be called Y.M.C.A. Five Pin Bowling Champions of Canada.

Canada

It was Canada's duty to adjust itself to the circumstances of the world as a whole, he declared. The time had passed when Canada could live for herself alone.

There must be developed the knowledge that it was the duty now for citizens to inform themselves on the general policy of Canada in world politics.

Only as there was an educated public opinion in the country, could the Government act intelligently, with the other states of the world, to make that contribution it should to the problems of the Empire and the great issues of World Peace.

Miss Rockefeller Not Losing Much

In Marrying Comparatively Poor Lawyer; Allowance But $100 a Month

New York, March 2 (AP)—When the newspapers told the country that Miss Abby Rockefeller, "heiress to largest fortune in the world," was engaged to marry David M. Milton, Jr., a recent college graduate, perhaps a million bachelors sighed and said: "Poor Paul! There goes another opportunity."

For the benefit of these young men and others, the following facts are set down here.

Miss Abby Rockefeller is not the richest girl in the world.

She will not inherit much money. Her father, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., pays her enough to live on but no more.

Has About $10 A Month.

Her present allowance is about $100 a month.

She has a little income from her mother's side of the family. But that is not enough to get excited about.

And furthermore your children have probably had more money to spend than has Abby. When you daughter marries, it is quite likely her wedding gift from the folks will be far more valuable than the one Abby Rockefeller receives.

No, don't get the idea that John D. Jr., will give Abby a lump of money when she marries next May. He will probably give her something useful but not extravagant.

It is not likely he will squander money on his daughter's wedding. He is not likely there will be any pomp or splendor in the Rockefeller style. The Rockefellers do not believe in pomp.

Marriage For Love.

You see, therefore, that young David Milton Jr., is not marrying Abby because he loves her and because Abby loves him.

The story is really unique.

It is unique because John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is unique.

Here is a man who controls perhaps more than a billion dollars of other dollars. He and his father have given away as much as that, and it seems the more they give the more they have to give. And yet John D., Jr., has only two overcoats; A new one and an old one. You have only one perhaps. But you have the old one, too, and you like the old one. And he wears it every time it rains.

He believes sincerely that the money he has got is not his own. It is not his children's. The money is merely in their custody. They are merely stewards, responsible for the expenditure of every penny, culpable for every cent that is wasted.

Wasting Money a Sin

And wasting money, Rockefeller, Jr., knows, is a great sin.

He doesn't want it and he will not have his children waste it. He has told every one of them—he has told her five brothers—since they were old enough to know what money was.

No, Abby Rockefeller didn't go to the movies every night or to the theatre or to parties. Her life is not that of the social butterfly. She didn't go with four escorts. She is not the kind of debutante, who goes into a closet chuck full of glittering evening gowns and save peevishly:

"I haven't a Thing to Wear."

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has always made a will taking care of his many hundreds of millions that haven't been given away. And every one of his children is going to get any big part of it.

So, you see, when you come right down to it, Abby Rockefeller, daughter of John P., Jr., and grandchild of John D. Sr. child of a family with half a billion dollars—is really a rather poor girl.

She could have married a millionaire or a multi-millionaire, perhaps. But she is marrying a struggling young lawyer who hasn't any too much money himself.

They'll live in a little apartment somewhere in the vicinity of Fifty-fourth street and Park avenue, not on Park avenue. Park avenue rents are too expensive. They've looked at several places, but have not decided definitely on any of them.

They have one in mind—but they haven't signed the lease yet. They think, perhaps, they can get a cheaper place that is just as nice.

Society is speculating on the wedding, of course. It will be the social event of the year. But the probability is that it will be a very simple ceremony.

KINGSTON IRISHMEN BAY OF QUINTE CHAMPIONS; NATIONAL BOWLING CONTEST ON

Point Anne Lost In Bay of Quinte

Kingston Irishmen Won League and Cup Last Night

Kingston Irishmen defeated Point Anne hockey team at the Jack Harty arena, Kingston last night in the league cup finals for the Bay of Quinte hockey championship, when they won the hard game by a 4-2 score.

The Irishmen won the league title and cup last year too, so the fine cup will not be required to forsake its mantelpiece.

Each and every one of the thirty fans who accompanied the Point Anne team to the Limestone City agreed that the game was a humdinger, and admit that Kingston were just a bit better on their work on the ice-rink's play, which gave them goals and glory. The game was fast and exhibition and many effectively made to the credit of the players, and delight of fans whose presence filled the large proportion of the spacious new ice palace. The teams are 7,000 for weight, both aggregations presenting just a few husky men who are "big and lubsey" in the punishment game.

For Kingston, Purdy, the speedy little forward and hard working centre man looked his work counting. He even outshone Lloyd "Jiffy" Brown, the husky defence man well known here, when he has played in intermediate hockey. Brown played a hard and effective game but might but did not bowl in on the defence, evidently fearing the repetition of "consequences of memory" when he crashed into Fred Coyer during a game here, and when all the ice at the end of the second. In the third with the teams deadlocked, the Hornetsville sported up with some real skill and notched the pair which placed them safely in the arms of victory.

Walters of Napanee handled the game with excellent satisfaction. The line-ups:

Kingston (Irish—Goal, Tobin; defence, Millan and Brown; centre, Purdy; wings, Campbell and Joyce.

Point Anne—Goal, Boland; defence, F. Coyer and Tompkins; centre, Brant; wings, Hunter and L. Goyer sub., Green and Marsole.

EXCELSIORS BEAT BREEZES HANDILY

The Excelsior ladies team took the requirements and themselves when they bowled a win from the Breezes in their scheduled game at the Campbell St. Alleys last night. Breezes were undeniably off colour whereas the Excelsiors had a "Big Night" with practically every member bowling right up to form or possibly slightly beyond. 566 the high single by Mrs. Lee and 220 the high single by Coyer were the high spots hit during the evenings play.

C. N. R. Basketball Team Beats Ciaco

Interesting Fixture Played At Y.M.C.A. Last Evening

Excitement ran high at the Y. M. C. A. last night when there was the final battle between the Ciaco and the C.N.R. Basketball teams. Feeling ran high. While the game was not an advertised fixture, there was quite a gallery present to cheer on the contestants. Captain Maddess of the Ciaco's looked well in their bright red and white uniforms and they were backed by real things. The C.N.R. with Armstrong leading, had also a big gallery of their own. The basketeers raised with big and to add to their prestige by winning the first game of the intermediate team which is their main ambition to break a second into a young inexperienced team.

The game showed that with a little more shooting and shooting abilities, the Coriolville boys will have to take a back seat from any per, starting out as they did without shooting, or practically shooting. They made a nice showing and had a good lead more of the play than the score would indicate as they were weak in shooting. Armstrong who has been having hard luck with his shots lately came back last night and flipped them in from any angle. Wood also had a bit night and went right to the army sale baskets.

MIDLAND SWAMPED BY OWEN SOUND

Toronto, Mar. 3.—Setting a slimy pace on the start and maintaining it throughout the entire sixty minutes of play, Owen Sound came to break the tie in the O. H. A. junior semi-final series with Sound Gems. Memorial Cup holders, overwhelmed Midland 14 to 2, at the Arena last night and qualified to meet Owen Sound in the finals for the championship. The first game will be played in Owen Sound to-morrow night with the return at the Arena on Friday night.

Midland, a small ice team with every player fighting for puck and checking like fiends, could not match their opponents in speed, combination and shooting, and when the Greys pelted the puck by Thayer for four goals in the first period, there was little doubt as to the ultimate winner. True, the hustling young fans, Abbie Cleveland's team rushed through for a pair in start, the second period, but when Boyd counted two more for Owen Sound, the 6,000 fans sat back in their seats and started to guess the final score.

Wolves, Boosters Clash Wednesday

City League Nearing Climax National Castings Lost Last Night

The situation in the city hockey league is nearing the climax, and interest is here in the outcome. The Boosters and National Castings have just two games each to play, but right when they met to decide who would meet the Wolves of the fourth for the honors. Boosters just need the National Castings team out at the arena last night by two goals to one, and arrangements are now completed, if possible, to have the Boosters and Wolves in action Wednesday night. There was a good crowd out to see the boys go last night, and the ice was in real good shape for hockey. Ken Colling handled the belt satisfactorily.

8 EVENTS

The results of the local Heathlon are announced today showing the accomplishments of 27 Belleville senior boys who took an active part in the series which were run off during February. All results must be in before March 2nd. The junior Heathelon is yet to be completed in Belleville this season.

Niagara Falls Wins Senior Title

Peterboro Won 2-0, But Lost On the Round 5-3

Niagara Falls, Ont., March 3.—Gene Fraser's Niagara Falls hockey team defeated Peterboro in the last hockey game of the great Winter pastime here last night by the Peterboro Peterboro team, winners of the O. H. A. group one, by 2 goals to 1, and thereby annexing the senior O. H. A. championship by the score of 5-3 on the round. The only two goals of the game were scored by Porter from mid-ice and Mayo booted home Peterboro's only counter. A close city crowd of 5,000 witnessed the struggle and while they were denied the opportunity of raising the roof they did, however, get the newspaper pronounce a glad hand when the final game sounded. Joe Hayes, had a few narrow shots to handle than Mayo, but on the night's play the defensive and front division gave the cage guardians good protection.

The game was fairly clean, and Referee Hodden's decisions were satisfactory. There was little to choose between the teams on the night's play, although the Frasermen always looked good enough to retain the lead. Coach George Petrie of the Falls team used excellent judgment in handling the subs and kept his team fresh at all times.

Harley Robertson was playing under the name of Hall, as his name since Thursday night's game?

Fraser got away to the first period though Peterboro scored twice and blanked the frame. The latter invaded last thirteen drive-on shots at Mayo's cage Dwyer was called upon to stop the seven doors. Both Petes' goals were scored on long shots from near centre ice by Porter. Mayo looked good on both occasions, while Pete had one more accurate shot than the Big Roar team the homesters had the rubber of cube magic twine when Dwyer made some clever saves. The Falls' defence for Peterboro two minutes play and the second game eleven minutes before Porter netted his goal on the play during the first ten minutes. Peterboro's defence, Fraser's centre, Rice; right wing, Herrington; left wing, Kelterborn; subs, Spike and Mayo.

Referee—Mike Hodden, Toronto.

AL. TYSON IS NO LONGER A HOLD-OUT

Oshawa, March2—Catcher Alfred Warren Tyson, the Oshawa member of Ontario baseball team is no longer in the holding class for on Friday evening last he attached his signature to a life's contract when he was united in marriage to one of Oshawa's popular young ladies, Miss Mabel Smith. Rev. E. T. Coates of the Trinity church officiated, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Roddick were witnesses.

Only once since Al's entry into the Central Ontario baseball league in 1921 has he been known to argue with an umpire over being "called out" and now that he has taken unto himself a helpmeet official arbitrator will enthusiast in Oshawa and around the regions round feel no fear of his and his better half's happy home in teaming it through life.

NORMA SHEARER, MONTA BELL, JOHN GILBERT

John Gilbert plays the title role of "The Snob" in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's production directed by Monta Bell from the Helen R. Martin novel. Here is Director Bell reading the book to Norma Shearer, who plays opposite him, to get them into the proper mood for the scenes about to be filmed. Gilbert and Miss Shearer also appear together in "His Wife Gets Married."

National Contest Fixed For Bowlers

Belleville Y.M.C.A. To Enter Team in Unique Series

Belleville Y.M.C.A. has entered the "five pin" bowling competition which has been arranged for Associations which feature the "five pin" game in Canada and the local competition will be held on the "7" alleys here March 20th so the Intelligencer was informed by Jim Alexander, Social Director here this morning.

This is a regular competition governed by a complete set of rules, with application blanks to fill out and return at an.

This excellent idea resulted from a discussion between Mr. Crocker of the Canadian National Council, and Dave Miller, social secretary of Brantford

Sport Notes

(Kingston Standard Comment)

Well its all over, and there's nothing to be ashamed of. Kingston gave their best, but it just wasn't enough in best Grimsby. The new intermediate champions are a clever, well-balanced team with them all success in further games.

Joe Smith made the announcement after the game that he has definitely quit hockey. Joe has been playing a long time, and on Saturday night he insisted that he is through. Local hockey fans one of the best players Ever ever had in Joe's retirement.

Just the same it was nice to see Joe Reid was bottled up most of the game. True, he scored a goal, but on the whole he wasn't the player he was in the game here.

We've got to take off our hats to Grimsby. Organization of hockey in the hockey fan he bets 1,000, and as a Mayor he certainly has a town to be proud of.

No one is looking for alibi, but it must be considered that Rogers, Rooney and Hignell played three games in the three successive days in three different places, which, while being a record, is also a penalty hard enough to overcome.

On Thursday they played in Kingston, Friday in Montreal, and Saturday in Grimsby. That's asking a bit too much of a player, but the Tigers never flinched under the heavy going.

One noted spectator at the game was "Dean" Vanhoven of The Border City Star. The former Kingston scribe about ed his head off for Kingston, and never gave up hope until the final game.

Kingston team were handled by: J. S. Macdonell, Dr. R. F. Mills, Gregor Vanhorne and "Shorty" Pound. They leave Saturday in the morning for Grimsby by radial Saturday afternoon.

The Grimsby rink is a good one considering the size of the sheet. For artificial ice the sheet was none too good, being quite bumpy.

Fruit Merchants Rolled Big Scores

Upset Kiwanis Badly at Recreation; Bankers and Yard Win

Although the Ciaco rolled one of their best scores to date, they lost to the Bankers in the Senior League, who were just a little bit better last night. The Bankers rolled 3630 and the Ciaco were just 79 pins behind, which was the high bowler with 647 for the winners, but Cumming for the Ciaco rolled 624.

The Officials team No. 1 and the Yard rolled a close game, the latter team winning out by 34 pins. The Officials got off to a bad start being 181 pins down the first game. Although they won the second and third game they could not overcome the lead that the Yard got in the first game. Joe LaForce was high bowler with 627 and the next is the wee Ford 563.

The Kiwanis got a good thrashing from the Merchants, who, while the latter team went away and rolled about 500 pins over their head. The first game both teams were playing 1 into a dead heat and were evenly matched only 2 pins difference at the end of the game. But the second was a walkaway for the Kiwanis when Orlando got one of his crazy streaks and rolled 310. The Fruit Merchants won this game by over 100 pins. The third game was a repeat the same as the second, the Fruit Peddlers rolling an over 1000. High bowlers were Orlando 728, Walshe 551.

OVER SIXTY WAYS TO SERVE CHEESE

That Canada will soon take its place with the nations that are the largest consumers of cheese seems assured considering the steady increase in its consumption in the past few years since the Kraft-MacLaren Cheese Company of Montreal, introduced the five pound box. The Kraft Company were original too of the popular tinfoil-wrapped cheese, without rind or waste, in the five pound wooden box, and while the original products are still manufactured some have been able to produce a cheese of the same uniform quality and flavor because the Kraft process is protected by patents. The Company does not make cheese, therefore, it is not concerned with the cheese factories. But it purchases Canadian cheese in enormous quantities, thus keeping the cheese factories busy and adding to their prosperity and that of the farmers. Kraft Cheese is simply a service. The blending of these manufactured cheeses by means of the patented Kraft process which all is solely controls the flavor.

The company has just issued a beautiful recipe book showing over 80 different ways in which cheese may be served. Many of the dishes are illustrated in natural colors. A copy may be obtained, free, on writing to the company in Montreal, mentioning this paper.

Winnipeg, March 3.—Miss Martha Ostenso, who won a $13,500 prize last fall for her first novel will this spring visit in Winnipeg and in northern Manitoba, where she gathered the material that went into her novel, "The Passionate Flight." For the present Miss Ostenso is making her home in New York where she has a studio in the heart of the writer's section, Greenwich Village, and is busy writing short stories some of which deal with incidents of her life in Manitoba. Later she will visit Winnipeg and the lake district north of Winnipeg this spring, where she hopes to gather more material for a book which she has planned, but not yet started. Later she will go abroad to study and write. The National Academy next winter will contain a portrait of the young authoress, which is being painted by Henry Hutt, Canada, winner of the recent Pulitzer prize.

CRITICIZES WOMEN'S HELP IN CHURCHES

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Edmonton, March 3—Deploring the fact that many women of the Women's Auxiliary to the Anglican church become more financial bodies concentrating on the raising of funds, Ven. Archdeacon A. E. Burgett, archdeacon of the southern part of the province of Alberta, asked the Edmonton Diocesan board delegates in session to keep specially in mind the spiritual and missionary functions of their organization. The archdeacon also felt strongly on the question of women being elected to act on vestries, as the churchmen, he contended, thus relieved of these duties which had previously been particularly theirs would be prone to throw more work on the women, and lose interest and touch themselves.

ELAINE

THE ROMANCE OF A MOTHER

By CHARLES GARVICE

CHAPTER VIII.

"The marquis had gone," The major had left the room immediately after calling Elaine's attention to the disappearance of the flag, and on his way to the club had met Ingram, the steward, and learned from him the particulars of the sudden departure.

"What off, just as usual, major," he said, in answer to the major's inquiries, "His lordship's man always keeps a portmanteau, or two packed, I believe, ready to set off at a moment's notice. He's gone and taken the signor with him, I believe that, Mr. Ingram tried to persuade him to stop on a little longer; but the marquis wouldn't be persuaded. He's like the Wandering Jew, sir, never happy in one place for more than a day or two."

"What's the reason, Ingram?" asked the major carefully.

The steward shook his head.

"Can't say, major. I've heard that there's a woman in the case, or was. There always is, isn't there?"

The major shook his head.

"And where's he gone?"

Mr. Ingram laughed.

"To London, I suppose; but you never can tell, sir. Nearly as not he'll go abroad, and it's just as much on the cards that he'll come back, though that isn't very likely. We allThought, at the house that he might stay on for a bit, seeing he's made friends with you and Miss Elaine, major."

The major shook his head again.

"His lordship is a strange fellow, Ingram," he remarked in an injured tone and went off to the club with something less than his usual cheerfulness. He wouldn't have acknowledged, even to himself, that he had expected the Marquis of Nairne to fall in love with and propose to Elaine at once.—But if he had entertained such a hope, how very raarely, there was an end to it now. And there was the affair with Captain Sherwin to trouble him. He had almost forgotten that in the excitement of the marquis' call, and the return visit to the Castle, but it came back to him now, and as he walked along the major told himself that what with his debts and difficulties, and Elaine's contrariness, he was a deeply injured man.

But after a soda and whiskey and a cigar, he cheered up considerably, and when Captain Sherwin came in and greeted him as if nothing had happened, the major felt quite at his ease and his careless as usual, and he won a couple of sovereigns in a friendly game.

Learning is better than house and lands, Worth more than silver and gold" is much gold, but a cheerful disposition with the natural ease of manner is possessions. To be able with the aid of a soda and a cigar to forget one's troubles to throw off one's cares and troubles for the time being is a valuable gift to be able to meet and cheerfully it is, and how constant and cheerful we should exercise it!

And Elaine? Whatever she may have thought of the marquis and made no sign; and scarcely looked up from her task of dress making all the morning, the major looked in at the door and remarked, in a light casual way:

"The marquis did disappear last night, as we thought, Elaine."

"Yes?" she said. "That is not unusual is it? If you see Mr. Bradley will you ask him to call in May that I wish she would run round. I cannot spare Bridget to send with a message; and you will find me hot at Black's and ask them to send the ribbon I ordered, papa?"

It was evident that she did not mean to discuss the matter, and the major with a nod and a brisk, "Certainly, my dear," took himself off with a feeling of relief.

Not only did she not mean to discuss him, but she did not mean to think of him; and as she went back into the garden, or to one of the windows looking down upon the Castle, she carefully refrained from looking in the direction of the flagstaff. It would not be possible to discuss the visit to the Castle, and her father's hints, but she resolved that they would not haunt her; and Elaine was a young lady of some determination and strength of purpose.

An hour later the drawing-room door was flung open and a young girl ran in, regardless of Elaine's needle, threw her arms round Elaine's neck.

This was May Bradley, the doctor's daughter, and Claire's special friend. The two girls formed a very striking contrast. Elaine was dark, with deep brown eyes; May was fair, with blue orbs that seemed to be always dancing merrily; her light, almost flaxen hair broke in little flossy curls over her forehead ;her mouth was small, and always pouting or smiling; and she was altogether as charming and bewitching a little girl as was ever seen to please susceptible man. May was rather, no or more than a year younger than Elaine, and, as has been said, regarded her as the pearl of womanhood. Her mother was dead and the rectory was "run" as May, who was occasionally given to slang, would say, by her aunt Mrs. Bradley, whom May always described as the prig.

"You dear, to send for me!" she cried, and holding Elaine's face in her tiny hands and looking at her with rapturous admiration. "But I was coming when I met the major. And this is the bad dress, of course. How pretty!"

"Neat, not gaudy, would describe it very well, May," said Elaine taking up her needle which she had laid down out of harm's way during the embrace. "Nan's veiling, dear."

"Yes, I know," said May, "But though it's only nuns veiling, you'll come sailing by looking as if you'd got on the most expensive of Paris confections, and will make the Lofmead and Bannister girls mad with envy. I love to watch them when you make your appearance, the effect is quite magical. However Jim they say has been better, directly you come in sight they instantly turn cowdy."

Oh, come, May!" remonstrated Elaine, trying to repress a smile.

"It may be ill-natured, but it's true," asserted May, stoutly, "and the truth I always tell you, Elaine. It's the powerpence, says."

"And what's your dress to be?" ask ed Elaine.

"Mauve pekined. "Oh, not half so pretty as yours, dear, of course, but I'm afraid I never that I ought not to wear anything but mauve. I am going in a kind of fancy dress—to represent a draped dressing table. Of course with a dressash. The griffin hinted that I was going to be the powder puff ball but for once poor papa plucked up spirit enough to protect me. But Elaine, you must come to the ball and tell me all about the marquis!"

Elaine did not blush, but she looked fixedly at her work and parsed a mom ent before she replied.

"What is it they are saying, May?"

"Why," said May, sinking down on the edge of the table and an new Elaine as young as herself, that the marquis has called upon you, and that you and he are always riding to the Castle. Papa heard it from Mr. Ingram and he knows it must be quite possible as it seems."

"It is," said Elaine, and she gave a brief description of her visit to the Castle.

Here Bradley also became confidential and told of a clandestine correspondence in which she was held by her young man, Gerald Locke, a briefless barrister, who was trying the Wiltshire circuit, commencing at the British victory Parade busy parading Victoria Park and placing a wreath upon the soldiers' monument.

Local Druggists Have Modern Remedy for Colds

A Vaporizing Salve which is Rubbed Over Throat and Chest for Colds.

When Vicks VapoRub, the "external" method of treating colds was introduced, deep chest colds, or croup, it proved very effective. Its ingredients are released as vapors by the body heat.

These vapors, inhaled with each breath carry the medications directly to the affected air passages, loosening the phlegm and relieving the congestion.

At the same time Vicks acts as a counter-irritant, stimulating the skin, and thus helps the vapors inhaled to break up the local congestion.

Colds are usually relieved over night.

Actors Got Radio Bug on Location

During Filming of Belle Feature "Story Without a Name"

The radio bug has hit the movies. Twenty-one real fans will be wearing it around the Paramount Eastern studios. The movie stars have fallen—and fallen hard for the voice of the "dot" and "dash."

Here's how it all came about. When the lyric Writer company started "The Story Without a Name," featuring Agnes Ayres and Antonio Moreno, returning to the studio they found that, most or late contracted radio sickness. The story features the radio and it's hard to talked-of "death ray."

Several balmy days on location on a yacht kept the players under cover. Every day assistants connected up the convenient source of amusement which happened to be a large cabinet-style used for scenes in the picture. The actors sat by the hour listening to the instrument picking up spicy messages from out of the ether—the big broadcasting stations with their sheers, jazz bands, entertainers, etc. amateur stuff, boat-tooting, or talking to other actors—and even a message from a liner far out on the Atlantic.

Anyway the whole troupe arrived back at the studio—all with wonderful stories. Two months later when the studio door-man carries a match-box receiver set about with aerials.

"The Story Without a Name," with Agnes Ayres, Director Irving Cummings, Jack Holt, Louis Wolheim and others in the supporting cast, opens at Belle three days—on yesterday at the Belle Theatre.

Norma Talmadge in her latest First National picture "Secrets" which opens at the Griffin Theatre, plays four different roles in four different periods and in gowns of four different fashion cycles. The picture is a picture for modern moments with glimpses into three other periods of American home life. Starting out in 1923, the picture later shows Norma first as a young wife of the early days in Virginia and later as the War.

When the action switches to the year 1870, Norma has become the mother of a growing family. The passing years of the photoplay's action show her in the gowns of the late 30s of the last century. By the time the picture has ended the children have grown but it is the same Norma of the early years of the story. Last of all Norma is shown again in modern costumes in 1923 settings.

"Secrets" is an unusual picture. It has an unusual story which is developed in a novel fashion. And in it Norma has a splendid opportunity, of which she avails herself to the full, to display a remarkable range of characterization.

One is hardly able to believe that the Norma seen in the very early sequences as a young wife and as a mother in the same period and the Norma later with grey hair and in the black silk dress so much favored by our grandmothers.

ONLY EARTHQUAKE ACTRESS REPORTED

Ottawa, March 3.—Where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise. Last night when Miriam Nesbitt succumbed to the jazz craze and Ottawa commenced to shimmy to the weird tempo of subterran can mutterings, an earthquake that filled the auditorium of the Lisgar Street Collegiate Institute was not even noticed by some of the theatrically inclined among the scholars.

When the floor started to wobble some of those in the gallery thought it was for the gait, and the rest of the audience stood up, wondering what was coming next. Somebody whispered "Fire" and for a moment it looked as if there might be a panic.

But a diminutive leading lady saved the day by rushing out of the footlights, waving her arms and imploring:

"Sit down, everybody—please sit down; it's only an earthquake.

They sat.

Fight The Germs To End Colds Head

A cold in the head means a local germ attack. Fight it locally—in the membranes of the air passages.

Apply Ely's Cream Balm to the nostrils and breathe it. That forces antiseptic fumes wherever those germs exist. Relief is instant. The air passages are cleared, the inflammation is subdued, the whole trouble is checked.

Don't suffer from a stuffed-up head or catarrh. Ask your druggist for a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Get instant relief, fight the trouble at its source. Then never again let a head cold get started.

Star of "Badges" Candidate For Cooking Honors Too

To her position picture success and to last year's Broadway triumphs in "Poppy," Madge Kennedy is adding a new claim to her laudling of the leading role in "Hedgea," now appearing on Broadway.

Hard, exacting parts seem to take no toll from Miss Kennedy's spontaneity and charm. Perhaps this is because she believes that rest is every change of occupation, and balances her energy between play house and other interests. She is an accomplished cook, and makes light even of Cream Puffs! She insists that they will agree with them light and fluffy—if with this recipe:

Cream Puffs:

1 cupful Water;
½ cupful Flour;
3 tablespoonfuls Crisco
4 Eggs
¼ teaspoonful Salt

Put Crisco into small saucepan, add water, bring to boiling point, add quickly flour and salt, stir well with wooden spoon until mixture leaves sides of pan, remove pan from fire, allow to become cool, but not cold, add eggs, one at a time, and beat each one thoroughly in. Set in ice chest one hour. Put mixture into forcing bag with tube and force in on to a greased tin into small rounds. Bake in hot oven forty minutes. When cold split them open eg one side and fill with whipped cream sweetened and flavored to taste.

Canada's Trade Given at Glance

Monthly Letter From Bank Of Montreal Reviews All Business

The snowfall this winter has been heavy and the weather steady with zero or two mild breaks, which were needed, for agricultural work which had gone dry. Fair wheat is wintering satisfactorily. The usual seasonal dullness in agricultural communities prevails.

The Tobacco Companies are now taking Burley at 25 cents against 18 cents the crop.

Satisfactory results were realized by the growers of sugar beets. The market letter for all the Provinces reads. The following upward price fluctuations are reported:

Feb. 18—Export cattle; $7.50; Butcher cattle, $7.00; Feeders $5.75; Stockers $5.50; Hogs $10.00.

Feb. 14—Export cattle; 88.25; Butcher cattle, $7.00; Feeders, $6.00; Stockers, $5.50; Hogs $10.05.

No. 1 Northern Wheat at $2.00 is practically unchanged from the figures quoted in February but prices fluctuated violently in the interval, a high of $2.33 1-3 having been reached. Ontario wheat at $1.40 in Bay Ports, Barley at 95c 3 is unchanged, and Oats at 59c is 5c up.

Building Trades.

Outside the city of Toronto where several large jobs have been let progress or under contemplation there's little activity in the building trade throughout the province.

Industrial Employment.

Unemployment shows a considerable increase in the main centres, and a little more activity in mechanics engaged on a part time basis.

Agricultural implement manufacturers report business quiet with some production of early implements. The Steel Companies are not busy Store manufacturers report a satisfactory volume of business on a moderately profitable basis. Retail furniture sales are not as good as a year ago but the trend is toward improvement. The Automobile industry is operating with some departments slack and others busy. Manufacturers complain of rubber footwear are enjoying a heavy volume of sales. Tire Companies are swamped on spring orders and the largest companies are operating at capacity. Furniture manufacturers, with a few exceptions are looking forward to a moderate year's, business on a narrow margin of profit. Some of the sale Pottery factories are busy on a large special Russian order for flour Packing Companies are well employed and pulp and paper companies are all likewise enjoying full employment.

Wholesale and Retail

Normal mid-season dullness prevails in the retail trade and country small merchants take a gloomy view of life generally. Wholesale reports little change in orders but dry goods men feel that improvement is not far off.

Money

The bible and leather situation is greatly improved following the reduction of the Bank rate and money has had depressed the market for many months. Sole leather was held by tanners at the end of November were 40 per cent. above the average period in 1922.

Investors are not inclined to dispose of good securities, believing apparently that sales prices represent a high enough to invite realization, in view of the outlook.

In the bond market there seems to have been an avalanche of new bond issues, but the public absorbed them on account, which apparently have gone well, the subscription books in some cases being opened and closed almost simultaneously. As a matter of fact, the power of absorbing good investments was never greater than at the present time. This is due not only to

Mail From London

London, Eng., Feb. 14— (Canadian Press By Mail)—So many sensational statements have been made this last week about the possibility of the demise of St. Paul's Cathedral collapsing that in order to lay the fears and the anxieties of the public the King and Queen will probably attend a service there in the near future.

No sooner do rumors and the Dome's condition begin to leak out the consternation begins to diminish—so did the collections. The Dean and Chapter have been busily trying to encourage the Home Fund idea again by issuing statements to the effect that the Dome was safe for many generations, but if they could only get the King and Queen to sit underneath it for an hour or two they feel that there will be nothing further to worry about.

And although the collapse of the Dome is considered by the majority of experts very remote, especially as steps are being taken as soon as the fog permits, one fears that the £900,000 has already been taken out by a collapse in the neighborhood of St. Paul's against damage to the building and stocks by the collapse of the Dome.

Welcome For Diplomats

Ambassador and Mrs. Kellogg were most grilled ready to go to a banquet given in their honor by the Japanese Ambassador, at his sumptuous house in Grosvenor Square, when a courier arrived from Buckingham Palace, asking them to think that there was nothing to do, of course, but to accept latest invitation and arrange matters to their first host as well as possible.

King George and Queen Mary believe in impromptu institutions, and whenever there is something a little appeared to the favoured invited, it usually is a whole-hog informality and friendliness which is very gratifying.

When Fogs Prevail Plays.

There must be something about the London air that inspires a generous feeling inside the human heart. When Chaliapine came to London last week he was, as it were, a recital-shy celebrity to buy London suits; he was inspired to give a private recital to the American musicians of the Savoy Hotel, because he liked their appreciative smiles. Now Paderewski, living in a genial suite at Claridge's for a short spell, found some distinguished members of London society including the young Lady Louise Mountbatten, outside his suite the other day listening to his practising inside.

He promptly asked them all inside, arranged them around the piano, and played Chopin for an hour and a half to the huge delight of the invited.

Ellen Terry, the greatest of all Bohan screwers, has been appointed Privy Councillor for Investiture—it will be remembered that she became a Dame in the New Year's Honour Lists.

Poor Ellen who was very nervous and worried and bothered the day she received the first mentioned honour, looked quite at all the right before. She carried with her the famous old Black Star which accompanied her to the theatre. "I feel it's not right to say it's an old bag," she rebuked a friend the other day, but it received a number of years ago."

"Dame Terry looks a very splendid little dame days in her tiny flat in St. Martin's Lane, right amongst the theatres that she loves so well. In fact, her resources don't allow of very much excitement.

More Starvation Diet Says London

There is a touch of exhibition in the court London fashions at the moment. Extravagance simplicity seems to be the keynote of many of the ballroom frocks. There is another Empire fashion in the way women are dressing their huge, stretch feather fans with heavy perfumes—and now the fans themselves are made with frames of jade or crystal.

But it would certainly seem that the starvation vogue is quickly disappearing. Women simply couldn't have stood it much longer.

Let Tanlac restore your health

If your body is all fagged-out and run-down, if you are losing weight and have lack appetite, have no strength or energy, why not let Tanlac help you back to health and strength?

So many millions have been benefited by the Tanlac treatment, so many thousands have written so gratefully of what effect that it's sheer folly not to make the trial.

Tanlac, you know, is a great natural tonic and builder, a compound, after the famous Tanlac formula, of roots, barks and herbs. It purges the blood stream, revitalizes the digestive organs and enables the sickly body to regain its vanished weight.

You don't need to wait long to get results. Tanlac goes right to the seat of trouble. In a day or so you note a vast difference in your condition. You have more appetite, sleep better, get light and the color begin to creep back into your washed-out cheeks.

Don't put off taking Tanlac another day—get it today, step into the nearest drug store and get a bottle of this world-famed tonic. That's the first important step back to health and vigor.

Tanlac Restored Her Health

"Typhoid fever reduced me to 98 lbs. and left me weak as a rag. Pulling to get relief from other sources I tried Tanlac and after 6 bottles had gained 20 lbs. Now I enjoy a fine appetite and feel like a new woman. As to nurse I give Tanlac to all my patients."

Canadian Singer Wins High Praise

Edward Johnson Takes Fine Role in "Pagliacci"

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, March 3—Edward Johnson, one of the little group of Canadian singers with the forces of the Metropolitan Opera Company, is again winning high praise for his work with that organization. Johnson, a tenor who was born in Guelph, Ont., and who received his first musical training in Toronto, came to the Metropolitan three years ago after a long engagement with the Chicago Opera Company. Discussing a recent performance of "Pagliacci," Henry Taylor, music critic of the World, after praising De Luca for his work in the role of Tonio and Miss Jaro for her Nedda, continues:

"The outstanding virtue of last night's 'Pagliacci' however was Edward Johnson's performance of Canio. If he was not a vest singing performance Mr. Johnston's voice sounded tired, as if he had not yet fully recovered from the illness that kept him out of opera most of last winter.

"But I never saw any one act Canio as Johnson acted in last night. He gave it a performance that only an actor with the most consummate command of inward and outward power could have given; a performance that cut straight and clean through the action, capturing the spectator from the moment when the fun-drunken, half-clown, half vagabond, rides on the scene, wearily cheerful at his drum and sweeping unerringly up to the finish at terrible, gasping La comedia e finita."

"He raised 'Vesti la giubba' clean out of the category of operatic show pieces. Here was no passpered heir of the damned borrowing stirring lyrics to bid B-flat and shoviour how he could sick, but a heartbroken man, come through his Gethsemane to the blackness beyond.

"It is a queer thing to admire operatic singers in a role for so many years and to have a new singing actor make it thrilling at last!

That Mike Oldbock had taken advantage of the Bracebridge Civic Relief Board's plan of issuing immediate relief in cases of need being revealed especially where children were concerned, with an investigation as soon after as possible, was shown in police court yesterday when he was found guilty of securing relief under false pretences.

Wants Other Women to Know About Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mount Forest, Ont.—"Before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I fell weak and dizzy and had pains all through me. I had been under the Doctor's Care at the time, and he told me I could get no relief from anything but an operation. Then I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and in a few weeks I was entirely free from all pains. I began to get stronger and know pains left me. I am glad I found out about this medicine and there is no equal to it for women who have troubles of this kind." Mrs. Ernest Richards, R.R. No. 1, Mount Forest, Ontario.

Women throughout the Dominion are finding health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Nohanitful drugs are used in its preparation—but roots and herbs—which may be taken in safety even by a nursing mother. For sale by all druggists.

Fashion Says Goodbye to Bob and Hails Return of Merry Widow Hat

NEW YORK—Flight of the bob has caused a sudden change in millinery styles, according to Armand Piatt of New York, designer of hair styles for women.

"The long clache which has been the vogue for so many seasons, owing to clipped hair styles, is singing its swan song, and the picture hat is making its bow to the fashion world," said Mr. Piatt, in an ad-vance statement.

"Now that women have taken to wearing their hair in the flowing transformations, braids and all sorts of extra hair pieces to supplant the bob, millinery manufacturers are forced to change the styles by featuring large hats instead of advertising extra small hats for summer girls as has been the custom for the past several years, some of new York's smartest hat shops are advertising large hats for small girls as well. An exclusive fashion show recently held at the Hotel Astor, many of the season's most popular models were shown in large hats, and all were worn with flowing transformations.

"Another feature of the show was a specialty of large hats, worn of the flowing transformations. Another feature of the show was a specialty of large hats, worn of the flowing transformations. Another feature of the show was a specialty of large hats, worn of the flowing transformations.

Ontario Members Are Not Talkative; Wait Until Its Up

(Canadian Press Despatch)
Toronto, March 4.—Details of the proposals embodied in the Government Control Bill to be introduced in the Ontario Legislature by Col. J. A. Currie, Conservative member for South-east Toronto, became available this morning. The Bill provides for the sale of liquor in bottles through Government stores in holders of permits except in municipalities which voted dry in the last plebiscite. The Bill provides for the appointment by the Board of Government Controllers to prohibit the importation of liquor which would permit any resident or non-resident to obtain a permit to purchase liquor at a cost of $2, such permit to be in force for a year in both cases of residents and non-residents.

Permit Power to Wets

Members of the Legislature are not discussing the Church Union agreement premature to wait until the legislation is enacted in the form of the Private Bills Committee. All of them, however, have useful opinions from their ridings and are receiving numerous letters.

The Uniform Bill has been moved in the House. The non-controversial measures have a Bill ready, but it is not yet before the House. The Bill relating to age-consuming side can be safeguarded, and settlement in the United States. The new Bill may never be presented to the House. It is expected that there will be signs of lobby from either side. The Government committee is merely the means that of last year.

Great Activity At Corbyville

Where Claco Club is in Full Swing These Days

The Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company, Limited, of Corbyville, now has in full swing a self-supporting organization known as "The Claco Athletic and Social Club" of which every employee is a member. The Club has for object the promotion of amateur athletic, recreational and athletic activities among the employees where the object is to establish friendly and sociability everywhere apparent and accordingly with constitution and by-laws. A committee was appointed to select at least three members of each of the following three names to be selected by the whole membership for election with the following results—

For President—Mr. J. W. Lill; Mr. H. M. Casey, Mayor D. T. McMahon.

For Vice-President—Mr. J. Y. Boyle; Mr. C. B. Treverton; Mr. F. H. Clarke.

For Secretary—Mr. J. Y. Boyle; Mr. C. B. Treverton; Mr. F. H. Clarke.

Mr. W. J. Howe, the manager of the distillery and chief executive of the company, was declared by acclamation the honorary President.

On the 19th February, 1925, the election took place and the following were the results—

President—Major R. T. McManus.

Vice-President—Mr. F. H. Clarke.

Secretary—Mr. J. Y. Boyle.

On Tuesday last February a most enjoyable dance was given under the auspices of the Club by the Entertainment which was a great success, the orchestra of the Club furnished very delightful music.

On Saturday, 28th February, 1925, a general meeting of the Club was called by the President-elect at the Chamber of Commerce. Before the business severely lady and gentlemen members were present which included practically all the supervising staff of the management.

Mr. J. F. Munroe took the chair and explained that the object of the meeting was to ratify constitution and by-laws and approve the action of the nomination committee. When this was done, the speaker in a few well-chosen words introduced the newly elected officers who took their respective stations amidst applause.

The constitution and by-laws were ratified and the general business of the Club proceeded with.

The following committees were selected and each have a special group to representation—hockey, basketball, baseball, rifle, swimming, golf, tennis, (indoor and outdoor), boxing, tennis, badminton and indoor games.

The meeting adjourned at 9.45 p.m. This company certainly has entered at the Corbyville plant, where owing to the vast supply (the second largest in Canada) system of fire protection, has been installed, early this year it was found necessary to erect a steam water tank with a capacity of 100,000 gallons, while another tank of the same dimensions and capacity is now nearly completed. These two monster tanks with the name of the company thereon can easily be seen looking north from Belleville and vicinity and west from Trenton, Belleville and vicinity and act as great landmarks for Hastings County.

MILLIONS HEARD PRESIDENT TAKE OATH OF OFFICE

Radio Brings Nation to Ceremony at Washington To-day

AN UNIQUE EVENT

Late President Harding Missed in Inaugural Procession

(Associated Press Despatch)
Washington, March 4.—Calvin Coolidge was inaugurated to-day with one of the simplest ceremonies of a hundred years. Almost at the same time Vice-President Dawes also took the oath of office.

For the first time not only the chosen executive gathered in Washington heard a president deliver his inaugural address, but millions throughout the United States and probably many abroad also heard it through radio. President Coolidge spoke so probably the greatest audience, seen and unseen, that ever has been addressed by any man in the history of the world.

With all its studied simplicity and lack of display, which was at the express direction of the President, the ceremony was in keeping in accordance with the event of 19 months ago, when quietly after sleep by news of the sudden death of President Harding, Mr. Coolidge took the oath of office administered by his father in the glow of an oil lamp in a Vermont farm house.

The only Vice-President since Roosevelt to succeed to office as the result of popular election, President Coolidge ceremony was administered by Chief Justice Taft, the only president to take the oath before a former president. The ceremony was the traditional one, and was carried out in a setting specially built at the east front of the Capitol, before the great steps leading up to the entrance of the middle of the building, a spot selected in the historic ceremonies of generations ago when the House and Senate each surrounded the inauguration should take place within its new precincts.

Many fans are expected, for the interest is growing greater in the city league every night.

HANGMAN ELLIS IS SOMEWHAT PEEVED

Winnipeg, March 4.—Arthur Ellis, the country's official hangman, is "peeved." He was originally called to Winnipeg to hang Harry Tatarniuk, convicted of killing his aunt, but the execution was stayed and given a respite pending the Ottawa authorities. Ellis was over from Montreal, was turned back at Birshipeg. But he is a fellow that receives his fee whether he demands his pay, the account totalling $186. He claims his services were requisitioned by the authorities and he should not be denied his lawful hire.

Prince Of Wales Club are Preparing

Community Anticipates Bumper Annual School Fall Fair

Monday evening completed a busy session for the Prince of Wales Community Club. All arrangements have been made for the annual school fall fair under the supervision of Mr. Fred Hart. Those who availed themselves of the opportunity of winning the fair for the year claim that it surpassed the county fairs, and with the added attractions this year Mr. Hart says the fair of last year will be forgotten. Added to the display of the scholars, the ladies placed an exhibition a fine display of fancy work. The floral and vegetable display by Messrs. Bamford Bloomer, Hart and Elvins was well worth inspection. A cut of this most creditable display appears publish in an American Vegetable Growers Journal which has a large circulation in Canada and United States. Mr. Fred Mossman is to give a talk on the growing of seeds and also a demonstration of transplanting at the meeting Friday evening, in order to get the scholars started in the correct way. Miss Jean Johnson conducted the reading of the domestic science list with the addition of other ladies in the community. This school is fortunate in securing such a competent teacher as Miss Irene Foster for the domestic science class. Poultry or live stock will be under the supervision of the veteran poultry man, Mr. Walter Turner. All the ladies have been asked to attend and secured which will "on thy eye" and get down to the making of a bigger and better school fair.

Japanese Operetta Pleases Audience

Presented by Presto Musical Club at City Hall

JOHN MILLER

Who after 55 years of continuous service as trustee of the Owen Sound jail has retired and goes to live in Toronto.

"O Hara San", a charming Japanese operetta was staged in full by the Presto Musical Club at the City Hall. Although the City Hall is not an ideal place for such a performance, the very pretty stage settings which were replete with blossoms and Japanese lanterns served to overcome this handicap.

Mr. C. M. Anglin conducted the operetta, and is entitled to due credit for the fine way in which it was executed.

The outstanding performer was Mrs. F. Dowling, who was formerly Miss Belleville people as Miss Mary Yeomans. Her interpretive art was displayed to advantage in the parts were very expressive.

The musical parts were exceptionally good, some delightful harmony being rendered. The choruses by the elected Chief Magistrate of the city were Aldermen. The list as compiled in regard to ex-Aldermen may possibly not be complete.

Ex-Mayors

W. J. Diamond; J. J. B. Flint; G. R. Sulman; W. H. Pearce; J. N. Walmsley; H. F. Ketchson; Col. L. St. Marks; E. G. Porter, Q.C.; A. Bennett; Judge J. F. Wills; W. B. Sinnett; R. L. Graham; H. W. Ackerman; C. E. Hann.

Baptist Church in Toronto Destroyed

Lost to First Avenue Congregation Estimated at $60,000

(Canadian Press Despatch)
Toronto, March 4.—First Avenue Baptist Church and Sunday School were destroyed by fire early this morning as the result of a blaze which broke out in the basement of the church and spread with great rapidity, the loss is estimated between $50,000 and $60,000. The insurance on church property is $40,000. It is believed that an overheated furnace was the origin of the fire. The Rev. W. W. Graham has been pastor of the church since 17 years ago last Sunday. The church has a membership of 602.

Mysterious Miss Dollar Will be in City On Saturday For Dollar Day Customers

As an added feature of the big Dollar Day to be held by the wide awake merchants of Belleville on Saturday next, The Daily Intelligencer has arranged for the services of a mysterious "Miss Dollar".

The newspaper has been successful in enlisting the services of a charming young lady, who will be known as Miss Dollar, and whose capture will be the object of the day for the enterprising hunter.

The game promises to be more exciting than a hundred three wood puzzles and much more profitable.

Miss Dollar will be out shopping early. She will visit all stores participating in the Dollar Day sale. All that a person has to do is to identify her by recognizing her picture in The Daily Intelligencer for the evening.

There are just two rules to remember. First of all Miss Dollar must be employed in one of the Dollar Day stores, a list of which will be published in the Daily Intelligencer on Saturday next. The Daily Intelligencer has arranged for the services of a mysterious "Miss Dollar".

Light Couples Wanted Abandoned Baby

Italian Mayor Raffled The Child Off

Pastenale, Italy, March 4.—A baby boy was recently the special prize in a lottery arranged by the mayor of this city. The child was found abandoned in the smallest place and turned over to the authorities within an hour eight childless couples had sought to adopt the little foundling.

The mayor had difficulty in choosing among the would-be parents. So he arranged to raffle the baby off and allowed tickets to be sold only to persons who would make desirable parents. The tickets brought a good price and all the proceeds of the lottery were turned over to the wives of the child to purchase a layette.

Only One Case For High Court

That is Trial of Point Anne Man on Murder Charge

On Tuesday next the 10th inst the Springsittings of the High Court of Justice will open here, presided over by the Hon. Justice Kelly. Mr. Cecil O. Frost, of Lindsay, will be the presiding attorney.

The only criminal case is that of Serge Tkach, who was committed for trial charged with the murder of a fellow countryman named Alex Cernaeus at Point Anne. The accused will be defended by Mr. J. J. Penhale.

Up to the present time no civil cases have been entered for trial.

The composition of the Grand jury is as follows:

R. Campbell, Wallaston; S. Cox, Ellevir; P. Bowers, Sidney; T. Deenan, Rawdon; C. Fraser, Madoc; A. Holland, Huntingdon; W. Hayes, Delora; D. Thompson, Thurlow; Dr. J. W. Alkenbrack, Belleville; E. Fraser of Madoc, are vacancies by the above. Others will be elected to fill the vacancy.

Take Fingerprints Of Young Babies

Switzerland Municipality Enacts Ls to Prevent Mistakes

Geneva Switzerland, March 4.—A law has been passed by the authorities of this city providing for that all babies must be weighed, measured and their fingerprints taken within 24 hours of birth.

Swiss Swiss nurseries become a sort of gigantic rogue's gallery, with finger prints of babies and exacting infants all on record.

The law is in consequence of a case which was tried in Neuchatel, in the Tyrol, recently when the magistrate was a thousand pounds damages. A boy, both one year old, were placed by their mothers in a children's home, and one of them died while being bathed.

The mother claimed the wrong child. The judges compromised after considerable difficulty, decided that he did, not follow the precept of Solomon but gave the custody of the boy to the mother's relatives.

When he becomes three years old, a test will be made and will be called to settle the case definitely.

MEMBERS OF BOARD VISITED SCHOOL

Mr. John Elliott, chairman of the School Board, Mrs. Agnes Mortleman of Queen Alexandra school and Mrs. Ketcheson of the school committee this afternoon paid a visit to the school. The visitors were cordially received by the teachers and pupils, who gathered in the assembly hall to hear Mr. Elliott and others present.

Mr. Elliott addressed the pupils on the subject of "Good Manners" and Mrs. Ketcheson spoke on "Health". Mrs. Mortleman was also present and was introduced to the pupils.

Make Effort To Make Music For Schools

Committee Likely to be Named at Next Board Meeting

INTERESTING STUDY

Technical School Problem Becomes Pertinent Question Too

At the last meeting of the Belleville Board of Education, Col. W. N. Ponton, K. C., gave notice of motion that at the next meeting of the board he would introduce a motion favourably disposing of the matter of music in the Belleville public and High Schools.

It is expected that there will be considerable discussion on the matter at the next meeting of the board, when a small committee of say six members will be appointed to handle first of all the matter and then decided to ask the Department to recommend suitable men for the board assistant. It is also interesting because in Belleville this matter is interesting because there really no one in charge of music.

In the United States, Friday afternoon is given over to music, when the whole school is assembled, community sing is heard and appreciated.

Talent is discovered, children are taught to appreciate the better music and not as a drone. Teachers and children alike straighten their shoulders Friday afternoon, every minute has been practised vocally and instrumentally.

Teachers who are qualified to take charge of this work, become licensed teachers, and are specially trained qualify for his work by attending summer courses which are provided.

Mrs. W. Fenton, who was former ly a teacher in New York, and who is a graduate of Columbia College, is one of music in city schools there and tells how the vocal ideas which have been tried out with success there.

Each public school in Belleville has a piano which would prove useful in connection with such work, especially at the High School however, will be in charge of a teacher who specializes together where there is no assembly hall. At present the High School piano is at the Collegiate, but it is hoped to purchase to greater advantage owing to the great interest in music in Central Hall there.

These are a few suggestions which are submitted and doubtless other valuable suggestions will be made at the next board meeting.

Another important question confronting Belleville School Board at the present time is whether or not the new Collegiate Institute will be completed with it, the Technical School. When plans for the latter were first considered, and asked for his opinion, Col. Ponton stated that though a keen supporter of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce he was not in favor of the Technical School being built in connection with the Collegiate Institute and should it be so associated with the High School.

Col. Ponton stated: "When the Technical school in connection with the Collegiate Institute was built in Belleville a strict academic course was already made application to suit the needs of the pupils and several representatives have left under whom the course was taken. Similarly Provincial contractors wish to submit samples for boarding, but Provincial Architects, Mechanics' Builders' Guide is also supplying and submitting to the Board with free samples of the magazine for inspection.

THE TWIN TRUST-BUSTERS AT WORK

The twin trust-busters, Honorable James Murdock and W. T. R. Preston, are again on the war path. They are making the welkin ring. From after three years of Liberal rule, which was supposed to be fatal to trusts, combines and monopolies, they have discovered three terrible dragons and are out to get them—that is, they say they are.

But unfortunately Messrs. Murdock and Preston have a reputation made for talking about trusts, than whom the Minister of Labour was a candidate during the last general election, told the most harrowing tales of what these terrible dragons were doing to Canada. Having been a member of the Board of Commerce, which was supposed to inquire into such matters, the electors thought he knew what he was talking about, and they expected action as soon as the Liberals got into office.

Well, they got into office and what did they do? They did practically nothing. By their actions they said "Murdock did not know what he was talking about." So the trusts, and combines, if they existed, kept on just the same, with Mackenzie King and Murdock looking on and enjoying the company of these terrible creatures.

In 1923, W. T. R. Preston pretended to discover a terrible combine on the Great Lakes which was taking from the farmers all their profits on grain. The Government said: "This seems to look like the real thing in the way of a terrible dragon," and it prepared some legislation to dismember the animal. The machinery was set up, but when they came to work it something happened. The American vessel owners refused to carry Canadian grain under the conditions imposed, and before they could be induced to relent the Government had to go down on its knees to the Americans, and beg them to come in. But before they did so the Government had to assure them that they would not be prosecuted for breaking the law.

Recently, Preston discovered what he describes as a terrible shipping combine on the Atlantic. Worse still, he finds that the Government Merchant Marine has been a member of it. Of course there was nothing new about that for Parliament found it out in 1923; but though the champion trust-breakers were in power they did nothing. If this shipping combine on the ocean has been building up the people of Canada, as is now alleged—and the Government knew that its own vessels were a party to it, why didn't it do something?

But West, it has recently been discovered that there is a fruit combine that has been holding up the public. Well, it has been operating ever since the Government came into office—why didn't the trust-busters get busy before?

The reason is that with a general election in sight the Government has had to scurry around for new issues. It also goes back completely on the 1919 platform that is must have something to divert the public attention from its "faithlessness to its pledges. So the old terrible dragons are being trotted out again.

True, some Liberals who have no use for shams and fake issues, doubt the wisdom of such manoeuvres. Liberals responsible for the party's strategy admit that the "terrible dragons" are just about worn out; but they think it is good for at least another turn. You can't get it out of their heads that you can fool all the people all the time.

Time will be decided by the operation of these two trust-busters—they are seeking merely to divert public attention from the real issues. If the so-called dragons are as terrible as is made out, Messrs. Murdock and Preston are the last men that should tackle them, having fallen down so badly on the job before.

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

Wrinkles

WRINKLES betray one's individuality.

We are creatures of habit, whether in the wrinkles in our clothes or in our faces.

A wrinkled coat hung up somewhere looks like its possessor. He has worn it long enough (or it to become set to its bodily habits.

Every one in a while a good dresser must send his clothes to the presser to have the wrinkles taken out. By this act he recognizes that his clothes resist him in arranging with his fellows because they reduce him to conformity with them.

Most pressed clothes look alike, and the well dressed man looks very much like other men. When your clothes have become set to you and comfort of you, you are no longer in style.

For this reason the clothes of poor men and of the common people express them much more than the clothes of those who have official souls.

The frop that is used in pressing the clothes must be hot, but it must not be too hot.

So with our ideas. They must conform to a certain degree with the ideas of those about us. And the difficulties and obstacles we encounter are the hot iron.

If the iron is too hot, however, the cloths are burned. Some people are so roughly handled that they become bitter or querulous.

Every body needs to be ironed out occasionally by the hot iron of circumstance, but he is fortunate if it is not too hot.

As time goes on our faces become wrinkled. That is, they become set to our habitual thoughts and actions. The more individual we are the more we are wrinkled.

It will be noticed by that in the case of those who have little individuality, who are anxious to conform to those about them, that their faces do not show many wrinkles. We say that they are not indicative of much character. That means that the character they have is like that of other people and they have not much personality of their own.

A wrinkled face and a wrinkled suit make a better photograph or picture than those which present no wrinkles. That is because they express most the individuality of the owner.

In travelling through a foreign country one can see the most of it by not getting with the common people. If he confines his travels to the fashionable hotels he will meet the same kind of people in Paris or Tokyo or London that he finds in Chicago or New York.

The inhabitants of "the country of table d'hote" all look alike and talk alike.

Those, therefore, who wish to see the actuality of another land had best go out of the beaten tracks and mingle with the ordinary folk. They have the habit of their peculiar land most impressed upon them, in their features and in their clothing.

Press Opinions

REFORMING MALE ATTIRE

(Buffalo Star and Enquirer)

Dr. Darlington, former commissioner of health of New York, would reform men's clothing. His purpose is not to give them prettier but more healthful clothing.

To this end Dr. Darlington would abolish tight collars, cut the belt which interferes with useful organs out of business, and re-styling the body in such many layers of clothing, forget the vest altogether and according to one summary of his recommendations, "put all the heathen in one-piece suits." The coats, shirt and vest would "blend into one garment, a loose blousy thing." The trousers, he thinks, "recommends gay colors" which would brighten the country-side. Furthermore, he would give the revolving cranium, incidental to daily life, a shingle bobbing.

It is note worthy that recognizers of the value of Dr. Darlington's suggestions are disposed to question the gaudy trappings. The average man would be greatly troubled if forced to add study of color schemes to his day's tasks.

Back to suspenders and on to the Bloomer boy for all right but matching feathers would be too much.

THE SALARY GRAB

(Collingwood Bulletin)

The proposed "salary grab" in the Provincial Legislature is rightly characterized as outrageous. For the increase to the Ministers there may be some excuse. They have to give their whole time and leave their homes and live in Toronto practically the whole year. They also have fre quent financial calls which the maintenance of the dignity of their office forces them to meet. Not so with the members who meet. Not so with the members who receive the large advance in the salaries of the Ministers, would mean in the aggregate an addition of $40,000 to the already heavy annual expenditure of many thoughtless and long governed.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER

(Manitoba Free Press)

The news that the Government of Canada has at last approved a pension of $2,000 annually to Dr. Charles F. Saunders, late co-editor for the Dominion, will be received with very great pleasure by the entire farming community of the West, and by all those whose connection with the grain trade of the West has made them familiar with Marquis wheat.

Prejudice against the value to the wealth of Canada of the development of Marquis wheat the pension will appear most inadequate. Equally no grievance will ever be wealthy enough to pay a person actually responsible with such a service to mankind.

HUMAN IMPULSES

(Buffalo Express)

It would have been a miracle if Collins had been found alive after so long a time. And everybody engaged in the rescue must know this. Yet they kept on. Again, as in the story of the Alaska musher who carried the diphtheria remedies through the blizzards in Nome, the world has been given an example of the human impulses that make civilization.

AND THIS IS FAME

(London Spectator)

Elmira, which during the last fortnight has reported a brindle with six spikes, a hen that lays three eggs a day, a two-month-old duck that lays, a sow with triplets, should have no taxation with twenty-two children, and a cow problems. Its necessary revenue would be assured if it incorporated itself as a side-show company.

Thirty Years Ago

The dog muzzling question is being debated in Toronto. Of course, the "doggy" men don't want their pets to be muzzled; but there, and here and everywhere, all bull terriers, bull curs mastiffs, newfoundlands and such dogs above a certain size ought to be muzzled when running at large.

Officer Morton last evening arrested a Frenchman who says he described from a bakery on August 8, 1885. After having served fourteen months of the three years he signed for. He says he has been in Texas since. The baker's way was communicated with and they will send up an escort this evening.

Dutchy's Diary

I see Citi sewing and other needle work has become one of the favorite pastimes of some of the best-known British peers.

The Earl of Listowel, one of the famous wild game hunters of England, has entered for a gold thimble prize which is to be one of the features of the needlework competition arranged by the Friends of the Poor on May 5 at Norfolk House, St. James' square, loaned for the occasion by the Duchess of Norfolk.

Among other competitors in the contest will be Lord and Lady Gainsford and Lord Carnarvon, who is considered by experts as an "exquisite needleman," much of his leisure being spent on Florentine work, but who recently started "petit point." Lord Gainford is an expert in needle work of all sorts, which he often does on the train between London and his country home.

How do you treat your milkman?

Notes to the milkman are usually the height of epistolary informality. They are written, for the most part with a stub of a pencil and on any scrap of paper that happens to be in the kitchen. Yet there is at least one milkman who maintains that he has learned about people from this careless correspondence.

"I don't ask for love letters in the bottles," he said, "but a friendly hint of heavy cream and a pound of butter. Thank you." I think I could also recognize the woman who scribbles "Cream, bitter" on a piece of brown wrapping paper. It often takes me a good minute to make out those two words. If more people would write 'please' and 'thanks' on their orders, it would make some of those bitter cold mornings seem warmer.

And now Toronto is to be known as "The Silent City."

If you have chains on your automobiles that are not tight and make a noise in the streets," says a Toronto paper, "get them repaired or taken off. Otherwise you will be summoned to court and charged with making excessive noise," according to a new order issued to the police divisional inspectors by Chief of Police Dickson.

"The order went out recently to all inspectors, directing them to inform all constables to summon motorists with noisy chains, glaring headlights and extra loud automobile horns.

To-day's Smile

"Did you have lobster or oat-tail soup, sir?"

"I don't know, it tasted mostly like soup."

"That was the lobster soup, sir. The oat-tail tarts like parsnips." —(N. Y.)

NEEDS URGING TO GROW A BEARD

BORZAGE, PERCY MARMONT, ALICE JOYCE

Frank Borzage, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer director of "Daddy's Gone-a-Hunting," and Alice Joyce, featured with Percy Marmont in the production, have a difficult time persuading Mr. Marmont to grow a beard whenever the sequence in the picture. It's all for art, they argue. Then think of the pleasure it will give him to shave it off!

"Daddy's-Gone-a-Hunting" was adapted by Kenneth Clarke from Zoe Akins' play of the art life in New York and Paris. Mr. Borzage is next going to produce "The Circle" for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Search 3 Months For Missing Man

Sylvester Connors of Wilton Wandered Off; of Unsound Mind

After searching the countryside for the past three months, police officials and relatives have been unable to get any trace of Sylvester Connors, who disappeared from the home of his nephew, Charles Connors, Wilton, on the afternoon of November 25th. There have been all kinds of reports about the disappearance.

On Tuesday morning it was learned that there was absolutely no trace of the missing man. Mr. Connors, when asked if he thought his uncle had been the victim of foul play, stated that he did not think so, as he had nothing in his possession, such as money or jewellery, that any person would want. Mr. Connors stated that the missing man had been dependent for years and had been in the habit of wandering away but he was always found.

On the afternoon of November 25th last, Sylvester Connors, who was carrying an axe, was seen going toward the bush of his nephew's farm and from that time he had not been seen or heard of. When he left the home he had a warm inside coat on over-coat and was wearing a sweater coat with .ar lapels. It is stated that the man could not write, but he was able to read fairly well.

MASONS OF KINGSTON DROP THEIR TOOLS

Kingston, March 4.—As a result of dispute between the bricklayers and plasterers employed on the new clinic building at the Kingston General Hospital, five Kingston masons quit the job on Monday.

It is understood that the Toronto plasterers' union is striking over a wage demanded that the Kingston men do certain things which they objected to.

From what can be learned the Kingston men, who are masons, plasterers and bricklayers, were working on the best rate of pay of 80 cents an hour, while the Toronto men on the job, who are only plasterers, are receiving $1.25 per hour. Everything went along O. K. on the job until the Toronto plasterers asked the Kingston men who are already members of the local Masons' Union to join the Toronto Plasterers' Union as the Kingston men absolutely refused to do so, and quit the job. It was understood that had the Kingston men agreed to join the Toronto union, they would not have been accepted members until about Thursday next, during that time they would have had to pay $2 a day for the privileges of working of the job.

Woman Struck by Train

Struck at Brockville by the incoming Canadian Limited, Toronto to Montreal from Ottawa, Mrs. Patrick S. Roberts was knocked down at the William street crossing and taken to St. Vincent de Paul Hospital with a fractured collarbone and possibly other injuries. She and her daughter Beatrice, standing upon the side of the track awaiting the passing of a C. N. R. freight train and failed to see the approaching C. P. R. express running several minutes late.

Fractured Hip

Millbrook, March 4.—The many friends of Mrs. John Devell will regret to learn that she had the misfortune to fall recently, fracturing her right hip. The accident occurred in her own home, though it is hardly known where it happened either, in which she was found by her daughter, Mrs. Wilson, slipped from place, causing the fall which resulted in the fracture. The fact that Mrs. Devell is over eighty years of age makes the accident somewhat more serious.

Scalded Eye

Lakefield March 4.—On Friday morning Mr. Geo. A. Chapman, who is employed on the drill scow working below the locks, met with a very painful accident, when his right eye was scalded by escaping steam from a pipe. At first it was thought the sight was destroyed, but later developments proved that it is only partially so. Dr. Hall and Dr. Charlton, however, has a very sore eye, which is receiving medical attention.

A WOMAN'S GREATEST ASSET

Health is a woman's greatest asset. It is health that gives beauty, power to attract others, happiness and success, and it is what really makes life worth living. Thousands of women suffer from headaches, backaches, nervousness, mental depression, and nervous pains, who could find immediate relief in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which is made from roots and herbs. For nearly half a century this medicine has been recognized as the standard remedy for women's ills.

Grimsby Surprises Hockey World

Eliminated Soo Greyhounds In Allan Cup Race

Toronto, March 4.—Boys have been surprises in hockey plenty of these, but it was left to the Grimsby Peach Kings, intermediate O.H.A., to pull the greatest of the small. Not conceded a chance to defeat the Soo Greyhounds in the Allan Cup elimination game at the Arena last night, the Peach Kings crowd everybody by giving the Calfield amateur champions a 3-2 beating. And the fans who toted themselves by staying away from the game need not try to convince themselves it was a fluke victory. It wasn't. Grimsby outplayed the men from the North by a greater margin than the score shows. And they have a mighty good chance to hand themselves thing to Niagara Falls senior champions when the two teams meet tomorrow and Saturday nights.

The Peach Kings had the score 3-0 at the end of the second period, and that was scoring during the first twenty minutes. But the fans all said the Greyhounds were, Harry Reid getting inside the defence three times during the period, but lacking the necessary punch to put the puck into the net. And on another occasion Babe Donnelly scored a sure goal when he tripped Reid after the Meadowville horse had worked his way through the defence. And Reid was not the only Grimsby player who failed to score. Jackson, McVicar, Clark and Horne all had scoring chances, but failed to get the puck over the goal line. Only Reid and Horne showed any inside accuracy at times, while the Hounds had to do their shooting from well out.

Soo Score in Final Period

It was only in the final period, when the Soo, facing certain defeat, threw everything they had into the fray, and managed to beat Fisher twice, they scored a single goal during play, which Reid shot past the puck through the defence, and there were just four minutes left to play when Johnny Woodruff took Sam Brown's pass out from behind the nets and planted the puck by Fisher. Ted Howells, with the exception of Webb, were all up on the attack when the last goal was scored; and they continued to force the play, but the Peach Kings played steady hockey until their brains and nerves recovered to the point their opponents at a safe distance during the last few minutes.

The game was the best of the season, both teams maintaining a dizzy pace throughout, and the expected championship speed of the Greyhounds was not in evidence at any stage of the game. Grimsby at times outskating the N. O. H. A. team. But it was the wonderful checking of the Peach Kings that stood out. Horne and Clark bringing in Leonard and Woodruff like leeches, and Bunny Clark living up on the ice, proved just as effective while Harry Reid, the form er Hamilton Tiger, had Bill Phillips tied up in knots the entire night. It was the wonderful checking of the Peach Kings that stopped the Hounds, for Babe Donnelly and Brown being unable to get away from the wizened strong defence play, though Brown staged some very dangerous attacks in the final period.

Regular Puck Hounds

Teams wide one and two regular puck hounds have played at the Arena in the past, but Grimsby is the only one to show here with seven players who followed the rubber disc like bloodhounds following the scent. The French Kings never lost track of the puck, no matter how they were buffeted around, but carried out on their backs or tripped. They set up again and pounced on the rubber, and continued their rush toward the Soo net. The Hounds tried all the game in an effort to stop their opponents, even handing out a few penalties early in the second period, but Archie Down's tests was all to be denied. The Peach Kings were always able to travel a little bit faster than the Hounds.

Harry Reid was undoubtedly the star of the Grimsby team, if not the best player on the ice. His driving shots earned him that honor, but he was also a wonderful rusher, doing some very marvellous stickhandling and skating. He worried the Soo every minute he was on the ice. Horne and Clark outplayed Leonard and Woodruff along the rail—some feat for Leonard—and next to Harry Watson on the Toronto 22nd was the best player in amateur hockey. Bert Horne had him jammed in close to the Soo net most of the time he was in the game. The Bells team started out and led all the way rolling up 2325. Miss Gorie carried off the single honors of the evening with 252 and Miss Brown the three stick honors with 564, while the Bells team Miss McIntosh was high with 405.

LONDON DEFEATED PETERBORO SIX

London, Ont., March 4—London defeated Peterboro, winners of the east and west series of the O.H.A. hockey by the score of 5-3 in an exhibition game staged before a few hundred spectators at the London arena last night. London outplayed the Peter is every department, the locals turning out one of their best exhibitions of hockey this season. Only two men in Peterboro's defence players, were missing from the lineup, Wallace and Cain of the Toronto Aura Lee Club substituting. While Bert Connor and New Hamburg starred right behind and Greene "Tiger" Hall of Welland centre for the Londoners.

REFUGEES' HOME IS SLOWLY ROTTING

Bizerta, Tunis, March 4.—The warships of the Wrangel movement, interned here since the collapse of the operations of this Russian leader against the Bolsheviks, are in bad shape.

Russian refugees have been living on board the ships for three years, and their sides are covered with cluster upon cluster of mussels. Neutret has wrought havoc with the engines, and engineering experts doubt if the vessels ever will put to sea again.

OLD SIGHT

By Optometrists this is called presbyopia. Every one who lives long enough has presbyopia. It affects quite early in life, and often stantly increases. Glasses are the one and only cor rection. And they must be changed at intervals as the eyes of such a person steadily lose their focusing power. If you are middle-aged or more, you ought to remember the above.

BOSTON FINALLY TRIM CANADIENS

Boston, March 4.—The demoralized Canadiens dropped a vital game to the last-end Boston Bruins here last night and sustained a bad blow to their hopes of the National Hockey League play off. The exhibition given by the champions was mediocre, while the home team staged one of their best blocking and driving efforts. The final score was 4 to 2.

The Canadiens never had a real chance to get started and their few attempts were blocked by the rugged Boston defensive work. For the visitors, Morenz was the only player who seemed up to form. The teamwork was poor and the men appeared tired and listless. No small credit for the Bruins' victory, their fifth of the season, went to Cooper and Herberts, who constantly threatened Vezina. Morenz and Boucher both goals for the Canadiens while Herberts, Cooper and Shay tallied for the Bruins.

The game was rough and penalties were many, but Referee Laflamme kept things well in hand. The teamwork was poor and the men appeared tired and listless. BELLEVUES WON BY NEARLY 500 PINS

Last night at the Y alleys the Trail ers and Bellevues met in their league fixture and the Trailers retained their game by being 492 pins down at the end of the three games. The Bells team started out and led all the way rolling up 2325. Miss Gorie carried off the single honors of the evening with 252 and Miss Brown the three stick honors with 564, while the Bells team Miss McIntosh was high with 405.

MORNING LEAGUE IS OPENED HERE TO-DAY

The Morning league of the C. N. R. was formally opened at the Recreation Alleys yesterday morning by Superintendent J. D. McMillan who is also Honorary President of this league. The President of the league night Chief Dispatcher Mc. H. Pringle introduced Mr. McMillan to the boys and Mr. McMillan gave them a very fine talk on good clean sportsmanship and the "play to win" spirit which was the Canadian National spirit to play honest and fairly in any form of sports or in the performance of their duties. This was what had put the great Railway system where it is today. He was more than pleased to see the interest being displayed by the staff that worked at nights and opened them of his support, he then rolled the first ball and started the boys on their way after which Mr. R. Garbutt night locomotive foreman voted a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. McMillan for his interest shown in the employes and their league which was greatly cheered by the employes. Messrs. Gardiner, Reviner, and Pringle all night officials were present at the opening.

There's a big game on to-night at the Recreation alleys when the leaders on the Ash Jong team, winners of the Winter League play-off, Wanderers, Fall League champions. This is a play-off for the Herr Lumber Challenge Trophy, which the Lucky Strikes won last year.

TRY COUE SYSTEM ON OLD SHEFFIELD

Sheffield, Eng. March 4—A group of manufacturers is trying the Coue system on the populace by plastering the town with posters urging "Talk improvement." "Talk revival," in connection with trade Even on the telephone exchanges there are posters urging people to "Talk prosperity."

The manufacturers claim that experience shows this policy is recommended by force of the increased confidence it begets, and to its adhesion is attributed the fact that conditions in the steel and allied trades have progressed during the past four years.

FILM STARS HAVE NOVELTY IN RADIO

CLAIRE WINDSOR "LISTENS IN"

Claire Windsor, who has a leading role in Robert Hanley's Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production of "The Denial," has had a novel radio installed in her dressing room at the Culver City studios. When Claire isn't on the set, she is usually to be found "listening in." These boudoir radios are in great popularity with the film folk, since Miss Windsor, mentioned here, is not the only one.

"The Denial" was adapted by Agnes Christine Johnston from Lewis Beach's play, "The Square Peg."

FEED AND CARE OF COWS

HOME POINTS IN SUCCESSFUL DAIRYING.

Dairy Cows Performs Double Duty In Supporting Herself and Producing Large Quantities of Food itself for the Human Race and Also Has Cared For Accordingly.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

There is too much waste in many dairy stables through owners not giving the cow a chance to do her best. Treat the cow as a machine for food that she can make be produced to her; it is the ray material with which she works. Good, clean, wholesome milk out of nothing, so if the food supplied is not sufficient for any section then she will be as an idle machine in the factory, no production. Cows that are neglected in their feeding and watering during winter and night better not exist.

The successful dairyman treats his cow as well as he treats himself for comfort and production. Some fail because they stop after providing just enough to give health and comfort. They should go all the way and provide for production. The overbred is the same. Work the cow machine to produce that and she will pay you a production that will pay for feed, labor and profit. That is management.

A cow that yields 6,000 pounds of milk in a year produces in that time that period more food products than are contained in the carcasses of a fat bullock weighing 1,340 pounds. While the cow is producing the 6,000 pounds of milk she consumes her own body and she also supplies the nutrition for the growth of her unborn calf. Quite a heavy task and all the energy used in the life processes comes from the feeds that are supplied to her. Given the right feeds and thing, her function is to convert vegetable feeds in to milk. When the right food is not supplied in sufficient quantity the cow is helpless. And so we see so many cows producing poor, scanty cows during the winter. All of which could be avoided if only the cow owners could see the point, and supply feed in abundance that the best animals could do the work of producing the better fat and profits.

The successful dairy farmer—

1. Uses cows of dairy type, temperament and breeding.

2. Treats his cows gently, keeps them quiet, regular in their habits, comfortable and feeds and milks. Whatever

While Congress was winding up its otherwise busy business, the official congressional committees called at the White House to escort the President to the Capitol. This was done, after circling o'clock, Pennsylvania Avenue, despite the restricted program which cut down the ahtecedent pageantry of the President, escorted by a troop of cavalry and guarded by secret service men, passed along the Capitol he was met at once to the President's room adjoining the Senate chamber and busied himself dispatching stacks of Congress while other became have by his signatured, watching under the constitution got "pocket veteo" if he choose not to sign them.

The parade to the inaugural procession, for the president's journey of the Capitol is always the first part of the actual ceremony, was quite different from that of four years ago for President Coolidge had no outgoing president to accompany. Four years ago, Warren Gamaliel Harding, a picture of robust health so short a time away, rode with the pathetic figure of Woodrow Wilson and with all ceremony gestures to be curbed, stilled cheers intended for him, out of consideration for the unready dying man who rode in the car ships beside him. Little did any one dream that before another inauguration had rolled around, Harding would have preceded Wilson to the great beyond.

When all the party was assumed the senate chamber a comparatively small room which could easily seat 80 senators and attaches, contained more than 700 persons on the floor, with many of these necessarily standing.

Vice-President First.

When all was ready in the chamber, President Coolidge, escorted by the committee on arrangements, was shown into the chamber through the main door and to a seat on the floor at the right hand side of the center aisle, and facing the rostrum on which Vice-President-elect Dawes was immediately escorted to a seat. The Senate chaplain offered an appropriate prayer and Senator Curtis, as president of the Senate, introduced the assemblage to order. A silence settled over the company as Senator Curtis and the Vice-President elect faced each other, then raised their right hands. Senator Curtis read the Vice-President's oath, Mr. Dawes repeated the words as they were spoken, and he

Every business has two doors, the street door and the telephone door.

Those people who are prevented from visiting your store — are you making it easy for them to buy from you by telephone?

Many of them would like to.

Would a polite, intelligent, cheerful voice answer their ring? Would the experience be such a pleasant one that they would wish to repeat it?

We have helped many stores to successfully organize their telephone departments for such trade. It would be a pleasure to help you.

signed the Bible in the hand of Mrs. Taft. Then he turned to the crowd, and, as the roar of applause and cheering died away, began the delivery of his inaugural address.

Amplifying devices on the top of the President's stand made his words clearly and distinctly audible to the edge of the crowd, and microphones placed before him carried his voice throughout the country and to scores of points in the world by radio.

At the conclusion of the President's address the Marine band struck up a lively air; the president took his place at the head of the inaugural procession which was waiting in formation in the streets and avenues converging at the Capitol, and led the way back to the White House by way of Pennsylvania avenue. Senators filed back to the chamber to consider executive business in extra session, and the remainder of the party disbanded.

When the head of the inaugural procession reached the White House it halt ed for a moment while President Coolidge, Mrs. Coolidge, Vice-President Dawes and Mrs. Dawes, members of their immediate families and a few guests including members of the cabinet and ranking officers of the Army, Navy and Marine corps, and the Congressional committee conducting the arrangements, took place in a small stand built over the sidewalk from which they reviewed the procession as it passed by.

The parade was less than an hour in passing the stand, and at the conclusion of the review President Coolidge returned to his office and went to work. Vice President Dawes went to his hotel apartments, planning to go to his office in the Senate to-morrow.

The inauguration, ranking with say 40 its predecessors in a century for simplicity, was over. Certainly it ranked with any of its predecessors for economy. For instead of $100,000 which the local committee had planned to spend on decorations and display, less than $300 actually had been disbursed.

BUSINESS LULL IS SUICIDE CAUSE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

St. Catharines, Ont., Mar. 4—The body of J. Waller Legg, secretary of Victory Lodge Sons of England, was found yesterday morning suspended by a rope from a ladder in an elevator of lodge quarters on Queen street, where he had apparently been dead for hours. A ladder was placed upon two cupboards, and his feet were dangling from the floor indicating that he had kicked the chair from beneath him. No cause can be ascribed for the act other than that he had been worrying from dullness of his business. He conducted a shoe repair shop and was secretary of the Ontario Shoemakers' Convention. He was 50 years of age coming to St. Catharines with his parents as a youth. He called on his books in the hall until midnight leaving with a brother who was in the lodge returning later. His books were complete to the last possible entry.

BELGIAN LOST BOOTS AT A POKER GAME

Sarnia, Ont., March 4—Jules Laymens, a Belgian, is in the Sarnia General Hospital to-day with both feet badly frozen as a result of wandering through Sombra township shoeless in the week-end. Some mystery attaches to Laymen's ordeal, which is believed to have followed a poker game in Detroit in which he lost all his money. He was observed by residents of Sombra town shop Saturday and despite the condition of his feet he gave his would-be rescuers a chase before being caught. Constable Whiting brought him to the city where he hoped to save his feet from amputation.

PETERBORO HONORS BELLEVILLE BOY

Peterboro, March 3—Simon Armstrong, for over 30 years city clerk of Peterboro, was Monday night appointed by the city Council to the superintendency of all city offices, newly created, in what was termed an advancement of the first step towards commission government.

By-law affirming the appointment.

Mr. Armstrong will be superviser control of the following offices, with power to engage and discharge employes, except department heads, to move help from one department to another where needed, and to recommend changes to the City Council: city clerk's office; city treasurer's office; tax collector's office; city engineer's office; assessor's office; market inspector's office; relief office, and sanitary inspector's office. He will have no control of the sewage work of the engineer's department.

The step is taken with the object has "made good," having been a member of increasing efficiency and reducing of the staff ever back, when he expense, and Mr. Armstrong will not receive any increase in salary. He is already secretary to the police commission; secretary to the Board of Health; secretary to all city relief sioner; secretary to the Charity Board; and trade commissioner for the city.

On his way to visit a patient, Dr. John Simon Armstrong is another of the Dewar, 79, Harley-road, Hampstead, widespread Intelligencer family, who was killed by a motor-car.

75% of disease avoided through internal cleanliness

WHEN you are constipated, poisons are formed in the accumulated food waste, and reach all parts of the body. The first results, headaches, biliousness, a feeling of "heaviness", etc., serve as warnings of graver diseases to follow if this intestinal poisoning continues unchecked.

This is why intestinal specialists state that constipation is the primary cause of three-quarters of all illness, including the gravest diseases of life.

Physicians Advise Lubrication for Internal Cleanliness

Medical science has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste, and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus, Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless. Take Nujol regularly and adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. For sale by all druggists.

V.O.N. TO START BABIES' CLINIC IN BELLEVILLE

Important Step in Child Welfare is Being Taken

NURSE KEPT BUSY

Miss Shand Paid 316 Visits During January and February

With the co-operation of the Board of Health, the Belleville Branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses, and the citizens of Belleville, a Mothers' Conference will soon be started here. This is expected to be an important step in child welfare work for it is said that a mothers' conference is really the only satisfactory manner of bringing publishing this work apart from having a doctor in attendance. Another advantage of the mothers' conference would be found in having all babies brought to a central point. This is dispensed with valuable time which is used by Miss Shand. Shand is going from house to house.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Victorian Nurse committee held recently, Miss Shand reported having paid 316 visits during January and February, the greater number of which were for the benefit of the needy citizens, who receive first attention, certain citizens also benefitting. She also intimated that anyone who wishes to attend these clinics phone nursing service may get in touch with her by telephoning 1360.

At the promised mothers' conference, babies found in need of medical attention will be sent to the family doctor.

Besides weighing the babies, advice will be given their mothers as to nutrition, clothing and general health as well as the care of milk.

Steps Out From Shadow Of Gallows

Montreal Man Wanted to Shake Hands With

Montreal, March 5.—There is glad hand being extended to Warden Tobin of Kingston Penitentiary, by Montreal Street. It is the hope of Christopher White, who on some yesterday afternoon was released from the death cell-house, to do so. His wife and children are very joyful over the news today afternoon when the little woman, whose face and spirit have not been triumphed, after twenty-three months of the shadow of the gallows, is to be released from the Kingston Penitentiary.

Since last August 30, when he was arrested on a charge of murdering Violet had been in Bordeaux jail. He spent many weary days in the prison cell, in the very shadow of the stone where being carried out the sentence of death.

But the Court of Appeals ordered a new trial, and how blessed will this once more! Now White is free. He is cleared of suspicion. It is late in life to begin anew but White is not discouraged. He will probably go to another city and begin another career, since now that his innocence is published to the world.

"I want to shake hands with the jury," remarked White yesterday afternoon as he stood vindicated.

"I think Mr. Justice Wilson," returned Justice Wilson, "feel you'd better do it outside the court room."

"I've had a square deal," said White to the Herald after his acquittal.

Then he shook hands with the jurymen and swung away into the bright winter's afternoon wife by his side, to go to the home he left so many weary weeks ago.

A crowd of curious, followed the smiling couple for some distance down the street but they speedily lost sight of a street car and escaped the morbid eyes.

IS TO SUPERVISE BUTTER AND CHEESE

Toronto March 5—Formal announcement of the appointment of Oscar H. Farr, as Dairy Commissioner for the Province of Ontario will be made in a few days, W. B. Roadhouse, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, stated yesterday.

It You Are Fortunate Enough To Catch Miss Dollar, A Five Dollar Bill Is Yours

Sleuths Should Read Instructions Below Carefully: Rules are Few But Definite; Take Note of the Lady's Description

Saturday, March 7th, is Dollar Day and a glance at today's issue of the Intelligencer will prove the rich series of display advertisements setting of the bargain feet which has been arranged by enterprising merchants.

In connection with this event an interesting fun competition is announced which may be summed up in the query, "Who will capture the charming Miss Dollar, and win the five dollar bill which is being given by the Intelligencer?"

The Intelligencer has completed arrangements with a charming young lady who is to co-operate with them by acting as Miss Dollar on Saturday. This young lady, who will be on a continuous shopping tour through stores which display dollar day pennants will be subject to the order of persons, and her capture is worth $5 in the captor.

Mademoiselle Dollar is a decidedly law abiding young lady but there is five dollars upon her pretty head for Saturday only, which goes to the person who captures her. But Miss Dollar must be approached and queried in a regular way, else she reserves the right to refuse to disclose her identity.

The Rules

Here are the rules which must be observed. Firstly, Miss Dollar must be captured in any one of the many Belleville stores which display the Dollar Day pennants. She will be on continuous shopping tour through those stores during Saturday until she is captured, and the ransom forfeited.

When located in any of the Dollar Day stores she must be approached as follows: She person attending towards her must first tap her on the shoulder and say, "You are the mysterious Miss Dollar of the Intelligencer." The person must then produce a copy of the last issue of the Intelligencer—Friday's issue—for inspection. If the copy is Friday's issue Miss Dollar must then immediately surrender herself and straightway accompany the lucky person to the business office of the Intelligencer where the five dollars will immediately be paid over in the "dollar bill."

It is imperative that the exact words of approach as above be used, and that the newspaper be produced. Make sure of the satisfaction words and set papers early. If your approach is not made as prescribed and queried in a regular way, else she reserves the right to refuse to disclose her identity.

Description

Miss Dollar will commence her continuous round of shopping in stores which display the Dollar Day pennants at 8:30 o'clock Saturday morning and here is a partial description of the person to watch for. She is a young lady, 5 feet 2 inches in height, complexion, and her hair is bobbed. Her eyes are brown and she will be wearing a fur coat.

So, forget the rules, get your copy early and may the bravest man win.

Employees of the Intelligencer and Dollar Day signs and their families are not eligible for the hunt.

OLD RESIDENT OF BELLEVILLE PASSES AWAY

In Person of James St. Charles, Much Respected Citizen

IN HIS 90TH YEAR

He Was Long Identified With Interests of Native City

After being in failing health for some time, Mr. James St. Charles, has now entered into rest. He was one of the oldest residents of the city, being in his 90th year. No person in Belleville and the district was better known than Mr. St. Charles, and no person held a greater respect. He was born at Meadow Bank, Hastings County, and for 84 years of age has resided in this city, where he has been a land of 1870. For many years, the late Mr. St. Charles was head of the firm of St. Charles Company, whose reputation for building boats and delivering them in a manner wide. Although a exceptionally busy man, Mr. St. Charles found time to devote some years to municipal politics. In 1877 and 1878 Belleville was a town and was a member of the town council. For three years after incorporation as a city in 1878, 1879 and 1880 Mr. St. Charles was one of the Aldermen for Coleman Ward. For some time he was License Inspector for West Hastings, fulfilling the duties of the office in a manner

Mr. St. Charles was a devout member of St. Michael's Church, found time to fill official for a considerable period. He was also identified with the Masonic Society.

With the Bishop's amendment last Hon. Gideon D. Henry introduced the Government another sub-amendment providing the reappointment of Liberal Leader Sinclair, which was voted down Monday with a violation of his pledge. The Henry amendment declared that "This House, receive with regret the information contained in the section of the House's address to inaugural legislation, which will maintain the principle of the Ontario Temperance Act; while providing such amendments thereto as will destroy illicit traffic in liquor and will create greater respect for an observance of law and order." This motion immediately became the one of prime importance to the Government, and indeed by the vote of 79 to 26, mentioned above. After amendments from J. A. Pirard (Liberal, East Ottawa) for Government control, and from Karl Homuth (Labor, South Waterloo) for abolition of the Ontario Temperance Act, had been overwhelmingly defeated, the House adjourned to Tuesday next, when the debate will be resumed.

FEELING IT YET

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Quebec, March 5.—Reports reached here this week regarding conditions in the Saguenay district, although much lighter than those previously experienced. At Chicoutimi three light shocks were felt yesterday while at La Mal Baie and Les Escoumins a number of disturbances were registered. At Les Escoumins Edmond Dochaine, father of Rev. Abbe Dochaine was forced to vacate his house. Two shocks were felt yesterday at Baie St. Catherine as result of Saguenay River. Tremors were also felt at Petit Saguenay, fifteen miles from Lamar St. John.

Policy Of 4.4 Beer Carried in House

Vote on Amendment Was 79 to 26; Premier Speaks

Toronto, March 5.—By a vote of 79 to 26 the Ontario Legislature last evening adopted the motion for a resolution in the speech from the Throne with which proposition was linked the initial announcement of the Government's 4.4 per cent. beer policy. The motion adopted last night was one of the longest debates in its history and under circumstances which shattered all House precedents. Three votes were taken and five amendments proposed before the final issue was decided, and the unexampled spectacle was likewise witnessed of the chairman being re-opposed and contested after the Prime Minister had spoken.

Outstanding as the fact of a tangle of legislative procedure, however, is the fact that the Government beer policy was carried by a substantial majority and that the Henry amendment to the effect that O. T. A. was not by an equally substantial majority. Upon the latter matter the vote was 81 to 24, T. Lewis (Grey West), and T. Magladery (Renfrew), being bolters from the Government ranks by the latter vote.

FUSE BLEW OUT ON STREET CAR; NINE ARE HURT

Crowd of Eighty Become Panic Stricken at Toronto

FOUGHT FOR EXIT

Men and Women Climbed Out Through Windows

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, March 5.—When the controller fuse on a westbound street car blew out with a bang and flame this morning, eighty passengers were thrown into a panic and in the struggle to make their exit, nine were injured and removed to St. Michael's Hospital for attention.

William Murdock was the only one badly hurt, however, and he is being kept in the institution for a time with almost certain fatal. Murdock, fifty, local motorman, Bonsall was also carried about the face, went home after medical attention.

The fuse blew out with a loud report and the car was left in darkness, quickly extinguished, in the darkness, passengers became panic stricken and fought to get off the car.

Two men climbed their way through rear windows, while others including women made their way out side windows. The fire was extinguished.

WAGE SMALL SCRAP IN EGYPT, REPORTED

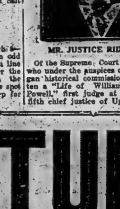

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, March, 5—Special dispatches from Egypt say that a serious unrest there of fighting in the neighborhood of Beni Suef between Italian troops and Bedouins within the past week. Sixty Italians and seven Bedouins were killed and many others wounded in the fighting. Italians are also declared to have been slaughtered in the desert west of Beni Suef and do have suffered considerable losses. Cairo and Egypt are in dispute regarding the latter's western frontier, daily dispatches from Jerusalem state belongs to Tripoli.

Solution

The address of the Government as the present, beer policy before the House was read by Premier Ferguson, explaining the matter comprehensively in relation to the Ontario Temperance Act. The motion immediately became the one of prime importance to the Government, and indeed by the vote of 79 to 26, mentioned above. After amendments from J. A. Pirard (Liberal, East Ottawa) for Government control, and from Karl Homuth (Labor, South Waterloo) for abolition of the Ontario Temperance Act, had been overwhelmingly defeated, the House adjourned to Tuesday next, when the debate will be resumed.

Handling a problem which had been handled by Sir James Whitney before him and declaring his hope of following in the example of that statesman, Premier Ferguson made a statement which was to be the legislature of the Government's Temperance policy. The course of action embodied which lasted for over two hours, he expressed the administration's determination to uphold the fundamental principle and not the superficial privileges of the Ontario Temperance Act and to this end he commended vigorously the observance of the 4.4 per cent. beer amendment. Enthusiastic cheers lasting for several minutes and a vote of 79 to 26 in the Government's favor completed the notable pronouncement.

HELP TO SAVE LIVES

Unfortunately for Belleville, there are a few in the community who do not realize the important step that has been taken in providing a Victorian Order of Nurses branch in this city. There are still some who are inclined to look upon such work as coming under the classification of "frills."

The benefits accruing a public health nursing service are slow in coming to the attention of the public. Great changes in better health cannot be brought about in the course of weeks or months.

In Toronto and Hamilton, public health nurses have been operating for some time. It is in such places that records are available to show just what a splendid work is accomplished.

In both cities, the fight of the various public health agencies which seek to safeguard the health of the child is a larger number of babies each year is one that is triumphing, for a notable decrease in the infantile death rate is shown.

During the year 1920, when the influenza epidemic was raging, there was an increase in the number of deaths of children under one year old, but on the whole the tendency is steadily downward.

Year	Death rate	Toronto
	Hamilton
1909..	134.30	159
1916 ..	115.29	97
1918..	98.80	91
1920..	102.92	89
1922 ..	85.51	74
1923..	71.56	64
1923 ..	67.04	63
1924 ..	64.26	60

In both instances the figures give the death rate per 1,000 of children born. The principal causes of death in this city are mammitricio, gastro-intestinal and pneumonia diseases. Premature births account for nearly one-third of the deaths.

Scores of men toiled to save the life of one man recently—Floyd Collins, entombed in a sand cave. It seems to bring out the value placed on one life.

Is it not reasonable that we should work as energetically to save the life of babies in Belleville?

There is one way of doing it at your command at the present time. That is to give wholehearted support to the Belleville Branch of the V. O. N.

It will not take much trouble to find those who will gladly take your membership at the reasonable cost of one dollar.

ANOTHER RAY OF HOPE

One hundred thousand dollars was the sum spent to get one phonograph record, according to the testimony given by one of those before a legislative committee investigating patents. A fortune for a correct reproduction of one piece of music! What is the music worth now? an amount to record for posterity?—a Beethoven sonata, a Bach prelude, a Chopin fantasy, a Handel oratorio, a Strauss waltz, a Whiteman jazz tune, a national anthem, a radial fish song? No. It was "Nearer My God to Thee."

Of course we are going to perdition fast, but here is one more proof that the world is not half so bad as it has been painted.

POISON BY MISTAKE

The other day a student at the Ohio State University to save a fellow student a few beans entered the dispensary and took a few capsules from a bottle labelled "quinine." The capsules were strychnia, not quinine, and he thus unintentionally killed his fellow student.

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

Far Sight

THE eye is a wonderful organ.

Not the least wonderful thing about it is its ability to accommodate itself to the vision before it.

It can glimpse yonder star, and the stars; it can glimpse downward and see the dust on the ground. It makes this accommodation in a short space of time.

There are some people who have far sight, but are unable to see things close about them. They see the stars, but fall in the ditch.

Such are sailors, who are accustomed to looking in the distance scanning the horizon and steering far off ahead.

In the city men are apt to become near-sighted. They read much. They are accustomed to looking at things close about them.

The street Arab in the city is usually a lively chap. He has the power of quick accommodation. He knows what is going on around him and can quickly suit himself to circumstances. He is accustomed to dodging cars and otherwise looking out for himself.

The Kansas boy from the country is liable to get run over in the city. He had been looking at distance things along the prairie.

But the Kansas boy usually is more to be trusted than the city street Arab. He has more perspective and can see things better in their proper relation.

Many critics lack foresight. They have no far vision. They cannot see into the gist of things. They are merely sophisticated and quickly read what is on the surface.

The ancient distinction was between the sophist and the wise man. Sophism consisted in a dexterous handling of apparent truths, but wisdom meant an observation of hidden truths.

The perfect man has perfect accommodation. He can see that which is distant and can see that which is close. He is adjusts itself.

He has fixed principles, high ideals, and far off goals, but at the same time he is practical. He sees the road which he must travel as well as the end which he must attain.

He sees the difficulties that lie before him and the obstacles he must overcome, as well as the goal that he must attain.

There are very few men in history that have this rare accommodation of qualities. Some were idealists, having no practical knowledge of the way to attain their ideals; others were opportunists and were deficient in idealism.

It is not only necessary to know what is good for ourselves and the race, but it is necessary to know how to attain it. Otherwise we have a Don Quixote like the man who looked at the stars, but tripped up over the obstacles at his feet.

People who have ideals only, but no practical wisdom, are called visionary; people that have merely practical wisdom, but no ideals, are called materialists or opportunists. The right man has the proper balance between the two. He knows the end he is to attain and the road by which he is to attain it.

You might call him an ideal opportunist, or an opportune idealist. At any rate he illustrates the fact that the best man has a balance of qualities.

"I not only use all my own brains, but I can frequently get a good deal of use out of the brains of other people."—Andrew Carnegie.

PERFECT GOVERNMENT

(Kansas City Times).

The U. S. Treasury income a tax of $4 a gallon on all confiscated liquor to be sold as industrial alcohol. The U. S. Department of Justice has declared this tax invalid. he legal staff of the U. S. Treasury does not contemplate the opinion of the Department of Justice. As matters stand, both departments have a hand on the bottle, each asserting jurisdiction, and are glaring at each other much after the fashion of Sairey Gamp and Betsy Prig in immortal romance when the one demanded of the other that she define fair. It is as we say, a triumph of government, because all checks have been stopped, no alcohol is being sold, no taxes are collected and two co-ordinate departments are locked in each other's fell clutch. Temporarily, at least, government has reached perfection. It is doing nothing. Next to going backward, that, we believe, is the best thing that can be taught and learned because is found it not.

THE MORAL 185UE

(From the London Morning Post)

Much against the will of the country, the liquidation of the costs of the war has proceeded, as between the allies, purely financial, and not, as it ought to be, a moral issue. Both a frame of mind and a habit of mind are lacking in Germany. The more the allies quarrel among themselves, the more they give one another, the greater must be the satisfaction on the other side of the Rhine. The Germans know perfectly well that in the end the sanction which imposes on them the obligation to pay so many millions of gold marks to be so many millions of gold marks to be victors is a moral one. They willed the war, and they failed. but they have to pay for that which they have sown. They reap there, of course, into the hands of the great war lord and nothing is left but exacting cruelties and a debtor determination. Nothing gets into the hands of the people.

Dutchy's Diary

Applause And Bluff

A. E. Dutchy, audience inappreciative.

The suggestion came to me in a conversation yesterday with a friend who heard the Orpheum Opera Co. presented by the Prairie Musical Club at the City Hall on Tuesday evening.

It has been very much the fashion of late to decry the life of the fair heroine, as depicted common to widows the modern drama, and with hearty handclapping. Yet at a brilliant performance such as that given by the Prairie Club, those present, while not exactly very much pleased with the singing and acting, refrained from giving tangible evidence of their approval.

I believe there is a predictable ground for a certain amount of restraint on this point. Perhaps we should be more generous to those taking part in the matter of applause.

But at the same time, there is no reason to say that Belleville people are not appreciative. The very fact that so many of our citizens attend such entertainments is a tribute by the Prairie Club is ample proof of this.

Applause Is Welcome

On the way home last night, I walked into some genuine South Tarkington stuff. (Booth Tarkington).

Those of you not acquainted with this writer, who receives half the innermost recesses of the heart and mind of a boy, and who has not a spare moment now as few others have ever done, may accept some violation of the O. T. A. in this statement.

Across the street, 5 young shaver of about ten years was making an invitation to show off his one2 use. He stood a few yards further up the sidewalk and were accompanied by an older boy who looked thirteen or fifteen years.

"Yah! I'll fight the two of yuh!" yelled the lone knight. The canus belli had occured before our arrival.

There was a brief consultation between the couple who were challenged. They were urged to accept the invitation by the older boy, and in a moment started to advance cautiously on the foe.

"Hey! Wait!" It was the challenges speaking, his confidence the approach ing enemy. "I'm not going to fight if he comes two of 'em."

Encouraged by the older boy, apparently not wishing to interfere with a like by battle. "I'll stay back here."

So with disdain and determined mien, the two started on again. When they reached about the half way mark, however, the challenger backed up a step or two. "I'm not—"

This encouraged the advancing troops to charge. The fight is on. In a twinkling the challenger turned his back and reached sanctuary just in the nick of time. Sanctuary happened to be the doorway of a convenient grocery store.

It's easy to bluff, but another matter when your bluff is called.

CRIPPLE CAUGHT IN A BLAZING HOME

Lindsay, March 8.—Tuesday afternoon the fruge residence of Mr. John Teairo on Georgina street together with their contents were totally destroyed by fire. The fire is supposed to have originated from an overheated stove. Mr. Teairo, who is a cripple was alone in the house, at the time, but when the fire was noticed the neighbors he was carried to a nearby home while an effort was made to check the flames. The house was a delay in sending in an alarm, so that when the fire brigade reached the scene the flames were shooting out the door and windows, the fire being beyond control. There was a small insurance on the house.

The ice was in excellent condition which was the cause of a fast game.

Quite a number of Deserontb fans were present to cheer for their team.

Mr. Thos. Madden Rochester, N. Y., who has been in town the past few days renewing acquaintances, returned home to-day. Mr. W. H. Davidson, Picton, was a business caller in town yesterday. Mrs. F. W. Smith and little daughter, Weybro, Sask., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Smith, South Napanee. Mrs. J. P. Vroman is visiting Mrs. J. A. Hogg in Hamilton.

Hold Ploughing Match

October 13, 14, 15, and 16 next were selected as the dates for the big Provincial Ploughing Match to be held on the outskirts of Brockville, at a meeting held in Brockville, and which was attended by a number of citizens who have been behind the scheme of bringing the international affair to the Island City.

Wellington

Wellington Harvey, East Whitby, was badly shaken up when the horse he was driving attached to a cutter ran away Tuesday in front of the fire station and collided with a truck owned by the Electric shop. The cutter was demolished and Mr. Harvey was thrown to the ground. The horse was captured before it had gone any great distance.

Dr. Cameron attended the injuries sustained by Mr. Harvey.

Preaches a Sermon To Poolroom Crowd

Pastor Holds Their Attention Too, Every Saturday Night

It was seven o'clock in the big poolroom of Curt Warner, at Grand Rapids Mich., that game broke. Pipes, cigars, and cigarets were extinguished, blood stops thrown down, and the place was given a thorough airing. The 300 men and youths in the place removed their hats and sat on the tables, waiting.

Then into the room walked the Rev. Earl Cook, Baptist minister. He mounted a table and opened a religious service with a hymn. Then he preached a sermon, and one of the boys took up a collection. The minister departed and the playing resumed.

The Rev. Mr. Cook had proved to Warner that he could hold services in the big poolroom and that the men would like it. He returned twice after that and held services. Now he holds a service in the poolroom every Saturday night.

Warner protested when the minister first asked to hold a service in his room. He gave his consent however, and the first success is being repeated every week.

CHICAGO MARKET

Chicago, March 8.—Wheat underwent further sharp setback in price today after a hesitating start. For a while, the market showed disposition to rally on the fact that Liverpool market held comparatively steady in face of yesterday's big break in prices on this side of the Atlantic. Influence of export business eventually ended also to life values but selling on part of houses with Eastern connections proved too be of much greater volume than could be readily absorbed and May dropped to 1.13 1-4. Opening which ranged from 1¼ to decline to 3-4¢ advance was followed by rise to 1.15 3-8 for May and then by pronounced general setback. Corn and oats were governed by action of wheat. After opening to 1¢ higher than Tuesday corn suffered material drop all round. Oats started at ¼ to ⅜ off to 1¢ up. Later all deliveries showed loss.

In line with hogs values provision market was firmer.

Letters To The Editor

DR. GORDON'S VISIT

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.

Dear Sir:—A number of persons have asked who Dr. S. D. Gordon is and I thought, in view that as Dr. Gordon has never visited Belleville before, at the special mission of Dr. Gordon in our City next week it would be of greater interest to give the information through your paper and I have taken the liberty of addressing this letter to you.

Dr. S. D. Gordon resides in New York when at home. He is a layman and author of note. Among the books he has written are "Quiet Talks on Prayer", "Quiet Talks on Service", "Quiet Talks on Power and "Quiet Talks on Life's Personal Problems". Many of his works are in the library of the Bridge Street Church and may be also found in private libraries in our City.

Dr. Gordon who is a layman, is a speaker and Bible teacher of ability and large crowds flock to hear him both morning and afternoon in Bridge Street.

Dr. Gordon conducts his mission similar to Rev. Dr. Campbell-Morgan on Monday, Dr. Gordon will deal with the subjects of great importance to every one.

A friend of mine, who heard Dr. Gordon in Cook's Presbyterian Church, Toronto, informed me he was a very fine speaker with a charming personality and spoke with a ring of sincere truth with a genuine spirit of fight that won the hearer.

During the present week Dr. Gordon is engaged in The Crescent Presbyterian Church, Montreal, and will answer here Saturday morning taking the service at Bridge Street Church morning and evening on Sunday.

Dr. Gordon is the guest of the Bridge Street Church and The Trustees of the Bridge Street Methodist Church, which is on one of the most central locations in the city, have offered their church. The service is a community service and two will be held each day, one in the Church Parlours at the noon hour and one in the evening in the auditorium at 8 o'clock. Miss Grunert, a splendid pianist, comes with him. The Doctor makes no charge other than the voluntary offering and the Trustees feel, right and proper, the place of meeting without charge and it is hoped by many Christian workers of the city that during this Lenten period all bearing the name of Christian will rally to this banner and not only support these meetings with prayer but attend in such numbers that the large church will be crowded to the door.

Dr. Gordon is only giving addresses in five or six of the leading places in Canada and Belleville is to be congratulated for securing his services.

F. E. O'Flynn.

Final at Recreation. Witnessed by Capacity House Last Night

In a game witnessed by a capacity house at the Recreation alleys the Mah Jongs, champions of the league, came from the Wanderers, who won the winter league in the early fall for the Recreation License trophy and the Recreation alleys championship. The Mah Jongs got their start in the first and second game and night, there they tucked the game away, the latter getting a lead of 134 pins in the first game and another 176 in the second having a lead of 310 pins on the two games, in the third lady luck changed, the Wanderers getting most of the breaks and making a comeback to win out, but that was very too many and down to win cutting down their opponents lead 110 pins. Miss Wilson kept high bowler with 321 for the Mah Jongs and Mrs. Thomas was high for the Wanderers with 284. Flaxen and scores:

Rockers Hounds run the Nevers Down in the C. N. R. Night Hawks league by 207 pins. Gardiner being in the best of form splitting the maple for a total of 224 and with 536 was high man for the session.

The Wolves of the North suffered their first defeat at the hands of the Rovers in the ladies afternoon C. N. R. league. Jack bowlers were Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Tyers.

The Industrials are still in the winning mood, when they won from the Reguisitioners in the O. I. A. league the Industrials have still to lose a game and the way their hitting them I hardly see if they will go through the league with out a loss. T. Burrell as usual was high man for the winners and Tedman was high for the losers.

The Belle Motors dropped out of the league so the Alemite took their place and although the boys got a real treat mixing at the hands of the Nat. Castings they are coming back stronger next week for more. Mr. Higgs was hitting the ole pill right on the nose and had a total of 677 and Nor Turner only 5 pins down with 632. For the Alemite, Clarke rolled the highest score.

The Soo's Office team No. 1 and the Express Dept. had a real close and exciting game until the former team won out by only 31 pins. The Express team were down 49 pins going into the third game and had changed to the last alley to get the pitch but it wasn't enough to win out by 31 pins at the total. Mr. Wilson's were Buchanan and Young.

In beginning to look as if the Hikers are going to win the winter schedule in the senior league. Last night they put away the Hardware by 202 pins and took a tighter hold of first position honors. The Hikers won the first game by over 300 pins and the second by a few more for the third the Hardware came back strong rolling 926 but the Hikers were right behind them with 944.

By Optometrists this is called presbyopia. Every one who lives long enough has presbyopia. It begins quite early in life, and constantly increases. Glasses are the one and only correction. And they must be changed at intervals as the eyes of such a person steadily lose their focusing power. If you are middle-aged or more, you ought to remember the above.

Five Classified Groups Compete at Y.M.C.A. Here

March is the month of the Junior Hexathlon. TRY Showing in the senior section was very gratifying, still it is hoped that the Juniors will do as well. In the Junior section the Hexathlon is divided into five groups according to weight and age so that a boy is competing only against boys of his own size. The groups are as follows, 65 to 80 lbs. under 90 under 110, under 125, over 125 five groups of 6 events each and there are under 16 years of age. There are will be over 15,000 boys in North American with whom we will be in competition in this the excellent contest, the Axe stations are also divided into groups according to membership total so every Belleville boy has a good chance to make a mark for his home town.

HAMILTON WON IN GREAT BATTLE

Hamilton March 5.—Hamilton defeated St. Patricks 3 to 2, and clinched first place in the N.H.L. here last night in a game replete with thrills and witnessed by a record crowd. For two periods the team battled on even terms, first one team taking the lead and then the other. "Hal" Green scored the winning tally for Hamilton shortly after the final period opened, and the Hams put up a great struggle defending it.

For the Irish Day, Dye and Neville were prominent. The former although well watched, gave Forbes many a hard shot to handle while the other was even dangerous throughout. Burch and the Green brothers were best for Hamilton. They accounted for all the goals and turned in a perfect game defensively.

St. Pat.—Hockey; Randall; right defence, Corbeau; left defence, McCafferty; centre, Adams; right wing, Day; left wing, Day; subs, Neville, Reid, Holway, Colch and Smythe.

The Summary

First Period

1. St. Patricks ..... Day 3
2. Hamilton ..... Burch 1.50

Second Period

3. Hamilton ..... H. Green 3.20
4. St. Patrick's ..... Dye (Dye) 5.30

Third Period

5. Hamilton ..... R. Green 2.30

Final score: Hamilton 3, St. Patrick's 2.

EXCELSIORS WON IN Y.M.C.A. FIXTURE

Last night at the Y Alleys the Excelsiors and Whistles met and the Excelsiors proved victors by 186 pins. In the first game both teams bowled all the way and when the last man had rolled the Excelsiors were up one pin. In the second game the Excelsiors came strong while the Whistles fell by the wayside and the former were up 176 pins and in the third game they had a lead down 2 pins difference. W. Harden of the Excelsiors carried off the single game with a 254 and L. Barrett the three string with 630.

A PERFECT DOLL

FLORENCE MACBETH

Reviving "The Tales of Hoffman" The Chicago Civic Opera Company unexpectedly discovered a perfect "Doll" in the person of Florence Macbeth, noted coloratura soprano whose ideal representation of this mechanical figure are prime sensations of the season's opera.

The composer, Offenbach, must have forgotten that the exceptionally difficult music had to be sung by the character in a posture of perfect rigidity, an almost humanly impossible task. The opera is seldom produced on this account. Prior to this revival the Chicago Company had conducted a thorough but vain search for an ideal "Doll," throughout the musical centres of the world. Finally Director Johnson thought of Miss Macbeth, with the remarkably gratifying result.

English Inkeeper Taught Lesson That Rip Van Winkle" Unconsciously" Missed

(Associated Press Despatch)

Windermere, England, March 5.—The proprietor of a leading hotel in this district will not, with any eye open for the future, ever be wise. For this he accounts by the bounty court judge or failing to let a stranger in the hotel for several hours one morning.

The traveller told the court he was stranded through his baggage being lost and tried to obtain admission to the hotel at 5 o'clock in the morning. At that hour the proprietor was after 7 when he got in and during the wait was exposed to rain and cold. The court will not say how he did not beat the action in a vindictive spirit, but it wish ed to register his protest against the proprietors' reluctance to admit travellers and to show him that innkeepers had a duty to the travelling public which they were bound to carry out.

The court upheld his views and fined the proprietor.

WERE UNABLE TO BREAK CRUCIAL TIE

Bouchers and Ideal hockey teams at the city league game battled thirty minutes overtime in their crucial game at the arena last night, but were unable to break the tie, which was then into overtime also, each minutes of real hockey on good ice which was witnessed by a splendid following of rabid fans.

This was the second game necessary because of the game contest in which knotted the league when National Castings, Boucers and Ideals scored matters up. Boosters got National Castings aside recently and that was supposed to decide which team Wolves of the North for the brown derby and city champ laurels.

Skirt Above Knee Is Latest Mode

Paris Fashion Leaders Are Going to Extremes Again

New York, March 3.—Skirts above the knees and even much facial hair less than heretofore with eye lashes curled and eyes painted red, are the latest fashions decreed for women by Paris fashion leaders, according to the latest news style edicts. Word that Parisian women are wearing their skirts above knees was brought back by women returning yesterday on the steamship Olympic. One of the most startling messages on the steamer were skirts reaching only to their knees but this, even, was a modification of the Paris style. Increase in facial hair was described by Miss Nina Boldin, beauty doctor, speaking before the beauty hair dressers association convention. The new Paris make up she said includes in addition to bright red lips, reddened ears and nostrils and blue or brown lidded eyes.

Paris beauty experts also are giving special attention to eye lashes which now now made to curl, she said.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

"Here comes our belle, Lady Blanche!"

"Yes? How pretty she is!" says Lady Blanche at once, "I think she is the loveliest woman I have ever seen."

Mrs. Lelwood, then replied, "Indeed, she is a cousin of yours, I suppose?"

"Oh, yes," assents Lady Blanche. "I hope I shall be able to speak to her soon."

She is warranted in expressing the doubt, for Elaine is already surrounded and the proud major has the satisfaction of beating new-comer Chadwick for a dance; but presently, while Elaine is trying to destroy her dancing impartiality, May Bradley, who has been waiting and watching for her opportunity breaks through the throng and catches her by the arm.

"You wicked girl! How late you are! It's no use, Major Hope, I'm not going to let her give all her dances away in a moment! Elaine, send them all away and let them wait!" And she drew Elaine from the major's arm, up against the wall. "Oh, my dear, how beautiful you look! There's no one in the room who is half as pretty as you, so well dressed! No, not even the great Lady Blanche—how I hate dear, sweet, kind Lelwoods. Did you know she was coming?"

"Who?" said Elaine, half laughing. "I don't know whom you mean. I don't—how—where are my partners?"

"Why! Why, Lady Blanche, Lord Delaloy's daughter; your cousin, dear!"

Elaine looked rather surprised.

"My cousin! Yes, I think there is a Lady Blanche, but I have never seen her. And is she here?"

"Yes—there, look now! That fair girl in the low dress—how cold and proud you didn't know she was here! She is staying with the Bannisters [illegible] tremendously rich—I thought her just perfect until you came in, but now! What is the matter? to make everything you wear look as if it grew on you? Come, do sneak for a minute, Mr Markiel" she broke off in despair to a young fellow who came upon them hoping to steal a [illegible] dance, "I shan't forgive another chance to say a word to her, perhaps, and there's a dance due, Elaine! Elaine—"

"Will has he come?" said Elaine with a smile.

"No—not yet. But he may; and—and—Elaine, don't forget! You'll have to be awfully artful, for the girls—he—he—he

'Poisoned Paradise' Starts To-night in Belleville

There is now being shown at the Belle Theatre a picture of so unusual a merit and of exceptional interest that it is hard to reduce it to the ordinary critical formulas. That production is entitled Poisoned Paradise, its latest release by Preferred Pictures Corporation.

In respect to story, atmosphere, settings and acting we do not hesitate to place this new film by Schulberg production among the choicest offerings of the current season. The basis for this splendid photoplay is Robert W. Service's novel entitled "Poisoned Paradise" and we venture to say that in all the masterpieces of writing which this widely read author has given us, none approached this thrilling tale of Monte Carlo in exciting incidents or finely drawn character portrayals.

Superb Setting

From the opening views of the Monaco principality in the Mediterranean from the sea, the picture is charged with beauty. There are many "Service" shots, positively breath-taking in their magnificence and in addition to these the art director agreed no pains to supply lovely bits of the "Alps" farther inland.

But in pointing out the producers' achievements in making "Poisoned Paradise" a splendid picture we do not let us not forget the story which can be recommended to those desiring something entirely new. Against the fascinating background of the Monte Carlo Casino with its gaming tables where human happiness is recklessly staked on the whirling roulette wheel there unfolds a love story of two young people—an English artist and a young Parisian milliner—who finds themselves unconsciously drawn to each other to the very midst of an intrigue upon which hang the existence of the fair consort.

"Born Rich" Will Appeal to Many

Is An Unaffected Story That Leaves a Good Impression

"Born Rich," a First National picture which is now showing at the Griffin Theatre, accords out of the ordinary and, in our estimation, one of the finest of this season's cinematic offerings. While the atmosphere of the Fifth Avenue picture is as simple and unaffected as a letter from home, many "sophisticated" appeal that is so bound to the hearts of some mysterious manner the tale wriggled itself into the heart and succeeded in charming us and giving us pleasant evening's entertainment. Story, direction, settings, photography and acting combine to make this picture one that is responsible for a photoplay that is entertaining in the highest degree. It is a dramatic triumph, but it is just as convincingly a humorous and its bobbing bonne-two ingredients that the perfect picture must possess to be successful.

Hughes Corbett, the author of the novel on which the picture is founded, has given us a pulsating story of the every-day, colorful people. In the competent hands of Director Will Ley who made the picture for Colby Pictures Corporation, the tale has been transferred to the screen in such a way considerable credit is due to the highly versatile cast of players. Mr. Nat. Pendleton Dorris Kenyon, Colien Landis, J. Barney Sherry, Mary Turner Gordon Frank Monroe and Jackie Ott.

"Born Rich" is a thoroughly presented story, told smoothly and eloquently and well-filled. Entertaining as it is gracefully portrayed, and we recom it to one of the pictures that are well worthy seeing.

THE SPLICING OF ROPE

MAY SAVE THE FARMER MUCH TIME AND TROUBLE.

Rope is Made of Cotton, Hemp, Jute and Flax—Strength of Manilla Rope — Short, Long and Side Splices — Rope Halters Are the Strongest.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

Rope for stock halters, hay fork and grain sling equipment, the tying of animals or materials, hoists or building is used in every farmstead. A knowledge that will enable the farm boy to tie quickly the various knots and hitches will save much time and trouble. The possibility of accident on all operations where rope is used, is greatly reduced by making a broken hay fork rope at the time when it is most needed will save hay, time and trouble.

Rope Material.

Rope is made of various materials such as cotton, hemp, manilla, sisal, jute and flax. The rope most frequently used on the farm is made from hemp, imported from Manilla. Commercially, rope is made in sizes of three or four strand. The four-strand rope is the strongest being the three-strand of equal diameter.

Strength of Manilla Rope.

The following are the various diameters of manilla (three-strand) rope is about one-sixth of the actual breaking strain. A three-strand manilla rope of one inch diameter under a load is under the load that while the breaking load is nearly 6,500 pounds. Half-inch rope should not be subjected to a load greater than 300 pounds, for the last and give service. The breaking strength of half-inch manilla rope is 1,600 pounds. A three-quarter inch rope can be expected to carry 525 pounds as a safe load. Rope is subject to very great risk to both material and speed. Rope should not be used over small pulleys or runs it is to to the rope and the stress. Less time is the hay fork pulleys used are less than eight inches in diameter, and are very hard on the rope, causing heavy strain, wear and early destruction. By employing extra rope, with increasing the rope's resistance to weathering. Rope will not absorb about twenty-five per cent. Rope should be kept dry.

The Short Splice.

The short-splice is of great service. It is the method used in making the weaving of the strands of two threerope ends together so that the size of a splice increases the diameter at the point of splice to the extent of making the type of splice objectionable if the rope is to be run over pulleys. The short splice is best employed in the ends of the two pieces of rope that it is desired to splice together so that if the rope is one inch in diameter, the two ends should be unlayed for about 24 inches. After unravelling wrap the ends of the strands to prevent them unravelling. Bring the strands together by tying by pairs with an overhand knot close to the unlayed ends of the ropes being joined by the splice. Tie this knot, the ends completed by weaving the strands into the rope in both directions, one tuck of a tapered abd pointed wooden pin to open the strands. These ends are passed under every other strand for a distance of six or eight inches each way from the center of the splice. This done the remaining ends of strands are cut of and then work completed.

The Long Splice.

This type of splice is used where it is desired to make a union of two pieces of rope and to retain nearly the same diameter at the splice. A long splice is a favorite rope splice and can be composed of not more than four strands at any one time. The length of the union is very much greater than that of the short splice. To make a long splice count off sixteen turns from the ends to be spliced and mark by tying a piece of twine around. Unlay the rope ends down to the mark of twine and whip the ends together to begin the splice. Develop the further by weaving the three strands, and the ends can be woven into the rope as with the short splice and the union developed. The strands should be cut off close to the end and tucked in out of the way, leaving a long smooth splice.

The Side Splice.

The side splice is frequently useful where it is desired to join two ropes of the same or of different sizes. It is extensively used in halter making. This splice should always be made so that the pull is in the same direction as the spliced in rope strands.

Rope Halters.

Rope halters of various types and sizes can be easily made by any handy farm boy. The rope halter has the advantage of being stronger and more halters made from leather or cotton web. The cost of the home-made rope halter is very low compared with cost of the rope—if the work of making is done in wet or stormy days.—L. Stevenson, Dept. of Extension, O. A. College, Guelph.

Care of Strawberry Plantation.

The care of the strawberry plantation during the fall months will determine very largely the size of the crop next year. Clean tillage should be maintained. It is especially important to keep down the perennial weeds, such as plantain and dock.

No farmers' organization can continue to live that is managed arbitrarily. It is likely to succeed only as members develop a living, active spirit of mutual effort which must be manifested in the board of directors.

Wasn't the First Earthquake Here

First Recorded in New England Was Back in June 1638

Among the Indians, traditions exist of several severe earthquakes of early times. The first recorded in the annals of the white settlers is that occurring in New England on 1st June, 1638 (a year after the landing of the Pilgrims). Chimneys were thrown down, and in some places it was difficult to walk steadily. This distinct action was preceded and accompanied by a noise resembling distant thunder. On 29th October 1663, a great earthquake was reported, but no details are available.

On 26th January, 1668, a violent earthquake occurred over New England and parts of Canada, New York and Pennsylvania. The earth rocked heavily, and great fissures appeared: there were landslides on the hills, and trees were prostrated: springs and streams disappeared, the channels of others were changed and the water in many cases discharged with sulphurous gases as to be unfit for use. The great shaking lasted for several minutes, and trembings continued for half an hour. Three lesser shocks occurred the same evening, and several during the following days.

On 29th October, 1727, another severe earthquake shook New England, and was felt from Pennsylvania to Maine, in which sand and sulphurous ashes were ejected from the fissures.

The most severe earthquake ever known in New England occurred on 18th November, 1755. The rocking and jarring continued for more than four minutes and was felt at Halifax and for 'out at sea.' At Marin's the West Indies the sea receded five feet and rolled back to six feet above the normal level.

Lasted a Year

The greatest earthquake of historic times in America was the so-called New Madrid Earthquake, which began on 16th December, 1811, and did not entirely cease for more than a year. It is famous in geologic history as the only known quaking of a river valley for removed from volcanic formations.

The first shock came at 2 a.m., and was preceded by a heavy, dull, rumbling noise. A second shock came at daylight. The ground rose and fell in long waves, the beaches of trees were interlocked, and cracks opened through which immense quantities of sand and water with coal in some cases were thrown out, covering fertile fields to the depth of two or three feet.

Large areas of land were uplifted, and others engulfed. The tops of many oaks were snapped off, while many others were split from the roots up and overthrown. Lakes and ponds disappeared and forests and bottom lands became swamps or sand wastes. The Mississippi river was thrown into immense waves which tore down adjacent bluffs and felled acres of tall timber.

SPRING SENSATION IN NOVA SCOTIA

Halifax, N.S., March 5.—The sensation of the session of the Nova Scotia Legislative Assembly came just before adjournment when D. G. MacKenzie leader of the Opposition, gave notice of an amendment to the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, calling attention to the state of finances heightened by the recent Cabinet shuffle, the industrial situation, and the belief that the present Government has not the confidence of the people. It came just as Hon. J. A. MacDonald, K.C., moved an adjournment, in addition on the address, following two long speeches by Hon. William Chisholm, Minister of Public Works and Mines, and others amplified. The topic of many

Famous Spanish Prisoner Jailed

International Crook Caught After 50 Year Career

Washington, March 5.—General Ramon de Santa Cruz, nephew of Rafael de Santos and again J. de S., but internationally known as the "Spanish Prisoner," at last has been jailed. His arrest ended a career of petty fraud, and it is said to have been the fourth story he told its first element of truth.

A report to the State Department said he "General" had been apprehended in Madrid and was for the first time in his career actually a prisoner. The records in the case as reported from time to time, show that he victimized many people on this continent by his ostensible scheme, despite publicity given during the years he operated.

The "Spanish prisoner" proved to be a bankrupt imprisoned on that charge and concerning a fortune of $300,000 money concealed some where in a portmanteau in a secret pocket. From persons who offered to assist him in the recovery of his fortune on promise of a reward of $125,000, with a cash advance from the victim always stipulated he is alleged to have reaped a fortune for himself.

MINES PROMISING IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Stewart, B.C., March 5.—Advices returns from Denver Gold mine show that a sample, shipment of ore from the Esperanza mine at Alice Arm contained 39 percent tungsten, which gives the value per ton of ore at $351. The mine had previously been worked for the silver contents in the ore. A shipment of 60 tons of low-grade ore and 120 tons of high-grade ore has recently been made to the Anyox smelter.

According to those in charge of development at the Independence mine, a cross-cut from the end of the main drift, 400 feet from the portal, has penetrated 12 feet of ore without reaching the opposite wall. The vein is now what reached, but contains considerable galena and chalcopyrite ore. An encouraging feature is that the ore is more plentiful at the bottom of the drift than at the top.

Diamond drilling commenced last week at the Glacier Creek mine, the machine being set up at the mouth of the tunnel. Present plans are for 2,000 feet of holes to be driven, prospecting the veins at their depth.

ALEX FERGUSON DIES ON STREET

Schomberg, Ont., March 5—While walking on a Schomberg street about three o'clock Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Alexander Ferguson, ex-M.P.P., was suddenly stricken with heart failure, falling to the sidewalk and dying before a doctor could be called. Until the time of the seizure, Mr. Ferguson who had come to the village from his farm about two miles away on the Third Concession, Tecumseh Township, had appeared to be in excellent health. He was one of the best-known and most highly respected residents of the district, and his sudden death came as a great shock to relatives and friends.

SIR ADAM BECK IS ILL AT HOSPITAL

Baltimore, Md., Mar. 5.—Sir Adam Beck, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission is ill at the John Hopkins Hospital here, where he has been for the past week.

At the hospital, attaches said Sir Adam Beck was suffering from a run down condition and that although his health is reported to be improved he will remain at the institution for two or three weeks longer.

Cultivates Ape Along Human Lines

Berlin Professor Hopes to Develop Soul and Intellect

Berlin, March 5—An attempt to convert an ape into a human being is made in the home of Professor Pfungst, a scientist, is being made here.

The ape is young and hairy, broad of chest, and bow-legged, but each night it is given a bottle, rocked in its nurse's arms, and then tucked between the silk quilts of a dainty little cot.

Professor Pfungst is through in his experiment. The nurse croons lullabys to the ape, tempers its bath water, and pins and buttons various articles of its wardrobe. The ape has started to suck its thumb, which scientists say is by no means a characteristic of its ancestors.

"Hope in time to develop in the ape a soul and intellect," Professor Pfungst says.

PROF. J. WATSON BAIN, F.R.S.C.

Head of the department of chemical engineering in the faculty of applied science, University of Toronto, who says that chemistry is playing an increasingly important part in artificial food production.

Lady Astor, Member of Parliament has been ordered in the country for two or three weeks complete rest and quietude. Owing to her "temperament" due to strain from her constant political and social activities, Lady Astor once or twice each year is commanded by her physicians to seek quietude for a short spell.

Hints For Motorists

WHAT IS YOUR LICENSE NUMBER

When motorists purchase their automobile license plates, it is a good plan to make a memorandum of the numbers in order that the police will have some clue to enable them to find stolen cars. Many people have had to ask the police to help them find cars which had been stolen. The only information they could furnish was the make of car and a few minor identifications. The majority of them had forgotten their license numbers and had not yet received their 1925 registration cards which show the number.

Every year at this time automobile thefts increase because thieves are aware of the fact that only a few motorists have received registration cards and that a majority of them have forgotten their license numbers.

KEEP PIPES OPEN

On some cars there is a tube from each brake drum housing which is supposed to offer an outlet for excess grease that happens to be thrown off by the wheel bearings. Unless these pipes are kept open grease is likely to get on the brake bands. Run a piece of wire through the pipes now and again to keep them from getting clogged with dirt.

CYLINDER HEAD GASKETS

Tighten the nuts on the cylinder head if water or oil leaks at the cylinder head gasket. This also applies when a blistering noise is heard on a hard pull. If that does not stop the leak, the gasket should be replaced with a new one. With a defective gasket, water may leak inside the cylinder with the result that either the cylinder head or piston may be broken on starting the engine.

PRIMING THE PUMP

If the oil pump has been taken off for any reason, or the connection removed, it is necessary to prime it before running the engine, provided the pump is the type that is above the oil level. This is done by squirting in an oil can full of engine oil through the top connection before attaching the top oil lead.

HILL CLIMBING TRICKS

There are several points one should keep in mind when trying out new cars, and they apply equally as well to all makes and models. Perhaps the most important is that hill climbing ability and performance can be faked. The driver has little control over the riding qualities of the car, and the body is appealing or it isn't, but the hill climbing stunt needs analysis.

By loosening the brake bands, putting more air in the tires, making the carburetor mixture richer carefully adjusting the tappets and using enough oil for engine lubrication a car can be made to do wonders. Add to this a skillfull driver who knows that it doesn't pay to choke the engine with gas and the deception is complete.

A thief, described as more than six feet tall and well built, snatched a purse containing $2 from Mrs. J. S. Forgue, 72 years old, while she was on her way home from church in Windsor.

Service

I am little or large as circumstances require.

I am the "servant in the house," and in the busy market place or humming factory.

I am at the call of children and am commanded by grown-ups.

There is no time when I may not be needed but at times I am needed more than at others.

Frequently I may volunteer but often I am summoned and then it is I may be large in others' estimation though still small in my own.

Usually I can empty the mind with little effort but sometimes only with considerable sacrifice and then I am not always sure that I am as fully appreciated as I should be, though this makes very little difference.

However this may be I am a necessity to the welfare and happiness of others to the well-being and progress of humanity, and to the advancement of civilization, accomplishing what money can not do nor wholly what it can pay for.

True, I am sometimes paid for though not always, because price can never exactly measure worth, and this is always the case when benefits extend to society as a whole for society expects that which it can not or does not do for itself.

I live in hope that what I do will inspire others to do and hope is in some measure realized for there is human progress.

Still, I am so necessary to life that without me there would be suffering because of needs unsupplied, because of wrongs unchecked, because of evils unrestrained.

I must ever be alert no matter what the circumstances.

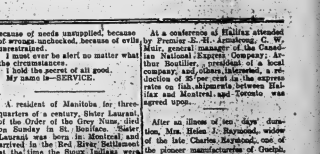

I hold the secret of all good.

My name is—SERVICE.

Canada to U.S.A. Doesn't Like Quota

Thinks Immigration Law for Canadians Satisfactory As It Is

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, March 4.—Another interpretation of Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, prominent member of the Senate Immigration Committee, on the workings of the immigration law in Canada, the opposite of its enforcement, make it plain that no important changes in that law will be possible in the near future. As Senator Reed "sizes it up" there is no desire for overhauling the law. So he favors it to remain "still and as it was" for the present. Senator Reed is one of the Senators whose influence for the 2% law will be largely responsible for it. No quota law with respect to Canada is likely to be passed by Congress. Questions there has been a sharp influx of Mexicans into the United States, and those referring to Canada and Newfoundland state:

"It is a mistake that a native-born citizen of Canada or Newfoundland may come to the United States for a short visit year after year, as he may under the law, and live indefinitely in the States, however outside of the quota, we not to exceed 300,000 and we have only 3,000,000, a year gain of 187,000 Canadians who has taken off, through return visits, and do not wholly intentionally having no thrift to do with. The reason for this is because there are still free to come that has fallen off, and the free list as months ago. Many have not gone over 1,000. I do not regard that as a problem. Even if they do come in at the rate of 187,000 Canadians a year, some native-born Canadians, chiefly in mining people who go almost every season, are leaving the United States con stantly.

"As we said at the beginning, we see in peace we find that the most phenomenon has occurred before. Great numbers of them, perhaps a million in the three years usually years of prosperity here and then the pole ebbs and the tide sance is the other way. More Americans going to Canada. We don't know, they seem to me to be a problem in any case.

"On the other hand, in return for the neighborly attitude we show to Canada, Canada allows us to place at her ports, like Halifax, Montreal and Vancouver, our own public immigration officials to examine immigrants who come in through those Canadian ports are examined by the American officials as to their suitability for coming into the United States. It is an entirely satisfactory arrangement. It works very well and the examination is very rigid. I find that about 5,000 immigrants coming to the United States are examined in those six months in Canadian ports instead of American ports. As a matter of fact it is practically impossible to prevent their coming across the border if they get into Canada, even if we try to do it. We have a low land border which is difficult to guard, and it is much better, from our standpoint, to examine the immigrants before they get into Canada and let them alone at will that inasmuch as than it is to provide a Canadian quota, which is an unenforcible thing anyway and practically impossible to enforce."

He added that whatever the cause Canadian immigration has fallen off about one-third in August last fiscal year.

CROSS WORD FAN DISCOVERED BLAZE

Cayuga, March 4.—Crossword puzzles have been the subject of many debates, and those who have held that they are useless have to depend largely on theory to support their contentions as we have positive fiction merely had to point to the midnight oil being burned.

Cayuga today is giving thanks that it had one really rabid "fan." Harry Heaslip, who said that he early became fond with the problems presented by the intricate (or few strange) arrangements of letters and black squares. One night recently soundsleep and he turned in the wee hours he noticed smoke pouring from the basement of a store owned by A. F. Curtis and J. J. Patterson.

A four letter word beginning with F and ending blaze," he shouted, and the synonym occurred to him, he immediately sounded the alarm and a group arrival of the firemen succeeded in extinguishing the blaze which had started in a pile of rubbish.

WAS SPEEDING TO PREVENT SPEEDING

Toronto, March 4.—In an effort to keep down speeding among its drivers, a certain bakery company in Toronto employs an inspector's car, which travels at reduced directions after the other cars. This automobile is a motorcycle cop. The company claims that this is cheaper than paying fines for motoring offences. The car was observed by P. Tom speeding at 45 miles per hour on King street west in Hamilton Police Court the company explained the functions of its inspectors car and signed them a reason why no fine should be imposed.

DISCOVER BONDS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Vienna, March 4.—A local paper asserts that the Inter-Allied Military Commission has discovered ten thousand bonds filled with imperishable gases in the Hradan Powder Works, 15 miles from Vienna, revealing that the bonds, were property of a private bank of the districts Gorz-Gradisca.

BABY AEROPLANES TO BE MARKETED

London, March 4.—Another device will shortly be added to the quiet-loving old ladies in the suburbs and rural parts of England. This is a baby airplane, fitted with a 40 horse-power engine which will be marketed for a few pounds. It is claimed in addition of a garden, this machine will be capable of safe and easy flight indoors, conspicuously convenient.

The invention, it is said, is being put on the market by a well-known firm of motor manufacturers, and will probably make the airplane as popular as the motor car.

WHEN FOOD FAILS

There are thousands of people who do not get the proper nourishment from the food they eat, because their digestion is defective. Food that lies undigested in the stomach is not sweet by reason it will ferment and poison your system. Flatulence and sour stomach is the throat follow and undigested food will become a chronic dyspeptic.

By toning up the stomach to do the work nature intended, you will receive the cause of indigestion. Nothing will more promptly restore the digestive organs than Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Stomach, nerves and glands all depend on the blood and when the pale skin and weary heart of nervousness, it is because of their action in building up and purifying the blood that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved successful in so many cases of indigestion where ordinary medicines have failed. Those who use this blood quickly tones up the digestive organs, the appetite improves and you are able to eat with comfort and get full nourishment from your food. You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c a box from The Dr. Williams edicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Japan Hesitates In Making Protest

Over United States Naval Manoeuvres Off Philippines

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Tokio, March 5.—Mass meetings have been held here with a rumbling clamor for drastic action by the Japanese government in effect if Hughes made the United States from holding naval manoeuvres off the coasts of the Hawaiian Islands and the Philippines this summer. But sober opinion in this country seems to be that the matter will be handled diplomatically by Japan.

"The nation's liberal statesmen point out, however, that the masses are not sufficiently educated to realize that the proposed American manoeuvres are reasonable enough. They themselves recognize that so far as the Pacific is concerned, the only reason for the maintenance of a strong navy by the United States is the prospect of trouble with Japan, and that the sole purpose behind Japan's determination to be well represented on the high seas is the possibility of war with Great Britain or the United States.

"We naturally do not even suggest that there may be war between Japan and the United States or Great Britain but obviously there would be no need for us to maintain a great navy to protect ourselves from any other power, and the same argument may be used by the Americans and the British," said a Japanese parliamentary leader recently. "Because of that control we regard the American manoeuvres as a matter of course. The Hawaiian Islands and the Philippines are America's possessions and it is natural that the United States should make preparations to protect them. However, they is no object in drawing our eyes to the fact that the majority of the Japanese people do not see it in that light. They regard the scheme as a direct affront to their nation."

The futility of a Japanese threat is seen by those who have any conception of this country's present resources.

"It is the extremity of folly to think that there would be war between Japan and the United States," said Kotaro Mochitani, prominent Kenseikai member of the House of Representatives, who has maintained that the present bureaucratic policy of the Japanese foreign office is "effeminate and prevaricating."

"Suppose war should break out. How about Japan's supply of oil, cotton, agricultural operations against America?" he asked. "We have neither coal, nor iron, nor oil, or much of any other essential material for war. Even if we suppressed all private consumption of these materials, the resources in Japan are not sufficient for one year of war with America for two months. In addition, Japan's industry is not sufficiently developed to be able to convert her railways into war materials at a moment's notice, or even in time to be of value. Labor could we get aeroplanes, for example? Impossible!

"I may add, however, that the Japanese people are very sensitive to an affront to honor, and any affront to Japan at the hands of any foreign nations, if carried too far, may drive the people to war without taking counsel with the responsible heads of the nation. It must be remembered that the Japanese are taught from childhood that it is better to perish than to live in dishonor."

The growing pessimism invading the continuance of friendship between Japan and the United States at the present time are said to be: Modification of the Washington agreement regarding fortifications in Hawaii; modification of the manner in which the immigration bill was handled; and through co-operation between Japan and America in China. These are the problems at any rate, that are put forward by the statesmen who have had opportunity of making the most thorough study of international affairs.

MAY PROVE BOON TO TOTALLY DEAF

Chicago, March 5—Total deafness may be a thing of the past as a result of a new device which recently was tested. The device, somewhat like a radio receiving outfit, enables a teacher to talk to deaf persons, who hear through phones strapped to their ears. Experiments with the device have proved successful, and many persons who never have been able to hear, have been able to distinguish sound through the device.

Human Life Made Stake at Poker

Woman Won, in New Mexico and Shot Male Companion

In the world annals of crime there is nothing on record similar to the result of a drunken bout being investigated by the police of Mexico City, Mexico.

Concepcion Saucedo, a railroad employe, arrived in the city after an absence of some years. Bent on having a real good time and with his pockets bulging with money, he soon got on the track of two women acquaintances, friends of his when he was last in the capital.

"Two three proceeded on a joint around the lower quarters of the city, patronizing all of the saloons they came to. Toward afternoon, having drunk as much as they cared for, they remained in a saloon and sat to play poker.

At first the stakes consisted of money and then women appear to have been the winners. Then Saucedo proposed a more exciting stake.

"I will wager for a life. If I win, I will have the right to kill You, and, if I lose, you can kill me," he said.

One woman accepted. The game was played, lasting all night. The woman, Without any show of emotion Saucedo handed her a revolver, and the woman, without a word, shot him. Saucedo is alive but in a critical condition.

Sulphur Will Quickly Clear Pimply Skin

Apply Sulphur as Told When Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is sometimes quickly set by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Rexsulphur-Sulphur and use it like cold cream.

Replying in a question from a Labor member in the British House of Commons, Lieut.-Col. Amery, Colonial Secretary, stated that the scheme for settlement of 2,000 British families on the land in Canada, comes into operation this spring. Up to the present he added, about 220 families had been selected under the scheme.

So many inquiries have been received at the London zoo, asking for the scientific cages for jumping mice (real cuddles) or other animals, that the following correspondent has been prepared for all such queries: "Dear Sir—In reply to your letter, I regret that cannot help you to assist in the solution of cross-word puzzles. Yours faithfully, Curator."

Match Umbrella With Stockings

Latest Fad Reported in London, England Now

(Associated Press Despatch)

London, March 5—One of latest fads among fashionable young women is to choose an umbrella to match stockings and hat. In this connection it may be said that the umbrella departments of London stores are among the most colorful branches of the business.

Scarlet and emerald have proved thus far to be the most popular colors of all, but these shades are often overlooked by buyers who insist upon matching their hosiery and millinery even if the protectors from the sun or rain have to be made to order.

As to colors generally, especially for women, modistes say that London has never been as gay in this respect as it is today. Lorgnette sticks are coming back into popular usage for umbrellas and on account of its convenience doctors say the short umbrella has come to stay. Some of the handles of the longer sticks are ornamented with beautiful china heads, and are considered very effective, so far as the eye is concerned, but from a practical viewpoint, the loaded handled umbrellas are considered merely one of the early spring fads which will soon pass, because the heads themselves fairly "reek" away very quickly the palm of the wearer's fine kid gloves.

JAPAN AIDS FOREIGN TEACHERS

Tokio, March 5— The educational department proposes to introduce a bill in the present session of the diet to provide houses for the foreign teachers in the government schools. There are nearly 100 such instructors, largely Americans and British, and a bont $150,000 will be asked for the housing scheme.

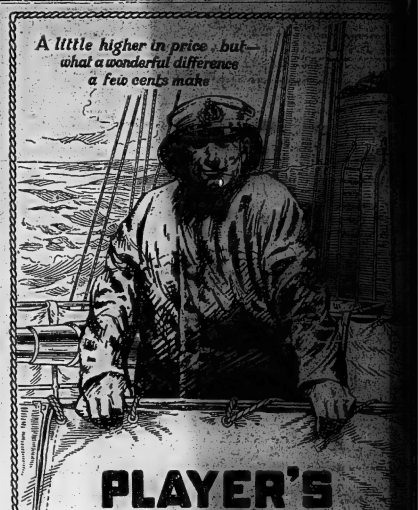

France is the world's greatest air power, according to Sir Samuel Hoare, British Air Minister. Sir Samuel announced in London that, French naval, military and colonial air forces total approximately 140 squadrons, averaging nine planes each. The British air force in Great Britain, Ireland and with the fleet in home waters consists of 25 squadrons of twelve planes each. In addition Britain maintains approximately 25 squadrons distributed between Mesopotamia, Egypt, India and Afghanistan and the Sudan. Thus the British air force numbers approximately 576 planes against the French 1,680.

The Belgrade steel mill, the largest and finest in Europe, and said to be the first of its kind in the Balkans has had a satisfactory trial at the Mosseed iron and steel works in Lanarkshire, says the London Daily Herald. The mill which has been constructed with great secrecy, cost the sum of £1,000,000, is 500 feet long, employs 1,000 men when running and will produce 5,000 tons of steel per week. A unique feature is that when running the mill, it is almost silent.

MAY NOW GIVE UP HER POOR LOVER

Milwaukee, Wis., March 5—Speaking her honeymoon alone is the experience of Mrs. Emily Forsley Bradley, who recently was married to a fellow inmate of the Milwaukee county house of correction.

Mrs. Bradley, who is 50 years old, met her young husband-to-be when he was committed to the institution for $200,000 damages. Bradley was sentenced to a year in the house of correction for alienation of the affections of a woman who is the wife of a prominent Milwaukee business man. Mrs. Bradley, who is also serving a year, says she loves her husband and will wait for him.

Colds

Start at night

Most colds start in the chest at night. Every hour you let them run adds to the difficulties.

Cold means congestion, for the old days our grandmothers applied mustards or mustard. The modern is the red pepper. It so excels the old ways that you will never use anything else when you know it.

Nothing else creates such concentrated, such penetrating heat. And heat that doesn't hurt. Tingling heat comes instantly. In three minutes it seems to penetrate to the depths.

Soreness departs, circulation is started, congestion is relieved. You know at last the end of the cold is effectively combated.

A cold in the chest calls for Red Pepper Rub. The sooner you apply it, the quicker the trouble ends. The relief will seem like magic, but it comes from the modern, scientific way to deal with chest congestion.

You do yourself injustice if you do not have Red Pepper Rub over at your hand. Nothing else at your command does what this can do. And such simplicity demand the utmost help.

Venturesome Youngsters of Austria Protected by Schools

(Associated Press Despatch)

Vienna, March 5—Reared in a country whose mountains rampe rival and even surpass the peaks of Switzerland the youth of Austria, boath boys and girls are enthusiastic mountain climbers. But this is often a dangerous pastime, and each year the Alps take heavy toll of young and valuable lives.

To protect these venturesome youngsters there has been organized a mountain-climbing school with facilities for 400 students. The lectures will treat of meteorology and weather prediction and will further deal with the comparative value of various textures for articles of wear and equipment for mountaineering. Then first-aid and transportation up and down gradients in case of accident, methods of shelter from wind, avalanches, rain and snow, and lastly nutrition and physical endurance, will likewise receive attention.

The practical training will be equally diversified. It will demonstrate the best ways of conquering the many hindrances which place themselves in the climbers' path, methods and utility of roping and harnessing of ropes in rock work and ascending and descending the sheer face of precipitous. Lastly comes the correct handling of picks, axes and alpenstocks. A second course will deal with the use of skis and snowshoes in Alpine tours.

Air "Dreadnought" To be War Monster

To Detect Fog and Carry Seven Tons of Bombs

Baltimore, Eng., March 5—Trials are being carried out at the marine station here for the largest boat seaplane in the world which will be driven by four engines developing nearly 3,000 horsepower.

The new leviathan of the air has been designed to operate with the fleet, it is said, in a battle plane in every sense of the word.

The air ministry hopes that the ship will be able to ride out the fiercest of gales, while at another can cruise with the fleet while undergoing manoeuvres for days on end without retiring to its permanent base.

The fact that it has a speed of 100 miles per hour and carries seven tons of bombs, adds materially to the title claimed for it—the first dreadnought of the air.

For accomodations it has sleeping quarters for a crew of six men. Full scale official experiments are shortly to be carried out at the air ministry's seadrome at South Farnsborough, England.

Among the experiments will be the tryout of a new device which promises to bring in a new era of commercial aviation—a fog finder. This, it is hoped, will remove the danger of the one great besetting difficulty to British fliers in the channel and the North Sea—fog.

British air ministry officials believe this new device will do away with the terror of fog. It is one of the new improvements to be installed on the first of England's seaplane dreadnoughts.

BOOTLEGGERS USE NOVEL SMOKE SCREEN

Washington, March 5.—After an exciting chase officers captured an automobile in which they found 144 gallons of liquor. The bar, with the officers following in another machine, speeded through the city streets in a vain effort to escape. Dense clouds of smoke poured from the bootleg car during its flight. The device by which the bootleggers created the smoke screen failed to save them from arrest.

PRIZE WRITER OF CONDENSED LETTER

Washington, March 5—Gladys John son, is the champion small letter writer of the United States. She was awarded five prize in a recent contest in which 300 persons took part. Miss Johnson wrote a total of 1086 words on a card the size of an ordinary post age stamp, using an ordinary drawing pen and without the aid of a microscope. She was presented with a fine piano as first prize. Her nearest competitor was able to write only 850 words on a card of the same size.

LAST VETERAN BACK FROM FRANCE NOW

New York, March 5—The last member of the American expeditionary force to France has returned to the United States. He is Sergt. John J. Loftus who recently arrived at New York City. Sergt. Loftus went to the war in July 1917, and served at the front while the fighting lasted. Then he had some clerical work in France which kept him busy until a week or so ago. Sergt. Loftus is a native of Hoboken, N. J.

Polishes the teeth beautifully—deliciously refreshing to the mouth

HERE, at last, is something new in tooth cleaner—

Gibbs Dentifrice—made by a British concern over 200 years old—and recommended by thousands of dentists, doctors, and "chemists" to-day throughout Great Britain and France. It is different from any tooth cleaner you have ever used.

It comes in cake form—a solid pink cake—enclosed in a compact round aluminum container. You simply stroke your toothbrush across this cake. As you brush your teeth, Gibbs Dentifrice produces a fragrant purifying foam—the most refreshing, clean sensation your mouth has ever experienced.

This copious, cleansing foam surrounds the teeth—reaches every crevice—gently and completely washes away all food deposits.

It polishes the enamel beautifully—makes your teeth gleam. When you smile, your teeth will look whiter, brighter and cleaner than ever before!

Try Gibbs Dentifrice but once and you will agree that this new modern type of tooth cleanser is wonderful—more effective—nicer to use—more convenient—amazingly long-lasting!

Company Condensery is Called "Show Plant of Canada"

Notable progress in providing such a large market for local producers, is made by a large percentage of the products and articles of life to the people in addition to a considerable of imported Canadian products.

Action in the manufacture of condensed milk is particularly important. One of the largest food industries in Canada is that of the Borden Company, Limited, who operate thirty separate plants in Ontario at Ingersoll, Belleville and Norwich. The original plant was constructed by the Borden Condensing Company in Ingersoll in 1903, and consolidated by them, it is now the largest and most important plant licensed by the Department of dairy inspection, herd improvement, cooking milk, that ensures the purity and safety in milk supplies.

The Norwich plant, often referred to as the "show plant of Canada," was built in 1908, while the Norwich plant is one of an exceptionally well equipped one was inaugurated in March 1924, increasing output of these institutions a greater demand for Borden dairy products not only in previous but throughout the

"I saw an Ad — in the street car"

"Not long ago I saw an ad in the street car, 'Sinking takes the place of rubbing.' The next day I sent for a package of Rinso and tried it.' I was delighted with the result and now wash my children's clothes without any effort whatsoever — they soak themselves clean in the Rinso suds. I just had to write and tell you how 'wonderful' I think Rinso is and have told several of my friends to try it.

"It is wonderful for scrubbing floors. Without a doubt the best thing I have ever used. I also cleaned my enamel sink with it and it is splendid."

The foregoing letter is but one of the many received by the makers of Rinso from women who are enthusiastic about the newer, easier, better way to wash and clean—the Rinso way.

Old Campaigner Writing His Story

Stephen Harvey Has Led Life of Great Adventure

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Vancouver, B.C., March 5—With a lifetime of 34 years as replete with adventure as that of one of Joseph Conrad's or Rudyard Kipling's heroes in their prime, Stephen W. Harvey, M.M., Croix de Guerre, himself a big boy of Kipling, is now engaged in writing a record of his varied and interesting experiences during the four years Sarajevo plot. he is not engaged in Mackenzie King his duties in the servants department of the war recently on her maiden Canadian-Australasian voyage.

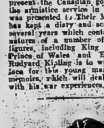

Born in Winnipeg in 1890, Harvey ran away from home when the war broke out. After several futile attempts to enlist in different branches of His Majesty's forces, he succeeded at enlisting in the 13th Battalion in Montreal when he was only 12 years of age. Early the following spring he was ordered to France where he saw consequently had what he considered the good fortune to be in the midst of practically all the important engagements—despite the protest made by the sentry on the authorities when she discovered him in 1916 while she was serving as an overseas nurse.

At the battle of Passchendaele Harvey distinguished himself by bringing in a mortally wounded officer who lay in the shell-holed no man's land. For this achievement he received the Military Medal, and for another feat of valor later in the same battle he was decorated with the Croix de Guerre. Following the Passchendaele affair, of which he still carries a bit of shrapnel in his head as a souvenir, Harvey was in hospital for seven months.

When the armistice was signed this soldier of the King found himself at a loose end—his father and two brothers, all members of the same regiment, and both his parents, having died since he left home. Finally he enlisted for service in the Russian Sea, after his arrival in that disturbed land he fell into the hands of the Bolshevist forces and was interned in a prison camp by the Volga, where he was kept for seven months before he was returned to England.

Following this experience Harvey sought adventure on the high seas. He served on H.M.C.S. Patriot for nine months, but was honorably discharged as being physically unfit—but that was not prevented him from sleeping vessels since then.

"Last Fall Harvey was chosen to represent the Canadian government at the armistice services in London, and was presented to His Majesty. He has kept a diary and scrap-book for several years which contains the autographs of a number of well-known figures, including King George, the Prince of Wales and Earl Beatty. Rudyard Kipling is to write the preface for the young man's book of memoirs, which will deal principally with his war experiences.

No Cold

If You Kill The Germs

Cold in the head is caused by germs in the membranes. Combat them promptly and the cold will not get a hold. Coming thru later, and you end the misery. Clear the head and check the cold.

The way is Ely's Cream Balm. Apply it in the nostrils and breathe it. Force its soothing fumes wherever the germs exist. The stuffiness ends at once, the inflammation is subdued, the cold is checked.

Don't suffer an hour. Ask your druggist for a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Enjoy its relief. Then in future use it to fight first signs of a cold.

Toronto Mother Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Toronto, Ontario.—"I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a splendid medicine to take before and after confinement. I had a boy who was just as my doctor can say advertising Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine, and I did not find it all well at the time I went and took a bottle of Vegetable Compound right away. I soon began to notice a difference in my condition, and I was full of aches and pains at the time and thought I had every complaint going, but was gratified to say your medicine certainly did me good. I can and will speak highly of it, and I think it will do others. Any good who are sick and ailing if they will only give it a fair trial. Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills are splendid for constipation. You are welcome to use my letter if you think it will help any one." Mrs. HARRY WARWOOD, 542 Quebec Street, Toronto, Ontario.

The expectant mother is wise if she considers carefully this statement of Mrs. Warwood. If to but one of a great many, all telling the same story—testimonial results.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is especially adapted for use during this period. The experience of other women who have found this medicine a blessing is proof of its great merit. Why not try it now yourself?

ENGLISHMAN DOESN'T LIKE THE CORN COB

London, March 5—The cheapest pipe on sale today in London, the city which has perhaps two or three times as many pipe smokers as any other city in the world, is the old-fashioned cornsilk pipe from Missouri, which still given international prominence by Mark Twain. The cornsilk pipe can retails at 4 to 6 cents each, but even at that can scarcely be considered as having made any noticeable inroads upon the British pipe industry. In fact it may be said that the cornsilk is more of a freak than anything else, and is bought chiefly by Americans, as a reminder of old customs days back home and by a few Britons who have lived at intervals in the west, or, middle west, when cornsilks were in their prime.

Pipe dealers say here that the cornsilk will never become really popular in London, despite the low cost, because of the fact that it does not last any length of time. The Englishmen are always eager to try a new pipe, say the dealers, but they prefer hardwoods, and if buying a new pipe they endeavor to get one which will last a year or more. Premier Baldwin, the best known pipe smoker of this country who possesses, has smoked one pipe in particular, almost daily, during the last seven or eight years.

FAMOUS GENERAL IS ENTERING BUSINESS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Harbin, China, March 5—General Semenoff, the famous anti-Bolshevik leader, who spent some months in Canada and the United States some time ago, has decided to turn from military career to one in the mart business in Manchuria to deal in the products of Mongolia.

Before making his decision, the Atamans, who commanded a large division of Cossacks for the Czar before the Russian revolution, consulted Mongolian princes, Chinese merchantmen, and other prominent Russians, including the Russian members of Tientsin, all of whom are said to have supported the scheme.

Father Missing For Over 25 Years

Re-United with Family when Insurance Man Started To Probe

Memphis, March 5—A man believed dead a quarter century has been found living, but seriously ill, in a hospital here. He is Henry C. Kochenmann, who mysteriously disappeared from his home in Philadelphia, 25 years ago. In the Memphis hospital, however, he is known as Henry C. Schwank. He is suffering from paralysis.

Two sons of the man, who went to Memphis, were unable to shed any light on the mystery of his disappearance. They said he did not leave his family in want and that he had no debts, but that he disappeared without explaining why.

In Memphis the man worked for a rail way company. He suffered a stroke of paralysis and was taken to a hospital. His death was expected at any moment, so his insurance company began an investigation. The result was the discovery of his true identity and the finding of a man whose own family believed him dead and had given up a search for him.

War in Business

When he left Philadelphia Mr. Kochenmann was a prosperous and prominent business man engaged in the cotton business. He had hosts of friends, and his disappearance caused a sensation.

Since the date he left home his sons have been seeking him, although several years ago they gave him up for dead. Now they hope to reunite their family when the father is able to leave the hospital.

PLAN TO IMPROVE HIGH SCHOOL GIRL

(Associated Press Despatch)

Berlin, March 5—An interesting study of the effects of physical training upon women is being conducted on the island of Foehr, in the North Sea. A group of young women will live on the island from now until May under the auspices of the German High School of Physical Training. They will have six hours of instruction daily in the open air, and regular exercise. Tests and measurements will be made to determine the growth of muscles and bones and the strengthening of the heart and brain by means of this rigorous course of training.

ENGLAND URGES RAISING OF PIGS

KING BORIS NORMAL AS ENTERTAINER

(Associated Press Despatch)

Sofia, March 5—One of the indications of returning normality in Bulgarian affairs is the resumption of the entertaining of diplomatic officials and foreign diplomats by King Boris. Last winter the king resumed diplomatic dinners on a modest scale for the first time since the World War, and the return to this practice on a larger scale than last year is regarded here as a step in the right direction.

A feature of these events is the atmosphere of informality that characterizes them. King Boris talks freely with his guests.

Dawson of Old Has Passed Away

No More Dance Halls and Roistering Crowds

(Canadian Press Dispatch)

Dawson, Y.T., March 5.—Tinged and hallowed with the romance which clings to the survivors of the adventurers of another generation, the rough, hard days of the Yukon of a quarter of a century ago have passed. The big, hard-working, hard-drinking crowd of argonauts who shovelled in the north's 77 odd-day winters. There are several of these gold, who remained still here, the daughter and a fierce yet loyal struggle, but never to be the hard-living, hard-drinking days—no longer know the thrill of "no limit," never do their hearts respond in the roaring cadence of a dance-hall ragtime nor do they hear the sound of the dance halls and no more roistering crowds.

The Dawson of today is a highly respectable mining town. It holds few attractions for the old wanderlings who remember its hot— or worse—days and those who are still able to withstand the Yukon winter keep to their cabins on chilly claims. But there are others. More than one old timer, defeated at last by the bitter cold, has been carried into the hospital here this winter with limbs numb for ever and reaping joints demanding the comforts of long life. There notch-ed remains and memories of the romance of it all—and the visits of guests of hardened old sinners for the time that may never be first class. Up-to-date, down-river, the story is the same. Summer new faces pour down from the tops of the steerage decks in winter; spluttering, blanket-hooded autos disgorge passengers, such detail as still strain at the traps.

"Small"—once familiar command to the "husky" teams—is far forward—is as almost forgotten word. The early day dog masters find little in the days of today to remind them of those they used to run behind. But still, to the reliable world, at any rate, there is a little of the old glamour, as the widespread interest taken in the recent thousand-mile mush of the dog teams across the country to Nome provides. Nome witnesses. The mush would not have been considered so at Klondike days, nor is it even now in the north where the hunky is still used for transportation to a certain extent." The achievement has served to remind the scattered descendants of the heritage which their own forbears accomplishments have left for the future.

Another development which is serving to bind together the old timers and which may mean better times for them, together again, is the new gold discovery which has been made in the Dease Lake section of the Cassiar district in northern British Columbia. The question is whether there will be a place for them among the great power-driven dredges which will now work the creeks.

It is a difficult question to answer TIMES come pick runs hard to all and every new addition one meets Yukoner sour tough who had long been lost sight of.

FOUGHT 11 YEARS TO STAY IN U.S.A.

Her 11-year fight to remain in the United States, instead of being deported to Russia, where she had been born, is over, has been won by Paulie Paltze, 17 years old, of Gleyn, Ga. The girl, under a ruling made by the Department of Labor which handles immigration problems, may remain in Olean in her family circle.

When she was only three years old back in 1914, the girl fled from Russia and came to the United States. She was classed as mentally irresponsible, however, and deported. The ship she was on turned back to the United States when war was declared, so Paulie returned to Olean.

Then began a long battle. The case was carried even to the United States Supreme Court, but not until a special amendment to the immigration law was passed was the girl sure of staying in America. Under this ruling, the authorities may admit a minor who has no relatives in Europe but who faces deportation from the United States. This rule was applied to Paula's case, and she was assured a permanent American home.

John Denholm, president of the Chamber of Shipping in the United Kingdom in his annual address in London assailed the Canadian shipping rates comparing the 15-day mail and passenger rates in Europe to the advantage of the two former. He declared that the Atlantic Conference rate on grain accounted for a quarter of a penny on the cost of a loaf, the railway rate one half penny and the lake boat a half penny.

Leave to appeal on "spiritual grounds" is asked by the author of a religious sign from the sentence recorded in London that he be fined one pound a day until his sign was removed. The sign, bearing the inscription "Watch and pray; time is short; man brings his own destruction," occupied a prominent place in a row of large signs in Sussex, which were ordered to be torn down, as they disfigured the English landscape.

CLOSING UP OF NIGHT SCHOOL CALLED UNFAIR

Rev. N. S. McKechnie Draws Attention to Its Advantages

DUTY TO PERFORM

Older Employed People Would Be Denied Good Education

An appeal to keep the Night School open in Belleville is made today by Rev. N. S. McKechnie, who has written an interesting letter to the Intelligencer on the subject. The suggestion was made at the last meeting of the Board of Trade that these classes might be continued during the summer, which Mr. McKechnie does not believe will be successful.

It is reported that at a recent meeting of the Board of Education, one of the board expressed the opinion that the Night School Classes ought to be "continued. I have seen much to my surprise, no report of any objection to this proposal on the part of members of the Board or by the general public. I cannot believe that the suggestion has seemed so preposterous that it has not been given seriously Nevertheless damage is apt to be done by the mere suggestion and hence this letter.

One general objection taken to the Night School was that the teachers of the Public School were leaving the classroom their health and devoting themselves to their duties in the Day School classes. But, it is said, on further illness that the teachers of the P.S.S. should be as good health as the average High School staff, unless, indeed, they suffered from the overwork in which their work is carried on. And further many years of service and rise of Belleville and larger, Night School classes have been carried on in the High School rooms and during for years with the finest results. The truth of the matter is that the change will affect the health of the teachers (and pupils) scarcely more than sitting at poor teaching conditions. Myself, I find more exhausting, mentally and nervously, a classroom. Moreover, in many school days in the B.H.S. the Principal is very largely freed from teaching and the order that he may devote himself to the supervision of the work and particularly to the discipline of the school will add assistance of his staff. This is of the greatest moment and important of a principal's duties.

The discontinuance of a Night School would be a disaster for Belleville for the following reasons:

World Open Ambition

First, it will deny the opportunity of further education to many in whom there is developing a desire to secure what late, or who through earlier inferiorate circumstances are unable to obtain the education they did desire. Many men of extraordinary ability unless there lives developed under such second chance for education.

Second, it would be a very serious blow at Technical Education in Belleville. I believe that a certain amount of manual training, if an excellent thing for every boy, is a failure in education. Very little it proves to be a special aptitude for a somewhat small student. I have had some opportunity to judge of this, having taught for years in charge of the Manual Training Department of Woodstock College the first school in Canada to do Manual Training work. But, much as I certainly is not the duty of the Board of Education to provide an education only for those who wish to take Matriculation or equal standing that they may enter one of the professions. All our citizens have rights in our educational requirements and, I am surprised that those on the Board who may be taken to represent the labor element of the city (I use the term for lack of a better) did not protest that the closing of the Night School would seriously impair those rights. As a matter of fact, a large percentage of those who secure Matriculation into Belleville not to return, but to those studying in our Night Classes remain as citizens of the city. The next point to close the Night School is a practical one of providing educational facilities for those who remain, with us while educating many who ultimately leave.

One night follow this subject about lines, as for instance the effect on industries desiring location and which require employees with some technical skill the effect on wages and so on, but this letter is perhaps already too long.

In Belleville the Beautiful" is the phrase noted for her enlightened High School Building and a reactionary educational policy is in the very near at hand when she will take a long step forward!

Yours truly,

N. S. MCKECHNIE

"MISS DOLLAR" IS ALL READY FOR THE FRAY

Is Resting Up to Buffet Dollar Day Crowds Tomorrow

WATCH THE RULES

Certain Regulations Must be Followed to Secure Cash Prize

The mysterious "Miss Dollar" is in Belleville today, taking a rest preparatory to her appearance upon the stage tomorrow, when she will visit all the local stores concerned in providing one big day of bargains.

Miss Dollar will start her tour at 8.30 o'clock Saturday morning with appearances at various stores and will tour to the city for the day, to take full advantage of the bargains which await them in all parts of the city.

There is a $5 cash prize for the man or woman who captures "Miss Dollar." The Intelligencer does not care who wins, but will quickly pay over the $5 to whoever is lucky enough.

It is an open competition free and clear to any member of the Intelligencer staff or members of their families and no members of families connected with Dollar Day stores, being allowed to compete in the hunt. For the benefit of those who are a definite and concise but very simple set of rules which must be followed.

The Rules

The searcher for Miss Dollar must capture her in one of the Dollar Day stores. Before making the capture, she must be approached by the searcher who will say

"I HAVE FOUND THE MYSTERIOUS MISS DOLLAR OF THE INTELLIGENCER."

The searcher will then produce a copy of the Intelligencer of that specific issue and submit it to the young lady for identification. The searcher will then be "Miss Dollar," and the searcher will have been taken account and the newspaper bears the correct date, she is required to immediately surrender the paper, and accompany her, per cabin to the business office of the Intelligencer where the dollar will be paid over to the captor. In the case of the simultaries have been violated however the evasive maneuverable, reserves the right to answer in the negative.

Miss Dollar's family is being buffeted today by friends for information as to Miss Dollar, but the lips of the two or three members of the family who "in the know" are sealed as tightly as the lips of the mysterious lady they are supposed to be, and not one little or big thing will they utter or will be given out. The competition will be carried out in the most honest manner possible upon its merits.

The only information which has been or will be handed out will be the description of Miss Dollar which was printed in these columns Thursday. She is young and charming "in said" for complexion. Yes, her hair is bobbed and she is very much alive. She is wearing a fur coat. That is as far as we dare go.

ATTEMPTED TO END LIFE IN LAVATORY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Ont., March 6—Having attempted to end his life by cutting his throat with a razor blade, Joseph Bourbeau, on the C.N.R. train from Parry Sound to Mick Turker an Austrian, jumped it the Booth Lumber Camps at Brule Lake arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and was taken to the Civic Hospital where he lies in a serious condition.

Passengers in the same car with the man prevented him from carrying out his desperate intentions when they found him in the lavatory, bleeding profusely from a wound in the neck.

Man Of Seventy And His Wife In Court For Spooning Together In Public Park

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Leipsic, Germany March 6—Gottlieb Schuller, 70, and his frau Pauline, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary this spring.

An hour's cooing their romance, however. So it happened recently that a park policeman Gustav Gleim into court for "making a public nuisance" because they embraced a "petting party" in the domain.

"What about this" sternly queried the Inspector judge. "Have you been seen by such conduct?"

"Well, your honor," stammered Gottlieb, while his wife blushed, "you see, when one is 70, and the spring-time comes—er, or—"

"But you should do your love-making at home," thundered the judge, trying hard to keep back a smile.

Then turning to the policeman, he said:

"I suppose you were jealous also of this spooning on your beat, Officer?"

"Oh, no, it just amused me—gave me a hearty laugh, in fact," answered the minion of the law.

"Discharged," vociferated the judge. "He's no public nuisance if it makes you laugh."

Dog Rescuer Of His Master

He Attacked Three Hold-Up Men in East Toronto

Toronto, March 6—Loyalty of "Bruce" an Airedale dog for his master's given a medal by Fred Britton for their part in the capture of three hold-up men last night by three thugs, in a lonely spot in the east end of the city. Britton was commanded his money and when they found only 60 cents in his possession they tried to assault him.

The dog came to the rescue promptly savagely. He tripped one of the men and bit him in the face causing the robber to run for motor car standing a short distance away. Frightened by the barking of the dog the other two also turned to the car and fled and escaped.

Last Monday Alex Thompson was held up in the same spot and robbed of $100.

PROPOSAL MEANS WAR IF CARRIED OUT

Warsaw, March 6—The German proposal to guarantee peace at the Rhine which is understood here to consist of retaining her eastern frontier as is to take away the territory from Poland would mean instant rebellion by Polish official circles.

The Gazeta, Warszawiz, the official organ of national democrats, who hold seats in the Diet, declares proposal is tantamount to a free declaration of Poland similar to that of the eighteenth century. The newspaper affirms that any attempt to diminish Polish territory since Germans, Insurrection elsewhere will mean war as thirty million Poles will never willingly agree to such a fresh partition.

With only a few of their most intimate friends in attendance the wedding was quietly solemnized in Toronto of Mrs. Virginia Cooping and Sir Edward Kemp, at St. Paul's Anglican Church, Bloor street. Following the ceremony, Sir Edward and his bride left for New York, en route to Great British and France, where they will spend several months. Upon their return they will occupy Castle Frank, Sir Edward's residence on Castle Frank road.

NEW TYPE TAX AND ECONOMIES MARKS BUDGET

Makes Determined Effort to Correct Misrule of Drury Regime

TAX BEER AND GAS

Provincial Treasurer Thus Plans Extra Revenue Amounting to $5,000,000

Toronto March 6—With the provincial deficit of over eight and a half million dollars already accounted for, Hon. W. H. Price, Provincial Treasurer, the gala announcement in his budget address, delivered yesterday afternoon, that the province would, four-point-four, will have a tax placed upon it which will be an estimated revenue to the Consolidated Revenue Fund of $3,000,000. This is appropriately the taxing demand that is promulgated from the gasoline tax, the figure in that case being placed at $2,-000,000, thereby accounting for almost two million dollars as the present revenue for the next fiscal year.

These figures, along with other economies which are forecast in the speech will reduce the deficit for the fiscal year of 1925-26 to the estimated figure of only $3,000,000, and for the following year, although not shown in the budget address, it is most likely that the deficit occasioned by the Hon. Mr. Drury-Saith misrule, will have disappeared and the present revenue will again enjoy the boon of a balanced budget. The anticipated revenue will eventually wipe out deficits.

The Treasurer explained that the budget, the annual bill for the financial statement and perhaps a sa-

A Long Speech

Col. Price's Budget Speech was one of the longest ever, delivered, and, in spite of the comprehensiveness of the main features of the Budget contained a number of most interesting announcements, none of which may be summarized briefly as follows: (1) the general policy of the Government has been to provide for capital expenditure by borrowing, consequently in every department will be carefully considered in every case of capital expenditure, and economy, care and economy, wherever possible and a half and he therefore will not be asked.

New Taxation Essential

"Members will realize that a declining revenue and an expenditure up considerably over last year, the estimated deficit of over $8,500,000 is to be furnished. Under the present rate of taxation the Government has announced its policy that all services must be self-sustaining. This is one of the chief reasons for the deficit. It is not now a question of choice, but a case of necessity. I have explained that it will yield in this fiscal year $2,200,000. In a whole year it would probably yield $4,000,000.

"We have estimated succession duties at $1,200,000 higher than last year, on account of there being a larger number of estates. I have estimated also a beverage tax which would bring into the revenue $2,000,000 in the present fiscal year.

"Altogether with those new imposts one might account for $5,500,000 of the present deficit, if the revenues remain as well as they did last year. This will leave a net deficit of $3,000,000 as a deficit for 1925-26.

Urban Centres Will Also Become Better Represented

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, March 6—In view of the statement made yesterday in the Legislature that it was not expected to increase to any great extent rural representation in the Legislature, it is now thought there will not be a cut down in members from some counties that was expected.

At same time, however, the premier said, it was not that the board would increase the total membership of the house and that urban districts which have grown rapidly are entitled to representation. New York, with its population will not be the same, for rural districts are losing by urban.

It will not be surprising, members think, if the new electoral divisions are cut down. County boundaries will be changed as far as possible, in view of this the number of members will probably be increased from 111, many additional seats in the Northern Ontario will gain two or three more members and the province's standing New York, with an increasing Essex County, Hamilton and Toronto will probably get more representation.

CHICAGO MARKET

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, March 6—Sensational advances developed early in the wheat market today, May delivery selling up 3½ cents to 1.44 and July 3 cents to 1.41¾ before the end of the first hour. Increases in the Liverpool market started the buying movement. Dealers reports from the southern hemisphere indicated shortage in the crop volume, and there were reports that supplies of the grain in Europe were badly needed moisture, was also forecasted for the winter wheat belt. Corn prices, following, prices, which ranged from one cent to three cents higher, with May eighths cents lower, early followed by a sharp rally which carried May 1.14¾ and July 1.14¾ to 1.15¾. Oats gave way with wheat. After open last at 1.44 to 1.45 Cattles, Sheep and Lambs rallied somewhat, but hogs, were off lower during the day. Hog prices are a shade to 25c lower, after 10c to 15c decline yesterday. Extremely higher prices for hogs tested, seventy higher left.

PROHIBITION AND POLITICS

Premier Ferguson declared that people who voted for the Ontario Temperance Act in 1916 knifed the Hearst Government which liberated the Act. Thereupon the Toronto Daily Star hastened to say that it was the "vets" who carried out the stiletto work.

There is only one answer to that. In Sir William Hearst's own constituency a very large majority was given the Ontario Temperance Act. Yet Sir William was defeated by 1,870 votes.

There is no quarrel to be picked against prohibitionists should they decide that the temperance cause is bigger than party politics. They have a perfect right to exercise their franchise as they see fit.

But we are reminded in this connection that when E. J. Graham ran as a temperance candidate against the late W. H. Biggar, he did not get the support of certain Liberals in Belleville who have recently knocked the temperance legislation of Premier Ferguson and went on record in favor of voting for the "temperance candidate."

True, it was the wet element in the constituency which defeated Mr. Graham. But they did it with the help of "dry" Liberals.

THE HIGHER THE HIRE

There is little doubt that the proposed increase of Ministerial salaries and member's indemnities in Ontario will be carried through. As a Government measure it could not be other wise when the administration has the confidence of the House. Still many outside the province have discussed the matter just the same as if it was any of our business. Perhaps the Vancouver Province puts the case in a nutshell. It tells us that it is proposed to substantially increase the salaries of Ontario Cabinet Ministers and the members of the Legislature. The laborer is worthy of his hire and the higher up he labors the higher the hire.

THE SWEET TOOTH IN CANADA

Prohibition is credited in the United States with having brought about an enormous consumption of candy.

But Canada, it appears, is by no means behind in this direction. To provide sugarcoated tidklers for particular palated, Canadian firms in 1923 manufactured 98,000,000 pounds of chocolate and sugar confectionery, 86,000 tons of plain and fancy biscuits, 2,760,000 gallons of ice cream, and 83,400,000 worth of chewing gum.

Add to this the amount spent for carbonated beverages, not to mention the more potent thirst quenchers, and you will have some idea which way the perfumed trade winds are blowing.

Press Opinions

THE LATE PRESIDENT EBER

(Hamilton Herald):

Two prominent figures have this week, been removed from the political field in Europe. Hialmar Branting, former president of Sweden, died early in the week. Now the death of Friedrich Ebert, president of the German republic, is announced.

Ebert is not to be compared in ability or endowment with the brilliant Swedish statesman and reformer. Both of them were Socialists; both of them had the sagacity and common sense to perceive what was practicable and expedient in the Socialistic programs and what was visionary and merely destructive, and to continue their efforts in promotion of the former. Branting was a great thinker and scholar and a powerful orator as well as a practical statesman; Ebert was a man of typical German bourgeoise type, a man who began life as a saddler—rather stolid but steady and reliable, with considerable judgment, and intelligently patriotic. Not a brilliant man by any means, but a man to feel sure of as well as fair.

His death will prove to be a great loss to the German people, for in the welter of political intrigue and social agitation he has been a steadying influence ever since he was elected president in 1919.

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

Virtue Unconscious

THE best virtue is unconscious.

When we do a good deed and expect a reward for it and call for people to come and look at it, or even regard it ourselves with complacence, its quality has been somewhat diluted.

Honesty may be the best policy, but the man who is honest because it is the best policy is going quite honest.

We do not know whether he would be honest with himself when he is alone or not.

The right manner of doing good has been described by Marcus Aurelius. He says that a man who does good in the best manner, "does not, even know what he has done, but he is like a vine which has produced grapes and seeks for nothing, more after it has once produced its proper fruit." As a horse when he has run a dog when he has caught its game, a bee when it has made its honey, so a man, when he has done a good act, does not call for others to come and see, but goes on to another act, as a vine goes on to again produce grapes in its season."

That is as sublime and wonderful that it need no advantageous add. It is for this reason that a man cannot be paid for doing good, and while virtue has great value it has no price.

The only way to do good is because you cannot help it, because your nature is such that you produce only good. This is the goodness of the good.

The goodness of the bad is something that is put on for occasion. It is borrowed and artificial and does not have the effect of goodness that is real and genuine.

There is only one way to do good all of the time, and that is to be a good man. When one automatically rejects evil impulses and responds to those which are good, when his every act is prompted by a worthy motive, such a man has a right to estimate himself as good although he probably does not think of it.

The only way to be of benefit to your fellows is to be of such a character that you unconsciously produce that which is helpful and beneficial to them.

All goodness that is conscious is of value only as it trains us for the unconscious kind.

This is probably what is meant when it is said that for every idle word a man speaks he shall give account in the day of judgment. For what we speak of purpose no man can say, but what we speak with no purpose at all, and from pure idleness, is a revelation of what we are, ourselves.

As Marcus Aurelius says further: "Are then not content that thou hast done something comfortable to thy nature, and dost thou seek to be paid for it, just as if the eye demanded a recompense for walking?"

The only really good man is therefore one who is good for the pleasure of it. Virtue is indeed its only reward, just as the eye is happiest when seeing, or the feet when walking.

This is not to be taken as an attempt to minify the benefit of trying to do something which you are convinced is right but to which you are not disposed. For it is only by a constant attempt to do good that the desire to do good becomes automatic. A good action, you may say, is the gift of good deeds. It is the result of having done good over and over.

It is said in Holy Writ that "Whosoever will do these sayings of mine, he shall be likened unto a man who built his house upon a rock." This does not mean that the sayings are a rock, nor that the Master Himself is a rock, but that which is the rock is the fact of one having long practiced doing good. Character rests upon practice.

But the end is attained only when practice has been continued so long that it becomes automatic, that it has, so to speak, drifted down into the desires and become unconscious. It is for this reason that the best quality of goodness is to become unconscious, and it is found that the most worthy characters are the most dependable are the most unconscious of their virtue.

ALBERTA'S GINGER GROUP

(Winnipeg Free Press).

It will be understood that the "ginger" group contagion spreads across the border into Saskatchewan. A certain section of the farmers' movement there has attempted to prevent economic development which are very close to the views of the Alberta Ginger. Any kind of serious change in Saskatchewan might lead to a rate of affairs when reactionary capital might reap benefits of a kind seriously detrimental to western interests.

To-day's Smile

A man went fishing and caught a big pike he thought he had landed at his long and busy life.

He was elated, and telegraphed his wife: "I've got one that weighs seven pounds and it's a beauty."

The following day the answer he got: "So have I, weighs ten pounds. Not a beauty—looks like you. Come home."

Thirty Years Ago

Sleighing has lasted 69 days this winter, up to date.

Two rinks of Peterboro [coits] will play a game here tonight with two rinks of the local club.

In conversation with a San Francisco reporter, Zeigler, the Western wonder recently said: "As soon as the tournament is over and we get our quad I am going to try for the mile straight way record, which was recently reduced by Wilmo Edwards to 1.54. I believe I can do it in 1.30 or less."

Mr. Thomas Carter, of Frank street, arrived in Belleville after spending three months with his friends in Ireland.

UNREST IN INDIA

(Westminster Gazette)

The unrest is largely the result of sudden economic development and consequent awakening to great national possibilities. The steady and rapid improvement of the standard of living among all but the poorest classes has itself produced a new spirit of exaltation and a desire for full political independence. From this has arisen the widespread feeling of resentment against even the subsisting limitations upon India's national independence.

English Star Introduces 5 o'clock Tea Into American Theatre

GERTRUDE LAWRENCE, the charming English actress who has endeared herself to American audiences last year in "Charlot's Revue" and will be seen again when Arch Selwyn brings this delightful entertainment back together. Yes, in the fall, is a certified addict to the five o'clock tea habit. Even when Miss Lawrence is rehearsing, she must have her cup of tea and she is shown in the picture taking a sip in between scenes.

When Miss Lawrence is at home and can have all the appointments of the English tea hour, her favorite "tea food" is scones and she has given us her favorite recipe for this characteristic British delicacy.

4 cupfuls Flour
2 tablespoonfuls Crisco
1 tablespoonful Sugar
½ teaspoonful Salt
1 teaspoonful Baking Soda
2 teaspoonfuls Cream of Tartar
1 Egg
Sweet Milk

Rub Crisco finely into flour, add sugar, salt soda and cream of tartar. Beat egg, put half of it into cup, then with one-half and some sweet milk make other ingredients into soft dough. Knead very little on floured baking board, divide into five pieces, make them smooth and roll out, not too thinly, cut them into four small cakes. Lay them on a greased tin, brush over with remaining egg and bake in hot oven ten minutes. A few currants or raisins may be added if liked.

Sufficient for twenty small scones.

WOULD PUT STOP TO CHURCH LOTTERIES

Ottawa, March 6.—"If it is wrong for an individual it is wrong for the church which supposedly, said the guardians of morals," declared L. H. Martell, M. P. for Essex, when briefly explaining a bill he introduced in the House yesterday afternoon to prohibit church lotteries.

Whereas lotteries in general are barred by the Criminal Code these conducted by churches or charitable institutions where the prize does not exceed $50, are permitted.

"I wish to cut them all out," said Martell.

Sleeps But Ninety Minutes Every Day

College Boy Carries Out Strange Life; To Be Examined

Allerton, Fry, 20 years old, fourteen thousandth Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., is to be examined by psychiatrists with a view of ascertaining how he manages to survive on 90 minutes of sleep a day.

"I feel bright. I would not know it worked," said Fry when explaining that from 1:30 to 3 a.m. he studies without sleep entirely. "I thought may be I could try it myself, then suddenly, by an alien, ten days I found myself sleeping instead. I returned to my old schedule of an hour and a half sleep a night."

Fry seems sure, Fry, a clever footballer, baseball, basketball and track athlete, went on "about twenty trips" "just for a thrill." He fell from a freight car and both feet were crushed. His feet later had to be amputated.

Just "this Arcand."

The young college student resides in Princeton, W. Va., and for five years has contented himself with a maximum of ten hours sleep a week. Instead of sleeping Fry just "sits around" through the long nights. "I'll go out and do study much these hours," he explained, because it makes me sleepy. I just sit around and wait until morning."

DISCOVERS FORTUNE IN SUIT CASE

Toronto, March 5.—Several thousand dollars worth of silverware, jewelry and family heirlooms stolen from the safe in the home of J. D. Falconbridge, 27 Chestnut Park road on December 28 last, were found in a suitcase under the stairs of a house at 406 Ontario street. The suitcase with its valuable contents was found by two boys who were playing ball on the street.—Walter Bodley, 152 Blodgett street, and Jean Clark of Bleeker street. The suitcase, a valuable one, was water soaked, resulting as it having been there for some months.

FOLK AT BAYSIDE BID FAMILY GOOD-BYE

On Monday evening, February 23rd, the friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. William Wheeler, Bayside, gathered at their home to bid them farewell before leaving for their new home. The gathering was held in order by the Rev. Mr. Bagstone and the following address was read by Mr. Everett Rush:

Mr. and Mrs. William Wheeler,

Dear Friends,—It is with a deep sense of regret that we have learned of your intended departure from our midst. The church of Christian fellowship and service which have grown through the years of your activity amongst us are by no means the least accomplishments of the heart strings. We shall miss your co-operation in the work of the Church and Sunday School, and especially the latter in which you have taken so vital an interest, you, Mr. Wheeler as assistant superintendent and class leader, and you, Mrs. Wheeler as superintendent of the Cradle Roll Department. We trust, however, that in your new home community you shall find ample scope for your activities in this direction. We shall miss your kindly, genial smile and hearty handshake as you go to your new home be assured that you carry with you the best wishes of the community. We ask you, therefore, to accept these gifts as a token of the esteem in which you are held.

Signed on behalf of the community,

Fred Wilson, Percy Bonton, W. J. Healy, and in behalf of the Sunday School, Everett Rush.

The presentation was made by Mr. Fred Wilson, Bayside's Chipmu Quick Lite parlor lamp to Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler, and to Misis Gladys and Edna Wheeler who have so kindly rendered their musical talent, each a birthstone ring.

After the presentation Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler each in a few well chosen words replied to the address. The remainder of the evening was spent in games and music after which a dainty lunch was served and as the party ended their way to their several homes, they one and all declared it had been an evening well spent.

Deaths And Funerals

MRS. M. E. FALKINER

Mrs. Amy Elisabeth Morgan Falkiner, widow of the late M. B. Falkiner, prominent barrister of Belleville, passed away at the home of the late Mr. and Mrs. Falkiner's family residence "Adjutant" Murney Hill, Belleville. She is survived by one daughter, Mary Baldwin and one sister, Mrs. H. A. F. MacLeod of Ottawa.

Mrs. Falkiner's death recalls stirring political events of early Confederation, when her father, a colleague and warm friend of Sir John A. waged hot, fought many battles against prominent reformers of the day, and later by his cousin, the Hon. Robert Baldwin.

A keen, partisan and staunch supporter in the traditions of the Conservative party, Mrs. Falkiner's death marks the passing of all but one of a family long prominent in political and charitable activities.

MRS. FLORENCE HUGHES

Yesterday afternoon the body of the late Mrs. Florence Hughes, wife of Mr. Frederick Hughes, was consigned to the tomb at Belleville cemetery. At the residence of Mrs. John Fenwick of the deceased, 90 Victoria Avenue, Rev. D. C. Ramsay, Pastor of St. John's Church conducted service and officiated at the interment. An number of floral tributes were received and the pallbearers were Messrs F. J. Naphin, C. Bateman, H. Abbott, R. F. Davis, B. Doolittle and C. McBride.

JANE D. HIGINBOTHAM

Miss Jane Olivia Higinbotham, daughter of the late Dr. Higinbotham, of this city, passed away quietly in Toronto. Deceased was known to many in this city where she resided for some time. Her body will be brought to Carman-ow for interment in the family plot at Belleville cemetery.

MRS. ELIZABETH MATHER

An aged resident of the city in the person of Mrs. Eliza Jane Mather, widow of the late Mr. Archibald Mather, passed away last night at her late home 228 Coleman street. The late Mrs. Mather was born in Ireland in May 1835, and came to Canada with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Leslie, when only 4 weeks old. The Leslie family settled in Tyendinaga and lived there and in Thurlow, all their life time. The eldest daughter Eliza Leslie married Archibald Mather 21 years ago and settled on a farm in Thurlow, where they remained until Mr. Mather's death in 1895. For the past 12 years Mrs. Mather had resided in Belleville with her daughter, Miss Maria. Deceased was a life long Presbyterian being a member of St. Andrew's Church. Of a family of seven children six survive, namely Peter, of Thurlow, George, of Vancouver; Dr. W. Mather, of Trenton; Mrs. Margaret Campbell, Mrs. Jessie Sills and Miss Maria Mather, of Belleville. Eight grand children and five great grand children are living. One brother, Adam Leslie of this city, and two sisters Mrs. Isabella Halstead, of this city and Mrs. Maria Mullin, of Seaforth are living.

HERBERT G. PELSEY

Under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity of which he was a member, the funeral of the late Mr. Herbert G. Belsey took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence, Dundas street. At the house, Rev. C. V. Parker, Rector of Christ Church conducted services. The burial services of the Society was taken by Bro. B. Bogue and John McCarthy. Interment took place at Belleville Cemetery. Bearers were F. Liberty, H. Dimmit, F. White, F. Chamney, J. W. Barlow, and W. Clarke.

The floral tributes were many and beautiful in effect, being as follows:

Pillow—Wife and children.
Guitar, Axe—Mother, Father, Edith, Will and Ernest.
Masonic Emblem—Belleville Lodge 123 A. F. & A. M.

Tells Dyspeptics What To Eat

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas On Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical author ities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things.

Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion, or they can eat in safety, and please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness and stomach fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.

There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is quite inert. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a few of the tablets should be taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of pepsin pills or artificial digestants.

Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any druggist—either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and eat what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."

CITY LEAGUE FINAL TO-NIGHT; NIAGARA FALLS 4, GRIMSBY 2; BOWLERS OFF NIGHT

Three Games On Recreation Alleys

Leagues Had an Off Night By Way of a Change

Bowling was rather quiet at the Recreation alleys yesterday, only three games being played. The morning fixture between the Hot Blasts and the Night Hawks was won by the former team by 107 pins. The Maple Leaf team took third game with nearly 100 pins to the good, but in the third set Scotty and Hot Blast rallied their best scores. High bowler was Jordan 574 and Cook 538.

The C.N.R. and the Wolves of the North played in the Junior league game and it was just as fast a junior game as was ever played. Both these teams had only lost one game each, and the winner was going to be decided if there was the C.N.R. got the jump on the first game, rolling 971 in the Wolves' 927. In the second the C.N.R. added another 19 pins, but in the third the Wolves pulled themselves together and rolled 45 pins more than their opponents, but it wasn't enough to win them, losing out by only 38 pins. Both teams rolling over 2600. Jeffery was in a little hard luck when he went over the total line on a double strike, losing enough pins here to win the game. High bowlers, respectively 467 and Bolton 564.

In the C.N.R. League the Car Dept. won from the M.P. Office by 116 pins. The M.P. Office lost in the first game by 136 pins, but came back strong in the second. High bowlers were Mack and Blanton. The scores were:

Drugs Excite The Kidneys, Drink Water

IF BACK HURTS OR BLADDER IS TROUBLING YOU, TAKE A LITTLE SALTS

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that irritate the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the stools so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which anyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician exam.ne your kidneys at least twice a year.

Niagara Falls Has A Two Goal Lead

Grimsby Put-Up Grand Battle and Impressed Fans

Toronto, March March 6.—Niagara Falls outlasted Grimsby in the fifth game of their Allan Cup elimination series at the Arena last night, after three goals in the third period and wee's hard fought battle 4 to 2. It was anybody's game for the first forty minutes, which ended with the score level but if neither team had an edge it rested with the Peach Kings, who, however, lacked a final kick to their attack and it cost the intermediate O.H.A. champions the goals necessary to win the game. But a break in the second period when "Shiner" Herron on one of the finest individual plays got right through the defence tricked Mayo out of position, and then relased the cage by inches. The score was 1-1 at the time and a goal then would have put Grimsby in front with a good chance of staying there. However, class reality told in the last twenty minutes after both teams had set a terrific pace in the first two periods, the sustained speed of the players making the game the best to be played in the O.H.A. series in Toronto this season. Nearly 2,000 fans including 1,000 from the front both packed the Arena and they will all be back for the return game to-morrow night.

Grimsby Set Pace

As in the game with the Soo Grimsby started on the first period to set the pace and they hit up a fiery one, checking the senior champions off their feet. The Falls appeared unable to get going, the local line players being completely outplayed by Howe, Reid and Clegg. The latter eased off in their checking in the second period with the result that play became even faster than the first and more spectacular, both goal tenders being called upon to make several sensational saves on shots from inside the defence. Herne and Howe for the Grimsby and Kitchen, Fraser and Kelly Verberg, broke through time after time only to have their drives for goals go wild or be turned aside. The latter commenced to show improvement in their play, the defence tightening up, while the local line players showed some combination for the first time of the game. Grimsby's attack lacked team play but the brilliant efforts of Reid Herne, McVicar and Carson had the fans on their feet on more than one occasion.

Falls Take the Lead

Niagara Falls took the upper hand thirty seconds after the start of the last twenty minutes when Herrington grabbed the rebound off his own shot over in the corner and passed out to Rice, who rifled the rubber into the net to give the Falls the lead. The Peach Kings were again at fighting, especially on the defence, and the Falls ready to grasp at any opening that might give the game with renewed energy with Kelvebourn, Fraser and Kitchen flying them all kinds of combination clever stick on goal, Kelvebourn's nifty handling and accurate passing which while he outskated everybody on the ice. Siebert practically clinched the game for the team when he hoisted the puck into the net from a scramble which followed a hard drive by Mahon and which was stopped by Fisher. And to complete it, it was on his lone dash though given a hand check by Carson that Rice was pulled through the defence. He received possession of the puck and speeded it past Fisher. Near the close Kitchen saved a sure goal by tripping Howe after the latter had beat the defence and drew a penalty, and Rice followed him for handing out a sly poke. A general hand to scrap would have had the advantage of the two extra men and have easily rewarded when Carson stopped a dangerous rush by turning Howe from the net and then carrying the puck to the other end, gave Reid a nice pass, but Herrington had to file the puck off ice and his shot beat Mayo.

Referee—Lou E. Marsh.

CITY LEAGUE GAME AT ARENA TO-NIGHT

On Wednesday night the Rooster and Pep hockey teams of the Belleville city league, battled for thirty minutes in a vain attempt to break a 4—4 tie.

Tonight at the arena, between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock, these two teams will again play for an endeavour to decide which goes with Ivan Rice, Wolves of the North for the city league championship.

The city league has been close here this season, from the first three games

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

He stood just inside the entrance, responding to the civilities of the steward with a polite, half-contemptuous bow, then he made his way slowly toward the upper end of the room.

As he went slowly between the dancers and the promenaders, he looked to right and left as if in search of some one, and Elaine noticed that even as he bowed over Lady Blanche's hand his penetrating eyes seemed to wander beyond her ladyship's expansive smile.

The two stood talking together for a minute or two as if they were old friends or acquaintances; then saddest of all she felt Mary's hand upon her arm, "At the ten minutes up, dear?" she said in a rapturous whisper. "How good you have been! Gerald and I will never forget it, and—"

She stopped suddenly and stared beyond Elaine; and Elaine, turning her head, found the marquis by her side. She tried to greet him with a smile of polite indifference, but the smile would not come, and she could only extend her hand with a silence that seemed almost cold and repelling.

"Are you surprised to see me, Miss Delaine?" he said, his dark eyes fixed on her face with an expression difficult to describe; it and the tone of his voice seemed to indicate a pleasure which he was trying to conceal.

"Surprised?" faltered Elaine. "Did you not say that you never went to balls?"

"I did, I do not," he responded. "I had no intention until last night of coming here, but suddenly I thought how good it would be to see"—he pauses and, though he had not spoken the word, it seemed as if his eyes said "you!"—"a number of people who should be my neighbors, enjoying themselves, and—well, I came; without an invitation too," he added with a smile; "but they let me in. Why are you not dancing?"

His glance toward them at the moment with a faint cry of alarm.

"Elaine! Elaine!" The griffin. She is coming here! Oh!"

The marquis looked at the anxious little face and then at Elaine curiously; then he saw the young fellow in the background and smiled.

"I see, a conspiracy!" he said. "What has this young fellow been doing to Miss Delaine? And why are you shutting her, may one ask?"

Elaine took Kay's hand and waved Gerald Locke back to the balcony.

"This is a very dear friend of mine, Lord Nairne, and—"

"I understand," said the marquis, with a swift glance at Mary's flushed, beaming face, "and she will get into disgrace with this lady who is coming?"

"It is her aunt, Mrs. Bradley," said Elaine quickly. "Oh dear! What shall we do? She will take May home, I'm afraid."

The marquis nodded at May, very much as his elder brother might have done;

"Run away and hide," he said to her in a low voice. Then to Elaine, "Is it indiscreet me to the lady. We will save your pretty little friend from a scolding if we can."

The griffin was coming toward them with her talons extended, so to speak, and Elaine scarcely knowing whether to laugh or tremble, waited for her.

"Have you seen May recently, Miss Delaine?" she asked severely, her glances under the fair breast, her eyes searching Elaine's face suspicious ly.

"Mrs. Bradley, I believe!" said the marquis before Elaine could speak. "Will you be so good as to introduce me, Miss Delaine?"

"Lord Nairne, Mrs. Bradley," faltered Elaine.

The griffin gave a start of astonishment, and swept him a gratified courtesy.

"Are you looking for your sister, Mrs. Bradley?" he asked suavely. "Let me help you. I've no doubt we shall find her very quickly."

The griffin was coming toward them upon his arm, and assuredly crimson-ed with pride and satisfaction.

As the marquis laid her away from his lover's sibilant voice, he looked back over his shoulder and said in a low voice:

"Will you wait for just a minute?"

Elaine said neither yes nor no, and made no sign, and the next moment May crept up behind her and peered after them with frightened eyes.

"Elaine, what a good-natured man! But, that's the danger! I can't be here Mrs."

"He's a trick and a jolly good fellow whoever and whatever he is," said young Locke with keen enthusiasm.

"Run, May!" said Elaine. "Run while her back is turned, and you Mr. Locke, had better go through the next doorway to the supper-room."

The two lovers managed to clasp hands for a moment as I look-ed to each other's eyes, then fled, and Elaine was left alone.

Should she wait as he had asked her? Why should she? What right had he to ask her? Were he going to ask her to dance! She had almost re-solved to go, when he came toward her.

"You have waited, he said. "It was presumptuous of me to ask you; but you see I promised a fellow cousin-ator. Your friend is a pretty little girl, and the young fellow is a splendid boy. Are they very fond of each other?"

He had drawn a chair forward as he was speaking, and Elaine sat down as if she had been ordered to do so.

"Very," she said; "for I would not—I see... And why are they afraid of the aunt, didn't you say?"

"Mr. Locke is very poor," she said, "and—"

"Locke," A son of Sir William's, a younger son. I see! And because he is poor the girl is not to marry him. They want to sell her in a better market!"

His tone was a mixture of sadness and bitterness, and Elaine, looking up, met his eyes fixed upon her searching-ly.

"Poor woman, I pity her!—the aunt, I mean. She is only acting according to her lights, and in some cases the prevailing code." He was silent a moment, then he said, "Am I keeping you? You want to be dancing?"

"No," said Elaine; "I have lost this dance."

"Will you let me see your card." She gave it to him.

"You are engaged for nearly every dance, I see," he said. "There is one line vacant. I can't ask you to dance, it would be too cruel; but if you are not engaged I shall look for you. Perhaps you will—like to wait?"

"Are you not going to dance at all?" said Elaine; then she blushed, as she feared that he might mistake the question for an invitation; but he seemed to understand.

"No! Then why have you come?" you mean to ask," said Elaine. "That would be a difficult question to answer. I find it so when your cousin put it to me just now."

"Lady Blanche?" she said, looking at her lafgyhly as she glided past at the moment. "You know her very well?"

"I know her, yes," he said, "I went last year for some shooting to Delaine. You speak as if you scarcely knew her."

"I never saw her till to-night," said Elaine.

He looked down at her and then at Lady Blanche, as if he fully understood.

"She is very beautiful," said Elaine, in a perfectly unmoved manner.

Then he was silent again; silent, but perfectly self-possessed, as if he were quite satisfied to stand there beside her, without making any effort at conversation. But Elaine's self-possession fell short of the high standard and she was trying to think of something to say, yet dreading to express some commonplace, when a voice on the other side of the curtain was heard to say:

"Run thing his coming here tonight. He has spoken of having been here, never been among us at all, in fact; and he hasn't even had the politeness to answer the invitations we've always sent him... I do wonder what he has come for!"

It was one of the stewards, and, as it dawned upon Elaine that he was alluding to the marquis, her face grew hot, and she endeavored to speak, to say something, anything, but she seemed incapable of uttering a word.

"Yes, it's strange," replied the man to the steward who was addressing. Perhaps he has come after Lady Blanche. They say that they were very thick when he was down at the cark's place."

"Perhaps so," assented the other, in cheerful ignorance of his proximity to the man of whom he was talking so freely. "But I don't fancy that that's it somehow. He only stopped a minute or two with her just now and now he has disappeared. Depend upon it he is after no good. He's a terrible bad lot is the marquis. Did you hear that last story about him that came down from London?"

Elaine rose, her lip caught in her teeth her face pale and red by turns but the man did not notice her at all angry or even embarrassed and leaned against the window quite as much at ease as before.

"Where you wait and hear the story?" he said in a low voice. "It is sure to be all right, even if not true. Ah, they have gone! That's a pity. But"—he sighed and his face suddenly became serious and almost stern—"will you be angry if I ask you a question?"

Elaine tried to smile, and did "manage to look at him.

"What is it?" she said. "Mind I do not promise to answer."

3 cups milk,
1-2 tbspns butter,
1-2 tbspns flour,
1-4 lb grated cheese,
Salt, pepper and paprika to taste.

Melt the butter, add the flour and seasonings then the milk slowly, and cook thoroughly. Add the cheese just before serving. A dash of paprika on each serving is an attractive touch.

"You shall do as you please," he said. "Do you think that that gentleman's supposition was the right one? that I have come all the way to this field at a moment's notice to see, Lady Blanche?"

Elaine smiled.

"That is a question I could not possibly answer," she said, trying to speak lightly and carelessly, and feeling that she had completely failed.

"But I can," he said. "The gentleman was wrong in one of his conjectures, at any rate. I did not come down to see Lady Blanche, Miss Delaine. I came—"

The dance had finished and several couples poured in upon them before he could finish his sentence. Among them was her partner for the next waltz, who hailed her with an exclamation of relief and delighted satisfaction.

HAIR-DYEING PROVES PROFITABLE TRADE

London, March 6.—A leading West End hairdresser has said recently that hair-dyeing is now one of the most lucrative parts of his trade. Many women are asking for their hair to be dyed dyed hair are most anxious to undergo white-because of the distinguished effect snow-white hair gives the owner. Others are seeking a silvery-copper shade while others want the "pepper-and-salt effect" treated when hair begins to be streaked with grey.

Red and copper tints are going out of fashion and possessors of this class of hair are asking for their hair to be dyed

BELIEVE GANG HAD HAND IN MURDER

Buffalo, March 6.—Police have worked in the belief that Giuseppe Mazzotti, 36, was slain by gangsters within the shadow of police headquarters early yesterday, and information about a gang which planted a bomb in Carlton Simpson's Pierce-Arrow automobile and blew him to pieces on Niagara Falls Thursday, afternoon.

Mazzotti was shot through the back of the head. In his pockets were found an army discharge and a .45 calibre automatic revolver.

Officials believe Mazzotti was on the verge of making important revelations and that his associates decided to remove him from their path.

Today the Niagara County organization of the K.K.K. offered a reward of $1,000 for the apprehension of the assassins of Preston. This offer brings the total reward to $6,000.

With the investigators taking the view of T. M. Hennessey, special deputy collector of internal revenue, here that a custom exists in the underworld of slaying the bomb murder victims are apprehended, they are bending every effort to run the slayers to earth. There is also a crime commission at work in Buffalo and it is believed at the Bath that has brought so many crime detecting agencies into such close co-operation as the present case.

New Type Tax

in cash department have had at work their pruning knife to cut expenditures to a minimum without realizing that false economy which only leaves for another day the necessity of meeting the obligations and strategic some of the most beneficial avenues.

"Last year we were not in a position to carry out what could be done. This year we can say that we have made a positive beginning in an attempt to cut down expenditure with considerable success, there are still items that honorable members will find objectionable, but they will realize that it is impossible to carry on without some of the items. Many items have been collected in full others will be so opportunely for the individual, have been omitted here and there. As an instalment of that the province is abandoning the field of taxation on billiard and pool room to the municipalities. This will mean to the provincial treasury, about $100,000. Next year I see these new imposts are in full swing and we will be able to go on to abandon other fields, provided that we still keep in mind the fact that we must not encourage the spending fund.

"By Government ownership you have very careful attention to the establishing of a sinking fund, either by the issuing of serial bonds or annitized bonds. That fund is being watched and we now, which if brought into effect at the beginning of the next fiscal year, would reduce about $2,000,000 annually for the purpose of paying off bonded indebtedness. Specific mention should would be supplied from the Hydro and other revenue producing sources. The balance would have to come out of our ordinary expenditures.

"In making up a statement of what might be expected for the coming year, I have had to take into consideration a number of factors.

"First a revenue. Revenue is affected by the general business condition of the country. At present the collection of taxes everywhere. In looking over the revenue estimated by the various departments we have an estimated revenue for the coming year of $46,500,000.

"The departments feels that we will collect $1,500,000 more than in 1924.

Lands and Forests Department. We will receive somewhat more in the Motor vehicles branch. The Government collector on the race courses and Amusement race courses will be established. If we were left on the same basis as we were last year, it is quite likely that the revenue, which this year amounted to somewhat in excess of $40,000,000, would be decreased to about $39,000,000.

"The revenue for the part of this fiscal year now past show a general decline. Against the increase in expenditure we are faced right away with an increased estimated bill—for this fiscal year of about $1,500,000. In estimating, therefore, the next year's payments. If there is to be a general decrease in the cost of living from the unbelievable expenditures which they reached at $16,000,000. Each department in making an attempt to make a further cut this year in these expenditures. It is safe to say, however, that the payments will be at least very well indeed if it can keep its total ordinary expenditure next year somewhere between $49,000,000 and $50,000,000. The estimate for 1924 was estimated is $49,072,000.

"It has been the custom in bringing down the budget to set forth an estimate of the income and expenditure for the present fiscal year. Now the Government found such a condition as to make it impossible to make any more than a guess. After considerable pressure I was assured that I did not believe we would be able to cut down over $50,000. The estimate we start from this year has been over $49,000,000. The Government has taken on up by the uncontrollable expenditures. Last year, in order to keep the estimate of increase was $4,000,000 and we have $1,500,000 more than that.

"Last year, it will be remembered, that a large amount of our first budget I made an appeal to the municipalities to support the Government in any economical advances that could be made. I desire now to thank the members, irrespective of party, for their very kind co-operation. They have carried out in most cases as they had to cut down expenditures that vitally affected the municipalities, and municipalities, I ask for their further help in reducing this year, so that with the new revenues induced by new policies we will be able to operate at least next year without a deficit.

Expenditure for 1922 : $43,035,439.15
Expenditure for 1924 . . 49,009,698.10

Net decrease 295,750.90

"There is an net decrease outside the public debt of $2,627,453.75.

"If to this could be added the difference in discount on loan expenditure to $398,181.94, the actual decrease would have amounted to $3,025,635.69. Here, however, the uncontrollable expenditure comes in because in 1924 the interest on the public debt amounted to $13,510,708.38 and in 1925 it stood at $16,173,502.43. We therefore, paid in 1924 $2,662,864.05 more interest on the money spent in 1923 and more particularly the $40,000,000 loan which had to be floated this Government came into power almost wiped out all the improvement that the existing down of expenditures in every department had made. Instead, therefore of having to our credit a reduction of $3,025,635.69 we have added to the difference in discount on loans of $398,181.94, we have to take from these heavy interest payments over which we had no control; leaving only to our credit a reduction of $295,750.90.

Clare Bow Plays Role of Dark Eyed High School Girl

"The human face, is colored by nature, accentuated by the eye of the camera. The natural coloring must be changed by liberal use of powder and artificial aids of the make-up box."

So said a great director several years ago. This expert, now accepted theory is to be subjected to a severe shock with the appearance, in the near future, of little Clara Bow, who is playing the most important picture role without the collaring influence of the make-up box.

Clara, who is an athletic, healthy color ed, dark-eyed high school product of scarcely eighteen years, is playing the featured role in the Gasnier production of "Poisoned Paradise," the Preferred Picture now at the Belle Theatre. Since the opening scene she worked with neither grease paint nor powder. The full red of her lipsmess found to picture value dark, however, and a touch of a lighter rose has been applied to soften the effect.

Discovery Accidental

"It was by accident that we discovered Miss Bow could appear with the combination of color—a natural screen harmony," said Karl Brown, Gasnier's cameraman. "She appeared for a screen test from her high school, and fairly expression was of no importance. She had put on no make-up. Much to our surprise we found that the result was far more satisfactory than when the accustomed powder and rouge were plastered generously were used. Another experiment and it was proved that the dark eyes, her lightly colored skin and cupid's bow lips would be pictured as they are."

MEN OF ENGLAND SEEK ALASKA'S GOLD

London, March 6—A search for gold in Alaska by a band headed Yorkshire and Lancashire men will begin in the month. A small party of business men in the north of England are expediting to Alaska some time this month to practically sold out their business and their lives to a well-known commercial agent in Hull, claims he discovered during the Klondyke rush twenty years ago, when he was prospecting for tin. He has in his possession small samples of the precious ore, the party intends to float a company to work it in Vancouver. Another idea being considered is to have an aeroplane available to convey samples from Alaska to Vancouver.

Debate on the contract between the Government and Sir William Peterson will not be continued today in the Commons, but before the House adjourned last evening the Prime Minister stated, in answer to questions, that the Government did not propose to bring up this matter again until a number of other matters had been disposed of. He had been decided to defer the discussion until next Tuesday.

Ritchie Man Has Interesting Visit

An Annual Excursion to New York for New Ideas

A visit with an old Toronto boy, now in New York, who was for seven years editor of a drapery magazine with two private secretaries, and, who now caters to millionaires in drapery and home furnishing suggestions, was an interesting feature of the recent annual trip to the big city by Hector T. E. Poole of the Ritchie Company.

He also saw:

One button pressed and 5,000 lights instantly reflected the latest subdued hues of the newest in piano, lyridon and parlor lamps.

Mr. Poole is in charge of the drapery and furnishing department of the Ritchie store and has a wealth of interesting facts for those interested which may only be obtained by a visit to the clearing house of modern ideas—New York City.

From the drapery expert, and from the authority on lamps and shades, to the gorgeous showroom for example, many business and fashion trips were secured. One suite of rooms occupied by a millionaire widow and her daughters in one of the largest hotels was completely furnished by this former Ritchie expert at the cost of thousands. Each piece of silk and every piece of furniture was imported from India for instance. It is an Indian home so to speak.

"I go there to get next the latest ideas in this involved and practical business," explained the man who has been with Ritchie company since he was thirteen years old, when sent by the Intelligencer this morning.

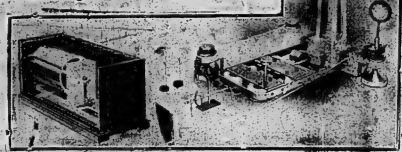

Two important resolutions were adopted at the afternoon session of the Presbytery of St. John, N. B., yesterday. The first was that the St. John Presbytery remain loyal to the Presbyterian Church as it moves forward into union, and the second that the New Brunswick Legislature be asked not to make any change in the present union bill.

MOVE FOR IMMEDIATE RELIEF FOR HOME BANK

Ottawa, March 8.—T. L. Church (North Toronto), intends to move in the House for "immediate and direct relief" to the depositors of the Home Bank, and that the Canadian Bankers' Association should assist the Government to meet the losses sustained by failure of the bank.

A uniform rate of $1.50 a day for patients in the Brantford General Hospital has been decided upon by the municipal ities of Brant County, after several consultations.

The suspension of Dr. R. Glen Chairman of the East Children's Aid Society at Chatham, has been accepted with great regret by the remaining members of the board. Charles Austin has been appointed to his vacancy.

Government Train Coming Through Soon

Thirteen Cars of Stock and Exhibits With Competent Staff, on Tour

The Ontario Better Live Stock Train is coming through Eastern Ontario in two weeks' time with a display that is worthy of the inspection of everyone, a special train of thirteen cars, seven of which are live stock cars, and the remainder for demonstration and lecture work, is touring Eastern and Northern Ontario from March 18th until May 11th, 1935.

According to the special time table which has been supplied the Intelligencer, the train will be at Trenton on March 20th from 9 a.m. until noon, Consecon from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. that same day. On March 21st the train will be at Wellington from 9 a.m. until noon, and in the afternoon from 2 until 5 will be at Picton. On the morning of the 23rd the train will be at Shannonville and at Napanee all afternoon.

The C.N.R. and C.P.R. are supplying the train and with the C. & N. O. are operating the train free of charge to the Ontario and Dominion Departments of Agriculture which are supplying the staff and equipment.

Because the railways and Departments of Agriculture realize the importance of good live stock in its relation to the general prosperity of agriculture the train has been made up primarily for educational purposes.

The live stock exhibit will consist of horses, beef cattle, dairy cattle, sheep, swine and poultry. Special exhibits of wool bacon, seeds, feeds and fertilizers have also been arranged.

Two very high class horses, one a heavy draught gelding loaned by the A. very high class Jersey bull that A.

Mahatma Gandhi, who has been forced to admit failure of his attempts to unify the Moslem and Hindu factions of India.

Brookville Shale Brick Company, and the other an express type gelding loaned by the City Dairy Company, Toronto, will be used for demonstration work. The Dairy Cattle exhibit containing both cows and bulls in Eastern Ontario, will be particularly attractive, containing each noted animals as "Sir Francey Mercean Burke" that famous holstein bull owned by D. A. McPhee, Vankleek Hill. The bull, it will be remembered, won the Junior Championship at the Great National Dairy Show, Syracuse, in 1933. F. M. Rutherford, Bonar Law, is loaning for Eastern Ontario, the noted Ayrshire Show bull "Robin Hood of Springbank" formerly owned by J. J. Bissnell, M.P.

Elderly Doctor Killed Daughter

To Put Her Out of Misery; On Murder Charge

Denver, March 8.—In the eyes of the law, the chloroforming of 32-year old Hazel Ingris Blaser, paralyzed and mentally undeveloped, was murder, District Attorney Joel E. Stone indicated with announcement that he would file charges against the aged father, who confessed to the crime because he would not have his idolized daughter become "a burden on the community."

The statute calls it murder. I would go no further than that," Philip Van Cise, former district attorney of Denver county, said yesterday in commenting on the crime. His terse statement has been made the guiding principle in handling of the case.

Meanwhile, Dr. H. E. Blaser, 81-year-old father, whose medical science, although it could not cure, pointed the way to a humane death, lies in a critical condition at his home. Dr. E. R. Daniels, attending him, said that his chances for surviving "are questionable."

Dr. Blaser has successfully fought off physicians who attempted to deny the self-inflicted razor cuts in his throat. Danger of infection is imminent Dr. Daniels declared.

T. Little, London, is counting on as a show prospect has also been secured. In addition each car is given exclusively to each of the following:—Beef Cattle, Sheep, Swine, Poultry and Dairy Products.

A competent staff of Demonstrators and Lecturers has been arranged so that everyone may enjoy a profitable visit to the train.

Man Found Dead Of Cultured Sort

Mystery Surrounds Boat Watchman; Wrote For Magazine, Claim

Toronto, March 6—Search is being made in Toronto for the cousin of Gertie Campbell, who was found to death Friday night in Buffalo.

Of Campbell very little is known, and the circumstances of his death are somewhat peculiar. He was employed aboard the Hamilton ferry as a lake steamer, the Roland, which was in harbor in Buffalo. Before the circumstance of his body being found caught in a hawser, it is claimed that the unfortunate man had left the boat and on returning had found himself locked out and that he had attempted to crawl through the transom, was caught and in the bitter cold was frozen to death.

It is supposed that Campbell has a cousin in Toronto of unknown name. He is also supposed to have relatives living in England.

A circumstance which connects him with Toronto is that on the body was found a note book which showed the name of a Toronto lawyer. Buffalo authorities communicated with this lawyer who had, however, no knowledge of the man or why he should have his name in his note book. Campbell is known to have worked on other lake boats, among them the late R. L. Copp and the Theodore H. Wickwire. It was thought that the episode solicitor's connection with another line of lake boats might give some clue leading to the establishment of the identity of Campbell and his relatives.

Some mystery and some romance seem to surround the life of George Campbell. He is known to have been a well educated man and it is said that he contributed to the Saturday Evening Post. Why he should be working as a watchman on a boat is not known.

Another rumor which may lead to the establishing of his identity, and which adds a touch of romance to the man, is that he was through the war in the Prince of Wales Regiment. His name is said to have been officially annihilated and that the 40 men who survived the war were each the recipients of a $10,000 share in the estate of one of their deceased officers

Germany Getting Her Trade Back

Secures New Hold on Textile Industry in Northern Italy

(Associated Press Despatch)

Milan, Italy, March 6—Germany, which exercised a decisive economic influence in northern Italy before the war, is rapidly regaining its ground in all the textile industry. It is understood that the numerous spinning mills in the neighborhood of Milan are again mostly in the hands of German capital, and that a system of cheap Italian and skilled German labor on the product has been worked out by which cotton and imitation silk goods yield handsome profits.

The firms about Milan import their cotton from America and the yarn is spun by cheap Italian labor. The partly-finished product is then sent to the textile concerns of middle Germany chiefly in the neighborhood of Chemnitz, where certain processes requiring skilled labor, such as dyeing, are applied. Then the almost-finished product wanders back once more to Italy, from where it is sold. The combination of cheap Italian and skilled German labor enables the manufacturers to set up prices that can compete successfully with those of other countries.

A large part of the product goes to Argentina. The fact that the exporting country in Italy is an especially favorable circumstance for the German weavers, since Italy has a treaty with Argentina by which her textiles enjoy advantages which are not extended to Germany.

SELECTING DAIRY COW

TEMPERAMENT, FEED CAPACITY, CONSTITUTION AND VIGOR.

These Are the Points Which Should Receive Attention and Which Article Tells What to Look For Under Each of These Heads.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

When a man is in need of dairy cows and goes out to search for animals that are likely to be profitable to him there are a number of things to be kept in mind. A cow is a cow, but comparatively few are real high producers and valuable cows. The purchaser should depend on his own judgment, and not on the statements of owners unless such statements are backed up by actual records of production.

Cows with "dairy temperament" have thin necks, sharp withers, prominent rumpbone, hips and pin bones; the tapering thighs and the general body conformation that is wedge-shaped in outline when a side view is viewed. Dairy temperament is also associated with alertness, nervous activity, and lack of all coarseness in the individual.

Cows with "feed capacity" show plenty of room or middle for the storage of feed. They are long and deep between the shoulder and the hip, long faces, wide forehead, broad muzzle, and large jaw with full well-developed salivary glands.

Cows with "constitution and vigor" have wide chests with large lungs, have a big strong heart, a strong circulation of blood to all parts of the body. This condition is usually reflected in the healthy condition of the hair, silky covering of the skin and well-developed, prominent veins on the lower side of the abdomen and on the udder, face and neck. Constitution and vigor is also shown in large bright eyes, large nostrils and a general alertness.

Cows with "well-developed milk organs" can boast of the following characteristics:

Udder well attached to the body and not pendulous.

Udder tissue pliable and soft to the touch, free from coarseness, hard areas or lumps.

Udder of good size, extended well forward and high up behind.

Large veins running from the anterior attachment forward and well along the abdomen.

The skin covering the udder is soft and pliable, tests are of a good size to fill the head jugulars are evenly placed.

Don't forget the producing dairyman is not likely to sell his best cows unless they have faults are most likely he offers them for sale. If you can see her milked so much the better. Bruce Robertson, Dept. of Extension, O. A. College.

POSED AS MAN TO SUPPORT CHILDREN

Los Angeles, March 6—Mrs. Edna Britten Dahl, 30 years old, a mother of two children, was jailed here Saturday for impersonating a man, and during her brief masculine career committed jobs. The woman had masqueraded for months in her masculine workers' garb, deceiving even her fellow employees. She earned regular construction workers' wages which she said she needed for the support of her two youngsters.

LAST WAR RESTRICTION LIFTED

London, March 6—The last of the war-time restrictions on the export service was put into effect by England was removed early in February. The postmaster general announced that the money order service between Great Britain and the Duchy of Luxemburg, suspended in August, 1914, had been reopened virtually on the same basis as eleven years ago.

Brigadier Tompson Walton, who went to Montreal from Toronto a few months ago to take charge of the Salvation Army citadel there, has been appointed a lieutenant-colonel by General Booth.

Her Friend Says:

"She Is Skinny"

If she only knew that she could put on at least 5 pounds of good, healthy flesh in 30 days she wouldn't be worrying about her peaked face, hollow cheeks and neck and run down, tired look.

She has tried Cod Liver Oil, but the ill-smelling, nasty tasting stuff upset her stomach and made her feel worse than before.

Doctors and good pharmacists know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitalizing vitamines that make flesh create appetite, restores vigor, builds up the power to resist disease and causes away nervousness.

But its horrible tasting stuff and every day fewer people are taking it for doctor's orders. Instead the live people are fast learning that they can get better results with McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, which Dolan's Drug Store, Downing Street Store, Doyle's Drug Store and druggists all over the country are having a tremendous demand for.

It is a wonderful upbuilding medicine for skinny, backward children, especially after sickness and 60 tablets only cost 60 cents.

One woman gained 10 pounds in 10 days and if any skinny man or woman can't put on 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist will gladly return the purchase price.

Whole Town Honors Diamond Wedding Dug

Aged Couple Showered with Felicitations and Presented an Ocasion

Hackensack, N. J., March 6.—It wasn't a legal holiday in Wyckoff, but the borough councilmen took it upon themselves to make half a holiday out of it, and all business was suspended as soon as that the town could participate in the diamond wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Demarest.

During the sixty-seven years they have lived in Wyckoff. They were born in Franklin, Sussex county, N. J. Wyckoff is a part. Dr. Demarest is 97 and his wife 92.

Governor Silzer telegraphed his congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Demarest the previous afternoon.

Seventy-five years ago Tuesday, John Demarest and Susan Winter rode horse back to Preakness, a distance of twelve miles, and were married. At the most recent ceremony their home was surrounded by a hundred or more automobiles, with not a horse or buggy in sight. Every section of Bergen county was represented.

The school was closed and at two o'clock 300 boys and girls marched through the streets to the Syrian Lake Farm, owned by P. S. Pulis, son-in-law of the late couple's brother Mr. and Mrs. Demarest are making their home in their own cottage built in 1772.

A number of the school children were rostumed to represent the bridal party of a former day. A bride and groom marched past like venerable couple, followed by the ring bearer and flower girls.

Mr. Demarest's cranium is still good, and he smiled his approval of the proceedings. Mrs. Demarest's skull is not so good, but she, too, smiled when told of the pageant.

Judge John B. Zabriskie was master of ceremonies. He resides in Wyckoff. He presented Mr. Demarest with a walking stick that had a gold band and two diamonds in it. Then he presented an opera chair to Mrs. Demarest. Both gifts were from the people of Wyckoff. "Your long and happy married life dates far back from the days of our town secretion, and to our present generation as well; and it is a record that might well be copied," he said.

"I want to thank you for the honor been to be partner and pal," Mr. Demarest replied.

Then Henry C. Harnet, chairman of the Township Committee, and James B. Cook, president of the Board of Education, congratulated the newlyweds.

Every visitor had been promised a small box containing a bit of wedding cake as a souvenir, but the supply ran short. There were 500 boxes and at 4 o'clock there were none left.

The First National Bank of Wyckoff which closed for the half-holiday issued a souvenir containing pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Demarest and stating that they were the bank's oldest depositors, before them a thousand dollar bills were distributed and still there were pictures.

Movie operators were present, but because of the cold Mr. Pulis refused to allow the aged couple to leave the house.

The only relative absent was Frederick Demarest a brother of the groom, who is 78, and a resident of California.

Among the presents was a box of silver from Mr. P. S. Pulis. Six grand children and eight great grandchildren were present.

Among the gifts received was a radio set, which was set up in time so that Mr. and Mrs. Demarest could hear the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, of Brooklyn, congratulate them in the course of his Sunday sermon. Dr. Cadman has a summer home just north of Wyckoff.

Mr. Demarest has been a deacon for many years.

Shortly after their marriage, in 1858, Mr. Demarest moved to New York, where the bridegroom was engaged as a bookkeeper, but after three years they returned to their farm at Cycal Lake and remained there until they moved to the Pulis farm some twenty-three years ago.

Would Teach Young To Buy In Canada

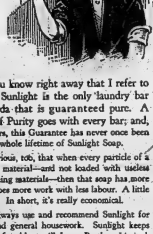

Mayor of Winnipeg Recommends Ten-Minutes Daily in Schools

Saskatoon Sask., March 6.—Statement that the "American trade magazines and advertising were but propaganda with which American manufacturers were flooding the country, and that the only way to relieve the unemployment situation in this country was for everyone to purchase "made in Canada" goods, presented an emphatic appeal to the people of the west to assert them selves in Manitoba for their rights, and the completion of the Hudson's Bay Railway, above all, in an address by Colonel Ralph H. Webb, mayor of Winnipeg, to the Saskatchewan school trustees' convention.

He urged that teachers make it a duty to take the pupils each day to some children to buy Canadian goods.

The Prairies were not interested in the secession talk that had been heard, the speaker declared, but the actions of people in the east made the west pretty sore at times.

"It's guaranteed pure — and purity means value in soap —" says Mrs. Experience to housewives interested in saving.

"Of course, you know right away that I refer to Sunlight—because Sunlight is the only laundry bar soap made in Canada that is guaranteed pure. A $5,000 Guarantee of Purity goes with every bar; and, according to the makers, this Guarantee has never once been challenged during the whole lifetime of Sunlight Soap.

"It's perfectly obvious, too, that when every particle of a soap is pure cleansing material—and not loaded with useless adulterants and hardening materials—then that soap has more cleansing power and does more work with less labour. A little of it goes a long way. In short, it's really economical.

"That's why I always use and recommend Sunlight for the laundry, dishes and general housework. Sunlight keeps my hands soft and comfortable, too!" Lever Brothers Limited, Toronto, make it.

SPRAYING FRUIT TREES

PRACTICAL INSTRUCTIONS ABOUT A VERY NECESSARY WORK.

Have a Good Outfit—Spray as the Caleander Tells You—Spray Right Through the Trees—Keep Tank, Pump and Nozzles Clean.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

1. Do not spray at all unless you are going to try to do it well. It will pay.

2. You cannot make a success of apple growing without good spraying.

3. You cannot spray properly with a good outfit which will give you plenty of pressure. Over-spraying will sid spray machine at once, or if it is not satisfactory buy a new one with plenty of power.

4. Get a spray calendar from your Agricultural Representative, or from Mr. P. W. Hodgetts, Director Fruit Branch, Toronto, or Prof. L. Caesar, O. A. College, Guelph. Tack it up in the spray shed where it will always be available.

5. Use only the spray materials recommended in the spray calendar.

6. Do not spray when it happens to be convenient, but when and at the times the spray calendar says. The time wasting is at the wrong intervals and the times given in the spray calendar are based on years of research.

7. Omit none of the first three regular sprays, some years the last is the most important, some the second and some the third. Each spray helps to make the next more effective and each must be given to insure clean fruit.

8. Mcintosh and Snow trees should always receive a dormant application. Read what the spray calendar recommends under "Dormant sprays and remarks" and be guided by it.

9. You will not succeed on a free scale on large trees, twenty-five years old or more, unless you first prune them heavily and scrape the loose bark off with a hoe. Then see that every particle of the bark is wet with the liquid; a mere mist or a light spray will not kill the scale. Use lime sulphur 1 to 7 of water, preferably just as the buds are bursting.

10. For scab and codling moth cover both sides of every fruit and also cover every leaf. Scab attacks the leaves, too, and if often washed from them to the fruit. It will require from 7 to 10 gallons for each tree twenty years old or upwards, but not just 3 or 4 gallons.

11. Be sure the spray reaches right through the trees. To insure this go in, if necessary, underneath the tree and spray the part beyond the trunk first, then step inside and spray the remaining part. Do this from both sides. Remember that it is the centre or middle part of the tree where scab naturally is worst and poor sprayers usually always miss this side though they often cover the punny on outer side quite right.

12. A tower, even with a spray gun, is a great help. Often it will suffice to stand on the tank. A rail or peg or support on it reserves the danger of falling.

13. Do not use large openings in the discs of either nozzles or spray guns unless you have 250 pounds pressure or more. They are wasteful, make it difficult to maintain high pressure, and give too coarse a spray.

14. In many cases spraying will be done with a rod and three angle disc nozzles than with a gun. In any case use some system in spraying so that you will make sure everything is being covered in a methodical way.

15. Have a handy place to fill the tank. Ten minutes should be long enough for any tank.

16. Do not stop spraying because rain threatens. Go right on until the rain has well begun. It is rain and moisture which cause scab outbreaks.

17. Do not stick to an eight or ten hour day when spraying, but make every effort to get it done as soon as possible without sacrificing thoroughness. If the second spray is not finished before the blossoms open, omit the poison and go on until it is finished.

18. Wash out the tank and pump clean water through the machine and nozzles at the close of each day.

19. Remember spraying gives healthy foliage and is a great factor in producing annual crops as well as giving clean fruit. Even trees that are not bearing should be sprayed to keep them healthy.

20. Get a new spray calendar each year.

21. When in difficulty consult your Agricultural Representative or write to Prof. L. Caesar, O. A. College, Guelph, or W. A. Ross, Vineland, or L. Caesar, O. A. College, Guelph.

Farm Notes.

Improved breeding is urgently needed in dairy herds. Most dairymen feed and house their cattle in a manner that is worthy of much better cattle than they are keeping. Efficient cows, efficiently fed and housed, are the dairyman's economic salvation. The most successful dairymen are breeders and improvers of dairy cattle.

While silage is an excellent feed for dairy stock, it should be combined with some leguminous feed, such as clover, cowpeas, or alfalfa, owing to its insufficient productive quality. The leguminous material will tend to correct the deficiencies of the silage in dry matter, protein, and mineral constituents.

The dairyman's motto is: "Production first"; and every cow, pure-bred or grade, that not produces and keeps because we can't afford to keep her. This is one reason why more pure-bred breeders ahsn cow testing associations. They are afraid of their records; grade sons of their cows are not paying for their feed or straits some grade cow will step into fast for them.

FRENCH GODMOTHER MARRIES HER HERO

Paris March 6— An unusual war romance has come to a happy ending in the marriage of Emilie Picard, French aviator and, Mlle. Edmee Bon, who was his godmother during the war. What gives peculiar piquancy to the match is that the usual story is that of a man and a woman parted by war. His and gave up all hope of happiness.

He was flying to Sicily in 1922, when his plane was wrecked on the vicinity of the Sicilian coast, near Pantelleria. The machine caught fire, and the pilot was horribly burned, for some time quite hope was held for his recovery, and Picard knew that even if he did recover he would be disfigured for life.

It was then that Mlle. Bon hearing of his plight, sank took over the role of godmother she had played during the war.

Insurance executive says Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is "Conqueror of Constipation"

Former addict to pills and drugs says ALL-BRAN restored youthful vim.

—Here is a most remarkable tribute to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN!

"For years I was constipated—and used pills, drugs and enemas to all kinds of no avail. Even my mother suffered from constipation. They brought only temporary relief. Then I learned about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN and as a result I know the joy of real freedom from the terrible fear of constipation. I am active in the prime of life, thanks to the personal knowledge of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Truly, Mr. Ed. Kellogg, you are entitled to the honor of constipation.

(Signed) A. M. Sweeney,
(Address on request).

Let Kellogg's ALL-BRAN combat constipation for you. Doctors recommend it. It is what they call a bulk food, that sweeps the intestinal tract, thereby aiding digestion and normal, healthy action. Sensitive half-strength ALL-BRAN drugs can never do.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, relief is guaranteed or your grocer returns the purchase price. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made in London, Canada. Served in leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

AID INSPECTOR IS HURT AT PORT HOPE

His unfortunate accident occurred at the Port Hope C.P.R. station Wednesday night when Rev. Dr. Daley, inspector for the Children's Aid Society for Northumberland and Durham, was knocked down by an automobile and had his collar bone broken. It appears that Dr. Daley had arrived at Port Hope on the 7.05 train from the east and, instead of walking along the platform to the pathway from the station to Peter Street, he stepped off the platform and failed to see the livery car of Lingard Brothers backing into the platform. He was knocked down, the rear fender striking him and throwing him heavily to the ground. Fortunately he fell clear of the car wheels, although he was soon at hand and a doctor summoned. Dr. Daley was removed to the hospital, where examination it was found he was suffering from a broken collar bone.

Burlington Is Now Cross-Word Crazy

Industry Halts While Brains Fag in Vain, For Solution

Hamilton, March 6.—Burlington is in the grip of a terrific mania. Citizens have ceased to care whether the sun shines, the wind blows or the rain falls. These are but details. Clergy laity, prohibitionists, anti-prohibitionists, unionists and non-unionists, pro and all are united against the common enemy.

Business interests remain unopposed, civic affairs go by the board, even the consumption of foodstuffs has fallen off a minimum, so great has the obsession persistently enlist at the roots of the very existence of the invading enemy.

Local physicians are becoming alarmed. Some relief must be secured.

It all arose over a word in eight letters designating "something covered by gold."

Four puzzle fans there enjoying a midnight steak and onions last Friday night when one of them, with a half agnostic air, produced a newspaper copy of a crossword puzzle taken from a newspaper. All the mystic squares were filled in, with the exception of eight meaning "something covered with gold." His three friends approach ed the steak and onions, plus the puzzle, with great gusto. Soon the steak was shoved aside undiished. Pencils sought mystified lips to be moistened to indite the word which would overcome.

The Chinese chef leaned up against the portico watching the efforts with inscrutable silence. What he thought the workers did not know and cared less. Just before 2 o'clock one of them remembered the local local jeweler. The telephone was resorted to.

"What is a word of eight letters meaning 'to be covered with gold'?" the awakened jeweler was asked.

"Ring up Bedrest. It's my alcohol pseudonym," replied the sleepy voice after a few scary grunts.

In great excitement the number designated was rung up. The answer was about to be found. All desire to find the answer for personal effort had long since died out. The answer was the thing; how it was secured a detail. "Hello; what is it?"

"Say, what is an eight lettered word meaning 'to be covered with gold?'"

"Haven't the foggiest idea. This is Dr. Enlab's office. Do you want to speak to him?"

The receiver was hung up. The jeweler had given them the number of the Ontario Hospital for the Insane.

However, next day one of the quartet had his revenge. Entering the jeweler's store he saw the latter quick to cover a deal. A few minutes later his hand slipped away. There was a ring of the pocket. It was all filled in with the exception of eight-letter word.

The story spread. It sounded easy. Hundreds of copies of the puzzle were secured, and confining, ears started out to secure the solution. It is still unsolved. Thursday morning it was announced around the town that only two contests remained open if the term was to be saved. Either the author of the puzzle must be found or publicity gagged, drawn and quartered, or a colossal reward, capable of moving the biggest minds of the continent to effort be announced.

Action is pending.

WORLD'S LARGEST FARM

Sir Sidney Kidman, the Australian cattle king, owns what is believed to be the world's largest farm. It embraces 40,000 square miles—an area roughly equivalent to nearly the whole of England.

Don Luis Terraza, of Mexico, with 6,000,000 acres, or one-fifth the area has a greater showing of stock, including 1,000,000 head of cattle, 700,000 sheep and 100,000 horses.

Perhaps third on the list is Mrs. King, whose cattle and sheep ranch in Texas is fenced in by 300 miles of barbed wire.

Robert J. Blain, former assistant post master at Silverdale, pleaded guilty before Magistrate Campbell at St. Catharines to the theft of five money orders from the postoffice.

PHANTOM FINN IS APPLAUDED IN QUEEN CITY

Its His Marvelous Legs that Impressed Phil Brockel

USES WHOLE FOOT

Nurmi Didn't Extend Himself Last Night, However

Mr. Phil Brockel, Physical director at the Y.M.C.A. representing The Daily Intelligencer for the Belleville district, last night where Paavo Nurmi, Finnish distance runner and record breaker made Maple Leaf Gardens resound with applause, was a runner himself a few years ago, and who takes a great interest in all kinds of sport, had a place at the table in the centre of the ring with the boys and had the write on the Finn, who, during various times within observing distance from himself stood out as a marvel in English, however, at distance against Nurmi.

Mr. Brockel's story, follows:

Finally I saw Paavo Nurmi, Finn's next greatest runner of all time did not last very distant at Toronto Friday night but he did thrill over 3,000 fans who came to see him perform. Running with four local speed merchants on a three mile race he was content to let the local boys set the pace until the mile was past and then he put loose and for the remaining three laps he opened up a big lead proving that he can run and he does it.

Tried the Track

Coming out on the side-track—the time he went to rap—he tried the track and took only public statement regarding the night, when he said, "The track is not bad" and that is the present local opinion. He never knew how to answer that question and refused just and very keen to start hard running.

He took a preparatory couple of easy strides and literally bolted away from the starting line. Nurmi, the Finn does not show anything until those powerful legs start to stir in the distance. Even then there does not seem to be any tremendous amount of real stride or speed that he runs more fast—but of that we are used to. Having pretty well-used the whole foot, he uses a long stride and has plenty of free action with a sweep of power. It is because of the smooth effortless movement is like a purring of well machinery, and a pleasure to watch. Whether any one else could run the phenomenal pace he set, as no doubt many will try, remains to be seen. Consideration must be taken into account, when one tries to explain his great success.

"Body Break Records

Apparently Nurmi's only object is to run, and break records. He does not intend to hold every world's running record that he can while in the game, probably will be seems able to better any one he puts out to do it, and probably he has been running in the past 5 years although he is now 28 years of age.

New Serial Monday In Intelligencer

James Oliver Curwood's "Baree, Son of Kazan", Offered Readers

The Daily Intelligencer has another treat in store for its readers.

This newspaper has arranged for the right to publish "Baree, Son of Kazan" by the famous author, James Oliver Curwood. The story will be supplied in serial form starting Monday with a sequence first instalment.

Those who know the works of James Oliver Curwood and have not read "Baree, Son of Kazan," know they have pleasurable reading ahead of them. Others who have not read Curwood will have a good opportunity to get acquainted with him.

Baree, Son of Kazan, is a love epic of the far north, in which a wild cub takes an important role. In the first few issues you will become acquainted with this unusual dog and then you are plunged into an interesting story of love and the intelligence part that Baree plays in it.

Don't miss the first instalment on Monday.

SOME 14,000 MEN GO OUT ON STRIKE

Sydney, N. S., March 7—Following a failure of conciliation efforts, a general strike of 14,000 workers, one or two small collieries on the mainland, principally controlled by the Dominion Coal Company, will be mixed in any of the great mines that constitute the most important single industry in the Province.

Community Talks Start Tomorrow

Dr. S. D. Gordon, Distinguished Speaker, at Bridge Street Church

Methodists, Presbyterians, Baptists Anglicans and people of other religious persuasions in Belleville are pushing an energetic organization into the block ground next week on the occasion of the visit to the city being paid by Dr. S. D. Gordon.

Starting to-morrow and continuing until Friday evening next, this noted speaker is to appear in Bridge Street Methodist Church in a series of Community addresses. On this Sunday, the distinguished visitor will speak morning and evening, and on the week days following, the Community addresses will take place from 12.15 to 1 p.m. and evening at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Gordon is of Scotch-Irish parentage. He has been in Philadelphia. In his early years he became a communicant of the Scotch Presbyterian Church, though he claims his conversion from Moody's visit to Philadelphia in 75 and '76.

After a few years in one of the old banks of Philadelphia, he gave all his time to religious work. Being led to devote himself to special Christian meetings, his field of activity gradually broadened until he is now a world-wide worker.

As an author his work is probably known in every land. His Quiet Talks on personal religion (fifteen volumes) in the seven years that he has been in the enormous field of real and a half have been of such universal helpfulness that they have been translated into twenty-five different languages.

A World-Wide Ministry

In response to invitation Mr. Gordon spent four years speaking in foreign lands. After his work throughout the British Isles, he continued through Continental Europe, from the Latin speaking countries of the South to the Scandinavian and Slavic countries of the North finishing his work abroad by a twenty weeks of engagements throughout China, Japan and Korea.

Since returning to America, Mr. Gordon has written a series of "Quiet Talks" in theatres (chiefly), in the business districts of great cities. In New York City he has been twice for nine weeks each, Philadelphia seven times, Washington City six weeks, Baltimore five weeks, Boston twice, four and five times, nine weeks each, and he has also travelled these series into Western and Southern cities.

All Dr. Gordon's meetings are characterized by simplicity, directness, quiet, new unity.

The topics for the six days are as follows:

Sunday 11 a.m.—There's Some One at your side you can't see.

7 p.m.—Secrets of Old Community was gently but radically changed.

12.15 to 1 p. m.

Monday—Talk: Christmas, Blind Alleys, and how to get out.

Tuesday—Quiet Hour: The Secret Life Quit Making Money.

Wednesday—Temptation: As an Experience, Or as a Foe—or Friend?

Thursday—Does Prayer Ever Change Anything?

Friday—The Master's Rule of Broker Dealings.

8 p. m.

Monday—Is Christ Willing to Heal Our Bodies To-day?

Tuesday—The Possibility of the Deeper Christ Character.

Wednesday—Those in Touch or Heart with God, who have Died: What can we know positively about them?

Thursday—Is there a Second Chance After Death?

Friday—Have Earthquakes our Practical Significance to the Thoughtful Man?

CHARLES COATES DAWES, who on Wednesday became vice-president of the United States.

BELLEVILLE LIFE UNDERWRITERS MEET

A meeting of the Life Underwriters of Belleville was held at the Queen's Hotel Friday at 6:30 for luncheon and general business. The meeting opened with a couple of songs.

The Association had for guests of honor, Mr. C. D. Carr, District Manager of the London Life, also Mr. J. A. Pedlow, Branch Organizer for the Home Life, both gentlemen addressed the Association on insurance and all phases of work the Association is doing all over Canada, for the Agent and the holder.

The following members were present: M.L.C. Burgess, Canada Life; E. S. Burrows, Mutual Life; Geo. E. Burrows, Mutual Life; Cecil Reid, Crown Life; W. H. Rogers, Canada Life; T. D. Mother and Son Battered Baby

Cruel Story Unfolded in Court at London, Ontario

London, March 7.—For brutally battering a one-year-old baby, Mrs. Etta Mason, and her son George, Sover, were remanded in jail for one week in Magistrate Graydon's Court to await sentence.

A sordid story of how her baby child had been tortured was told by Mrs. Florence Stover.

George Stover is her second husband and also was married to him last month. Since that time, with her consent, he has been living with her husband and mother-in-law at 373 Clarence street.

After Mrs. Stover had told how they had whipped the baby with a long strap she put it until it verged on suffocation, and threw it in to the floor. Magistrate Graydon declared the house in which Mrs. Mason and her son lived as "the most notorious, sordid, and immoral house that ever was brought to my attention."

Mrs. Annie Reidy also gave evidence against Mrs. Mason and Stover. She told the Court the same story as that related by Mrs. Stover, that the baby had been horribly beaten.

On Monday night, according to the evidence, the baby was crying and Mrs. Mason in an attempt to stop the baby from crying, put much noise and snatched it out of its cradle, threw it on the floor, took a strap and beat it.

The baby cried all the more. She then picked it up and threw it on a bed and thrust a rag in its mouth. She left the living room in this condition until it almost went into convulsions.

Later she called her son see if he "could stop the brat."

"He licked it cruelly," Mrs. Reidy declared. "He took a belt from his waist with a steel buckle on the end and commenced to thrash it. The baby cried and cried and then he doubled the strap and beat it all the more."

Dollar Day Made For Large Market

Much Produce Sold With Prices Showing Little Change

Fine weather prevailing and the dollar day sale by merchants of the city were evidently incentives for many to attend to-day's market. It was by far one of the largest markets held for some time. On the market square, vehicles, market gardener and butchers' stalls remained crowded for a hundred. While much farm and garden produce was offered for sale, the greater portion of it was disposed of. There was not many changes to note in prices.

Fresh dairy butter was quite plentiful and sold from 40c to 45c per pound. Eggs were in abundance and fairly reasonable in price for this season of the year. Specials sold at 35c per dozen while strictly fresh brought 40c. A few basket lots were sold at a slight by lower figure.

Dressed chickens commanded a good figure, namely 32 to 35 a pair, according to quality. A few ducks offered for sale sold at $1.40 each.

Vegetables were moderate in price and many sales were made. Onions sold at 50c per peck, potatoes 40c, turnips and turnips 30c a peck and cabbage from 10c each. Celery sold at 5c a bunch. Potatoes sold at 75c and 80c a bag.

The ruling prices for apples were 40c peck for best eating varieties and 30c for cooking.

The meat stalls were well patron-ised and sold from 12c to 30c according to cuts and pork 15c to 35c per pound.

Planning to Take Movies in City

Campaign to Boost Belleville Is Being Surveyed On Its Way

With the arrival of new export capital men in the city, it looks as if Belleville its own in the new future. Plans are underway for a big boosting campaign. Belleville along the line of encouraging the worthy projects of "Buying at Home." The campaign which will be called "Who's Who in Belleville" will be a much needed further detail in following issues.

A very good suggestion would be linked up with this campaign to arouse the interest now being worked of their birthday when they receive a tap on the shoulder and are confronted by a smile and are also mistaken identity.

One of the Intelligencer girls received a sound slap on the back and told "Dear Jane" it was the Dollar Day of the Intelligencer". It was just the daily joke of a friend who had been a timely revival.

Dollar Day Going Strong

Dollar Day is being strongly aided by

MISS ROXIE CARRIER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Carrier, of Ottawa, who prevented a serious panic on Saturday night when the building was rocked by the earthquake. When the crowd started to make a dive for the exits, she ran to the footlights and shout ed: "Sit down, everybody, please sit down. It's only an earthquake and I'm going on with my song." She did.

MISS DOLLAR IS UNCAPTURED AT TWELVE TO-DAY

Has Had Money Narrow Escapes in Tour However

BUSINESS IS GOOD

Scores Waited For Doors to Open Early This Morning

"Mademoiselle Dollar" had not yet been captured at 11.30 o'clock this morning though true to the sarge ment she had been on a continuous shopping tour during the morning. She had, however, up to that hour, had more narrow escapes, close calls and chases than she could vividly remember when seen by the Intelligencer during her two brief rests after eleven o'clock.

"I was almost captured in Sinclair's store," she said with a smile, "the other that the last time I was there, but certainly had me guessing for a time."

She made one mistake in the approach, and that was when the representative of Friday's Intelligencer, she was answered with a command, "No, I am not." Instead of asserting "You are Miss Dollar of the Intelligencer," the lady asked, "Are you Miss Dollar of the Intelligencer?"

That was Miss Dollar's closest call of a series of close ones.

"Are you being accosted in the streets?" she was asked.

"Yes, that is the surprising feature," she replied. "I have been repeatedly stopped in the streets, but mostly by frolicsome children who travel in packs and come from all parts of the city from the simple yet correct approach to the Intelligencer. Last night, Saturday romp, may be heard shouting in the streets and seeing me, and another where the young lady may be captured and the money won, is going to the matinee this afternoon. Every where Miss Dollar goes, she hears the questions, apparently not interested in this Dollar Day business whatever."

Uncomfortable Job

Three hours' shopping tour with a ransom on your head and hearing "Assumed name" is tiresome, but true to duty, Miss Dollar, the Intelligencer obliged to wear her fur coat, though the Old Sol is beaming full of Fall glory and the snow is trickling away on the streets.

"It is certainly warm work," she volunteered as the coupon book was handed out "but I will have to go through with it."

"This was her interviewer's first sight of her, she being a total stranger to him, and she answers the description which has been published very fully. She is five feet, five inches in height, brown eyes and bobbed hair which is becoming to her.

An interesting feature of her remarkable career as a shopper is the situation when she was all but captured at Sinclair's. She was carrying a big copy of Friday's Intelligencer, for comparison purposes, and was looking for Belleville Business Directory, when Miss Dollar, after her capture she hid the newspaper away, lest it attract undue attention.

Amusing Situations

To see Miss Dollar in the fur draped on the shoulder and an assertive made to carry out Miss Dollar, would cause her to smile but she must not—she must be a dignified lady although the corner of her eye, and the smile of her lips, are discussing the most probable place to catch her. There are a few stores "in" on the Dollar Day and many women are also on dent attracted.

A middle aged woman who enters such-and-such a store will be Miss Dollar" and Miss Dollar is not the Miss Dollar of the Intelligencer". It was just the daily joke of a friend who had been a timely revival.

RESERVES JUDGMENT IN SHANNON CASE

Judgment was reserved for one week by County Judge Ponton in the County criminal court, following the trial of Mrs. Mary Shannon, charged which lasted the whole of Friday afternoon.

Shannon is charged with making false statements as to his financial affairs as a bankrupt, and with obtaining credit.

Ask witness from Toronto and one from Montreal was called and testified as to the dealings they had respectively in regard to Shannon's financial standings. A statement of affairs under was issued against Shannon. After all evidence had been submitted and arrument heard, judgment was reserved for a week.

D. C. Ponton, County Attorney prosecuted the Crown and Thomas Bradshaw defended accused. Shannon is allowed his liberty by furnishing bond satisfactory to the court.

This was Thomas Wills first case, having recently taken up the practice of law in his native city.

Students Charm in "Charm School" Play

Miss Young's Annual Offering Packs and Pleases at Griffin Theatre

Belleville High School play proved to be all that was claimed for it and more at the Griffin Theatre last night. "The Charm School" supplied three hours of entertainment for all who attended the performance.

The popularity of the school play in the several years has been already that thronged the theatre entrance to the doors, and there being in capacity house, even to the uppermost part of the gallery.

The players were so well chosen for their respective parts that it was easier for the audience to forget their every day personalities and enter into the spirit of the play, which is a sign of unusual talent. The entire company displayed some good talent.

Miss Marjorie Laing, who is becoming a well-known actress in the High School plays took the part of leading lady in the comedy, playing Mr. and Mrs. Percy Cole who appeared for the first time and both proved very pleasing and attractive hero.

There were a number of new players on the stage and they made a good appearance. Miss Schoonover presented some natural acting and showed considerable ability and Lorne Pearsall and Murray Bonarnatte, the latter a newcomer, were pleasing parts.

To begin with Austin Mackenzie by Percy Cole, a automobile salesman with ideas, which David Mackenzie Hill-Brown) a wealthy eccentric manufactured, though George Boyd, Jack Hodgson, an expert accountant, is willing to help Schoonover to get rich as Jim Simpkins and Murray Bonarnatte as Percy Cole, the latter two of whom tell not and have never seen, many considerable splashing, are also agreeable. Bill is a bell boy not, it were with words, but has been a postman, Lawrence Wray, who is such a shy retiring young man.

Mac Farrell as Homer Johns is the guardian of Miss Mackenzie and Ethel MacLaurin, the president of the senior class at a school presided over by Miss Hayes, Albertine Robinson, is loved and sought by all who know her, including the secretary, Ethel Parry who is always trying to think up a way to get out of something and Helen Deroche as Sally Byrd, who is Miss Boyd's sister and the class secretaries played by Pauline Bidenina, Lorna Bell, Dorothy Hamilton, Helen Potter, Helen Laitimer, Dorothy Robinson and Jessie Hamilton.

Gladys Parry showed a good bit of acting in the part of the class secretary and the other principals were also splendid.

Introduces five good-looking young men, the girls' dancing school and you can imagine the result.

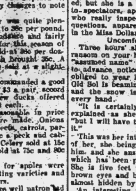

George Thompson, president of the Literary Society made a short address before the opening of the play, and Miss Dora Young as the author and directress, accompanied by Mr. S. Anglin. The Bon Ton orchestra supplied music between acts very creditably.

The stage setting was very pretty and the property man, Ralph Bird.

Miss Young is to be congratulated on credit for the successful manner in which the play was carried out, the result of patient work and her capable direction.

BELLEVILLE BOY GETS HIS A.T.C.M.

Word has been received from Toronto that Alec P. Gordon, 39 Burton St., this city, has passed the exams. for the A.T.C.M.D piano examination recently held at Toronto Conservatory of Music, with honors. For the last three years Mr. Gordon has been an organ and senior pupil of Miss Le Vaux Young. He is at present attending Normal School in Toronto and expects to have been studying with Mr. Paul Wells, at Toronto Conservatory, a former instructor of Miss LeVaux. We may add that this examination is the third examination of importance Mr. Gordon has to his credit within a year. He passed Entrance to High School last June with first class honors in nine out of ten subjects—Carter Scholarship—and also passed Junior Matriculation. As he is only nineteen years of age he is to be congratulated upon his splendid achievement.

TO PASS BILL TO SAVE SEAT FOR IRELAND

Goods From His Store Sold To Government Department

FULL EXPLANATION

Nobody Seems Disposed to Take Advantage of Situation

Toronto, March 7.—The Ontario Legislature will be required to pass a special bill to order that W. H. Ireland, M.P.P., for West Hastings and Whig of the Conservative party, may be allowed to retain his seat in the House. This situation was disclosed to the Chamber yesterday, when Mr. Ireland announced that he had been informed that he guilty of a breach of the representation law because of the fact that his store in Thomasburg had sold the Government without his knowledge goods to the value of $414.18.

Frankly disclosing the facts to the members and explaining the manner in which the situation had arisen, Mr. Ireland placed himself entirely in the hands of the House, and found no party or member disposed to take advantage of his misfortune. Consequently the bill for his relief was promised, yet in honour, Mr. Ireland felt the bottom of the representation law is the best man to make it, he gives in their opinion." Liberal leader Sir Lomer Gouin said: "I don't think that any one will suggest that Mr. Ireland profited personally to the extent of the fact that some person had bought $54-66 worth of goods from him."

I would only be sorry if to see the Government lose its Whip," Hon. Mr. Raney smilingly agreed. "It is a very useful implement, and the Government would be sorry to lose it. I can assure the honorable member that no party would be glad to see it be added to the amount involved in the case, before any party would be clapped before the courts of law."

Labor Leader Karl-Epworth wanted to know whether the goods had been unanimously concurred in all that. Premier Ferguson said: "Yes."

Movies Responsible

The matter was raised by Mr. Ireland himself, some days ago, when he asked if the Government would not introduce legislation to relieve him of the difficulty in which he found himself in the public accounts. Inquiry had disclosed that the goods had been sold to the department moving picture studio in Trenton during 1923, when some 6,000 people had been gathered together and had been served with goods to the value of $21.16 by the store.

Tweed Councillors Discuss Fire Tank

Chief Recommends Putting One as Geo. Way's Corner

Tweed, March 6.—On Monday night, March 2, Tweed Council met in the Municipal Hall, all the members being present.

When the Council met for the first time after the council Auditors' Trust and Municipal Clerk will be liable to give a proper audit owing to the tax lists and collections being discharged. After necessary books are obtained as requested by the new treasurer, Garnet Morton, the previous accounts will be classified and put in order.

A discussion arose over the fire tank on the lake shore at McGuinness Hill. When a fire occurred at Mr. Brown's residence a week ago it was found no water could be obtained at the dock owing to limited water supply more especially in winter. Had the fire been of a serious nature, the engine and equipment would have been to no purpose in extinguishing the fire.

Chief Hoyle said he had recommended a tank to be built at Geo. Way's corner; a most convenient place for the engine to be placed. A tank at this point would be cheapening the run-ning stream.

Considerable discussion was brought about when A. Godfrey presented a bill for fees due on a case last fall, in which the fine had been paid. The discussion note had been given for the costs in the case. Mr. Godfrey thought he should not be asked to wait for his pay. He also presented a bill for services to the village which caused considerable comment and opened the channel of discussion as to the services of village police and Chief Hoyle. It was finally decided in each services rendered the year previous and some members to look into the matter of necessary assistance. It was suggested that by combining the many duties of the office until a few years ago, sufficient money could be saved to pay a good man to look after the interests of the village in a business way. A motion was finally moved by S. B. Rollins, seconded by F. R. Hayek that Messrs. Mayor and Hoyle be a committee to look into the whole matter and report.

PICTON MAY USE ARTESIAN WELLS

Picton, March 7—Residents at this town and public bodies here have been for some time examining into the best means of providing the town with the best possible water supply. Recently Dr. Sagger Brown, of Kenilworth Institute, Toronto, Hamilton, Ill., inquired into the question and his inspection is that the best solution of the water problem here would be to sink wells and to use Artesian wells and have tests made to see if a sufficient and perfect water could be obtained to supply Picton with water. Such water supply could be attained they would give pure water for drinking. The water from the Bay as previously reported, would be pure under the most careful supervision would, at certain times become polluted, even a filtration system, it is claimed, would not give a supply of pure water, for drinking and purposes.

PEOPLE OF FOXBORO BOTHERED BY TRAMPS

Foxboro, March 7—Residents of this town and surrounding district, Harry Goodman renewed acquaintances in Deseronto on Thursday. After moving from Deseronto territory Mr. Goodman located at Point Anne, where he established a retail grocery and butcher shop. On leaving Point Anne he established in business at Brantford, and later at Brantford, where ill-health compelled his retirement from active business. After a several renewal of acquaintance in this territory Mr. Goodman who has recovered his health, will return and establish a business at Brantford.

For increased service at his business location, Mr. Thomas G. McWain intends installing a six hundred gallon capacity gasoline tank and pump in the fall receiving and gasoline plant at the water front.

Mr. Joseph Hoopes, of Kingston was a visitor to the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Vanderwater on Thursday. Mr. Hoopes is a former resident of Deseronto having acted as chief of the G.N.W. Telegraph staff during the days of the Bridge Street Methodist Church activities.

Mr. H. Sager, Mrs. O. Feichelt and Mrs. R. Thomas were visitors to Kingston on Thursday. Mr. Sager, who was a business caller to Napanee on Thursday. Mr. T. G. McWain and Mr. E. Irwin were business callers to Kingston to-day.

Mr. Alfred Joyce reports the recent loss of a valuable dog while hunting a few weeks. The hound followed the trail of a fox and has not returned home. Mr. Joyce will be thankful to any who may locate the dog if they would communicate with him.

After a month's visit to Deseronto Mr. R. Cronkwright returned on Thursday to his home, Burlington territory.

Re-Model Summer Home

James K. Hackett, world-famed actor and playwright, and owner of "Seraglio," a beautiful summer home on the St. Lawrence river near Clayton is planning to completely remodel the home during the next few months and by the time he may spend his winter months there The cost or remodelling the building and the grounds and road way about the summer home are estimated at between $15,000 and $20,000.

Small Fire at Picton

A fire broke out on Tuesday night in a house in Picton occupied by Mr. Arthart which was reasonably quenched by some kindlies being placed under a hot stove, but the firemen, by a quick response to the alarm and good work with the hose, prevented more than a slight damage. The building is owned by Silvester Church.

Early Closing in Picton

Picton merchants and professional men have decided on the usual half-holiday for the coming summer and it will be on Wednesday afternoon instead of Thursday as last year. Commencing next week the banks will close on Wednesday afternoon which will conform to the practice of banks in other centres in that district.

Business Dissolved

On Saturday last the partnership between Messrs G. M. Hicks and Arthur C. Irvine, who have been in the undertaking and furniture business in Picton for the last four years, was dissolved by mutual consent. Mr. Hicks continues the business and Mr. Irvine is going to London, where he will again engage in the undertaking business.

MOTHER!

Clean Child's Bowels

"California Fig Syrup" is Dependable Laxative for Sick Children

Hurry Mother! A teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup" now will thoroughly sweeten stomach and thoroughly clean the little bowels and in a few hours you have a well, playful child again. Even if cross, feverish, bilious, constipated or full of cold, children love its pleasant taste. It never disappoints. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother, you must say "California." Refuse any imitation.

Fire at Millbrook

Millbrook, March 7—A small fire broke out Thursday night at 11 o'clock in the Shaw building, formerly Victoria Hotel. Being noticed early in its progress, the blaze was extinguished easily by the use of chemicals and snow.

The fire started in a partition between John Gray's office and the living apartments of the Shaw family. Some cigarettes were burned.

The loss is covered by insurance.

Eczema Skin Is Healed By This Sulphur

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its great destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly, brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cream.

ICE RACES SUCCESS

Frank Smith, secretary of the ice races, who also took up the subscription wishes to thank everyone who subscribed. Besides supplying a full afternoon's sport and fun there is $6.50 left over, after prizes have been paid to, winning horses and $5 paid to the owner of every horse which started whether a winner or not. Thanks is also extended to W. Parks who scraped the track and placed it in excellent condition, at his own expense.

CORNS

BETTER IN EVERY WAY

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Inverary, N. S.—"I took your medicine for a run-down condition and inward trouble. I had pains in my right side so bad at times that I could not walk any distance. I saw about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and have taken five bottles of it. I am better in every way and you can use my letter to help other women." — Mrs. ALVITA M. FRASER, Inverary, N. S.

Nervous Breakdown Relieved

Toronto, Ontario.—"It is pretty hard to explain your feelings in a nervous trouble. I felt low spirited, had pains in my head and was always tired. I simply did not want to go anywhere, I do knitting and fancy work, and I have not got irritable after a few minutes of work. I have been in Canada five years and have been this way ever since I came. I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I sleep better and it seems to make me eat, and I sure say I am feeling more jolly. I have great faith in your medicine because of what it has done for my husband's sister and she recommended it to me." —Mrs. A. SAITH, 10 Burleigh Avenue, Todmorden, Toronto, Ontario.

All druggists sell this dependable medicine, and recommend it highly. Why not, then, as so common in their use? Why not give it a trial now?

Good News For Rheumatic People

The most a rheumatic sufferer hope for is rubbing something on the tender, aching joint as pain relief. No lotion or liniment ever did or ever can do more; that is the most the outward skin is rooted in the blood. To get rid of it you must treat it through the blood. Any doctor will tell you that this is true. If you want something that will go right to the root of the trouble in the blood take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The whole mission of this medicine is to purify and enrich the blood and when they do this all blood troubles including rheumatism, disappear. Among those who have proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Mrs. Annie Wright, Woodchester, Alta., who says, "I was a sufferer from rheumatism for six years, and during most of that time my life was one of misery. I tried several doctors and many remedies recommended, but never got more than temporary relief. The trouble seemed to affect my whole system and I was badly run down. I suffered from headaches as well. Finally I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and through these I found altogether relief and to-day I feel like a new person. I can therefore strongly recommend Dr. Williams Pink Pills to anyone suffering as I did from this trouble."

You can get these pills from any med cine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TESTING VEGETABLES

WHAT EXPERIMENTAL FARM ES S. W. ONTARIO FOUND.

Experiences With Certain Varieties of Celery, Cabbage, Corn, Mixed Lettuce, Onions and Tomatoes.

Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.

Variety tests were conducted at the Experimental Station for Southwestern Ontario during the following: Cabbage, celery, head lettuce, onions and tomatoes.

Celery.—Eighteen strains and varieties of celery were tested and fourteen breeding lots transferred from the Dominion Central Station. The conclusions reached were that in general, the old strains of Paris Golden Self Blanching seem to be more standard and are in good condition than the new strains, except where early maturity is the first demand, and immediate sale. The new, more vigorous strains seemed to produce more and when well Blanched must be sold or they become pithy, and therefore inferior.

The strains that proved superior were Paris Golden Self Blanching; Eberle; Parte-Golden Self-Blanching, Kalamazoo; Paris Golden Self-Blanching, Jerome B. Rice; Paris Golden Self-Blanching (new type), Vilmorin; Self Blanching, Kweik. The last two strains mentioned seemed superior to others of the group. The first mentioned was good for summer cropping, and is also an easy blanching main crop celery.

Cabbage.—The new variety of cabbage, namely Golden Acre, was tested against such standard varieties as Copenhagen Market, Early Express and Early Jersey Wakefield. It was found that the variety is a round head cabbage and cuts at approximately the same season as Jersey Wakefield. The plants mature very uniformly. However, a considerable variation in the strains from different seed firms was shown and the variety seems to have a tendency to split quickly after producing a marketable head. A variety named Golden Wonderful was also well under our conditions.

Corn.—Varieties of corn were tested as to season of ripening. Of the important varieties produced White Cory was nine days earlier than Golden Bantam, and Golden Bantam produced marketable ears seven days before either Stowell's Evergreen or Bantam Evergreen.

Head Lettuce.—In the head lettuce tests three varieties of the cabbage head type seemed well adapted for the district—namely, Iceberg, Neapareland New Yorker or Wonderful. The last mentioned proved to be a later strain of this type of lettuce, in the other head types the Wayahead showed up well.

Onions.—Onions were tested on muck soil. Of the varieties tested Southport Yellow Globe and Yellow Globe Danvers seem best adapted when early maturity and total yield is considered, to the locality. A strain of Spanish onions, Riverside Sweet Spanish, did well for onions of this type. Under test at the Department of Horticulture at the Ontario Agricultural College, a variety of set onions, Ebenezer, proved most successful in the production of good, early, mature onions.

Tomatoes.—Some forty-five strains or varieties of tomatoes were tested out for adaptability for the district. Of the standard varieties good strains of Earliana seem best adapted to the district. However, one newer variety gives some promise and should be tested out extensively. This variety Warahead produced early fruit of good color and smoothness. For main crop for canning purposes John Baer and Bolzey Best showed up well although two varieties, namely Reeves' Seedling and New Red Bed, gave exceptional yields in this regard. A striking fact was brought out in these tests. Varieties showed much variation when, procured from different sources. Most particularly in Bonny Best some strains showed much superior to others.

Breeding material was transferred from the College to the Experimental Station and tests of the strains were made. Second generation crosses of cucumbers and squash bells of pickling and slicing types and promising form and quality will be found.

The most extensive work was done, however, in tomatoes of the John Baer-Earliana cross. "Canadian," some seven hundred plants of this variety were grown and individual records of each plant kept. Some thirty-five plant selections were made from the plants of best type. A careful consideration of earliness, yield, color and smoothness was made. Selected strains will be tested out in 1925. As an early variety the "Canadian" promises well. Two of the earliest plants produced fruit as early as Earliana in the quality and yield were much superior. It is expected that in the new test lots more uniformity and yield will be found.

In experiment was conducted to determine the relative value of manure and commercial fertiliser in connection with growing and greening whether or not as good results could be obtained from the use of manure along the row or in the hill, as when manure was broadcasted.

It was found conclusive that manure is essential in the production of good crops. But as good results could be obtained when manure is placed along the row or in the hill as when it is broadcasted with a very great saving of manure.

Free access to water or waterin cows three times a day will increase the profits from winter dairying.

Farmers generally have an idea that sheep are hard to raise. They receive more care than other classes of stock. If farmers would give sheep the care and attention that they give other stock, few farms would be operating without them.

Belleville Mausoleum

A Memorial That Will Endure For Ages

THE Belleville Mausoleum will be beautiful and rich in architecture; constructed of stone, marble and bronze, making it as secure and time-resisting as the pyramids of Egypt. It will provide above ground entombment for Belleville's honored dead, where there will be no possibility of desecration at any future time.

A PRECIOUS PRIVILEGE

Mausoleum entombment—the most respectful method of interment, is now, no longer the exclusive privilege of "pedple with money". The mutual plan of this community makes it possible for anyone of moderate means to provide this ideal form of resting place for their loved ones at a cost which compares very favorably with that of earth burial. You must admit that death and the need of a final resting place is certain. You would not bury members of your family in the ground without casket or box for protection, but even with the use of these they are practically unprotected. When you place the loved form in the Mausoleum you have the comforting knowledge that neither water, damp nor mould can penetrate the solid construction of the crypt. We must face the facts. When the need does occur the bereaved realize that the last opportunity to manifest an act of love to him or her has arrived—and that the best is none too good.

WRITE OR 'PHONE FOR FULL PARTICULARS

You cannot afford to delay. Write or telephone our office and we will send a representative to show you the plans and give you the fullest particulars, without any obligation to you whatever.

WHICH IS THE BETTER WAY?

You have the choice of two alternatives. The one that typifies death in darkness; looking down, always down, into the wet grave. The other typifying death in light; death in hope of the resurrection; death where the elements of decay are positively and forever barred from entrance.

The Belleville Mausoleum beautifully situated in the "Chapel Circle," is non sectarian. Each crypt, section and private room is alike, sacred whatever may be the creed of those who repose therein.

THE NEW MAUSOLEUM WILL CONTAIN 320 COMPARTMENTS

The size of the building is determined by the number of reservations made in advance for space. The Citizens of Belleville are urged to act without delay in providing a resting place in peaceful security for father, mother, sister, brother, husband or wife. To make this provision now, is to exhibit preparedness that will bring satisfaction and contentment for years to come, because of a duty well-and affectionately performed.

BELLEVUES SET UP ALLEY RECORD; MANY ATTEND RACES; NOVELTY HOCKEY

Was 8-8 Tie at Arena Last Night

When Intelligencer Team Met Recreation Alley Crowd

Downstairs inside Romeos and the Intelligencers hockey teams were able to break an 8-8 tie at the end of their two period game at the arena last evening, when they were "shooed" off, so again way for the Bonnet-Tiger city league semi-final.

Opposite to Sunday that is difficult both teams showed all their might. The Print gang had "shinned" the twice first times before the Romeos realized they were the challengers in a championship game. The "Prints" then either laid low or the Romeos backed up, for the game was soon tied again. The "lists" crowd had no alibi, all being distinguished men, but the Romeos subbed regularly. In fact Frank Domenico, the Recreations leader and his 16-stone man, "Pat" Miller, retired before the game was over.

In the second period, our guardian "Gus" Doyle for the "Prints" excused himself and went into the dressing room for 10 minutes or so. Whilst he was gone he was not missed, for the Whistles never carried the puck near his citadel except once and then they scored while the Intelligencers wondered.

The writer is instructed to state that no confidence "Doler" Lynch is a bar player (user). He has a warm spot in his heart for the Robins, 'tis said, and it may not be charged with robbing the McDonald of victory. The only major penalty of the game was drawn by "Jelly" Street, Bell Exteron man who had no to do the forward line to play without "writing" the referee. E. Bland was curiously appointed timekeeper and all would have been well, but it was not discovered until half time that Ernest could not "take the readings" on the "stop and go." There was water in one corner and all fell into it.

If the ice remains, the tie will be played off next week.

The lineups:

Novel Ice Races Were Attractive

Many From City and District Took In Event Yesterday Afternoon

Lovers of horse races, and there are many in the city and vicinity, had the privilege of witnessing two speeding events upon the ice yesterday afternoon. This is the first time in many years that ice races have taken place here and the event attracted a large number, of spectators, not a few of whom were of the gentler sex. An excellent half mile track was laid out about half a mile up the shore of the Bay south of the Marsh Engineering Works, though due to the weather being mild, the track became rather sloppy before the final heats were completed. Considering the fact that the horses raced in the two events were green the time made was good and would no doubt have been much better had it been cold. All the spectators however appeared to have enjoyed the afternoon sport.

Class A, Mile Heat

There were five horses entered in this class and it required five heats to determine the winner. At the conclusion of the fourth Heat Doris Patch, owned by S. Pine, of Sidney and Joe Tyrrif, owned by W. Caughey, of Big Island, Prince Edward County, had each two heats to their credit. These two animals were cancelled to go the fifth heat and Doris Patch proved the winner. All the animals showed good speed. The summary in this event was as follows:

B. Class Half Mile Heats

Doris Patch, S. Pine, Sidney—2 1 1 1
Joe Tyrrif, W. Caughey, Big Island —1 2 2 2
City Paley, B. Colbie, Plainfield 3 3 3 3
Ruby Mack, J. Orr, Belleville— 2 4 5 5
Nellie Patch, B. Gifford, P. Innfield 4 5 4 4

Time—2.50, 2.49, 2.49, 2.51, 2.50.

Class B, Half Mile Heats

Four horses were entered in this event and only three heats were necessary to be run. "Billy, F, owned by A. Palmer, of this city took three straight heats, winning each quite handily. In the first heat just after the animals had got nicely on the way, Angus Chillico, owned by Geo. Taylor, of this city, and Waller, owned by W. Wilbanks, of this city, collided, and the bikes were locked together. They were unable to finish the heat as some damage resulted to both bikes. Fortunately the drivers were not thrown. The summary in this event was as follows:

Class B, Half Mile Heats

Billy F., A. Palmer, City 1 1 1
Waller Todd, Dr. Wellbanks, City 2 2
Tim Alex. E. Crawford, Trenton 2 4 3
Angus Chillico, Geo. Taylor, City 3 3 4

Time—1.30, 1.22, 1.20.

Mr. George D. Tyrrell was the official starter and filled that position in a most satisfactory manner. C. Dafoe and H. Ketcheson were the judges.

Bellevues Set Up New Alley Record

Spilled Maples For 2630 At Y.M.C.A. Last Night

Last night at the "Y" alleys the Bellevues and Excelsiors met in their league fixture and the Bellevues proved victors by 241 pins. 1054 teams were rolling nice and the Bellevues came along and set a new alley record and also a city record to date when they spilled the hardwood for 2630. The Bellevues gained the advantage in the first game and were never headed. E. Whalen of the Bellevues carred off the honors of the night, both for the single and three string with 260 and 674, while for the Excelsiors Mrs. Leard and Mrs. Strachan were the high ladies.

In the second game the Printers and the Orioles came together and the Printers proved victors by 238 pins. The Printers started off well but fell off in the second game and it looked at one time as if the Orioles might win out, but they fell in the last game. Just when they needed the odd few pins, Harlow of the Printers was the high single and three string of the evening with 230 and 552 respectively, while for the Orioles, Howard was the steady bowler with 552.

Attend To The Children's Sight

Abnormal sight in children is a common cause of backwardness at school. Educationists have been investigating the subject in recent years, and their reports show that a large percentage of children have abnormal vision. This should arouse parents to importance of the subject. Every child whose sight is below par is fighting a handicap. Interested parents are invited to interview me.

"Everything the Gulls and Pelicans could do that is worth telling about has been done and already told, so all we can possibly do now, is to do just as folks generally do, after they have seen it, all and that is, to go out again to see what they can look at without seeing. It. At least that is what I think they do for they say 'Oh yes, I have seen that' but if you start to ask questions, you will see for yourself that they have been looking and not seeing.

So, let us go for a walk and see if we can notice things that folks look at but hardly ever really see.

We have finished seeing the pelicans and gulls, for you see they are the same silly birds and once in a while are funny but nothing much to see after they have been seen, so what is left for a pair of boys like us ourselves and go and look at them all over again and see how much we can look at without seeing it! Eh! Alright! Let's go!

There's an old gull flying over to the sun but I don't suppose there is much there.

So, I guess we will have to go up into Heaven.

E LAINE
By CHARLES GARVICE

"Miss Delmint! My dance, you know! They said that you had gone—disappeared, and I never felt so cut up in my life. It's been enough to put a dance with you, but to lose, it after getting it—still!"

Elaine took his arm, and with a slight nod to the amazed crowd swept. As she did so she came face to face with Captain Sherwin. He reddened, and his light eyes looked from her to the other shiftily; then suddenly came again, he inclined its head and stepped aside for her to pass; but he stood and looked after her, his small hand plucking nervously at his lips, and unconsciously at his chin, which had not moved from his lounging attitude, was regarding him closely.

Elaine was fond of dancing—whom is the healthy young woman who is not—and her partner was one of the best dancers in the room. But for once the joys of the dance were lost upon her; she was scarcely conscious of the music, of the lights, of Lord Ashe's superior. A vague indefinable sense, which might be apprehension, or fear, or hope?—had taken possession of her. Lord Ashe's arm round her, the room the words, the voice, of the man upon whose left hand she knew that he was going to say? Why had he come down to this hall? He had almost as so many words asked her to sit out her dance with him—and she had asked her, not Lady Blanche, or some other woman, but her. Elaine! Why should he do so?

She could see him still standing where she had left him, and with no desire to talk, and no intention of replying to any one who might, it was possible that he had come down with the express purpose of seeing her? The very absurdity of the idea caused her face to flush, and her heart to throb more suddenly with a laugh.

"Are you in pain?" Was I out of step?" exclaimed her partner. "How stupid of me!"

"No, no!" said Elaine hurriedly and confusedly. "I am not tired. Please forgive me, and let us go on."

But she had not only enough but own partner to go on with, for several couple had been pulled up short by her sudden stand, and among them was Lady Blanche. Elaine caught the blue eyes fixed on her with an expression of anger and dislike; but it vanished to one of triumph as she whirled by Lady Blanche said, pleasantly enough:

"Are you not dancing, Elaine? I am sure you have promised more than you can yours your dress?"

Elaine could not had been. Elaine had seen the cold glitter of the steel blue eyes, it was gone, and she looked up with her troubled and questioning expression the meaning of the slip fell rather than saw, was still, yet full of fire.

Meanwhile the ball swings on: the room gets hotter, the noise of talking and laughing louder, the air more and more strained; and no handwriting appears on the wall. Lord Ashe is not to be the first actor of a life's tragedy is being played, even as they dance!

CHAPTER X.

Captain Sherwin passed on to the balcony, and stood looking at the stars, in his face was a curious, almost startled expression. He was not enjoying himself—he certainly was not. He had not meant to show Elaine, by avoiding her as he had done, that he knew that he should meet her, that her refusal of his invitation to sit out a dance with him with this object in view he had danced and engaged her for another dance and sat with the loudest; but he felt that he had not produced the effect he had aimed at. He was, in spite of his unconscious of his presence until he had met her, and then he had felt that he must get his curt bow with a gentleness that would disarm any suspicion, and he could do could cano be a moment unnoticed by Lady Blanche.

Even a weakminded man like Captain Sherwin cannot live with a woman as Elaine without feeling his self-love, and he could himself now as he looked at the sky and down into the street that the contemptuous smile was a most unhappy man; and he almost groaned as he thought of the letter and nurse his jealousy and disappointment in solitude. He remembered that he had promised accompany Fanny Inchley; and he decided that he would go now, and return to the dance afterward.

He said that young lady were fast friends by this time. They had met by the river on several occasions since the evening he had picked up the hand kerchief, and he had found her such a society peculiarly agreeable and soothing.

Fanny had the knack of flattering him without seeming to do so, and when the captain's dinner had been left to Fanny's own devices, and while he sauntered beside Miss Fanny through the moonlight he felt more at and his mind to the river and the birds.

EXPLOSION KILLS MANY

(Canadian Press Despatch)
Leningrad March 6—Twenty-six persons were killed and an unknown number wounded by an explosion of oxygen tanks in a building in Leningrad today. The explosion scattered parts of human bodies and debris in all directions. Most of victims were women and children.

As was suspected, Orville Ostrander, found wandering around Cathcart on Sunday, was a patient at the Dufferin Hospital, at Hamilton, and has been returned to that institution.

Lazy Men
I can't abide to see men throw away their tools if that way the minute the clock begins to strike, as if they took no pleasure i' their work, and was afraid o' being a stroke too much. I hate to see a man's arms drop down as if he was shot, before the clock's fairly struck.

Their Hero
Most French Canadians believe that Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the greatest and most powerful man in the whole world. I have just heard of one inhabitant of Quebec who lived "way back". When he heard that King Edward had succeed ed Queen Victoria on the English throne he looked incredulous at first then grudgingly declared: "He must have one mighty big pull with Laurier, for sure."

He had quite looked forward to seeing her at the ball, and he had expected the dance she had given him; for while she, waltzed like a dancer-mad fe' daughter, Fanny could talk as well and she had a charming way with them on the manners and appearance of the persons around them which amused the captain, and kept him in a good humor; almost, indeed, caused him to forget Elaine.

Now as he stood on the balcony, still looking absently at the silver he heard a light footstep behind him and, turning, he saw Fanny coming toward him.

"How you startled me!" she murmured in a low, musical voice. She had seen him enter the recess leading to the balcony, and had followed him. "The room is very warm, and I came for a breath."

For a short time they sat there, and then, as a waltz was beginning, he proposed that they take a turn.

For a few moments they were whirling round the balcony, and then they escape the watchful eye of Lady Blanche, and left the ball room.

"Who is that little woman with the fair hair?" he asked.

Mrs. Lutwood put up her eyeglass, and looked at him.

"I dont' know; one of the tenants' wives, I suppose. Why?"

"Reminds me of Becky Sharp," said Lord Dendale, as the curtain descended after Fanny. "She's the best dancer in the room, not excepting Lady Blanche. She's a clever little woman, more lilting than she looks. That colored hair used to be the rage a little while ago. Is it still? Fashions change quickly. I've been out of touch with that was young Sherwin who was dancing with Miss Delmint."

"I believe so," assented Mrs. Lutwood.

Lady Blanche looked after the pair, and had been watching them with a pale face and dancing.

A little later the marquis came up to where Lady Blanche was resting.

"I am sure you like to supper, Lady Blanche," he said.

He had been ordered to do so by one of the stewards. The room was full, but room was made for the two great personages, and the marquis got something to eat, and he himself a cup of tea. Lady Blanche sat and talked with her as he stood with a plate in his hand. Lady Blanche saw that he was preoccupied, and that his eyes were fixed, every now and across the room to where Elaine sat with Lord Ashe, and presently with a cozy and resentment shot through her as she saw that Captain Sherwin and Elaine's beauty when she had first seen her.

"You don't dance?" she said to the marquis as he put her back to the ball room.

"Unfortunately, no," he said, and as he spoke he glanced at Elaine, whose partner appeared in front of the band stand. "I am not a dancer, though I have had kept vacant on her programme."

"I don't think I am engaged for this dance," said Lady Blanche, and that he should ask her to sit it out with him. "I am sure you will excuse me, as I have engaged herself to came up and claim me." And with a gracious bow to the marquis left him, and stood for a moment where was looking for Elaine, when he saw him make his way to the upper end of the room, where a door leading beside the music-gallery. Lady Blanche's face set in satisfaction—and offer his arm, and she passed into the recess.

Elaine looked up at her face and claimed her, as if he had engaged him for the dance, and Lord Ashe looked as she saw him coming felt the color rush to her face, and she gave her hand on his arm without a word.

SCOTCH STORY OF THE YELLOW DAISY

Up in the north of Scotland there stood a high crag of bare rock, rising in vast and dreary moor, a lonely castle. Very old and gloomy it was now just who had built it its last owners were dead. In the castle and a only child, a girl of 16 dwelt in the great round tower which was situated at the western extremity of the build ing. Her father's name was a girl so slender of build that she looked like a lily in the country folk as Bonny Wee Maid Margaret.

She had few neighbors and fewer friends, and her only quite alone in the world she devoted her time to making pets of everything that came in her way. Her companions were those animals and birds that love solitude.

One day as Maid Margaret was resting beneath a crag of rock she met the gallant Malcolm riding his white horse. Seeing the girl he drew rein and alighted, and, throwing the rein over his arm, turned to accompany the maid.

Just at that moment Sir Douglas Roderick, a man dark of mein and wicked at heart, chanced also to be crossing the moor. Seeing the lovers he at once became envious and bitter with jealousy, he separate the pair by pair. At he stood wondering how he might achieve so dreadful a plan,

Winnipeg Mother Finds Ideal Remedy for Colds of Children

A Vaporizing Salve which Relieves Colds Over Night and Croup in Fifteen Minutes. Nothing to Take—Just Rub It Over Throat and Chest.

Mothers everywhere will be interested in the experience of Mrs. W. Retterstol, 67 Cavidon Ave., Winnipeg, Man. Mrs. Retterstol says: "I have found a remedy for colds, Vicks VapoRub, when it was first introduced in Winnipeg and writes:

"My three-year-old boy, William, became very sick with what seemed to be like a poeu.onia cold accompanied with indigestion. He was a sufferer for two weeks. One night I grew alarmed—he breathed with difficulty and was restless. I rubbed him with Vicks VapoRub and the result was quite gratifying. He breathed more easily and I was able to get a little sleep myself. The next two nights I again rubbed him with Vicks with still better results and he became as bonny as ever. I surely appreciate Vicks VapoRub and shall use and recommend it at all times."

Vicks is just as good for adults. It is the direct treatment for sore throat, tonsilitis, bronchitis, grippe and deep chest colds. When rubbed over throat or chest, Vicks has a two-fold action internally it is inhaled as a vapor and at the same time, externally, absorbed like a liniment. The double action soothes relieves and helps to break up deep-seated colds. When rubbed over throat

WILL FIRE SERVANTS CAUGHT GAMBLING

Toronto, March 7.—Condemning the practice of all employers of factory workers as "too risky" to be tolerated any longer, Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister Fergusch arose in the Legislature this afternoon and said he would introduce from all sides of the House declared vigorous steps would be taken to wipe out an evil which lately had been brought to his attention.

"The government," he said, "proposes appointing an officer whose duty it will be to endeavor to ascertain why it is that has been mingling with civil servants soliciting wages on horse racing." If such a person were found to be in existence, prosecution would follow. Furthermore, he announced, any civil servant found gambling in the practice of handbook betting would be dismissed promptly of his duties as Queen's Park.

Alcohol and Life Insurance
"I think", says Mr. Edward A. Woods a practical insurance manager, "that the figures of life-insurance companies as the effect of total abstinence are the most conclusive and valuable figures there are, for these among other reasons:

(1) They are gathered on a scientific basis; they are the actual experience of life-insurance companies. (2) They are actual longevity of abstainers and moderate drinkers over a long period by careful and covering such a number of lives as to be a conclusive demonstration, entirely free of the charge of being isolated cases. (3) No one can accuse the life insurance companies throughout the world of having a temperance bias. On the contrary, the interest of the life insurance company is to show, if possible, that drinking does not affect longevity. Not only enough to cause the company to exclude the large number of possible customers that are now excluded. It is from the knowledge of every insurance underwriter that nearly 40 per cent of the cases rejected by life insurance companies are for causes connected with alcohol.

There may be some actuary in the world who believes that total abstainers do not live longer than moderate drinkers, but I never heard of one, and I never have seen any literature showing an adverse in favor of abstainers of less than 21 per cent. Certainly adding one-fifth to a man's life makes it worth while to forego one class of food or drink. Some years ago I secured an opinion of an actuary on the expectation of life of a young man of twenty who was a total abstainer, and one who was a drinking man at 21 that age. The expectation of the abstainer was 42.2 years of the drinking man 27.2 Any druggist can.

Hoot Gibson Was Paid For Each Fall's

Tried Fancy Clothes But Public Didn't Like It

"We'll pay you five a day, and five dollars for every fall you get," said the studio casting director to Hoot Gibson some years ago, when that young man first applied for a job at the Universal Studio.

"But I don't know how to fall off a horse—I've never been bucked off a horse in my life," replied the modest Hoot. "Hoot come you pay a good ride less than a poor one?"

The director explained that there was no premium on poor riding, but the company paid extra thrilling falls taken before the camera. Hoot took the job and joined Harry Carey's band of hard-riding cow-boys. Still in his teens, Hoot was given a horse to bombay every threw leg over leather, and when the director asked him if he wanted to make an extra five-spot, Hoot, more broke than when he had left the cow-boy outbreaks, said: "Make it ten, and I'll let him bite me to death!"

Hoot's first fall established a record that it still unapproached in the Universal "lot." Charging his horse to gallop to the top of a high hill, Gibson pulled leather until the broncho reared on, lost its balance and, with its rider, fell backwards and rolled over the edge of the steep ravine, to a sandbank forty feet below.

The youth's daring and utter disregard for life and limb immediately won him prominence. His dare-devil riding, coupled with healthy appearance and good looks, rendered him suitable for supporting roles. Universal decided that it was not long before he was playing leading parts. Promotion to stardom in Universal productions followed later and he was starred in five reel features.

The critics were with which Hoot was received by the public astonished even the Universal executives, when orders to add to Gibson's prestige, attempted to make him appear in clothes of a cow-puncher. They dress him up in

MANY SOILS NEED LIME

YIELD ON LIME AND PHOSPHATE PLOTS WAS 50% GREATER.

Results of Experiments Carried Out During Two Past Seasons in Several Different Counties.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture and Colleges.)

Lime and phosphate experiments were planned by the Chemistry Department of the Ontario Agricultural College to determine the effect of lime and acid phosphate on sheet and the increased yield of crop secured. Each experiment consisted of four one-half acre plots. The first experiment was started in the autumn of 1923 when three experiments each of one of the following counties were undertaken: Haldimand, Brant, Wentworth, Brant, Lincoln, Halton, Elgin and Welland. The fertilizers and lime were applied immediately before seeding the ground with wheat. It is the early opinion that lime would influence the crop of wheat but it was applied to see its influence on the clover following the wheat. When the wheat was harvested in 1924 it was found that on the plots receiving lime and acid phosphate the yield was 54 per cent. greater than on the check plots.

In the autumn of 1923, three experiments were laid down in each of eight counties, namely, one west and east of the original eight. When the plots in the sixteen counties were harvested in 1924, it was found that the plots where lime and acid phosphate had been applied yielded 45 per cent. more than the check plots. The clover was harvested from the plots started in the autumn of 1923, and gave a yield of clover on the limed plots forty per cent. greater than on the check plots. The clover yield on the lime and phosphate plots was about per cent greater than it was on the check plots.

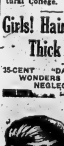

The soil of the plots in these sixteen counties all showed a shortage of lime when taken over by the Department.

During the autumn of 1924 the work was extended to three other farms in each of eight additional counties.

The results to date on the lime phosphate experiments are very interesting as above and without doubt lime may be applied with profit for clover and that acid phosphate may be used with profit on wheat.—Dept. of Extension, Ontario Agricultural College.

Interesting Film Coming to Belle

'The City That Never Sleeps' Big City Story

James Cruze's latest production for Paramount-Artcraft, "The City That Never Sleeps," adapted from Leroy Scott's story "Mother O'Day," includes a fine line-up of interesting players in the principal roles.

Louise Dresser, whose years on the stage and screen have endeared her to millions of theatre-goers portrays the character of "Mother O'Day" the Bowery cafe proprietress about whom the story revolves.

Kathlyn Williams comes back into a Cruze production as a Fifth Avenue society woman who adopts the baby of "Mother O'Day" and whose addictive attitude eventually robs her of the mysterious reverence which has enabled her to maintain her position for many years.

Ricardo Cortez, one of the most promising screen "finds" of recent years, comes under the direction of Cruze for the first time. He plays the "heavy" role.

Virginia Lee Corbin, "remembered as the "record-breaking baby" of the evening clothes. They laid him put Stage and screen's few years ago, in comb on his hair. They even made him wear fake dancing lessons. A bowl arose that could be heard from comic tenement tenor voices. The fans couldn't see Hoot as a city slicker for your specs. They wanted Hoot in his native state, or not at all.

The protest had its effect. Universal told Hoot he could park his silk hat and open-face clothes in his favorite storage warehouse, and break out the old six-shooter, sombrero and chaps. That was duck soup for Hoot, 'cause if there's one thing an honest-to-goody cowpuncher loves, it's wearing trick clothes that spill when you try to jump in the sad-

To Pass Bill

From Mr. Ireland's store for the occasion, Mr. Ireland stated that he had had no knowledge of the transaction but that he realized how serious the offense was under the representation law, and that he could only leave the matter in the hands of the police to take what action they might see fit, but himself, having already before them as soon as possible.

Premier Ferguson stated in explanation that the transaction conducted a store in Trenton, to which he gave little personal attention, and that the cheques, deposited by the business did not even receive Mr. Ireland's endorsation. While the matter was a serious breach of the law technically, it was made the member subject to the loss of his seat, and to a fine of $2,000 per day, the Prime Minister was sure that the House would agree that it was nothing in fit details, and could well be treated leniently. He proposed the passage of an act relieving Mr. Ireland from all penalties, in which suggestion the members of the House concurred.

ENGLISHMAN INVENTS STEAMLESS WINDOW

A limited company, known as the Steamless Windows, Ltd., has been formed in England and patent rights on the invention which will keep dore windows free of frost and steam in all weathers, have been filed in France, Belgium, Italy, Great Britain, United States and Canada. In a few weeks the company will operate in each contracting branch operate in Canada, establish branch the disposal of Canadian store keepers. The undesirable steaming and frosting of large windows is caused by the unequal temperatures inside and outside the stores. The apparatus is based on the pneumatic principle of air being drawn from the interior of the building, passed through vertical perforated tubes fixed on each side of the window heading, and sprayed in jets across the interior surface of the glass. This ensures equal temperature on both sides, which not only prevents any formation of frost or moisture, but also

On the sketch above are indicated the two faults known to geologists which might have been the cause of the earthquake on Saturday. One runs along the northern bank of the St.Lawrence in the neighborhood of Quebec. The other is supposed to be under the Gulf of Maine on the eastern Atlantic seaboard. The figures of circles and S.M. Young's record of an earthquake on July 7, 1920, and shows the process whereby it was estimated to have occurred near Victoria, B.C., in Latitude 50° 45' North and Longitude 140 West. All that is required is the measured distance of three or four reliable observations from the cause of the disturbance found from the seismograph records. First of all any large circle is drawn, and its centre taken as the north pole. The meridians of the observations are then run through the circumference of the circle to the north pole.

FLYING STONE KILLS WORKER AT POINT ANNE

Smith Bowerman Victim of Unusual Accident Saturday Afternoon

INQUEST ORDERED

To Be Held on Friday Next In City Building

Smith J. Bowerman, aged 58, an employee of the Canada Cement Company at Point Anne was fatally injured while at work Saturday afternoon.

A preliminary inquest, which opened at Trail and Sons funeral home at 3.30 o'clock Saturday night, before Coroner W. W. Spence was adjourned until Friday, March 13th, when it will be resumed at the police court here.

The fatality occurred about 2 o'clock and two hours later Bowerman passed away at the Belleville General Hospital which place he had been taken unrelieved.

Sheet Metal Building

Bowerman was in a building which is labeled with corrugated iron and located on the south side from where blasting operations were in progress in the quarry. A large stone was thrown from a blast and crashing through the thick side of the building struck Bowerman was at work, struck him with terrible force on the left side of the face and side of the head, causing a fracturing of the skull and upper jaw bone. The wound on the side of the head was about 3 inches long and 2 inches deep. Bowerman was rendered unconscious.

After first aid had been administered he was taken to the hospital where expert medical attention was given him. He passed away without having regained consciousness. The remains of the body was removed to Tickell & Sons mortuary where an inquest was opened on Saturday night.

The victim of the distressing accident was 58 years of age, was born at Trenton and resided at Point Anne. For the past year and a half he has been in the employ of the Cement Company and was considered a capable and industrious employee. A number of years deceased had resided in this locality and was favorably known.

Widow and two children survive. The son, William, is residing in the United States and the four daughters are Mrs. William Calderwood, Point Pleasant, Mrs. Thomas Bowerman, of this city; Amy and Dorothy at Point Anne. The funeral after being arranged for burial was taken in the family home at Point Anne.

At the inquest

At 8.30 Saturday night the inquest was opened before Dr. W. W. Spence. The jurymen summoned were as follows: Wm. Cowan, foreman, Wm. Johnson, W. J. Thomson, F. Meagher, Geo. Hall, Geo. Hepburn, Jas. Wright, C. H. Vandervoort and P. Harrison. Mr. Wm. Thompson was selected as foreman.

After the jurymen had viewed the body and also the injuries sustained evidence as to identification was taken by Coroner Attorney H. C. Rose who conducted the examination of witnesses.

Sergeant of Detectives J. H. Tenaleck testified as to the finding of his jury.

R. C. Cole took of removing the body from the hospital to Tickell & Sons mortuary. The body was that to which the jurymen had viewed.

William Hall, 143 Charles street identified the body.

This completed the hearing of evidence and the enquiry was adjourned until Friday evening next, 13th inst. at the police court room.

HE LIKENS LIFE TO PHOTOGRAPH AND TOUCHED UP

Dr. Gordon Says Subject Satisfied, Though Wrinkles Still There

FOUR MEN IN MAN

Interesting Talk Given at Bridge Street Last Night

Telling a simple and well illustrated story of the Syrian woman which is symbolic of the human soul Rev. Dr. Gordon, who opened a week's engagement of conference services at Bridge Street Methodist Church Sunday held a congregation which crowded the church last evening, in a deep and quiet interest.

Emphasizing the fact that sin means suffering for the sinner and that it is impossible to keep apart wrong doing and the evil that is in the individual he told those he loves best and who are closest to him, that sin cannot come into his heaven, when he reckoned to be "the saints of heaven," to raise the dark places of their life, turning over the top which is kept, vanished for the approval of all who see him. Then the individual, which is never seen and may be in the casual contact, but a plant which has rested on damp ground for a time. Suffering was also their fate, he pointed out.

"What does it mean to be a Christian?" asked the speaker. "It is not believing in the bible. It is not in believing in a string of facts. It is something much more indeed and simple. It is the acceptance of Jesus Christ as your life to Jesus." After that, you may read the scriptures, pray, go to church to try to understand and believe it, for He is the key to the bible.

Jesus, who beside everyone in the religion. It was when there was a woman "came in" when his knock was heard, and when Christ's beaming face in the new found light, proclaim to the world.

There were four men in each man, Dr. Gordon continued. The first was the one as the crowds in the street know him as he goes over the man known to those with whom he eats and sleeps—those with whom he lives intimate. The third was the man as known by himself with the way of himself and the highest probably out. The fourth was the man God sees, with shades back and high elevation of the man's character, whom the Syrian woman saw—himself as he was. Then he had marked by black in life revealing the undesirable tendencies no matter how undesirable it might have been.

Closer Talks With Jesus

Advising others to come with Jesus, the Man who died, Dr. Gordon suggested that the proper time to talk with Him was just before sleep came, taking the Syrian woman as a text.

The speaker compared life to a photographer's finished photograph, where negatives are first developed, the temporary blemishes had been carefully touched up, eliminated. The result was first the subject of the photograph who was satisfied with the picture, but that the underside of life is revealed, the wrinkles and blemishes of our faces are prominent also. We should reveal to Jesus everything, be honest about it, for we are supposed to be honest.

In business life to a legal degree if we are to succeed, and in life also.

The Syrian woman had seen Jesus at the well and had immediately been inspired to "dig for the precious gold mine of life," which is the mission of consecrating villagers whom she entreated to "go and see this man who knows all that I have done." Finally with permission, there was a conversion of men enroll it. The Syrian woman's heart was aboard, with the love of heart behind it, with and enlightened, for those people to save, and when the men became enlightened in Jesus by what the woman said of Him; it indicated a change within their hearts because she had moved within them.

Saying that what were the touch of God is felt the power of God goes' Dr. Gordon pointed to Dwight Moody, who touched while working in a shoe store; how he in turn later touched J. E. Stuad and Ira Sankey, and how Stuad touched and later touched John Mott of Iowa and John later touched Billy Sunday and so it goes.

Let your love to-night, looking for the one man or woman," he said "in whom he was made a change dimness to the whole swing of his or her life."

Incidentally he explained that if takes more to changes a woman than a man and it was worth more.

Change Congregation

A large congregation greeted Dr. Gordon at the morning service also when his theme was, "Jesus' estimate of a people you can't see." A fine musical program characterized both services Sunday morning. Mrs. H. Stokes and Mrs. N. McKinnon were as duet, "In Old Galilee," in fine voice, and the anthem "Lead Kindly Light" was well brought out by Bell Choir. At the evening service Mrs. Stokes sang "Crossing the Bar" and Mrs. Hitchcock with violin, organ and horn assisted Professor C. P. Hunt at the organ. A selection by the quartette of the four instruments was one of the best heard in the city for some time. Mrs. Stokes, Mrs. McKinnon, Messrs. A. Bellgrove and J. Hargrave sang "Send and Low, Jesu My Lord is Calling" and Mr. William Chater took the solo part of the menu chorus, "Brightly Dawns our Deliverance Morn." The evening anthem was, "And the Glory of the Lord," which was well rendered.

Celebrated His 34th Anniversary

Venerable Archdeacon Beamish Ordained in London, March 1891

Yesterday the Venerable Archdeacon Beamish celebrated the thirty-fourth anniversary of his ordination to the sacred ministry of Christ's church. He was ordained in St. Paul's Cathedral, London, on the 8th of March 1891 by the late Bishop Baldwin, Secretary to Curate of St. James' Church. Stratford under the late Canon Sheppard. Shortly after he then went to Europe for a year's travel and study, taking a special course of theology at Oxford University.

On his return to Canada he was assistant for nearly four years at St. George's Cathedral, Kingston. From there he was appointed by the late Archbishop Lewis as the first rector of Trinity Church Brockville. He remained for over seven years. From there he was made Rector of Belleville by the late Bishop Mills in the year 1902. July 1st next he will have completed 23 years of service in Belleville.

During that period many changes have come to the community of St. Thomas' Church: 325 have been buried 720 have been baptized, over 400 couples married and with the present clergy staff over 900 additional Confirmations. In the membership in our mother church of 87 years so has been a rector over 1100 persons have been presented for confirmation by him—over 40 each year. which contributes to the interesting of the history of the diocese of Ontario.

Have Put Ban on Dow's Malt Extract

Storekeeper's being Warned Not to Sell any More

Inspector F. J. Naphan of the D.T.A. inspectorate has received a circular asking him to warn the public that Dow's Malt Extract, also restiertad with the Proprietors and Patent Medicines Act at Ottawa as William Dow's Malt Extract has now been removed from the list.

This malt extract sold by druggists and storekeepers has been found to be listed by the Department of Health as unfit for sale, and the warrant from December 31st, 1924. The letter which was received from the Dominion Excise Commissioners explained that complaints as to the use to which the extract was being put, caused the action.

Storekeepers and druggists are being warned that whoever sells it will be liable to prosecution for the sale of liquor and that the penalty for the extract is found to not register higher than 1½%. Dealers who formerly purchase the extract are asked to return it for sale, destroy it or return it to the makers.

QUESTION OF PAGEANT CAUSES DISCUSSION

The question of holding a pageant during the Old Boy's Reunion in Belleville this summer was discussed at one of the time of the Executive Committee of the Reunion in a meeting held in Chambers on Saturday evening last. The general committee on management had reported that the terms offered by Robert Thompson were considered able and after some discussion they were asked to secure terms from other parties before the committee of the Executive thought that a pageant should be held, but decided to put it on under direction will be considered. Dr. John Ferris will be chairman for names of former residents, though he has already secured a large list through the co-operation of fraternal societies and private citizens. An invitation to Belleville will be printed and mailed to every former Belleville whose name can be secured.

The General Committee will meet again in Jodes Wills office next Saturday at 7.30 and most of the sub committees will meet at the same time and place.

TWENTY THIRD GATHERING OF LEAGUE OPENS

British Foreign Secretary Presides; Many are in Attendance

LATE WIRE NEWS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Geneva, March 9.—Chamberlain, British Foreign Secretary, as President of the Council opened the twenty-third session of the Council of the League of Nations today.

Diplomats, Governmental agents and newspapermen have come to Geneva from all corners of Europe, attracted by the large number of important questions which will be discussed, especially the problem of the Geneva security protocol which Great Britain is expected to declare repulsed to the British mind.

Negotiations for the guarantee pact recently proposed will be pushed, Great Britain's statement on the protocol may be forthcoming tomorrow.

DOLLAR DAY IS VOTED SUCCESS BY MERCHANTS

Public Rallied to Invitation in Large Numbers Saturday Afternoon

LATTA MAN WINS

Harold Skelly captured Miss Dolar at Four O'Clock

Dollar Day in Belleville on Saturday has been voted one of the most successful sales ever undertaken in the community. While the Intelligencer was not in touch with the thirty odd firms which took part in the business enterprise, enough were seen to make the pronouncement that most were more than satisfied. Full weather and real values brought out a splendid crowd from city and country and business was good from early morning until late in the evening in the morning until the store closed.

Many of the Bridge Dollar Day Store reported a fair day, and satisfactory. H. Thomas and Co. Ltd. Dollar Day Limited reported a fine day and the venture a successful one for the big store.

Best Saturday

Mr. Dickens Jr. of E. P. Dickens and Son, believe that Dollar Day on Saturday they have had this year and considerably more than last year. In comparison with last year, however, Mr. Dickens was not so sure.

Mr. A. Dutton expressed himself as well pleased with Saturday's Dollar Day effort very much. He did better than last year, he declared.

Mr. P. Moore stated that it was the best of all Dollar Days and his sales had exceeded that of any other year.

Mr. Hoopper Bros. said that they were very pleased with Dollar Day as his line of goods is seasonable. It served as a good advertising medium to secure sales. The immediate results of sales was not so great but it was a good boost, and started things off for the year, even more than last year, he said.

Mr. Blackburn of Strond's said that Dollar Day was extra good, bringing in fifty per cent. more business than the ordinary Saturday.

The rush was on all day right until evening, and the overflow are heard in the afternoon and evening. Bargains in his opinion it was 50 per cent. better than other Dollar Days.

The merchants of the firm of Tyrell and Sons report that their sales for the day amounted to 25 per cent. of the articles which they had on sale. This is the first day of the best days sale held by the firm for some time.

Miss Dollar Caught

Mr. Harold Skelly of Latta was the man to capture the mysterious Miss Dollar at four o'clock. The fair maiden, Miss Beatie Finlan, of Port Colborne, who was the first "Miss Dollar" in conversation with the Intelligencer explained the manner of her capture.

The gentleman who finally found her and obtained the first prize reached her first and said, "You are Miss Dollar" and the final report of the Intelligencer." Miss Dollar handed it and the prize was awarded. Then the man retired and after polling a copy of Friday's Intelligencer from his pocket and reading the right words, took his prize. Many of the newspaper office where he received his prize. The man is a stranger to Miss Dollar had spent an exhaustive day, and was tired out when Dollar Day store.

Several close calls made her trips interesting. In Ritchie's a lady, with a copy of the paper in her hand, was said "I think you are Miss Dollar of be Intelligencer." In Eaze and Soule's store a lady had the right words, but no paper. Many similar mistakes like these delayed the fair one so give her would-be captors a merry chase.

In some of the stores the clerks were evidently "wise" when they saw her, but the customers apparently didn't notice the smiles.

Roman Catholic Priest Criticizes Immodest Dress And All Dancing

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Quebec, March 9.—Dancing as in modest dress came in for a message of strong criticism yesterday in pronouncements of Archbishop Rouleau Trudel, who is conducting a Novena, above these topics as his subject. The preacher described all dancing as an occasion of sin and protested that it should be forbidden. In a pronouncement the speaker advocated the practice of abstaining from such things and he followed this yesterday by a denunciation of immodest dress. He would not do in the case of dancing, he declared, go to hell itself.

"These dances", Father Trudelliet them.

Belleville Bill Is up Tomorrow

G.W.V.A. Money By-Law Handled by Ireland

William Ireland, member West Hastings, told The Daily Intelligencer today that he would likely introduce a private bill in the legislature tomorrow, which, if passed, will validate the Belleville municipal by-law for a grant of $10,000 to the Great War Veterans Association.

A deputation from Belleville was received at the Parliament Buildings on Friday, when the case for the city and the Veterans was laid before the Attorney-General.

Earthquakes Won't Stop Sky-scrapers

New York Is Not Worried Following Last Week's Warning

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York will go right on putting up skyscrapers and adding to its array of tallest buildings in the world despite earthquake warnings.

The exact effect of the shock has not been definitely established and is now the subject of investigation by architects during the next few days.

Thomas Hastings, of the firm of Carrere & Hastings, of the firm of who declares that theearth tremors would in no way affect the building plans and who stood out strongly for modern skyscrapers as the safest type of building known. It was Mr. Hastings' belief that there was little likelihood of the collapse of such structures.

The experience of the few persons who were in the big office building of the Home Insulation on Saturday evening when the tremors were felt bears out their views. Some reported experiencing a slight swaying and others told of the electric lights suspended overhead swaying for a few minutes.

There were many more however, who were ignorant of the fact that there had been an earthquake. A watchman in the Woolworth building said he felt a slight tremor about noon when inquiry was made about him he said he thought he had just missed the whole thing with a promptory. Not a ripple disturbed.

In the ever-so-slight pendulumlike motion recorded instruments at extreme movements reported lies what Mr. Hastings and other architects believe to be the greatest strength and safety of the modern steel-skele ton type of building. Others also pointed out that buildings of this type were the most resistant to earthquakes the earth tremors in the Tokio disaster of September 1923.

THREATENS TO ABANDON MINES IN NOVA SCOTIA

British Empire Steel Corporation Protection For Men on Job

STRIKE SITUATION

Union Officials Declare No Authorization Given to Persuade Workers

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Sydney, N.S., March 9.—The steadily increasing cost of living and the people of Nova Scotia and operated by the British Empire Steel Corporation under lease, in the alternative took out by J. S. McLary, vice-president of the company, in a letter to all the miners on the part of the Provincial Government to meet the protection for men he considers necessary to bring into the country district in order to supplant members of the clerical staff now employed in the mines and mills.

Quiet reigns throughout the whicrid area and miners express determination not to commit any over act, believing that such would benefit only those of the employers. Not even the customary picketing is being carried out due to a late hour this morning Mr. McLary had received no reply to his appeal for protection. It is believed that strong intimated at Halifax last night that in view of there being no trouble the protection sought would not be forthcoming.

John W. McLeod, district president of the United Mine Workers of America declared this morning that if a committee of men had called on member of "white collar" laborers to quit work in the Dominion mines, the executive had not authorized such action.

Relief for the destitute in mining districts of Nova Scotia occupying chief attention in strike situation today.

1924 Rates Of

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Glace Bay, March 9.—1924 tax rates are off. The British Steel Corporation Nova Scotia Coal Company Limited, was the statement made at noon today by Mr. Justice Mellish, Commissioner. The British Empire Steel Corporation Nova Scotia Coal Company Limited says wire would prefer to maintain the same rates as last year, would restore wages all at once, give guarantee regarding employment and maintain 1924 rates until settlement was effected. Answer to which Mr. McLeod's proposal is concerned.

The corporation will not consider minine coal industry 1924 rates," said Mr. McLary.

JOHN D'S GOLF

Anxiety test Mr. John D. Rockefeller should be lacking golf too seriously is always by analytical dispatches from Ormond Beach, says the Herald Tribune. He doth not hurl a club in disgust over a missed putt, but throws it in the air in glee when he makes a "birdie," as frequently the voracious chroniclers report, he does. With such a temperament, Mr. Rockefeller is a welcome companion in a foursome.

But he is his not taking the game seriously. He remarks on the technique of the swing have the real text book flavor. He ventures, moreover, to admit that he has attained "the right psychological attitude" and if the onlookers are observed, his study of every shot is a marvel of concentration. He plays golf suspiciously like a person to whom the game really matters. Hot, of course, he doesn't take it seriously. He isn't at all concerned about his score. Oh no!

Life is queer stuff. Here is Mr. Rockefeller at eighty-five trying night and main, with the aid of phil osophy and psychology, to do with a little ball things that a fourteen-year-old caddie can do indefinitely better without half trying. Such is Golf.

JOURNALISTIC COURTESY

The London Observer is showing the traditional courtesies of journalism in paying compliments to the departer "Freeman's Journal", with few of whose opinions it has ever much sympathised. The Observer points out that the Freeman was notable not alone for its venerable age, but for the example it set of "the ablest kind of journalism both in grace and power". "No one with a memory can be unmoved to see its name added to the obituary of the Press."

SELF INTEREST

The most fascinating subject of conversation to the average man is—himself. He likes to meditate upon himself, talk about himself, and be talked about favorably. Which is quite natural, considering the fact that, so far as he is concerned, he is the most important creature on earth.

A man's job, his family, his health, his achievement of fortune, his life are the most interesting and vital things in the universe to him. Anyone who can offer light and leading on these paramount issues is a public benefactor. He gets a hearing, or a reading.

No wonder the average Canadian is a confirmed newspaper reader. The honest and clean journal of events is an open book revealing the heart and mind of the race. It deals in human interest. It sketches the average man in his universal characteristics. It satisfies his hunger to know about himself.

The Pretty Woman

EVERY woman wants to be pretty.

The country over is starred with beauty parlors where women are trying to make themselves over and improve their appearance.

All men like pretty women, but somehow pretty women have not much of the right kind of influence in the world.

Perhaps it is because beauty is a gift. And anyone who has a gift has something that does not promote character, but interferes with it.

I have often noticed that a boy who plays the violin well, or the mouth harp, or Jamaica well, or can do any other kind of trick well, is apt to be an undisciplined character.

The same is true of a boy who inherits a bit of money. He is subject to temptations that the ordinary boy does not meet. It is a rare thing for Man to overcome them sufficiently to become a successful man.

The truth is that the gain who has the best chance to succeed is by success a blessed natural achievement and contentment, is the man of an average character, the man who is endowed with no especial gifts.

The Bible tells us that it is as hard for the rich man to get into the Kingdom of Heaven as for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle. It is hard for any man who is in any way especially endowed to be the right kind of person. It can be done, but it is rare.

There seems to be something in the possession of unusual qualities that unbalances a man's character. If I had a child and wanted him to be happy, I should pray that he would not do anything well enough to be marked out above his fellows.

It is a queer thing that in this life happiness seems to run along in the rut where the common people live. It is a privilege of the common and not the uncommon folk.

I recently saw a play called "The Valley of Content", which illustrated that there is much more content in being poor and struggling with the ordinary obstacles of life than there is in being rich and having no obstacles.

There are people who cannot see the greatness of Abraham Lincoln. He was not a great speaker; he was not an artist; he was not a musician; he was not good looking. He was not extraordinarily endowed in any way, but was great in his balance of character. He was great in the sense that the common people are great. This made him the idol of the masses and the more his true character comes out the more he is understood by the common people.

Those great women who have most influenced the world, either by their works or through some man, as a rule have not been pretty women. The pretty woman's greatest task is to be pretty, and in the direction of destructiveness. It is rare to find a woman of handsome mien who is handsome also in her thoughts and spirit.

But if women have the right thoughts and feelings and principles in time they impress themselves upon the appearance and they grow more beautiful as they grow old.

They do not build on the beauty of youth, but excell rather in that beauty which comes with the accretion of years.

Or finds most dangerous. As in the case of some other people. Mr. MacDonald has to rely very largely on the lack of a man to take his place.

Press Opinions

POOR SPORTSMANSHIP

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

We would like to think that the practices which have recently associated with the witnessing of a hockey match and which every Canadian is sorry of having been imported, with doubtless coming from across the border arise from thoughtlessness rather than from a desire deliberately to temper to suit or to play the boor. Most of those who indulge in them know better. It is not evidence of sportsmanship to greet the good work of an opposing player with stones and calcolite simply because of his superior physique; it is not the part of a true sportsman to hurl invective at the unfortunate referee if his decisions, generally speaking, good faith happen to be distasteful; it is contrary to the very rudiments of British sportsmanship to meet success on the part of an adversary with blame and groans instead of with the applause which it merits. Yet how often do incidents such as these occur, and how often do those who are animated that athletics shall be conducted under proper and gentlemanly auspices lament the absence of what is it and conceal?

A MENACING CRIME

(Buffalo Express)

The appalling murder at Niagara Falls of Orville A. Preuster, a customs inspector detailed to the liquor smuggling squad, may or may not have been associated with three other bomb outrages that have occurred in this connection with the last two years. The fact remains that it is the fourth bombing and so far nobody has been punished. There have, also, been murders by other means than bombs which still cry out for justice.

Perhaps the authorities have done the best they could, but the fact that criminals of the most desperate character appear to defy every effort with impunity calls for something more than has hitherto been the best. Men who would kill in the manner in which Preuster was slain are a menace to everybody. The question of who is the victim is merely one of who gets in the way or gives offense.

HIS WORK DONE

(Hamilton Herald)

Twelve or fifteen years ago the Hon. William Pugsley was one of the most conspicuous of Canadian statesmen—one of the most intensely admired and also one of the most cordially disliked. As minister of public works in the Laurier government he proved himself to be an able administrator, but his abilities were overshadowed, particularly in opposition. He was a forceful debater—always cool and imperturbable, with a keen logical mind and a mastery of polite sarcasm. His death at the age of seventy has no great void, for his more important work was done.

SUCCESS OF COOLIDGE

(New York Herald Tribune)

What has been the secret of the President's success? It has been in the main, the appeal he has made to all classes of Americans. At a time when politics had become so much of a struggle for preferment among powerful organized groups by which returned to the basic principle of democracy: the large interest in view the interest of the nation and, therefore, the interest of the individual citizen. He was one of the few leaders to realize the full extent of the overshadowing post-war issue is the reduction of war burdens.

To-day's Smile

It was their honeymoon trip, and the first time they had ever been out of their native village. As they waited on the platform at the station for the guard to handle their boxes out of the van, the young bride and bridegroom were manifestly embarrassed. Then an outside porter came up and asked: "Can I 'elp 'yer wi' yer luggage for yer mister?" The red blood mounted to the young bride's cheeks, and turning to her hubby she demanded: "Well, well! If we ain't agoin' to thrash him for refusin' to me like that, you're no man, George!"

Dutchy's Diary

Dollars and Nurmi

Well, the rink is over, and Belleville is back to normal after a most successful Dollar Day. Merchants are pleased with profits made, for all though they cut down prices, they benefitted, by the greater number of sales. Buyers are satisfied with the values taken received, and The Daily Intelligencer rejoices in added proof that its columns are a splendid advertising medium.

One of the best stories of the day concerned a lady friend of ours who was busy hunting bargains.

When three or four young men accustomed her, she thought first that there were an unusual number of fresh people out. But when this shopper noticed that women also were looking at her, she at once came to the conclusion that either too much powder had been left on her nose or she had collided with some soot from a Pinnacle Street engine.

Out came the vanity case, but the tiny mirror reflected a normal countenance. And believe me or not, she went on puzzled for several minutes until she overheard a clerk and a customer discussing "Miss Dollar."

She was wearing a fur coat.

I am indebted to Phil Brockel, physical instructor of the Belleville Y.M.C.A., who represented The Intelligencer at Toronto when Nurmi ran on Friday night, for an interesting account of this amazing athlete from Finland.

Nurmi's first opportunity for showing his real running ability and extraordinary staming came in the finals of the 1,500 metres, run on the afternoon of the fifth day of Olympic events.

Stallard, the much-talked-about English miler was scheduled for this race, and so too, the star Swiss runner, Scharer. Among the rare there were many people who thought that Stallard would win.

It was Nurmi race, so this account says. That was evident almost from the start. As unemotional as a tick-tock in the clock on the tower, he took the lead, apparently unconscious of the presence of any other runner on the track. As he neared the finish line we noticed him glance backward over his shoulder as one might do on a pleasant afternoon stroll, cross the white line, step for a fitting second to pick up his sweater on the turf beside the track, pass then without stopping, without glancing either to right or left he forged the tasting length of the final of his quarters.

That gives you some idea of this remarkable Finn's success, unperturbed condition at the end of one of the most gruelling of track events. In contrast to this, let us see how Stallard fared.

Both Stallard and Scharer were more than fifty yards behind when Nurmi crossed the line. Immediately there seemed a heart breaking sprint for second place. Scharer beat out his rival by a small margin of inches. The instant Stallard's foot touched the finish line he crumpled and fell unconscious. They carried him off the field on a stretcher, two doctors worked on him and it was a half hour before they succeeded in bringing him back to consciousness.

That race was the best example I have ever witnessed of the difference between stamina and will power. Nurmi, finishing an easy victor, seemingly as fresh as he had started—you had Stallard running on plenty of grit and form but not very much stamina. The luck thereof was fairly tragic.

Interesting News From Surrounding Places

PIERS DANGEROUS NEAR DESERONTO

Deseronto, March 9.—Along the Deseronto front here are many piers, new and old, the edges of some of which are submerged piers. The channel-ways pass can be maintained by a realization corporation, for the sanctuary value of the wood, the stone filling left in the submerged forms, all being in navigable waters. Some day a tragedy will be reported from the "Bay of Quinte," and the cause will be the wreckage of these piers. Most of Forester's Island there is the same condition. Instead of opening the bay, the approach to which is crowded with a fine breakwater, the entrance to the cove is safe only to those who have a knowledge of the location of the piers, because of invisible, motor boats are very numerous, drift each those years and in stormy weather their safety would ye they much endangered.

For this reason many citizens are urging that steps be taken to have the submerged piers cleared out so that navigation shall not be hindered or endangered.

Many from Deseronto were in attendance at the Belleville home races on Friday and report an interesting afternoon's sport.

EPIDEMIC OF FLU CLOSED UP SCHOOL

A threatened epidemic of flu is an advanced stage caused the suspension of school to the north of Oshawa to close the institution for a brief period this week. Many of the pupils have been confined to their homes for some time with serious colds and at the time of the classes were declared, it would be the proper action to close the school entirely until the flu abated. Another mild epidemic is present at the Raglan school where chickenpox has broken out among several of the classes and many of the pupils have been confined to their homes.

Village Store Burns

The accidental lighting of a fire on lighting gasoline in the shop of A. J. McDonald, North Lancaster, caused the total destruction by fire of the building and its contents, together with the records of the township of Lancaster on Friday 9th. McDonald is clerk. The gasoline trickled down the register of the pipeless furnace and there was an explosion and fire that left only the building but difficulty in making their escape. The loss is $25,000 with $9,000 insurance.

New Phone Building

A contract has been awarded to the John B. Gray Construction Company, Toronto, for the construction of a new building at Cobourg, which will house the Bell Telephone Company of that city about December 1st of this year. The erection of the new structure involves some $50,000. Miller and Libby of this city have been given the contract for plumbing and heating.

REGINA LAWYER CLAIMS OLD BIBLE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Ont., March 9.—Having read in a Toronto paper of an old family bible which had been in the Scottish Chapelle Hall, the seat of Ostorio legal agnates, in Toronto, since February, 1855, when it was shed as an exhibit in a court case, Georges S. Barry, K.C., of Regina, Sask., has proved claim to the very ancient volume and it has been forwarded to him. The bible had been put in as an exhibit, apparently, to prove the date of the birth of children of Peter Barr at Paisley, Scotland, in 1820 and 1832. George H. Barr is a grandson of the Peter Barr referred to.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

CHAPTER XI.

"Are you tired?" he said. You are spirited to a rest, for you have kept all your engagements most religiously. How do I know?" he added, as she glanced up at him. "Because I have been watching you. You see, I have been waiting my turn. This is my dance, is it not? Shall we go out on to the balcony?"

"It will be very pleasant there," she said. "I am a little tired, I think, but it will soon be over. Are you not tired at all?" "I must seem so hot and wearisome to one who does not dance."

"Oh, I have been very well amused," he said. "Besides, I have been busy thinking."

"Thinking?" she said, leaning on the rail and looking down at the street and then at the carriages which were being shifting to draw up into line. "I should think the best place for thinking is the house and not here, where it is rather distracting."

"But I have spent most of my time here, where you see me," he said. "Shall I tell you what I have been thinking of, Miss Delaine?"

Elaine half turned her head, her eyes still fixed on the moving crowd.

"I was thinking what a capital dance room the big salon at the Castle would make."

"Yes, it would," she assented promptly. "But—"

"But what?" he said. "You mean that there would be no one to dance to it; that I am seldom at the Castle?"

"Yes," said Elaine, quietly, "that is what I was going to say."

"But there is no reason why I should not be there oftener. I have been thinking a great deal to-night, Miss Elaine." She noticed that he used her Christian name, and that he seemed unconscious of having done so. "They say that the great secret of our time has come suddenly and unexpectedly."

"Perhaps they do," she said with a slow smile. "My life has had no changes, so I cannot say."

"I wish I could say the same!" he said in a low voice. "Have you seen your key yet?" he asked suddenly.

"My key?" she said.

"No, I have been too busy, and—and you are one of my reasons for leaving the Castle was that you might not quite free to do so!" he said hastily reproachfully.

There was silence for a moment as he looked down at her. She had thrown a China crepe shawl over her head, and it had half-slipped down, leaving her profile free, to his gaze, the delicate girlish profile crowned by the glorious wealth of dark silky hair, which shone with raven lustre against the white shawl. "Did you find a key, Elaine?"

"You are fond of poetry, I know."

Elaine assisted by a slight move ment of her head.

"How do those lines—of Tennyson I think—run? Are many rise on their dead selves—"

"To higher things," she said, as he stopped.

"Yes, that is it. Do you believe that?"

Elaine raised her eyes to his face. It was pale and full of a grave intensity.

"Yes," she said with sweet solemnity.

"Put into voice prose. It is it possible to do so?" he said. "Never too late to regain one's lost happiness. And you say it is true—sacred, I should say, for you can not guess how important your verdict is to me!"

Elaine's face flushed and then grew pale, remained at the Myscolls' floated out to them, the scent of a tea rose blushing on one of the pillars of the veranda beneath was wafted up ward. And, as the music ceased the waltz, the scent of the tea-rose all be lily afterward.

"Why—why should you ask, why should you depend upon my opinion?" she said, as carelessly as she could.

"Because—well, I value it more highly than any other human being's," he said. "Because—Miss Delaine, will you ever nearer to her—it was not only I now you that I remembered the lines that I began to work out my life on they might be true; that through the clouds that hang over us the sun shines over the present and the future, I—I mean that we are capable of light, of light that meant hope and happiness to me!"

His voice had drawn deeper, almost inaudible, and Elaine, put one to her lips held the shawl with sudden, trembling hands.

"You are surprised—I have frighten ed you," he said in a gentler voice, as if he were trying to reassure her. "And yet I thought that you could not have failed to see that it was the thought of you which had given me hope and courage to pierce the darkness. Elaine, do you not know that—I love you?"

The "Krounds" grew indistinct, the noise of the carriages a confused sound in her ears, the stars shining so brightly in the dark blue sky suddenly became blurred in her sight. But, nearly unconsciously, she was aware that he was speaking, and that he was pleading with her, that he was telling her that he loved her, that he had loved her from the moment he first saw her, that he had been waiting for this moment, that he had been waiting for this moment, that he had been waiting for this moment

Popular Actress In English Comedy

Constance Talmadge Has Interesting Part in Griffith Feature

English wit, always comes into high relief when matched against American humor, and that explains in part why the ninth-making machinery in Constance Talmadge's latest comedy, "His Night of Romance," which opens Monday at Griffin's Theatre.

The situation is that of an impecunious young British lord who honorably sets a prospect of matrimony to an American heiress he has never met to a London money-lender.

Constance, as the heiress, having designed in sketches of spring for her sartorial nerves, has anticipated fortune hunters and so disguised herself to look like an out-and-out backwoods schoolma'am.

But through a series of laughable, yet wholly possible, circumstances, she discovers the nobleman; and, in fact, their ludicrous lessons so closely allied that they are compelled to pose as newlyweds in order to avoid a scandal.

As yet neither knows of the other's true identity. The sharp-brained moneylender, however, spreads the facts broadcast into the scene. Regardless of delicacy of situation, he sees a chance to collect his long-standing account with the lord, if he can clinch the marriage.

His crude manner in achieving his objective almost blights out all hope of the marriage, but meantime Miss Talmadge has entered the play, and his well directed arrows write the finale of happiness in the picture.

Constance's dual role gives her a wide field for fun-making, and she makes the best of it. Alternately the flippant flapper and the bleak schoolma'am, her acting is at all times refreshing.

Roland Colman, a young English actor, plays the part of the lord and makes quite a hit. Kirk Brown, with an intimacy an American actor could hardly achieve, Jean Hersholt, as the money-lender, Clara Horton, Mae Busch, Joseph Dowling and Templar Saxe are in the cast.

"Her Night of Romance" was produced by Joseph M. Schenck for First National, under direction of Sidney Franklin. The story was written for Constance by Hans Kraly.

Mother-love and Sacrifice Shown In "City That Never Sleeps" At Belle Theatre

It is safe to assume that there isn't a man, woman or child in the world who would be unable to give the correct answer to the question: Which is "the city that never sleeps?" And because everyone does know the answer, Samuel Cruse's latest Paramount picture that bears this alluring title is armed with more than ordinary interest by local fans. It is also announced that this production will positively be shown at the Belle Theatre for three days beginning today.

New York—wonder city of the world —is the scene "told and shown" before the war and before prohibition, with its boozers, its gaiety, its gambling dens, its cheap saloons and free lunch; and New York in 1914, with its modern, fast-moving, its gay White Way, its glittering night life and its many other distinctions two contrasting backgrounds "The City That Never Sleeps" unfolds its poignant story of mother-love and sacrifice.

The picture is an adaptation by Walter Woods and Adelaide Heilbron of Leroy Scott's famous story, "Mother O'Day." The action centers about the two women, mother and daughter. The mother keeps a cafe and dance hall in the Bowery section of New York and to make sure that her little baby girl will get the proper care and attention she arranges to have the child adopted by an impoverished society man and innocent society woman to educate and bring up as her very own.

The girl grows up in an age when she have to be on a par with the rest of the species tries to outdo the male in every-making. How the mother saves her daughter from her companions and herself provides real gripping drama. From start to finish, the screen play is chock full of all those elements that go to make rich entertainment.

Director Cruse has provided a cast that is more than unusually capable. Louise Dresser, Virginia Lee Corbin, Kathlyn Williams and Robert Ellis, whose work are featured, need no introduction and the supporting players are equally well known. The fact that the picture was made by the producer of "The Covered Wagon" is a guarantee of its worth from a directorial standpoint.

Darkens Hair So Naturally No One Knows

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair looking dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is musty and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking for any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known druggist says everybody darkens the hair so naturally, and even so evenly, that nobody can tell how it is applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning all the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

IMAGINING THAT YOUR EYES ARE THUS AND SO

Isn't of any use whatever. What you ought to know is to know. And I can't imagine how you are going to find out unless you submit to an examination. There is no other way. But it is a way that promises big rewards if you need glasses, and much satisfaction if you don't.

Tuxis Square of City Champions

"Alphas" won Dominion-Wide Honors in Athletic Competition

Newton Thompson has just received a letter from the Head Office of the Ontario Boys Work that the "Alpha" Tuxis Square, of which he is Member, is the 1923 Dominion Championship as a result oldie National Athletic Competition held last season. The same letter also won the Ontario Championship for winning the highest points during the same competition.

Out of a possible 900 points the boys won 599 points. This is a record to be proud of and besides bringing credit to themselves individually goes to show that the Boys from Belleville are not content until they have reached the top. The boys will each be awarded a special medal. The following is a personnel of the Square winning the highest honors of the Dominion:

Douglas Moore, Edgar Buchanan, Murry Hall, Alex Weir, Albert Miles, Charlie Gelway.

LADY BYNG OFFERS CUP FOR CLEAN SPORT

Ottawa, March 9.—Desiring to raise the standard of professional hockey, Lady Byng of Vimy proposes to present a challenge cup to the National Hockey League, to be held each year by the cleanest and most effective player in the league.

In a letter to Frank Calder, president of the National Hockey League, the wife of the Governor-General says:

"Feeling a great desire to help you effort to clean up hockey and eliminate the brutal element which I feel at present is a threat to the national game, and wish to leave a tangible record of the enjoyment I personally have had from the game during our sojourn in Canada, I am writing to ask if you will let me offer a challenge cup for the man on any team in the National Hockey League who, while being thoroughly effective, is also a thoroughly clean player.

Grimsby Men Made A Game Attempt

Won Saturday's Fixture but Lost Round to Falls

Toronto, March 9.—When the Niagara Falls-Grimsby battle ended here on Saturday night with the team from the Peach City losers on the game by 4 to 3 total winners on round by 6 to 5 thousands of fans cheered victors and vanquished alike. It was a great tribute to both, and especially to the plucky team from Grimsby, who won the second game by the score 3 and might have won the championship had they not lost their valuable services of J. T. McVicar, their sturdy, and capable defence man, who was badly injured near the end of the opening period.

Grimsby occupied the struggle with a sustained and powerful attack against which nearly all the Niagara Falls players weakened and their goal tender, Manager Gene Fraser alone stood up before the determined assault, and he undoubtedly saved his team from a decisive defeat. Grimsby had all the better of the scoring while they were at full strength, and they outscored their Niagara Peninsula rivals by 2 to 0 in the first 20 minutes. The intermission found them deadlocked on the round and the Falls' chances slipping away.

But when Doctor Cunningham had McVicar's injured foot during the rest interval and refused to allow him to continue—McVicar cut an artery in his ankle—Grimsby's chances did not look bright. The fortunes of war had improved when property looked thirsty for the team from the Falls. After that Burnside were back on the defence, considering that he is a forward, did good work, but there were times when he faltered, and on those occasions the experienced umpire wearing the tricolor knew what to do.

Grimsby Great Team

That the Falls won a most meritorious victory goes without saying, even though McVicar was out of it. The Grimsby team are intermediates in name only. Played in the same group with either Peterboro' or Niagara Falls they would likely have won the senior championship. They are the youngest and the best septet that ever operated in the O. H. A. senior series, and in the short space of five days they defeated the Falls, and the Falls, and lost to the Falls by 4 to 2. Test is a record that has never been equalled again by an intermediate organization.

It is claimed that the Grimsby team were rated as intermediates and their opponents rules considered the fairest of the former. Toronto fandom dearly loves to applaud the "under dog," and Grimsby will never forget the way they were appreciated here, and the Falls players, most of them World veterans, will understand why the cheering was so predominantly in favor of their opponents.

The Arena was packed to capacity to see the biggest battle of the year, and all the events of other days were enacted again. When the Grimsby team opened the struggle by playing brilliant hockey the fans got in behind them almost to a man, and the din, and noise from then until the finish was never surpassed on Toronto ice.

DOPE IS UPSET IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

Ottawa Senators celebrated the occasion of their last home game of the N. H. L. schedule Saturday night by defeating the weakened St. Pats 5-0 at Ottawa before a casualty house. Dye did not play and Corbeau was laid up with the flu. Holmes played with McCaffery on the bulwarks, the latter playing rover.

Canadiens won 3-1 when the two Montreal teams got together, retaining third position for play-offs by a narrow margin. Joe Malone, ex-Hull star, Canadiens, both Montreal clubs for minor penalties made to the finish of game. At a dance after Veines was presented with a cup donating the most popular player on the roster.

Boston Bruins surprised Ottawa Hamilton by beating them at Boston 3-0. The winners were underestimated.

TENNIS SEASON IS OPENING TO-DAY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, March 9.—The hard court lawn tennis season, for which no less than 191 tournaments have been officially sanctioned, opened to-day at Ventnor. With six tournaments scheduled for March, the number increases rapidly each month, until by July and August the crest of the tennis tournament wave is reached with an average of almost two daily —56 each month, to be exact.

Statisticians calculate that by the end of the season, allowing a fair estimate of an average of 200 matches for each tournament that approximately 40,000 separate matches will have been played during which over 200,00 tennis balls will have been put into play. The claim is advanced on behalf of lawn tennis that, although thirty years ago saw it in its infancy it is now one of the greatest ball games in the world and substantiate this claim by the statement that twenty-three nations entered for the Davis Cup games last year—a figure unrivaled and unlikely to be surpassed by any other game.

GRAND JURY HEAR EVIDENCE OF BIG CASE

Weigh Evidence Against Serge Tkatch, Charged With Murder

G. STOKES, FOREMAN

Court Room Packed to the Doors by Anxious Spectators

Before the Honourable Justice Kelly the Spring Sittings of the High Court of Justice opened here this afternoon. That considerable interest is manifested in the case of Serge Tkach a Russian from Yuzet Anne charged with causing the death of a fellow countryman named Alex Cernauka, was apparent from spectators who crowded the court room long expecting the trial to start to-day. The court room was filled to the doors.

After court had been formally opened by Grand Jurymen were empanelled and selected Mr. Geo. H. Stokes as their foreman.

His Lordship in delivering his charge to the Grand Jury said there was only one criminal case before them to investigate and that was a serious case, the accused being charged with murder and the responsibilities of grand juries are great. It was also their duty to see that try a case that was the duty of the petit jury. The grand jury had to hear the story of the grand jury room bear the evidence which is thrown has to offer in a case of the grand jury to pass its judgment, think a person should be placed on trial for the offence in question then it was their duty to return a true bill, where in own court the accused is placed on trial. His Lordship explained explained the duties of the grand jury and what constituted murder. If a person caused bodily harm to another and death resulted that it was murder. In this case the accused and his companions were fierceness. It is suggested that there was some feeling between the parties, and it was said that the accused struck deceased on the head with a bam mer who death is alleged as the result of injuries sustained. It was not necessary for the grand jury to be unanimous upon the return a bill.

Petit Jury Case

It is the custom of Grand Juries to visit public institutions, the grand jurors how were not being maintained. His Lordship did not consider necessary for the grand jury to make any such inspection. There was no other business for the court except excepting the charge of murder.

Crown Attorney Notes.

Mr. John Aitkenan of Toronto will be the court interpreter at the trial.

Sergt. E. J. Rae of the Provincial Police force, who has been subsistence to Belleville in here in connection with the murder trial. Twenty-two witnesses have been summoned by the Crown in the case.

Mr. Cecil G. Frost of Lindsay is the prosecuting attorney. Counsel will be defended by Mr. C. A. Payne.

On Dec. 31st last, Provincial Police officers received a call to Shadstown, Ont., Anne last, in the afternoon. On arrival there, they found Serge Tkach in the Skyway bar, home where he boarded. He was arrested and later charged with having murdered Alex Cernauka, a fellow workman and boarders at the same house. Cernauka had been dealt two or three blows on the head with some heavy instrument causing terrible injuries which proved fatal later.

Evidence adduced at the inquest and preliminary trial of Tkach as well as at the hearing of an O.T.A. charge, preferred by Provincial officers, showed the life in the boarding section of the quiet village—the home of the Canada Cement Company. Life there was not so quiet, with Niagara wine enlivening many a game between shifts. In fact an O.T.A. conviction was registered against another boarding house keeper whose name for both the chief man and the accused had visited, and where they had probably drunk wine and played cards.

WORST IN YEARS MANITOBA SAYS

Winnipeg, Mar. 10—Manitoba yesterday experienced its worst blizzard of the winter, and reports regarding it here last night told of delayed trains country roads almost impassable, with a stiff northwest wind piling the falling snow into huge drifts in all districts. The snow started early in the morning and while it had lessened somewhat at a late hours last night, it as continuing.

Winnipeg and district got the brunt of the storm, and it was with the greatest difficulty that street car service was maintained. In the suburban districts the car lines were practically crippled, drifts were blocked and roads drifted badly.

Alberta and Southern Saskatchewan reported heavy snow and sleet storms during the day.

There has been a pronounced drop in the temperature, and the Weather Bureau predicts "clearing and cold."

The Fair, one of Chicago's largest department stores has been sold by the Lehmann family to S. S. Kresge, chain store magnate.

A band of Chinese bandits recent ly made elaborate plans to capture a number of Chinese actresses from a railway train. But the actresses up set the whole scheme by missing the train at Canton.

Convict In Cell Hears Need For Cash And Gives Up Savings; Saves Child's Life

Chicago, March 10.—The life of a four-year-old girl has been saved by a prisoner in the county jail in Chicago. The prisoner gave his savings to pay for an operation on the daughter of another prisoner.

Physicians told Melvin J. Raymond, the father, that his daughter might die unless the operation were performed at once. He was unable to raise the $10,000 bond necessary for his release.

E. J. Sackman, in an adjoining cell, heard the story. He directed jail officials to give the $180 he had on deposit to the surgeons. Later it was said that the girl will recover as a result of the operation.

To Urge Doctors To Co-operate

By Recommending Belleville General Hospital to Their Patients

Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors was held yesterday afternoon at the office of Mr. W. H. Nugent, Hon. Secretary of the hospital. Members present were Judge J.J.E. Wills, Messrs. H. J. Kerr, J. W. Millar, H. W. Ackerman, A. B. Collins, Col. A. Vanoughnet, Aid. C. Harrison, Secretary W. H. Nugent, and Miss Tait, Superintendent of the hospital.

Mr. H. W. Ackerman was elected as chairman for the afternoon in the interest.

On Thursday evening a delegation of the Governors will wait upon the executive committee of City Council, to it relevance to financial matters in connection with the hospital.

An effort will be made to induce the physicians of the County to send their patients to the General Hospital rather than to hospitals in other cities. After some inquiry of a routine nature had been transacted the meeting adjourned until the second Monday in April.

Government May Renege Deal

Understood Cabinet Ministers Don't Like Peterson Arrangement

Ottawa, Ont., March 10.—To-morrow the debate on the now famous Peterson-Preston shipping deal will be continued, although it is no secret in Ottawa that the Government is seeking escape from the contract and from the responsibility involved thereby, but the Preston forced them to adopt. In the Cabinet the scheme has but two supporters, Premier Meighen and Hon. Thomas Low.

Two methods of escape are being considered. It has been proposed that Sir William Peterson abrogate the contract on the ground that the Government drove such a hard deal he cannot implement his contract since the Government has taken the lion's share of the guarantees given under the Aid to Shipbuilding subsidy. There is also a proposal that the Government buy Sir William may want some reconsideration of the contract, and for relinquish the contract, and the Government drop the whole matter as a proposition. Then it has been shown that the Peterson subsidy proposals would build the ships and leave $6,000,000 to the promoters, so that they would have a profit on the British subsidy is necessary.

The real method of scuttling the scheme Premier King desires. He has declared against it on the "Serious British Government" that receives from the Government aid to compete with British ships.

The Government has said that such an evasion would be too transparent. They propose to refer it to a special committee, to take some more evidence, delay proceedings until the Government can get out of office by close of the session. By the time Parliament meets again it will be forgotten.

This latter proposal meets with the approval of the Progressives, allies of the Government. The Council of Agriculture has denounced the proposal. Most of the Progressives, especially those of British birth, are who know something of shipping, favor the proposal. Yet they do not wish to face the direct issue and have to oppose the Government. They prefer it should be slowly strangled in committee and the remains left for interment at some future time.

The Government has given up any serious intention to follow the leadership of W. T. R. Preston on this question. Indeed they have made a cle Mr. Preston to the failure by appointing him to another Royal Commission. The Petersen scheme is doomed, but the method of execution has not been definitely decided.

HOTEL KEEPER TAKES ISSUE WITH POLICE

Toronto, March 10.—Messrs. Cameron, Nesbit & Gordon, solicitors for the Colonial Hotel, Limited, Hoff, notified Judge Coatsworth, on Monday afternoon that the Board of Police Commissioners that they intend to bring action against the board for alleged damage done to the hotel property by police officers during a raid at 9 o'clock Sunday morning. The letter, in the notice to Judge Coatsworth, alleged that of 25 rooms in the building only seven were found to be open by the police, who, it is claimed, broke down the hotel in three sides. The hotel people claim that for several months from now with all the province

PRESENTED ON OCCASION OF GOLD WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. B. Osborne of Massassaga Are Remembered

NEIGHBORS GATHER

Present Groom With Cane and Bride With Boudoir Clock

A very pleasing event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. Osborne, Massassaga, on Friday, it being the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding day. A number of the neighborhood both neighbors and friends, gathered together with well filled baskets to do honour to Mr. and Mrs. Osborne, on their golden anniversary.

Although taken by surprise, but always equal to any occasion, Mr. and Mrs. Osborne gave their friends a pleasing reception. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Osborne and his wife assending the welcome by opening their spacious parlors and helping to entertain the guests which numbered nearly sixty.

After pleasant congratulations a most tempting dinner was served up on small tables by several willing ladies, everyone entering into the spirit of the occasion. A Mr. J. D. Knox, pastor of the church, gave a very fitting address, expressing the highest terms the good qualities of the bride and groom of forty years. Their faithfulness in church work and liberality in all good causes not being overlooked by their pastor.

Just at this time a presentation was made by Mr. D. E. Davidson on behalf of the neighbors, Mr. Osborne being on an ebony cane with gold handle suitably engraved. Mrs. George Ackerman making the presentation to Mrs. Osborne, a very handsome boudoir clock, gold bands and a bronzite clock set in gold.

Mr. and Mrs. Osborne replied very feelingly, thanking their friends for their kindness and presents, a most beautiful gift.

After several speeches, Mr. Davidson and Miss Margaret sang "Silver Threads Among the Gold," and choruses were enjoyed and a pleasant afternoon spent. We all hope Mr. and Mrs. Osborne may live to enjoy many happy anniversaries.

PETERBORO FOLK NARROWLY ESCAPE

Peterboro, Ont., March 10.— Three generations of a family, riding in an automobile, escaped with cuts and bruis es at 3 o'clock this morning when the car was picked up by a C. N. R. freight car at the Park street crossing. The small pieces smashed a switch. They are Mrs. Fred Lloyd and Henry Geard, grandfather, father and son respectively, of Lloyd's family. The latest is being retained at St. Joseph's hospital for observation, but the others were permitted to go to their homes.

The engine, in charge of Reakeman Ellis, and Engineer Hall, claimed they have been making a "flying shunt" at the time. The car was struck in the centre, and is a complete wreck.

THE LATE MISS KELLY

Death claimed Miss Irene Kelly, daughter of the late Andrew and Mrs. Kelly of Stoco about seven o'clock this morning after a long illness. She was an invalid for many years following an attack of meningitis. The funeral service will be held on Wednesday to St. Carthage church at Stoco.

Glow, promised to leave this district and regained his freedom on that condition. Today he is willing to go he says.

He had the price (y a ticket which was purchased and he will leave the city for sure this time.

Ice Carnival to Be Big Feature

When Kiwanis International Gathers at St. Paul This Summer

Chicago, March 10 — Arrangements are being made for a spectacular ice carnival as a feature of the annual convention of all the Kiwanis Clubs in the United States and Canada to be held in Saint Paul next June, it was announced today by Kiwanis officials here.

The carnival is to include hockey games by the champion team of Saint Paul and Duluth teams, special skating events in which the champion skaters of the country will compete, races between Kiwanis clubs of various cities and special races between runners and skaters.

Ice and lumbering industries of the North country will be exhibited and demonstrated and there will be exhibitions of the carrying of supplies by dog teams used in Canada and Alaska. Arrangements are being made to procure the dog-teams that operated the antitoxin serum to Alaska recently, including the team lead by the famous dog Balto.

So much interest has already been aroused by the plans for this ice carnival that a committee of the city buildings has declared its desire to have the ice carnival last after the visitors have covered their employer by the visitors from other parts. The Policies cover sickness and death and cost the employers only 50c. a year. The entire cost of the premiums being borne by the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company Limited.

From the standpoint of the employes, it is a most unselfish thing. It gives them protection, not only, when through sickness they are unable to work, but in the case of death while still in the employ of the Company, their families or dependents are given a lump sum ranging from $100 to $5,000 the actual amount being based on the amount of wages or salary earned by the deceased. Under the policy is that the employee, if he leaves the service of the Company, can, if he so desires, carry on the Life Insurance policy by paying the premiums, personally.

Policies cover employees, regardless of age or physical condition. When an employee falls ill, the Policy pays a sum equal to 50% of his normal wages for a period up to 26 weeks in any one year. The Policy is not confined to the visits of a trained nurse in hospital or sanitarium, the Insurance Company, who underwrites the Policies.

Wherever this plan has been in force, it has been found to give entire satisfaction and in time, no doubt, it will be taken up by other progressive Canadian concerns.

Pepall to Know His Fate To-day

Extradition Proceedings are Cleared Up This Morning in Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., March 10.—The result of Andrew Pepall's fight against extradition to Canada will be known this afternoon, Judge Trippet said this morning yesterday. Pepall's attorney concluded their arguments yesterday afternoon and the Crown will conclude its rebuttal this morning. Commissioner Turney indicated that he would give his decision immediately after the conclusion of the arguments and not leave for his vacation, making the announcement in person by freta.

That Pepall was without authority to act officially especially for the Ontario Government in the questioned bond deal, was the claim of Pepall's friend in favor in the final arguments of his attorney, Joseph Scott, K.C., Senator Scott, A. J. McCormick and Jud Rush. They declared that Pepall had not handled the bonds except in connection with his duty in Canada.

During the long argument throughout the day, Pepall listed back in a chair in the rear of the court-room with one arm around his wife, the other around his seventeen-year-old daughter. The girl apparently lost interest in the proceedings as the lawyers became involved in maze of technicalities and engaged in long conversations between themselves.

Pepall's attorney said had Pepall left they were prepared to appeal the case to the Supreme Court of the United States, and that no escape should today's ruling be against them.

CORBYVILLE PLAN Insures Employees

Many to Benefit Under Scheme of Corp Insurance

The Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company Limited, have recently put into force, for the benefit of their employees, a Group Insurance covering all employees who have been in the service of the Company for a period of twelve months or longer. This plan is generally known as "Group Insurance" and although it is somewhat of an innovation in Canada, several of the largest concerns in the United States have covered their employee by the system for some years past.

The Policies cover sickness and death and cost the employers only 50c. a year. The entire cost of the premiums being borne by the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company Limited.

From the standpoint of the employes, it is a most unselfish thing. It gives them protection, not only, when through sickness they are unable to work, but in the case of death while still in the employ of the Company, their families or dependents are given a lump sum ranging from $100 to $5,000 the actual amount being based on the amount of wages or salary earned by the deceased. THE OLD RACE WILL SURVIVE STORMY TIME

Is Message Brought to Kiwanis Club By Dr. Gordon

WAS LADIES DAY

Good Spread and Fine Music Were Appreciated Accompaniments

"This old race will ride the storm." This was the main message brought to the Belleville Kiwanis Club at noon today by Dr. S. D. Gordon, gifted author, who is conducting a week's services in Bridge Street Church.

It was a re-assuring theme, the speaker drew. He drew the biblical story to answer the present day unrest as a small planet in the great solar system. Enshrined in the world was a windy storm. Outside that was a clear expanse of blue in which was placed a throne where sat a Man, of man's flesh and blood. Around that throne was a rainbow the color of the heavens and out the Man on the Throne was waterlike the world below with intense interest.

"Let's keep in touch with this Man on the Throne" was the advice of Dr. Gordon. "Keep in touch with Him and the storm."

We are living in a tremendous hour, the speaker said. "Those who were on the inside of the great happenings of the old world were serious in their belief that the world was in need of a great crisis. Men were encouraged by the blow to be careful, careful and to be pessimistic without fear or dread of danger.

The meeting to-day was graced by the presence of ladies, the wives and friends of Kiwanians. It was, by occasion, Kiwanian Tom Power, who is in twelve years of service, a splendid spread and the music was provided in a solo and although it is somewhat of an innovation in Canada, several of the largest concerns in the United States have covered their employee by the system for some years past.

Women Divided Over Hanging Case

Many Want Pirie to Die; Others Oppose Form of Punishment

Ottawa, Ont., March 10.—John Buchanan Pirie, who was executed in the county jail here, for the murder of Mrs. Mary Ann Sutherland, was childless, actually handicapped with Mrs. Mary Ann Sutherland, was childless, actually handicapped with a husband and child. Pirie, who, at first sight, appeared to be a normal man, was at spiritual adviser in three days previous to the time set for June 26. "It was more like a family talk. We had no thought of spiritual reminiscence," declared Mrs. Sutton on leaving the jail.

Asked as to whether she condemned the death penalty as a form of punishment, and if his mind was traveling on that subject, Mrs. Sutton declared that while Pirie had undoubtedly made considerable progress in this direction, she doubted very much if he had progressed sufficiently to be able to commune with God and enter the spiritual realm.

The curse of King Tut is being blamed by the superstitious for England's latest scandal. After the death of the Earl of Carnarvon, discoverer of the tomb of the Pharaoh Tutankhamen, Lord Carnarvon, shown above, wearing a black uniform cap. Denniston is now being sued by his former wife, Dorothy Muriel Denniston, for $6,000, which she alleges she advanced out of her private fortune to settle the gambling debts of Denniston. Mrs. Denniston is the daughter of Lord Carnarvon, who is also shown above, re-turned in her former husband's rapid promotion in the army. Denniston is seeking to prove that his former wife was guilty of indiscretions following her divorce from him.

ON TO WEMBLEY

If any country scored at Wembley last year; it was Canada. Nothing could be more certain and whether this that. Not only was the splendid Canadian pavilion visited by 18,000,000 people in the course of that great British Empire Exhibition, but there was the most striking verbal testimony to the splendor of the Canadian "show" from natives and others alike who had made the rounds of the place. Our reputation and status rose as a result of our splendid effort, in the eyes of all. The Canadian Building—for Advance agent or man-handed, as it were—made a fine impression and drew all eyes to Canada. Moreover, although it was agreed that no exchange had been should take place while the rink, a large number of orders for Canadian products and merchandise were taken and trade connections opened up which bid fair to develop substantially.

FLORAL TRIBUTES

Across in Sweden, four years ago, a young lady launched a "Flower Fund," drive. She appealed to her country folk to apply money, which ordinarily would be spent for floral tributes to the dead, to happy homes for the living. Her appeal has been successful and recently the cornerstone was laid for a building which will house many aged and infirm.

There is some merit in this scheme. We are often guilty of failing to show appreciation of our friends until it is too late. But is it not possible to this century of brotherly feeling to provide ample cheer for the living and beautiful tributes in death?

Death is a sad thing at best. Flowers at the coffin and grave are not unappropriate.

SANE ADVICE GIVEN

A Canadian Business man with a record second to none in the Joseph Flavelle, and some advice he has been given recently may well be taken to heart, says the Financial Post. Sir Joseph's great public work was the organizing of munition supplies in Canada, but he is at the same time identified with several financial and business concerns. Though not an orator, he has been frequently called upon to make addresses, and talks in a quiet, effective way. In a speech in Toronto on Tuesday of this week Sir Joseph said that for any individual or group to attempt to control a market or fix a price was folly, and added that in his whole business career he had never once taken part in such an arrangement.

There is now a general complaint throughout the country regarding high taxes, but scarcely any offers to forego advantageous public expenditures. Whether or not our war debts were incurred with the thought that the subsequent burdens might be shifted elsewhere does not matter. The present fact is that these burdens must be met in Canada by Canadians and not by poor immigrants. At a bankers' meeting in Hamilton last week Sir Joseph Flavelle, while expressing disagreement with some methods of post-war taxation, declared that, "It is time we stopped whining and got on with the day's work." This might well be adopted as a motto, so good for some years to come.

VARSITY "AMUSEMENT"

Premier Taschereau's recent speech in which he deprecated the selection of a topic entitled "The French Canadian as a Menace to National Unity," for debate in a certain University, has brought an interesting rejoinder from "Varsity," published in connection with Toronto University. The paper admits that it was at the Toronto University that the debate took place, and it goes on to say:

"Without discussing in detail Premier Taschereau's speech, we are prepared to admit this much—that the subject was chosen perhaps unhappily and unwisely—by undergraduates who were endeavoring to secure a subject which would arouse interest and provide amusement for the debaters and the audience. It is quite evident that they thought that the subject would be taken in the spirit in which it was decided upon, knowing full well the utter absurdity of questioning the known fact that those of French descent are Canadians and citizens of the Dominion of Canada, just as much as those of English, Scotch, Irish or German descent are Canadians and citizens of this country. This should explain why such a subject was chosen.

"Concerning the importance of the debate, we should like to state that its influence was quite negligible. A mere handful of undergraduates of one college attended it; to the average student it was entirely unknown. There certainly was not attached to it the importance which Premier Taschereau believed it had at the time he referred to it; we venture to say that if all the circumstances were explained to him he would admit readily that he had misconstrued the whole situation."

Well, boys will be boys, we suppose, says the Montreal Herald. But the idea of "providing amusement" by the selection of such a topic certainly is peculiar as well as unwise, as is admitted, and as a Toronto contemporary remarks, "the whole affairs does indicate how our universities may be used to spread ideas which can only create discord and retard national progress."

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

The Jewish Press

DR. MORDECAI SOLTES, of Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York, has made some interesting investigations in regard to the Jewish press of America.

One thing he finds is that the most diligent reader of Yiddish press editorials is the Jewish laborer.

He interests the merchant, the manufacturing and the professional groups, and also the housewives.

The latter group, the housewives, appear to be the least interested in the editorials; about half of these ignoring the editorial pages altogether, while only twenty-six per cent. reported that they consult it occasionally.

That the laborer is most interested in the editorials is explained by the fact, says Dr. Soltes, that laborers are many who were misfortunate in the countries from which they emigrated. They are frequently far above the average in mental ability and educational attainment.

Analyzing 1543 editorials from Yiddish papers during six months, Dr. Soltes finds that sixty-four per cent. of them deal with American issues and twenty-six per-cent. with problems strictly of a Jewish nature. Only about ten per cent. deal with world questions.

The papers included are The Daily News, The Forward, The Morning Journal, The Warheit, and The Day.

All the Yiddish newspapers urge their readers to go back to the soil. They deplore the tendency of the immigrant Jews to concentrate in the cities. They also utilize every possible opportunity to urge Jews to become American citizens. They point out that naturalization is a privilege and a duty and that all who intend to settle permanently in the country should avail themselves of it.

They denounce sabotage, terrorism, direct action and similar methods of solving problems and claim that desirable changes should be made in other ways.

The report goes on to say that there is no future for the Yiddish press and if the present tendencies are maintained, it will gradually decline and finally eliminate itself.

The most interesting part of the report, however, is that these papers promote their main editorial function to be to interpret American events, ideals and institutions to immigrant Jews.

Dr. Soltes says: "It is evident that the Yiddish press has a decidedly American outlook. The Yiddish newspapers are American newspapers printed in Yiddish and constitute a desirable accession to American journalism.

This report that the Yiddish press is in the front rank of Americanizing agencies did does not tend to provincialism is very gratifying.

Letters To The Editor

A LESSON TO LEARN

The Editor, Daily Intelligencer, Dear Sir:

Yesterday I saw a policeman march a man off to the police station for using filthy language on Front St. This man is a well-known character here. He is a man, who, if left alone will trouble no one, and will not curse or swear the air by him without provocation. The provocation consists of being met and addressed "Pete" by the poor fellow, because they know it annoys him and will make him swear. The officer took the man in charge, but what about the idiots who were the cause of the arrest. Three people would do well in laughing at a physically lame man but at a man whose mind is lame, so to speak, they laugh and jeer. There is evidently some need for education along the line I hope that my humble letter will reach this will talk to his or her class about the cruelty of laughing at lying to-morrow. The strong should be taught to help the weak.

Thanking you kindly for permitting me to express myself on the subject, I am.

Yours truly,
H. E. PARKER.

Dutchy's Diary

"O. PERATOR"

A Stratford fumes wrote this:
Dyspeptina Tonal
Resolved to my call,
If such be your amiable choice;
They, eh, you'll be?
That's Wordsworth, I've heard,
Or are you a fairy,
With legions of sky
And impudent imps at your own,
Whose use, in numbers
And hurry or slightness
By asking for persons unknown?
How oft when in wrath
Could hope of a
Bedraped in a shiver and freeze,
To answer, rourking
"Hector is" ringing
Politely, appending a "Please."
How oft, like a linnet,
You chirp "Just a minute,"
And when in the zenith of my brow
And ravaging rages
You tell me "They don't want you now."
Melodious, young,
Unknowable City from afar,
Telephone Girl
Or Echo herself—
Whatever, wherever you are—
Complete my connection
And hold in subjection
Your Millions who make it their task
To drive a man distraught
Don't say "The line's busy!"
But give me the number I ask.

And, "Ann Operator" returned with this:
It is rear to your first query, Mr. Poet, we are hailing birds nor wandering ravices, just plain, everyday business girls, sitting by straight-backed chairs in front of a huge network of answering jacks each of which terminates in a subscriber's line. Our "humble choice" is to answer you just as quickly as possible; during the busy hours we answer from seven to eight per minute, and clerks can operate per operator per hour.

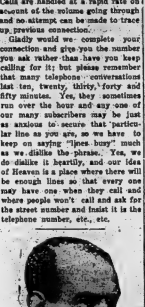

The calling rate varies greatly—some hours only four or five hundred calls come in, other hours three or four thousand; and as all staffs are worked in, not the number of calls an operator can answer at any given moment but the number she can answer hourly, you will have to wait a few seconds longer for an answer. Observation tests taken at frequent intervals show that the small per cent. of calls run over a ten-second answer.

We are human, we can and do make mistakes, but we try to avoid them. So many subscribers ask us for instance, for 1930 when they really want 1890. Some of them trust to memory instead of consulting the latest issue of the directory—some again do not speak clearly and distinctly like Mr. Swearpiece, the simple if observed will help us give you a better service.

Sorting ring when you're in the bath, and but when Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone he didn't intend it for automatic and really advising control of such events. Perhaps your number is 1234—some one dashes to call 1324, they are thinking of something else at the time and ask us for 1234. We ring your number but by the time they have discovered their mistake, but we have already rung you, so when you, "Operator" is never answered, we can do is to say politely as our rule book tells us (Oh, yes, we have rule books, big thick ones, too): "Excuse it please."

and take the blame—and we get it! Or: Subscriber says "They don't want you now." What happens is this—some one calls you and you are perhaps in the attic or cellar, we ring your number and you don't go to the telephone in the meantime the party calling deciding you are not going to answer, rings up giving a disconnect signal. We take the connection down and when you answer perhaps an operator who knows nothing of the previous call answer you and says: "Number" but you say: "My bell rang," and she can say is "I'm sorry there is not one on your line now." Calls are handled at a rapid rate on account of the volume going through and no attempt can be made to trace up previous connection."

Gladly would we complete your connection and give you the number you ask rather than have you keep calling for it; but please remember that many telephone conversations last ten, twenty, thirty, forty and fifty minutes. Yes, they sometimes run over the hour and any one of our many subscribers may be just as anxious to secure the service earlier line as you are, so we have to keep on saying "lines busy" much as we dislike the phrase. Yes, we do dislike it heartily, and our idea of Heaven is a place where there will be enough lines so that every one may have one when they call and where people won't call and ask for the street number and insist it is the telephone number, etc., etc.

Sold His Farm To Enter States

Then Found He Could Not Cross The Border

To sell his farm, travel a distance of five hundred miles with the intention of entering the United States at the port of Cape Vincent, N.Y., and then be turned down because he could not read or write, was the experience of a young man who arrived in Kingston last week.

When he arrived in the city, he applied at the office of United States consul and asked for a passport which would permit him to enter Uncle Sam's country. During the course of examination which is conducted by the consul Kings discovered that the man could not read or write and he was immediately informed that there was no chance of getting across. The man thought that probably he might be able to get past the immigration officer at Cape Vincent, so he called him on the telephone and found that there was an absolute no chance of him getting through.

Everything had been arranged for this entry into the United States and the furniture has all been packed and shipped on the way to Kingston, when the man received word that he had a first-class farm and that he certainly would not have disposed of it had he thought for one minute that he would not be allowed to enter.

All persons entering the United States at the present time have to pay a tax of $18 in addition to having a photograph taken, which costs in the neighborhood of $2 and also pay the cost of the medical examination, children under the age of sixteen years have to pay $16.

MRS. RICHARDS IS NAPANEE'S OLDEST

Napanee, March 10.—Insofar as the writer is aware, the oldest and perhaps the sprightliest, resident of Napanee is Mrs. Richard Cole, celebrated her ninety-fourth birthday anniversary, on Saturday, March 7, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Gealy Daly, John street, and entertained a number of her friends at a birthday party which they all enjoyed. The delicious birthday cake and other delicacies were fine, but more particularly so was the feast of reason and the flow of soul that included many reminiscences of the days of long ago.

The subject of this slight sketch was born March 5th, 1831, in the reign of William IV and she has there fore lived in the reign of four British sovereigns. She was the mother of eleven children, nine of whom (five daughters and four sons) are living to-day. Three of her daughters were present at Saturday's anniversary, viz, Mrs. J. G. Daly, Napanee; Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Johnston, of Toronto.

Charles Smith, Toronto, is in town visiting his sisters, Mrs. J. A. Boyes and Mrs. William Crossley.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Richardson, of Belleville, are visiting Mrs. Fred. Richardson, John street. On Friday Mr. Richardson contracted bronchial pneumonia and has since been in a critical condition. At a late hour last night his physician, Dr. Cameron Wilson, reported improvement.

Mrs. Phoebe Thompson, Bridge street, is confined to her home through sickness.

RUNAWAY CAUSES SOME EXCITEMENT

Deseronto, March 10—Whilst Earl Howell, Gretna, was unloading logs at the Deseronto saw mill, Saturday morning, his team took fright at the sound of the steam whistle and bolted. Throwing Mr. Howell from the sleigh. A log was also dislodged and the latter crushed Mr. Howell's thumb on his right hand over the C. N.R. tracks, and at the corner of Mill and Main street they dashed into a large electric light pole, the horse and sleigh each side of the pole. One of the horses struck the pole a violent glancing blow, knocking it down. However, fell to the ground, badly injured, but other horse escaped by Mill street, and then down Main, still him, finally coming to a stop on Edmond street. It was fortunate that no one had been out slightly in the fight York jail was observed sailing overhead.

Here and There

In connection with the further loan of $2,000,000 now asked for to be authorized by the Quebec legislature this session, it is also intended to raise the bounty to settlers on the acreage cleared. At present the government gives a bonus of $6 an acre. It will be raised to $8 an acre. The province spent $80,000 in this way in the last fiscal year.

The amount of letter exported to Japan through Vancouver during 1924 was nearly one-half of 1923, according to figures supplied by the Japanese consulate at that point. The report shows that in 1924 the quantity was 476,454 pounds, as compared with only 899,892 pounds in 1923. Total cheese shipments to the same destination last year amounted to 1,376,000 pounds, as against only 40 in 1923.

A recent analysis of immigration according to occupation of immigrants arriving in Canada since 1920 shows a steady increase in the ratio of agriculturists and domestics towards all others. In 1921 the figure was 37.7 per cent; in 1922, 44 per cent for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1923, 47 per cent for the fiscal year 1923-24, and 51 per cent for the nine months April to December, 1924.

One of the outstanding features of the Grain Commission Board's report for the year ending 1923-24 was the tribute paid to the excellent service rendered by the Canadian Pacific Railway to the farmers of the western crop. Though the company handled 106,000 cars of grain, it received only six complaints of shortage of cars from the railway and commission combined. In 1923-24, with an even larger number handled, there were only eight complaints.

Orchestras from the Canadian Pacific steamships "Empress of France" and "Empress of Scotland", when they arrived recently in New York and before sailing on their round the world-and Mediterranean cruises which the company starts annually from that port broadcasted through WJZ a forty-five minute programme of selected Scots, English, Welsh, Irish and Canadian airs, while the "Montroyal", on her return from the company's cruise to the West Indies, broadcasted British and Spanish music through WJY of New York.

Information furnished by J. Frank Calibreath, packing controller and general merchant, shows that during the 1924 hunting season, parties secured 13 moose, 25 caribou, 26 grad elk, 15 black bear and 11 grizzlies in the Telegraph Creek district of British Columbia. Of the caribou, the largest, shot by J. J. Sartori, of Brooklyn, N.Y., has a spread of 47 inches, its 50½ inches has 19 and 20 points. The largest sheep horns were 41⅜ inches long, with a spread of 31 inches, and were secured by A. D. Stewart, of New York.

The third annual Eastern Interna tional Dog Sled Derby, run off at Quebec on February 19, 20 and 21, was a tremendous success. Twenty-two mushers and their teams from many parts of Canada and the United States competed over the 120-mile course, the race being won by Emile St. Goddard, of Le Pas, Man., who also won this year's derby at that place. The last day's lap was run through a blinding snowstorm, which drew the thousands of sports visitors from Canada and the United States who witnessed it, a vivid impression of normal conditions experienced by these outfits.

William Weaver of Turnerville was elected president of the Charlotte County Growers' Association at the annual meeting held in Chatham Saturday afternoon.

Winners in Diary Contest

Keen competition between diary experts—Dr. Chase's Almanac more popular than ever.

So many thousands of people are accustomed to keep track of Dr. Chase's Almanac that this annual assembly takes on a thrill in the Diary Contest is looked forward to with keen interest.

Several of the winners have met with success before, and each year there has been a different list for first place. Very great difficulty was encountered by the judges this year in placing the first four awards and several that followed were of almost equal merit.

Not with that all the winners could look over all the winning diaries and just see for themselves the literary skill as well as the utilitarian merits of the conflicting diaries.

ENGLISH DEPLORE LOSS OF PICTURES

London, March 10.—The time appears to be rapidly approaching when it will be necessary for Englishmen to make a tour of the United States in order to study Gainsborough's and Sunday Pictorial, commenting on "our lost art treasures," that have been purchased in England and other European countries since the war.

"Our own artistic treasures are pouring across the Atlantic at a portentious rate," says the article. "Two million pounds' worth of pictures and antiques furniture alone were sold in London for America last year, and the total since the war has been computed at nearly $35,000,000. Soon there may be no 'old masters' in British estates' the public galleries. All the private collections will have been transferred to Eastern millionaires and transported to the other side."

Sound Counsel on Purchase of Foreign Government Securities

Foreign Bonds We Recommend

Among our current recommendations will be found bonds of certain Foreign Governments which yield, in a number of instances, over 7%.

We, however, do not recommend the bonds of all Foreign Governments, and those we do recommend are fastened obligations only.

These securities, which are payable as to principal and interest in Dollars in New York, or in Sterling in London should not be confused with International issues, which are payable only in the currency of the countries concerned.

Our booklet "Sound Bonds of Foreign Governments," just issued, will give you further information.

False Systems Of Healing Scored

Dr. Gordon Shows Seven Ways Men Are Healed

In the presence of a congregation which almost filled the ground floor of the Bridge Street Church, Dr. B. D. Gordon gave another of his quiet talks on Monday evening dealing with the question, "Is God Able?" His text was taken from Luke 5:17. He opened the discussion by stating that when Jesus was here He did things which no man since has been able to do. He had blocks, but he also power, and he made the ideal the actual. He was recognized as the world's greatest teacher, but far more than teach: he did things. The outstanding thing about him was that his life went out at the last." This was the heart of all the race.

The world was sick when he was there. There was no modern science of healing the sick: they always been noted for their skill in healing. Luke was a physician; but if one runs through the four Gospels he will get the impression that Jesus must have healed thousands. There are 24 cases on record and of these 12 belonged to a class that could be called incurable. Two of them could be classed as acute. He raised the dead; he cleansed the lepers. When Jesus undertook to heal he did it instantly, perfectly, permanently.

But will Christ heal us to-day? There is a science of healing now. We have a knowledge of the human body and the effect of different substances upon it. He has taken us years to acquire this knowledge. But the world still needs the sick. How will Jesus heal us? The answer will be strong in the degree that we should be in Christ's first will that we should be strong in body, sound in mind, firm in purpose to his glory. Let us say thoughtfully that the Church has not been true to the teaching of Christ. We have no wish to be critical but I say that with a few exceptions the Churches have not been true to the Gospel of Christ. And as it is not surprising that the methods of healing have grown false generally as the world has grown up. The world is still sick and yet the remarkable fact that only a few of the crowd till he began his work of healing. Take question as to how it can be traced back through generations. There is one reason which holds for us in this stage in the world to-day. It has been already said that

ST. PATS IN PLAY OFF; BELLEVUES, WANDERERS WIN CIACO BEATEN IN BASKETBALL

Officials Winners By Large Margin

Wolves and Wanderers Also Victors at Recreation Alleys

The Ontario Team No. 1 gave the Empress Dept. one of the worst beatings they have had for some time in the Recreation alleys last night in a schedule C.N.R. league game. The officials got off to a good start and kept up their good bowling all the way through rolling a total score of 2423, with Mr. J. D. McMillan rolling 695 for his three strings and 241 for the high single. For the Express R. Harris was high bowler.

The Wolves of the North were right on last night when they hooked up with the Alamite. This is the Alamite's second game and already they are showing some improvement from last week. The Wolves rolled a total score of 3652 with Wilbur rolling 646 for his three strings. For the losers Allen was high man.

The Wanderers and the Ciaco was the senior league game, the former team winning out by 102, plus the handicap that the Ciaco got. The Wanderers got off to a good start, rolling 1016 in their first game and getting a lead of 141 plus and adding another 138 in the second and third game. The Ciaco came through with their best score, rolling 877 against the Wanderers' 871. High bowlers were Lynch 624 and Bridges 571.

LOTS OF FUN EVEN IF SCORES ARE LOW

The Trailers were trailing on Monday evening when they repaired to the hotel after three strings with the Granites and while neither of the scores would be envied by any bowlers, scores like Granites and both teams enjoyed themselves and that is the main consideration.

In the second game on Monday evening the Bellevues were always in front and put up a score of 2602. The Granites win with 2600 for a single and 580 for a triple. Bobby Dixie for the Trailers had 197 single and 448. The Doe family of which Mrs. Doe and their representative on both teams were low.

EMPLOYED BOYS DEFEATED CIACOS

The Association gymnasium was the scene of a "spirited" game of basketball last night when the Employed Boys team and the Ciaco's met in a friendly tilt. Employed Boys, Jos. by Kerr and Brown were the sharpshooters of the evening and from the outset they showed a marked edge on the Ciaco's and did not play anything like the game they put up against the Canadian Nationals a week ago.

The line-up was:

Ciacos—F. Symons, 19 and H. Leavens, 5 and R. Hutchins, 2—forwards; G. Maidens 4 centre; N. Symons, and B. Wells, 2, guards; total 37.

Employed Boys—J. Kerr, 20, and L. Brown, 16, forwards; A. Hyslip, 10, centre; W. Hinkens and J. Redfern, guards; total, 56.

Relief

For pain—quick

The worst pains people suffer can be relieved at once. Rheumatic pain, sciatica, backache, cold in chest, etc.

Rub the sore spot with red pepper. Nothing else supplies such concentrated, such penetrating heat. And heat that doesn't hurt.

You feel it instantly. In three minutes that heat penetrates to the depths. Circulation starts, congestion is relieved. The pain and the soreness depart.

People used to use plasters, mustard and liniment. But modern science has found a better way, a quicker, more efficient way, in a way without objections.

Don't suffer pains which Red Pepper Rub relieves almost at once. Don't let cold in the chest go neglected. Have this rub at hand—get it now. The time to use it is when the quick relief will mean much to some one in your home.

Red Pepper is saving millions of painful hours. Let it save them for you and yours.

HOUSE CLEANING AT WEMBLEY

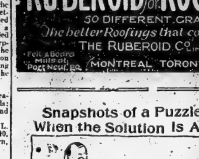

The British Empire Exhibition will re-open at Wembley, in April, bigger and better than ever. As last year, the Canadian National Railways will be one of the biggest exhibitors and Mr. H. R. Mackeen, manager of the advertising bureau of the company is at present in England, arranging the placing of the exhibit. Improvements have been made to many of the features shown last year and much work has been done on an especially fine exhibit designed to attract settlers to Canada. English fogs and rains have not been kind to the exterior of the pavilion of the Canadian National Railways, and a squad of men have been employed to scrub the building, inside and out. The photograph shows men at work washing the outside of the pavilion, preparatory to the opening of the fair.

FIVE THOUSAND AT BOSTON SEE GAME

Boston, Mass., March 10—The Ottawa Senators outplayed the Boston Bruins in the final game of the National Hockey League season here last night, trimming the locals by 4 to 1, with plenty to spare. It was an uninteresting contest for the most part, but there were possibilities of trouble throughout. By means of strict ruling and frequent penalties Referee LaFlamme kept things in order almost to the end. The crowd of 5,000 was the largest of the Boston season.

In the last minute of the game the Bruins and Hunt had their moments but the outcast resulted in a near riot.

Hitchman and Hooky Smith dropped their sticks after a collision near the Bruins' goal and went at it with their fists. The two teams joined in, and for a few minutes there was a general mix-up. Fifty candidates were initiated into membership at the London Council No. 630 of the United Commercial Travellers of America on Saturday raising the standing of the body to the largest in Eastern Canada and the third largest in the Dominion.

TORONTO WON LAST AGAINST MAROONS

Toronto, March 10—St. Patrick's closed the regular N.H.L. season last night at the Arena by defeating the Montreal Maroons by 3 goals to 0 and by reason of the victory, finished in undisputed possession of second place two points ahead of Canadiens and one point behind Hamilton. Locals will meet Canadiens in Montreal on Wednesday in the first game of a two-day off and back here again on Friday night.

The Irish were in the pay off without the two points picked up last night while Montreal could no move out as little place with a win as there was practically nothing at stake except the fulfilment of a scheduled date. The game started off as such, but after the players got warmed up they found they could play hockey with as little exertion as they could kill time, so they flashed up hockey. While the class of hockey was not of the brilliant kind, on the average, it was pleasing and the fans had a lot of enjoyment. Little incidents that would have brought the boys down on the referee's and the players' heads in a game which was important produced laughs and there was lots of chaffing between players with the repartee tuning in with their loud speakers.

CHAMPION EATER IS CANDIDATE FOR FAME

London, March 10—Francis Bourn is a candidate for the Hall of Fame for he just completed a run of 70 annual luncheons of the famous but heavy meat puddings, the product of which the " Old Cheshire Cheese" of Fleet street. The pudding is served free at the boniface's to all customers of the opening of the season each year. Mr. Bourn is 82 years old and still hearty. He has been a constant customer at the Cheshire Cheese, he says, since 1851.

The inaugural ceremony is usually performed over by some well known man as the premier, a cabinet minister or an ambassador, and a piece of honor is always served to the person who can claim to be the oldest customer of the inn. Mr. Bourn has received the first helpings in this sort of honor for the last 19 years and has had his pudding served by the late American Ambassador, Walter Hines Page, and Ambassadors Davis and George Harvey.

The famous pudding is known to contain rump steak, kidney, veal and oysters.

Canadiens Are In N.H.L. Play-Off

Defeated Hamilton Four to One Last Night in Montreal

Montreal, March 10—Canadiens qualified for a position in the National Hockey League eliminations for the championship when they won their final scheduled game here last night, defeating the league leading Hamilton Tigers by 4 to 1. Goals, Morenz and Odie Cleghorn were responsible for the Canadiens' goals constituting efforts. Morenz in particular being brilliant as he flashed about the ice to bring his tally for the evening up to three goals.

Hamilton were downed by a team which was superior at all stages. The Tigers started out in real fashion but after the first period were little in the picture, and as they saw the game slip away and the were sent in to replace the regulars. The tussle ended in an uproar as play became strained in the last five minutes. Coutu and Langlois both had to retire limping after a collision. Morenz was benched for roughing Langlois previously and Randall was the target for abuse from the apect ators and also for a pair thrown in his direction. He was also slapped on the head by a woman spectator during a scuffle with Morenz alongside the boards.

By virtue of their win Canadiens will play St. Pats. in the opening game of the league eliminations here on Wednesday. They play the return game in Toronto on Friday night.

Canadiens—Goal, Vebins; defence, S. Cleghorn; wings, Morenz and Boucher; subs, Hendley, Matz, Mantha and Ritchie.

FIRE DOES DAMAGE IN OSHAWA BLOCK

Oshawa, Ont., March 10—Fire which broke out in one of the main business blocks on King street, west of Simcoe, early this morning before the local Fire Brigade had an answer to their first call for 1925. The brick walls, which have been built very strong, withstood the spread of the flames and the fire was confined to one store and the second floor. Damage is estimated loss of $20,000. During the fierce fight with the local Fire Brigade were overcome and had to be carried to the street.

The Oshawa Rotary Club, which lost its meeting place through the fire held their luncheon at the Y.M.C.A.

Indications that London's tax rate will be considerably less means this year as in 1924, when 34.65 mills was levied, are found in the preliminary estimates.

Beautiful Hats Dispelling Gloom

Belleville Milliners Have an Attractive Array for Friends

This is said day at Belleville millinery shops. In spite of the dreary, dull appearance outside, the shops are bright with the new Spring colors on display for the Spring millinery opening. The show windows are filled prettily and beautifully decorated by Hyman's, Tuzerts, Brodeur's, Vogue bells and Woodley's.

At Miss McCrodan's a wide range of color and shapes present themselves. One newish touch this season is what is known as ombre. This is the gradation of colors from a light shade to a dark shade. For instance one lovely model had a crown of the new bluish-green which shaded down into a petunia shade.

The rose tones and all shades of brown are favoured. Tyatleboom and crabapple are the latest colors shown. The wholesales were never so brilliant according to Miss McCrodan. Small fruits and flowers in combination and straw and silk velvet and Chinese embroidery are used effectively setriminmings on the new hats. French ribbon in moille make a delightful trimming. Some embroidery is a new feature, in which the Cavendish has specialties. Odd seats and ridges, and small banks of flowers beautify some models.

Woodley's present a wide range of hats, many of them being hand-trimmed, and very pretty. It is the belief that straws will be worn at once, although ribbon has seem to be popular. Lacquers are shade of red are is approved.

Mrs. Harman shows some distinctive hats. She states that top trimming of flowers and bows and the new ra-ra-shaped high crowns are in vogue. Some very pretty models displayed head work embroidery, which has a very pretty appearance.

At Tanner's a most pleasing group of hats are on display, the hyacinth shade with its suggestion of mauve predominating.

These smart hats are all copied from Paris and New York models. One last very distinctive, shaded from flame to burnt orange in a lovely shade. There were four shades combined in this hat, all blending in perfect harmony. Another charming model was made of mauve, in points, with a touch of mauve fur, and a dome crown. Dark violet tones are featured, the new shade of biscuit shade is very pretty and novel.

The hats seem to be not a novelty of color, but one color shaded. Albert hats, and models from Paris and New York are featured at Tanner's.

Miss Campbell was busy, in spite of the unfavorable weather, entertaining large sales to date. Hats with vallet crowns are becoming and flattering to most faces. Helmet shaped hats also are stylish, and many are shown at the Gainsboro models.

Hyman's have an attractive new feature in ladies hats and have arranged a charming opening. Their hats are at the latest snappy creations and Rendhroadd and Gainsboro "wholesales." These are all ready-to-wear and prettily trimmed.

Ritchie's are arranging for a great millinery opening on Thursday, when alterations in their store will be completed, and the opening of the new furnishing department will take place as well.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

"What shall she say? He is waiting for her answer. What shall she say? Why found no difficulty in answering when the other man, Captain Sherwin, told her of his love; words came quickly to remember then, but they will not come now. Her heart beats too fast to allow of speech; her brain whirls, and the wild confusion of his words and its meaning of them. And yet, what is the meaning of the warm thrill of joy which possesses her while being ill it is not "Yes."

He looks down at her expectantly with an intense anxiety and suspense deepening the lines in his face; then he says:

"I understand. I have been too hasty, too violent. I am almost a stranger to you. How should you be able to answer me at once with a 'Yes'? But don't do that if you can help it. See now, dearest—and don't be angry that I call you so; you are dearest to me, dearer than life itself—you shall not give me your answer to-night, here amongst this crowd. I will walk—come we walk and hope still!—I will wait for you. You have been more of me—and you have heard too much, and all on this strange night Heaven knows I have been a right! I will wait until you have quite decided. Whatever your answer may be, I will accept it without complaint, as indeed I should. Yes, I will wait."

As he speaks the tears rise to Elaine's eyes. This man, in every word he says, is utterly and irretrievably but and yet could the look of good and be greater and more considerate with her? [illegible]

She does not speak; but she holds out her trembling hand to him.

He knows that it does not mean "Yes!" that she has not signified her acceptance of him; and he takes it very gently and raises it towards his lips. But he restrains himself; he will not snatch a lover's privileges until she has granted it to him—if she ever should do so. He holds it in his strong grasp, and lays his other hand upon it with chivalrous love and protection.

"You are going there, remember," he says in a low voice, his eye fixed on her face. "You to give me life and hope and happiness, free to send me into the outer darkness again. Tell me now, dearest, tell—" He stops and reverently draws the shawl round her.

There are tears in her eyes, on her cheeks, and he sees that she puts up her hand to wipe them away.

"If God is good and merciful to me, I may do that for you some day," he whispers.

But low as his voice is, it is heard by some one else beside Elaine. It is not heard as has been every word, by Lady Blanche, standing behind the curtain, her eyes fixed, with an expression not good to see on the fair face on the two forms silhouetted against the sky.

A hitch ambition had stolen into Lady Blanche's heart in the moment the marquis entered the room. He was the highest in rank, the wealthiest, in every way the best "match" present, and she was, in her own opinion, the most beautiful woman there, and she meant she not be the Marchioness of Nairne! All the evening she had been laying her plans. She would have the Banisters and all the county to see her in her glory. All the stereotyped plans by which a girl who means to be a leader of the Parisian match had passed through her mind for years, and she had worked out pale and quivering with mortification and rage, Elaine's unsolicited, and unsolicited cousin of hers, the daughter of the half-pay major, who was regarded by the family and county as a sort of poor outcast—would be the Marchioness of Nairne, and Lady Blanche would be Blanche herself.

The claims, as the marquis put the shawl round Elaine, intending to get out of there as quickly as possible, herself confronted by Fanny Inchley.

Lady Blanche was dazed, but the two women looked at each other; Lady Grace with haughty contempt, Fanny with a significant meaning in her sharp eyes, and a smile on her pale, pinched face that had a sudden effect upon Lady Blanche. It was the look of one who not been the only eavesdropper, but that this red-haired woman had been playing the same game themselves, and for the same prize.

She looked down, and, coloring, took Fanny by the arm.

"You have torn it, my lady," said Fanny.

Lady Blanche caught at the pretext eagerly.

"Yes," she said.

"Let me pin it up for your ladyship," said Fanny; then she suddenly touched Lady Blanche's arm and—indeed, it must draw her behind the curtain, as the marquis turned from them.

"Elaine! Elaine!" he said. "Oh, my love, my love!"

"Yes, here she is," said the marquis, standing so that she should have time to recover herself. "Are you going now?"

"Yes, yes, marquis," said the major. "I don't like to let my little girl wear herself out; and we generally leave rather early, so that the other people, you know—oh! gives them room and freedom. Gets quite a romp, I'm told, after the letters have left, eh?" and he laughed.

The three, Elaine still on the marquis' arm, passed the two watchers; then as they disappeared in the crowd Fanny glanced out of curtains of her eyes at Lady Blanche.

"Well?" said her self she said instantaningly. "It's very badly torn"; and in such a beautiful voice. If I had it for an hour or two, I could mend it so as not go could see it has been rent."

Lady Blanche looked down at her half-sheepishly.

"You are—are you a dressmaker?" she said, "my lady," said Fanny, standing over her eyes with meek humility for the marquis's sake, however, the end raising them to Lady Blanche's face with wistful scrutiny, "I am a dressmaker. I live at the Castle with my aunt."

Lady Blanche colored.

"At the Castle—at the Marquis of Nairne's?" she said.

"Yes, my lady," assented Fanny demurely, "my mother has been gone with—with Miss Dolaine."

"She is dead!" exclaimed Lady Blanche, feeling her way, for she saw that this little red-haired woman had some purpose in view.

"Oh, no, my lady; why should she be? I have no friendly feeling toward Miss Dolaine, however, the said this dress, my lady. If you would send it to me—"

"I will see," said Lady Blanche with an effort. "I—if you would come up to the Grange tomorrow? You are living at the Castle, you said?"

"Yes, my lady; and I will come to the Grange tomorrow," said Fanny, and with a half bow and half courtesy she left them.

Baree, Son of Kazan

By James Oliver Curwood

(A Vitagraph Picture with Wolf, the War Dog, is an adaptation of this story.)

SYNOPSIS

Baree was a son of Kazan and Grey Wolf, the latter the leader, a full-blooded wolf; Grey Wolf had lost her sight in a fight with a grizzly. Darcie the mother-time she kept Jeanne away from their offspring and it was a great day for Baree when he discovered his father. He was then eighteen days old. After that he realized that the snowfall is which he had been, and, finding him in the sunlight, had his first great adventure.

In a way Baree sensed this. He was not afraid of the strange hound-curdling cries they made in the black spruce-tops. But once Kazan entered into him, and he turned back to his mother. It was when one of the winged hunters of the air swooped down on a snowshoe rabbit, and the squealing agony of the doomed creature struck into Baree something like a battle lust. He felt in those cries the terror of a foe, and he responded instantly of the wild-death.

Kazan was a master hunter in the first chapter of Baree's education. It was as if Grey Wolf and Kazan had planned it that way. They were together in their instruction in the art of killing.

Baree, in his first adventure, the big snow-owl, had made her nest in a hollow stump in the heart of a spruce. He was destined to change the whole course of his life. Such a fateful day was Grey Wolf had changed here, and a week later Baree discovered it. Down a creek ran close past the stub, which had been shriven by lightning; and this creek was now a dark river in the forest, surrounded by tall, black spruce and environed by silence on the day. Many times Baree had gone to the stump, but something in the air now and had moved in curiously, and with a strange scent.

He was fully three hundred yards from the stump when he caught the mixed stench and into a thick growth of young balsams. And there—directly in front of him—was the owl.

With a space of two feet between them, the owl was not aware of his mother. In that moment; if Gray Wolf had been there, she would have given to Baree: "Use your legs—and run!" But Gray Wolf was not there. She had said to Papayuchisee: "You little fool—run!" and she had run.

They did neither—and the fight began.

Papayuchisee started it, and with a single wild yelp, Baree went back in a heap. He had landed in the middle of a red-hot vise in the soft flesh at the end of his spine. The pain was so excruciating and pain was Baree's first and last cry in his life. The next instant all the fury, rage and desire to kill possessed him. As Papayuchisee hung on, he made a curious hissing sound; and as Baree roll red and gnashed his teeth and fought to free himself from the searing grip on his tail, Papayuchisee made one of his throat.

For fully a minute Baree had no use of his jaws. Then, as Papayuchisee reeled Papayuchisee in a crotch of a low ground-tree, he pulled under his own body. He might have run then, but instead of that he was back on Papayuchisee's back. He felt the owl Papayuchisee on his back, and Baree buried his needle-sharp teeth in the squirming grip on his enemy's body little vitals now out of his throat.

CHAPTER III.

To Papayuchisee, after his first mouthful of water, the stream was almost as safe as the air, for he went sailing down it with the lightness of a gull, wondering at his own astonishing big head why he was moving so swiftly and so pleasantly without any effort of his own.

To Baree it was a different matter. He went down almost like a stone. A mighty roaring filled his ears; it was dark, suffocating, terrible; in the swift current he was twisted over and over. For twenty feet he was under water. Then he rose to the surface and desperately began using his paws.

Suddenly Baree found himself at the edge of a deep, dark pool in which the water lay still as oil, and his heart nearly jumped out of his body when a great, sleek, shining creature sprang out from almost under his nose and landed with a tremendous splash in the centre of it. It was Nakaik, the Otter.

The otter had not heard Baree, and in that moment Napanochis, his wife, came half out of a patch of gloom and behind her came three little otters, heavily behind them four silvering wakes in the oily-looking water. That happened after that made Baree forget for a few minutes that he was lost. Nakaik disappeared under the surface, and now he came up directly under Baree, and proceeded to mate with a force that lifted her half out of the water. Then he did the same as Nakaik, and Napanochis took after him fiercely.

Croup at Night No Longer Feared by Canadian Mothers

Direct Treatment with Vaporizing and Inhaling Relieves Coughing Quickly

Many Canadian mothers, who in the past have dreaded every croup and children's colds, are delighted with the "external" treatment of Vicks Vaporub.

You just rub Vicks over throat and chest for colds, children's croup, bronchitis or deep chest colds. When so applied the body heat releases the ingredients as vapors which are inhaled directly into the affected air passages, loosening the phlegm and reducing the inflammation.

Action And Mystery In Belle Feature

"The City That Never Sleeps" At Pargmount Production

A wholesome story of tremendous human appeal, a cast of notable players, direction that forces suspense to the second, swift action, mystery, lavish settings and fascinating backgrounds in the background—you'll find them all in "Manhattan Madness" "The City That Never Sleeps," which opened tonight at the Belle Theatre.

The picture is based on Walter Woods and Anthony Coldeway's adaptation of the immense story "Mother O' Mine" by Dorothy Donnell.

The theme of the story is motherlove—how a mother makes the supreme sacrifice for her child, only to have years later, that sacrifice spurn her. Her desperate efforts to save her daughter now grown to young womanhood, and the manner in which she accomplishes her object make a great picture.

The City That Never Sleeps" is further evidence that James Cruze's fame to directorial greatness does not rest on "The Covered Wagon" alone. The same shrewd direction and sympathetic treatment that made that epic production of "The Covered Wagon" is plainly evident in his latest screen triumph.

As for the cast, mention need only be made of the featured players to prove that it is of high calibre. Jack Holt, Lois Wilson, Virginia Lee Corbin, Kathlyn, Williams and Ricardo Cortez have the principal roles.

You won't regret it if you go to see "The City That Never Sleeps" on our say-so!

Connie Talmadge In Good Comedy

"Her Night of Romance" Playing at Griffin Theatre

Constance Talmadge brought a new comedy, "Her Night of Romance" to the screen at the Griffin Theatre last night. It was a highly sophisticated affair, full of subtlety and provoking gales of laughter from the audience.

Connie, as flippant and scintillating as ever, appears in the role of an American heiress who dons school teacher's "specs" and straightlaced demeanor in order to avoid fortune hunters while touring abroad with her father.

It chances that she bumps into a young English lord in London who is bounded by his money-lender, and they become involved in one of those seemingly inescapable love predicaments, real life situations, where it is necessary for them to pose as newlyweds to avoid an impending scandal.

The situation finally clarifies itself, of course, but not before the young couple endure an amusing and highly entertaining series of incidents. Constance introduces a new leadint man in the person of Roland Colman, an English actor who acquits himself in the role of the British nobleman admirably. Others in the cast who do good work are Albert Gran, Jean Hersholt, Sidney Bracy, Joseph Dowling and Temple Sass.

"Her Night of Romance" was written by Hans Kraly and directed by Joseph M. Schenck for First National under the able direction of Sidney Franklin. It will run at the Griffin Theatre two days more.

BOY RESCUES PAL FROM ICY WATERS

Woodstock, March 10.—Harold Smith, the eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Smith, 278 Dutton street, had a narrow escape from drowning in the rapid gravel pit in the west end of the city on Saturday afternoon when he was saved by the prompt action and resourcefulness of Roland Goodwin, 174 Oxford street, dived into the icy water and brought the child to the river bank. The boys were amongst a party of lads who were playing in the neighborhood of the gravel pit on Saturday afternoon, and young Smith was standing on top of a piece of ice which was sticking out over the water. While doing so, he overbalanced and fell into the water, owing to the thaw of the ice and snow, was several feet deep, and was very muddy at the bottom. He failed to come to the surface and Goodwin, who cut a moment's hesitation dived in and brought him out.

MOTHER EARTH STILL UNSTEADY, CLAIM

Talmadge Girls Know How To Cook

Mother Taught Them Early; Constance Is At Griffin

"Albiney daughters are good cooks," declares Margaret ("Peg") Talmadge, mother of Norma, Constance, Natalie and Natalie Talmadge Keaton.

"I taught them to cook early in life, I must admit, therefore, that one of them likes to do up the dishes afterward," Constance loves cooking better than either of her sisters.

Norma's favorite dish is ham, and eggs. In New York she likes to stay up late, after the theatre. Some nights she would keep the dancing going in her home until 4 or 5 in the morning. And before the party went home Norma invariably would go into the kitchen, put on an apron and make buns and eggs for everyone.

Natalie is even more of a home body than Norma. Both Norma and Natalie prefer to dine at home, whereas Constance, although she generally has breakfast and luncheon there, makes it a practice to dine out a great deal. Constance is ever fond of Mexican dishes and in addition, the delightful cocktails can make chile con carne and tamales as well as any waiter.

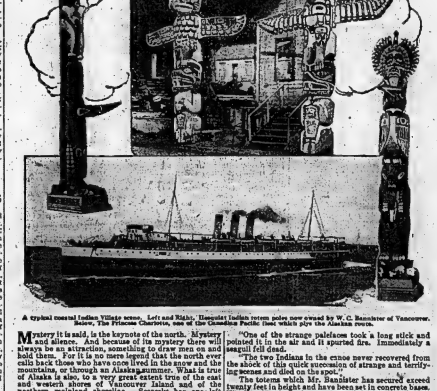

Constance's latest First National comedy is "Her Night of Romance," directed by Sidney Franklin for Joseph M. Schenck. It was written by Hans Kraly, author of "Passion," "Deception" and other photoplays.

Constance's leading man is Roland Colman, but seen in "The White Sister," "Romola," "Lady Windermere's Fan," etcetera in "The Goldfish," Albert Gran, Jean Hersholt, Sidney Bracy, Joseph Templar Sass, also are in the cast. The picture is at the Griffin Theatre to-night and Wednesday.

YEGGMAN SLAYS C. P. R. TRAINMAN

Calgary, Alta., March 10—J. P. Calkins, Medicine Hat, a crossing tender on the Calgary-Lethbridge line, was shot to death by a yeggman early Monday morning, it was learned here. A third trainman was wounded. No arrest has been made.

According to an official account of the tragedy, Station Agent Hamilton, at Walsh, 25 miles west of Medicine Hat was awakened by the sound of breaking glass. He opened the window and called down. This was answered with a demand to come and "open up". The agent, however, remained upstairs and watched a freight train from the upstairs window.

Mystery it is said, is the keynote of the north. Mystery and silence. And because of its mystery the north always be an attraction, something to draw men on and lead them. For it is no mere legend that the north country has called back those who have once lived in the snow and the mountains, or through on Alaska's gold mines. What is there of Alaska is also, to a very great extent true of the east and western shores of Vancouver Island and of the northern mainland shorelines. Scarcely has one left Vancouver or Victoria than there comes the feeling that one runs into to the mysterious totem pole, that Indian family tree', which has great significance in the shortest history and life of the Indians of the Coast, but which conceals the secret of their true humanities of white man.

Two striking examples of Indian art, totem poles which are said to be among the best on the Pacific Coast because of their excellent design, legend and historical importance, have been brought from the west coast of Vancouver Island to Vancouver, B.C., where Mr. C. Bannister, who secured them from the Indians, has erected them in front of his home. They were made by the Hesquiat Indians and illustrate native legends and tribal history.

The Hesquiat Indians lay claim to being the first natives to see the white man in British Columbia. The tribe's legend of the seeing of these men dates back to 1786. The story of the meeting is told thus:

"Two Indians were traveling along the west coast in canoes and in a light mist suddenly saw in the distance there loomed a giant canoe with white wings and many men standing from the deck. In the canoe were strange scrambled strange-looking creatures such as they had never seen before. They had white faces and stone feet.

"One of the strange palefaces took a long stick and pointed it in the air and it spurted fire. Instantly a seagull fell dead.

The two Indians in the canoe never recovered from the shock of this quick succession of strange and terrifying scenes and died on the spot."

The totems which Mr. Bannister has secured exceed thirty feet in height and have been set in concrete bases. The Great Eagle on the top of one of the poles was looked upon by Indians as a deity and is regarded as a totem which is also an emblem of great strength, to the powerful Chief, Cee-Ta-Ka-Nim who was famous as a whale hunter.

When a potlatch, or great giving away feast was held, all the members of the tribe would gather in the lodge of the chief and a human skull thrown in amongst them. The man who was able to get out of the lodge with the skull was the hero of the potlatch and received the greatest measure of gifts and attention. Cee-Ta-Ka-Nim evidently accomplished this feat as he is seen holding the skull in his hands. The tiny killer whale beneath is part of his family crest or emblem.

On the other pole the top figure is the official dancing mask of the Hesquiat chief. Beneath is depicted the legend of the Kingbird and the Great Bear.

The kingfisher was looked upon as a great prevaricator and boaster. One day the bear was walking by a creek where the kingfisher was fishing. The Great Bear said: "Tam-too-Kwie, you are always boasting to everybody of what you can do, yet you never seem to do anything. Now I want you to show me what you can do, just what you can do." He stood up on his hind legs and started to draw back his paw to strike the kingfisher. At this moment the kingfisher changed himself into a bird, animals or fishes.

AGREE MACHINE WAS UNDER HIS CONTROL

Lindsay, Ont., March 10—Harry Jackson, of Coboconk was arraigned Monday and accused of criminal negligences in the case of the death of James Redford Brandon, five-year-old of Pinedale Falls, who was killed on December 4th, 1924, when struck by Jackson's car.

In a long statement, Crown Attorney J. E. Anderson and Judge Swayze agreed with L. V. O'Connor, for the defence, that the accused did everything possible under the circumstances to avoid an accident. The car exhibited almost 125 feet. The Crown claimed the car was not under control although under the speed limit.

Machinery Added At Springer Lock

With View to Increased Production at Busy Plant

PROTECTION NEEDED

Long Wages and Long Hours in England Handicap Canadians

Three of the most modern and up to date machines made for the manufacture of flat wire nails and latticed fence are being installed at the Springer Lock Works at the present time. Other machines are coming, and when all work has been completed, a battery of their up-to-date machines—the very latest types of automatic machinery—will have been installed with a view to making for increased production in that busy plant. This will make the latest of many improvements and additions which have been made at that plant since Mr. W. C. Springer has taken over.

One of the newest and most expensive machines now being set up is the automatic screw machine which combines the operations of ten other machines that are now in the machine shop there. This with other machines will make for increased production and better goods.

Following a tour of the large and modern plant Monday afternoon, the Intelligencer enjoyed a talk with Mr. W. C. Springer on business matters and conditions.

"We are satisfied with the tariff on goods from the United States he said, "but we cannot stand such a low tariff as we now have from England".

Pointing out that there was practically no protection from England, Mr. Springer explained that it is impossible to get our splendid help work as long hours and as cheaply as workmen in England.

"Can't Stand a Load

"It is humorous," he said referring to the English situation, "we will have to either put wagon or shaft up shop."

Incidentally, he pointed out that the time to decide whether or not Canada was an agricultural country, was past. This question should have been decided years ago, before four billions of dollars of good Canadian money had been spent on industries in Canada. Still the people of Canada now work in industries.

It was time that the man who works in a Canadian factory, had his eyes opened and voted for the party which protected all the job he said.

Mr. Springer recently wrote a letter to Right Honourable Arthur Meighen asking him to come to Bellevile and deliver an address on this subject, but owing to his being very busy while the House is in session, Mr. Meighen explained that he would be unable to attend to come here. Recently he delivered a very fine speech on this problem at Toronto.

Mr. Springer knows what he is talking about, being Canada's pioneer lock manufacturer, 24 years of his life having been spent in Belleville, and in the first place, from Peterboro he established first lock manufacturing factory coming to Peterboro from Cleveland in the first place. From Peterboro he went back to Cleveland for a time, then back to Peterboro, to Toronto, and then to Belleville where he definitely located. Extensive improvements have been continually made in his expanding plant, and others besides these mentioned are contemplated. He is a chief of one of Belleville's best industries.

Cod Liver Oil In Sugar Coated Tablets For Puny Kids

Forget the nasty tasting, stomach upsetting cod liver oil and give the thin, underdeveloped children McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound tablets if you want to give them a good appetite and pounds of good, healthy flesh on their bones.

Doctors know all about them and so does Bolen's Drug Store, McKeown's Drug Store, Dying Drug store and all good pharmacists all over America, for they are in great demand, because they are not laggards but show results in a few days.

They are not expensive either—60 tablets—60 cents and children take them like candy.

A very sickly child, age 9, gained 12 pounds in seven months and is strong and healthy.

One skinny woman gained 9 pounds in 30 days.

Be sure to get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablet.

Tanlac puts flesh on scrawny folks

YOU simply can't expect to get back your health and strength as long as your body is scrawny and underweight. Let Tanlac put some good solid flesh on your bones, put your stomach in shape again and purify your blood. Then see how much better you feel.

In our files are more than 100,000 glowing letters of praise from men and women who credit their present vigorous health to Tanlac. What it has done for them it can surely do for you.

Tanlac is Nature's great tonic and builder. It is compounded after the famous Tanlac formula from roots, barks and elective herbs. If you're run-down to the seat of trouble—makes you feel a lot better right from the start.

Don't put off taking Tanlac another day. Don't go on drugging your poor, sickly body around when this great tonic and builder is ready to help you.

In cases of torpid liver, rheumatism, sleeplessness, lowered resistance, indigestion, malnutrition and general debility, Tanlac will accomplish wonders. Get a bottle this very day and start feeling better tonight.

Made Her Feel Like New Woman

"My appetite was gone, and I was losing weight fast. Couldn't sleep—my general health was bad. Tanlac brought me weight up 15 lbs. and made me feel like a new woman."

Serve The Living Instead Of Dead

Sweden Foregoes Flowers at Funerals to Build Old Folks Homes

(Associated Press Dispatch)

Stockholm, March 10—Happy homes for the living instead of flowers for the dead, is the aim of the Swedish "Flower Fund," which has just scored its first signal triumph in the birthday gift of 100,000 kroner to a home building designed exclusively for the aged and infirm, who otherwise might have to end their days in poor-house.

The idea of such a fund was launched about four years ago by Miss Alma Bedin, sister of Bror Hjorth, the explorer, and now, thanks to many small contributions in lieu of floral tributes at funerals, enough money has been collected to guarantee the financing of the first building. Others will be started later.

The first, will contain 60 suites of one or two rooms with kitchens. For 22 of these the rent has been fixed at $40 a year and for the others the rates will be determined by the court. The tenants will be people who cannot afford to pay more than that, but who wish to avoid the humiliation of seeking their final home in public institutions.

Have Been Flying Machines By Radio

Residents on South Coast of England Are Surprised

London, March 10.—Certain residents of the south coast of England were much astonished recently when an air force flying machine fell into the ocean and the authorities show ed no undue anxiety about the fate of the pilot who, it is assumed, was aboard. After a while the air force men calmly put out in a skiff and towed the fallen plane to shore. The secret then leaked out that the machine had been without a pilot and that the accident was brought about by the plane passing beyond the radius of the wireless controlling force.

It was then learned for the first time that the planes seen for many weeks past circling in the air over this territory had all been without pilots, the control was by radio from a shore station.

W. A. AMOS

For the third successive year has been chosen to head Canadian Council of Agriculture. He is also president of the U.F.O.

From barns which he ransacked on Wednesday, the seventy-second son of John B. and Mrs. Walker, 50 Fairleigh avenue north, Hamilton, died on Saturday. The child had pulled a cord attached to an electric porcelain and a can of boiling water on the stove was upset.

Fumes Will End A Head Cold

A head cold calls for local treatment. Crushed the germs which cause it in the air passages. Don't wait for internal remedies.

The way is Ely's Cream Balm. Place a little in the nostrils and breathe it. Its antiseptic fumes go wherever the germ attacks. The head is cleared instantly, inflammation is subdued, the whole trouble is checked.

Don't suffer stuffiness, don't let the cold continue. Ask your druggist for a bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Enjoy its instant relief. Then in future let it check every cold at the start.

BUSSES IN BERLIN ARE TOP-HEAVY

Berlin, March 10—Berlin has found that its motor busses are top-heavy. Since the streets have become congested with the growth in the number of automobiles there has been an increasing number of accidents in which the busses have figured, and some have upset with serious consequences.

The authorities are now considering a lower vehicle with side footing of a type now in general use in Paris, Vienna and other European cities.

HASTY MARRIAGES MAY BE STOPPED

Toronto, March 10—E. R. Wigle, Conservative, Centre Huron is out to put an end to marrying in haste and repenting at leisure in Ontario. Today he introduced a bill to amend the Marriage Act so that 9 marriage license must be obtained at least three days before the nuptial knot is tied, and that a birth certificate, or an affidavit from an elder member of the family, must be forthcoming to say that those to whom the certificate is issued are of statutory age.

IRELAND INQUIRES INTO DRINK TRAFFIC

Dublin, March 10— The Free State government has appointed a commission of nine persons to inquire into the excess in the number of retail shops. There are more than 18,000 in the 26 counties. Some small towns have as many as 70 shops where drink is sold. It is agreed that at least half the number should be abolished, and the work of the commission is to find out what scale of reduction should be adopted.

As in England, which has seen a large reduction in the number who drink shops, the problem of compensating the dispossessed has to be faced, yet also.

SOMEONE ENTERED HIS SUMMER HOME

The report of the commission is intended to form the basis of future legislation.

Jamieson Lone discovered that his summer home on the Trent road had been entered and he reported the matter to Provincial police here Saturday. Constable S. Elliott visited the cottage Saturday afternoon and investigation is being continued today by the Provincial police.

It is not definitely known when the cottage was entered as it has of course been vacant during the winter, and it is difficult to name articles missing at

CHICAGO MARKETS

Chicago, March 9—Export business of large volume led to an early advance in wheat prices to-day. The fact that, Liverpool quotations showed an unexpected upturn tended also to lift values here. Big general trade quickly developed, with leading commission houses active on both the market and with fluctuations so rapid that bleakout operators had difficulty recording changes. Opening which varied from 1-4c to 3-4c higher May $1.22 to $1.24 and July $1.24 1-2 to $1.25 were followed by some further gains and then by many breaks and bulges within limits of about three cents.

The cost of Kitchener schools this year will be about $200,000.

GRAND JURY RETURNED A TRUE BILL AGAINST SERGAI TKACJ WHO IS CHARGED WITH MURDER

Court Room Crowded to Doors As Case Proceeds

MANY WITNESSES

Sergeant Rae is Called to Box First To Testify

Sergei (Tkac), Polish Anne Russian, went on trial for his life this morning when His Grand Jury returned a true bill against him. The Grand Jury retired to hear the evidence Tuesday afternoon, after reciting, thorough instructions from Mr. Justice Kelly to the number did not return until 5.30 p.m. Court was adjourned until today when the trial will was resumed.

H. C. Deacon is assisting Crown Counsel Kelly, who is here from Toronto, and T. Guy Porter, K.C., Brighton, is acting for the prisoner.

In addressing the Grand Jury, Mr. Justice Kellydelt it to the jurymen's judgment as to whether or not there should be various public institutions. However they visited them or not, it would be expected that they would do so.

The court room was crowded to the doors when Tkacj was brought in by Constable Ponton, a 6.40 o'clock train from Toronto. Sergei, who is charged with the murder of John Alastak, a fellow countryman, at Trenton on December 24th, was accompanied by Rev. Father Basile Marshall J. A. Kerr, Attorney, interpreter, and Detective Sergeant Rae. He pleaded not guilty and was ready for his trial.

Good Health

Tkacj's aptitude to be in good health and take a keen interest in affairs was shown when all the witnesses, Dr. Ward Walker, electrician of Deseronto; Earl Harold, motor mechanic; Detective Sergeant Rae, Belleville; Constable Ponton, of Belleville, John F. Kelcheson, of Belleville, Township, former; Robert E. Kingsbury, farmer, Belleville Township; Frederick Kingsbury, farmer, Belleville Township; Frederick Kingsbury, jr., farmer, Township; Frederick Kingsbury, farmer, Township; Albert Kingsbury, farmer, Township; William J. Ratman, farmer, Township; Fred Ferguson, farmer, Township; Arthur I. Brake, Sidney Township, farmer; Thomas Mitchell, farmer of Stirling, Township, farmer were called to give evidence, the defence challenged several and the Crown Counsel a number, but all were accepted.

All witnesses were ordered at 10.30 this morning to appear in the court room in English and Russian.

Crown Prosecutor Cecil G. Frost, of Cobourg, addressed the jury briefly, saying that the case was conducted in such a manner as to ensure that a trial should be had by jury which has been so successfully administered in many countries of the world where an accused, charged with the most serious crime in the world is tried by twelve neighbors who must by unanimous consent of the jury, the judge and the jury, through the light of the evidence and the law and nothing else, bring in a verdict. Mr. Frost insisted that the jury should not allow sentiment to enter into their deliberations. He also explained that any doubt which they might have as to the guilt of the accused must be real, and not a fanciful doubt. It was not a question between Counsel's brilliance and speaker's stupidity for instance but a trial of the accused on the charge laid upon the facts.

As soon some story of the alleged facts in the case was then refolded for the jury's hearing and the trial commenced.

Hamilton Officer Here

Everett A. Rae, of Hamilton, former Sergeant of the criminal police there, arrived here, entering the box at 11 o'clock. At 6.45 p.m. on Wednesday, December 23rd, he said, he received a telephone call about trouble at the Grand Junction and with inspector of the G.T.R. Frank Nunan, drove to Brighton and to house No. 1 situated on a street which runs east and west. He had been informed that a murder had occurred.

"In the one room, which occupies the whole upstairs of that half of the house, I found accused whom he arrested and warned.

Defence Counsel C. A. Payne interrupted several times with objections.

Mr. Kelly—"Did you know at that time that this accused man did or did not understand English?"

Witness—"No, I did not."

"I accused him lying on the bed in the northeast corner of the room," explained witness, "and was told to stand by by George, who is a foreman at the Canada Cement Company, 116 did, and was arrested.

Identifies Hammer

Witness was shown a hammer and identified the hammer exhibited as the one he saw on the floor of the room on December 24th. Identification was made by witness who placed the initial "K" on the hammer that day. There was no four arrested on the handle of the hammer and the airplane hammer was rubber.

Sergt. did not respond to the accused's warning, but appeared to be sober and said attention. "He stood and walked straight and there was no smell of liquor from his breath. Blood-stained bedding was taken from a bed in the room, was exhibited and identified by Sergeant Rae. A blood-stained blanket, yellow-white piece of clothing were produced from a suit case. Builders Must Get Permits By Law

Example Was Made in City Police Court Yesterday

On May 13th, 1911, the City Council passed a by-law No. 1533 construed as a by-law requiring the erection of buildings and in proviso for the safety of the public of the regulations of the by-law was that a permit had to be secured from the City Engineer for the erection of any building in the city. In some cases this bylaw has been ignored. Yesterday a witness was summoned to appear before the police for neglecting to take out a permit. The charge was preferred and a fine of $5 and costs was imposed which was paid. The accused was to have been tried to-day, but was not present in the court. The object of mention it may be stated that the City engineer is determined to enforce the by-law.

Fruit Campaign Angets Butchers

'Don't-Eat Mutton, Don't Eat Lamb" Says Grocer's Song

London, March 11—An "eat more fruit" campaign throughout England has recently brought the American apple into more prominence than it ever has enjoyed heretofore. The fruit is now being sold in the groceries and the luxury stores rather than in the stalls in the streets of London.

In addition to cranberries, Florida and California grape fruit and oranges, varieties of fruit from the other side of the Atlantic, Americans in London this winter have enjoyed the privilege of buying ade, when they were willing to pay the price, to treat themselves to fresh corn on the cob, at about one shilling per cob. The corn, in the husk, has full white grains and is shipped to England from South Africa. It has much the appearance of corn grown in the United States.

Progressive Leader Raney made a statement in the House regarding the position which arose when the High Court Department was closed on account of his farm is putting through a new barn. The matter came up yesterday when Mr. Biggs was Minister of Public Works and Highways, and he at that time refused to enter into contract with the Government at all, stand by sides and talking on part. When the new Government came in he told the Government to go ahead and do the terms, what the remuneration should be. The payment was in February, 1924, sent him a cheque for $2,000, which cheque was produced yesterday, said incidentally, Mr. Raney contended that this was not a matter of contract with the Government, but technically it might be a violation of the act.

VETERANS MAKE MERRY AT HOME

Members of the Great War Veterans' Association last evening turned out in large numbers to the Memorial Hall, the occasion being a general meeting and smoker with a musical program. Mr. F. H. Wills, President, of the association, occupied the chair. During the evening Comrades W. Edwards, A. G. Baldwin, and Lancaster, rendered vocal selections which were much appreciated. Comrade Schermerhorn executed a step dance well. Piano solos were also a feature of the evening. Prize waltz contests were initiated. Refreshments were served.

St. Catharines—Several persons confess they voted three times in St. Catharines municipal elections.

STORM SHOOK CAMPBELLFORD LAST EVENING

Several People Thought Earthquake Responsible Once Again

WIRES BURNED OUT

Bottles Knocked Off The Shelves In Dry Store

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Campbellford, March 11.—Campbellford was visited by a severe electrical storm, early Tuesday evening, lightning playing tricks with the freelance system and putting a number of electrical ranges out of commission. The storm was terrific, shaking the house and rattling the windows, many thinking that an earthquake. Countless bottles were knocked off the shelves in the drug stores. The most serious damage occurred at the C.N.R. station. It was 4.45 when the railway telegraph and telephone systems were completely burned out—general action with the use of chocolate, alone saving the building from total destruction.

A strange feature was the fact that the power house was not affected.

The storm occurred between eight and nine o'clock, and seemed lower than usual, probably due to the snow in the ground.

The present wire is in great demand in Campbellford.

Legislature Has Passed On Bill

Affecting Position of W. H. Ireland and Hon. F. C. Biggs

Toronto, March 11.—First, second, and third readings were given in quick order yesterday after-noon in the Legislature to the bill emerging from all parties, including the Premier, Hon. Mr. Ferguson, W. H. Ireland, Conservative, West Hastings and Hon. Mr. Raney, Progressive, North Wentworth, they having inadvertently belong in receipt of public moneys before they were members of the Legislature.

The effect of the bill contains clause of general effect that where persons are issued by the Speaker's consent from members of the Legislature, and where the price is paid to a Judge, the members affected will not seem under the penalty proscriptions, but they shall not be permitted to vote on these specific matters in the House, nor to sit on committees or may give assent to the measure in question.

Progressive Leader Raney made a statement in the House regarding the position which arose when the High Court Department was closed on account of his farm is putting through a new barn. The matter came up yesterday when Mr. Biggs was Minister of Public Works and Highways, and he at that time refused to enter into contract with the Government at all, stand by sides and talking on part. ELECTION TANGLE LOOKING SERIOUS

St. Catharines, Ont., March 11.—Further recitations were brought out here yesterday in the Supreme Court before Chief Justice Mulock, Justice Riddell and Justice Middleton, sitting as a court of appeal, although the enquiry was abruptly adjourned yesterday afternoon when Poll Clerk Norman Smith was missing. It was stated he was working in Niagara Falls, N. Y., and it was not known whether he would be on hand before or shortly terminated. Yesterday afternoon Norman Smith testified that he had not voted at No. 6, St. George's Ward, though having been marked as voted during the day. Geo. Lindsley, deputy at No. 7 sub-division, was on the stand during the morning. He could not explain how Ernest Doddington and A. Anderson were given ballots having previously voted twice. Doddington admitted that he voted three times during the day and did so believing he had a right to do so.

FIVE RESIGNATIONS WERE RECEIVED

Peterboro, Ont., March 11.—Consideration of resignations was the feature of yesterday morning's session of the Presbytery of Peterboro in St. Paul's Church. The following resignations, to take effect on March 24, were accepted: Rev. G. B. Hammond of Warkworth, Rev. C. P. McIntosh of Campbellford, Rev. W. A. Brammer of Colborne, Rev. J. W. Bowles of Norwood, Rev F. W. Anderson of Port Hope. All these ministers resigned.

Rev. Mr. Brammer's resignation was accepted are to have their name retained on the unsatisfactory list. The resignations following the voting of their churches against, union with they are unionists.

The Moderator of the Presbytery elected for the ensuing six months is Rev. J. Lawrence of Baltimore, and the clerk is the Rev. T. A. Thompson of Hastings, re-elected. A committee was appointed to reorganize the Presbytery.

Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., who with his brother Kermit, is leaving America shortly to engage in big game hunting in Africa. He is a son of the late President Roosevelt.

Mr. Justice Kelly Addresses The Bar

Gave Interesting Account of Visit to Old Country

The Belleville Bar Association entertained the Hon. Mr. Justice Kelly at a dinner at the Quinte Hotel last evening, Mayor W. C. Mikel, President of the Bar Association occupied the chair, but was obliged to leave early to fulfill another appointment. His Lordship, Justice Kelly, gave a very interesting account of the visit of the Canadian and American Bar Association to England. Addresses were delivered also by different members of the local Bar.

Particulars of the bill to be introduced into the Legislature today by Premier Ferguson, respecting the Presbyterian Church were made known last night, the main provision being that each congregation enters the United Church of Canada by a decisive vote instead of by a majority vote as contemplated at present.

The petitioners for the bill are Thomas McMillan, Toronto; Rev. J. J. McGillivray, Toronto; Rev. A. E. Michie, Toronto, and Rev. W. J. Macaulay, Toronto. The bill is to be called the Presbyterian Church in Canada Act.

Second Hand Man Reported He Bought "For Five Dollars A Baby" Mistake

Hamilton, March 11—"Bought for five dollars a baby."

Such was the terse report received by the detective department from a second hand dealer this afternoon.

Detectives were soon scurrying in all directions. The police thought that the police wagon was secured and the name of the proprietor learned.

"Did you make out this police report or goods bought in today?" he was asked.

"Sure! What is the matter with it?" replied the storekeeper. The detective's digit pointing to the line was quickly answered and the second-hand merchant hurried to his store with the detective.

"Isn't it a nice one?" asked the proprietor as he opened the door. The red-painted rocker in the shadows where near, a counter, stood a baby buggy. "Where did you get it?" asked Detective Inspector Goodman this morning. The second hand man had forgotten to write the word "buggy."

FLYER LOST HIS HAT

Croydon, March 11.—When almost 7000 feet in the air in his baby commercial about plane, Hubert Broad's soft hat flew off. Thinking he might catch cold without it, Hubert following and he set to work, landed beside it, and picked it up without stopping the engine. He then took off again and flew to his North London aerodrome.

Chief Ot a Gang Tells Police All

Turns King's Evidence and Will Tell Them All Himself

Montreal, Mar. 11.—George Bark, alleged chief of the gang which secured $35,000 in bonds and securities from His Majesty's mail on St. James street, Montreal, on the evening of December 5, 1924, was taken into custody according to Robert L. Calder, K.C., special prosecutor for the Dominion government which is prosecuting Leslie Gittleson, Nathan Goldberg, George Bitkin, Thomas Sandford, Lester Beaman and Norman Sylvestre.

Bark, chief crown witness, registered the deal, Mr. Calder said yester day in outlining the crown's case before the jury which was empanelled yesterday after many panelmen had been challenged. Bark will not appear in court until to-morrow, according to information secured yesterday, but his testimony will detail all the plans for the robbery, the division of the spoils, and the disposition of the bonds which made a considerable portion of the loot.

Crown's Excuse

Mr. Calder told the jury that probably the crown and certain of the defence counsel would be held up to ridicule by the lawyers for the defence.

The state, in a case of this kind, has no other way except to invite treachery," he declared. "Here was a case of masked men. Nobody knew who they were. Nobody saw their faces. The only way the crown could hope to find those who did the job was to get them from the underworld. The valuable information which some of these men produced the hold-up, swelling in incoming volume, finally reached the ears of the authorities.

Painstaking work, careful investigation, finally led to the leader, Bark and he consented to turn King's evidence, in return for the promise of immunity.

Story of Crime

In opening Mr. Calder said that a search warrant was issued for the arrest of Bark, and the various members of the gang were rounded up and marked men between 10 and 11 a.m. on January 5, 1924. He said that a motor car containing the bandits and the loot, arrived alongside the mail wagon, which was driving in the usual route on St. James street at the intersection of Simon street.

Two men, armed with revolvers, then leaped from the car, and two leaped from the car, he said. Then another man jumped upon the seat, reached into the body of the wagon and selected two bags.

They hurried into the motor car, and speeded away, meanwhile opening the pouches and counting the money and packages. They abandoned the car shortly afterwards and boarded another one. They went to the home of one of the accused and there divided the money.

ONLY ONE KNOB TO THAT DOOR OF MAN'S LIFE

That Knob on Inside, Said Dr. Gordon To-day

MAN CONTROLS IT

Devil Cannot Open It Himself, Speaker Declares

That the Devil cannot force his way into a man's life, was the assertion of Dr. J. D. Gordon in the quiet talk at Bridge Street Methodist Church at noon to-day. Only the man himself could give entrance to large enough to hear the visitor's talk to-day.

"There is only one knob to the door of a man's life," Dr. Gordon said. "And that knob is on the inside. The man in side must twist the knob, before the Devil may come in."

The tempter could not come in himself, the speaker said. All he could do was to kindle fires around and make it uncomfortable for the man being tempted.

Although he had great regard for the Devil, and did not think of him as to speak lightly of him, the Devil was not a hundred per cent. fool. To man in manner, man was weak when he attempted to withstand the wiles of the Devil, if he fought alone. Even the strongest man had to listen to the leadings of the Holy Spirit.

Jesus was the both choice, or will power, and his spiritual leadership salvation, Dr. Gordon added.

Speaking also on the Orient, the speaker said he wondered whether he was a hundred per cent. loyal to the cause of the Chinese and Japanese. But he was glad that they were in the same boat as westerners and tarred with the same brush. The Japanese and Chinese were not "foreigners," and he hoped to be made many race friends among them.

KIRKWOOD IS NOW IN SMOOTH WATER

London, March 10—The incident of Dr. Kirkwood's suspension from the House of Commons last Thursday has been amicably smoothed over and the suspension vote will be rescinded. Mr. Kirkwood—who is Independent Labor member for Dumbarton Burghs, particularly interrupted Austen Chamberlain, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, during his speech in the House on that occasion, and refused to withdraw the words suspended by a vote of the House. Rumors that Mr. Kirkwood had been asked to withdraw his remarks and all the Laborites walked out.

When the House came up in the House yesterday, Premier Baldwin announced that he had received from James F. Hope, who was acting as Speaker at the time explaining the incident, and that he would be all considered justifiable. He admitted, however, that there was room for consideration on Mr. Kirkwood's part.

The result of the receipt of this letter, was the virtual agreement of Mr. Kirkwood to withdraw his objectionable remarks and a promise by the Prime Minister to recommend that the House rescind its suspension resolution. These steps are expected to be taken in the course of the week.

Refuge

THE only refuge from disagreeable conditions and environment outside, is in self-possession, inside.

There is no use trying to fight littleness with littleness, nor to put out the fire of petty-mindedness with the gasoline of suspicion.

We must rise above within ourselves and be above the things that annoy us or there is no permanent solution of the question.

Take in receipt of a letter from a man who says as follows:

"I have suffered for years especially on different things for some months but there is one you forget to write and that is a wife's attitude to a husband who is sick and out of employment. I am the man, and I haven't words enough to express my feelings, but I feel, but I have been put out of a home that I paid cash for,then became my wife does other men strongly,and better looking and employed. The last put that woman, daughter, with me. I was a Holden man and it broke me all to pieces. Can't you help me in writing that will draw her to her right mind. I have a daughter sixteen years old and she is right with her mother. I do not want her to be against her mother, but how do I feel?

"I am heart-broken. Please do not publish this letter just write your views of it in your earliest publication."

I have not published all of the letter and hence have, to a degree at least, complied with my correspondent's request.

From the whole case, it may be an unpleasant thing to say, but it seems to me the man is suffering from littleness. He has allowed himself to be swamped with self-pity and to circumstances that are disagreeable.

He needs to develop his own soul into strength and courage and patience and to have an outlook, within himself, that shall enable him to see past his immediate vicissitudes.

Greatness or loftiness is even better than goodness. The road to it is hard and often lies over one's prostrate self, but the sea breezes are worth while to be taking.

Of course, not being conversant with all of the circumstances, my judgment in this matter may be incorrect; so as much depends upon personality, but in the average I think that I am right.

BRITAIN'S MERCHANT FLEET

(Philadelphia Ledger)

Great Britain is, now, building 50 steamships of the new sizes in the world, Germany 20, second, France third, Italy fourth. The United States seems to have dropped out of the race altogether. Britain and Germany together have entered 70 per cent. of all new constructions. There may be several reasons for this situation. One of course, is the traditional excellence of staff, plants and techniques in Great Britain. But the most important is, perhaps, the full realization among the British people and the British government that Britain must have a cheap, build ships. Even though be enterprise be unprofitable at present, the requirement must be met, or it must be allowed to deteriorate. British strongest rival, Germany, also appears to have come to a similar realization.

ONTARIO SYMPATHIZES

(Toronto Telegram)

News of the illness of Sir Adam Beck comes as a severe shock to the whole of Ontario. Sir Adam is the acknowledged leader in the minds of the people have capped his energy and strength and undermined his health.

There will be universal sympathy for him throughout the province.

Ontario wishes Sir Adam a speedy return to health and trusts that he will be spared for many long years to continue in the work that he loves.

Dutchy's Diary

Can you imagine what happening in a Methodist Church, in Ontario?

Young people, rather together on Monday of this week for a debate and choose as the subject, "Resolved that the proposed amendment (44 hour) is not in the interests of temperance."

The Minister of the Church acts as one of the judges and the minister's son and a young lady take up the negative.

The Minister said "The other judge decide against the Minister's son."

The incident is not so amusing as it is enlightening. We doubt very much whether the Quarterly Official Board would have sanctioned such a program in the church forty years ago.

Under the circumstances the conduct of this debate is a tribute to the broadmindedness of the present day church, notwithstanding the fact that the Minister's son lost.

Here's a story by E. K. K. in the New York Evening World.

"The name Mussi originated, I am told at the time of the visit of an English explorer, who took a native belle for a canoe ride long before there was any white settlement here.

"The Indian, so the story goes, told the Indian maiden that she was awfully pretty and all that sort of thing, don't you know.

"My! ain. I?' she asked.

"Personally, I don't believe this story. E. K. K. might be interested to learn how the County of Hastings was given a name.

As soon as we can recollect, the daughter of one of the first United Empire Loyalists to come up into this territory was out hunting butterflies while her daddy was looking around for some suitable logs for a cabin.

This pretty young girl wandered into a patch of clover and suddenly caught sight of a pretty winged insect clinging to one of the flowers. Kneeling down she was just about to pat it, when there was a rustle in the bushes behind her and a voice called out,

"Hey!"

Turning her head inquiringly, the maid's benefactor added by way of explanation,

"Bring."

I was interested to see an advertisement for the Northern Whig and Belfast Post, which is described as the premier morning newspaper of Ulster. This paper claims to devote far more space to news than any other newspaper in Ireland and points out with pride that the average number of news columns each day is 61.68, or roughly 12.6 columns more than its nearest competition.

At the latest, the Daily Intelligencer would be one of the Whig's nearest competitors and big city papers in Canada would make the Whig come away down in the list.

But don't think we are knocking Ulster, dear Brother Irish, we are talking of quantity, not quality.

To-day's Smile

The plaintiff, an Italian, talked as fast as his knowledge of English would permit.

Looking down at the court reporter, the Italian noticed, for the first time that his testimony was being taken down by a reporter, and thereupon began to talk faster than ever, until finally he burst forth: "Don't write so fas'. I can'ta keep up with you."

Thirty Years Ago

Any man can take a newspaper. It is the cheapest thing he can buy. It is less than a penny, stamp—less than to receive or send a letter. What good does it do, you? It instructs you and your wife, and teaches your children. It tells you every day, rain or shine, calm or storm and brings you the best news of the neighborhood. No matter what happens it matters your door a welcome friend, full of sunshine, cheer and interest. It shortens the long summer day and cultivates the long winter night. It is your adviser, your mediator of news and friend. No man is just to his children and wife who does not give them the home paper to read.

Seldom or never has a better opportunity occurred for observing a lunar eclipse than that which occurred last night. The obscured planet was visible for a length of time like a ball of fire seen through smoke, then the dark pall was gradually withdrawn and by 1.30 a.m. it once more sailed bright and serene through the heavens.

DOMING STYLES

(Fort Erie News Review)

On the train the other day a dry goods traveller was talking about the coming styles in blouses. He said: "The fashionable world has grown tired of long necks with their expansive bases and wasted nourishing new and neat, but not confining." When asked whether he was a married man he said "No, but I am to be married in June to a nice little girl in a pretty little frock with a white linen collar down collar on it, and a smart little tie, and as a man might wear to an evening party." We have no doubt of the sincerity of this young man, but it takes more than sincerity to make Dame Fashion change her mind.

MARMORA MASONS HEAR HISTORY TALK.

Harry Linsey of Brockeridge addressed Marmora Lodge, A. F. & A. M., Marmora on Monday night, on "The Origin and Growth of Freemasonry."

The development of the Grand Lodges was traced under Anthony Sayer in 1717, and planting some 70 years later of lodges in Canada. The address was illustrated from many different, historic places, official records and concerned history of Upper and Lower Canada were shown. Some of the hons included William Jarvis, Robert Kerr, James Feathbon, George Adams, J. H. Dunn, E. H. Phillips, A. H. Sicher, Simon McGillivray, Robert Beikie, G. F. Tilling and others who were identified with the Craft in its first days.

The officers of the Grand Lodge of Canada, formed in 1855 were pictured from the first days, as well as, incidents of their history and the successions, growth of the Order in latter days.

The Grand Masters have included Judges, knights, senators and prominent, as well as three provincial secretaries, almost the early Grand Masters were W. M. Wilson, T. D. Harrington, A. A. Stevenson, J. K. Kerr and the latter years include Ward Chase, Harcourt, Pearce and Dewart with J. A. Rowland as Deputy G. M. and A. J. Young vice-president of the Mutual Life.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS AT LINDSAY

Lindsay, March 11.—On March 9th, 1875, Mr. William Ranaco and Miss Elizabeth Colgrift, then residents of Minden, drove to the village of Coboconk, where they were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. For years Mr. and Mrs. Ranaco resided at Minden, where they were widely known and highly respected. Several years ago they moved, with their growing family, to Lindsay and Monday last were happy in the celebration of the anniversary of their wedding of half a century ago. One unique feature occurred as they were surrounded by members of their family, relatives and friends. The members of the family were: Mr. Henry Ranaco, Manchester; Mrs. Wm. Ranaco, of Minden; Messrs. Frank, Robert and Thomas Ranaco, of Lindsay; Mrs. J. G. Baldwin, of Lindsay, and Mr. Arnold Ranaco, of Ottawa.

UPHOLDS BELIEF IN CANADIAN WORK

Lindsay, March 11—At their weekly luncheon yesterday, the Lindsay Rotarians add their quota to the pleasure of a visit from Major Roberts, the well-known author-poet, who gave a short characteristic talk. Speaking on patriotism, literature and the future Major Roberts said it had been suggested by critics, that Canada was too young, and underdeveloped a country to produce good literature, but Salisbury had said because of the sincerity, imagination and faith exhibited by Canadian poetry, the leadership of the English speaking world might soon pass to a Canadian poet.

CREAM DELIVERY AT DESERONTO NOW

Deseronto, March 11.— Delivery of cream to the Deseronto Creamery has started and churning operations will commence this week. The operation of the Creamery will add much to Deseronto's commercial life acting as an additional call for the visitation of farmers to our town. The management is to be commended for their successful efforts in providing for the cream to be made locally. In a very short time a built-up business in manufactured butter will be had, farmers visited in solicitation of their cream and a distribution of containers made. Since Deseronto capital is interested in this new enterprise, and the interest being shown by the farmers and townspeople in general, we wish for the success and future enlargement of the creamery.

Deseronto Township reports sever al farmers tapping the maple bushes. The spring delicacy, maple syrup, will no doubt, appear in quantity for sale on the market by the end of the week.

Devenstein, the accused, is broken English, attempted to explain how the matter occurred, but when he began to speak, witness again warned the accused, and the latter then seemed to understand the warning. He said, "Alright, and I'm dead." He did not say when he hit Alec. Several drinks Outside.

Supper, as in the back seat with Sergeant Flood, the Crown Attorney, house in Belleville, in the car.

C. A. Payne—"It was not been clearly shown that accused understood the warning. Also, object to the words of the warning."

Judge Deroche Overruled

The objection was overruled by His Lordship.

Continuing, witness told of Sergeant Flood's voluntary conversation in the car before leaving Point Anne, when a fight ensued, incident was mentioned and Nick Gavanski's name was mentioned in connection with the incident. Accused said that Alec had hit him at the pic nicking and Sergeant also said he had hit Alec.

That night witness went to Point Anne with District Inspector E. E. Gennett, Inspector Naphan, also Constables Hall and Davis. Two men were arrested as material witnesses and two and a-half hours were taken from other witnesses.—At 4 o'clock on December 14th with W. E. McCormick, Crown Stenographer, the photographs were taken as indicated to McCormick by witness. Photographs subscribed, were identified by witness and explained to the jurors.

Some twenty visits for investigation purposes were made by him to the scene of the assault and surroundings. He had also visited the hotel ten days ago.

On one occasion Constable Elliod under instruction went upstairs and walked across the floor; his footsteps being audible by witness and Constables. The floor is an ordinary wooden one, the building not being plasted and joist exposed.

Weapon Wearing Shoes

To Mr. Payne witness said that accused wore a pair of felt slippers when arrested. Nothing strange in shoes later. They was interviewed by witness and Inspector F. Naphan, the night of December 24th, with an interpreter. The Inspector told interpreter Joe Diamond to tell accused that Alec was in bad shape. Diamond also told accused that he knew that he would be queried but did not have to answer unless he chose to do so. He however, would be used against him. It was explained. Witness felt that accused understood English but the interview was proceeded, so as to be fair to accused.

Flash Photographs

Ernest McCormick, photographer, told of making photographs on Dec. 24th and January 4th at scene of the assault and surroundings. The photographs were explained after idea identified by witness.

Charles D. Campbell, City Engineer, told of visiting Point Anne at the request of Provincial police, with Sergeant Glass. Gibson certified measurements of buildings and rooms were taken and drawings made. Drawings and figures designated were explained by Mr. Campbell.

Jurymen Dismissed

All other jurymen were dismissed at 12 o'clock Mr. Masson, Q.C., who first introduced Mr. Saunder, trial jury, it all points in the case and also in finding the bill of indictment. No complaint were heard, and the dismissal of the jurymen followed the assumption that the trial jurymen were a good deal and had heard all the facts.

Dr. John J. Robertson, Canada Cement Company surgeon, told of his visit to Point Anne on Dec. 22nd, after the fight. He found Alec in the north east and a third in the south west end. Alec was lying on the bed in the south east corner, of the room. Beside was the bed in the north east corner. Silently at his back awake, and his hands under his head.

Blood Flowing Freely

"There were men standing near the stove pipe in the room, after I had finished with Alec," witness. "Germaine was in a bad bad condition with his head resting on the floor. His head was covered with blood and was awash with it. He was in his shirt sleeves and boots, bled profusely and was unconscious. I examined Sergeant who was still lying in the same position except his head was lifted from the floor. There was clotted blood on his face, dry and had probably been there for three hours or longer. There was blood on his hands too. I asked Sergt. how this had come. He understands English. If you talk slowly enough, and believe he understands one who is accustomed to talk ing among foreigners. In English tongue. No longer, I asked him if the injured man was in bed and he said he had been for weeks previously when I had attended him and he said "this was not the bed."

Was Fought Him

"Did you do it?" of the doctor asked. And Sergt answered, "This man fought me" and he said pointing to Alec up when I walked over and talked while standing. He was excited but very excited and intelligent. He was not drunk and was intelligent. Any person who would not have occurred longer than one hour before the doctor's arrival.

His Face Fatal

His wife suffering from a cut along the upper jaw on the right, an inch and half long, another cut half an inch above the ear and a bruise on the head and formed underneath the blood clot had formed underneath the scalp between this gash and another bruise about one and a half inches above that one on the left side of the head. His head was matted in blood and he was still bleeding.

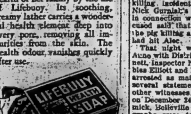

Blows Fatal

Either of the two head blows might be fatal the doctor explained and either would produce unconsciousness. The jaw injury might not cause any uncomfortable unless receiving unconsciousness. Witness was excused from the front—not intending to stay about court, as he would not necessarily be fetal. No blood stains were found on the floor surface but because it had not been left in contact with the floor, it might sufficiently be enough to allow the shut-off blood vessels to pour forth the blood as they would do immediately afterwards.

BAD ACCIDENT

William Anglin, of Batteress, had a finger so badly crushed that it had to be amputated. Samuel Abbott had his head cut, requiring several stitches to close the wound, and the other occupants of an auto bus which was bringing the members of the Industry hockey team and a load of fans from Batteress to Kingston for Monday night's games were shaken up and had minor injuries from worse injuries, if not deaths, when their auto crashed into the side of the Montreal road at the point about half a mile north of the Outer Station, known as Gallagher's Hill. When the driver of the auto bus brought his machine to a standstill after the crash the front wheels were hanging over the brow of the steep hill, but the machine was nicely enough balanced to prevent it from going over the brow. Had it done so, it would have dropped fully fifteen feet, and undoubtedly there would have been a terrible toll of accident.

Fire At Oshawa

The collapse of four firemen and damage estimated at $20,000 is the toll of the fire at Welch's Parlor's 30 King st., West, and the Queen Mary theatre in the same building Sunday night which fazed the capacity of Fire Chief Cameron and his men for more than two hours before it was brought under control.

Hit By Motor Truck

A little girl, coming from school, was knocked down yesterday afternoon on Princess street, Kingston, by a motor truck, and it was at first thought that she was seriously injured. First aid was rendered but it was found that a shaking up was the extent of the accident and she was able to go home unassisted.

To Close Portion Of Old St.Pauls

Canadian Tourists Out of Luck After End of March

London, March 11.—Canadian visitors to London this year who want to see the interior of St. Paul's cathedral must arrive here before the end of the present month, for the greater part of the building will be closed to enable the work of strengthening the piers supporting the dome to go on.

The workmen beneath the dome, as well as the transepts and choir, is to be prevented, only the aisles remaining open to the public. Daily services will be conducted in the nave.

The official announcement of the closing does not state how long it will be before the ecclesiastic authorities say it may be safe again. One of the first operations after the scaffolding screen is erected will be the removal from the presence of the great organ and carved choir stalls so that the eastern pillars, which have not yet been examined, may be inspected and, if necessary, restored. This work alone will occupy six months, as removal of the decorative carving of the organ and stalls will necessitate some of the greatest care and skill.

The organ was originally built by the famous German builder, Father Bernard Schmidt, in 1697, and the magnificent carving of the case was done by the celebrated seventeenth century artist, Grinling Gibbons. The organ was reconstructed in 1870 and has since been enlarged. There are now 7,022 pipes and 107 stops.

The officials of the cathedral assert that the closure does not imply any danger of collapse, but that the screen is ordered to enable the workmen to proceed without interruption. The officials are still satisfied that fillings of the hollow pillars will save the dome and make rebuilding unnecessary.

Recreations Made Great Come-back

Defeated "Y" Reds After Being Down in First Frame

Special to The Intelligencer

Coming from behind at the end of the first frame in which they were down 40 points, the Recreation Alleys team showed that they are pinch hitters of merit, getting down to business as proceeded to wipe off the deficit in the score and establish themselves in the money and ultimately the championship. In short, after losing the first string to the Y Reds they rallied about and annexed the remainder of the game with the result of 85 points in the good on the three strings it was quite apparent that several of the Wednesday bowling Reds were off color, for last night's game, particularly in their trajectory when several of their number literally, "Blew Up."

Report From Oshawa Sums Up Baseball Situation

A report from Oshawa on the coming C.O.B.L. season says:

"The teams comprising the senior Central Ontario Amateur Baseball League in their organization meeting on Wednesday night, with "a new broom sweeps clean" and on every executive of teams, new faces will be seen in charge of affairs, while in the league executive, seven out of the ten new men will be new. 2nd Vice-President H. T. McFadden, Peterboro; 3rd. Vice-President, F. North, Belleville; Secretary-Treasurer, N. W. Thompson, Belleville; executive members, F. J. Bates, Oshawa; Alex. Stevens, Kingston; Gordon Matthews, Peterboro and V. Welr, Belleville. The old faces still holding offices are: Past President M. P. Duff, Belleville; President, C. M. Anderson, and 1st. Vice-President, W. L. Kennedy, Kingston.

"In regards to the personnels of the different teams in the league Peterboro will likely be the main point of the Canadian General Electric, Lakeviews and old C.O.B.L. League players with "Cobber" Johnston as the management and and should be a first division team. Of new brave winners, Belleville is likely to trot out most of the oldtimers with a sprinkling of younger stuff, but hardly likely to try to go through another season of ten games a week with the one slab artist, which means that the wide wheeler Don Lerry, who has been side tracked the last couple of seasons, will get a chance and by the time the certificates are handed in to be passed on "a new man will come from undercover. Kingston is well fortified with players, but most of last year's list 16 choose from — now this Kingston C.O.B.L. team has been cased off—and some good inside material at last year knitted for a try out and a couple of new faces thrown in. Oshawa has all last year's intact and more than plenty of new material to round out a Central Ontario League winner. Out of the new stuff there are three teams in Oshawa claim five pressmen number to attach their John Henry's to certificates and inside dope states that villegal committees have been appointed to be present last service on Saturday, April 4th. when the certificate blanks of the senior and intermediate classification are handed out. When the Central Ontario Dunham and Oshawa Methodist Church representatives laid the blank slips there frontlines to be a merry chase for players and the Lord's Day Alliance will need to date Sunday one day ahead to stop the specters.

Good Average Scored At The Recreation

With Tail Enders Springing The Odd Surprise

The Night Hawks won from the Never Sweats at the Recreation Alleys yesterday morning in the Night Hawks league by 192 pins. Scott and Turner being high bowlers for their respective teams.

In the C. N. R. ladies league the Mic Macs won from the Quintie Di by over 400 pins. Mrs. Doll and Mrs. Moon were high bowlers for their teams.

In the junior league the Bankers fell before Mamby's team by nearly 100 pins. The Bankers got off to a bad start losing the first game by nearly 200 pins but in the second and third managed to win their games but not by enough pins to carry them through. High bowlers were Oster and Evans.

The C.N.R. league game between the Pencil Pushers and the Rattlers was won by the former team by nearly 100 pins. This loss puts the Rattlers in a bad fix as stanaway the top as they now have lost two games. Hannah and Rodsworth were high bowlers for their teams.

In the C.N.R. league it looks as if the Officials are coming back strong in the tail end of the league. Last night the Officials No. 2 won from the Section by 133 pins. The Officials got the jump on the first game by a few pins and won the next two games also, high bowlers were Chapman and Williams.

FALLS TEAM FACED WITH 2 GOAL LEAD

Montreal, March 11—Montreal Victorias, Quebec champions, will take a two-goal lead to Toronto on Thursday for the return game in the Allan Cup series semi-finals, having defeated Niagara Falls the senior O.H.A. winners, here tonight, 3 to 0, in one of the hardest fought games that ever came from the Village of Roar has been in this season. Not a goal was scored during the first fifty minutes of play though good chances were wasted by both teams.

The Falls were without Butch Kelterborn, their good left wing player, while the balance of the team showed the effects of the hard campaign they have been through this Winter. They lacked snap, failing to pick up passes from line players could not check back, except in the final few minutes of the opening period and the greater part of the defensive work was left to Kitchen and Fraser, and they played wonderful hockey — my few times during the entire game did Victorias work the puck inside being forced to do most of their shooting from a distance.

The Victorias had more speed than the Falls withBiz Slater and Siebert made by bank officials. Deposits also being the fastest skaters in the game—all an increase of nearly 30 percent. Slater played good hockey when on ice last year.

GETTING TOO FAT? TRY THIS—REDUCE

People who don't grow too fat are the fortunate exception. Don't be one of them. Instead, if you find the fat accumulating or already cumbersome, you will be wise to follow this prescription, which is endorsed by thousands of people who have used it. Ask your druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets and follow directions. One dollar is the price the world over. Get them from your home druggist or send price direct to Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit. Mich. By doing this you will be able to reduce steadily and easily, and pleasantly, without starvation, diet or tiresome exercise. Start taking them today and get slender.

Washington's birthday visitors spent $2,500,000 during the week-end at Atlantic City, according to a survey made by bank officials. Deposits also being the fastest skaters in the game—all an increase of nearly 30 percent. Slater played good hockey when on ice last year.

WEAK, LOST IN WEIGHT

WM. E. BRUSH

"Windsor, Ont.—For over six months I was in ill health—but not able to do a day's work. I got very weak and my weight could not eat, suffered from poor circulation, chilly all the time and had a slight cough. I doctored but still kept going down and everyone thought I was going into a decline. I finally began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and thru the use of this medicine I was completely restored to good health. I gained in weight, my circulation improved and I could eat. Then I went back to my work and never felt better. I have been a strong and healthy man ever since, which I owe to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."—William E. Brush, 450 Dougall Ave.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

The marquis, with Elaine on his arm and the major trotting behind him, made his way to the terrace.

"Dear me," said the major; "I'm afraid we've walked till the cruel Goodness knows when we shall get our refreshment."

"Let us walk, papa!" said Elaine. "Very well, my dear," assented the major readily. "Here is your carriage, marquis." he added as the Castle carriage drew up.

The marquis hesitated a moment.

"If you are going to walk, perhaps you will let me come with you," he said.

"Delighted!" said the major cheerily. "And he was."

"Don moment," said the marquis. He went to the carriage and took out a light for cloak. "There's a great difference between the temperature outside, here and in there," he said, and he put the cloak around Elaine.

She put up her hands to prevent him then let them fall, and accepted it with out a word.

As they left the lawn the major stopped and fumbled in his pocket.

"I'm dying for a cigar," he said, "but, yes, very sensible, very sensible eh?"

The marquis drew her arm within his while the major got out his cigar and lighted the major did not offer to take her back when the operation of lighting his cigar was completed. He was to the brightest and most cheerful of souls, and he declined socialism all the way.

"Capital ball! Great success! At ways is. I ought not to say it, seeing that I am one of the stewards but my pad! the affair was as well managed as it could possibly be."

The marquis drew her arm within his and pressed it against his heart. He could not have locked it, for a few minutes afterward Fanny locked it, till in her black lace dress, gliding past the library door, peered in, and seeing the room unoccupied, went in and looked round. Her sharp eyes saw the remains of the cigar on the table, the wristlet, and the flowers lying to c., she took up the blotting pad and looked at it. She saw the impression on the mantelshelf, managed to read a portion of the note the marquis had written to Lady Scott.

In replacing the blotting pad she noticed some of the clear ash resting on the edge of the drawer, and seeing it she came upon the miniature and the letter.

She looked at the first with a burning curiosity, which grew to fever heat as she read.

"Must have been a gold mine! Sharp young person had discovered lodging by the glitter of her eyes as she read the faded—quite faded—miniature—letter; and after a moment's hesitation she replaced the miniature only, and put the letter in her pocket.

writing table, wrote a short letter, and addressed it to "Lady Scott, Bath."

Then he lit a cigar and, still seated at the table, considered the thought for a time. But presently unlocking a drawer in front of him, he took out a miniature and a folded letter, and holding them in his hand, regarded them with a faraway look. The miniature represented a pretty girlish face; the letter was written in a woman's hand.

He read it and re-read it several times, and his features took on some fascination. Then suddenly he closed the case of the miniature and dropped it, as one drops the handful of earth in a coffin, into the drawer. Then he held the letter over the reading lamp, but as it began to burn he drew it back, and put it into the drawer with the miniature, and, as he thought, locked the drawer.

But he could not have locked it, for a few minutes afterward Fanny locked it, till in her black lace dress, gliding past the library door, peered in, and seeing the room unoccupied, went in and looked round. Her sharp eyes saw the remains of the cigar on the table, the wristlet, and the flowers lying to c., she took up the blotting pad and looked at it. PAINTED SLIPPERS VOGUE IN ENGLAND

London, March 11—Hand painted slippers for evening wear, which are the vogue just now, have created work for numerous artists who had never thought of doing anything of the kind before but who have found that this kind of painting pays them better than turning out pictures.

The novelty was introduced in London, by the popular Duchess of York who is one of the smartest, of the stylishly attired young women. The idea spread like wild fire and was quickly taken up by other society women.

The foundation of those shoes is satin, mostly in delicate shades, although there have been some exquisite models in old gold, bronze and black. On the toe cap, and tapering off along the sides, are painted sprays of the delicate shades to match the color of the satin.

STILL KEEP GUARD ON LLOYD GEORGE

More than once he has asked to be relieved of this supervision, but the surrounsel, mindful of what happened to Sir Henry Wilson immediately after police protection was withdrawn, has given a unwilling to take the risk.

Baree, Son of Kazan

—by—

James Oliver Curwood

(A Vitagraph Picture with Wolf, the Dog. In a succession of story.)

SYNOPSIS

Baree, son of Kazan and Gray Wolf, reached the climax in the first chapter of his adoption when he saw an owl snow-shoes and put a stop to that. Then the gray owl attacked Baree. The dog hunter he took in shelter, found out the owl imlicted its beak on Baree's ear... Baree's fangs closed on one of the owlet's tender feet and the dog's ear was freed. Together the antagonists fell into creek and the end of news.

It was about three o'clock in the afternoon, and the sun should still have been well up in the sky. But it was growing dusk in the forest and the strangeness and fear of it all lent greater speed to Baree's legs. In a second every little while to listen, and at one of these intervals heard a sound that drew from him a responsive and piteous whine. It was a distressful sound, a wolf's howl—straight ahead of him. Baree was not thinking of wolves but of Kazan and he was filled with the spirit of the forest until he was winded, then he stopped and panted for a time. The wolf-howl did not come again, but it was enough to drive from the west a deep and thunderous rumble. Through the tree tops ahead flashed a vivid streak of lightning. A moaning whisper of wind rode in advance of the storm; the thunder grew nearer; and a second flash of lightning seemed searching Baree out where he stood shivering under the unexpected great source.

At first Baree could hardly stand. His legs were cramped; every bone in his body seemed to be aching. Never was still where the blood had run out of it and hardened, and when he tried to walk his legs responded only to give a sharp little yap of pain. It such a thing were possible, he was feeling worse than he felt. His hair had dried in muddy matting and was still matted from end to end; and where yesterday he had been plump and shiny, he was now as thin and wretched as misfortune could possibly make him. And he was hungry. He had never before known what it was to be so terribly hungry.

When he went on, continuing in the direction he had been following yesterday, he sniffed along in a disheartened sort of way. His eyes and ears were no longer alert, and his curiosity was gone. He had but one only stomach-hungry; mother-hunger. He was beginning to understand for something to eat. He wanted his mother as he had never wanted her before in his life. He wanted to rear his shivering body close and close up to her and feel the warm caressing of her tongue and listen to the mothering crooning of her voice. And he wanted Kazan, and the old windfall, and that big blue spot that was in the sky right over it. While he followed on along the edge of the creek; he whimpered for them as a child might grieve.

The forest grew more open after a time and the darkness let him up a little. Also the warmth of the sun was taking the ache out of his body. It was the first time in his existence he had depended entirely on Kazan and Gray Wolf for food. His parents had, in some ways, made a great baby of him. Gray Wolf's blindness he counted for this, for since his birth she had not taken up her hunting with Kazan, and it was quite natural that Baree should stick close to her, though more than once he had been filled with a great yearning to follow his father. Nature was hard at work trying to overcome its handicaps; it was struggling to impress on Baree that its time had not come when he must seek his own food.

With the thinning out of the fir ect the creek grew more shallow. I ran along a bar of sand and stones, and Baree began to nose along the edge of these. For a long time he did not discover the crayfish that he saw were exceedingly like little lobsters, and all the clear shells were shut so tight that even Kazan's powerful jaws would have had difficulty in smashing them. I soon, however, Baree caught his first crayfish, about as big as a man's forefinger. He devoured it ravenously with the fresh juice and flesh one sqr. He caught two more crayfish during the afternoon.

With the approach of night Baree's fears and grief-loneliness returned. Before the day had quite gone he found himself a shelter under a big rock, where there was a warm, soft bed of moss and leaves. Here with Nepeuskeewe, he had travelled a long distance, and the rock under which he made his bed the night was a huge slab of stone from the windfall. It was in the open of the creek-bottom, with the fire for out of spruce and cedars close on either side. Above the moon rose and the stars filled the sky. Baree could feel about over the waffle of the stone, shimmering in a glow almost as bright as day. Close in front of him, running to the water's edge, was a huge carpet of white sand. Across the sand the wolf and starry light he could hear.

Until Baree had seen the others at play in the creek, his conceptions of the world had been very limited. Even now his mind was crowded with the strangeness of owls and crayfish, and the things that the others had not frightened him, because he had become used to them for size, and Nekik was not half as big as Kazan. But the latter was a monster beside which Kazan was a pygmy. He was big. If Baree had stopped to think of it introducing Barree to the fact that then were more important creatures in the forests than dogs and wolves and crayfish, and the size of things. The bear with a little more than necessary emphasis. Wakayoss, the bear, weighed six hundred pounds if he weighed an ounce. He was fat and sleek from long sleep. The hair on his big head coat was like black velvet in the sunshine, and he moved with a curious rolling motion with his head swaying low. The moment when he stopped broadside in the carpet of white sand, he looked like a big black under which Baree was reliving as if he had in his size.

Baree was terrified. And Wakayoss had caught scent of him in the air, and with his head low and his nose down he's breathing—caught the stench of Baree. He had not discovered eyes as they swung suspiciously, to and fro. Baree knew that Kazan would have known then that he—his insignificant little self—was making that terrible noise. Kazan would have told him that he should have given a yelp of joy, and then, in spite of his size, was a slouchiest of a coward when it came to wolves. Baree carried himself with scent. It grew stronger in Wakayoss' nose; and just then a bit of incense whatever nervousness was was growing in him like a fever. Now out of the forest behind him a long and wailing howl.

With an audible grunt, Wakayoss moved on. Wolves were pests, he argued. They wouldn't stand up and fight. They'd snap and yap at one's heels for hours at a time, and were always out of the way quicker than a wink when one turned on them. What was the use of hanging around where there were wolves? Baree's instinct might like this? He lumbered on decisively. Baree could hear him splashing heavily through the water —the reward of internal cleanliness.

Health and good looks

IF YOU do not keep clean internally your health and appearance will suffer together. A clogged intestine breeds poisons that reach every part of the body. These poisons ruin the complexion and undermine health. Constipation brings on such ailments as headaches, bilious attacks and insomnia, each of which saps your health and vitality.

Avoid Laxatives—say Doctors

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, they are but authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition.

Medical science has found at last in lubricating cleanse of internal constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus enables its passage through and out of the body. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless.

Take Nujol regularly and adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. For sale by all druggists.

CITY OF AMSTERDAM SOON 850 YEARS OLD

Amsterdam, Holland, March 11.—Great preparations are afoot to celebrate the 850th anniversary this year of Amsterdam's status as a city. It was in the year 1275 that the monastery still preserved in its first cloister as one from Floris V. Count of Holland.

The center of attraction is to be an exhibition in the famous Ryks Museum and the City Museum of all paintings, prints, sculptures and other works of art having relaxation, in Amsterdam during the past six and a half centuries.

In addition to such famous Rembrandt as "The Night Watch" and the "Staalmeesters," many others by the same master will be brought from Paris, Berlin and other European capitals, having been temporarily loaned for the occasion.

More Laughs Are On The Way Here

Potash and Perlmutter Will Arrive at Griffin's Thursday

Fifteen years ago, Montague Glass, seated in a tiny restaurant in the heart of the cloak and suit district of New York City, idled away a lunch hour and watched the waiters serve food to the three two of the most famous characters of American literature. Some late bonanza in the fertile creative mind of a young lawyer-novelist. He went away and worked for weeks. And then the Abery public, and eventually the entire world, was formally introduced to Messrs. Potash and Perlmutter.

Then, two argumentative partners, inspired by the people Glass saw and the bewildering debates he listened to during that noon hour many years ago, have to their credit a library and their names with people of practically every nation of the globe. Every language, including the Scandinavian, has heard their laborious debates, and loved every minute of the hearing. Potash and Perlmutter in movies many short stories written by Mr. Glass and through five plays have gained international and everlasting fame. And yet their renown is increasing and their appeal has never lessened.

Today Potash and Perlmutter are in the movies. And not only in the movies but in the movies as well. Their silver movie producers, and the trials and tribulations of their latest business venture is the subject of Samuel Goldwyn's production of "Partners with Potash and Perlmutter," the First National Picture which will be the main attraction at the Griffin Theatre on Thursday.

The picture is an adaptation of the play, "Business Before Pleasure," which has been transferred to the screen by Frances Marion. Alexander Carr, and George Sidney of "Potash and Perlmutter" fame, and Perlmutter, and others in the cast are Betty Bird, Myrtle Gonzalez, Belle Bennett, Andrew Randolf, Percy Shaw, David Butler and Joseph W. Girard.

Allowed The Cards To Decide Fate

Evidently Lost at Solitaire And Then Shot Himself

Detroit, March 11—A turn of the cards in a solitaire game of mysterious, decided James H. Walker to end his life, it was believed by those who found his body in the Roosevelt Hotel here today, police said.

Walker was a member of an old Virginia family. When found, he had 28 cards in his pocket.

Walker, who had received a letter from his attorney informing him his leases had failed at St. Joseph, Michigan, was found sprawled across a table littered with cards, whose arrangement indicated that he had played a solitaire game. He was dead from the bullet of a .32-calibre revolver. Seven cigaret stubs were scattered about the floor.

Police believe that after receiving the letter Walker debated through the night, unable to decide whether he should commit suicide. It is thought that he finally left the decision to the cards. Losing he took the small rifle from his trunk and sent a bullet into his brain.

If Back Or Kidneys Ache Drink Water

DRINK FREELY AND OFTEN TO FLUSH THE KIDNEYS, ALSO TAKE SALTS

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or side; headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to get relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to stop kidney backache and flush off the body's urinous waste, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean, stir and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. By all means have your kidneys examined when your kidneys at least twice a year.

Nurse and Farmer Acted Strangely After Hours Of Prayer

Wingham, March 11—To be found in the unique charge, "Dangerous to let it large" the case of Mrs. Annie Heylands (Wallace), who instigated the burning of 10 hogs on the farm of Earl Underwood, as a burnt offering, was heard this morning in police court by adjourned until March 17, when it will be tried in the town hall at Wingham.

The accused appeared yesterday afternoon before Magistrate Reid of Goderich. Mr. Underwood was represented by Mr. Bennett, Anders Randolf, Percy Shaw, David Butler and Joseph W. Girard.

Dante's Inferno Coming To Belle

Hundreds of Girls Represent Lost Souls of Sinning Women

Bank call for beautiful, shapely young girls and Delia ...ming who fail that even Hollywood, the home of the unshod and unashamed, could not look coldly—and respond. That call came from the William Fox studios, and meant that Henry Otto was about to begin "shooting" some of the hig scenes in Dante Alighieri's famed of the Italian poet's classical allegory.

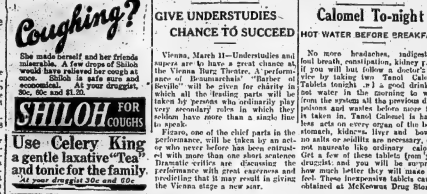

So out of the screen called for the appearance of hundreds of girls to represent the lost souls of women who sinned since during their earthly life and who were consigned to the lowest circle of Hell for punishment. To the credit of the cast it should be said that they didn't fear punishment—as the real little bit for they fairly swamped the screen in their scenes. Big ones, little ones fat and thin ones, high-brow and low-brow or what not, and all yearning to go too—well, the place that Mr. Dante had pictured to make famous And once they got their "siren" instincts" they permeated a night that was good for Klotz even. And speaking of the scenes in which these lovely ladies appeared, there is said to be a kick in every one.

"Dante's Inferno," the Fox production will begin a run at the Belle Theatre tomorrow and will continue until Saturday night.

GIVE UNDERSTUDIES CHANCE TO SUCCEED

Vienna, March 11—Understudies and supers are to get a fresh chance at the Vienna Burg Theatre. A performance of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Scrieve" will be given for charity in April, and the leading parts will be taken by persons who ordinarily play very secondary roles in which they seldom have more than a single line to speak.

Pizaro, one of the chief parts in the performance, will be taken by an actor who never before has been entrusted with more than one short sentence Hamlet's critics are discussing the performance with great eagerness and predicting that it may result in giving the Vienna stage a new star.

Victoria Marks New Steamer's Arrival by Dinner to Pioneer of Coast Shipping

Group of Canadian Pacific Officials photographed on board the S.S. Princess Kathleen at Victoria, B.C.—Left to right: Captain W. Robertson, marine superintendent, Canadian Pacific Railway Co., Victoria; Captain W. Grant, Victoria; Captain H. W. McKay-Wood, Victoria; Captain J. W. Troup, general manager, eastern lines, and Captain C. D. Newton, marine superintendent B.C. Coast Steamship Service, Victoria; Captain W. Parker, Victoria; Captain J. Cox, Victoria; Captain W. Hall, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Montreal; and C. H. Tranvie, chief of marine power, Montreal. The S.S. Princess Kathleen, which was launched at Victoria on February 14, is the latest addition to the Canadian Pacific Railway's steamship service between Victoria, Vancouver and Seattle. The vessel is a handsome new building which does not detract from the beauty of the water front.

The arrival of the new Canadian Pacific coastal steamer Princess Kathleen at Victoria, B.C., at the end of her lengthy trip from the Clyde, Scotland, where she was built, was made a public event by the residents of that city. Crowds met the ship when she steamed into the harbor, and the occasion was marked by a civic dinner to Captain J. W. Troup, general manager of the Far British Columbia Coast Service, which was attended by two hundred citizens. The big event was the sign of the city to present, as well as representatives of the Provincial Government. The steamer was welcomed by Vice-President Grant Hall, K. J. Scully, general passenger agent here, and W. R. Callbeck, M.P. Officials and equipment, who crossed Canada with Mr. Troup on the special train, also participated in the welcoming lines. Winnipeg, As a recognition of the many years of service rendered in the building of Victoria, Captain Troup was presented with the freedom of the city. Captain Troup told the history of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co.'s steamship service since 1901, when the company's first steamer, the Princess Victoria, was put in service. At that time the company had a capital of $250,000, whereas, at the present time it has $65,000,000. The total of the expenditures in Victoria for equipment, wages, etc., since the company's inception is $55,000,000, of which the Canadian Pacific runs to $15,000,000. Captain Troup concluded by remarking that

Woman Is Owner Of Largest Ranch

Henrietta King Has Over Million Acres in Texas

Kingsville, Tex., March 11—In a lovely palace ranch house, 150 miles from her front gate, Henrietta Morrita M. King, owner of the largest ranch in the world.

For those hurry-by-trains-one-ride-another-car ranch-visited folk, a three hour journey is about twice the last frame-work of her vast, estate of 1,000,000 acres.

The ranch comprises 1,250,000 acres and stretches through seven Texas counties. A grazing ground for 500,000 head of cattle, the estate is conservatively estimated as worth $50,000,000.

A Thrilling Story

How this great ranch was acquired within the space of one lifetime is one of the thrilling stories of the Southwest.

But quite as remarkable is Mrs. King's city—Kingsville—known to tourists as the "Garden of Eden," a thriving place where 5,000 persons live, located in the dead center of this great ranch.

At Mrs. King's palatial ranch home —a mansion of Spanish beauty—one hears the story of the "second ranch" War back in the 30's little Henrietta Chamberlain came from Missouri to Brownsville, Tex., with her father, the Rev. A. J. Chamberlain, a Presbyterian missionary.

There Henrietta met and married an adventurous, lieutenant-of-a-young steamboat captain, Richard King, whose small craft plied up and down the Rio Grande River.

Lands Were Cheap

In those days lands could be leased cheaply and a small herd could be purchased without funds. Land frauds and danger of Mexican attacks however, required many personal conferences.

Slowly Mr. King increased their holdings until they had taken in so much land that it was necessary to call the Twenty-sixth U. S. Infantry to stand guard over the great ranch to repel Mexican attacks.

Five children—two sons and three daughters—came to the King home. All are now married except one daughter, Alice, who many years ago married Robert J. Kleberg, of Corpus Christi, now general manager of the ranch.

There are 19 grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

Many varieties of cattle graze on the broad expanse of the ranch. Among the breeds are some the sacred Brahma, imported from the Ganges. The one outstanding is the Monkey, which represents one of the latest strains from the Island of Jersey.

Railroad Is Built

Three are built that have sold for $25,000 to $50,000—prize winners every where.

Sixteen years ago the last 34 travel by team from Corpus Christi to the Mexican border. Now King offered land for a railroad, which was built, and resulted in a $100,000 depot for Kingsville—her town.

She built schools, hired teachers, erected a hotel. All these she placed at the disposal of those lucky enough to buy the small parcels of land which she had platted on the market.

Kingsville citizens now own their own $170,000 school house plant and their $230,000 waterworks.

Palatial Home

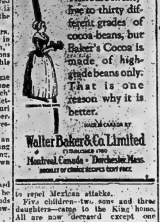

Her palatine ranch home, "Santa Gertrudis," is lavishly furnished.

Architects, painters and landscape gardeners have they sent in swarming the hill-three miles west of Kingsville, with the Spanish motif-ish villas.

Mrs. King is now in her third year and an invalid. No lands are being sold from the estate at present.

It is believed that following her death the great ranch will be sold by the heirs for land values and this vast empire which has so long been out of the commercial places of the world will be dotted with farm homes.

Landlord Sued His Tenant At Kingston

Asked $80.44 Damages, Alleging Failure to Turn Off Water

Kingston, March 11—Failure of a tenant to turn off the water in the house he was vacating caused a suit in Division Court before Judge Madden yesterday morning, when John H. Nolan sued Henry Milligan for $80.44, judgment being reserved by the judge.

It was alleged that Milligan vacated the house, giving notice on January 2nd, instead of on December 30th, and was therefore liable for a month's rent, because of not giving proper notice. It was also alleged that he left the water running in the house, and that this caused considerable damage, the plaintiff claiming that the house was flooded and that holes had to be bored in the floor to let the water run into the cellar.

The defendant, through his counsel, A. B. Cunningham, K.C., admitted that he was perhaps liable for the month's rent, but stated that on January 3rd the landlord told him to leave the water on. The house in question is one of a row, and if the water was turned off it would stop the water in the other houses, they being all supplied through the one main. The defendant claimed no negligence in the case.

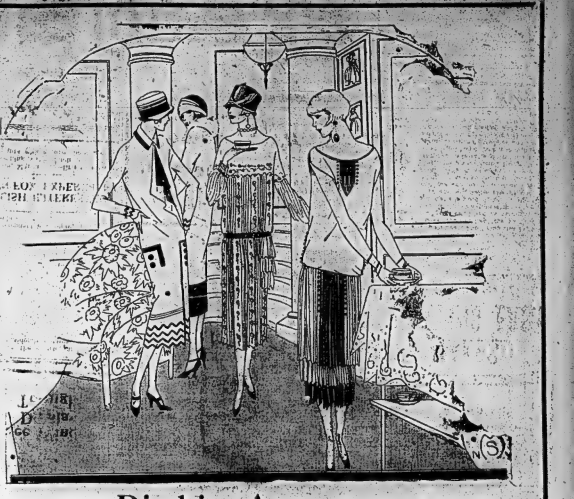

The defendant was represented by W. M. Nickle.

ENGLISH INTERESTED IN FOX EXPERIMENT

London, March 11—British farmers are watching with much interest the experiments which are being made here in an effort to make silver fox farming in England a paying proposition.

Farms have been started at Alness in Scotland, and Oxfordshire and Berkshire.

What effect this move will have on the price of silver fox fur in Great Britain cannot at present be stated, but it has been proved during the last 15 years that the best and most costly examples of the silver fox are those of animals bred in captivity. The foxes have been brought here from Canada.

GOOD HEALTH MAKES HOUSEKEEPING EASY

Thousands of Women have restored their Health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Nova Scotia Housewife Writes Bloomington, Amoskeag Co., N.S.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for pains and backache, also for nervousness, sick headaches and sleeplessness. I was troubled in this way for over a year and a friend told me about the Vegetable Compound and induced me to take it. I must say I received great benefit from it and am able to do my housework now. I recommend the Vegetable Compound myself and am willing for you to use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. WILLIAM MORSE, Bloomington, Amoskeag Co., N. S.

'Always Helps Me

Cape Sable Island, N. S.—"Backache was my trouble and I would suffer so at times that I could hardly straighten up when I got over and I would have to lie down and could get work. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and told me to try it, and I did. I got good results from it. It has helped me a lot. I am sure I could not do without a bottle of it in the house. I got no results from other medicines, but this always helps me. My husband is greatly pleased. He says I look better than I did and my friends tell me the same. I recommend it to my friends and I am willing for you to use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. CORBETT HOCKEN, South Side, Cape Sable Island, Nova Scotia.

For sale by nearly all druggists.

Mrs. Kidd's Letter to Woman

Crandall, Manitoba. "When I was a young girl at home and working I had terrible pains, almost more than I could bear, and I was not regular. These troubles kept me so tired all the time that I had no strength and no ambition to join in with my friends and have a good time. I was just tired and miserable always and life just seemed as if it wasn't worth living. I saw so much in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then I had a friend who had taken it and told me about it, so I got some. Every month after taking it I grew stronger and I soon did not suffer every month. I enjoyed the pains and helped me in other ways. Now since my babies are coming I was tired and worn out the first three months and ached badly. I took the Vegetable Compound right along and must say it made a new woman of me and able to do my work, and it helped me through confinement. You see I am a farmer's wife with a big home to look after, and three babies now. I have told everso many women about your medicine. Just last week I got a letter from my old chum in the East. Her baby was born fifteen days before mine, and she told me she was not feeling very well, her back aches so much, and asked me if going to take the same medicine I took. You can see by letter and how soon one will be helped by it."—Mrs. JOSEPH H. KIDD, Box 56, Crandall, Manitoba.

MAY FINISH UP MURDER TRIAL LATE TO-NIGHT

Crown Rested Case in Thaki Charge at Noon

LITTLE TOT SPEAKS

Tells Court She Saw Accused Pounding With Hammer

When the hearing of all evidences of George Lane was concluded at 12.45 o'clock noon, Judge Ardagh, at the Crown's request, adjourned, as the defence commenced this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

C. R. Frost, Crown prosecutor, addressed evidence during Wednesday and this morning which rounded out a complete case for the Crown. His work will not be easy, the fact that many men witnessing pounding Thaki Singh and a few requiring the services of John Aikman, the interpreter, testifying his work tedious. Either method is slower than the usual procedure.

C. A. Payne, defence counsel, has sworn evidence and has missed no opportunities with his exhaustive cross examination. This afternoon he commenced his defence.

It is doubtful if the case will be concluded today. It may probably conclude today, but it will doubtless be night time before the last witness has been put in, the jury addressed by Crown Prosecutor and defence counsel, the jury instructed in the law by His Lordship, and the verdict returned.

The court room was well filled before the opening of Sergt. Sergal and Chief Constable Mr. Justice Kelly at 9.30 visited the jail.

William Cracknell, was first witness this morning. He speaks good English. He was at the jail on the 28th of December 22nd but, returned to Point Anne on the same day. He saw Thaki Singh at 11 o'clock in the morning.

"When I saw Thaki Singh," Thaki was sitting on a chair in our house. Sergal sold me this, see what they have done." (Exhibit No. 1).

"What's measured it?"

"Me, he."

"What form?"

"Broken stick. He hit me."

Sergal they were sent to Gurnish's. Sergal, Cracknell, Lane, Thaki, Mrs. Shymanchyn, Mr. Shymanchyn, and Sandy. The blood was on the floor, and hands. He returned 10 or 15 minutes afterwards and had now and bleeding on them. There was more blood on his face. Mother, Shymanchyn's mother came in next present when he came back the second time.

Sergal asked if he could go upstairs and sleep, but Mrs. Prokaski would not allow him to go, because all the dishes plates were made about him and blood was found in other part of the house.

"Sergal said, "Alright," and took the door."

On cross examination witness told Mr. Payne Sergal came to the house at the same time. Sergal had not told witness time. Sergal had not told witness where Alec had hit him.

Willie Shymanchyn, ten-year-old, son of Edward Shymanchyn was sworn after carefully questioned and instructed by Mr. Justice Kelly as to the seriousness of an oath.

Son of Thaki Singh

Willie Thaki of seeing Sergal Monday morning about 8 o'clock. He was down south of the house. He told the boy to get for his father. The boy went and told his Nick did not come. The boy went again under Sergal's instruction. Nick came and he went back to get his hat, then came out. Sergal then told the boy to go to the house. Sergal saw Alec. Nick told the boy Alec was sleeping. Alec was white. Alec came out of the house and Sam Gurnick took him back into the house. The boy started to feed the pig.

Then was blood on Sergal's face, forehead and hands, around 9 o'clock, and after they left the yard. Sergal went into Gurnick's house.

Despite the objection of Mr. Payne, which was overruled, witness told Mr. Frost of seeing a hammer in his father's possession having used it to try and hammer a pair of shales on.

The boy stated he knew the hammer exhibit who identified it by 4 marks on the handle.

On Monday Dec. 22nd, Sergal had the hammer in his right pants pocket; the boy continued the handle protruding.

Mr. Frost, "what, if anything, did Sergal say to you at that time?"

Witness—"He said, in Rome they hit him in the face. In Russia you give him one big and he's gone."

Around one o'clock Alec came into our house and Mamma came in later. Alec wanted dinner as mamma gave it to him and he went upstairs. Later he boy went into the woodshed, he said and the hammer was not on the table where he had left it.

There were no marks on Alec's face when he went upstairs.

Mr. Payne who was read from records of the preliminary trial the boy admitted but he was not certain that it was on Monday, Dec. 22nd he saw the piece of wood in Sergal's pocket.

Mr. Justice Kelly—"Did you see you saw the mark on the hammer while it was in Sergal's pocket?"

Witness—"Yes."

Mr. Payne—"The police have been down to see you several time have they not?"

Willie—"Yes."

Put It On Paper

Mr. Payne—"Did they put things down on paper for you to remember in giving the inquest evidence?"

Willie—"Yes."

Mr. Payne—"Did they put things down for your mother to remember?"

Willie—"Yes."

Mr. Payne—"Have the police spoken to you about that?"

Willie—"Yes, after supper the day Alec was killed. Sergal asked about the hammer and I told him Kathleen found the hammer."

To Mr. Frost—Witness said Sergal was the two feet from him when he talked to him. He also told of Sergeant Sie writing in his book and, later, the officer keeping the book.

Cecil Reid told of entering the Gurnish house on December 22nd about 2.45 o'clock, where he talked with Mrs. Shymanchyn and Kathleen Annie, two babies and a pack pedlar were there. Sergal came in and sat down and conversed in foreign tongue with Mrs. Shymanchyn. Sergal then went outdoors. He came back in a few minutes and in the meantime Mrs. Schymanchyn went into the bedroom and brought out a pair of shoes which Sergal returned and went upstairs with them. Sergal came down, Mrs. Shymanchyn came out and paid the pedlar for the shoes. Mrs. Shymanchyn spoke to Annie in their language and Annie went upstairs. She was upstairs about two minutes when she returned and Mrs. Shymanchyn then went upstairs and returned. "Come Cecil." Cecil Reid, a disabled war veteran, left the house with Sergal and Mrs. Shymanchyn followed him out.

To Mr. Payne, witness stated that Sergal seemed to be sober. He did not appear to be quarrelsome anything. When he came in he had his hands in his sweater or coat pocket and it was open. The witness did not see a hammer in his pocket.

House Mistrust Testifies

Mrs. Mary Shymanchyn is whose home Alec, was formerly lived, was told of Alec having boarded at her house. Sergal came to house Monday, Dec. 22nd, and Sergal, two babies, Kathleen Sergal now Alec slept in the house Sunday night. Sergal and Alec took bad rose to Nick Gurnick's house. She testified in English.

Witness first saw Alec on Monday to be about 1, 1 p.m. He was sitting at the table when witness came in. He had his head down and was apparently asleep, and did not come down again. On Monday morning she saw Alec and Sergal at 9 o'clock. "If, nose was bleeding. Sergal told Alec to come in the house. He or three times before dinner. Sergal then told Alec to go and he came he was mad and bleeding."

"You next saw Alec until 4 o'clock when my man comes," witness said to the interpreter and he told her to go home.

Witness agreed with Reid's description as to events following Sergal's entry to the house on the afternoon of the afternoon. Sergal was mad and swears in his own language.

"I said 'Sergal, Sergal, you sit down here,' and Sergal sat down. He sat down. I say you wash your hands, and he say he was alright.

Then he went outside. After she paid the pedlar she went to the bedroom and heard slow walking upstairs not too hard as she looked. Sergal

"What's upstairs?"

The little girl said, "Sergal." I then sent Annie upstairs to see and she shortly ed within a minute or two. I then ran upstairs; Sergal was in the top there I could see the whole room.

A Graphic Story

"I saw Alec lying on the bed on his right side facing towards me," she said. Sergal was standing on the floor right over the middle of the bed of Alec Cer Alec's head. Sergal held a hammer in his right hand, and he his Alec on the jaw. Then was the girl screamed the alarm by shouting, which brought Kathleen Prokaski who came to

George Lane at one time foreman of the Canada Cereal Co., Peterboro, Ontario Drying department, knew Alec 6 months year Sergal 3 years, he testified to day. Lane was looking for Sergal on Dec. 22nd to see if he was coming to work. Sergal did not. The was about 4 or 4.10 p.m. Monday afternoon. That was at the time of the murder at the house where Sergal was, and on going Sergal's home, Lane met Sergal and Dr. Robertson.

CHICAGO MARKET

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, March 12—Largely because of relative firmness of Liverpool quotations wheat market here strengthened today after irregular dealings. Offerings were light and were readily taken up. Strength also was taken of announcement that with the exception of one year's shipment of domestic wheat shipped and to be shipped, export sales have been negligible, has this season been largest on record. Opening quotations which ranged from 3-3c. decline to 3-4c. advance, were followed by moderate gains all around, with a fair smashing of a reaction. Corn was easier, considerable selling being done on the part that present stock are more than sufficient for the demand. After opening unchanged to 1-2c. higher, prices sagged all around to well below yesterday's finish. Oats displayed comparative strength, influenced by reports that farm use of oats had been unusually large this season, also for corn. Starting at 3.3c. off to 1-8c. up; oats values showed lesser changes, but underwent a reaction on hogs gave decided list to pro-Yiaions.

BRITAIN CAN'T GIVE SUPPORT TO PROTOCOL

Austen Chamberlain Tells The League of Nations To-day

CANADA AGREES TOO

All British Countries Voice Their Objections, Speaker Says

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Geneva, March 12—The position taken by Canada and other self-governing units of the British Empire was explained by Austen Chamberlain, Great Britain's secretary for foreign affairs, in the course of his long-heralded discussion on the famous pact for security and disarmament before the council of League of Nations to-day.

One of the most important features of Mr. Chamberlain's address, which pleased British observers, was that telegraphic communication with British Dominions and India show that Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Union of South Africa and India were also unable to accept the protocol.

After emphasizing the sympathy that existed between the British Empire with any effort to improve international machinery for the world peace, Mr. Chamberlain said that successive administrations in Great Britain with full approval of self governing dominions had always had in theory favored arbitration, which was one of the features of the protocol but had practised it.

Mr. Chamberlain, continued Mr. Chamberlain, Great Britain saw insuperable objection to signing and ratifying protocol in its present shape. This seemed because the list of cases which it submitted for the purposes the protocol was in-complete and, more, or was opposed in principle to the idea of compulsion in framing of the League of Nations covenant or strengthening its provisions.

"Amendment and interpretation may be necessary before protocol can play effective part in the future organization of Chamber Crowded

All seats available to the public were eagerly taken up and the spacious chamber was packed when Austen Chamberlain, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, rose to announce Britain's stand on Geneva world peace and disarmament protocol.

Much disappointment has been caused by the publication locally of a cartoon depicting the funeral of the protocol, the coffin is pictured as being inferred by South Africa, New Zealand, Australia and Canada, who are represented by figures in national costumes. Chamberlain, in the other Empire Dominions, and Secretary General of league surrounded by a group of mourners, one of whom is Premier Mussolini.

Spring Opening at Ritchie's Limited

Where New Goods Are Displayed in all Their Splendor

Spring Opening Day at Ritchie's came with a fine clear day, well suited to the floating color schemes found within the store. The place has taken on a new appearance with the effect moved to a spacious, bright part of the second floor, and the second floor has been turned into an attractive home furnishing and drapery department.

Ritchie's show windows are a masterpiece in the art of window decorating. In one window there is mildly peeping out of a "bed" here with the latest creation in millinery on her head, while in another window adjoining are displayed the latest in men's attire. The other two large windows are also tastefully and effectively dressed.

From the windows right through the store to the top floor there are novel things which prove fascinating and attractive.

The front of the store is given over to glove and hosiery, all kinds of new silks and fabrics, including the French blue pattern, dainty nighties and a complete assortment of all small dry goods.

The new lines in the millinery department which is supervised by Mr. Clowes, Belleville, present the most pleasant surprises. They feature distinctive social touches, provided in multitudes of small and large flowers for hat, day shaped motifs and ribbons of all kinds and descriptions.

The Rainsford model hat—a milan crown; the faille satin showed Tyrolean influence, and the new Tyrolean trim of bows and milan, with a black and silver buckle. This was made in black.

Sold on the Spot

An outstanding hat was one of Ori manufacture. Made of faille, it was worn off the face, "hat-shaped" in Mauve and white flowers were cut-out felt and hand-stitched on the brim, now blind fixured on the front. A blue faciny completed this distinctive hat and while a representative from the Intelligencer was present this morning it was sold.

The new Home Furnishings Department on the second floor is delightful in comfortable looking. Rich looking chesterfield suites, curtains and drapes are featured here.

The Ritchie floor is devoted to furniture and carpets, and this is all new stock. A pretty outfit table and chairs suitable for a breakfast or dining room consisted of solid reed furnishing with gold and black trimming. A Chesterfield suite of old blue, cut velour was pleasing.

Ensemble suits and bouffles were also featured and seen in the cloak department, as well as colorful dresses for every occasion. Short skirts are extremely modish, and for the real

SEVEN BABIES UNDER YEAR DIED IN MONTH

Vital statistics for Belleville during the month of February were 17 births, 7 deaths, 2 of which were under 1 year, 2 marriages and ten deaths, of which 7 were under one year.

On classifying deaths 2, Wilford Hamilton, 7 days, premature birth; 1 born, 2 were under one year and 5 were over 60 years of age.

Statistics for February 1924 were: births 36, marriages 13, deaths 27.

Spring Opening Day at Ritchie's came with a fine clear day, well suited to the floating color schemes found within the store. The place has taken on a new appearance with the effect moved to a spacious, bright part of the second floor, and the second floor has been turned into an attractive home furnishing and drapery department.

Ritchie's show windows are a masterpiece in the art of window decorating. In one window there is mildly peeping out of a "bed" here with the latest creation in millinery on her head, while in another window adjoining are displayed the latest in men's attire. The other two large windows are also tastefully and effectively dressed.

From the windows right through the store to the top floor there are novel things which prove fascinating and attractive.

The front of the store is given over to glove and hosiery, all kinds of new silks and fabrics, including the French blue pattern, dainty nighties and a complete assortment of all small dry goods.

The new lines in the millinery department which is supervised by Mr. Clowes, Belleville, present the most pleasant surprises. They feature distinctive social touches, provided in multitudes of small and large flowers for hat, day shaped motifs and ribbons of all kinds and descriptions.

The Rainsford model hat—a milan crown; the faille satin showed Tyrolean influence, and the new Tyrolean trim of bows and milan, with a black and silver buckle. This was made in black.

Sold on the Spot

An outstanding hat was one of Ori manufacture. Made of faille, it was worn off the face, "hat-shaped" in Mauve and white flowers were cut-out felt and hand-stitched on the brim, now blind fixured on the front. A blue faciny completed this distinctive hat and while a representative from the Intelligencer was present this morning it was sold.

The new Home Furnishings Department on the second floor is delightful in comfortable looking. Rich looking chesterfield suites, curtains and drapes are featured here.

The Ritchie floor is devoted to furniture and carpets, and this is all new stock. A pretty outfit table and chairs suitable for a breakfast or dining room consisted of solid reed furnishing with gold and black trimming. A Chesterfield suite of old blue, cut velour was pleasing.

Ensemble suits and bouffles were also featured and seen in the cloak department, as well as colorful dresses for every occasion. Short skirts are extremely modish, and for the real

COMPULSORY GOLF

Golf is undeniably making tremendous strides.

There is no forecasting where the spread will end, particularly if the advancement takes the turn it has achieved in Chicago, where golf has become an entire course at Lake View High School with a class of seventy pupils under the tutelage of a professional and the plan may spread to all the high schools in Chicago, it was said by the principal, Charles B. Fearing, who has advocated golf as an exercise in schools in place of the usual gymnastics. It is only a few years since golf began to take hold on universities and now it is a major sport in many American colleges with intercollegiate contests regularly played, such as that between McGill and Varsity, the big Canadian colleges. The same growth in high schools is predicted. Amber Anderson, a Scotch professional, has been assigned to teach the Lake View golf class. Regular grades will be given.

NOW—AND THEN

Calvin Coolidge is again formally installed as the President of the United States. On this occasion he comes to his responsibility by an overwhelming vote of the people of the country.

Until the late President Harding was suddenly called by death, the name Coolidge was not very much known outside of the Republic. It was known and respected in New England, Even in the United States outside of that part of the New England States Calvin Coolidge was not a commanding figure. He was a Republican who had made good in various public positions. As Vice-President he was, however, more in the shadows than in the sunlight of public life.

A change came when President Harding passed away, in the old New England home of the Coolidge family an unique ceremony took place. There the oil lamp was lighted, the family Bible was taken down and Calvin Coolidge was sworn in as President of the United States by his father, who happed to be a justice of the peace. Thus Calvin Coolidge came to office as Chief Executive of a great nation. It is to be said of him that he has proved to be a man of quality. The proof is to be found in the remarkable endorsement of men and policies which the electors registered last November.

Simplicity is said to have characterized the ceremonies of inauguration on Wednesday last. The President is a man of simple habits. But he has strong convictions. If he succeeds in impressing those convictions on the nation during his terms of office, now begun, he will go down in history as one of the great Presidents of the United States.

It is not uninteresting to contrast the Coolidge simplicity of 1925 with the gorgeousness of George Washington inaugurals in former years. In 1789, Washington made a triumphal journey from Mount Vernon to New York for his inaugural. He was a veritable Beau Brummell, adorned with white silk hose and shoe buckles of silver; hair powdered; and begging a steel hilted dress sword. Four years later he was sworn in at Philadelphia. He was taken to the place of the inaugural in a coach drawn by six superb white horses. His personal adornment included a suit of black velvet, diamond knee buckles and hat with the American cockade. Fancy Calvin Coolidge coming to his inaugural in such royal style!

Another change of the times: In 1841 it was considered quick work to transmit the address of President Harrison a distance of forty miles in an hour and a quarter. When Calvin Coolidge delivered his address on Wednesday millions heard it while he spoke.

WOULD UPSET DIPLOMATS

Who is to be next President of the Republic of Germany? The Constitution provides that any German citizen over thirty-five years of age may be elected. So the ex-Kaiser, the ex-Crown Prince, or Rupprecht of Bavaria would be technically eligible.

Other persons mentioned for the job are our old acquaintances—not exactly our old friends—Tirpitz and Hindenburg. The choice of either of these would put diplomatic relations into a strange state.

Press Opinions

MOVE TOWARDS ECONOMY

(Indianapolis News)

What the people want is lower taxes, which can come only out of savings. Hardly less do they want to see a deflation of the evil services both as a measure of economy and as leading to the simplification of the government and away from centralization and attempted interference in matters which Washington may think. President Coolidge may feel sure of the approval and support of the people. For they recognize in him one who is trying to serve them.

PRODIGAL POLITICIANS

(The Australasian).

Prior to the war it was almost a political axiom that a young country could afford to invest public capital in the expectation of future returns. That feeling although it was exploited to some extent for political purposes was justifiable. No significant fact is that loan expenditure has increased considerably since the war. It is usual to economize after expenditure, and the consequent large interest bill which it involves, with the increased cost of revenue at the disposal of the treasury. That is the only way in which the people as it is for a speculthrift individual to run through his fortune.

EGYPTIAN EVOLUTION

(Glasgow Herald)

There are signs that an increasing number of Egyptian politicians are beginning to realize more clearly than ever before not only the futility, but also the folly of unwisely blocking the Great Britain for every delay in the

Sulphur Best To Clear Skin

Any breaking out or skin irritation of face, neck or body overcome quicker by applying Mentho-Sulphur says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation that instantly brings ease from the itching burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right up, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement of the worst form of Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store. It is used like cold cream.

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

A Language Test

It has been said by an Englishman, that Americans pronounce the English language better than the English.

A New Yorker has prepared a test, the use of which will prevent Americans from becoming too much puffed up over this statement. Try the test and see if you can pronounce correctly the words. It is abridged from a letter recently published in the New York papers.

Under the name reputed an indisputable Indian. His forehead was bedecked with war paint, and he wore a scarlet belt about his abdomen. Though his condition was unhappy and deserved, he lived in extraordinary squalor.

Though, like a patriot, familiar with the tribal legends his parents had taught him, he never wholly lapsed legendary lore, and was ignorant of non-national literature, and of the process of telegraphy.

He knew much of calligraphy, and very little about finance. He was too old an aspirant for Cupid to hope to associate evil spirits from the south by the advertisement of an Indian sacrifice. When granted a favor he sought the approbation of his patron.

A pleasant appointment was his housewife, to whom he gave after many a meagre consideration and a peremptory command, for he considered the position unenviable, that to perfect a woman she should be isolated and made to study; which he considered his arguments irrefutable. He appeared to care little for hymeneal harmony. Her peculiarity was Semitic: which he hoped to cure by launching a tiny respivery into the interstices of her labyrinth. The two made a squalid but interesting tableau.

The dramatis personae of this senario were named Kilbu and Minnehaha. While she near me pleased, she was a doutiful wife. He was glad to have her as his companion. Yet it is her lonely life he would often harass her with some sardonic inquiry or with a virulent threat to put her in gaol. She would then placate him by cooking for him some flaccid sweet potatoes fried in disintegrating lard; hoping he would not become irate at so gastric a meal.

If you don't know whether or not you can speak well, you might try the above quotation over on your parrots.

To-day's Smile

"Hullo! May I come round and see you this evening, Phyllis darling?"

"Of course, Kenneth dearest." "Er—excuse me—this is Kenneth speaking."

"Well, this isn't Phyllis."

Thirty Years Ago

"Worth makes the man,
Want of it the fellow."

This old couplet is strikingly exemplified in the almost romantic career of Sir Mackenzie Bowell from—we use the term advisedly because he is proud of it—Pirate's Devil to Prime Minister. With no advantages to help him, he began at the bottom rung of the ladder as "printer's devil" in the Intelligencer office, and step by step he has mounted slowly, but steadily to the very top.

Cydesdale Horses for Canada

W. McClinton, of Brampton, Ontario, has just completed the purchase of a car of very big number of Clydesdale and Percheron horses from the best studs in Scottish Counties, at a cost approximating $50,000. The horses are now in quarantine for scal and anthrax purposes. Photo shows one of the stallions being taken aboard the S.S. Marburn for trans-Atlantic shipment.

Today

Belleville was true to rete to-day, people of all shades of political opinion waiting to do honor to the guest of the day. WOULD TINGE ROADS WITH GREEN COLOR

London, March 12—Thin grey or white surfaced roads of England, at which the increasing number of automobile drivers are compelled to gaze intently in guiding their speeding cars, are causing a mass of minor eye troubles, according to Arthur Upson in a recent address before the Institute of Opticians.

White roads reflect the harmful actinic rays and Mr. Upson recommends that road builders mix green coloring matter with their surfacing material.

OSHAWA MEN GET TWO TONS OF FISH

Two tons of herring were caught last night on the shoals of Lake Ontario by J. F. Richardson, 294 Bond St., and Roy Smith, of Oshawa, Thursday.

The nets were placed in a split between 7 and 8 o'clock and Mr. Richardson says he knows that it was impossible to get through them up at once. On the arrival of the catch it was weighed, the total coming to two tons.

Fishing is similar to a visits fish, however, does not run quite so big, the average weight being 1-3 pounds each and Mr. Richardson says is excellent food, baked or fried.

BAND AT TWEED IS NOW REALITY

An enthusiastic number of bandsmen and other would-be bandsmen met in the Tweed Council Chambers at 8 p.m. on Friday evening. Mr. W. H. Hoyck, an old leader and bandsmen for many years, was elected chairman and after stating the meeting to order briefly outlined the purpose for which the meeting was called. Mr. Alfred Mr. John Fife the acting secretary, to read the list of names and instruments available which numbered about twenty.

The trustee or leader was first taken up and Mr. W. H. Huyck and Mr. W. J. Bergeron were proposed. Mr. Huyck suggested that Mr. Bergeron be leader and that he would assist. This suggestion was unanimously received. A hall for practice was also selected and the secretary was authorized to look after same. The matter of site for open air concerts was also dealt with and a very suitable site was chosen and the committee to interview for same was appointed. A stand could be erected and seats were arranged for. The band was called for practice on Tuesday night at 7.30, when organization will be completed at the close of practice.

PICTON CHURCH FILLS UP VACANIES

Picton, March 12—A congregational meeting of St. Andrew's church was held in the basement on Monday evening for the purpose of electing three managers and four elders to fill the vacancies caused by the resignation of Messrs. W. H. Nicholson, J. A. Cook and Geo. E. Boulin, who, after a long term in the Church at the recent voting here on the Church Union question. The gathering of the congregation and adherents was very enthusiastic. The ladies of the congregation served supper in the basement of the church where the meeting was held. The tables were nicely decorated and laden with delectable food of which was much enjoyed. At about 8 o'clock the chairman, Rev. C. L. Cowan called on several people for many short speeches, lasting three being Mr. E. M. Young, B.A., Bird, Mr. Asa Livingston and Mr. Willard Bryan.

The business meeting commenced about half past eight o'clock and the first thing done was to accept the three retiring managers' resignations which was done by the congregation. The election of three new managers was proceeded with and those elected were Messrs. McAree, Mr. D. A. Bird and Mr. Donald McLeod.

Mystery Buried With Old Russian

Who Was Believed to Have Been Nobleman In Exile

St. James, Beaver Island, Mich., March 12—Beaver Island's man of mystery is dead. When he is buried today he will take with him the secret of his identity which he has preserved for the fifty years he has lived here.

The man, known only as "Dr. Frolar," was believed to have been a Russian nobleman in exile. Up to the time of the world war, he received a remittance from Russia which ceased about 1918.

"Frolar" was called "Doctor", because he frequently went about the island ministering to the sick, although he never accepted payments for his services and always made it clear he was not a graduate physician [illegible]

Belleville Mausoleum

Cut Stone - Marble - Bronze

To Honor and Preserve the Soul's Temple Until The End Of Time

WE are taught that the body is the temple of the soul and how distressing it is to think that the mortal remains of those we love are buried in the cold, damp earth where the stoutest fak or metal casket cannot long preserve them!

The "Better Way"

In ancient times they employed the "Better Way" to give sincere expression to the affection which survivors held for those who had "Gone Before." They built strong tombs above ground which exist to-day unspoiled by the hand of Time—everlasting memorials to merit the wondering admiration of modern peoples.

Earth burial is a makeshift survival of the Dark Ages, but Mausoleum Entombment is in keeping with the progress of the times, a sane, practical, sanitary method wherein human remains rest in snow-white compartments in a massive structure that stands throughout the years as an enduring memorial, hallowed as a great Cathedral.

Accommodation Strictly Limited

The plans for the Belleville Community Mausoleum, to be created in the "Chapel Circle"—the finest site of the local Cemetery—provide for only approximately 76 families. When all space is arranged for, your opportunity to participate in this noble movement will have passed by. Delay, therefore, may mean the loss of this opportunity to provide for yourself and your loved ones in a manner befitting the importance of such an event. "Be Prepared" is the best of good advice, for no man can know when the need will arise for the provision of a last resting place, which should be chosen without hurry and under no stress of anxiety.

Perpetual Maintenance Provided

We wish again to point out that space in the Belleville Mausoleum costs no more than for ordinary earth burial, and that the first cost is the last cost. Also we would remind you that, by an arrangement with the cemetery authorities, the perpetual maintenance of the building is provided for, absolutely without further expense to the crypt holders.

Rollers Win Game And Chicken Supper

At Recreation Alleys Last Night; Rovers Going Strong

Rollers Hounds won from the Hot Shots in the C. N. R. merging league at Recreation Alleys last night, Rollers Hounds won the first game by 53 pins and added another by the narrow margin of 3 pins in the second and 30 pins in the third. High bowlers were Clyne and Edwards.

In the C. I. A. League the Rovers made it four wins in a row defeating the Kid's yesterday in their league fixture. Mrs. Jordan rolled up a nice three-string score for the winners with 289 for the losers Mrs. Harvey was high.

In a close and exciting game in the C.I.A. league the Bottlers won the odd game from the Requalifoners and also the chicken supper. It was a close game all the way through the winners only running out by 9 pins.

The exhibition game between the Ruby Stars and the Nat. Castings on Monday night was one to see. Mrs. Ruby Myers rolling 555 for the Ladies' Trophy for the Ruby Stars. A. Ostrander rolled 360 for the Nat's.

In the C.N.R. league the Rush's Office No. 2 won from the M. P. Office by over 400 pins. The Sect. Office by over 400 pins. The Sect. Office got off to a good start and held the lead all the way. Ay Young hit the 400 mark with a total of 674 and Allen Manchester was right behind him with over the M. P. Office. Jordan was high man.

In a senior range game the Kiwanis trounced the Wanderers by over 200 pins. Both teams started off fairly well, but the Wanderers soon began to slump and were unable to regain their form. Walshe was the steadiest some of the leading members of the Wanderers team were over their heads. Walshe, the Kiwanis star, finished the evening with 652. Players and scores:

AURA LEE HELD TO TIE BY SUDBURY

Toronto, March 12—Sudbury Cubs surprised Aura Lee and the fans last night, when they held the junior O. H.A. champions to a 3—3 tie in the first game of the Memorial Cup elimination series, which is being played here on the Richie Bell, on the play the visitors showed a fine attack, but was a great exhibition of junior hockey, both teams put a thrilling exhibition of skating and stick-handling. And the combination, in spite of the close checking, was spectacular at times. The second game will be played Saturday afternoon—and should pack the Arena.

The Cubs, who are not the great team that North was held down last year to be beaten by Owen Sound, showed to the best that has represented the N.O. H.A. since the play-offs in 1920. They are fast, though they do not get the most out of their speed when on the attack, the puck carrier breaking very often with the result his team-mates going along with him are generally off side when a pass is made.

Canadiens Have One Goal Lead

Beat St. Pats at Montreal By Score of 3-2

Montreal, March 12—Canadiens have a one-goal margin to take into the second game of the National Hockey League team-finals against St. Pats at Toronto on Friday night. The one-goal margin came as the result of a 3-2 win for Canadiens over St. Pats in the first-of the series played before 8,000 spectators here last night.

All the hockey was crammed into a fast second period. St. Pats looked like certain winners as they were all over Canadiens in the latters initial session, counting one goal on a bombing shot by McCaffery. Canadiens could not seem to get going. But in the second period the champions show a sudden spurt. When benched St. Pats back around their own net, and when the middle session was over Canadiens were leading, 2 to 1, as the result of two spectacular goals by Howie Morenz.

St. Pats came back in the third period determined; a scramble in front of Vezina led to St. Pats claiming a "goal" but it was not allowed. Then a Canadien break-away let Boucher put Canadiens up to 3 to 1 and the margin looked good for the round. But Adams came right back with a counter 13 out the lead to one goal, again.

Hole Claimed Counter

Just as the game called Dye drove a terrific shot. He claimed it had gone right through the net—and started to roar that—Pats had been done out of two goals. He showed the spot the spot after the game, but the tally was not considered.

Play was clean in the first two periods, but vicious stuff in the final session. Morenz and McCaffery sagged a few brushes, the Canadien player being the only otherwise brilliant and deliberately reckless McCaffery in the lead with his stick.

Morenz and Sprague Cleghorn were best for Canadiens. Day, Dye and McCaffery for St. Pats, though Neville and Adams ran them at it creditably too.

Play opened evenly with both sides showing a careful defence, though the forwards carried the puck up and down the ice in fast, snappy manner and hard fast shots were going at one goal then the other. Both goalies were machine guns, Roach and Vezina getting to do in the first five minutes of their team-play being more uniform than the locals. Canadiens rushed Vezina at centre ice by St Pats insistent back checking.

Morenz broke away and a goal by Roach when the St. Pat goalie rushed out and the puck went by him. Canadiens flash had been sent clear by Cleghorn Sprague Cleghorn.

Day, Dye and Neville, the latter replacing Adams, gave Vezina a busy session, as Canadiens were hemmed in their own territory. Vezina was the star especially when McCaffrey took the puck down flashed for Dye and Neville but the defence were waiting for the pass out to wine, let drive to the rear corner of the net. Vezina completely fanning on the shot.

Second Period

Babe Dye was having trouble with his skates, and was replaced at the Tear right wing by Adams. Neville going to centre to start the period. Odie Cleghorn tricked Bert Corbeau and got in for a close shot on Roach, which the Toronto goalie had to go to his knees to handle.

St. Pats were allowing Canadiens to carry the play, and were themselves relying on a defensive game and two-man rushes. The poke checking of the Toronto players at centre ice was devastating to Canadiens, though Morenz twice got far enough in to steam a couple of terrific shots at Roach, they got back into action, and stymied his return with a deadly shot which Vezina cleared smartly. Day was doing more of the puck carrying for Toronto, and was driving at long range.

Canadiens entered the score at 4.07 when Sprague Cleghorn let another rush and passed to Odie Cleghorn who sent Morenz over clear and the count was one all. Adams broke away with Corbeau a rush and he was robbed by Billy Boucher, Canadiens, however, kept up the offensive.

The crowd started to bait Marsh for blowing his whistle when Coutu held Dye. Canadiens were solving the St. Pats' defence better. They were shooting from well out and boring in for rebounds, missing several by a hair's breadth and often on brilliant passing by Roach, while Corbeau spoiled a perfect chance for Canadiens by tripping Morenz as he was flashing in on Roach. It brought Corbeau a suspension of the period. While he was off Morenz made another of the goal Cousens had chewed him off, tackled Clemens Martha and tricking his way with it on Roach to pit Canadiens ahead 2-1 just as the second period ended.

The teams:

St. Patrick's—Goal, Roach; defence Corbeau and McCaffrey; centre Adams; wings, Morenz and Boucher; subs, Neville, Smylie, Holway and Bell.

Canadiens—Goal, Vezina; defence, S. Cleghorn and Coutu; centre, O. Cleghorn; wings, Morenz and Boucher; subs, Hoskins, Matz, Martha and Ritchie.

Referees—Lou Marsh, Toronto, and Cooper Smeaton, Montreal.

The Summary

First Period
St. Patrick's	McCaffrey — 14.10

Second Period
2. Canadiens	Morenz — 4.00
3. Canadiens	Morenz — 12.00
Penalties
4. Canadiens	Boucher — 4.00
5. St. Patrick's	Adams — 7.30

Final score: Canadiens 3, St. Patrick's 2.

And Whistles Get Game by Default at "Y" Alleys

Excelsiors were much too good for the Orioles in their league fixture at the Campbell St. Alleys last night. When the scores were totaled it was found that the Excelsiors had won by nearly six hundred points although they had to hit the twenty eight hundred mark to do so. Last night's match is credited to Nunc who rolled 259 while R. Woodley's 258 was the high three string score.

A second game was scheduled between the Printers and Whistles and although the latter team was not played it will count a win for the latter as they were on hand with a full team whereas the Printers failed to put in an appearance or a request for a postponement.

CURED HIS RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pulley, Carpenter, 472 L. Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N.J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least step the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

Pains

That are needless

Relieve at once

Rheumatic pains, headaches, sorenes—pains you can end at once should be stopped. The means should always be on call.

The modern relief is Red Pepper Rub. It is entirely the old ways that there is no comparison. It is saving days of pain.

Nothing else creates such concentrated, such penetrating heat. Just heat that doesn't hurt.

Apply Red Pepper Rub and the tingling heat is instantly apparent. In three minutes that heat spreads to reach the depths. Then the pain and soreness disappears.

At first the results seem like magic. No other method ever brought them. Then you come to rely on them. You come to know that most pain is easily avoided.

But those troubles often appear at night. That means hours of suffering. A jar of Red Pepper Rub on your shelf would prevent them.

So many people suffer needless pains—pains that this method can end in three minutes. That is a pity. Get this Rub today and have it ready to end every such pain at once.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

CHAPTER XII.

"Tell no one," the marquis had said The Minction was not necessary. There are certain crisis in one's life when the heart will admit of no confidant. Raoul could not have told any father if he had tried to do so. There was, however, something unsaid mingled in the confession, the avowal, between Raoul and Elaine. He had not only told her that he loved her, but he had, in a manner, confessed that his future moral and spiritual welfare depended upon her. He had spoke of his past with the sorrow and bitterness of remorse, but Elaine was so far away from realizing what the past had been. She was almost as innocent and unspotted of the world as a cloistered nun, and although his words had moved her, and still further her as she recalled them, they conveyed no tangible idea to her.

"I love you! I love you!" She found herself repeating the magic words in the silence of her own room, and she knew they made within her heart chords her self had not known existed as echo there.

But the night of dawn was breaking softly in the heavens before she entranced and went to bed, but even then she could not sleep. She could only lie with closed eyes and think and think, with the strange feeling that was half joy, half pain, in the intensity filling her heart.

And could she have known it, then was another heart too full to sleep that morning. The marquis, too, lay awake, thinking of her and all that this love would make possible for him, and the first rays of the sun had not risen when he came forced him, as they found Elaine, still awake, and pondering over the trials which love had wrought.

Mrs. Inchley occupied a small set of apartments in the west wing of the Castle, and so remote from the main building and the state apartments, as they were rather grandiloquently called, that the marquis had, so to speak, forgotten their existence. He seldom saw Mrs. Inchley in his rare and short visits, and Fanny, he had not yet seen, for Mrs. Inchley had strictly enjoined her niece to keep to their own part of the Castle whenever the marquis was "in residence," and Fanny had so far obeyed the injunction as to confine her rambles about the place to such times as the marquis was out or at meals. But on these occasions, and when the marquis was absent from the Castle, Fanny roamed about to her heart's content, and Mrs. Inchley little suspected that her apparently retiring and rather shy niece was familiar with every room and nook and corner of the vast building.

Fanny had read in one of the novels which deal with the experiences of detectives, full particulars of the mode in which keys are copied, and she had very soon after her arrival at the Castle, taken impressions of her aunt's keys in wax and had then set to work and, after much labor and many failures, had succeeded in making keys which would open any door in the marquis' suite of rooms—the rooms which were so sacred to the rest of the household that the maids, when they entered them, almost did so on tiptoe.

Mrs. Inchley was also quite ignorant that Fanny had obtained a key to the marquis' private entrance, and that it was through this that Fanny had stealthily glided to her meetings with Captain Edwards and the chauffeur.

Mrs. Inchley saw the marquis so seldom that she was considerably flattered when, on the morning after the ball, Mr. Ingram ordered the housekeeper to "come and see him," and the request was wasted to see her.

Mrs. Inchley looked and bright in her tasteful morning gown of white muslin, was taking her breakfast daintily, as one novel beside her plate, and gave a slight start of surprise when the steward whom she treated with a condescending stiffness which he had grown to accept as quite natural and proper; though he was, as a matter of fact, her aunt's superior in the household.

A few moments later, a footman opened the door of the library, and announced that Mrs. Inchley was wanted by the marquis. He was seated at his writing table when she entered a chair, which he laid down as she entered, he turned with a bow and a smile.

"Good-morning, Mrs. Inchley." he said pleasantly. "Sorry to trouble you —but I can't do it often, do I?"

"No, indeed, my lord," she uttered the old lady dropping him another courtesy. "I hope nothing is amiss. I am most careful with the clothes, and the others are also careful—

Baree, Son of Kazan

By James Oliver Curwood

(A Vitagraph Picture with Wolf, the War Dog, is a adaptation of this story.)

SYNOPSIS

Baree, son of Kazan, a dog, and Grey Wolf, his mate, are living in a cave when first he wondered away from him. His mother deserts him and he is cast out, in which both were badly torn and most of the time hungry. He succeeds finally in catching a crayfish in a creek. Soon he comes upon Wabigoon, a huge black bear, which he attacks but the bear charges toward at his approach. Wandering through the forest Baree gets her scent. The dog in him exulted to the full the end of first burned savagery.

In the forests as well as in the great lake fastnesses in the northland all could hear. If Baree had dragged himself in the timber half an hour later he would have died. He was too far gone now to hunt for crayfish or kill the weakest bird. But he came just as Sekoosew, the ermine—the most bloodthirsty little pirate of all the wild—was making a kill.

As Baree lay under his tree, Sekoosew was creeping on his prey. His game was a big fat spruce-hen standing under a thicket of black currant bushes. The eye of so living thing could have heard Sekoosew's movement. He was like a shadow—a gray dot here, a flash there, now hidden behind a stick no larger than a man's wrist, appearing for a moment, the next instant gone as complete by as if he had vanished. Thus he approached from fifty feet to within three feet of the spruce-hen. That was his favorite striking distance. Unerring by his unmarked himself at the cowboy partridge's throat, and he needlessten teeth sank through feathers into flesh.

Sekoosew was prepared for what happened then. It always happened when her attacked big game, or wood-partridge. Her wings were powerful, and her first instinct when he struck was always that of flight. She rose straight up now with a great beating of wings Sekoosew home tight, his teeth buried deep in her throat, and his body, sharp claws clinging to her like hands. Through the air he whizzed with her, higher and higher, until a hundred yards from where that terrible death thing had fastened on her throat, Napaseo crashed again to earth.

Then Sekoosew let go and fled from Baree. For a few moments he looked at the struggling mass of flesh in a daze, not quite comprehending that at last the beast who couldn't kill was dead. Then he sniffed the blood, and with a snarl of joy sprang upon it. Baree lifted his head, and his savage little red eyes glared a single instant into Baree's. Then they closed, and his head sank with an angry sqeak the ermine was gone. Napaseo's wings twitched, and the feathers left of her body. She was dead. Baree knew that, for he had killed. Then he began his feast.

Baree ate a third of the partridge, and the remaining two-thirds he cached very carefully at the foot of the big spruce. Then he hurried down to the creek. Again he felt a world grown very different to him now. After all, one's capacity for happiness depends largely on how one has suffered. One's hard luck and misfortune form the measuring stick for future good luck and fortune. So it was with Baree. Forty-eight hours ago a full stomach would safe made him a tenth part as happy as he was now. Then he was an old longing was for his mother. Since then a still greater craving had come into his life—for food. In a way it was fortunate for him that he had almost died of exhaustion and starvation, for his experiences had helped to make a man of him—or a wolf-dog, just as you are of a mind to put it. He would miss his mother for a long time. But he would never miss her again as he had missed her yesterday and the day before.

For another day and night Baree remained in the vicinity of his cache. When the last bone was picked, he moved. He was country now, and where subsistence was no longer a peril was problem for him. It was a big country, and where there are bear, there are also a great many rabbits. When the rabbits thin out, the lynx emigrate to better hunting grounds. As a snowshoe rabbit breeds all the summer through, Baree found himself in a land of plenty.

And this was straight into the trap-pe- country of Pierre the half-breed.

Pierrot, until two years ago, had believed himself to be one of the most fortunate men in the big wilderness. That was before La Mort Rouge—the Red Death—had visited the half French, and he had received a Cree chief's daughter, and their log cabin on the Gray Loon they had lived for many years in great prosperity and happiness. Pierrot was proud of three things in the wild world of the north—his prowess as a trapper, his half-blooded sons, and his wife. Nepessee had grown up like the willow, slender as a reed with all her mother's wild beauty, and with a little of the French thrown in. She was sixteen, with great, dark, wonderful eyes and hair so beautiful that an agent from Montreal passing that way had once tried to buy it. It fell in two shining braids, each as big as a man's wrist, almost to her knees. "Ma Mie'sieu," Pierrot had said, a cold glitter in his eyes as he saw what was in the agent's face, "I'll sell you my soul first!"

Two days after Baree had entered his trapping ground, Pierrot came back from the forests with a troubled look in his face.

"Something is killing off the young beavers," he explained to Nepessee, kneeling by her in French. "It is a true hol-soil. Tomorrow—" He shrugged his big shoulders, and smiled at her.

"We will go on the hunt," laughed Nepessee happily, in her soft Cree. "When Jacques and Louis get back they and began with "Tomorrow." It always meant that she smiled at with him as the adventure he was contemplating.

Pierrot was right. It was a good day for afternoon, Baree crossed the Gray Look on a bridge of driftwood that had wedged between two trees. This was to his wealth, this beyond the driftwood bridge there was a small open, and to the edge of this Baree passed to enjoy the last of the setting sun. He loved its ruddiness and lateness, his ball drooping low, his ears alert, his sharp-pointed nose sniffing the new country to the south, there was not a spot of grass in the forest that would not have taken him by name.

From behind a clump of young balsams, a hundred yards away, Pierrot and Nepessee had watched him come over the driftwood bridge. Now was the time, and Pierrot leveled his rifle. It was not until then that Nepessee caught the low, his ears alert, his sharp-pointed nose sniffing the new country to the south, there was not a spot of grass in the forest that would not have taken him by name.

Famous Partners Enter Movie Game

Potash and Perlmutter Again Raise Crop of Laughs

No two characters of fiction can equal the record of Montague Glass's famous partners, Potash and Perlmutter. They are boulevardiers, purveyors of cheese and dressed meats made popular in tenuous differential fantasies. The comical capers and their whimsical adventures have brought forth many of laughter-provoking, many-toned German sallies, polite French titter, pedate British chuckles. The stage plays dealing with them have been packing for the past ten years to practically every country on the globe, and now, in the movies, they are piling up much more money than ever before in the world.

In Hollywood with Potash and Perlmutter, now playing at the Capitol Theatre is the newest of three stories to be brought to the screen by Samuel (Believe-It-Or-Not) Goldwyn. The other two are Rasheed Hasheesh, instead of leavings the heroes in the clock and evil-lyric-ful in the end, Hollywood where they try their hands at producing movies.

A similar cast presents the picture. Alexander Carr and George Sidney play the principals and others in the cast are Vera Gordon, Betty Blythe and Bella Bennett. It is a First National picture.

Why Dante Wrote "Divine Comedy"

Wanted to Solve Life's Riddle; Showing at Belle Theatre

The Divine Comedy, by the Italian poet Dante, which is composed of three separate allegories known as "Inferno," "Purgatory" and "Paradise," is said to have embodied seven distinct ideas or theme. One commentator on Dante describes it as "the supreme effort to epitomize the whole of human experience." It is the effort of one who is considered by many as the greatest of thinkers of all time to crystallize for his fellow men his own answer to the Eternal Riddle—What of the Hereafter?

Of Dante's motive in writing the Divine Comedy, Charles Eliot Norton says: "The Divine Comedy had its source in the desire of the wretchedness of man in this mortal life, and in the false direction of his desires, through his ignorance of the true object of his free will, the chief gift of God to him. The only means of escape from this wretchedness was the exercise by man of his reason enlightened by the divine grace in the guidance of his life. To convince man of the truth, to declare to him the way, to conviction of the eternal consequence of the error in the world, to show him the path of salvation, was Dante's aim. This was not to be done in the form of abstract propositions addressed to the understanding, but in a poetic narrative which should appeal to the heart and arouse the imagination; a narrative in which the truth should be represented as an unbroken spiritual existence, prefiguring in its moral aspects and experience its immortal destiny. The power was also to be given of transporting the reader, in imagination through unbroken scenes of its meaning, and a guide of its course."

The allegory "Inferno" is the basis for the extraordinary motion picture produced by William Fox, which is now being shown at the Belle Theatre for night Friday and Saturday.

Huskies Don't Love Masters as a Rule

Leaders Have Remarkable Intelligence; Chained During Summer

(Associated Press Despatch)

Seattle, Wash., March 12.—The diabetes epidemic in Nome, Alaska, bringing its desperate race between death and the serum with antitoxin, centered the attention of the country on what has become known generally as "sondodontia," the usual method of transportation in the frozen fastness of the northern territory in winter—an adventure, at best.

It is only on such occasions as epid emics that dog teaming is carried on at such hazardous speed, but the usual journeys across the interior of Alaska is made once A fortnight during winter, the winter by the mail carriers, who travel 970 miles from Nome to Nenana. Numerous other tracers, prospectors and trappers use the dog for practically for long or short journeys.

Francis Canadian is in employ of the Hudson's Bay Company 300 years ago, and the dog has been developed from Eskimos in the far northwest of America, used as his chief helper when they wanted the dogs to speed up. In the months of English-speaking men this became "mush," which has stuck as a "get up" to the dogs as a combination for travel by dog-drawn sled Tragedies of the trail, for are comparatively few, partly because the winter drives out the mosquitoes only by barely, experienced men, but mainly because of the uncanny ability of the dogs to avoid the hazards of the trail. Overflows are dreaded possibilities. Most of the mushers can tell from its ice at rivers or seas and the rest of it overland from the look of the trees or another. Sometimes the swiftness of the current or the depth of the ice-free stream causes the water to flow above the ice, making sleds the more treacherous. There lurks death for man. If he gets from 40 to 50 below zero are temperatures of 50 degrees below zero are frequent on the trail. Freezing follows instantly after emergence from the shade and the weather is helping, then a good load dog detects an overflow a mile off. He scents it, and suddenly departs from the deep trail and heads for it. Then off through unbroken snow, around the overflow to detours, come back to the trail when past the slush.

Wear Moccasins

On ice covered with sharp projections, called spear ice, occurring on rivers and seas, the dogs wear moccasins. Sometimes under pressure, such as when 200,000 tons of sastiugs have taken from Nenana on the Alaska Railroad, January 27 as delivered, Governor by relays of dog teams February 2, several dogs are crippled by the sleds, the animals taking turns at riding and walking.

The principal sled dogs are Huskies and Malamutes. Huskies are crosses of domestic dogs and prairie wolves. They weigh 60 to 65 pounds. Malamutes are crosses of Eskimo dogs and timber wolves. They weigh 75 pounds each. The latter are faster, but is weight. They are brave when and really lead. They do not whine but watch the trail.

Trail dogs sleep comfortably in the snow. In a severe blizzard an Alaskan will brave his dogs to the trail in the snow and outlast the storm if they have not already left. Dogs are good eaters.

The bond between a driver and his dogs is not exactly that pictured by a Jack London in the Saints. The musher, dog, being half wolf, generally would like a wolf occasion for restraint. Most sourdoughs profess to feel no love for sled dogs and aver that the dogs feel none for them. Yet there is much such a writer as Hudson Stuck, Episcopal missionary of the Yukon and Arctic regions, affirms that some sled dogs love sled dogs.

Dogs are used in Alaska for winter travel only, in the summer they live in camps, where they are chained each to a trolley wire that parallels the trail. For if they could reach each other, there usually would be fights. In the winter, work and the blacksnake help keep them in order. On the trail they are fed once every 24 hours on what ever the master is able to give them. Often it is dried fish.

Dogs are trained from pups on the sled, but the driver runs behind the sled for on the rear runners alternately. A good day's travel is 40 to 50 miles, little a team and in bad going amount to less and two men may work the dogs all night in the morning until nine at night advancing only ten miles.

Catherine McEllistrum, a native of Millbrook County, but resident of Brantford since, 1904 and wife of Jack Scully, died at the Brantford hospital yesterday.

Healer on Charge Of Manslaughter

Christian Science Practitioner Up in Court at Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Man., March 12.—Sharp virtual exchanges between Defence and Crown Counsel, featured the second day of the trial of William Hamilton Clayton Science practitioner, charged with manslaughter, in connection with the death of Dorcas Watson, 12 years old, last November.

Reference to the teaching of Christian Science gave fairly-three strong objection from John Allan, Deputy Attorney-General, who is prosecuting. He held it was not fair to refer into the merits of religious teachings, an extract to be read.

Mrs. H. Watson, mother of the girl, testified that Elder had been asked to pray for the child during her illness. Her condition had become aggravated and Mrs. Watson said she suggested medical doctor be consulted. Up to that time she had not known what ailed her daughter. She had never seen case of diphtheria and she had faith in Mr. Elder who she declared, had previously attended her son and brought about his recovery.

Robert Watson under cross-examination by Mr. Andrews, K. C., counsel for the defense, said that at no time did Elder claim that he possessed medical or surgical knowledge, nor did he ever undertake to administer any treatment.

"I believe," said the witness, "that the power of God is all sufficient and there is no human in his power to heal, when properly entrested.

COULD NOT SLEEP NIGHTS

Pains and Headaches Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Dublin, Ontario.—"I was weak and irregular, with pains and headaches, and could not sleep nights. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers and in newspapers and tried it because I thought it would help me. I am glad I wrote from it as I feel a lot stronger and am not troubled with pains and headache as I used to be and am more regular. I am grateful to you for the time and I tell my friends what kind of medicine I am taking. You may use my letter as a help to others."—Mrs. Isaac Racey, Box 12, Dublin, Ontario.

Halifax Nurse Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Halifax, N. S.—"I am a registered nurse and have recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to many women who were childless, also to those who suffered with female ills. I am English and my husband is American, and he told me of Lydia E. Pinkham while in England. I would appreciate a copy of two of your little books on Compound, as I have one which I keep to lend. I will willingly answer any letters."—Mrs. Ethel Hall, 2 Wellington Street, Halifax, N. S.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been relieving women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, nervousness, indigestion, dizziness. Why don't you try it?

Wednesday Afternoon

The trial of Sergal Thiel was resumed at 2:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon Dr. John J. Robertson continuing to give his testimony.

To Mr. Payne, witness stated that Sergal was in his office Sunday at Point Anne and told of attending him for injuries received in the automobile crash the previous week. When Sergal was in the office he had a bandage around his head and was suffering from a bruised face. Witness also told of dressing injuries which Sergal suffered from on the day of the assault, the following morning. Witness also corroborated evidence by others of the inquest and preliminary trial as read from records by Mr. Payne, as to the condition of Sergal's face and nose after the fatal assault had occurred. Witness would not state whether Also had been stand ing or sitting down when he received the blows, but the most probable direction in which the blows would have been dealt would have been from the front.

To Mr. Frost—Witness explained when asked what some of the scratches on Sergal's face appeared to have been "Blood rather than others.

Where Lying Down

Witness did not believe that Czernaka would have been standing while receiving the first blow, or any of the blows would knock him down.

To Mr. Lovelock—That the wounds had been there several hours even the morning.

To Mr. Frost—It believes Czernaka received the three blows while in the one position.

Dr. W. Wallbridge, surgeon, told of assisting Dr. Robertson perform an Operation on Sergal at 3.30 p.m. on December 23rd. Witness described the wounds which he found after having removed the bandages from the head, wounds that showed the scalp. He views served the blow previously explained by Dr. Robertson. Furthermore, while witness was in witness opinion to inflict the injuries would have been a hammer or something similar.

Dr. Wallbridge returned in the rest noon statement received as an expert, and gave as his opinion the cause of death of Czernaka, the destruction of brain tissue, meningitis and hemorrhage over all due to the depressed fracture of the skull left forehead.

Witness stated that the injury on the left jaw was sufficient from above, giving the downward, and also believed that the jaw injury would not necessarily have been fatal but one of the first blows would have caused death and did.

If the man never struck but received the jaw blow, would knock him down were he sitting, lying, standing and would prevent him moving if lying down. The blood knock would quite probably cause unconsciousness.

It would be possible for Czernaka to have received the injury after he had been struck, witness answered to Mr. Payne's question, in cross examination. He could not give any definite reason why there was no blood on the hammer.

Garnish as Stand

Nick Garnish on the stand identified his house and the Stevenson's home in photographs taken by McCormick.

Recalling Sunday December 21st, witness told of knowing Czernaka for 20 years also Sergal. That whom he had known for 6 years.

Nick Bell—Saw Sergal 10 p.m. that night in Stevens' downstairs and did not know a card game was in progress upstairs. Next morning about 7 p.m. Nick and Sergal drove downstairs for upstairs. Both appeared sober, sat on a bench and appeared friendly. Also they sat around the house until 10.30 o'clock that morning but Sergal would come to his place about the nose and mouth. There was a black eye on Sergal's face before Also struck him. Sergal went downstairs and when he came back he returned to help Nick finish the car, remaining until 4 o'clock, when Sergal returned to Nick's house where witness saw him at 11.30 o'clock. Also Sergal was sober. Next time that Nick saw Also was at Shrymychyn's home at 5.45 p.m. at which house he was upon hearing a noise outside the house. Going upstairs in Shrymychyn's home he found Also and Sergal. Also was lying on the floor in the southeast corner bed, facing north, lying on his right side. Sergal was lying on his back in the southeast corner of the room, head pointing east. He was lying on his back, his hands underneath his head.

Nick saw blood on Also's face, and blood also on Sergal's face. Witness exclaimed,

"Sergal! Sergal, I hear you kill Also," and Sergal answered, "Also fight me, I fight him." Sergal talked slightly, not understood by Nick and answer by Sergal was spoken in English so he could not say but to tell what in his tongue by interpreter John Alexander. Nick's answer to Sergal's and as we spoken to the interpreter was, "No, no more," and I will help you back."

An Airight Fellow

To Mr. Payne, Nick said of Sergal having once boosted at his place and being a "airight" fellow. Also's nose bloodied. Sergal saw Also's lip in bow to him. There was no hammer in his pocket then. Sergal said, "Let's go back, when he was attacked during the pig killing, and at that time Sergal didn't have a hammer in his pocket. Nick said that the two and Sergal were riding to Belleville in the automobile. He also saw Sergal with a hammer.

To Mr. Frost, witness said there was no conversation in the back seat of the automobile until it left Point Anne for Belleville. Sergal did say, however, that the police were taking him to jail in Belleville, and he didn't know what for. Witness was spoken in Sergal's language. Nick had no memory of any conversation that he can't in English, but on the interpreter being used, Nick remembered if Sergalsaw that he was drunk and had caused trouble." Sergal answered, "If I go to jail I stay there, but I don't remember anything anything."

Gone Girl Witness

Katharine Pechaski, Long Tree at Point, testified of seeing Sergal after nine o'clock Monday, December 22nd. Witness saw him sit on and down past her home while she was in the house looking out through the window. Sergal had brown slippers, blue pants and a sweater on. Witness's little girl lives in one side of the semi-detached house in which Czernaka received fatal injuries. Recalling incidents leading up to the fatal assault Katharine told of hearing Sergal say something to Czernaka, and then to call Nick Czernaka that in Sergal, which to us was Nick Tomchak—who was with the Czernaka house.

Tomchak came out, then went back to get his hat, and Also Czernaka also came out of Czernaka's immediately upon hearing a noise outside the house. Going upstairs in Shrymychyn's home he found Also and Sergal. Also was lying on the floor in the southeast corner bed, facing north, lying on his right side. Sergal was lying on his back in the southeast corner of the room, head pointing east. He was lying on his back, his hands underneath his head.

Nick saw blood on Also's face, and blood also on Sergal's face. Witness exclaimed,

"Sergal! Sergal, I hear you kill Also," and Sergal answered, "Also fight me, I fight him." Sergal talked slightly, not understood by Nick and answer by Sergal was spoken in English so he could not say but to tell what in his tongue by interpreter John Alexander. Nick's answer to Sergal's and as we spoken to the interpreter was, "No, no more," and I will help you back."

Sergal answered, "If I go to jail I stay there, but I don't remember anything anything."

Gone Girl Witness

Katharine Pechaski, Long Tree at Point, testified of seeing Sergal after nine o'clock Monday, December 22nd. Witness saw him sit on and down past her home while she was in the house looking out through the window. Sergal had brown slippers, blue pants and a sweater on. The semi-detached house in which Czernaka received fatal injuries. Recalling incidents leading up to the fatal assault Katharine told of hearing Sergal say something to Czernaka, and then to call Nick Czernaka that in Sergal, which to us was Nick Tomchak—who was with the Czernaka house.

Tomchak came out, then went back to get his hat, and Also Czernaka also came out of Czernaka's immediately upon hearing a rush for Sergal, Sam Garnish and Nick Garnish grabbed Also and took him back into Garnish's house.

In the morning Sergal had a swollen nose, and said to my daughter when he came to our house, "I gave him to Nick Garnish, $13.50 Dan Belak, $48 in accounts else and remember what I say today." He said he was afraid that Also Turkey were abusing him."

As the answer was very important Mr. Atamas, the court interpreter, put the question to the girl in her own language.

She was instructed to slowly and clearly repeat the words of Sergal to her mother on that occasion. Also's answer to the interpreter was,

"Sergal said to my mother, there is nothing to be somethings happen at the Point. I have been good to them but they beat me."

Witness next saw Thiel upstairs in Mrs. Shymychyn house. She had heard Mrs. Shymychyn shout, and running out of her own home saw Mrs. Shymychyn house, she went upstairs and found Sergal on the floor, and Also on his. Also's head was bleeding, so the girl was scared, and she went downstairs, but returned and said,

"What you did that for, Sergal?"

Sergal answered, "That way he hit me, I went and paid him back." This was spoken to their own language.

"Why did you hit him when he was in bed? He got sick and died, Sergal.

"I did what I like," Sergal answered.

"Edward Shymychyn and Leonard Shymychyn came upstairs and told me to get water which I did and was just soaking up the blood when Sergal's mother came.

Katharine then told of lifting up the mattress of the children's bed when a general search was being made for a horrible weapon, and she found a hammer between the mattress and spring. It was found in the northeast corner of the bed.

When shown the hammer witness identified it as the one which she had found by the chip off the face of the striking face of the handle protruding more. Witness also saw the piece of the hammer head in his pocket while he was under arrest. Sergal walked pretty straight and talked alright that morning, the girl remembered. In the afternoon, too, he didn't talk cross and was not excited when he walked.

To Mr. Payne witness told of living in Canada 13 years though born in Finland country. The police had been down to the Point many times in connection with the case, she agreed.

To Mr. Payne—"Did Also hit Sergal the Sunday morning previous during a quarrel?"

Witness—"Yes."

Mr. Payne—"Did Sergal tell your mother Monday that Also had hit both he and Sam Belak during a card game Sunday at Garnish's?"

Witness—"He did."

Mr. Payne—"Did you not go to the Canada Creosote Company with your brother-in-law about 4 p.m. Monday?"

Witness—"Yes."

Brass Dowse

During a resulting cross-examination in which the girl broke down, the girl told Mr. Payne that Sergal came to dose after 5 o'clock Monday morning, December 22nd. That Sergal was asked to come back to dinner by her father-friend, Charles Garnish. That Sergal went back to the Brant house about 11.40 o'clock and he remained for dinner. Witness bit denied staying at Brant's until 1 p.m.

Mrs. Mary Pechaski sworn through Interpreter John Atamas, told of Sergal's visit to her home Monday after the fatal assault. Complaining of Also "beating him well. Katharine was present when Sergal complained after 9 a.m. Sergal told her that "Romanian fellows struck him in the face." He said he was without glasses and that his money, playing cards, and Also was in him after Also struck him. Witness noticed something sticking out of Sergal's right pocket about six inches. First witness had seen Sergal outside in the yard standing, and when asked what he was doing he said he "wanted to get in." Also, he said, came into the house and took a chair saying: "Also come in, I'll make you dead." When he went outside again and witness did not know where he was. At 11.45 a.m. Sergal returned into the Pechaski home with blood on his face and told witness, "Also had beaten him up." He wanted to go upstairs and sleep, but Mrs. Rose would not allow him to do so as he looked "beaten up." Sergal left the house and when he came there was blood on his sweater, coat and jacket. He then went outside and witness did not see where he went. That afternoon when at Mrs. Shymychyn's home, being attracted there by a noise, Mrs. Shymychyn and children, believing it to be a fire, Sergal went over with the daughter Katharine and upstairs where she saw both two men lying there on the two beds. Witness said to Sergal:

"Why did you do that for?" and he answered:

"I will the same to me."

To Mr. Payne witness stated Also was walking as though intoxicated.

Mrs. Pechaski, through Interpreter Leigh, will enough to testify in that language. The interpreting used for the taking of her evidence.

SERGAI TKACJ IS FOUND GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER HERE TO-DAY SENTENCED TO SIXTEEN YEARS

Prisoner Showed Little Emotion When Verdict Is Given

JUDGE'S REMARKS

The jury in the Tkacj murder case returned a verdict of manslaughter at ten minutes past four o'clock this afternoon after being out from 10.57, o'clock this morning, 17 hrs. 23 minutes.

His Lordship, Mr. Justice Kelly sentenced the prisoner (Sergai Tkacj) to sixteen years in the penitentiary.

In passing sentence, His Lordship said the jury had been very lenient and though it was within their province to bring in a "manslaughter" verdict he asked the found guilty of murder on the same evidence.

He stated that at no time was the law, would be found more appropriate than at present, when people, who obviously choose this country for a home, were slain because of the advantages must be given, which the settlers will find. Decidedly this they must obey the laws of the land.

The sentence was recorded to Sergai by the interpreter who showed little emotion.

When asked if he had anything to say, C. A. Payne, his counsel advised her his maximum mercy.

"Neither do I," he would have chosen our duty, today, were it not that other duty calls upon me to do in our duty," explained Mr. Justice Kelly to the accused, Sergai Tkacj, before addressing them.

"It is very pleasant duty for the country to have to deal with a man charged with any serious charge. It helps more heavily upon the man than perhaps you may ever imagine.

"You must, however, do your duty in order to keep up the laws of the country for the good people of the country.

"You must be unanimous in your decision, but if you cannot agree you can convict on a lesser or surmise, only on proof sufficient to satisfy a reasonable and honest mind. Accused gets the benefit of a reasonable doubt.

"The jury retired at 10.57 o'clock after having heard Mr. Justice Kelly instruct them as to the law as applicable to the case and reviewed the important evidence given.

"Homicide, the killing of one by another, which is culpable—involving guilt—is either murder or manslaughter. Where neither is, it is either excusable or justifiable. The excusable or justifiable where one causes the death of another by self-defence.

"One must be careful however, for while there was entitled to protect himself against death, he was only allowed to use that degree of force, which, if it caused death, was excusable. It is not excusable force that necessary, it was not excusable.

"If one accused meant to cause any bodily injury to the deceased, and by his doing so cause death, and his person died, that was murder, if he caused did an unlawful act intending to do bodily harm to deceased and died, it was murder. It was presumed to be malicious, and the law presumes it to be culpable until proven otherwise. Culpable homicide where circumstances might be reduced to manslaughter, if the accused committed the act in the heat of passion caused by some provocation.

"Provocation is given when any wrongful act or insult has been of such a nature as to be likely when acted on by a person of ordinary temper, who acts upon it suddenly before there has been time for the mind to cool," explained His Lordship, and it is clear that if the passion has cooled, it is vengeance. The law looks after the conduct of the person who has acted on it and not the individual insulted, unless he acts in the heat of passion.

"Cases inquiries the law are few in the books, and the facts in murder, less or criminally inclined persons supplying the exceptions, which do not prevail in a country where the laws will (not) take vengeance, as may cause passion. The jury must decide whether the provocation was sufficient to deprive a reasonable man of self control.

"The verdict must be one of three: murder, manslaughter or acquittal."

The Crown Attorney, Mr. Ponton, addressed the jury on the evidence of 17-year-old Anton Shymyachyn, who was not sworn was carefully read and explained. Counsel for the prisoner had objected to its admission during the trial.

Asking the question, "Was she or the boy, who was sworn, couched? His Lordship pointed out that counsel accused age the deceased was a blood relation to any of the foreign witnesses so why should they be couched?

"In the case of the girl, however," he continued "the law says that no case shall be decided upon such evidence alone, but must be corroborated in some way by material circumstances or by the evidence of some other witness." His Lordship believed the jury were fitted in very well with the evidence of others. Careful consideration by any of the evidence of the blood on Sergai's face should be made in order to determine whether, whether or not he had been attacked, by or near the attack. Also the detail exactly occurred upstairs.

Dr. Roberts stated that the blood clots on accused's face would be three hours old, also scratches on his face and hands, and that the deceased had not been struck longer than one hour before the doctor attended him.

Coming to the hammer story, it was shown that there were two stories told by accused about the disposition of the piece of wood he says he carried in his pocket. Once he said he had put it in his valise, again that he did not remember where he put it. Serzal admits the use of the hammer but says deceased reached for it first. After the assault, accused says the hammer was thrown on the bed, two little girl says she saw him take it from underneath the mattress, walk over attack deceased, and put it back under the mattress. Accused says he threw it under the bed, and the man of whom he was afraid. "Does that sound reasonable?" asked His Lordship, "whether the man on the bed threw it under the bed, or whether he took it from under the bed and put it back for you to determine and would be very taken in the position on the bed which witnesses say he was found, were he standing up when struck?"

Recalling queries put to accused by different witnesses at the time, as to what he had done or how he had done it, accused had always answered, "I don't know," or "I don't remember," but he never at any time mentioned having struck deceased. His Lordship Shymyachyn he used his fist.

Address by Judge

It was after 5 o'clock when defence counsel, C. A. Payne started his 45 minute address to the jury. It was his first experience as defence counsel at a murder trial and he felt his position very keenly, owing to the gravity of the offence which carries the death penalty with conviction.

It was every confidence, however, he reminded counsel, "that you gentlemen will give this case your careful consideration and a fair deal to the accused." I referred to the evidence of seventeen-year-old Annie Shymyachyn, Mr. Payne reminded that she had told her story in one gasp so to speak. The same was true of her seventeen-year-old brother Willie, and her mother on the stand. On the other hand the accused's story on the stand was very similar to the statement introduced by the Crown and given to police by accused in the night of the assault. Accused was also stood up under a gruelling cross examination.

Pointing out that Alec Cernuska had been the accused's friend and partner at work, and that no gig killing incident, defence counsel showed how accused had striven to retain his friendship. Alec tried again to assault him but failed, and the gig killing incident.

Speaking of the hammer in Serzal's pocket, counsel reminded that Katsheen Pechaski had stated that she saw the mark of the head of the

CITY LIKELY TO TAKE MORTGAGE FROM HOSPITAL

Council Has Recommendation to Invest $20,000 at 5½

IS TEN YEAR LOAN

Board of Governors Want to Retire Old Debt

At the civic committee meeting last night a resolution from the Belleville Hospital Board of Governors composed of Judge J. F. Wills and Messrs. A. A. Kerr and H. W. Ackerman was presented. Their request was that the City invest in a ten years first mortgage on the hospital. As explained by the deputation, it was desirous of winding up the present mortgage debt and also paying off other debts against the institution.

The following recommendation was unanimously accepted and will no doubt be confirmed in at the Council meeting this evening tonight.

That the finance committee be authorized to invest $20,000 of its sinking fund in a ten year first mortgage on all the property controlled by the Board of Governors of the Belleville General Hospital, such mortgage to bear interest at 5-3 per cent. The principal to be repaid in yearly amounts of $2,000, the principal of interest to be deducted from the annual grant made to the hospital, and such investment to be made when there are sufficient available funds.

Favor Dundas Lot For Tourist Camp

Committee Empowers Two Of Its Number to Get Terms

The members of the special committee of the City Council accompanied by Mr. J. G. Herity, Industrial Commissioner and some members of the Chamber of Commerce, yesterday afternoon made a four of inspection about the city. The object was to decide if suitable site for a tourist camp. The delegation visited several places but might be convenient for such a purpose. After the tour a meeting was held at the Chamber of Commerce building at which it was decided to recommend to the City Council that Dundas street east, if satisfactory arrangements can be made with the property owners, be taken over by the City. Mr. Herity was authorized to negotiate for the purchase of the property and to report at a subsequent meeting to be held.

Instead of Serzal's pocket through the small window of her home while asleep was 25 feet away in the yard. It did not appear in evidence that the field, a barn where evidence should be hollowed, Serzal's pocket when he went upstairs to the Shymyachyn home before the fatal assault. Yet he said in evidence that he had in his pocket coat pockets and the amount cost was 75 cents. He further said that the hammer been there he could have seen it.

"What Mrs. Shymyachyn saw when she went upstairs for a drink of water is what Serzal says happened, and he always said to everyone who asked words to the effect, "He hit me and I hit him back."

"There is no evidence to show that Serzal knew Alec was upstairs and there is no evidence to contradict him. Had he had the hammer in his pocket why had he not fought with Alec on occasions that morning? No one ever

CANADA'S NOTE IS INTERESTING TO THE LEAGUE

Willingness to Consider Court Plan Sets Tongues Going

DEBATE IS ENDED

Send On All Declarations Into Next Assembly

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Geneva, March 13.—The expected declaration of the League of Nations Council to throw the whole problem of arbitration, security and disarmament into the next assembly, together with the resolution was quite overshadowed in league circles by Canada's note to the league in which she announced her willingness, with some reservations, to consider the acceptance of compulsory jurisdiction of the permanent court of international justice. The preliminary communication from Ottawa, the receipt of which was confirmed today, followed a statement that Canada had rejected the protocol partly because of opposition by the United States made operations of sanctions or coercion against a recalcitrant nation. The Canadian documents caused a noticeable sensation in league circles, upon arbitration in league consultation.

The debate in the league of nations council on the recently constituted elaborated at the last assembly ended this morning, with the adoption of a proposition by Dr. Benes, Czecho Slovakian foreign Minister, to refer to next assembly, the declaration regarding the reasoned report by British Foreign Secretary Chamberlain, and other members for the purpose of considering observations received from members of the League.

Premiers Statement

Ottawa, March 13.—"We are not consider it in the interest of Canada, of the British Empire or of the League itself to recommend to Parliament adherence to the protocol and signature formally to its rigid provisions for application of economic and military sanction in practically every future war. Having regard to the geographical position of Canada, to the fact that she is a continent, obviously like Canada's Premier Mackenzie King in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, summarized in the above paragraph, the attitude of the Canadian Government in regard to the Geneva protocol for the pacific settlement of international disputes. The paragraph was quoted from a despatch sent by the Prime Minister to Sir Eric Drummond, Secretary-General of the League of Nations, two days ago.

Mr. King explained to the House that no international agreement between the British Government and the Canadian Government or the Dominions were to be made public until the British Government had spoken before the League of Nations Council.

NAVY ESTIMATES UP IN GREAT BRITAIN

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, March 12.—British Navy estimates for 1925-26 call for £60,000,000, an increase over the current year of £7,000,000. The budget is expected to run some of £1,200,000 and £62,000 expenditure. The estimates call for the first time in navy votes on account of the cost of the fleet's air arm, and work done for the navy at the army experimental establishment at Shoeburyness.

Man Is Fool Who Shuts God Out

Says Dr. Gordon at Bridge Street Church Last Night

"My friend sitting yonder who does not believe in Christianity, who thinks he ought to be a Christian, who thinks he ought to make a choice, but does not make it, is a fool—not a bright fool, but a stupid fool. The thing in him that chooses is indecision. It is like a cement sidewalk that is becoming set. The one thing that softens a man's will then was shuts out. We call that thing the Grace of God and so my friend yonder who thinks he ought to choose, but who does not choose the way he thinks he should is a stupid fool." This was the opinion expressed by Doctor Gordon on Sunday evening in the Bridge Street Church, in the course of a very interesting sermon on "Stupid Souls and there a second chance after death?"

In answer to this question which he himself propounded, he said, "So far as the character of God's love is concerned, man's chance never runs out in this life or the next. So far as the man's decision is concerned, there is no second chance. Man seals the deciding ballot. He that chooses the Son of God hath eternal life, but the wrath of God abideth on him. But that does not mean that God is angry with you; He is sorry that you are burning against impurity.

Dr. Gordon declared that there were four answers to the question: "Is there a second chance after death?" Two of these said Yes and two said No. The answers were such as the following all null through somehow," and since God is love everybody must be saved. He shall all pull through easily. There are some who affirm that there is a place of suffering, but they claim that when the sufferers are overcome with remorse there for discipline, they shall be saved. These are Universalists. Then there is another group called "Restorationists," who say that even the devil and all evil spirits will eventually be restored. There is a third class who say there is conditional immortality, and they teach that those who believe in Christ are saved, but those who die in their sins will be annihilated. Then there is the fourth class, who say that believers are saved and unbelievers are lost, and for them there is no second chance, not because God is unwilling, but because they themselves have lost the power of choosing right. And as the recurring text in the Bible is, "Choose, choose now." And illustrated the point by a story of the value of a good choice and the danger of a bad.

UNIVERSITY BURNS AT SASKATCHEWAN

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Saskatoon, March 13.—The machinery section of the engineering building at the University of Saskatchewan was destroyed by fire this morning. A short circuit in the electric wiring is said to have been the cause of the outbreak which started at the engine room. The fire originated at half, a million dollars. The building, which was the largest of the university group was entirely destroyed. Water pressure was inadequate that streams reached only to the roof of the second story windows. Twenty below zero weather added to the difficulties fronting firemen. An explosion of a large quantity of gasoline in the engine was at its height, blew the southeastern corner of the building to fragments and many persons had a narrow escape from flying debris.

Chevrolet Road Man Gets a Bargain; Buys Worthless Car But Gets Good Dog

Here is a good story that comes from Campbellford.

Yesterday was spring house-cleaning day at one of the local garages. A number of old cars were backed out and parked on the street. A crowd of curious people gathered to look over the antique models. Along came Bob Gilchrist, the man who will bring in the spring.

"What are you going to do with this junk?"

W. J. Mullen, Chevrolet road man, happened to be standing by and asked.

"Sell them for scrap iron," said the purchaser of one of these cars".

"I'll give one of my police dogs to the man that buys that one," said Mr. Gilchrist pointing to an old Everett model that dated back to the last century and wouldn't have realized more than five cents a pound.

All Mr. Mullen said was "The car is there, the dog is there, I'll take it on receipt," and Mr. Gilchrist was out a thoroughbred police pup, dating back five generations, and the car was there. He was gone though, and gave Mr. Mullen the slip. Mr. Gilchrist has the last name he is in Cobourg, where Mr. Gilchrist lives.

FAITH OF INDIA IN JUSTICE OF BRITAIN HOLDS

Possession Not Held By Sword Professor McFadyen Says

AT CANADIAN CLUB

Speaker Paints Interesting Picture of Indian Customs

In a vivid word picture, Professor McFadyen of Queen's University drew scenes of an Indian Lake, for the benefit of the Women's Canadian Club in the Armouries yesterday afternoon.

Professor McFadyen was able from actual observation to judge of conditions in India, and in the course of his remarks he said that the popular idea that India was held at the point of a sword was incorrect. He said British power in India rested not on their 60,000 army of white soldiers, but it was ridiculous to think that 60,000 people could overcome the 320,000,000 people in India. It consisted in the fairly of India in the justice of British rule. That was what held India for Britain today. Military rule did not bind India to the Empire. It was exactly the opposite. One might travel for days there and never see a British military uniform.

The Professor described their homes. The Indians sleep on the roofs, but there were steps provided so as to avoid cats, dogs and constant danger from snakes and animals.

Their food consists of nuts from the long lakes or tanks, as they were called by great Rajahs in early years, as works of merit, hoping thereby to receive a reward from above. The life of the place centres around these tanks. Here people bathe three times a day.

"A bath to them is a part of their ceremony" said Professor McFadyen. He described how bath lasts about two hours. Here also the women gather to wash their clothes. They get water from the pool also sounds of laughing and chattering, and children playing. The noise of many women beating their clothes creates quite a din.

"At this pool also the cattle were watered. When one considers that the people wash in their mouths, teeth, bodies, clothes and cattle in the same water it is no wonder that some of them caught cholera. It was no wonder that they didn't catch it.

"Many Indians committed suicide by drowning themselves in the pool. Domestic race and many suicides are recorded. Every student boy failed in his examinations at school several times, and when his father spoke harshly to him he would drown himself.

Drown Their Gods

"When a child is born a calendar is carried out at the tanks in the drowning of the images. The biggest day is when the representative of the Hindu god of the Ganges drowns his god. A huge procession takes place with the god on the back of elephants and gorgeous pomp make up the parade, attended by the blow of horns and the beat of tom-toms and drums. At the lake side the image is put into the water and the priest sits on the bike, and with the accompaniment of the burning incense, many rites the image drowns in the water.

"The probable reason for this, is that the image represents a god, and so must not be destroyed by human hands, but they consider it no desecration to let the god drown in the waves."

At the civil station, the Professor stated, there was a sharp distinction between the white people and the Indian quarters. Although outsiders may suppose that this is as it ought to should be, there was much to be said for such a division. For one thing, the white people lived in fear of the Indian quarters, and there is a distinction between the Indian and the white. The night is made hideous by bands, dancing, singing and noise. For this reason and for many others the separation is very much justified, and no outsider would suppose.

Speaking of Indian servants, the Professor said that they were a race by themselves. He used to hear stories of their dishonesty, but during twenty years of personal experience, he had found them honest servants and he could not trust. They were faith ful to their word and when he and his family left India they missed their servants friends very much, and he hoped the feeling was reciprocated.

He spoke of the cotton industry in India, and said that the working conditions which existed a few years ago, such as the mills at night, were paid $2.00 a month with an opportunity of being raised to $4.00. It was

UNLUCKY DAY FOR AT LEAST ONE CITY MAN

Walter Riggs Burned While At Work in C.N.R. Shop

COLLISION LATER

Ambulance Bumped New Car at Bridge and Pinnacle

To-day, Friday the thirteenth, was an unlucky day for at least one man in the city, who was employed in the C.N.R. shops this morning. For while he was being rushed to the hospital with the ambulance collided with another car at Bridge and Pinnacle streets.

Walter Riggs, an employee of the Canadian National Railway and residing at 142 Bridge street west, was the victim. He was engaged in his duties at the locomotive shop when a blow torch caught fire from a torch he was using. Before the flames could be extinguished, Mr. Riggs suffered severe burns about the lower part of the body.

He was taken to the Belleville General Hospital where he received every medical attention. The burns, while painful, are not considered of a dangerous nature as to cause alarm. Mr. Riggs is a man above middle age and has been employed as a resident of the city.

The Collision

It was a new car, the property of the Riggs' family, which collided with the C.N.R. ambulance. The collision occurred at the corner of Bridge and Pinnacle street. The ambulance had just turned from Pinnacle street on to Bridge street. The vehicles met sideways. The ambulance struck Riggs on one side of the radiator were torn off and the fenders damaged. Fortunately no person was injured. Damage to the ambulance was slight. The serious nature. The new car was being demonstrated at the time.

Have No Fear of Chicago Epidemic

Twenty-eight Deaths Recorded in Thirteen Hours From Influenza

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, March 12.—Although twenty-eight deaths were recorded in thirteen hours, ending at 9.30 o'clock last night, and 76 new cases reported, Doctor Herman Bundest, City Health Commissioner, declared today that the real epidemic of influenza and respiratory troubles was over. The first ten days of deaths would be thirteen; and new cases would be forty a day for this week. He issued a statement today warning that public carelessness would cause a fresh outbreak.

Chicago, March 13.—Warning that a dangerous epidemic of grip is not yet entitled and highly contagious disease, Commissioner of Health Herman Bundesen, has claimed 301 victims in twenty-four hours. The first ten days of this month was seconded by Health Commissioner Herman Bundesen last night.

There were eighty cases reported to his office today and 76 yesterday. In the 24 hours ending at 9 o'clock this morning 28 deaths occurred. There are 76 new cases and 27 deaths. The daily death rate during the first ten days of the month, according to Health Department records, is 40.

Declaring that conditions are fatiguing work, lasting from dawn to dark, a New York city man has formed organized, instituted a strike, and won, obtaining better terms.

Many interesting reminiscences made up a most instructive and absorbing address, delivered by the Professor asked that in any attempt to form an estimate of the value of British rule, the influence of the Impact of Christianity, and one or two others should not be considered, for the reason that they could not be told in cold numbers.

AN EXHAUSTED DICTATOR

Benito Mussolini, the Fascist dictator of Italy, has been forced by illness to delegate the premiership to another minister and to relinquish hold of the government in some sorts.

Mussolini is scarcely 42 years old. A few short years ago, he marched his Black Shirt army on Rome, brimming over with enthusiasm and energy. He insisted on being all things to all the country. In government, he was no believer in the democratic system of dividing labor and responsibility. And it must be said that, while Fascists applauded and politicos fans gnashed their teeth, he was a tolerably successful autocrat.

But the strain proved too much for the man. Something had to snap under the terrific self-imposed tension, and it is to that tension that his physical collapse is ascribed.

To wield the "big stick" over a great nation with impunity is given to very few and very exceptional human beings. Unquestionably the personal power must be prepared to pay the penalty. This is becoming increasingly true as national and international life grows ever more complex and as new problems in world affairs numbers press daily for solution.

The Roosevelts of our day have been few and far between. Georges Clemenceau and Mr. Lloyd George escaped punishment, so far as their physical constitutions are concerned. After all, however, these men were content to share with cabinets and parliaments as much of the governmental functions as possible.

Lenin's case is a warning to would-be autocrats. Mussolini may have stepped out just in time to avert such a tragedy as Lenin's. If he does escape which, he may yet learn to see some of the virtues of a wisely applied democracy in modern government.

ADVERTISING HELPS CREDIT

There is one way by which a business man's credit is improved, and that is by a policy of consistent advertising. Bank men believe in advertising, for they know it pays. Their feeling, therefore, is that when a merchant who is in good advertising applies for a loan, that a reasonable amount of goods, bought by him on credit, is likely to be turned over quickly and promptly paid for, on account of his methods of disposing of goods constantly before the public.

Discriminating buyers of every class know they can get fresh goods from the store that advertises. The merchant who advertises makes a shop worn goods. And in that way advertising helps the merchant's credit almost only with the banks but with his customers. And one is just as important as the other.

LET WELL ENOUGH ALONE

Count Rossino de Tiroff Erie, a Parisian designer of women's gowns, tells interviewers in New York how shocked he is at the clothes worn by the men of our day.

"At the opera, one sees the women gorgeously dressed, harmonizing with the ensemble," the count says. "Then the men, with their horrible black clothes. It is terrible, I shudder."

And presumably, the beautiful pearl bracelet with the crest wears on his manly wrist, shuddered also, in sympathy.

The Frenchman must continue to suffer, unfortunately. The ladies seem to take the men as they are and the men on this continent are ruled by the ladies. So what can be done?

COOL HEADS ARE NEEDED

(Border Cities Star)

Every now and then some hot-headed orator rises in his place to tell the world to beware of the East. But what real reason is there for believing that Japan and China have designs on Canada, and the United States? Both of the latter countries have used strong tactics in dealing with these two peoples, but we are still on good terms with them and will continue to be so long as cool-headed statesmen have the last say. We must make it our business to see that cool heads continue to be in a position to have the last say.

THE VALUE OF DAIRYING

The emphasis placed by J. Frank Singleton, assistant to Dr. J. A. Reddick, chief of the dairy department of the federal government, upon the value of dairying industry in Canada serves again to stress the strides that have been made in dairying in this country.

There was a time when Ontario farmers used to go west to "make milling" as they put it—but that day has passed.

The agricultural interests are realizing now that the dairy farmer can take care of himself and prosper no matter what the present conditions are, and more and more the possibilities of dairying are making themselves felt.

The industry is in its infancy, and the wise farmer is turning his attention to the dairy cow as a source of steady revenue, even in periods when farm products generally are a failure as revenue producers.

TERRORISM IN BENGAL

(London Times)

The terrorist movement in Bengal has reached such a pass that ordinary methods of justice, since all possible witnesses of terrorist acts are themselves intimidated and on occasion murdered by the secret revolutionary government. A summary procedure is absolutely necessary in these exceptional circumstances. The Viceroy's long and extremely conciliatory appeal to the provincial Legislature and more particularly to its Swarajist members was intended to drive home this important point. Whatever the ultimate aim of the Swarajists may be, with whatever various methods they propose to execute it, they must at any rate definitely discipline themselves from those who are trying to effect political change and, to bring about political chaos by systematic murder.

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

Voting By Mail

Mr. WILLIAM E. HAMILTON of Milwaukee has undertaken a campaign in behalf of mail voting.

He wants a constitutional amendment passed in the States which will permit citizens of a town, village or city ward to vote by mail if they choose.

They would enable the plan to be tried out on a small scale before its adoption as a universal system.

Mr. Hamilton says that at present 12 per cent are sick or absent from the city so can vote by mail, and he cannot understand why he should not do it when he is well and at home.

The absent voting law protects the secrecy of the ballot and it protects the ballot box so that no one who is not registered can be a voter.

One point that is brought out is that the expenses of mail voting would be less than the present system.

For instance, in Mr. Hamilton's district it would cost $1,242.80 to mail each person a ballot with a prepaid return envelope enclosed. The expense for competent help would be about $100. The cost of the envelopes would amount to $150. Other expenses would radiate about the same. So we have a total expense of $2,200 for mail voting, as against $6,352 for voting in person.

Besides this, it is reasonable to suppose that a larger number of people would vote if voting was made easier.

Under the present election law only about sixteen per cent. of the potential vote was cast in Mr. Hamilton's district, and it is estimated that at least ninety per cent. of the voters would exercise their franchise under the new method of balloting.

Voting by mail seems to have everything in its favor as a cheaper, simpler and more up-to-date plan than voting in person. The secrecy of the ballot and other safeguards have been carefully worked out and the post office is abundantly able to handle the mail vote.

Mr. Hamilton asks, "Why not use the postal service to make the exercise of the franchise more convenient and independent?" Why not bring civic duty at home, vote by telephone, change secrecy of the ballot by electrical process, and control Charity in all?

Moonshine and Fools

The moon was real neighborly last night. As the old fellow climbed up over Point Anne a few minutes before nine o'clock. Many observers were startled at their first sight of him. It looked as if he had found his way right into the earth's back yard. The sky grows was given the impression that an aeroplane might make the trip in an hour or two, so dull and lifeless appear is the.

'Tis a pity so few were out to enjoy the sight. Many young fellows lost golden opportunities by feeding her chocolates indoors.

Down in Florida, the State Road Department has worked out a device to prevent railway crossing fatalities. One is already in use.

The idea is to construct two parkways, one on either side of the railroad enclosed by a concrete curb which divides the travel, causing the motorist going in one direction to pass on the right side of the parkway, while traffic in the opposite direction goes to the left. The passageways are made narrow and are curved, so that the motorists must slow down to get through.

The idea appears rather clever, but you can't fool the reckless driver. He will likely smash into the concrete curb.

Here's a letter to the editor of a Toronto paper, written by a former resident of the United States on Canada's ills, is at least worth reading. I pass it on without comment:

"As an observant 'Yank' over here a few years, I see lots of things different on National Unity compared with United States. You first have lack of real unity of interests (long knows), but not much done to rectify. You have too much lack of aggressive industrial development or initiative to develop. Too much wanting to run to Ottawa to correct commercial ills that should be worked out by your industrialists. Too much excess productive capacity in some lines and lack of initiative to develop others to fill in. Too much of antiquated processes and off machinery that might still help a lot. It was 20 to 50 years ago. Too much petty jealousy of one firm being successful in its line). Too much 'knocking' and lack of boosting. Too much pollition in daily papers and too little constructive criticism. Too much concentration in confining immigration to British peoples. This is wrong, for you do not get enough varied ideas of different people.

You need a protective tariff as high as the United States has, but unfortunately your manufacturers will boost their price to the very limit thus increasing the cost of living rather than keeping prices down, foreign products out, and better business here and living as well. This last item most important of all.

Yours, etc.,
THOMAS FULLER.

HAMILTON DIVINE IS MUCH SOUGHT AFTER

Hamilton, March 12.— Metropolitan Church, Toronto, will have competition for the services of Rev. Dr. W. H. Sedgewick, for many years minister of Central Presbyterian Church here. Churches in Montreal and Ottawa as well are said to desire Dr. Sedgewick as minister. Erskine Church, Montreal, is known to have been in touch with him since the announcement that his future ministry would be with the United Church of Canada.

In every walk of life you'll find men and women who are fighting constipation—the dread disease which robs the body of its energy and strength. Constipation goodness, there is pleasant, safe, permanent relief from constipation—Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is what doctors call a bulk food. As it journeys through the body, its fiber remains unchanged. Therefore, it can sweep the intestines clean. ALL-BRAN also absorbs and carries moisture through the intestinal tract, thus stimulating regular, healthy action. ALL-BRAN urges nature to act normally—something that habit-forming pills and drugs can never do.

Serve Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream, sprinkled over other cereals or cooked with hot cereals. Delicious with fruits. Also use the many recipes given on the red-and-green package. If eaten regularly, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or the grocer returns the purchase price. Two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

Be careful! Only ALL-BRAN brings sure relief. Insist on getKellogg's ALL-BRAN. A pest-bran product is only partially effective—maybe not at all. Kellogg's is the original and only ALL-BRAN. All grocers sell it. Served in leading hotels and restaurants. Buy a package today.

United States Congressmen Are Planning Tours for Themselves

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, March 12.—Sir Henry Thornton's life-savers, delivered at a recent banquet in New York, in connection with Canada's delegate to visit the European non-resorts "and the Canadian exhibit and see the world," is of peculiar interest in Washington just now. A slight revision of the slogan is necessary to make it applicable to Washington, however, for there one need not be a member of the cabinet. The Washington version is: "Join the United States Congress and see the world."

It has just been disclosed that five or more Congressional junkets are planned for this spring and summer. Before the ceremonial over the inauguration ceremonies has entirely subsided the first flock of Congressmen will be on their way to the Panama Canal zone on the Cristobal for a rest and sightseeing expedition. A large number of members of the House are to participate in this excursion.

Secretary Weeks of the War Department has notified members of the Senate Appropriations Committee that an attractive tour to the Hawaiian Islands is planned for them, starting from New York March 28 and returning to San Francisco May 13, food and lodging for the Junkets to cost approximately $182. This is to be a sixty-day affair and military points of interest will be visited.

Members of the House and Senate Committee on Immigration and Naturalization will go to California and other states where Government projects are under way, to inspect dams, and so forth.

A committee to study postal conditions will visit the larger cities and distributing centers and inquire into the mail service generally.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur has been requested to provide the Henderson for a journey to Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and other places of interest for members of the House Committee on Naval Affairs. The junket would begin June 2.

Gas In The Stomach Is Dangerous

Recommends Daily Use of Magnesia to Overcome Trouble Caused by Fermenting Food and Acid Indigestion

Gas and wind in the stomach accompanied by that full, bloated feeling after eating, are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid-in the stomach causing so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst folly to neglect such a serious condition to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead, get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia, or take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloat right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—either is just as good) is harmless to the stomach as inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Loot valued at $600 not ranging from shredded wheat to typewriters and adding machines, was recovered by Niagara Falls police, and two boys, aged eleven and the other seven, appeared before Magistrate Fraser. The younger boy was dismissed and the elder remanded for sentence until to-day.

The charge against Dr. H. M. McIntyre, Brantford, that he represented himself as a duly qualified practitioner contrary to the Ontario Medical Act, was dismissed by Magistrate Jones yesterday. The bench thought there was no intent to deceive. He is a duly registered chiropractor under the Provincial Act.

Three Grants Are Being Recommended

Poultry Association, Hospital and Playgrounds To Benefit

Considerable business was transacted at a regular meeting of the Civic Committee held last evening, many recommendations were passed and the following recommendations were approved of and passed on to the Council meeting on Monday next.

That a sanitary sewer be built on Hayward street from West Moira street to Holloway street under provisions of section 9 of the local improvement act.

That a committee composed of the City Engineer, Alderman Gowdy and Ald. Patterson be appointed for the purpose of considering the location of a rail on the piano house, and enter into an agreement relative to building same, also the location of a fence along the right of way.

That a sanitary sewer be built on Grove street from Strachan street to Bell boy street, under provisions of section No. 9 of the local improvement Act.

That a concrete sidewalk be built on the westerly side of Bleecker Avenue between East Bridge street and the northerly limit of lot 20 w. under provisions of section 9 of the local improvement Act.

That a Committee composed of the City Engineer, Ald. Patterson, chairman of Public Works and Ald. Graham, chairman of the Executive committee be appointed to investigate the eyelashing of the Upper bridge.

That a grant of $100 be made to each of the two children's play grounds in the city, for the purpose of assisting in the upkeep of same.

That $1000 be paid to the Board of Governors of the general hospital on account of the annual grant.

That a grant of $150 be made to the Belleville Poultry Association to assist them in defraying expenses in connection with the recent poultry show held in the city.

Authority Given For New Name

W. H. Patterson Sells Interest to Jamieson Bone; Outlook Good

It was announced to-day that Secretary of State at Ottawa have issued supplementary letters Patent, changing the name of the Patterson Construction Co., Limited to Jamieson Bone and Co., Limited.

Mr. Bone looks for considerable activity in his line of business this year and said to-day that his quarry on the Trent Road will commence as soon as the weather permits. Two new attached dwellings on Bridge St. E. are being finished, and the company intends going ahead immediately with further small houses to fill a much needed demand here.

Mr. Bone purchased the entire interest of Mr. W. H. Patterson on Dec. 31st last and has just recently applied for and been granted chance of name. The new company has its office in the Chamber of Commerce building and also have quite extensive yards and storeroom at 166 George St. where an additional storehouse is now being erected.

As the Government is now calling for tenders it is expected that as soon as the weather conditions are favorable work is to commence on the balance of the road between here and Trenton, which is made of concrete, and a few miles of road from Bloom field to Belleville it is likely that the road between Belleville and Corbyville will be paved this year.

Many Entertained By Holloway Choir

Pleasing Program Rendered At Annual Concert Last Night

The choir of Holloway St. Church, assisted by some outside talent presented an enjoyable concert last night at their church.

Miss Tate gave several numbers in her inimitable manner, among which were three monologues from Dickens, first Dirah Heep, from David Copperfield, she wound the old Grandfather in the Old Curiosity Shop, and the third, Sidney Carter from the Tale of Two Cities. A Scotch number on "Bazaar" caused considerable amusement, and all were heartily encored.

Mr. Bonker also assisted with several pleasing solos, singing several Scotch songs, and others including "Songs of Araby."

Mr. Arthur Herity, the other soloist of the evening sang very acceptably a comic song "Jonathan Jones."

During the course of the evening several selections which were highly appreciated, "Lullaby," being the best of these. Miss Valeri Wrightmeyer acted as the accompanist for the evening. An organ number by Miss Wright never received loud applause, and was well-rendered.

During a short intermission Dr. Brown made a few remarks, in the course of which he told about a gentleman who asked him on Monday if there was a large crowd out at church on Sunday evening. To which the doctor replied, "Yes, there was a large crowd 'out' but not 'in.'" Several stories about the Scotch completed his short address.

Wolves of North City League Champs

Defeated Boosters 3-2 in Tight Battle Last Night

The Wolves of the North hockey team are champions of the City League having won that title last evening when at the arena they defeated the Boosters Club by a score of 3 to 2. It was a good game of hockey and was witnessed by a good number of spectators. In the first period neither team were able to bridge the net, but in the second period both teams scored two each and at the start of the third period it was a battle royal and the Soldiers team were lose of the game. Shortly before time was able to score. Shortly before time was up, the Wolves of the North scored, being the only goal recorded in the period.

Bill Gwin was the referee and he managed to please both sides.

The line-up of the teams was as follows:

Wolves of the North—Jeffrey, goal; N. Goyer and C. Jeffrey, defence; Dr. Hough, centre; J. Smith, right wing; W. Cook, left wing; G. Arnott and F. Milne, rover.

Curler's Finals Played To-night

COMPEAU IS GOING WITH PORT HURON

Kingston, Ont., March 12.—Mickey Compeau, star shortstop of the Kingston team in the Central Ontario League last year, has signed a contract to play this year with "Knotty" Lee's Port Huron team, in the Michigan-Ontario League, and thus Kingston loses her best ball player. Compeau will report to Lee on April 15th.

Mickey Compeau is but four after Compeau since last season, and would have had him for Kingston if this deal had been taken into the Quebec-Ontario League.

Compeau was last year the sensation of the C. O. B. L., and all over the ice could be tickled in spectacular style and hammered the ball hard. When "Knotty" cage here to coach the team late in the season, he was at once impressed by Compeau's playing and predicted a great future for him.

Niagara Falls In Eastern Finals

Defeated Montreal Victorias 8 to 3 Last Night

Niagara Falls qualified for the Allan Cup eastern finals by beating Victorias, of Montreal, 8 to 3 at the Falls, Arena, last night, and the five-goal margin gave the senior O. H. A. champions the round by 8 to 5, the Vics having won the first game in Montreal, 3 to 0. The Falls were very keen though they did not play the hockey they are capable of, and the Victorias gave the senior O. H. A. champions an argument worth while, but took of the evening ability of the home team cuts. Niagara Falls plays Varsity in the finals here tomorrow night with Mike Rodden, as referee, while the return game takes place in the Big Four town on Tuesday with Dr. W. J. Laflamme in charge. It promises be a big series, and the winner goes to Winnipeg to play the western survivor in the finals for the Allan Cup, leaving Toronto on Thursday of next week.

Tie Round in a Hurry

Facing a two-goal deficit the Falls went into the first period determined to tie up the round in a hurry and they did, inside of nine minutes, Herrington battling in a rebound for the first, while Kitchen and Mclean went after each the other, the former picking up the rebound and lifting the puck over Scott who had hopped to meet Mclean's shot. And with the Ontario team having a decided edge in the play during the balance of the period there did not appear any doubt as to the ultimate winner. The Falls should have had at least two more goals, Kitchen and Rice both missing the open net after the puck had been cleverly worked inside the Montreal defence.

But despite the advantage the Falls had in the first period, Vics surprised everybody by coming out in the second period and routing the first goal, Arbour doing the trick on a pass from Roy Anderson after he had fallen down a few seconds before when he had Mayo at his mercy.

Falls Score Three

The reverse preceded up the Fraserner and they set a terrific pace during the balance of the period, which was the most hectic of the three. Kitchen went through alone for a goal and then Herrington from a remote corner after he had revived a pass from Seibert, shovel the puck into the net, while Herrington again beat Scott when he took a toss from Fraser.

Play warmed up and the checking became close and hard, while penalties were handed fast and often. Shibley clubbed his stick into Kitchen and the latter retaliated with a punch to the jaw of the former five minutes of the referee and he had hardly climbed over the boards when Siebert, followed for a trip.

Victorias were not slow to take advantage of the two extra men and hemmed the Falls in on their own net, Mayo finally scoring on a pass from Aldie. But that was the ... could do before Kitchen and Fraser got back on the ice, Fraser, Herrington and Rice getting a splendid display of defensive hockey.

Great in Fraser

And it was the stalwart Fraser who carried his team along in the third period, while he never played a more clever game of writing. He worked his way in for a goal on the prettiest play of the night, passing the puck through, though given no room, guarding and passing right in on Scott before flipping the rubber into the net. Ten seconds later the Vic got a goal, Kitchen and Fraser colluding he latter finally scoring on a pass from Slater in front and the Olympic player shot it past Mayo.

Fraser also played a part in the scoring of the last two goals, his long pass yesterday morning by 74 pins. The Flat Foots got off to a good start, piling up 446 pins in the first game. In the second and third the Never Sweat won but by not enough pins to win out. High bowlers were Kline and Ormond

In a Junior League game the Claco won from the Rovers by 32 pins. The Rovers won the first game but couldn't hold their lead in the second and third. The Claco coming back strong in the last game to win out. Symons and Hector were high bowlers for their teams.

In the C.N.R. League the Sept's took 3 points from the Road Dept. by 206 pins. The Road weakened in the second frame when they lost that team by 320 pins. In the third the Road Dept. won out. High bowlers were Smiller Hall and E. Dickie.

Try Salts If Kidneys Hurt

DRINK WATER FREELY AND OFTEN TO KEEP KIDNEYS FLUSHED AND CLEAN

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally says a well-known authority. Too much rich food creates acids, which clog the kidney pores so that they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood. Then you get sick. Rheumatism, headaches liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in your kidneys, your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage, or attended by a sensation of scalding, begin to drink soft water in quantities; also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink, which everyone can take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby often preventing serious kidney complications. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year and draw this through your hair taking

Keep a Clear Lookout

Wash Windows with Soap

If the eyes of the home are windows, there must be many houses with defective vision. Cleaning windows used to be a long-lasting process when the whole row many housewives not knowing of easier ways, keep putting off such dow-cleaning times as long as possible.

Really, washing windows is not more difficult a job than washing dishes. Just mix two quarts of hot water—with a liberal pinch of dissolved in it, so as to make it keep blue—over inflammable fumes of kerosene, and a small cake of Every once into these hot suds. Wash cloth, wringing slightly. With this wet cloth go over the windows, and then follow by wiping off with a soft dry cloth and polishing with chinese paper. This gives the window a bright gleaming appearance, and is an excellent way to keep the time from them in summer.

NOTE—For further information on the use of soap, write for booklet "Ways of Using Soap" published by the National Household Science Bureau, 1916 Peel Avenue, New York City.

MORE ENGLISH GIRLS BEING EMPLOYED

London, March 13.—The women and girls of England are being absorbed back into industry far more quickly than the men and boys, according to recent statistics on unemployment. Their drive, owing to the booked hair craze, has risen employment to a large number of young women who earn better wages than the ugly looking females of the extra charges made for trimming bobbed locks. Men in London pay anywhere nately 25 cents for a hair cut, while women pay double that amount.

Last spring there were 300,000 women among the unemployed of Great Britain, while to-day the number is accepting the 250,000. Although about 1,000,000 extra women and girls are now at work compared with the figures of the year before the beginning of the war, women and girls together do not represent one-quarter of the total number of unemployed. Government officials say there is every indication that the number of unemployed, both men and women, will be greatly reduced during this year.

PUTTING NEW PEP INTO OLD WEMBLEY

London, March 13.—It is the intention of the authorities to make the Wembley Exhibition of 1925 far better than that of 1924.

"From the day it opens during the first week of May," said Sir Travers Clarke recently, "we are going to make the British Empire Exhibition as wide a swing." Wide and wonderful will be much more a social crater than last year, he added, and provincial districts are already planning for a greater invasion of London. It is hoped, however, that the steamship companies that are to arrange special excursions to the United States and other countries, will reverse the procedure later and bring visitors from those lands to Wembley.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

"Everything is in admirable order, thank you, Mrs. Inchley," he said, "and I have nothing but praise and approval for your kind assistance. I want to ask you to see me, because I wanted to tell you that I am going to stay at the Castle for some time, and I wanted to know if we could see some people down. I shall not bother you short notice; but you're used to that, I'm afraid."

"Yes, my lord," said Mrs. Inchley simply.

The marquis smiled.

"How many?—if I might make so bold, my lord."

"How many?" repeated the marquis. "Oh, a dozen or so. I suppose we have room enough; I don't know, but I think I have been all over the house, and I suppose there is."

"Oh, there's room enough, my lord."

"Very well. Then as to servants: I not have any staff of servants here. Do whatever you think necessary, in short—if any of the people want furnishing, see Mr. Ingram about it. I expect you will have to go down presently and she will remain while the visitors and I are here. You will want some money. Have whatever you want from Mr. Ingram. Please spare the expense. I should like my friends to be comfortable, you understand. Good-morning."

Mrs. Inchley courtesyed herself herself out, and flurried back to her own apartment in a taste of excitement.

"Well, well!" said Fanny. "Who think of it!" exclaimed the old lady. "The Castle is to be filled with visitors, Harry, and the rooms to get ready, refurnished, if need be, and I had no expense to spare! What ever does it mean?"

Fanny paused thoughtfully.

"It means a lot of work for you, mum dear," she said sympathetically, "and you must let me help you. Let me see, I am sure I can remember the morning and order some of the things."

The Grange was just outside Purlington.

"So you say that's a good girl?" said Mrs. Inchley approvingly. "I'll see Mr. Ingram, and make out a list right away. You're quite capable, are you? Oh, dear! If the marquis hadn't been so kind I should have refused when he told me! Run and, put on your things, Fanny, and bring the list. He always likes things done straight off and all in a minute."

Fanny went upstairs with dutiful promptitude, and put on her smartest jacket and hat; then she took a small sheet of paper from the desk in the drawer, and unlocking it, took out the letter she had purloined the night before from the marquis' secretary. But after reading it and pondering over it, she put it back in its place, and carefully locking the drawer, went downing to Mrs. Inchley in passing at the stairs to her aunt.

The marquis was in the best of humors that morning, the servants declared, and one footman went so far as to assert that he heard his lordship humming a tune as he passed through the hall into the gardens. There he induced the gruff old secretary, Mr. Mackey, to select the flowers for a beautiful bouquet which he presented himself to Major Delaine's cottage, and placed it in the hands of the old lady, and sent on his way, little dreaming that the pretty, fair-haired, golden-locking girl was to exercise so vast an influence over his life and that of the woman he loved.

Fanny Inchley walked on with her short, mincing little steps, and reached the cottage in due course. If now she her shrewd face grew a little paler, and certainly a little more set as she rang the bell at the Grange and asked for Lady Delaine.

Wash Cloth and Soap

Then she took a small comb out of her pocket, and with a few deft touches arranged her hair, and pinched her cheeks to bring the color into them.

The Grange, though much smaller and less important than the Castle, was a fairly good specimen of an English country gentleman's seat, and Fanny was ushered into a handsome old hall with the footman went in search of Lady Blanche.

CHAPTER XIII.

"Stop this way, please," he said, when he returned. "Her ladyship will see you."

Fanny followed him up the staircase into the florest and hundreds of fairy lights, and the footman showed her into a small room which served for Lady Blanche's drawing-room and boudoir.

Lady Blanche was reclining in a low lounge chair. She was arrayed in a morning wrap of palest blue satin, and a breakfast service stood on a small table beside her. It was evident that she had not been to any public appearance that morning. On the back of another chair Fanny's quick eyes saw the dress which Lady Blanche had worn the preceding night, and which Fanny had presumably come to mend.

Like most fair women, Lady Blanche looked best at night, but the cold blue eyes were keen enough as she raised them at Fanny's entrance, and said with real or affected languor:

"You have come about the dress, Miss—"

"Inchley, Fanny Inchley, my lady," said Fanny respectfully, and with her eyes fixed meekly on the carpet.

Lady Blanche looked over her shoulder.

"You will find it on that chair," she said.

Fanny took off her gloves—she had put on a pair of cotton ones, much too big for her, instead of the nice fitting kid she usually wore—and taking a neat, business-like little work-case, went and got the dress, and seated herself with it by the window.

Baree, Son of Kazan

By James Oliver Curwood

(A Vitagraph Picture with Wolf, the War Dog, is an adaptation of this story.)

SYNOPSIS

Pierrot, the halfbreed trapper, and Nepesse, his daughter, were hunting when they saw Baree. Baree was a halfdog, half-wolf; but it was the wolf in him that Pierrot saw and in the wolf in his skin was bad. Baree had just been Nepesse's pet, and Pierrot, at first, had carvings, and he hinted finished the pet and fronted upon it after he had frightened the cringing away. The dog was only a few weeks old and was having his first exciting adventures.

"Nootawe, let me shoot. I can kill him!"

With a low chuckle Pierrot gave the gun to her He counted the whole in the distance. The moment, at that distance, could send a bullet into an inch square nine times out of ten. And Nepesse, aiming carefully at Baree, pressed steadily with her brown forefinger upon the trigger.

CHAPTER V.

As the fellow pulled the trigger of her rifle, Baree sprang. He felt the force of the bullet before he heard the report of the gun. It struck him of his feet, and then sent him roll over and over on the sand. He received a hideous blow with a club. For a flash he did not feel pain. Then it ran through him like a knife of fire, and with that pain the dog in him rose above the wolf, and he let out a note outcry of puppyish yapping as he rolled and twisted in the sand.

Pierrot and Nepesse had stepped from behind the balsams. They viewed beautiful eyes shining with pride at the perfect shot. Instantly Nepesse caught her breath. Her brown fingers clutched at the barrel of her rifle. The chuckle of satisfaction died on Pierrot's lips as he saw Baree's cries of pain filled the forest.

"Pichi Moosis!" gasped Nepesse, to her Cree.

Pierrot caught the rifle from her. "Diable! A dog—a puppy!" he cried.

He started on a run for Baree. But in less than a minute he had lost a few seconds and Baree's dazed senses were clearing. He saw Indian clearly as they came across the open—a new kind of creature of the forest! With a final wail he darted back into the deep shadows of the trees. It was almost sunset, and he ran for the thick gloom of the heavy spruce on the creek. He had shivered at the sight of the human in him again. For the first time he now sensed the real meaning of the wolf-call that was a part of him. He could hear the crashing of the two-legged beasts in the brush, strange cries were almost at his heels —and then suddenly he plunged without warning into the water.

It was a shock to have the earth give out from under him, but Baree did not yelp. The wolf was in him again. He turned from the shore to remain where he was, making no move, no sound—scarcely breathing. The voices were over him; the strange feet almost stumbled in the hole where he lay. Looking out of his dark hiding place, he could see one of the enemies. It was Nepesse, the Willow. She was standing so that a last glow of the day fell upon her face Baree did not take his eyes from them. Next to his mother there rose in him a strange and thrilling fascination. The girl put her two hands to her mouth, and in a voice that was soft and plaintive and amazingly comforting to his terrified little heart, cried:

"Ochimoo—Ochimoo—Ochimoo!"

And then he heard another voice, and this voice too was far less terrible in so, startled, he had recognized it in the forests.

"Wa-ta-mana find him, Nepesse," the voice was saying. "He has crawled off to die. It is too bad, too bad."

Where Baree had stood in the edge of the open Pierrot paused and pointed to a birch sapling that had been broken off by Wolf Willow's dog. Nepesse understood. The sapling, as larger than her thumb had turned has about a trifle and then waved there from instant death.

She cried again and called:

"Ochimoo—Ochimoo—Ochimoo!"

Her cries were no longer filled with the thrill of slaughter.

"He would not understand that," said Pierrot leading the way across the open. "He is wild—born of the wolves. Perhaps he was of Koomo's breeding, who ran away to hunt with the packs last winter."

"Ah-ha!" said Nepesse.

"Ayesin—yes, he will die."

Then Nepesse had no idea of dying. He was too tough a youngster to be scheduled to death by a bullet passing through the flesh of his fore-leg that was what had happened. His leg was torn in the flesh, but the bone itself was untouched. He waited until Pierrot and Nepesse were well clear of out of his hole.

Then Lame Bear came, an hour later, out of the heavy timber of the creek-bed into the more open spruces of a small plain that ran along the foot of a ridge. It was in this plain that Ooboomiew hunted. Ooboomiew was a huge snow-owl. He was the patriarch among all the owls of Pierrot's hunting domain. He was so old that he was almost blind, and therefore he never hunted as other owls hunted. He did not hide himself in the dark cover of spruce and balsam tops, or float softly through the night, ready in an instant to swoop down upon his prey. His eyesight was now that from a strong top he could not have seen a rabbit at all, and he might have mistaken a fox for a mouse. Even if there could have been under the dark brush, and had discovered Ooboomiew's nest in which was his mate, it is not likely that he would have harmed her. Her eggs claiming blood was up. He, too, was ready for prey.

Very indistinctly Ooboomiew saw Baree, but even then he was not sure. He knew which he was watching. He squatted down. His feathers ruffled up until he looked like a ball. His almost sightless eyes glowed like two bluish pools of fire as the lost sun's fiery reflection for a moment and licked his wound. Ooboomiew's head turned. Again Baree advanced, passing within six feet of the owl. With a swift leap and a sudden thunder of his powerful wings the great bird was upon him.

In the stillness of night there rose a still greater thunder of wings, and the owl's head turned. Baree had been to keep from being blinded by Ooboomiew's sharp talons. He felt himself lifted swiftly, and as his teeth met through the soft body under the great breast, the angry mael carried defiance to Ooboomiew's ears. Those were good fortune had given him that grip on the big, and that thumb of defiance. He depended on his ability to hold it.

Suddenly Ooboomiew ceased his beating of wings and shot downward. Like huge fish he powerful wings churned the air, and Baree felt himself being suddenly from the earth. Still he held them and in a moment's time he had a beset fell back with a thud.

Under Baree's jaws Baree's mind worked with the swift instinct of the killer. Suddenly he changed his hold, bringing his fangs into the under part of Ooboomiew's body. They sank into three inches of feathers. Swift as Baree had been, Ooboomiew was equally swift to take advantage of his opportunity. In any second he had swooped to his feet. There was a jerk, a rending of feathers from flesh—and Baree was alone on the field of battle.

Baree had killed—but he had conquered.

CHAPTER VI.

Baree, right with Oobomiew was good reading for him. It was now to give him great confidence in himself, but it also made him more fierce of spirit from his blood. He no longer snapped and snarled at things as he went on through the night.

He was still a wanderer—puparoaster the Indians call it. It is this "wanderspirit" that inspires for a time nearly every creature of the world as soon as it is able to care for itself—naturally scheme, perhaps, for going away with too close family relations and possibly the beginning of inbreeding. Like the young wolf seeking new hunting grounds, or the young fur-bearer seeking a new world, had no reason or method in his wandering. He was simply "traveling"—going on. He wanted something which he could not find. The wolf-note brought it to him.

It was on the moon filled Baree with a yearning for his own kind. The distant howls impinged upon him his blood. Always, however, he kept in that only by questing could he find. It was not so much Kazan and Gray Wolf that he missed now—not so much the big log-house and the kennels of Isostair.

Baree did not travel far that night. The fact that his wound had come with a fight with his fight with Oobomiew had left him very weak. His muscles, nerves had taught him that the dark hide himself in the dark cover of spruce and balsam tops, or float softly through the night, ready in an instant to swoop down upon his prey. His eyesight was now that from a strong top he could not have seen a rabbit at all, and he might have mistaken a fox for a mouse. Even if there could have been under the dark brush, and had discovered Oobomiew's nest in which was his mate, it is not likely that he would have harmed her. Her eggs claiming blood was up. He, too, was ready for prey.

Very indistinctly Oobomiew saw Baree, but even then he was not sure. He knew which he was watching. He squatted down. His feathers ruffled up until he looked like a ball. Under Baree's jaws Baree's mind worked with the swift instinct of the killer. Suddenly he changed his hold,

For economy's sake I buy a supply and let it age"

—says Mrs. Experience, speaking of the economical use of soap.

"I always keep a good supply of Sunlight Soap on the shelf because I find that Sunlight actually improves with age. It becomes harder and so goes much further.

"With this added economy of lasting longer, I've learned that Sunlight is by far the most economical soap I can buy. The reason is that every particle of Sunlight is pure, cleansing soap—a little of it does a lot of work. Sunlight, you know, is guaranteed to contain no injurious chemicals or harsh filling materials to make the bar large and hard. These filling materials, of course, are just so much waste as far as cleaning goes.

"To any woman who wants to get real cleaning value out of a soap for her money, I decidedly say, 'Use Sunlight,' and keep a good supply on the shelf." Sunlight is made by Lever Brothers Limited, largest soap-makers in the world. 8-44

Actress Changed Her Directions

Was on Her Way to Heaven; Now It's Different

"Well, for the Lara Mike. The last time I saw you, you were going to heaven, and now—now you're going to hell!" Sonata right outlandish. Dated 1917. And yet it wasn't such a queer remark to make after all.

Some years ago, Carrie Clark Wardell Fradley Burkan, known to fame as "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and Carrie, as little Eva, was pulling right up to heaven many times a week. Not long ago the girls met at the Fox West Coast theatre for the first time since their "Uncle Tom" days. Both were to appear in "Dante's Inferno," the first picture to mark made by Frankie to her old chum Carrie was starred in earlier all.

"Dante's Inferno," which is now playing at the Belle Theatre has stirred to more comment and discussion than any picture made in years.

Frenchman Clings To Old Stocking

Refuse to Give Up Gold to Benefit Country

(Associated Press Dispatch)

Paris, March 13.—According to conservative estimates of the total wealth of France in gold coins hidden away in the traditional "old stocking" of the French people, and if France had this hidden gold at its disposal the country's financial situation would be distinctly improved. Every kind of appeal, but one has been made to the people in order to let the state have their hoarded coins and during the war much was accumulated under patriotic influences.

What remains seems to form an unstainable residue as far as the state is concerned. Every now and then, however, cases come before the courts where people are condemned for going around the country buying up 20-franc pieces, which gives them the hoarders to surrender in return for from 80 to 50 francs. Their real value is more, like 70 francs. Indeed, gold is illegal and dealers in it need high rates of profit.

Jean Thery, a financial writer, is advising the state to offer enough paper for gold to bring out this two billion. Theoreticians, he says, will be shocked at the idea of the state admitting its 20- franc gold coin is worth more than the 20-franc bill. The hundred thousand laborer knows this, he says, here can the state's admission do? he asks.

The mild winter has been blessed by everybody, except the fuel miners and the coal merchants. Parti-

Laughter, Thrills Make Picture Good

In Hollywood With Potash And Perlmutter Appreciated Here

Laughs, thrills, an occasional sob and many laughs are the ingredients that make "In Hollywood with Potash and Perlmutter" now playing at the Griffin Theatre, one of the most entertaining and pleasing First National pictures of the year.

In this second screen venture of the famous partners, Abe and Mawruss go into the motion picture business, and it is the complications that result from their attempts to produce a serious picture and create a vampire that produces the hilariously funny comedy situations. Both scenes in each of the partners do not approve of the vamp idea, nor is the situation simplified when the bank refuses to extend more credit at a critical moment.

The intense loyalty of one partner for another prompts him to take a wild automobile ride to save Mawruss and Director Alfred J. Green has packed into this ride thrills galore, and every thrill ends in a laugh!

Samuel Goldwyn, who produced "In Hollywood with Potash and Perlmutter," contributed materially to the success of his picture when he secured the services of Montague Glass, creator of the original characters, to write the brilliantly humorous titles which distinguish this picture. Much credit is also due Frances Marion for her splendidly constructed screen play, which has retained the story essential play, "Business Before Pleasure."

Alexander Carr, who was so remembered by theatregoers for his excellent characterization in the previous Potash and Perlmutter pictures, and George Sidney, veteran stage star, head the distinguished cast of this production in the film version. Vera Gordon, who also played in the first screen venture of the partners, appears as "Rosie." Betty Blythe is the appropriate vampire around whom the story centers, and Lucien Marion for her screen part, Charles Merrills, David Butler, Andre Randell, Cyril Ring and Lillian Hackett.

May Encourage Cheaper Travel

With More Comfortable Third Class Quarters On Ships

(Associated Press Dispatch)

Liverpool, March 13.—The policy of the United States in restricting the number of emigrants by the quota system, coupled with high building costs, is likely to cause the development of a new type of liner, according to Sir Harold A. Scotter, chairman of the White Star Line, writing in that company's magazine.

Mr. Sanderson says an extensive third-class business has been a potent factor in the development of fleets of the principal companies, eliminating the class of ladder with a standard of comfort for all classes a requisite in any other class in the world.

"This," he continued, "the restriction on the emigration movement has so reduced the volume of travel that, coupled with high building and operating costs, the construction of further steamships of monster type in the near future is considered problematic. Steamship companies may be expected to restrict their building program to vessels of moderate size and speed, with a long cruise composition of public rooms, and, while maintaining the present standard of comfort for first-class passengers, to institute improvements in the amenities for second and third-class."

Special attention will be given to steamers of cabin and third-class passengers will be maintained and increased largely considered in order to develop a greater class of travel which will refer to some extent, the restriction of emigrant traffic.

MYSTERIES OF THE ANCIENTS

The Department of Agriculture of Egypt has seeds which were found in sealed pottery containers in the tomb of King Tutankhamen which they will endeavor to propagate at their Agricultural Research Laboratories. These seeds may represent herbs containing medicinal properties that this age and generation knows not of. It was the simple herbs and herbs of the field that half a century ago produced Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a remedy that has never been equalled for overcoming ailments peculiar to women.

On the upper left is Anna Reynolds, the Toronto faith sect nurse-seer by Pastor Crockford, of the Cedarvale Holy Light Tabernacle of Toronto, who persuaded Earl Underwood, the Bluevale farmer, to offer up ten pigs on a burning altar as a thanksoffering for the recovery of his wife from the point of death. Upper centre shows Mrs. Underwood, also a follower of the Holy Light sect, who refused the entreaties of her mother to have a doctor. On the upper right is her husband, Mr. Earl Underwood, 27 years old. He firmly believes in the spiritual qualities of the nurse, who has now been lodged in be Lindsay jail. Below is a view of Mr. Underwood beside the embers of the altar fire, where the pigs he shot were cremated, and the Underwood farmhouse just on the outskirts of the village of Bluevale, five miles from Wingham.

Jury

gow" him in the wrestling between the two boys. Children or Alec himself may have taken that hammer yesterday.

"Rock were Grant and it was a fruitless brawl," went on counsel, "he will ask that a verdict of acquittal be returned. If however you feel that he used too much force, then you are entitled to bring in a manslaughter verdict."

Reminding the jury that O.P.P. evidence which followed Sergal's statements to the police as having been given the man's mental state, he introduced certain foreign witnesses to their evidence at his trial. Counsel asked the jury if they would send a man to the gallows on the evidence of a child not under oath.

Crown Prosecutor Speaks

Crown Prosecutor C. G. Frost commenced the jury to be reasonable in their verdict, justice in other—the figure of a lonely woman in some white robes, carrying her golden scales in her left hand, her blindfold a reward in her right—"ever her eyes, a cloth is said, to be worn by those becoming professed of anything but the cross face—she is not to be swayed by soft words or sentiment, but in proper justice with mercy."

Three questions faced the jury, Mr. Sergal felt Alec? Did he know what he was doing at the time? And was there any sufficient provocation?

He admitted killing Alec, asserting another one.

Fourteen witnesses tell one story and seconds tells the only other story. Are the fourteen to be disbelieved and one believed? There were no eyewitnesses of struggle in the room, as everyone was in court. Alec was tired having been on the streets and night previous, had been asleep when attacked. The blood on Sergal's face was in the struggle, after the murder, as the evidence indicating no struggle. There were no traces of any sudden struggle or street rushing on the floor.

Speaking as to the credibility of the old rear-old girl's evidence, Mr. Frost pointed out that probably she was understanding and long remembered what in the Alec and anyone was the memory of their harbar every some one. Then they never forgot it. How then, might a lot of clever years, forget the night they saw the neighbor in the room. She is able to tell the story nearly word for word. Then there is other. Why should she lie? There is no bad feeling between her people and Sergal.

Question of provocation. Mr. Frost thought, discarding the testimony of both doctors who agreed that only blow would be struck, and that by Sergal. Accused would have us believe that, he injured man sitting in the bed calmly, then drew his fist up and lay down. Is it not easier likely that he would have crashed to the floor if he were standing up when struck? He should be asked to deliver three blows when one would be taking it were for revenge and not malice? The boy Willis noticed the marks on the hammer handle, he said; while it was in Sergal's pocket during the afternoon, when Sergal was but two feet from him. Preponderance of the samples are no excuse for murder.

Mr. Frost reminded that Sergal did not speak to Rose or Mrs. Gurniak or Chyzowchyn; hence that fatal afternoon. He always had before. Was he cruel, grasping, and scheming at the time. He went outside and came back shortly. Was that nervousness developed in the 15 minutes which followed?

Prisoner in Stand

Sergal, Thadi Point Anne Russian, was put in the box in defense of his own life at his trial for murder a the Court House here Thursday afternoon, and for two hours he was carefully examined by his counsel C. J. Tyrrell and cross examined by Crown Prosecutor, F. G. Frost. He was the only witness for the defense.

Explaining unbeaten and composer throughout, Sergal said when accosted his seat in the dock. Thad wanting the same clothing as he was on the fatal day of the assault in the upstairs of Edmund Chyzowchyn's home was Alec Gurniak, Rumanian and brother workman at the Canada Cement Company, was dead. He declared unlisted a defense story that was remarkable.

By reason of the fact that seven witnesses had told of the assault in the room and understated broken Eastin, he examined through interpreters in English at His Lordship's request His knowledge of English proved quite limited Sergal said. He was born in Russia Austrian interpreter from Toronto was used throughout the trial, however his ex-amination, examination and cross examination.

Story of the Blows

Briefly, Sergal's defence was that he had been assaulted by Alec Gurniak on three occasions but prior to December 22nd and he was in fear of the man. He went upstairs at the Chyzowchyn's on the afternoon of the assault, to sleep, not knowing that Alec was already up there. When he saw Alec lying on his bed, he whistled over and started a conversation to Alec's antagonistic attitude, boujo, to make it up with him, in a friendly manner, as he had nothing against Alec. He said, "Alec, your nose is up." Alec replied a hammer which lay on the table and raised it at his assailant was grasping him by the sweater and, as threats and tearing sweater, he saw of the hammer scratched his nose when Sergal grabbed Alec by the, it now with one hand and they scuffled. Then Sergal says he used both hand to wrest the hammer from Alec and during done so, delivered three heavy blows in very quick succession, Alec thereupon sinking to the bed in a sitting posture, and later stretching out on the bed.

Explaining the sacrifices of mortal sins witness that a wooden object was seen in Sergal's pocket Monday preceding the assault, the accused pasted told of carrying a wooden knife needle used by him to knit mitts, and of carrying in that day. It was a wood or rung of a chair, which had been prepared in weather and this would had been washed off it by the element It was about as stout as an ordinary rung of a chair, and about the same thickness, indicating no struggle. There were no pieces of any sudden smashing or street rushing on the floor.

Speaking as to the credibility of the old rear-old girl's evidence, Mr. Frost pointed out that probably she was understanding and long remembered what in the Alec and anyone was the memory of their harbar every some one. Then they never forgot it. How then, might a lot of clever years, forget the night they saw the neighbor in the room. She is able to tell the story nearly word for word. Then there is other. Why should she lie? There is no bad feeling between her people and Sergal.

"Then I went to Gurniak's house and dogs probably until 2 o'clock. Then I went to Murdock's place and saw no one there. I didn't know Alec was up stairs and I fell asleep on the couch. In minute I reached upstairs Alec was lying there on the bed. I went over and asked Alec to get up and have a drink with me. I had nothing against him and did not want trouble. Alec got up and grabbed the hammer which was on the table. He struck me in the hands and he grabbed me by the throat tearing my sweater. I grabbed the hammer and hit three times I think. He sank on the bed and I got afraid, so I threw the hammer on the children's bed, and I went and lay on the bed. When people came I was afraid and said send for a doctor. I have beaten him and I thought I had killed him and was scared.

"Why did you hit Alec?" asked defender counsel.

Because I was afraid he was going to hit me, and I grabbed the hammer. I was not born drinking. This is my Monday's."

Sergal Tells

To Mr. Frost, accused told of the Sunday card game at Murdock's. He said that he had not been back to Murdock's from the time he left there Sunday morning until Monday afternoon when he returned.

He had been knitting before at Murdock's and he carried the pin in his pocket at Sunday night, he said, by on the bed.

Then he again described the actual scene which resulted in Cernuska's death.

Done Quickly

"Why did you hit Alec the second and third time?" asked Mr. Frost.

"It was all done very quickly, one two, three, hammering accompanying three short, quick motions with all strong right arm, which apparently realize on the stand.

"Did you use your right hand?"

"Yes, I held him by the elbow with my left hand."

"Did you see Annie Shymyzuchyk?"

"No, I never saw her."

"Why did you not tell your friends immediately afterwards the story you told now?"

"I had nobody to tell it to—they Ukrainian—no Russian."

"But you can understand and speak her language?"

"Yes, I can speak to them."

"You never told anyone that the door 'ovi' tell now?"

"Nobody except Shymyzchyn down stairs, that the fight started—that Alec picked up the hammer but I got it from him."

"What was this knitting pin like?"

"It was a piece of fir old about the like rung of a chair."

"Were there any marks on it?"

"No."

"What color was the paint of it?"

"It had been out in the weather and the paint was evidently off it."

"Was there any wire or special markings on it?"

"No."

"Are you friendly with Nick Gurniak?"

Nick Grouchy

"Well Gurniak was grouchy against me, because I leave his house to board after I left but I did not fight him back" but he could not help asking him why he hit Alec when Alec was in bed.

"I no remember," he answered to the Crown Prosecutor. Gurniak evidently having been to drs. Pechaski's house that day.

Recalling the pin killing incident that Monday morning, prisoner told of walking towards the spot where Alec and Nick Gurniak were dressing in bed.

"I did not know Alec was with them. When I got there Nick asked me why he fight me for, to which Alec acquired if I wanted more and struck me on the face on the left side of the mouth."

Coming back to the events leading immediately to the assault, Frost asked, Why did you go upstairs in the Chyzowchyn house if you were not to sleep? Why did you not stay downstairs?"

"I thought Alec had a good sleep and would go and make up with me, but I see nothing sealant him, and there was no reason why he should have."

"Was Alec standing up when you hit him first?"

"He was first sitting up, but when I reached for the hammer he got up on his feet."

"Did you have any trouble taking the hammer out of his hands?"

"I did not know it left my hands in fact as that."

Then Sergal was introduced a statement made by accused with night of the assault in the cell room at Smithville, witnessed by Sergeant E. A. Mc and Constable C. Naylon of the Provincial police, and secured with the assistance of Joe Diamond who acted as interpreter. Mr. Payne was first sworn to secure the true statement. He was read in English and translated to accused in Russian by the interpreter himself. Sergal admitted the facts of the statement which was made voluntarily.

In the statement, accused told how he with others had been drinking for two days and nights at Nick Gurniak's home.

"I was a pal," Sergal said, "that when I went to bed in the room Alec struck me in the face con punch. I got up and went out. Then I said to Alec what did you hit me for, and he said, do you want some more? I said again hit me."

Leading up to the assault he explained how they both went to Murdock's place where they had been drinking and when they got upstairs he asked Alec what for he hit him.

Alec got the hammer and wanted to hit me but I grabbed the hammer, took it from Alec and hit him. He was sitting on the bed when I hit him and he fell down. Mrs. Murdock sent for the doctor. Sergal indicated that he was drunk at the time of the assault but was not drunk when he made and signed the statement.

NONE BLAMED FOR THE DEATH OF BOWERMAN

Usual Blasting Precautions Were Taken Coroner's Jury Decides

BUT RIDER ADDED

Recommend Definite Instructions For All Employees At Point Anne

Such was the verdict rendered last evening by a jury of which Wm. Sudsbury was foreman, at the inquest into the unfortunate affair that has been filled.

Dr. W. W. Boyce, coroner, presided, and Mr. R. Madden, Counsel for the C.N.R., examined the witnesses. Mr. A. E. Webster of Toronto, Government Mining Engineer, was also present, and asked a few questions from some of the witnesses.

Dr. J. J. Robertson, physician for the Canadian Company, was called upon as to being called to Point Anne on Saturday afternoon, March 7th to attend Smith Bowerman, who was injured. Since he was given charge of the hospital room at the Company's plant, and after he was removed to the Bridge Hospital, where he died shortly after. A compound fracture of the whole skull, both eyes and the nose had been crushed.

Edward Bowerman, electric engineer at the plant, stated that Bowerman, who was employed as a blaster, was working on the bunking crush-house building, when he was killed. He was working inside of the Caverned building, and a stone from the blast penetrated the corrugated iron sheeting and struck Bowerman on the side of the head, killing him instantly. The blast to where Bowerman was sitting was 190 feet. Bowerman had had been given the men before the blast was set off. There was considerable talk of the danger zone and had Bowerman gone underneath the covering he would not have been struck.

Plenty of Room

There was sufficient room beneath the flooring for several men, this with some other timber bonses of concrete had been used by the men engaged in blasting rock, since the accident. Witness had been engaged as safety engineer for five years and this was the first accident of this nature which had occurred.

Witness was asked if the blast could be covered.

Mr. Bilkhoff: It is not practicable. Every warning is given to the men before the blast is let off. The stone which struck Bowerman was about 18 inches by about 4 inches thick.

Mr. J. H. Lougee, a superintendent engineer for Ontario, stated that how they were let off by loses. The men employed in the mines under the Ontario Act, when a blast is going to be let off fires off the holes drilled that day, and then 3 to 10 and from 3 to 10 were 10 feet apart. Holes are drilled from the bottom varying from 3 to 4 feet with long dynamite sticks. The holes are 1½ inches in diameter. The holding Bowerman was in was unsecured and, he said, had been ordered to use a concrete building for protection. This building was a safe one.

Had Been Given Order

Mr. Fred Lenz, a foreman, testified that Bowerman was a thoroughly faithful employee. The victim had been told to go underneath the flooring of the concrete building before blasting was in operation. Had he done so, he would have been perfectly safe.

E. Vollick, a driller, stated he went into the stone building where Bowerman was in but witness was on the outside of the wall of the building itself, when the rock broke away. He had just taken down the drill when the stone struck Bowerman fell over after being struck. The rock struck him on the left side of the head. Men about the quarry were given every warning when a shot is being shot.

George Hudson, a driller, also testified that a steam shovel which was working in the quarry was turned off and this was done upon this occasion. He described the position of the drilling, the depth of the holes and the quantity of dynamite used in blasting.

Nick Garrick testified as to finding the body of Bowerman after the stone struck him. He was there when the accident occurred at one of the signals given by the regular whistle.

This concluded the evidence and after the coroner had made some comments relative to the safety devices in the jury retired to consider their verdict.

HONORS EVEN IN 2ND WEEK OF BIG STRIKE

No Evidence of an Early Settlement in Nova Scotia

NO DAMAGES YET

White Collar Men have been Able to Man Pumps

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Sydney, N.S., March 14.—Strike of 12,000 members of the United Mine Workers of district 26, employed in collieries of the British Empire Steel Corporation, entered the second week with honors even and no evidence that an early settlement is due. Enforced idleness of miners and consequent financial embarrassment has been accompanied by no disorders that have marked previous strikes, and this morning reports again reported that quietness prevailed in all areas.

So far maintenance men recruited from offices and operations have been able to cope with the situation although augment heads stated when the walkout occurred that clerical staffs would be called out to fill the ranks of boilers and manning pumps would be unable to carry on longer than a week.

There have been no official reports of any of mines suffering material damage from lack of proper maintenance. Relief operations have proceeded with considerable success and it is believed that many families have suffered since relief committees started operations. The generous response has greeted the appeal for assistance it is reported that the number of contributors is growing, and those who had savings have exhausted their hoard since period of idleness set in.

Eggs Drop Again At Local Market

Specials Sold For 28 and Fresh at 25 Cents

Despite the inclement weather which prevailed today there was a large attendance this morning upon the market and a considerable quantity of farm and garden produce was offered for sale.

A feature was the decided decrease in the price of eggs. Specials were sold at the 4 dozen and fresh eggs at 25 cents. There was an abundant supply offered for sale.

The ruling price for fresh dairy butter remained at 40c per pound. A few basket lots were obtained at a slightly lower price (40c).

Dressed chicken still command a high price, namely 30c to 32c per pair, according to quality.

Pork is selling at 22c per pound, and cream at 25c a pint is considerable. Home-made cooking was offered for sale and was disposed of at fair prices.

A number of butcher stalls were doing business on the market square this morning, the price of beef and pork from 15c to 22c per pound.

There were no changes in the prices of vegetables over those of last week. Potatoes sold at 75c per bag.

Cleveland Hears Of Model City

Proposed by Mayor Mikel Of Belleville; Ambitious Scheme

In last week's issue of the Cleveland News, and Sunday News-Leader, a double column story with a large cut of Mayor Mikel, appeared under the heading "Mayor Has Vision of Model City on Bay."

The article read—

Would Lure Air Industries from the United States, Europe and Canada, land at $1 per foot frontage, for tax exemptors those industries will attract and a model city covering upwards of 6,000 acres, which it is hoped will eventually become the largest and finest model city on the continent, is the ambitious scheme proposed by His Worship W. C. Mikel, B.C.L., K.C., Mayor of the City of Belleville.

The proposed new city which will be the garden city of the Dominion, each worker being allotted enough sufficient to create flower and vegetable gardens, is the result of the meeting of the City of Belleville on the shores of the beautiful Bay of Quinte, and will be built on a systematic method. The services of town planning engineers will be utilized from the start in order to eliminate the mistakes of a haphazard growth.

"Belleville has grown 52% in the last five years and already several industries from the United States are within its gates.

Due for Expansion

"Mayor Mikel claims that the continuous movement from the farm to the city has made the building of his proposed model city on the Bay of Quinte. Due to this condition in Canada's in-duo for rapid growth and that the nine and one quarter million people now in Canada will in a few years total at least 20 millions, there will necessitate more large cities and the claims on the shores of the historic Bay of Quinte is the best location for a large and model city. Belleville is 137 miles from the City of Toronto and 300 miles west of Montreal, 80 miles south of Rochester, N.Y. and about 150 miles southwest of Ottawa. It is the natural outlet for the products by way of navigation to the sea, in the Trent river and Rideau River navigation canal, and convenient to the proposed power development on the St. Lawrence. With three main lines of the three transcontinental railways and parts of Canada running through it.

Model City Planned

Mayor Mikel's proposal is to acquire options on the land at one of three points, each area, all of which is good arable land. The area required will then be laid out in the most modern manner. Slums will be avoided, ample parks and play grounds provided and the health conditions taken care of. Factory sites and sites for churches will have all modern requirements for both water and large boulevards, including the most convenient methods of handling and shipping freight. The aim is to make the city the best laid out in the world.

This progressive Mayor was born in Belleville and is a direct descendant of a United Empire Loyalist family. He was educated in Belleville and Queen's University, has practised law in Belleville, has been Crown Prosecutor in Ontario County, and resided in places throughout Ontario, and at various times has appeared before the Legislature and Parliament in several important matters....Perhaps no better man could be found to create Canada's proposed model city, as his knowledge and energy are by-words throughout Ontario, and his proposals being well received at through the Bay of Quinte district.

CIVIL SERVICE CLOSED SHOP NOW FAVORED

According to a Report in Ottawa Paper This Morning

DEPUTIES APPROVE

Would Fill Vacancies With Those on Waiting List

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, March 14.—The Citizen this morning says:

"The question of making the civil service a closed shop has been before the Civil Service Commission for some time and was before a meeting of Dep uty Ministers Thursday.

"The idea is apparted generally and it seems likely a report to that effect has been sent to the Government.

"The closed shop is meant a plan whereby in the event of vacancies occurring in the service, they will be appointment either of those whose service have been dismissed with or those who are on waiting list as one or vacancies occur. Preference where there is help to spare."

Boys Were Not Educated Then

When Guilty Man Was Boy Over in Russia

Coming to Canada in 1911 unable to order a dinner in English, John Atamas, who is charged with the murder of his father-in-law, Nicholas Kuchuk, he "chucked" the chuck Back hundreds of years ago in Russia, Atamas was a boy in the midst of great military leader—the Napoleon of Russia—and his knowledge of English was gained from this leader.

"Wonga you consider Thaci a well educated Russian in his native tongue asked the Investigator.

"No, he is not. When he was a boy in Russia he would not receive education. Of course now the youth are educated there."

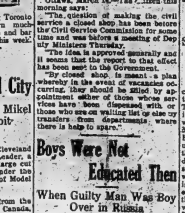

Atamas's knowledge of English is rather limited for a man who has lived in Canada for seven years. He said: "Well he tells me that when he was a boy in Russia he was taught that Quebec province among the French and that Ontario was the place to get in touche with English speaking people until four years ago. Then again he was taught that Canada was 25 years ago, and at that age would not pick up a newspaper and read it for a year or man.

Same Trade

Atamas Thaci means clothing manufacturer in Russian and Atamas manufacturer in English. Atamas is spelled Thach. He stated that many men the age of Sergai when he left Russia—in fact 90 percent of them—would be unable to sign their own names. Consequently in Canada their names may easily be affected by illiteracy.

Atamas speaks Russian, Macedonian, Roumanian and Greek besides eastern European countries, also knows some German and French. Of course the languages of those small countries are not important in the world.

Atamas Thaci was born in Belleville and is a direct descendant of a United Empire Loyalist family. He was educated in Belleville and Queen's University, has practised law in Belleville, has been Crown Prosecutor in Ontario County, and resided in places throughout Ontario, and at various times has appeared before the Legislature and Parliament in several important matters....Perhaps no better

These two little Quebec youngsters were just about the happiest children in Canada when their father presented them with this sugar maple tree. And it would be safe to say that they were the envy of their playmates.

Names Of Old Boys Total 1,500 To Date But Four Thousand Are Wanted Yet

True, Belleville Old Boys' Association and 110th Peace Anniversary does not occur until the first week of August, during the International Yacht Racing Association meet on Bay Quinte, Messrs. Massenger Duck, but much preparation is needed and is being made.

The greatest contribution to success of Old Home Week lies in the success of having the greatest possible number of Belleville old boys and girls in the old city during that week. It follows that the most successful manner in which to have them here is by notifying them of the re-union real early—right now.

To do this cards have been printed and distributed amongst Belleville old boys and girls who now live in other cities, and it is hoped that each one receiving cards are instructed to write the names and addresses of old boys and girls they know on the cards and return them to John A. Kerr at the court house.

Up to the time of writing of, though he has received 1,500 names to date.

"I want five or six thousand names he said.

Then—Everybody send in names of old boys and girls to J. A. Kerr at Court House—NOW.

Earthquakes Are Warnings To Men

Says Dr. Gordon in Last Address at Belleville

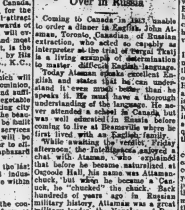

The closing meeting of the series in the Bridge St. Church, on last Thursday evening, and notwithstanding the inclement weather a large audience was well attended. On the invitation of Dr. Maiel, Mrs. Gordon and Mrs. R. N. Flynn expressed the profit and pleasure experienced by the community through the earnest and scholarly addresses of Dr. Gordon. In response Dr. Gordon said he was about to hold a series of meetings in Bridge St. Church, on the life of Emerson capitals. And you were therefore glad to have the privilege of visiting this portion of the British Empire once more. He was also delighted by his visit here and would always remember the kindness shown him. He afterwards prayed very fervently for this city and country.

"The world is in a terrible state. It is out of sight, but it is under the throne, bone of our bone, flesh of flesh, separated by our sins and shame. He has been down to earth and knows our every weakness. He is the friend. He is always on the pulsbeat of the race and knows our every sin. This was the introduction to Dr. Gordon's closing address on the question "Have Earthquakes Any Significance?" Subject—"The thoughtful Man."

"Every year and a half we continued Dr. Gordon, "the Pacific is subjected to a shock as large as the record took place in Japan. About 170 years ago a great earthquake took place in Great Britain. At that time John Wesley in London preached a sermon on the subject and he attributed the quake to the judgment of God upon the sins of the people. Nevertheless there is now a science of earthquakes and there are 500 books that have been published on the subject. Those who specialize in this study are called seismographers. On the subject there are now a chair in the University of Japan. Those who have made a specialty study of this matter say that there are four areas which are specially subject to these disturbances. One of these is Japan and another is the Mediterranean basin, the third is the western coast of South America, and the fourth in the Pacific slope of North America, and especially in regard to California.

Earthquakes are frequently referred to in both the Old Testament and the New Testament. Jesus Christ Himself announced that there would be earthquakes in divers places. Those we have had were not due to His anger, but to them we find three outstanding facts. The first is that they are a call upon the world. In the next place He is coming to judge the world and when the conditions it has produced. And the third is that they are a sign of a new order of things on earth.

Earthquakes are becoming more frequent than was once the case, and the words of Jesus are being fulfilled. He said that there would be earthquakes in divers places. During the last few years there have been four one to five per week. But we do not seem to impress us as a judgment of God. Rather are they to be regarded as a warning, pregnant with meaning, things are heading up toward the crisis of the ages and God is calling to men that he may give heed to the things that matter. Are you prepared to live with the things that matter life, and we overlook the things of prime importance.

Tkacj Sentenced To Sixteen Years

Jury Find Point Anne Man Guilty of Manslaughter

Court room was packed when the jury men filed back to their places in the court room Friday afternoon at 1.35 o'clock after they had been out for two hours to decide the fate of Sergai Tkacj, charged with murder at Point Anne.

Gentlemen of the jury, have you found the prisoner at the bar guilty or not guilty, asked J. A. Kerr, Marshall of the Assize.

Foreman Arthur L. Burke arose and said, "Guilty."

"No! No!" came the words from a number of the jurymen.

"I beg your pardon, your Lordship, I mean not guilty of manslaughter," corrected the foreman.

"My Lord, it is the duty to ask that the sentence of the court be passed upon Sergai Tkacj," said Crown Prosecutor C. G. Frost in moving for sentence.

"Have you anything to say why the sentence of this court should not be passed upon you," asked His Lordship. Defence counsel, W. A. Fryce, then arose and asked that His Honor be as merciful as he could be under the circumstances.

"This man has been the victim of circumstances. He was a stranger in a strange land and resulted in the crime," said the law," he continued further, this man was the only Russian, and others beside the prisoner man had been aggravating him. "He is a man aged 44, with a wife and three children living in Russia."

His Honor had no doubt that you were guilty of one charge or the other," said His Lordship to the prisoner. "You might have been found guilty of murder in the same evidence. The jury has taken a generous view as to doubt taking the element of provocation into consideration. I am not finding fault with the jury, for it was with in their province to do it.

Your counsel pleaded that you were the only Russian in that community and that you were the subject of ill-treatment. Such may be the case but this country there is a remedy to all such things. Justice will be meted out to you by law and not by taking the law into your own hands. This is a country of this country, as a choice over their own affairs, and it is the duty of you to have come—to seek and enjoy the privileges which they have been accustomed to other ways. Those other ways and aided by this country's laws. You have taken the law into your hands, a man into eternity without a warning. You have taken from him the opportunity for death. The necessity of impressing upon those who are subject to our laws may not be violated with impunity. The sentence of the court is that you be confined in the Kingston Penitentiary for a term of sixteen years.

The sentence was then repeated to the prisoner by the interpreter, Peter Lavrikoff, and the prisoner was taken back to the cells.

The jury was complimented by His Lordship for their keen attention, and thanked for their services, and were formally dismissed.

Mr. Frost, Crown defence counsel, was congratulated first by Mr. Frost, and then by the jury, and by numerous many other warm words of congratulation. It was his first murder trial

CANADA GETS HER SHARE OF DAWES MONEY

Canadian High Commissioner Receives 135,475 Pounds To-day

SPRING SIGNS

With spring's formal succession in calendar control only a few days off, her heralds are busy giving advance notice of her coming. Early arrivals of feathered followers of the season that best pleases them have been noted for several weeks past. Willow buds are swelling. The cries of water fowl, winging their way northward, are heard in the sky. The pussy-willows are already out and playing. Baseball teams are on the diamond, working their way from Southern camps to home grounds.

Already those under-dark sentence are stealing glances out of the window and letting fancy range the fields and forests. Already Izaak Walton's tribe is ever-hailing tackle and setting fly-hooks in order. Already the more responsive are stilling the yawns symptomatic of spring fever. The season is close at hand, and a hearty welcome awaits it.

DRUG MENACE

Dr. Oscar Dowling, president of the Louisiana state board of health, announced a few days ago that he would devote the remaining days of his life to war on the drug traffic, and he candidly admits that he does not expect to win the battle. "We are not conquering dope. Dope is conquering us," he is reported to have said, his estimate being that one out of every hundred Americans is a drug addict. Practically all of the criminals who have been examined by Dr. Dowling have been found to be slaves of drugs, and, according to the physician, when the judge commits them to prison he is making it possible for them to take the only "cure" that has to date been found to be successful. Down in Louisiana they call this the "kick-out cure", because it either cures or kills. It is nothing more or less than putting the addict in a prison cell, abruptly cutting off his supply of narcotics and letting him fight alone his battle with the demons that outrage his nerves and muscles. Dr. Dowling's campaign is to be waged, first, against the unscrupulous members of his own profession who issue prescriptions for drugs to addicts. He purposes to have these men, upon conviction, forever barred from practising. He will agitate against the drug clinics where in the attempt is made to cure the unfortunate men and women in the grip of the narcotic habit by the "graduated dose" method. They are institutions chiefly patronized by addicts whose desire is not to be cured, but to get a "shot," he declares.

"Conditions are growing worse each day," Dr. Dowling is reported to have said in an interview recently. "There must be a concerted, simultaneous fight on every front if the growth of the drug evil is to be checked. If it is ever to be wiped out. From end to end the battle must be waged unrelentingly. There must be no resting place, no haven for peddler and addict to enjoy undisturbed."

Press Opinions

A LIBERAL ALTERNATIVE

(Ignodon Mail)

Liberals who cannot yet bring themselves to face the prospect of Mr. Lloyd George succeeding Lord Oxford as leader of the party are still searching for an alternative choice. They appear to think Mr. Ramsay MacDonald would have a stronger following than anyone else. He and Mr. Asquith Chamberlain are the only sensible examples of men who were definitely trained and educated by their fathers, not merely for a House of Commons career but for political leadership.

LACE AND THE PRINCE

(London Mail)

Nottingham was greatly stirred by the Prince of Wales's appearance at the wedding of Miss Vera Birkin and Mr. James Scully. But the bride's mother was not Mr. Dudley Ward and therefore very much in the Prince's set. So it was only natural that he should be specially civil—that H.R.H. should be there. The Birkins have made a huge fortune out of lace. Their manufactory at Nottingham is said to be the biggest in the world.

GOOD SUDGETING

(Hamilton Herald)

Provincial Treasurer W. H. Price has no reason to be ashamed of his budget speech, delivered yesterday afternoon, setting forth the results of careful economy and skilful financing. The Ferguson government inherited from the Drury government a deficit of $14,000,000. Last year that was reduced to $5,500,000. Mr. Price estimates that the deficit will be reduced this year to $3,000,000. Another year, it is hoped, will see it wiped out. The wealthiest province in the Dominion should be able to make quick its annual revenue over its expenditure.

For additional revenue Mr. Price depends mainly upon two new taxes—the tax on gasoline and the beverage tax. From the former he expects to get $1,200,000, and from the latter $2,200,000. Included among the beverages which are to yield the brewers' tax is, of course, the new 4.4 beer. The tax will no doubt add a little to the cost of beer, but it is expected that all thirsty ones who have long been demanding beer with some kick in it now that they are to get what they want, will not balk at paying more for it than they had expected.

SEARCHING FOR BRIDES

(St. Catharines Standard)

Alberta farmers in the vicinity of Vilna have despatched one of their number to go to England and Ireland—why Scotland was omitted in the news despatch we know not—in order to search for suitable brides for those bachelors who have been back with him to Canada.

This is one example, a practical one, of Free Trade, which will not bring forth in the eye of the standard protectionist. Canada has no tariff wall against British brides.

Perhaps in this venture, the West may find appeasement. These blushing beauties may satisfy the innermost hearts of all the disgruntled ones, and all will live happily ever afterwards.

The chances are the experiment will work, but what a venture for a strange land! And what a risky thing to marry, lonely as he may be! And just figure the responsibility of the deputy in this strange quest.

Perhaps Jackson is the emissary. We predict a very good reception for him. In fact it might be too good, almost overbowingly good.

A charge of seduction preferred against Bruce Allward was dismissed by Judge Jackson in the county court of St. Thomas, owing to lack of corroboration of the girl's story.

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

Read Healthy Literature

THERE is plenty of good literature. All the masters are sound and healthy. It is only the second-rater after all that have the gripes. Gloom, morbid, sickly, crazy stuff is the easiest in the world to write. Just as a child finds the quickest way to attract attention is to whine, so the lesser members of the writing craft soon discover that they can get fame much more easily by specializing in hypersensitive fear, wholesome creative work.

Read Dickens, Shakespeare, Goethe, Victor Hugo. Here is healthy humanity, full chested laughter, and if they give tragedy it is genuine, restful tragedy.

Abandon care by young years, and not see developing abnormities of sickly morbidity. Read Macaulay, Emerson, Masefield, Howells, Dumas, O. Henry, Conan Doyle (but not his later spiritualistic vagaries), Charles Reade, Winston Churchill, Kipling. Get into the great live world that lives and conquers and loves.

Every morbid book or play is poison to you. Let such things alone. That way madness lies.

Keep away from the cults of bitterness. If your religion is one of gloom and dread, get rid of it. "There be gods unassumed lords many," says the Scripture. If your God is a Defective, a cruel Monster, a Tyrant, let him go. Find a God who is a Father, a Friend, a Saviour.

Do not get wrought-over wholly to any movement of protest, where the air is one of anger, hate, denunciation, bitterness. No man can safely let such sentiments control his life. What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world, and land in hell himself? Besides, hell nor bellish programs of hate, revenge, violence, and the like can ever say anything. They are destructives. If this world is saved at all it will be by love, by understanding, by sympathy and helpfulness. Keep out of any party that has no sunshine.

And cultivate a sense of humor. To see the funny side of a thing always elevates us a little above it. If you can laugh, outwardly or inward-ly, you are superior. Don't take yourself, nor others, nor events, too seriously. "This too shall pass." Cultivate a who indifference, a genial remedy-lessness, a broad human smoothness.

Here, then, is your problem. Don't regard yourself as "a victim" of heredity, or circumstances, or temperament. Your life is not a prison sentence. IT IS YOUR JOB. Go to it! And look pleasant!

Thirty Years Ago

The sleighing in town is now very bad.

A young man was taken with a fit in the post office yesterday but was soon restored to consciousness.

A sleighing party of young people from this town last night drove to the residence of Mr. Ansen Haight, near Corbyville, where they spent a most enjoyable evening. They were hospitably entertained by Mr. Haight and family, who provided for them a fine supper. The party arrived home at an early hour, being very much pleased with their outing.

Negotiations have been going on between Belleville and Trenton backwards, the former endeavoring to get the latter to come down and play the final match for the Corby trophy, but they have finally refused to play. The local team offered to give them $10 for expenses. As it stands, the match can be held by no one. The Trenton Hockey team is considered a remarkably very unsportsmanlike.

Dutchy's Diary

Small Town Stuff

One of the greatest boosts we have seen for the small town in some time is published by the Perth Courier, a newspaper which apparently sees life in a different light than does the big city man who becomes engrossed in one grand rush to exist.

"No longer will they poke fun at the small town," says the Courier, "For it is coming into its own.

Small towns can rejoice at every increase in population of the big town, because with such increase comes a pushing out of its populations into the smaller communities, and especially is the lesson driven home that the small town is ideal for free breathing and for clean, happy and joyous living. The reason is plain. Congested cities are not as desirable, for example, as suburban localities, unless one is able to own a home along millionaire row. The day will come—in some cases has come—when the smaller community can provide for the needs of citizenship as well or better than the great city. It has great open spaces, while the city has not. Its libraries, schools and churches are more accessible, just as efficient and are without the distractions common to more populous areas. Greatest of them all, the small town provides an opportunity for friendship, for knowing and meeting and greeting the other fellow that always will remain, an unchallenged asset over that of the city.

The truth in the Courier's statement cannot be easily contradicted, yet it is wise to remember that there is a little to the said in favor of the large centred too. Small towns will never be able to support grand opera, Maibas or expensive theatricals. Small centres seldom have an opportunity to welcome as their guests the outstanding speakers and thinkers of the day.

But at that, we are inclined to agree with the Courier that the small town heavily on the side of the small town.

MARMORA MAN GETS SUSPENDED SENTENCE

(By Staff Correspondent)

County Judge A. P. Wills gave judgment in the case of the Marmora man charged with making a false statement of his financial condition, on Friday afternoon.

Judgment had been reserved from the trial held here one week ago.

Ackland was found guilty, and was given a suspended sentence of six months. He must also pay costs of $43.85, but by terms this appeal is dropped, pay costs.

Ackland's personal debts by making false statements as to his financial condition, when he purchased at Marmora wooden ware, sent into bankruptcy, following which the charge was laid.

T. Wills defended accused and B. C. Donnes conducted the Crown's case.

CORBYVILLE NEWS

The first meeting of the Executive Committee of the Dawn Club (Performant organization), was held in the council room, at Corbyville, on Monday, March 9th, 1925.

Judging from the enthusiasm displayed, social activities at the plant are destined to enjoy the same phenomenal success under the leadership of Major McManus, as the commercial activities enjoy under the management of Mr. W. J. Hume. Optimism co-operation and loyalty are the watch words of the plant to-day, all of which spell success.

Plans were discussed at this meeting and subcommittees appointed to promote outdoor sports during the summer months. A number of young ladies and members of the executive commit tee and are working wholeheartedly for the attainment of the organization.

DOCTOR ADVISED AN OPERATION

Read Alberta Woman's Experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Provost, Alberta.—"Perhaps you will remember sending me one of your books a year ago. I was in a bad condition and would suffer awful pains at times and could get no one to help me. The doctor said I could not have children unless I went under an operation. I read testimonials of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in papers and a friend recommended me to take it. After taking three bottles I became much better and now I have a bonny baby girl four months old. I do my housework and help a little with the chores. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and they all say it is good. You use this testimonial letter."—Mrs. A. A. Anzani, Box 84, Provost, Alberta.

— — Pains in Left Side

Lachine, Quebec.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my left side and back and with weakness and other troubles women so often have. I was this way about six months. I saw the Vegetable Compound advertised in the 'Montreal Standard,' and I have taken four bottles of it. I was a very sick woman and I feel so much better I would not be without it. I also use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I recommend the medicines to my friends and I am willing for you to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. M. W. Ross, 30 Notre Dame St., Lachine, Quebec.

MOTHER!

Watch Child's Bowels

"California Fig Syrup" is Children's Harmless Laxative

Children love the pleasant taste of "California Fig Syrup" and gladly take it even when bilious, feverish, sick, or constipated. No other laxative regulates the tender little bowels so nicely. It sweetens the stomach and starts the liver and bowels without cramping or overacting. Constipation so narcotics or soothing drugs.

Tell your druggist you want only the genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on the bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

Mr. W. G. Gilray of Shannonville was a recent business caller to Deseronto. Mr. A. M. Foote left on Thursday for Auburn, N.Y., for attendance at the funeral of a late relative, James Lewis.

ADVERTISING AWARD ON GENERAL MOTORS

At a dinner in Cambridge on Monday night, January 26th the Harvard School of Business Administration announced the Harvard Advertising Awards for 1924. Three awards, established by Edward W. Bok, are designed to recognize distinguished effort in the production of national and local advertising and advertising campaigns.

The award for the most conspicuous National Advertising campaign of an Institutional Type for the year 1924 goes to Messrs. Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn, Inc., for the General Motors Institutional Advertising campaigns.

More than 8,000 complete advertising campaigns were submitted for consideration. There were nine awards in all, of which three were given to the work produced by Barton Durstine & Osborn Inc.

WOULD REDEEM DUTY-FREE BONDS

Toronto, March 13—Approval of a measure to be introduced by the province of succession duty-free bonds presented to enable war graves by the Ontario House yesterday in the course of its work upon legislation. Objection was taken to the measure by the Liberal Opposition itself upon the ground that it violated the obligations of the legislation authorizing the $12,000,000 of such bonds which, however, Provincial Treasurer Price pointed out that the desired intention could only have been to grant succession duty exemption to the $12,000,000 on the $150,000,000 which, by the turnover in the bonds, would be involved before their maturity.

Other projects with which the House concerned itself were the amendments to the Hospital Act of F. G. McBrien (southwest—Toronto), requiring six months' residence in a municipality by an individual in order to entitle him to free hospital attention and to the amendment of Mr. McBrien to the Municipal Act abolishing the requirement for a notice to creditors ten days before being nominated for the office of alderman. Both bills received second reading and were sent to the municipal committee.

Business Woman Keeps Time Schedule In Kitchen

MRS. Elizabeth Sears, President of the Business and Professional Woman's Club, actually baked only five minutes to make a "Five Minute Pie Paste," as a typical modern woman, with many interests to which she devotes her time, Mrs. Sears occasionally indulges in cooking, but restricts herself to those recipes which produce the best results with a minimum of time and energy.

Here is the recipe Mrs. Sears uses:

1 cups Flour
½ level teaspoon Salt
1 level teaspoon Baking Powder
¼ cup Butter
1 Egg Yolk
Ice-cold Water

Sift together the flour, salt and baking powder; then cream the Crisco in a bowl as for a cake, as soon as it is light and creamy, add the sifted flour, mixing in it with a knife, not touching it at all with the hands. Beat the yolk of egg and add a little ice water to it—work quite about three-quarters of a cup will be required—to moisten the flour. Roll out once on a floured board.

Premier Armstrong May Take a Hand

By Appointing Commission To Enquiring Into Mining Situation

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Glace Bay, N.S., March 13—A report that has gained considerable credence here is that Premier Armstrong within the next 24 hours will appoint a commission to conduct an enquiry into the coal mining situation and conditions now existing in the coal area. Three names of prominent Canadians, not associated in any way with coal mining are said to have been suggested for the enquiry board and that an independent staff of auditors and expert accountants will be brought to providence to aid the commission.

Local feeling supports the view that the strike situation is improving. This optimism is based partly on a statement made by the miners executive in a mass mass to Premier Armstrong last night, that miners were prepared to consider any proposal coming from the government for the reopening of the mines.

Two Young Farmers Traded Their Wives

Didn't Think It Was Anybody's Business; Get Five Months

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Bloomfield, Mo., March 13—A love tangle as whole, two young farmers traded wives for just cause to light here. The two couples involved have been sentenced to five months in Wallace and Mo. and Mrs. Chas. Greene.

Wallace, twenty-seven, and his wife Cora, twenty-four were married seven years ago. They have three children, ranging in age from six to two years. Greene, thirty, and his wife Nellie, twenty-two, were married eight years ago, and they have two children.

"We just lost our hearts for each other," Greene declared. "I fell in love with Cora and Art found that he loved Nellie. The two women decided their love for the other man had developed and they no longer cared for their own husbands. We were just mismated."

The married life of both couples was said to have been happy, at least until the two families became acquainted a year ago. Then as the women became close friends the men real "buddies" conditions changed.

The decision to trade wives was made February second, the couples said, because they didn't think it was anybody's business but their own.

When the trade was arranged both couples sent six children to the homes of their respective grandparents

Thanks Gin Pills for excellent health

An ex-alderman of the city of Hamilton tells an interesting story.

"I have been unable to rest at night with pains around my kidneys and through the small of my back, at times so bad that I was unable to rise from bed without assistance. The trouble so affected my kidneys that urination was at times difficult, and at other times so frequent as to cause me great inconvenience. I started on a course of Gin Pills and before I had taken half a box I felt relief. Before I had completed the second box the pains had left my back and I felt quite rested and well again. I attribute my present excellent health entirely to Gin Pills."—J. S. Lillie, Hamilton, Ont.

This letter surely offers conclusive proof of the efficacy of Gin Pills.

Gin Pills never fail to bring relief to sufferers from weakened, disordered kidneys. If you have any symptom of kidney trouble—if you are bothered by headaches, pain in the back, bladder weakness, or rheumatism, do not delay. Order Gin Pills to-day and say goodbye to suffering.

A very Hearty Welcome
Organist—Miss Laura Aswell.

Dr. Gordon as well as our leading statesmen have said "that Europe and in fact the whole world is in a tangle and is drifting irresistibly to a tremendous crash". Are conditions fulfilling prophecy? See Dan. 2: 44, 12: 1, Jer. 25: 27-38. Are they fulfilling the signs of Jesus and world mark His 2nd Advent? Matt. 24, Luke 21. These momentous questions will be scriptually answered in the City Hall, Sunday, March 22. 1 P. M. & A.

Use Sulphur To Clear Skin

The First Application Makes Skin Cool and Comfortable

If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarassing skin trouble you can quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its germ destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itching; even of fiery eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Improve Mentho-Sulphur is applied like any pleasant cold cream and is perfectly harmless. You can get a small jar from any good druggist.

Deaths And Funerals

WILLIAM J. G. BEDFORD

Mr. William G. Bedford, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Bedford, 2nd concession of Ameliasburg Township, passed away this morning after a brief illness. Deceased was born at Cardiff, England, and came to this country with his parents when two years of age. He was 22 years of age. In addition to the parents three brothers and five sisters survive. Mr. Bedford was a young man who was well and favorably known in the locality where he resided.

DR. A. A. GOLDSMITH

Friday afternoon the body of the late Dr. A. A. Goldsmith was conveyed to the tomb at Belleville cemetery. The funeral was under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity of which society he was a member. At 114 Ann street a service was held conducted by Rev. Dr. F. E. Maiels assisted by Rev. G. Marshall and Rev. W. P. Wilson. Masonic burial services were taken by Messrs H. J. Hall G. Barlow and Rev. Dr. Maiels. Floral tributes were many. Bearers were members of the craft namely J. Harlow, J. Newton, J. Waddell, J. Fletcher, H. J. Hall and R. Vivian.

LEWIS J. COOK

After a rather brief illness Mr. Lewis John Cook, a well-known resident of the city passed away yesterday afternoon, deceased in the year 1862 was born in this city being a son of the late Mr. John Cook. Mr. Cook was for some years an employee of the G. T. R. now C. N. R. and also learned the cabinet trade working for the Chichel & Son Company. Of late he has been employed at the Springer Lock Works. He was a member of the Baptist church. A widow two sons and five grandchildren survive. The sons are Archie at home and John of Bryson, Quebec. The daughters are Mrs. Harold Cumming, of Sidney, Mrs. H. Hendrickson, and Mrs. J. A. Daniels of this city, Miss Mary at home and Miss Quenzie, of Kingston. Mrs. John Cook, aged mother of deceased is living also three brothers, and four sisters. The brothers are, Wm., of Vancouver, Charles, of Toronto, and Frederick, of this city. The sisters are Mrs. D. Pomeroy, Vancouver; Mrs. A Vine, Winnipeg; Mrs. Geo. Bennett and Mrs. J. H. Clarke, City.

THE COACH'S JOB

Something of the taskmaster, the general and the diplomat, and a lot of the doctor must be hidden away in the man who would be the coach of a successful football or track team.

Emergencies of all kinds are his daily routine. A thorough knowledge of first aid is as essential as a knowledge of the game played by his men.

Bruises, bumps, strained ligaments and muscles are every day happenings, but the coach never becomes unconscious of them. He knows that if neglected, they may result in serious injury.

Trainers everywhere keep Absorbine Jr. in their lockers. They use it not only for sprains, cuts and bruises, but for the skin and blood protection of its disinfecting properties. Its concentrated container it combines the functions of a number of preparations.

It is the first aid the First Aid requires—it is the aim of the trained athletes.

And there are just as many everyday uses for Absorbine Jr. in the homes of Canada as there are in the training camps. Always keep it in the home where you can "grasp it" in case of emergency. $1.25 at your druggist.

FOR TEN YEARS—DEPENDABLE

Exceptional dependability has been a characteristic of Dodge Brothers Motor Car since the day the first of these sturdy cars was marketed.

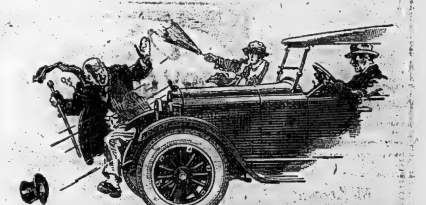

Not once in a decade has it failed to uphold and enhance its reputation for faithful performance.

The reason for its consistent goodness and continued betterment points directly back to the ideals of the founders.

Instead of fluctuating between an endless series of annual models, they determined to concentrate on the perfection of a single chassis.

Dodge Brothers Motor Car today is the embodiment of that ideal—an ideal that will endure as long as the institution itself.

CANADIENS DECLARED N.H.L. CHAMPIONS BY PRESIDENT CALDER TO-DAY ; GO WEST

Canadiens Beat St Pats Easily

And Are N.H.L. Champions Now; Score 2-0

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Hamilton, Mar. 14.—Members of the Hamilton Tigers having refused to play in the final game given in honor of $200 each, President Frank Calder of the National Hockey League this morning announced the Canadiens of Montreal are the title of champions of the league. They will go west next week to meet the Western Canada

Toronto, March 14—In the most disappointing game of the professional season the fierce Canadians of Montreal toyed with St. Patrick's here last night defeating them 2-0, and won the round and the right to play in the finals. If there are any, by 5-0. The Frenchmen, the greatest money team in history, gave a defensive exhibition that could not be excelled or bettered. Their tactics threw the Irish off their stride, and from the first to the last the locals were unanswered and failed to look decidedly weak and foolish.

The game lacked a lot as far as a spectacle was concerned. The tight defensive system adopted by the visitors had a lot to do with this, St. Patrick's men helpless most of the way, but at times the puck was flying around dangerously close to the Canadien net, and George Vezina had to play one of the best games of his career to prevent the locals from scoring.

Canadiens' Confident

Canadiens played with a world of confidence. They made few mistakes and they stifled time by introducing brilliant stickhandling and an interwoven system of upset checking that was highly effective. Sprague Cleghorn was the man behind the Canadien attack and defense. He gave his fellowplayers confidence and his mastery did he look better on Toronto ice, Cleghorn scored one goal, and assisted in the other.

It was a tame listless affair, and the fans had little chance to become enthused. The lighting in the arena was not as good as usual owing to the storm and as a result the game did not start at the scheduled time. For a while it was feared that it would be postponed, and Manager Leo Dandurand of the Canadiens was busy explaining that this would inconvenience the champion party. Just how much the officials were about to abandon hope that it would be played, and then there was another delay. Fans headed for the game were held up when the street cars stalled. Then when they did arrive they saw but the shadow of the team that won every game in February and promised to go on to the Canadian championship.

Even the elements seemed to be weary for the Irish. Such a dismal night and such a dismal performance have seldom come to hand. The locals went down, without an excuse. The better team undoubtedly won the series. Reports from Montreal on Thursday were to the effect that the Irish had outplayed Canadiens in the first game. After watching the teams perform last night, Toronto fans will be slow to believe that St. Patrick's could outplay the team led by astute Leo Dandurand.

Vezina to Retire

George Vezina has announced that he will retire at the end of the present season. He has retired often in the past but the Canadien owners think that he means it this time. If he does it will be years before his equal is produced. No goalkeeper was ever better than Vezina was here last night.

It was only to be expected that St. Patrick's would get numerous chances to score—the visitors insisted this by allowing the locals to carry the play to them—but when the other player failed, Vezina barred the way. St. Pat's beat the defense half a dozen times, but they could never outguess the cool net guard and, who reached out in the long stick to poke the puck away. Incidentally Vezina uses the longest goal stick ever seen here. He splices on the blade in order to meet with his requirements. He seemed to be reaching to the floor for most of the time.

"Billy" Coutu was injured early in the game when Bert McCaffery accidentally hit him on the bridge of the nose. Blood dowed freely and Coutu gave way to Art Manlin who proceeded to show rare checking ability. In the second and third periods however, Coutu was back in his position, and the accident did not seem to affect him to any extent.

Sprague Cleghorn got the first goal ten minutes after the game began, when accompanied by Morenz and Joliat, he cleverly faked a pass, rushed the defense wide open and went in to beat Roach from close range. Several times during the game Cleghorn almost performed this same feat, but Roach was in the way.

The teams fought without any more scoring until fifty-seven seconds remained to be played. St. Patrick's were nearly all on the attack when Cleghorn broke away with Morenz on his left. Helsey Dye, clever defensive player on the defense and Cleghorn fooled him nicely by passing the puck and then in reversing with a fast shot. Morenz drew Roach out of the net and tallied.

Joliat Back Again

Aurel Joliat was at left wing after three week's absence and although he has not fully recovered from the injury he did good work and greatly strengthened the champions. Joliat flashed some great bursts of speed and his defensive play was always good.

Billy Boucher went to the route at right wings and played the game of his life. He and "Happy" Day checked well, and he showed a burst of speed that few believed him capable of. Boucher tested Roach with some of the most accurate long-distance drives imaginable, and was unlucky not to score.

Morenz was the best man on either team. He had no trouble out-skating every other man on the ice, and although he was subject to a lot of heavy grueling, he stood manfully to his task and was going at top speed in the last ten minutes. Morenz is one of the most efficient men that ever in a tenminute man, fearless and clever.

Canadiens—Goal, Vezina; defense, Cleghorn and Coutu; centre, Morenz; left wing, Joliat; right wing, Boucher; subs, Manlin and O. Cleghorn.

St. Patrick's—Goal, Roach; Defense, Corbeau and McCaffery; centre, Stuart; left wing, Day; right wing, Dye; subs, Reid, Hobway and Neville.

Referees—C. Senecon, Montreal, and L. E. Mann, Toronto.

LOOKS AS THOUGH HAMS ARE THROUGH

Toronto, Mar. 14.—There was practically nothing definite announced yesterday regarding the threatened strike of the Hamilton players for a bonus of $100 before they meet Canadiens in the play-off for the league title and at midnight it looked as if there would be no game between the two teams. About the only fact definite in connection with the situation is that Ottawa will not play Can adiens at the chances are that President Frank Calder to-day will declare Canadiens champions for the second year in succession and officially notify them to get ready to defend the world's title and the Stanley Cup.

Hamilton players were expected to be in the city yesterday but the only one that was seen was Ken. Randall and he stated he knew of no further developments. Manager Percy Thompson was in consultation with President Calder during the day and looks pro as if the players were out in the cold. While the players were signed up for the season with the proviso that no games mentioned the contracts, as shown by President Calder yesterday, one condition, all state that the players sign for the season extending from on or about December 1 to on or about March 20, and in some contracts March 31. This removes all doubt as to the stay that the players have been playing. If they refuse to play and their time for decision is very short, they will be contract breakers and will be suspended from professional hockey and possibly be sued for breaking their contracts. Their hold-up activities have left many friends.

NIAGARA FALLS IS CLOSE TO FINALS

Toronto, March 14.—Niagara Falls have just to get through one more better for the Allen Cup, emblematic of the Canadian amateur hockey championship as presented by they did those with Grimsby and Montreal Victorias, and it will be on to Winnipeg to meet the Monarchs winners in the finals. The senior O.H.A. champions play Grimsby at Grimsby this evening with the return game in Niagara Falls on Tuesday, and the senior members to provide a lot of thrilling if not artistic hockey. Varsity, if they play as well as they did in their last two O.H.A. games will give the Falls men an interesting time. The Collegians are fresh, and there is little doubt but what the senior champions will feeling the effects of their strenuous canterwise of thirty-four games; the most difficult season that any O.H.A. team has ever gone through. But the Falls lads are showing themselves to be a great team in the pinch, and their friends are looking for them to put the finishing touch on over the Blue and White.

HAD ANKLE SPRAINED

Friday, the 13th, proved a most unlucky day for ex-Mayor S. S. Corbett, who this morning sustained a badly sprained ankle in a fall from his hayloft.

Mr. Corbett was in the loft throwing down some hay and had a ladder up to the window from the outside. The base of the ladder happened to be on a piece of ice, and when Mr. Corbett started to come down from the loft, the ladder slipped, and Mr. Corbett was thrown heavily to the ground. He struck on his right ankle and sustained a very severe sprain which will necessitate his remaining in the house for some days.

City Officials Throw Challenge

And Aldermen Accept the Bowling Proposition With Alacrity

City fathers have accepted a Challenge to bowl with the city officials. Lovers of good sport have a rare treat in store for them in the near future. Here is the communication received by the Council:

The Mayor and Members of the City Council,

Belleville, Ontario.

Gentlemen:

"On Monday night, March 16th, it is the wish of the City Hall Officials that you allow us to bowl the rolls of office after the regular council meeting, you adjourn to Dominion Bowling Alley and there try your mettle, enlisting the aid of such members of the Council as care to risk their prowess in the art of Five Pin Bowling, with a similar number of officials.

"A genuinely good feed will be prepared in advance and it will be the extreme pleasure of the undersigned contender in the bowling alley to be present at this feast as guests of the unfortunate losers.

"In order not to unduly embarrass the novices with a large audience or to appear desirous of humbling the losers we would suggest that you simply accept this challenge silently (and perhaps the real action will be more pleasing to your wishes).

Respectfully presented,

(Signed) Chas. D. Campbell,
"The Five Man Teams."

GET READY FOR THE BIRDS

There are so many busy stories about birds I know, and have really seen and heard a part of, that I am sure I could keep you up all night every night and never stop, and you would still want to hear more.

There were so many funny things about the gulls and pelicans and whales and seals, you never will know, that I must not only tell you stories which happen to me but there are piles and piles of stories going to me about me, and if I can only get you to try to look at them, I need not be sad, for it will be much nicer for you to know stories of your own which you may tell to other folks, than to never have any and always have to listen.

Wouldn't you like to know some stories where you are the one that the bird like and trust and you are the one that may come to for protection and a nice home.

It was reading a big bird book the other day and I read a story there that happened to some other little girls and boys, as it is not my own story but I will tell it to you, so you will see how easy it is for them, and things to hop on to you, if you will make your duckly and your nature love.

There was a family living in a home that had an apple tree or two and some flowers in the yard, and a nice bee bunker but no birds. Now, the little boy an' girl used to like to watch the birds, and they asked their teacher how to make the birds come to their home and the teacher said, "Well, the first thing to do is to get rid of one, the next thing to do is to keep all other cats that do belong to you from the yard or the garden. The next thing to do, is to have a nice clean bird bath. If you do that much, the birds will come to you in their time but if you do all that and plant a few berry shrubs and put up some bird houses that are correctly made, they will come to you in their time for sure."

Needless to say, the little boy and girl told all the boys and girls and kept reminding their parents about it until their daddy found out how to make a bird house, for a house went and he managed to get it up in the garden in March, so it would be ready for the birds as early as it could be, and it was all ready and the last part of it was put on at the end.

The green box was occupied by a dandee little wren gentleman, with a woodsy full voice. How he did it was to get it ready. You know, the daddy wren generally makes the house all ready and then invited some nice lady wren to come and keep house. In this case, the children were so glad to see that their bird house, was occupied. Not only that but generally the wren likes to have he filled up both sides of it with sticks and maybe two families of wrens would make their home in that happened that year. Wren sing and sang and sang and chirped when the house a great deal but he still wanted more to sing to, and he had taken one pen. Poor songful Mr. Wren was a bachelor.

Now, you see, Mr. Wrev sang, so much, that all the other birds came to their homes to sing along about and a pair of Cedar Waxwings thought the orchard of apple trees was a very nice place, especially with water and no cats, so they decided to come and live there. They built a dandy nest and soon had a family. But poor little Mr. Wren was alone. Mr. Wren and Mr. Waxwing met at the bird bath, and they had become acquainted, nobody knows what was said, but songful Mr. Wren went home with Mr. Waxwing for tea and took Mrs. Waxwing a nice fat worm and went and got some nice fat worms for the little Waxwings and every one was so happy. It was just great for the Waxwings to have such a nice friend to exchange visits to dinner so often and especially so, because he was a good singer and a fast bug and worm getter for the children did enjoy that kind of family. Such a funny and delightful end to such a disappointing start was too good to keep a secret, so they told the teacher and she told mother and she told daddy to make the garden attractive for birds.

Now, wouldn't you like to have such cute, wise and valuable worm eaters in your home?

Of course, there may be a little disappointment at first, if so, look for some something like that, but it will all come right before long, just like it did for the little boy and girl with the bachelor wren and if it is the Waxwings, they may read the first part again to see how it is we are trying to do to invite the birds. Here is the secret.

Have a bird box for a wren, one for the birds with the families, and one for swallows. Be sure they are made correctly and not silly misfits. There should be a book in the library about correct boxes. Get them before even in the early spring. Put a bird bath, early too, and clear all around so no cats can hide and catch the birds at the bath. A shrub or two with berries and berry bushes are very nice for birds, you know, you may have some pretty stories all your very own Now is the time to get ready.

RODIN'S "INFERNAL MACHINE"

A mysterious tin box had arrived from the New East for Rodin, the sculptor. What did it contain? The family could only guess. In the "Corpo bill Magazine" Mr. Anthony Hope, who for some years was secretary to the great man, tells of the interesting affair. The following is from Rodin's villa in Meudon.

"The box," says Mr. Isidoriel, "was handed to Rodin while he was at lunch, all work for the day suspended on what was in it. One thought it was a revier, another pate de foie gras. But Rodin himself thought it might be surely a practical joke. On finding that he could not open it he called for a pointed instrument, and Joseph, the studio boy, went running for one in the studio in search of a chisel. Then suddenly a look of extraordinary guile and alarm came over Rodin's face, and turning to me he said, 'What if it were an infernal machine designed to explode at the first heavy blow!' I laughed the suggestion to scorn but Madame Rodin and the housekeeper, who had been listening intently all the while, looked anything but amused, and I at once began to think them more imploring Rodin to leave the tin box alone.

"Now in addition to Rodin's constant fear of violence on the part of his enemies he had a childlike faith in the alleviating power of science and mind. 'One never knows,' he would say 'women frequently have the most unaccountable warnings of coming events.' Thus it was quite plain that on this occasion the touch of his womenfolk, supporting as it did his own profound suspicions, supplied him with a strong argument for refusing to tamper with the mysterious package and by the time Joseph arrived with a screw-driver the matter's end was made up. Joseph was instructed to carry the tin to the farthest corner of the garden and there, in there, and amid much laughter, the greater part of which was merely the expression of relieved alarm, we resumed our meal.

"A few days afterwards a friendly letter had been unaccountably delayed in transit arrived from Greece. The writer announced to Rodin that he had dispatched a tin of the famous Hymettus honey to him and, in view of the master's pronounced love of the ancient Greeks and everything connected with them, hoped that he would find it with particular relish. The letter scarcely necessary to add that the brief burial did not impair the honey in the least.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

Lady Blanche took up a paper and pretended to read it but her cold eyes watched the pale face opposite but with keen scrutiny.

It did not take long for Lady Blanche to learn through adroit questioning that Fanny was not friendly to Miss Elaine, and that she was opposed to any alliance between her and the marquis.

"I could be of much service to you," said Fanny, as she put down the dress having announced, after half an hour's labor upon it, that it was finished. Then, as she arose, and began to put on her big cotton gloves, she added glancing keenly at Lady Blanche, "and if I'm proved useful to the marquis marrying Miss Elaine, my lady," a—

Lady Blanche looked at her with apparent confidence, almost took Lady Blanche's breath away. She laughed as incredulous, contemptuous laugh.

"I'm too ridiculous," she exclaimed "You come here; like the conspirator in a French play—she was sprinkling more to herself than to Fanny—and offer—to—to—break off the marriage between Lord Nairne and Miss Elaine, and—and you expect me to believe you possess such power! Real ly, Miss Jacobus—" And she laughed again.

Lady Blanche—

Fanny was silent as if assenting, and kept her big, cotton gloves on, the insignificant movement, sank into the chair again.

"And—and supposa I am foolish enough to place confidence in this extraordinary statement of yours, Miss Jacobus, what can you possibly assistance?" Her face flamed. "Mind, I do not say I do so, or I will; but suppose I am foolish—"

"What shall I ask in return, my lady?" said Fanny, as Lady Blanche hesitated.

"Exactly."

Fanny paused a moment.

"I will tell you, my lady," she said quietly and slowly.

The money school Lady Blanche.

"No, my lady, I do not want money. I want something which is worth more to me even than money. I shall be content if your ladyship will promise to be my friend and help me as—as I am willing to help you."

Lady Blanche stared at her in cur prise and anger.

"I do not understand," she said.

"I will tell you, my lady," said Fanny, with a low voice with a by no means ineffective intensity. "Your ladyship was once a—a—a—governess."

Lady Blanche was now too surprised to smile, and fixed her eyes in cold as-

WHAT'S NEW IN RESTAURANTS

If one happens to enter the "latest" restaurant, one finds that all the meals are served electrically. The diner sits down to a table and as soon as the food he requires drops the slip through a slot in the table he waits a minute or two. Presently there is a humming noise and in the centre of the table, on a four-poster tray, appears the food he has ordered. When the menu is dropped into the slot it drops to the kitchen below; the server there attends to the order, prepares a tray and the food is on its way to the table. When the diner has finished he drops the slip with the bill which has also been delivered by electricity and pays the waiter at one of the usual cashier's desk. The payment system will remain the same I suppose until some one invents someway to extract the correct change from our pocket-eye electricity. And you can readers on the subject. March Weather Dangerous To Baby

Our Canadian March weather—one day bright, but sleepy, the next blustery and cold—is extremely hard on baby. Conditions make it necessary for the mother to keep the little ones indoors more often and be exposed to overheated, badly ventilated rooms and costly coal. Here is a recipe for a whole system. To guard against these evils and keep baby well and happy all the better, brighter days come along. A box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and administered dose given the baby to keep his stomach and bowels regulated and sweet then baby fit. POEMS Old And NEW

AN OLD SLAVE SONG

We hunted and we halloo'd;
The next thing we did find
Was a fox in the meadow,
And that we left behind.
Look-a there! Look-a there!

Some said it was a fox,
Some said no;
Others said it was a canary bird
With its feathers washed away.
Look-a there! Look-a there!

We hunted and we halloo'd;
The next thing we did find
Was a barn in the meadow,
And that we left behind.
Look-a there! Look-a there!

Some said it was a barn,
Some said no;
Others said it was a meeting house
With its steeple blown away.
Look-a there! Look-a there!

THIS CROWDED LIFE

How sordid is this crowded life, its spite
And envy, the unkindness brought to light!
It makes me think of those great modest hearts
That hide their quiet lives in lonely parts,
In deserts, hills or woods; and pass away
Judged by a few, or none, from day to day.
And O that I were free enough to dwell
In their great spaces for a while; until
The dream-like life of such a soul could find
Its way to me, and enter in my "Hallo!" stood
And make an echo from the silence give
My voice back with the knowledge that I live.

The Bassia hydro system received a belated Christmas box in the shape of a credit, amounting to $17,630, from the provincial commission.

The will of Samuel M. Smyth, retired furniture manufacturer of Strathroy, Ontario, entered for probate at the Court House at London disposes of an estate of $267,175 to his immediate relatives.

In the Brantford Police Court, Mike Kristeds, was fined $200 and costs, Magistrate Livingstone told the man that he was doing when he was caught with having liquor in an unauthorized place.

Always Tired in the Mornings

MRS M. BECKER, 113 David St., Kitchener, Ont., writes: "My system became generally run down. I was nervous, tired and subject to headaches. After using three boxes of Chase's Nerve Food I felt like a new person, could sleep well, eat well and was relieved of all the old symptoms."

"NERVOUS bankruptcy is being courted by the young women of today," says Dr. Mosher, widely known authority on women's health.

"In her desire to not miss anything she burns the candle at both ends, cutting short her sleep, hurrying or omitting meals.

"This disregard of periods of rest and sleep must necessarily lead to a breakdown of the nervous system, a condition which is the despair of the physician."

Among the early indications of trouble are irritability, restlessness, indigestion, headaches and sleeplessness.

The rational treatment is Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to revitalize the wasted nerve cells. This medicine is so natural and gentle in action and so wonderfully potent as a restorative that you will soon see the benefits derived from its use.

Canon Scott Is Miners Champion

Suggests Nova Scotia Take Mines From Corporation

Quebec, March 14.—That the Nova Scotia Government should exercise its prerogative, and, if possible, take over the coal districts of that Province, controlling the lease of the British Empire Steel Corporation was the opinion expressed here yesterday by Rev. Canon Scott, in discussing the present conditions in Nova Scotia. Canon Scott made an investigation of conditions prevailing in the Sydneys and the surrounding district at the time of the last strike.

"I do not think," stated Canon Scott, "that Canada is alive to the awful situation which has arisen in the coal mining districts of Nova Scotia. What the solution is to be no one seems able to suggest. Personally, I do not see how either the Nova Scotia or Federal Governments can vote sufficient sums of money to prevent the absolute starvation of something like 50,000 people if the strike or lockout, whichever it may be termed, continues for any length of time.

Anguish Acute

"Yet Canadians in other parts of Canada cannot and will not aid the employed while their fellow-countrymen including women and children are suffering acute anguish.

"What I would like to see would be for the Government of Nova Scotia to take over the coal fields and run them, buying out whatever rights the British Empire Steel Corporation may now have.

"Nova Scotia already owns the mines," he said, "The British Empire Steel Corporation are only the tenants. They certainly have not made a success of their possession. The mines are extraordinarily rich, so far as we know at the present, practically inexhaustible.

On Humane Basis

"This country already subsidizes the Canadian National Railways. Let the Nova Scotia Government, with royalties from Ottawa, develop the mines on a proper scientific and humane basis, furnishing facilities for transportation of coal and coke to every part of Eastern Canada. If this is done a new day may dawn for Nova Scotia, and even those who have to work in the coal area.

"The thing is," said Canon Scott, in summing up, "the Governments interested must act, and act quickly, if we are to avert what may prove to be the greatest labor tragedy in our history."

Canon Scott assured the delegates of the miners when they vacated the mines everything was carried out quietly, and he thought that this was one big point in their favor. He also referred to several living conditions, and remarked that they were deplorable and said he believes with the mines in any means

Stage And Screen Have Joined Hands

In Production of "Love's Wilderness" at Griffin Theatre Monday

Hollywood and New York's Broadway unite their dramatic strength in "Love's Wilderness," in which First National will present Corinne Griffith at the Griffin Theatre Mon., Tues., Wed.

Supporting Corinne in this picture are two prominent Broadway stage players, who were brought to Hollywood to create the leading male roles. They are Holmes Herbert and Ian Keith.

Another stage celebrity in the cast is Maurice Cannon. Cannon was brought over by First National from France, where he was leading juvenile with the Comedie Francaise in Paris.

Playgoers of older memory will recall two other faces in "Love's Wilderness," reminiscent of the stage fame of two decades past. They are Jack Terrence, brother of Evelyn, who was leading baritone in "The Geisha" and other comic operettas that were all the rage a generation ago, and Emily Fitzroy, as well known in films now as a character actress as she was on the English and American stage twenty years ago.

This picture presents the lovely Corinne in a new dramatic element —totally different in spirit from that of "Black Oxen" and "Lilies of the Field," in which she scored tremendously. It is the story of a young Southern girl who runs away with an adventurer and takes her through scenes in Canada and the South Seas. Robert E. Leonard directed.

Berlin—Five candidates are in running for German presidency.

Toronto—Seven persons injured in traffic accidents during snow storm.

Mining Story Is Coming To Belle

Thomas Meighan Stars in "Coming Through" on Monday

Some one-hundred odd persons appear in support of Thomas Meighan in his new Paramount picture, "Coming Through," which will be the feature next Monday at the Belle Theatre to remain for three days.

Here's the answer, folks. The four hundred are real honest-to-goodness miners who appear in the coal mine scenes of the story. The others all have prominent roles in the cast.

Lila Lee, who returns to the screen after a year's absence in "Coming Through", adapted to the screen from Jack Bechdolt's novel, "Red Dock," is featured in the leading woman's role opposite Tom. In like old times to have Lila back with Meighan. Miss Lee appeared with the star in many of his early successes.

Wallace Beery, whom the fans will remember for his excellent work in "Robin Hood" and in "The Sea Hawk" is the villain in this picture. He is cast in the role of a roughneck mine foreman who does his best to put Tom out of the way for keeps. As Joe Lawler, Beery is claimed to have the greatest opportunity of his career.

John Miljan plays Lila Lee's father in the production. He is John Rand, steel corporation in which Meighan is an employe. Frank Campeau is another screen favorite portrays the role of Shackleton who makes his living by the sale of bootleg liquor in the mining camp at Coltes where Meighan is sent as superintendent.

Laurance Wheat, seen with Tom in "The Conference Code," and many others, is also well cast as are Gus Weinberg and Alice Knowland.

Here's Tom with one of finest casts ever—in a story of the Alabama mining camps that might have been written to order for him.

Edward Sutherland, until recently assistant to Charles Chaplin, directed "Coming Through," as his first work for the screen, Paul Schofield is credited with the screen play.

Baree, Son of Kazan

James Oliver Curwood

(A Vitagraph Picture with Walf, the Wer Dog, is an adaptation of this story.)

SYNOPSIS

Nepecse, the Cree half-breed, while trading with her father, Pierrot, shot at Baree, the dog-wolf, inflicting only a trivial wound. When she found Baree was not a full-blooded wolf she greatly regretted having fired. She pursued Baree to get him but he disappeared. Baree encountered Oohoomisew, snow owl, and they had a terrific fight, in which Baree conquered but did not kill. This fight was good medicine for the young Baree, giving him confidence in himself.

Baree's luck. Instead of riding for a hundred feet or more straight up, was possibly as high as a man's head. It was in the edge of the creek-bottom, with the spruce forest close at its back. For many hours he did not sleep but lay keenly alert, his ears turned to catch every sound that came out of the dark world about him. There was more than curiosity in his alertness tonight. His unhappiness had produced immensely in one way: he had learned that he was a very small part of this wonderful earth that lay under the stars and the moon, and he was keenly alive with the truth. He became better acquainted with it without any more fighting or hurt. Tonight he knew what it meant when he saw now and then gray shapes that silently cut of the forest into the moonlight—the owls, monsters of the breed with which he had fought. He heard the crackling of hoofs far out in the scrubling of heavy bodies in the underbrush. He heard again the mooing of the moose. Voices came to him that he had not heard before—the lazy yap-yap-yap of a fox, the unearthly cry of a great Northern loon on a lake half a mile away, the scream of a lynx that came floating through miles of forest, the low, soft sounds of the nighthawks between himself and the stars.

All these sounds he knew, only now meaning for Baree. Swiftly he was coming into his knowledge of the wild creeds. His eyes gleamed; his blood thrilled. For many nights he had been his fullest breath of the chase, calling him to the red thrill of the hunt, to the wild deed of torn flesh and running blood—calling, calling.

Next morning Baree found many crawfish along the creek, and he feasted on them. He succeeded finally in felt that he would never be hungry again. Nothing had tasted quite so good since he had eaten the partridge of which he had robbed Sekoosew the ermine.

In the middle of the afternoon Baree came into a part of the forest that was very quiet and peaceful. The creek had deepened. In places its banks swept out until they formed small ponds. Twice he made considerable detours to get around these ponds. He traveled very quietly, listening and watching. Not since the ill-fated day he had left the old windfall had he felt quite so much at home as now. It seemed to him that at last he was treading country which he knew, and where he would find friends. Perhaps this was another miracle-mystery of instinct—of nature. For he was in old Beaver-tooth's domain. It was here that his father and mother had lived the days before he was born. It was not far from here that Kazan and Beaver-tooth had fought that mighty duel under the water, from which Kazan had escaped with his life without another breath.

Baree would never know these things. He would never know that he was traveling over old trails. Now and then he would halt, his nose pointed straightly. He sniffed the air. Soon he'd be found the scent of familiar things. It was only a faint breath—an indefinable promise that brought him to the point of a mysterious gladness.

There had been few changes in Beaver-tooth's country since the days of his feud with Kazan and the otters. Old Beaver-tooth was still older. He was fatter. He slept a great deal and perhaps he was less cautious. He was dozing on the great mud-and-brush wood dam of which he had been architect-in-chief when Baree came out softly on a high bank thirty or forty feet away. So noiseless had Baree been that none of the beavers had even yet heard him. He squatted himself flat on the bulky, hidden behind a tuft of grass, and with eager intensity watched every movement. Beaver-tooth was directly in front of him. Once in a short legs for a moment; then he lifted himself and with his head, tail like a soldier at attention, and with a swollen shape like a big club in front with a great splash.

In another moment it seemed to Baree that the pond was alive with beavers. Heads and bodies appeared and disappeared, rushing this way and that through the water in a manner that amazed and puzzled him.

The beavers were busy in cutting at their labors, and Baree watched and listened with so much eagerness that a blade of the grass in which he was hidden cut his face. He was trying to understand. He was striving to place these curious and comfortable-looking creatures in his knowledge of things. They did not harm him; he felt no uneasiness at their number or size. His kind—the kind of his father and mother—had but rail a of a strange and growing desire to get better acquainted with this curious four-legged brotherhood of the pond. Already they had begun to make the big forest less lonely for him. And then, close under him—not more than ten feet from where he lay—he saw something that almost gave voice in the joyous kinship of a new pastonship that was in him.

Down there, on a clean patch of the shore that rose out of the soft mud of the pond, waddled fat little Nipsie and three of his playmates. Nipsie was but about Baree's age, perhaps a year or two younger. But he was fully as heavy and almost as wide as he was long.

And then, of a sudden, some one saw Baree. It was a big beaver swimming down the pond with a sapling timber for a new dam that was under construction. He bowed his head and faced the shore. And then, like the report of a rifle, there came the crack of his flat tail on the water. It was beaver's signal of danger that on a quiet night can be heard half a mile away.

"Danger—danger—danger!" it warned. "Danger—danger—danger!"

Scarcely had the signal gone forth when tails were cracking in all directions—in the pond, in the hidden runways, in the thick willows and alders. To Umbic and his companions they said:

"Run for your lives!"

Baree stood rigid and motionless now. In amazement he watched the four little beavers plunge into the pond and disappear. He heard the splash of other and heavier bodies striking the water. And then followed a strange and delightful silence. Baree whined, and he whine was almost a sobbing cry. What Umbic and his little mates run away from Baree did not know. He knew that he didn't want to make friends with him! A grown-up beaver, with his flat—an inoffensive creature even than that of his first sight away from his mother. The last of the saw faded out of the sky as he sank down. Darker shadows crept over the pond. He could hear into the forest where Kazan was gathering—and with another wild cry he shook back into it. He had not found friendship. He had not found companionship. And his heart was very heavy.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills
They Give New Vitality—and more.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills do one thing—and do it well. They build up the blood, increasing the number of red corpuscles. As this is done the blood becomes a richer red and is able to carry more oxygen, the great supporter of human life. Every organ and tissue in the body receives of the best are better nourished and the functions of the body are better performed. This is the reason Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have been a success in all diseases due to poor, thin blood, why the pills are so successful in building up nerves after shock or severe illness, following an attack of influenza, after a severe case of anaemia and general weakness.

Mrs. Ida Shackleton, R.R. No. 3, Bath, N.B., says—"Some years ago, following an attack of typhoid fever, I was left almost a nervous wreck. I could get no sleep, no appetite, and my nerves were so bad that my little smock as through I had palpy. As I was not improving under the use of the doctor's medicine I decided upon the advice of a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I noticed from the first I could feel an improvement. I continued taking the pills until I had used twelve boxes, when I was again enjoying perfect health. On occasion I have taken one or two boxes in spring to tone up the system, and can truly say they are a wonderful tonic."

You can get the pills from your druggist, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ONTARIO LAW MAKERS SET UP A RECORD

When They Dispose of Budget Debate in Five Days

LESS CRITICISM

F. C. Biggs Declares Budget "A Business-Like Job"

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Toronto, March 14.—A budget debate disposed of in five days! What is what the world will think this means. It is probably a record in the history of the Legislature. Anyway, less than two days' work has sufficed for the contributions of Opposition members, and seven these speeches were for the most part singularly devoid of criticism. Last session, Hon. W. H. Price brought down his Budget on February 18th, and the debate continued until March 6, a period of 16 days before censure for any wasted years. The Provincial Treasurer has taken pains to present the Public accounts in clear and concise form, and accompanied the figures and counts by such concise facts and ascertained the familiar plus none of the whole address. Hence little explanatory. Nevertheless, the remarkable absence of criticism is a very important feature in a fine tribute to the Treasurer's work, and the administration of the Government in general. The end of the week on Tuesday, which will provide some interesting material debate, and we expect rock sensational disclosures as came last year in the Treasurer's closing speech with respect to the bond deals of the previous administration.

Less Criticism

It has been generally noted that criticisms have been few from the Opposition side. The fact is debate on the Budget is much more business and far less partisan than in session of the years.

"That is the way things should be discussed in this House," remarked Premier Beck. "Mr. Liberal Member" Sam Clarke, Liberal member for West Northumberland, and dean of the Assembly, in his address of welcome to the new House, striking illustration of the new atmosphere could not have been given than Mr. Biggs' homage minister of Highways in the Drury Government. Mr. Biggs declared that the budget "a business-like job" and that Treasurer "a good man and a good minister." Hon. Charles McCrea, Liberal member for Sudbury, said he considered he did not belong in the position. He said the aim of the minister of Highways, Hon. Charles Henry, was to give the people the best possible value for the money, and expressed personal appreciation of the work of Hon. Mr. Henry and officers in the Hamilton district during the winter. He suggested that no one would care to avoid levy of the new gasoline tax if it would relieve the bad conditions of Ayer years ago, and the House approved by applause. Mr. Biggs specifically commended the work also of the Minister of Health, Hon. Dr. Godfrey, and the Attorney-General, Hon. Mr. Raney.

Heads of Departments

All of which is a first-class testimonial to a man who can by no means regarded as proficient in the art of Parliamentary.

A Big Saving

The Treasurer's Bill providing for the acquisition by his Department of Succession Duties collected, which was held by an estate being wound up, went through for third reading without a cavity. Hon. Mr. Price estimates the saving to the province, which now pays $32,000 to $35,000 a year, and some Opposition members thought it would be more. Mr. R. H. Bowman, Liberal member for West Simcoe, said that the Treasurer in stopping the passing of these duties was making a large estate to another, to avoid succession duties, was dealing unfairly with investors, but the Liberal leader added, nevertheless that he did not think "wrong" in this branch of taxation" and did not press his point, particularly as W. E. Raney warmly approved the bill on behalf of the Government group. There are over $4,000,000 of these succession still outstanding, although an issue has not been made since 1917 with the exemption clause.

Tax Sales

The House received with much enthusiasm an announcement by the Prime Minister on Tuesday that the Government, in view of favorable reports received from the mining country, had decided to grant relief immediate start upon extension of the T. & N. O. Railway into the Porcupine and copper district. The work will involve a loan of $1,000,000 to the province of Quebec—an extension of the Ontario Railway into the district under Nipissing Central federal charter. Transportation is now very costly and laborious, although successfully by a private company's airplane service, and the opening of the district will be the work to several hundred men, will mean a great deal to the whole industry in the new field. The Government's hope is that the railway will prove a paying venture to the province itself, and that the work will be so far completed by December of this year as to admit of operation.

A bit of legislation bespoken to the Government by the lake navigation states is to be cleaned up in the near future in the case of the 1922 amendment to the Medical Act bringing drugless healers under the definition of "practice of medicine." Legislation is also to be framed, under the amended Act governing the admission to practice of future graduates in drugless healing but it happens found impossible at this session to get new legislation to the House in time for consideration by the next General Meeting had a four conference with representatives of the Medical Association, osteopaths and chiropractors, and it is

Kiwanians Plan Novelty Features

Local Speakers and Musicians Will Broadcast From WEAR

Members of the local Kiwanis club visited by Kiwanis clubs of Ontario and Quebec are featuring a novelty and educational feature that will class Belleville intimately before an estimated invisible audience of thousands scattered in the United States and Canada.

Through the courtesy of G. C. Donald an programme consisting of radio superphone station WEAR, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. Akron, Ohio, the entire evening of April tenth has been booked by this station for the local club for a programme of songs, speeches, and orchestra selections.

George Griffin secretary of the local club, and president of the club for the Ontario-Quebec district, has arranged with other clubs for the service of their best speakers, and vocal and instrumental from clubs unable to attend. T. A. Rob Belleville, who manages contact with radio listeners last year through KDKA and other stations, has arranged some new novelty songs and banjo numbers.

The Bon Ton orchestra of Belleville has been selected to provide novelty instrumental numbers, and will be heard given the evening, and through the courtesy of Leo Feist Co., Ltd., Toronto, has been provided with the latest release. The orchestra consists of Jack Smith, William Warham, Harold Stephens, Joseph Humphries, Fred Hamilton, and Ernest Hamilton.

One of the features of the evening will be quartette selections by the Belleville Four, well-known here and to many others.

The Montreal Kiwanis club whose members will make every effort to bring the International Convention of Kiwanians to Canada this year will be heard from. Greetings and congratulations from other clubs received by George Griffin indicate the keen interest in the programme.

Feature that will draw expressions from coast to coast will be a radio roll call of Kiwanis clubs in the United States and Canada, who will be notified of the time of the programme.

George Griffin, the energetic secretary of the local club has arranged a number of attractive cards sent to all Kiwanis clubs and other features are being arranged by Rob Wray, chairman of the evening's meeting of the local club.

Dr. C. G. Donaldson director of station WEAR, Cleveland, Ohio, will be present at the meeting, and has guaranteed all assistance of the Goodyear Company toward making the broadcasting the first of it's kind, a complete success.

March 12 Proves A Fateful Day

Young English Bride In Unfortunate Position in Hamilton

Three weeks ago the village church bells at Naron, a little farming center ten miles north of Ottawa, heralded a wedding ceremony, when Miss Lucy Bell widow were married.

Shortly before a young English woman had come to a neighboring farm from Hamilton, where she was housekeeper to a wealthy bachelor farmer. Her name was Miss Jaine Hamilton. Her late law also an Englishman, came to the farm of Mr. Bell, where he became friendly with the hay-making and harvesting and a marriage was arranged. The war widow had one little daughter ten years of age.

Three Open Home

To mark the occasion their employer opened his home and for three days for miles around attended the wedding festivities. More than 40 guests sat down. Beautiful presents were received. Then the honeymoon and subsequent happy couple set out for Hamilton. It was their intention to secure work on the outskirts of the city, and to start housekeeping in their own home.

Twenty-five years ago last March 12 her father's throat was cut and he was thrown in the Thames the day of the British race in England. Two years ago March 12 her husband was killed in an automobile accident while driving to visiting following the war in which she herself served four years, being invalided with a stroke. This year on the fatal date her husband vanished.

Window Curtain Ignites in Office

Dr. I. R. Hough Suffers Loss By Fire Saturday

Fire on Saturday evening did considerable damage to an office in the Bonnell Block, East Front street, occupied by Dr. I. R. Hough, chiropractor. A coal oil stove igniting a curtain, is given as the cause of the blaze. Dr. Hough had left the office but a short time, when the fire broke out. The blaze was confined to the office and his loss consisted in destruction of a rug and curtain. Insurance protects. Loss sustained is covered by insurance.

Passed The Hat Just Before Death

Witnesses Donate $111 for Family of Condemned Man

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Sterling, N.Y., March 15.—Patrick Murphy, 39, of Buffalo, died in the electric chair at Sing Sing. He entered the death cell at 11:45 and was pronounced dead at 11:13.

Frank Minnick, 34, also of Buffalo followed Murphy to the death chair. He entered at 11:15 and was pronounced dead at 11:37.

Minnick was convicted last May of complicity in the murder of Helen Fuller in the hold-up of a Jewelry store in Buffalo.

Murphy was the fourth man to pay the death penalty for the killing last year of May Bigham during the hold-up of a drugstore at Buffalo.

Murphy protested his innocence to his last words: "I want to say I am innocent. There is a man in the Buffalo jail who knows that I wasn't in the place."

Minnick's last words were of appreciation to police officials and a plea for help for his wife and children.

Before Minnick was strapped in the chair to the death chamber took up a collection of $111 for his wife and children. The guards gave it to Warden Lawes, to be turned over to the widow.

As the execution was taking place Minnick's two children, Harry and Frank, were asleep in the warden's home outside the prison walls. With their mother, they had visited the condemned man earlier in the evening. Minnick's wife had been driven to the prison at 12:55. She was in a hysterical condition.

Her Fateful Day

Mrs. Laddie informed the police today that March 12 has been a terrible day in her life. Born on March 12 her parents lost their baby boy the day following her birth.

Twenty-five years ago last March 12 her father's throat was cut and he was thrown in the Thames the day of the British race in England. Two years ago March 12 her husband was killed in an automobile accident while driving to visiting following the war in which she herself served four years, being invalided with a stroke. This year on the fatal date her husband vanished.

Lindsay Aspirant Now Sues The Town And Says The County Jail Is Unclean

Lindsay, March 16.—J. B. Chambers of late, Lindsay's stormy petrel and the man who successfully contested the municipality two years ago against ex-Mayor F. E. Cowan, is back in the limelight as the result of a charge of assault and battery laid by the town bailiff, by the county jail. Chamberlain has also given notice that he will be commenced an action for $3,000 against the town as he alleges he contracted certain troubles while in the county jail, pending examination for insanity. At the time of his committal Chamberlain was charged with carrying firearms, and the question of his sanity was raised by the County Crown Attorney. Chamberlain at the time remarked that the only evidence

Ready To Herald St. Patrick's Day

Shamrocks Shall Predominate Tuesday at Social Events Here

An Irish lecturer Dr. McGuire will speak at the Y. M. C. A. in the evening too.

Wants More Names For Old-Home Week

Adopt Invitation to be Sent Abroad on Saturday Night

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Old Home Week was held at Judge J. F. Wills' office on Saturday evening. Representatives of the entertainment committee were also present. A general discussion the form of invitations to be sent out to former residents of the city was adopted and in the near future these will be sent out. Names are being sent in to the office daily more rapidly and all who have "relatives or friends away from the city are requested to send in their names to the Secretary-Treasurer. It is also recalled them to attend the re-union and peace celebration. Whilst about 1600 names have been sent in there are many more to be added to this.

This was the only business transacted at the meeting which adjourned to meet again at the call of the chairman.

Fail To Confirm Rumor Of Fines

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Reported Imposed on Players of Hamilton N.H.L. Club

Hamilton, March 16—Members of the Hamilton N.H.L. club were preparing today to leave for their homes, determined to stay out of hockey, if the management again Captain "Sherry" Green, was fined $100 and suspended for the playoffs since the trouble started. Green refused to accept the punishment for publication in his effort, to point out that he was not the only one to blame for the trouble.

Manager Thompson of the squad were busy today trying to point out to manager Thompson that he had been right in his first in the N.H.L. in the last week of the playing season, but to no avail and according to reports they will take action in the courts to recover their money. Green left the east of Toronto on Saturday to the effect that he was fined $100 and suspended and could not be played.

Manager Thompson when interviewed stated that, Frankie Carbo, Eddie Gerard and Lou Marsh, fines having been imposed on players.

Johnston struck him with her. The verdict of the court at Lindsay on Thursday of this week.

To Publish Names Of The Delinquents

Cemetery Board Takes Drastic Measure at Hamilton.

Hamilton, March 14.—Authority was given Secretary Sam Landers at a meeting of the board of the city cemetery board to arrange for publication in the newspapers of the names of persons in cemeteries who have been delinquent in paying assessments for lot markings for care. Cemetery boards have been troubled by neglect to classify lots on which the annual payments have been neglected, and also confused lots and after the passing of certain time following advertising, it is proposed to resell.

The lists are quite extensive and will be published in three instalments, following approval by City Solicitor Wilkes. The first list will include every location of lot and graves on which no payments have been made, and on the two successive Saturdays.

Cemetery Superintendent Benson Sack payments from those who desire to avoid having their names listed will be accepted up to a few days before publication of the first list.

CROWDS HEAR MAID TALK AT UNIQUE TRIAL

Show Great Interest In the Dennistoun Case

LATE WIRE NEWS.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, March 16.—A crowd of fashionable men and people in evening dress who daily crowd the court room to watch the proceedings in the Dennistoun trial, had nothing to suggest today when Lieut.-Col. Ian Malcolm Dennistoun took the stand to his own defense against allegations of his former wife that he had encouraged her intimacy with Sir John Ochoa, late Grand Master General of British Army in Bridge in the Indian Empire. Before defendant was called, Hannah Carter, his former wife's maid, testified that Mrs. Dennistoun told her the night before the marriage of her mistress that she had been married before. "I am glad that my guess to be right," said Col. Dennistoun when told what the servant had said.

"Her maid it was a dreadful thing to see letters against any one who had erred you," he testified. Dennistoun also told me that although she had married Col. Dennistoun, she had never loved him." Witness said her mistress had told her that Mrs. Dennistoun owed her lots of money and that she was forced to ask Briggs to give it back."

Col. Dennistoun when his turn stand declared that his former wife had confessed to him within a few months after their marriage that she had been unfaithful to him. The letter in the case, which Mrs. Dennistoun declared she was frequently mentioned in entire days and which she said Col. Dennistoun had on cross examination had denied there ever any such letter, was found for the first became suspicious in 1911 and that her wife finally confessed her misconduct.

Berlin, March 16.—Professor August Von Wassermann, director of the Royal Institute for Experimental Therapy and Professor of Internal Medicine at the University of Berlin, originator of the celebrated Wassermann test, died this morning. Prof. Wassermann, discoverer of Germany's greatest medical research men, was 56 years of age.

CROWDED MEETING HEARS T. D. RUSTON

The largest crowd which has congregated in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium since the Association was formed, was held recently each Sunday evening, when Ruston was the principal speaker of the evening last night. The gymnasium was crowded.

Giving a most helpful talk to the congregation on the merits of accepting Christ as their Saviour, he said the undivided attention of his hearers.

All were impressed with the great goal though there might be but slight difficulties in the way. Ruston likened the Salvation Army like theirs pulling for a religious lifted from, and similarly, Christians should be pulling for humanities worshipped in but slightly different ways, and also, that the ultimate goal and regard as sacred the same as theirs.

The Salvation Army, with its flags and bands, is a most successful economic easement for the singing of several good old hymns.

LORD BECTORIZ

McGill has just held a vote on the Lord Beckorizky project initiated by the Students' Council. It is interesting to see its unanimous arguments that have been advanced through the columns of the university paper, pro and con, regarding the establishment of the office at McGill. Those who favored the project saw in it the opportunity for bringing down men of prominence in the Empire to address the students at regular intervals. Those who spoke against it urged that it would be transplanting of a tradition rooted deeply in Scotland, a worthwhile tradition there, but out of its surroundings when brought here. The view of Dr. Stephen Leacock, McGill's professor of economy and famous social humorist is particularly interesting. In an interview with the McGill Daily he summed up his view in the following statement "McGill has staggered unwrithed for nearly a hundred years and can still stagger a little further." The entire problem is certainly a most debatable one.

THE COMMUNISTS WITHIN OUR GATES

The Montreal Star tells of an incident in that city a few nights ago when a thousand young people of both sexes filled one of the largest halls in that city, while scores more were denied admittance owing to lack of room. Most of those present, the paper states, were foreign born, and the object of their gathering was to advance the cause of communism.

In doing so they extolled the magic name of Lenin; damned the capitalists and jeered of the era of "freedom" which Kolsherism brought to Russia. It was a polyglot affair, goes that rivalled the Towel of Babel almost every language from Eastern and Central Europe being heard.

Literature was distributed concerning the most startling blasphemy. Every one wore a red rosette and some more loyal to the cause had medallions of their leader. There was no sign of the Canadian flag, but the Red Flag of Revolt was praised and hymns were sung for the creed which the Red Flag stands for.

The British are a long suffering race and this characteristic of forbearance has been plucked in every part of the Empire where the Union Jack flies. Yet there is a limit to their patience. It is just possible that one day someone will take these pink Socialists at their word and will re-ship them back to the "old country" and their own choosing—to the land of Lenin.

A great army in this country are greatly exercised regarding the so called Oriental menace on the coast as well as the religious fanaticism of the Doukhobor in the West, but they appear to be indifferent to the Red menace which never sleeps, and which threatens to do a great deal of trouble if not nipped in its incipient stages.

HALF BILLION FROM TOURISTS

The tremendous possibilities of the tourist traffic as a Canadian industry are illustrated by the fact that the centre of population for automobiles in the United States is in close proximity to the Canadian border. According to information compiled by the Canadian Department of the Interior, 6,680,000 automobiles, or 43 per cent. of the total number of vehicles are owned in the United States, are owned in states bordering on the Great Lakes, while the $170,000 or 41.1 per cent. are in states contiguous to Canada.

These facts are astounding! They mean that Canada has at her very doors probably 30,000,000 potential tourists, an increasingly large number of whom will visit us annually if we take the proper steps to develop this industry. In the past we have had no definite national policy in this connection. Separate municipal bodies, principally near the borders, have endeavored to attract tourists and certain organizations have established camps for the convenience co-ordinated attempts nothing serious co-ordinated attempts nothing serious has been done.

It has been estimated by the National Parks Board that the tourist trade brought $126,000,000 into the country in 1924. A great deal more than that the industry was worth more than $290,000,000 to France last year. What we want is our right full share of the tourist business, and if the figure for France is correct, we should aim at at least three times this amount.

Some of the features which would build up a half-billion dollar tourist industry in Canada are more widely spread and business advertising in the United States; further development of the present tourist camps; improvement of roads leading to our inland resorts, and the provision of more habitable hotels in many of those places, and the method of dealing with profiteers who thrive on overcharging tourists thus discouraging their return.—Financial Post.

Transformation

DO you who!"

This was the salutation given to me by a dignified, elderly gentleman the other day as he locked arms with me and walked along the street.

People might have thought he was crazy, for he talked in the funniest fashion. He wanted to know "where I was whoing, and did I was whoing to go?" (Where I was going and what I was going to do?).

I decided him at last to go to the next lake to a restaurant and had lunch together. He was in town for an engagement at three o'clock and was in my debt—until then.

"Stupid fellow, the forms of vice," he said. "Mine is transformation. Vice is not necessarily wicked; it is what is different.

"All criminals are not bad men, I suppose the Pharisees thought our Saviour a criminal.

"He was doing what a great many men have tried to do since without success. He tried to be different.

"Himself he let be different to make people be right; it is an effort to make people conform. Those people got along the best who live about as do others.

"Consequently, for those of us who feel our responsibilities enough to live like others, it is a great pleasure now and then to break loose in some wild way and innocently have a good time."

For my friend was not crazy, but he was a Bishop in a nearby diocese and really quite a solid and esteemed personage in his community.

It must be hard to be a Bishop. No man can retain his sanity and stand on a pedestal all the time. He has to break loose some way, either in the privacy of his own chamber or more lavishly abroad.

Every man has to discover a way by which to gratify the instinct for play that abides in him.

I suppose there's no one of us, no matter how old, who does not want to play once in a while and who does not have some form of silliness in which to indulge. If it is harmless, so much the better. He has earned the right to it, and is about next time with a stronger church. In other words, he can go back to his sanity and seriousness and be more sane and serious than ever because for a while he has diverted himself.

Thirty Years Ago

Four liquor cases were called in the police court this morning, but were remanded for a week.

Miss Clare Rutan returned to the city yesterday after enjoying a pleasant visit with her uncle, Mr. Will Brooks.

Rev. H. Bruce Kenny, assistant pastor of the Metcalf Street Methodist Church, Oshawa, has been given a call to Columbus, six miles north of Oshawa, which he has accepted from the Quarterly Board subject to the Stationing Committee.

New York fashions—Colors are reverently bright, since the bright pink shades of winter are tabu. Also the liberal quota of green, and these two to sometimes united with quite a flare. Suits with waistcoats are to be worn and the jacket is cut away to show the waistcoat and fastened with one or two buttons. Skirts are close fitting in front and at the sides, with fullness massed at the back.

Gloucets are made of coarse straw with lavish trimmings.

THE WORLD COURT

(New York Times)

The best way in which to decrease military burdens, said the President, is to "create effective tribunals for the peaceful settlement of international differences." He did not say the World Court, but everybody knew he meant it. This is Mr. Coolidge's quiet but unyielding way of sticking to his point even after he has apparently ceased to insist on it.

Press Opinions

THE ENEMY OF MAN

(Johannesburg Sunday Times)

It has been estimated that the rat does more damage in the world than the combined evil wrought by all the other animals put together. One female rat, it is said, can in its life give birth to as many as fifty young ones, which are themselves capable of breeding at an early age. And every schoolchild knows, of course, that fleas and insects are no bar to the migrations of the rat, and that, if they were checked, it could spread bubonic plague all over the world.

JAPAN'S EXPERIMENT

(Brooklyn Eagle)

(Japan has granted the suffrage to all male subjects over 25 years of age.) It is probability the Japanese Government has been forier, and is still forced to, take actions gravely suggestive of fearful industrial unrest, if not of revolution. Wages are still unreasonably low in their relation to prices. Standards of living are low. Yet the economic prosperity of Japan depends on keeping the factory workers of the world, which in turn depends on the low wages. As between taking the needful steps to raise wages and taking the people into political partnership the rulers have chosen the latter alternative.

Dutchy's Diary

Vision and a Lesson

The following may be taken from literature prepared by the Belleville Chamber of Commerce issued in the year 1975:

"Belleville is in every respect a modern city. While many of its progressive citizens differ with you as to the fact that they are direct descendants of United Empire Loyalists, who established the present community nearly two hundred years ago, the growth which has made Belleville what it is to-day has taken place largely in the past twenty-five years, five years.

"In this fine the reasons for the great advantages awaiting outside in industrial interests and, generally speaking all those who desire big city conveniences combined with uncrowded conditions associated with rural districts. Wide streets, a most modern system of parks and large lots, together with a waterfront extending twelve miles along the entire breadth of the city give Belleville a reputation as one of the healthiest and most beautiful municipalities on the North American continent.

"As a result of town planning operations inaugurated half a century ago Belleville has been able to incorporate the most modern ideas for happy living at a minimum of cost and industrial concerns have not been slow in benefiting by these conditions. Business men have long realized that men with good homes and plenty of room for gardens make the best employees.

"Belleville is well served by railroads, air express and water transportation facilities. The new half million C.N.R. station, situated in the centre of the city, is the finest architectural structure of its kind in Canada. The C.P.R. building, while not so pretentious, is also one of the handsomest to handle business expeditiously.

"The city has been tied up with the splendid St. Lawrence Waterways route and Belleville firms may ship direct to foreign countries, thus avoiding transfer charges and effecting considerable saving in transportation costs.

"The government aerodrome in the east end of the city provides a fast express service to Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa three times daily.

* * *

This picture, roughly sketched, might come to pass were such plans as those outlined by Mayor Mikel recently taken seriously by a number of people.

True, it is visionary, and men are given a great opportunity to cry "impractical!"

But we cannot afford to laugh at vision these days. It's becoming too scarce.

* * *

The joke is on us. On Saturday afternoon, we were watching two workmen doing a "job". They took an hour to accomplish their task, we halted our own work to watch them. "No wonder they got a small wage for what they do," we remarked, "they do not realize the value of time."

As we watched the two men finished, however, and we suddenly realized that we had lost twenty minutes from our own particular week at hand.

To-day's Smile

The freshman was spending Saturday afternoon on the farm owned by his co-ed's papa, and the scenery filled him with romance. They were walking through the pasture when he noted a cow and calf rubbing noses. He stopped and smiled.

"Such a loving sight," he said to the girl, "makes one want to do the same thing."

"Go ahead," the girl said, "it's a cow and he won't care."

THE BEST WAY

(Journal of Commerce)

Many a poor fellow has failed on account of doing his best. While he had done the other fellow's best he would have succeeded. An individual should always remember that while he is doing his best the other fellow is also doing his best. And even that makes a big difference as to which is the best way. There is the best way to do everything. If vote way is not the best way, the other fellow may have already found the best way, and your best way will then fall short. Nobody has the right to expect to get by and rise on the strength of doing his best, unless his best is the best way. It is hardly ever safe to say, "I did my best." Sometimes the chances are that a person can always do a little better if he had to do the job over again.

Use Old Documents In Cobourg Case

Require Use of Magnifying Glass to Read-Faded Writing

Cobourg, March 16.—Documents and documents many with age dating as far back as the second decade of the 19th century, records kept by generations of school trustees and other public officials and on which the task had to be set that, it was impossible to read their contents without the aid of a strong magnifying glass were offered in the case of Hall vs. Cox, the evidence being heard by Chancellor Ferguson Court Friday.

It was a law that was filled with historical interest, although it had little to the way of attraction for the ordinary spectator of the court-room.

In Pioneer Days

Away back in 1816, when the pioneers of the district which now comprises the townships of Murray and Amelisburg, were still sturdy pioneers were laboring day and night to win a living out of the forest they found. To encourage them further, the Crown by erecting a log school house. To encourage them in this work appointment of what at that time was known as Upper Canada, made the grant of 200 acres of 18 acres of wild land, 100 acres of which still remains in the undisputed possession of Union School Sections 1 and 5 in the two town ships mentioned. The title to the remaining 18 acres was the issue in the court case which was heard here Friday before Mr. Justice Rose.

The property has been leased to various tenants for many years. A recent rentals and has been improved by cultivation and the erection of buildings. Richard H. McCrudden rented a grant from the Crown in 1900 for the 18 acres and this grant the trustee now ask the court to set aside and to restrain the defendant from further occupying any portion of the school land.

H. J. Hagarty, of Trenton, appeared for the trustees and Gordon Waldron, K. C., of Toronto, for the defendant. When the case opened Mr. Justice Rose said he was not going to give the right to set aside an order of the Crown making a grant of land but it was finally decided to hear the evidence.

Many trustees have come and gone since 1816 but the records remain in the straggling section were carefully and legibly kept. The trustees were Amos Ostrom Moyne, A. B. Young, and D. C. Some, all of whom have since become treasurer of the Board.

Among the witnesses heard were Mr. Curtis, of the Provincial Land Office and Arthur Willoughby, registrar for East Northumberland.

The case was still in progress when the Court adjourned.

BIRTHS

WARDHAUGH—On March 13, 1925, to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wardhaugh, a son, (Walter George).

A London Letter

London, Eng., March 16—It is a pity that Lord Wavell has not a shooting tailor for otherwise she would have had a delightful couple of days shooting rousing round Sicily with King George and the Royal Yacht. King George's attack of bronchitis has been more serious than as generally admitted and he is now ordered to Malta in a climate as absolutely vital for his health. The Queen naturally felt that she would be with the King during his period of convalescence, and has also been at Cowes and the Savoy, until he went to Sandringham. Paden seized two years ago.

"Ghosts of Sighs" for London

Poor old London! St. Paul's Cathedral in danger, the Houses of Parliament slowly crumbling into the river, the Zoo plastic gone from Picadilly Circus and Queen Alexandra's Birthday is again stated to be unsafe. American Love, an affection for Queen Victoria. They have to cross it when they arrive in this country or leave it, and every millionaire who stays at the Savoy looks upon it from his windows.

Hence the question of demolishing the bridge but it will probably be replaced by a handsome modern London bridge further up the river, and the Thames Embankment will not need to remain a "Silent Highway of the Thames as Lord Curzon called it.

"Chops of Jazz"

Miss Nikisch, the pianist and son of the famous conductor, is discovered to be this composer of the new Bull in Syncopated Rhythm. It is to be played and sung going to pay at their third concert at Queen's Hall, London. His name, like his son, has not been received in this side of the Atlantic because the composer is afraid of using his serious musical admirers will think of his latest effort as a lance orchestra-tion for the Savoy Orpheans.

Paderewski listened to some fragments of the Suite the other day, and was told of the composer's dilemma. "Child's Play, he is," cried Paderewski. "I'd give five years to have written that. He is the Chopin of Jazz."

Dress Parade Cocktails Cause a Stir

There had been quite an outcry because a Russian Princess, who has made a name for herself as a dress designer here, sent out invitations for a dress parade, announcing on the card. "Cocktails 11 to 1". One of these invitations went to the Japanese daughter of a Member of Parliament, and there has been no end of fun. Because the young lady took it literally and did drink cocktails from 11 to 1 a.m.

Nearly all the new Spring hats are of the "headhugging" order which as the days get warmer will quite relieve the shoulders. The cloche indeed has already nearly gone. Ostrich feathers, shaded, pinpointed or "hummed" are used artistically. The tendency for the plumes sometimes flanging down the face, and there are actually no quills to match. Evening dresses are slimmer than ever, and the mantle which that you can get one easily into the taxi or in which you carry your powder puffs.

16th Century Tortures: 50 Cents a Time

If you really want to get the creeps the Tower of London will now be the place to go to. The authorities have just thrown open to the public four more of the Towers, including the dungeons and torture chambers which have hitherto been considered much too grousome.

For an extra fifty cents you can see the spring-heeled boots being trained up on the identical rack on which Cranmer, Latimer and Guy Fawkes were tortured; and you can also, down what sat and believed to be the bones of Lady Jane Grey. The French sword with which Anne Boleyn was beheaded is also on view beside the clumsy looking axe that brought Catherine Howard's trouble to an end.

Weighty Ex-Rings Stretching Western Ocean

There is an ear-piercing campaign afoot on in London just now. Fashionable women are wearing ear-rings of such a weight that ordinary screws are not reliable enough, and piercing is necessary.

Some women, noticeably the Countess of Ancaster, Lady Louis Mountbatten and the young Countess of Plymouth, favour a single earring, generally worn in the left ear and hanging onto the shoulder. The newest ear-rings are either enormous clusters of immense value, or tiny bastets of many pale gemstones, enamels and precious stones. Some are so heavy that they are palpably clumsy.

Malba Nights Again at Convent

It is now quite definite that there will be a brilliant Opera Season at the Convent Garden in the summer—just now the famous theatre is being used for a dance hall with a ballet (ballet admission fee) and Melba will sing at many gala performances. Toscanini, flerlest and most electric of conductors—is coming over to conduct some of the performances. There is a good deal of speculation as to whether he will conduct in one of the Melba nights, for his dirregard of "stars". In Covent Garden is the theatre—but now the famous theatre is being used for a dance hall with a ballet (ballet admission fee) and Melba will sing at many gala performances. Toscanini, flerlest and most electric of conductors—is coming over to conduct some of the performances. There is a good deal of speculation as to whether he will conduct in one of the Melba nights, for his dirregard of "stars". In Covent Garden is the theatre—but now the way is now completing her engagements and will be published shortly.

Quickly can get used to calling Mr. Asquith the Earl of Oxford and Asquith. At a public dinner he went to the chair in the place of Lord Oxford, by permeated some "Spooneisms" as follows:

The Earl of Oxquith and Ashford.

The Earl of Ozank and Rockford.

The Earl of Forgoard and Lexpush.

And then he will be published slowly.

Prohibition Bible Has Been Published

Issued in Two Volumes, Eliminates References To Wine

New York, March 14—A "prohibition Bible," based on the United States law set with malt and hops, in which are eliminated references to wine has been published by Charles Berbier's Sons. Issued in two volumes, the new version is known as the shorter Bible.

The quotations from various versions of the Bible sound David dealing out "to every man and woman a piece of bread and a flagon of wine" appears in the shorter Bible as "a roll of bread, a portion of meat and a cake." The Psalmist. The prophet Isaiah's reference to the King James version, relating to other gods and "loving liczons so wine" appears in the shorter Bible as "although they turn to other gods and love to eat sweet cakes and fine meal cake."

The shorter Bible, however, retains the phrases "Wine is a mocker, Strong drink is turbulent," "So look not on the wine when it is red," and "Be careful not to drink any wine of intoxicating drink."

The translators included a number of Y.M.C.A. officials. They declare they did not consider the prohibition question in making their translation.

Tkae Salts If Rheumatism Is Bothering You

TELLS RHEUMATISM SUFFERERS TO TAKE SALTS TO GET RID OF TOXIC ACID.

Rheumatism is superior of age, sex, color or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat no specie for awhile, drink as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become sick, sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

"Stop!" she said, "I cannot decide whether you are deceiving me or not, but I will trust you."

"You must," said Fanny quietly.

"Yes, I will trust you," said Lady Blanche, pale now at the lips.

A queer smile played about the thin lips of the little adventuress for a moment, then with admirable gravity she dropped a curtsey.

"I thank you, my lady," she said. "You will have no cause to regret having done so. Your cousin, Miss Elaine, will never be the Marchioness of Nairne." And before Lady Blanche could speak again, Fanny opened the door and left the room, leaving the haughty beauty still half doubting, not a little resentful, but wholly conquered.

CHAPTER XIV.

A week has passed since Fanny came to terms with Lady Blanche, and during that time both the art of painters and upholsterers, great changes have been made in Nairne Castle.

Lady Scott has arrived some days before, and has taken her position as hostess with that graceful facility which seems the birthright of an English lady. She is a tall, slightly-built woman with iron gray hair and calm gold lined eyes. Her voice is low and deliberate, and there are indications of her relationship to the marquis in her classic cut, features and straight dark eyebrows.

Of the marquis she stands a little in awe, and though cultured and refined under the circumstances he both natural and gardonable, she has, beyond a most unpretending him as to his reasons for his sudden hospitality. For years past the marquis has made her a liberal allowance, and Lady Scott has come at his bidding, prepared to play the part of hostess for a week, a month, a year, if it so pleases him.

On the morning after her arrival he broke her a list of persons whom he wished her to invite, and she took down it with pleased severity.

"If there are any more you would like to have, ask them, by all means," he remarks. "I want to have a pleasant party."

"Oh, no," she says; "these are quite enough. I should think Blanche Delaine—that is Lord Delaine's daughter, of course, and she will come with the Bannisters; and this Miss Delaine, who is she, Nairne?"

"Lady Blanche's cousin. She lives with her father, a retired major, on the hill above."

"So near! Will they care to come and stay?"

He shrugs his shoulders.

"We can but ask them," he says with seeming carelessness. "Oh, yes; I think they will come."

"Your guests are all people in the neighborhood?"

"Well, yes; one cannot expect one to leave London in the height of the season. I have only asked them Scotties. I want—" he pauses a moment—"I want to make the acquaintance of my neighbors—if it isn't too late."

"No, I do not suppose it is too late," she replies with a faint smile, which means it can never be too late for the Marquis of Nairne to make overtures of friendship.

And the event proves her to be right. There are no refusals of the marquis' invitations and those who have received one of Lady Scott's polite attentive notes about and display it with barely concealed triumph to those who have not.

"An invitation to the Castle for a fortnight!" exclaims the major, as Elaine hands him the note across the breakfast table. "Good Heavens! Wonders will never cease. For a fortnight, too! What does it mean? Why if we'd asked us to dinner, I shouldn't have been surprised; but to stay in the house!" and he runs across the table with a face flushed by surprise and delight.

Elaine says nothing, but she answers absorbed in the news even; but there is something significant in her silence, which makes the major quiet and receptive. If his daughter were made Marchioness of Nairne, there would soon be an end of the annoyances caused by creditors' constant duns.

On the day when the major and his daughter arrive at the Castle, the marquis himself comes into the hall to receive them, and shows by his manner the esteem in which he holds them.

He is not yet dressed for dinner, although the dressing-bell has rung, and he takes Elaine's hand upon his arm and leads her through the hall and up the wide staircase, which are in wheelchairs with the light of a multitude of wax candles, which is reflected in the carved and the Venetian glass mirrors.

"I have been waiting for you," he says in a low voice. "Are you not very late?"

"No, I think not," she says with downcast eyes. It seems only a few hours ago, instead of days, since she stood with him on the balcony of the Town Hall and his voice recalls every word he then uttered.

"Then it is my impatience which makes you seem so. I have been watching the clock for the last half hour. Shall you be long dressing?"

"Not very long," replies Elaine with faint smile.

"You wonder why I should ask you?" he says. "I want to walk in the hall for you, and introduce you to Lady Scott. I will stand by that pillar there," and he points to the balustrade, "and when I "I can dress in ten minutes, but I will give you half an hour. Is that long enough?"

"More than long enough," she manages to say. "Some one else has been waiting anxiously for you," he adds, as he stops opposite the door of her room.

"Some one else!"

He nods with a smile.

"Two persons, indeed. My friend, Leigh, and a friend of yours. Can you guess?"

Baree, Son of Kazan

by

James Oliver Curwood

(A Vitagraph Picture with Wolf, the War Dog, in an adaptation of this story.)

SYNOPSIS

Baree the young wolf-dog, wandering the wilderness come upon a colony of beavers. He tried to make friends with Umisk, their leader, but the little animal is wary, fearing Baree lonely and unhappy. He was attracted by the mewing of the moose and the pop-pop-pop of a fox but thrilled most of the wolf cry. It was the call of his race, summoning him to the chase, the hunt, the wild orgy of fore flesh and running blood.

For a quarter of an hour Baree waited him while he brooded fish out of the pool. When at last the stopped there were twenty or thirty fish among the stone piles, and these he and others he still stopped. From where he lay Baree could see the chunking of flesh and bones as the bear devoured his dinner. It sounded good, and the fresh smell of fish filled him with a craving that had never been roused by crawfish or even partridge.

Twenty seconds after the last of Wakayoo had disappeared in a turn of the creek, Baree was under the broken balsam. He dragged out a fish that was still alive. This ate the whole of it and it was delicious.

Baree now found that Wakayoo had solved the food problem for him, and this day he did not return to the beaver pond, nor the nest. The big bear was incessantly fishing up, and down the creek, and day after day Baree continued the feast.

For a week life continued to be exceedingly pleasant. And then came the break—the change that was destined to mean so much for Baree as that other day, long ago, had meant for Kazan, his father, when he killed the man-brute in the land of the wilderness.

This change came on the day when, in trotting around a great rock near the waterfall, Baree found himself face to face with Pierrot the hunter and Neepee, the star-eyed girl who had shot him in the side of the mountain.

It was Neepee whom he saw first. If it had been Pierrot he would have turned back quickly. But again the blood of his forebear was rousing strange trends in the within him. Was it like this that the first woman had looked to Kazan?

Baree stood still. Neepee was not more than twenty fet from him. She was on a rock, full in the early morning sun, and was brushing out her wonderful hair. Her eyes were like stars above in an instant like stars. One hand rested on the rock, and with the other she caressed. She recognized him. She saw only one thing from here, leaving Baree lonely and unhappy. He was attracted by the mewing of the, moose and the pop-pop-pop of a fox but thrilled most of the wolf cry....it was the call of his race, summoning him to the chase, the hunt, the wild orgy of fore flesh The running blood.

Anyone Can Learn To Act, Star Avers

Girl Must Have Poise Though, Says Corinne Griffith

"It's a gift," says Corinne Griffith "and unless you've got it keep away from Hollywood.

The "gift" she named is poise, and she declared that otherwise a pretty girl could ever hope to become a screen star.

Corinne's outburst came after she and her director, Robert Z. Leonard had passed upon a long script of it reject nearly one hundred girl applicants for minor roles in her new First National picture, "Love's Wilderness," which is the Griffith starring vehicle.

"Almost any girl can learn to act she continued, "but poise is the gift of birth. Unless he has inherent grace of manner and movement, she's much by her time in motion picture station.

"By poise I do mean ability to wear clothes gracefully. Many young girls who have perfect results from failures because they look lumpy in evening gowns.

A woman's charm is expressed in her dress, it is the outward sign of her ality.

The whole effect of a scene will be cost if the thought flashing through the spectator's mind during a bright dramatic episode is, "How lovely the dresses," or "How slouchily she carries herself in that gown."

"Grace can not be learned, under ing, poise is. It is the sum of all the habits of early life and of inherited tendencies. The lack of this charm is the underlying reason why Hollywood is overcrowded with heartbroken girls who never seem to be able to get anywhere."

Plenty Of Action' In "Coming Through"

Thomas Meighan Picture Showing at Belle Theatre

Where you find Meighan you gomers by find action.

Such is the case anyway, with "Coming Through," the stark, lusty Paramount production, showing today at the Belle for a run of 2 days.

Pell-mell action and real thrills in order of things from start to finish "Coming Through" is a story of the mining and coal mines, adapted to the screen by Paul Schofield from the Bebe's popular novel, "Red Rock." The Lee is featured in the leading role man Meighan, while Jerry Beery has supporting cast which also includes such prominent stars and players as John Millern, Frank Campeau and Laurence Wheeler.

Tom's role is that of Tom Blackford employed with the coal steel company. He is shipped off to the company's mines at Colton, just outside of Farnham, as superintendent. Here the real action starts.

The big punch scenes in the picture include a hand-to hand fight between Meighan and Campeau on the ground. Beery is bested and takes a "header" out of a mine car. You've seen screen fights before to be sure, but never anything that quite come up to this.

Another breath-taker is the scene where one of the "trips," a coal car breaks away and goes hurtling down through the mine at terrifying speed Tom turns a switch in the nick of time sending the car crashing into the timbering of the mine and bringing down a shower of dirt and rock from overhead but saving the lives of many of the miners. Here's the big kick in the picture.

If you're a true Meighan fan you'll be on hand early for "Coming Through."

No One Can Tell If You Darken Hair

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the disadvantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. Now that it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is really the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, after another application or two. Its "Application" is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Electric Washers Are Offered Here In Unusual Sale

Co-operative selling on the part of manufacturer and retailer is responsible for unusual values in electric stoves to residents of Belleville and district on the sale of electric washers. Bantry Bros., Ltd., one of the old-established manufacturers of washing machines and household appliances and The Walker Hardware, combine in an unusual offering to Belleville for the sale of the well-known White Cap 1925 Washers. For the White Cap washer, it is asserted that it is easier to operate, washes faster and lasts longer than any other washer on the market and it has established a record as one of the largest sellers on the Canadian market. Manufactured at Perrain, Que., it is essentially a Canadian product. Unusually attractive terms are being offered in connection with this sale while demonstrations of articles, suitable for a complete washing outfit are also offered, the purchaser being allowed to choose four articles from an assortment of seven, without additional charge. The washers are being demonstrated at The Walker Hardware and in the homes of local residents.

Calomel To-night
HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST
No more headaches, indigestion, foul breath, constipation, kidney pains if you will but follow a doctor's advice by taking two Tanol Calomel Tablets tonight. Just a good drink of hot water in the morning to wash from the system all the poisonous day's refuse and waste before more food is taken in, Tanol Calomel is harmless; acts on every organ of the body, stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels. 10 to 15 tablets are necessary, does not nauseate like other calomel. Get a few of these tablets from your druggist and you will be surprised how much better they will make you feel. These inexpensive tablets can be obtained at McGowans Drug Store.

Finish Is Close In Senior League

At Least Two Teams Tied For First Place

Hope won from the Weirs of the north in the C. N. R. senior league on the Victoria alleys. Hope won the first game by 55 pins, the Weirs the second by 17 pins, the third and last game the Weirs still south from their shot scores and won the match with 68 by 317 pins. Mrs. McLean for the Weirs was high bowler in the match with 307, Mrs. Roberts was high for Hope with 300.

In the Junior League the Durant boys won from the K. of C. by over 200 pins the Durants winning the three games totalling Rutherford and H. Whalen were high bowlers for their respective teams.

The C.I.A. League the Industrials won the odd game in the match with Adels, and in fact had to come across with a big score in the last game to win from the Miners by 24 pins. The Industrials won the first game by 10 pins and the second by 79 pins, in this third the winners rolled 979 against the Miners' 877. Smith for the Miners was high bowler and T. Barrett for the winners was high for his team.

The M.P. Shops made it the 9th straight win when they downed the C. & E. Dept. in the C.N.R. league, rolling out by 333 pins. The M.P. Shops have only to win another game to practically clinch the C.N. league. Smith and Sloan were high bowlers for their teams.

The Car Dept. won the Saturday night C.N.R. league game from the Coal Dept. by 164 pins. The Car Dept. got the jump on the first game of the game and added another 175 in the second. In the third they either let up or some of the other fellows came to life, as they won by 46 pins. Gartner and Vere led for their respective teams. Players and scores:

The Fruit Merchants upset the dope once more at the Recreation alleys on Friday night when they won from the Hikers by a very close score and made it a three cornered race for first position honors as the league now stands. Never before in the season's league has as close as the present one, as it won't be decided until this week end when play at with the Hardware for the Brantford Bales Trophy. There will be two important games this week when the Hardware play the Fruit Merchants, and the Wanderers play the Hikers and no matter who wins there will at least be two teams tied for first place. In the game on Friday, Ray Arnott spilled the maple for the nice little string score of 727 and rolled a 292, Sophia Hay slaged. John Young saved the game for the Merchants when he rolled 633. POSTPONED GAME PLAYED TO-NIGHT

The semi-finals and finals for the Belleville Club Trophy, the Hyman Cup which was postponed on Friday night because of the weather will be played at the rink tonight. The ice is in good shape today.

Tomorrow morning, as a March 17th celebration, the Irish will entertain the rest of the world in a game which promises to be as interesting as usual.

CHALLENGE GAME AT RECREATION ALLEYS

At Domenico's bowling alley this evening the bowling event of the season will be staged. At the conclusion of the business of the City Council two teams representing the city officials and members of the council will strive for supremacy. The losers, according to the challenge issued by the city officials, will have to provide the "eats". Mr. C. D. Campbell, city engineer will chaperon the city official team whilst the Aldermanic team will be in charge of Ald. Harrison.

LOCAL BASKETEERS PREPARE FOR GAMES

The Belleville Basketball boys who are slated for the O.A.A.A. finals here were out in full force at the Armouries for a work out on Saturday on the big floor as they will have to meet Western Ontario team on a larger floor than the local floor. The boys are working hard on system and plays, and will have a much better team than when they met Queen's as at that time they had not had any real practice together.

It is expected that Belleville will be drawn against the winner of Niagara Falls and West End Y. Toronto, who played in Toronto on Saturday and which resulted in a win for the West End by 42-37, and will play the return game at Niagara on Saturday March 21st.

DEADLOCK AT MINES

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Sydney, N.S., March 16—A complete deadlock without indication of any movement forward, continued to-day either side, obtained in Cape Breton coal fields as the 5th day of the strike. It seems to be taken for granted on both sides that the next twenty, if any, will come from without Hon. A. S.McMillan, Provincial Minister of Highways spent the week-end at North Sydney and Sydney Mines looking into conditions there after making a similar tour of the southern areas on Saturday. Sydney mines still continues operations on about same basis as last week with daily production of about 1,200 tons of steel and an operating staff of over 2000.

Intermediate Baseball Team under the management of Mr. J. J. Finn are requested to be at the Armouries between 7 and 8 tonight. All wishing a tryout to be on hand at that time.

FALLS TEAM TRIMMED BY VARSITY SIX

Toronto, March 16—History is well on its way to repeat in 1925 Varsity were beaten in the O.H.A. series but qualified for the Allan Cup play-downs by winning the Intercollegiate championship. The Collegians then eliminated the Sudbury Wolves, who had just come through two hard games with the Grenfells, and reached the finals for the Canadian title. And this famous family, who again among the also-rans in the O.H.A. series, but smashing like College whirlwind into into the Eastern finals for the Allan Cup, and for the first game, at the Arena on Saturday night, the Varsity Players from the Village of Friar were laid low to defeat by the score of 6 to 1. But they went down battling to the end. Though they could hardly push one foot ahead of the other. A frequent visitor to make up in the return game at the Falls to-morrow night, it looks like a mighty tall job for him, but for one that has played 36 games with not any easy contest in the lot, it appears to be as almost impossible undertaking." However, the O.R.A. champions have shown themselves to be a wonderful team in the each like stage, and their friends are looking for them to come through with a win and qualify for the trip to Winnipeg to play in the finals.

COMPEAU MAY BE OUT OF LUCK

It appears that Compeau, brilliant Kingston shortstop, may not make the team he played with in the decided to turn pro with the Fort Huron club in the Michigan League.

According to Reilly Kirby of Agnes Kirby, who is the manager of the Militat League baseball propositon in Fort Huron, the ranks of the American League will fast be badly shot to pieces and the chances are that unless a quick reorganization is made, across the river Fort Huron will drop the franchise. Wherefore Kirby has been somewhere also to land it. Knotty Lee is said to have been up in the spring and returned to his home, and Sen. Rich, chairman of the committee in charge of the Fort Huron Club is through. Details are vague in connection with the matter. Fort Huron officials are not confirming the rumor, but they will not deny it. Certainly Lee has left the city and is said to have stated he will return, refers the transactions committees went over to Fort Huron to raise $5,000 they were in fact successful and the money for the entry guarantee of $1,500 has not yet been handed to Fort Huron baseball officials blame the Sarnia members authorities for much of their trouble.

PRESENTATIONS MADE TO HOCKEY PLAYERS

Peterboro, Ont., March 16—Players and officers of the Peterboro hockey Club gathered to say farewell to the popular secretary of the club, Frank K. Wilson, who is leaving Peterboro at the end of this month to reside in Toronto. Wilson has been closely connected with the hockey club for the past four seasons and has always been prominently associated with sporting activities in the city. Last night, playing cards were made to fill the banquet the regard to which he was the guest of honor. Several years of Colonel Wilson's club was attested by the cuts presented him by the speakers and by the presentation to him of a gold watch, suitably engraved. It was a diversity of presentations, inasmuch as President and Manager Eddie Wright was presented with a garnet Masonic ring from the players and a medal from G. N. Gordon. There was a bouquet of flowers for Mrs. Convery and flowers also for Mrs. Joseph Dwyer and Irene Wright, who took part in the program, and the players received a photograph of the year's team.

R. W. Glover was chairman, and he paid a warm tribute to Mr. Convery's capabilities as a secretary and to his personal qualifications, and declared that in the Peterboro Hockey Club he was not only a good man but also a good citizen. Bert McLeod read the address to Mr. Convery, while the presentation of the watch was made by Jos. Dwyer.

FRONTIER SECURITY HALTS DISARMAMENT

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, March 16.—Security of Europe's frontiers is still too frail to make it possible to talk of disarmament now or in the near future. Such is the semi official French opinion concerning the proposed disarmament Conference in Washington. The League of Nations security protocol, in spite of,how given it at Geneva last week, is the main reliance of France, for the moment the government will head all efforts toward reconstituting it at the September meeting of the League assembly, in meantime considering any proposal for region pacts which anyone likely to be unqualise Surope. If either general or partial pact is realized, then the French government will be ready to talk partial disarmament.

The French view consequently, is that the disarmament Conference would have little chance of accomplishing anything before the September meeting of league assembly. It is also pointed out that political instability in a one of the European States such as Belgium, where elections are being held this spring, with probable change of government thereafter makes it difficult to estimate chances of such an important international meeting as President Coolidge envisages.

TELEPHONE CO. MAY LAY CABLE ACROSS BAY

City Engineer Submits Report of His Investigation

PRESENTS PROBLEM

If St. Lawrence Deepened, New Cable Would be Disturbed

A report from the City Engineer re Bell telephone submarine cable across the Bay was presented to the Council meeting held on Monday evening and a recommendation adopted. The report is the substance of the objections noted as to the forwarded to the Minister of Public Works at Ottawa. The report follows:

Belleville, March 12th 1925

To His Worship Mayor Mikel and members of the City Council, Belleville, Ont.

Re: Bell Telephone Submarine Cable Crossing—The advertised notice of intention of Bell Telephone Company to install a submarine cable crossing the Bay of Quinte was referred to me for a report. I have investigated the plan of the proposed work filed in the Registry Office for the County of Hastings and have seen the cable, and the result of my investigation is as follows:

The Company have at the present time a submarine cable on the west side of the swing section of the Prince Edward Bridge which has five pairs of wires. This has been down for over twenty years, and two of the pairs are now destroyed. They have arranged lately, two style B wires until they can get their new cable in position. This cable serves Prince Edward County with long distance service, and it is necessary to increase the capacity of their lines. They do not know which they propose to lay will replace the old one and still provide an adequate supply or whether it will be in an armoured cable laid on the bottom of the Bay on the eastern side of the bridge instead of the westerly side, where the present cable lies. The depth of water at the swing section is shown as thirty feet on the north side of the present cable, and twenty feet on the south side. This cable will be laid at the depth of the present one, and secured, per, through their boat officials, that they will make a survey of the bottom as to the area of the cable being well down in the bottom of the Bay.

It might be advisable, before permitting the laying of the cable, to point out that in the possibility of the deepening of the St. Lawrence River for the Seaway, the Bay of Quinte will be deepened and the Company should be bound to the granting of their application, to submit their cable to any such depth without any expense to the Municipality.

Outside of this criticism of their application I do not see any point to which there would be a reasonable objection.

Yours respectfully,
(Signed) Chas. D. Campbell,
City Engineer.

Booster Club Will Hold A Tag Day

Proceeds To Be Used to Assist Striking Miners and Families

On Saturday next, March 21st, the Booster Club of Belleville will hold a tag day, and the proceeds of the enterprise will be forwarded to the Nova Scotian miners who are on strike and their families.

With a deadlock still existing in the affected areas and families becoming more destitute each day, a serious outbreak of influenza but adds to the discomfort and unhappiness among the families of those who have left the bowels of the earth for "pay" heretofore, and who have left the industry.

The Booster Club has procured attractive tags which will be sold to the stores for a reasonable price, the sum being very acceptable as the price is a tag. The money will immediately be forwarded to the stricken families through the proper channels.

PROBED "BROWN HEART"

London, March 17—In order to discover the reason for what has been called brown heart in apples after arriving in England from Australia, the Governmental Food Investigation Board has sent a staff of experts over to Australia. On the journey out Empire apples were opened at intervals and criticized on board ship. As a result, it was satisfactorily found that "heart" spoons only in sixpenners containing too much carpus disease.

SAYS HE'S CRAZY

Hamilton, March 17—"I guess I was just crazy," declared Edward Jones when police broke into his bedroom at 42 Paul Sedgwick avenue Saturday afternoon and found him lying on the bed with every razor cuts on his throat and arms. Earlier in the day he had ordered his wife and children to leave the house. Alarm of his wife had gone to neighbors with whom she remained until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when she telephoned the police. Ambulance was called and after the ambulance he sent to fetch her husband to the hospital.

Point Anne Girls Are Allowed To Go

Magistrate Lectures Pair Who Sought Assistance Though

The two Point Anne girls taken into custody here at noon yesterday while they systematically called from door to door asking alms and clothing, were allowed to go this morning by Magistrate Masson but were given a strict lecture on the folly of their ways. The pair's imprisonment as their practice was a breach of the peace.

The girls had $1.40 and two suit cases partly well filled with clothing when the arm of the law descended upon them. Belleville had shown them that she has a kind heart.

The girls told of their destitute condition but the father of one and the husband of the other, who is employed there all winter, denied to police that they were destitute. The girls told those who gave them clothing that they were doing the work for "a poor family at Point Anne."

"If you are destitute, you should notify your township officials" the reverend gentleman agreed per, through their local officials, that they will make a survey of the bottom as to the area of the cable being well down in the bottom of the Bay.

Inspector Dunlop Has Been Arrested

He With His Assistant is Charged With Defrauding Government

Toronto, March 17.—The visit which the Ontario Government has been making of the various branches of the public service extended to the Provincial Secretary at the Parliament Buildings when he resided in the arrest of W. W. Dunlop, Inspector of Prisons and Public Charities, by the Provincial Secretary's department, and of P. C. Williams, his associate in the work of inspection. Both officials have lengthy records in the civil service and both are now being held upon charges of theft connected with their performance of the Government brick plant at Mimico.

The arrests were carried out yesterday afternoon by Detective Hall of the Provincial Police. Mr. Dunlop was superseded as chief inspector of Provincial Prisons, to which he was confirmed at the time by Hon. Dr. Forbes, Provincial Secretary, and Mr. Williams, his associate in the work of inspection. HERTZOG AND SMUTS

General Jan Christian Smuts has stepped into the limelight. No one supposed when the general relinquished the premiership that he would cease to be a powerful factor in the political life of his country. His role as the champion of the natives and the Orientals of South Africa against the pretensions of the Hertzog administration is giving him an opportunity of displaying his aggressive qualities of statesmanship. The situation is somewhat peculiar. It appears that no native employed in the Rand mines can be classed as a skilled worker, the intention being obviously to preserve the privileges of the white races. It is an unwritten law, however, sanctioned only by custom. A year or two ago the supreme court pronounced the practice "unreasonable, inequitable and oppressive", and beyond the powers of the authorities to enforce. Premier Hertzog accordingly introduced legislation to legalize the situation, in the interests of the white men. His bill not only barred natives from skilled employment, but included Asiatics as well. The measure aroused such keen interest that it was challenged on the first reading, contrary to usual parliamentary procedure. General Smuts did not join in this initial protest, but made it apparent at the time that he would not fail to raise strenuous objection later on when the measure came up for debate. He is now fulfilling his promise and is gathering much support.

South Africa, like other countries of the Empire, has its color problem in an aggravated form, and the question of restricting the immigration of Asiatics has long been agitating the community. The present dispute is not so much a question of immigration, however, as the treatment of those already established within the country. The "White South Africa" party would draw a definite color line above which it would bid impossible for the native and the Oriental to advance; General Smuts, on the other hand, takes his stand for the opportunity of employment, qualification being the sole test to be applied. The skilled native should not be kept out of the skilled job, he maintains, discrimination against color or ought to be abolished rather than legalized. It is a very difficult question, and each dominion has its own special problems to deal with. The situation created by this issue is, in any, most interesting, from the political point of view. Apart from the possibility of the overthrow of the Hertzog government which it involves, the manner in which the dispute is attached may throw light on sought-for great significance to other Empire states, especially those having undeveloped native populations of their own.

TRICKS WITH FIGURES

"There are many sayings about figures such as 'figures don't lie, but liars can figure', 'There is nothing so false as facts, excepting figures,' and 'Figures can be made to prove anything.' The last one is said to be the dictum of a witty English statesman. These sayings come to mind now ing to the opinions being expressed at Ottawa concerning the hurry with which the Dominion Government is dealing with the introduction of the Budget this year.

It is said that the object of this

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

Platitudes

Platitudes are inevitable because generations of men go on repeating themselves.

The world, in one respect, is like a wheel that goes round and round. Some say it is progress.

In our search for new truth we must remember that old truths are new to new people.

Somebody asked an actor how he could keep spinning the old gags. He replied: "The jokes are old, but the people are new."

The underlying truths in every philosophy are the same. I think it is Ed Howe who first selected the principal teachings of Buddha, Confucius, Jesus, Mahomet and others and found that they are substantially identical.

The fact is that when you think on life long enough you find that there are certain fundamental truths, and if you think right you are going to reach them, and not new ones.

The man who really benefits his fellow men is the one who clothes the old truths in new garments so that they are understood by his contemporaries.

If a man would take the truths of Schopenhauer and Mencius and Socrates and put them in the language of his day and make them so that the people round him would understand them and be interested, he would be doing a great service. He would be doing much more good than if he attempted to originate something himself.

There are only a few fundamental ideas in the world and they were discovered long ago. There are few fundamental rules of health, of conduct and of morals. All we can do is to come at them in a new way.

With all the creative imagination in the world we are unable to find satisfactory substitutes for "Jack and the Beanstalk" and "Little Red Riding Hood." Those old stories and folk tales seem to stand as solid as the rock of Gibraltar. The point is that they are new to every generation. They must be told to them. They are fresh to our children and they want to hear them.

Another thing is that people give more welcome to an idea they are slightly familiar with than to one that strikes them as entirely novel. We often complain of the sameness of the acts in the vaudeville. Yet those acts are understood by the audience simply because they are familiar with them. They do not have to think, or otherwise exert themselves in order to understand them.

The worst thing about platitude is that it is told in a platitudinous way. It is the method we object to and not the substance.

Compare the gilded and suave and gripsack of the Merchant Nathan school are just as old as the uplift of the Polyanna school. Simply because a man is finding fault does not prove that he is original. Fault finding is the oldest business in the world.

Press Opinions

(Kingston Standard)

The Standard has been taken to task by the Toronto Star for expressing the opinion that it would have been better for the Dominion Government to have consulted the British Government and the Imperial Shipping Board before either publishing the Preston report on coast rates or making any arrangements with the Petersen Company. One of the reasons for our thinking was that the report was sure to be objected to, and that it would be to raise bad feelings. The first is in evidence and the latter is seen in the Canadian Press report from Ottawa that Mr. Preston has warned the British Government that it if does anything contrary to the interests of the William Petersen and kindred shipping enterprises, the proceeding may be looked upon as an officially hostile act by Canada and will add to the number of those in this country opposed to the customs preference in favor of British merchandise.

Of course Mr. Preston has the right to express his opinions, but he is going rather far to take upon himself to speak for Canada, especially over such a completed matter.

HOW INTEREST GROWS

(New York Correspondent)

A lot was paid for a church site at Broadway and Exchange place recently sold for $1,200,000. It was recalled that the property once sold for $37. Peter Stuyvesant's widow sold the property to Gertal Lestacker in 1695 for 25 colonial pounds sterling. And yet an expert mathematician has discovered that what is known as the "wood old 6 per cent." income levied at 6 per cent. compound interest the $37 would have grown in 229 years to $97,186,741.71.

GERMANY'S PAPER MONEY

(Hamilton Herald)

Thousands of people on the south side of the ocean are wondering what they were selling at thousands for a dollar in the hope that they might some day be redeemed at par and the holders would in such event, receive interest. Well, the time is approaching for realization on those investments. If any Hamiltonians have a few million paper marks stowed away, they may be interested to learn that they can get them redeemed on July 1 next. On that day they will cease to be legal tender. But the Reichsbank will redeem them, giving one new Reichsmark for one trillion of the old paper ones. Expressed in figures, here is the number of marks that must be paid in to the Reichsbank in order to get good money to the value of 56 cents: 1,000,000,000,000. That is a considerable number of people hereabouts will become rich by the exchange of the old money for the new.

If the old money were to be redeemed at par, there would not be enough gold in all the whole world to pay the prize. Last September, the nominal value of the German gold circulation ran into astillions—figures which are comprehensible to astronomers but few else, the rate of one mark per trillion it will cost the German government only a hundred millions to redeem the paper money which has accumulated.

That currency inflation was the worst financial orgie in history. For a while it seemed to give Germans industry the stimulus that was desired, but it has left an aftermath of distress from which it will take a long time for the German people to recover. It came near to plunging them into national bankruptcy—and that danger has not yet passed.

Security followed and it was ascertained that a student had actually purchased the final examination papers. He had bought them for $75 cash and was to pay another $300. The man who sold them to him stole the papers from the printing office where they were printed or was in league with one of the printers.

MADE LUCKY DEAL

Hamilton, March 17.—Fortune has smiled on E. J. Harriott, former Hamiltonian, since he went south this year, according to a despatch from Miami, Fla., states that Mr. Harriott has leased one of his properties for a period of 99 years. The property has a frontage of 60 feet by 125 feet. About five years ago Mr. Harriott paid $18,000 for the lot. The terms of the lease calls for a rental of $6500 a year for the first three years, $7500 for the next three years, $8500 for the following three years and $10 000 for the remainder of the term. A clause in the lease provides for the purchase of the property during the fourth year for $100,000. —

PICTON BOYS FIGURE IN CAR ACCIDENTS

Picton, March 17.—Orval Ward and wife are together with Mr. McLaughlin, meeting with an unfortunate accident at the monument on Main St. West. The car ran some of the distance on two wheels before it came to a standstill. The car was not much damaged and was towed in by a passing motorist. Mr. Ward had a bad cut on the face and Mrs. Ward had contusions of the face and body. Mr. McLaughlin escaped injury. The boys in the car were on their way to Toronto.

Several residents will go to Toronto on Thursday evening to hear Belleville when the large Rhodesdale motor boat-chasing-car-wins-driving exhibition while passing another car and toppled over into the ditch, causing considerable damage. One of the front fenders and one of the running boards was torn off. The steering gear was pulled from the position and the windshield was broken. There was also a bore in Clarence St. He had one man passenger in the car, Mr. Collin McQuaid, who sustained severe cuts about the head and had to be taken to Belleville Hospital for medical attention.

BANCROFT LADIES HEAR ABLE TALKS

The first regular meeting of the newly organized ladies' Conservative Association in the village of Bancroft was held in the Colonel chamber on Wednesday evening last. There was a large attendance and a number of new members were enrolled.

Mrs. Towle, president of the association, occupied the chair and in a few well-chosen words welcomed the ladies and outlined the object of their meeting, also introducing the speakers of the evening.

Dr. Embury was the first speaker called. He took for his subject, "The Various Forms of Government," defining the different governments from Municipal Council to the Privy Council. He proved a very interesting talk and explained the ladies imagination on the different forms of government.

Mr. W. E. Wingon followed the doctor, taking as his subject, "Organization". The subject was ably dealt with by the speaker, giving the many valuable suggestions which they no doubt will make use of in the future.

The last speaker of the evening was Mr. J. A. Ley, President of the Bancroft Liberal Conservative Associations, taking as his subject, "The Advantages of the National Policy and a Higher Tariff. In his fifteen minutes talk he gave the ladies much food for thought touching on matters pertaining to past and present governments.

The speakers congratulated the ladies on the success of their organization and the good showing present which indicated that the women appreciated the granting of the franchise.

JACK'S FRIENDS SORRY

Deseronto, March 17.—Considerable interest was shown here in the outcome of the Pats-Canadien hockey game which was played in Toronto on Friday night, owing to the fact that Jack Adams, the star centre of the Toronto team, is well known in Napanee, having lived here for the past three years. The local fans were disappointed at the result as they were perfully confident that St. Pats would win out.

FIRE AT ANGLIN'S

Kingston, March 17.—Fire which broke out in the paint shop of S. Here and There

Southern Alberta is to have another addition to its growing list of fluted ranchers, according to report. The Duc de Nemours, a descendant of Louis Philippe of France, it is stated, is sailing to Quebec to visit Lord and Lady Rodney, who have a ranch at Fort Saskatchewan, and, later, to acquire a homestead with the establishment of the Prince of Wales.

The Nova Scotia Technical College assays laboratories of the Dominion Council of Scientific Research indicate Nova Scotia oil shales to be the richest in the world, giving fifty gallons of high-grade paraffin to a ton of shale. One hundred million tons of the shale are readily accessible, and vast oil industries similar to those of Colorado and the Western States of the west coast, are being in this province.

"I find general business conditions quiet but improving throughout Canada and undoubtedly the increase in the price of farm products will prove very encouraging to the west," said Grant Hall, vice-president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, on his return from a recent tour of the Dominion. "Large orders for hardware shipped over our lines of late in the west indicate that the crop, money is now beginning to circulate more readily, which is in turn a result of the farmer's confidence in the country."

There was a general increase in all phases of the lumbering industry in Canada during 1923, as compared with the previous year, according to the latest report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the gross value of the output in that year amounted to $139,984,677, as compared with $114,585,580 in 1922, an increase of 22.4 per cent. In this respect the lumbering industry comes third on the list of manufacturing industries in Canada, with the pulp and paper industry first and the flour and grist mills second.

Passengers aboard the Canadian Pacific steamship "Empress of France," now touring the world, had a unique experience recently while visiting Cairo. Returning from a run out to Kandy, the old capital of the Cingalese Kings and Site of the Temple of the Tooth of Buddha, a train-load of the travellers was held up by a herd of wild elephants which loomed up on either side by the jungle, ambulated along the track ahead. This was a feature of the journey which delighted those of the tourists who were not anxious about missing the ship.

Viola Dana, the famous motion picture actress, whose work has delighted millions, is to be the star of a drama to be filmed in Canada, according to a recent report. Miss Dana journeyed from New York to Montreal and then across the continent via Canadian Pacific Railway, in order to join her company for the film. The remainder of the cast are proceeding to Banff from Los Angeles and it is expected that shooting of the scenes will commence shortly. A very considerable number of big pictures have already been taken at Banff, which seems to have a great attraction for discerning stars and directors who appreciate the beauty of the scenery.

Win Games and Meals; "Fathers" at Home in "Maple Alley"

At the meeting of the Civic Committee Thursday last, C. D. Campbell City Secretary, in behalf of the officials challenged the Aldermen of the city to a game of bowling. One of the stipulate of the challenge was that a good feat would be provided and it would be the supreme pleasure of the successful contingent to be guests of the losers at the feast.

Last night this challenge game was played at the Recreation Alleys after the committee meetings and the Aldermen were out by 30 pins, and "fed" without worry about the bill.

Nine aldermen entered two teams and the contest proved to be a most interesting event. No. 1 team of the city officials had a decided lead in the first game played against their opponents, but the city fathers playing on No. 2 team not only wiped out the lead but left a margin of 30 pins.

"Pop" Campbell, the challenger for the city officials team found it rather difficult to connect with the pins in the first game, but with some coaching got out of the rut in the second and rolled a creditable score. Ted Austin, manager of the Water Works Department, for the team of city officials rolling in one game 229, and in the two games 418. For the aldermen Tal Harrison had the high single 190 and the best two string 353. The great aggregate rolled by the city fathers was 2,537 and for the city officials 2,507.

The contestants and scores are as follows:

GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Montreal March 17—Arthur Evans, former star halfback of the Hamilton and Montreal Amateur Athletic Association's football and squad and Alexander Sweety railway brakeman, to-day pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the court of king's bench when they appeared on the charge of "murdering and assassinating" Miss Mary Kelly, pretty Hamilton, Ont., girl, in a flat on St. Matthew street Montreal, on the morning of January last.

Evans with a mourning band about his left arm answered the clerk in the usual by saying in a loud firm voice, "I plead guilty to manslaughter only."

Ball Team Asks For City Grant of $500

President N. P. North Appeals to City Councillors At Meeting

President N. F. North of the C.N.R. baseball club addressed the City Council in support of a request from the C.N.R. baseball team requesting a grant of $500 to assist that organization. The team he stated, had done much to well advertise the city and had in the past won championships. The amount asked for, he considered, was little enough, but if reduced, should not be less than $300.

Ald. Robertson—"This is a matter that should be referred to the Executive Committee for consideration."

A motion to that effect was unanimously adopted.

Wanderers Win and Eliminate Hikers

Five Games at Recreation Produce Good Results Last Night

The Wanderers almost broke the alley record when they won from the Hikers in the Recreation alleys last night, rolling 3254 and eliminating the Hikers from the senior league. The Hikers were two up on form but last night out side of Frost the remaining four couldn't seem to get going, whereas the Wanderers started out like a house afire rolling 1181 first game and were pretty steady the next two games also. If the Fruit Merchants had won from the Hardware tomorrow night the Wanderers will have to play off with them for the winter other good nights will be rolled for for his three strings and Frost was high for the Hikers.

Here's another game yesterday in the C. N. R. Ladies league when they won from the Quinte D's by 194 pins the Quinte's have still to win a game and are in danger of the last place going to break into the win column with a vengeance. Mrs. Varley and Mrs. Dougherty were high bowlers.

The Mixers won from the pencil Pushers in the C. I. A. league last night by 159 pins. The latter game was fairly even only a few pins separating teams but in the second the Pencil Pushers rattled around and the Mixers put on a nice league, in the third the Mixers were heavy, 1,000 pins, and Hyslop added another 30 pins to High bowlers were Brown and Hyslop.

The Officials No. 1 are getting right down to their game, the team that is leading in the C. N. R. League. The other game right on last night Mail rolled 724 and Grow 672. Although this is the first time that some members of the Officials team ever bowled they rolled up a pretty good score. Ferguson was the high scorer with 859. Players and scores.

BASKETBALL PLAYER INJURED LAST NIGHT

William Rowell, of Sherbrooke, Que., sprained his ankle while playing a preliminary game of basketball at the armouries here last night about 7.30 o'clock, and was removed to the General Hospital by W. G. H. Stobie, who was called to examine his injuries.

It was first believed Rowell, the good defence man on the Y. M. C. A. basketball team had broken the bone in his leg, but X-ray examination revealed a very bad sprain.

Rowell, with two other players was after the ball which had been thrown near the basket which, unlike the Y. M. C. A. basket is set up adjacent to the brick wall. Misjudging the distance Rowell collided with the wall, fell, and the other players fell on him.

The players are rounding into shape for the semi-finals and Rowell's absence if he is not in shape to play, will be a big blow to the team. He will be in hospital two or three days. He attends the Ontario Business College.

These men should make efficient officials, and by appointing six, it should only be necessary to ask any one of them to officiate once a week.

The entrance fee was set at $5.00 per team, which must be in the hands of the treasurer before Friday night's first games.

The Canada Cement, Canadian National and Canadian Industrial Alcohol Co., must play only bonafide employees or those temporarily laid off. This will permit the other five teams to pick from anywhere in the city which will no doubt add strength to the league, as there are some mighty nice indoor ball players outside of the three mentioned organizations. A rule which should eliminate much trouble is that after a player has taken part in one game with any team he is then considered member of that team and is not eligible to play with any other club during the season.

The usual indoor rules will govern and the games will be played on Monday Wednesday and Friday nights, a double header each night.

Each game will be limited to seven innings. First game will be played at 6.00 p.m. and second game at 7.30 p.m.

No admissions will be charged although the last will be passed, each club will help defray the expenses of lighting and heating.

The draw for the opening games which start Friday night was made with the following result.

8.00 p.m.—C.N.R. vs. Canada Cement.

9.00 p.m.—National Castings, vs. Bakers.

Monday night the following teams will open their end of the schedule Joe Goyer vs. Algonite at the Hot Point.

8.00 p.m.—Canadian Ind. Al. Co., vs. Almaite.

Dozens of schedule will be published later as a meeting is called for 8.00 p.m. Thursday night in the President's store; All the officers and executive are urged to be present to complete final arrangements for what promises to be a real league. The Prosident's phone No. is 720 and those desiring further information should get in touch with him.

REMAND BANK MANAGER

Montreal March 17—Charged with stealing the sum of $3,695 from the Bank of the Believer branch of the Banque d'Hochelaga, of which he was manager, Joseph A. Boyer, of Lasalle, appeared before Judge Fortier Monday afternoon. On January 27 last Boyer reported to the police that two armed thugs held him up while he was alone in the bank and escaped with the booty. Now the sleekest trace however, was over found of the robbers, and the Crown contends that Boyer himself was the thief. The accused is also charged with a shortage in his accounts of $1,100, between June, 1924 and January 20, 1925.

Boyer was remanded until March 24, until bail set at $5,000. At the time of the alleged hold-up the manager declared that his assailants had struck him side of the head with the butt of a rifle. He

NATION CELEBRATES McGEE BIRTHDAY

Ottawa, Ont., March 17.—(Canadian Press)—The anniversary of the birth of Hon. Thomas D'Arcy McGee, April 13, 1825, is to be suitably celebrated this year, one of the leaders in the movement to honor the patriot being Hon. Charles Murphy, Postmaster-General. Thomas D'Arcy McGee met a tragic death on April 7th, 1868. He was one of the fathers of Confederation and an intimate friend of Hon. Sir John A. MacDonald. McGee was born in County Louth, Ireland, in 1825 of poor parents. As a young man he was interested at the wrong end of Ireland and became a bitter antagonist of England. At the age of 17 years he emigrated to and an ardent Imperialist.

New York where his talents as an orator and journalist soon brought him to the front. When he was 20 years of age he returned to Ireland and became the editor of the Dublin "Freeman's Journal" and later the "Nation." His association with the agitators, Chas. Gavin Duffey and Smith O'Brien led him into the trouble and he was obliged to flee to Ireland as a priest. He came to New York and started a paper called the "Nation." During his lecturing tours in Canada he was induced to take up his residence in Montreal in 1857, where he published the "New Era." Here he met John A. MacDonald and they joined forces to bring about Confederation. McGee became a member of the MacDonald Cabinet

COAL WAS PRECIOUS DURING GOLD RUSH

Nome, Alaska, March 17.—In the early days of Nome coal was more precious than the yellow metal panned from the mountain streams and on the Bering Sea beach.

The only pieces of lignite that had enough coal were saloon. An old-timer prospector made a coal with a sack inside. Each evening he would go to the "North Star Wine Palace" and sit down by the coal box. When no one was looking, he would place a lump of coal in his sack, go to the bar for a drink, and return to his cabin. He did this until the proprietor, Pat Cleary, noticed his coal supply dwindling. One night the prospector stayed too long and filled his sack too hebvily so that when he tried attended to he was taken to the Hospital for Insane.

Acting in a strange manner Blouin went upstairs after telling his relatives that he was not well. Later his sister heard a noise upstairs and unable to open the bedroom door she telephoned to Cowan Ave. Police Station and Sergeant Anderson, with Constables McCullough and Richardson went to the house. They hammered in the bedroom door and found Blouin with a hatchet knife in his hand and trying to cut his throat. After a stiff struggle the officers succeeded in disarming him.

Toronto, March 17.—Armed with a rifle and a butcher knife, William Blouin, aged 32 of 399 George Street attempted to end his life at the home of his sister on Tyndall avenue last night. With three razor wounds in his throat, he was removed to the General Hospital and after his wounds were

FLIER STARTS MAY 17TH

Montreal, March 17.—The Trans Canada, Canadian Pacific Flyer from Montreal to Vancouver, will make its first trip this year May 17th, owing to the fact that the two new steamships on the triangular service Seattle-Vancouver-Victoria The Princess Kathleen and the Princess Marguerite are and will be making faster time this season. The flyer will, it is stated, better its 50 hours record of last year. It will start on here and a half later from Vancouver and reach Montreal half an hour earlier, a saving of two hours. The sale schedule will be observed between Montreal and Vancouver.

SENATOR BENNETT PASSES

Guelph, Ont., March 16—Hon. William H. Bennett, K.C. of Midland, member of the Canadian Senate for the past eight years, died here this day morning. Senator Bennett, who had been an outstanding figure in politics in the Dominion since 1891, and who was also one of Ontario's prominent lawyers, had been in the best of health up to the beginning of this year, but early in February suffered a general breakdown, and had been ailing for the past six weeks, his death not being entirely unexpected.

The principal of Brantford College reported yesterday that the College is crowded and that additional rooms must be secured.

OLD JOURNALIST PASSES AT HAMILTON

Hamilton, Oct., March 17.—Richard Butler, a pioneer newspaper man of Hamilton and for many years American vice-consul in Hamilton, died here last night. Mr. Butler was perhaps best known in recent years as "The Master" under which name he chose he wrote for the Spectator every Saturday on literary matters in Hamilton's earlier days.

Mr. Butler's career has been decidedly interesting. Starting to work at 11 a week, he followed printing for his life's work. He filled successively many important offices, including that of registrar, devil to proprietor, in between his newspaper experience he served two campaigns in the American civil war.

He was American vice-consul in Hamilton for 18 years, coming to Canada under the McKinley regime. Mr. Butler was editor of the Spectator from 1878 to 1896, and was connected with it in other capacities each Saturday for 24 years.

Mrs. Kate Butler, his widow, survives.

Mr. Butler was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, a member of the Sons of St. Patrick, and an adherent of Wesley Church.

BACHELORS "TAKE ACTION"

Vilna Alta., March 17.—Vilna bachelors will not need to search England and Ireland for brides. More than 100 letters have been received to date by the secretary of the Vilna Citizens' League from lonely maids in all sections of Canada and the United States, answering the circulars of the 63 bachelor farmers of this district, and setting all ready for encouragement to the most bashful of them to step out and "take action" the way.

The greater part of the inquirers hail from Toronto and other Ontario points. Montreal and British Columbia also are well represented, while Chicago and New York furnish about a score between them.

And so the appointment of the secretess envoy was necessary to the first meeting of the league and a scheme of advertising for Canadian girls adopted in its stead.

Watch your tongue

The tongue is the mirror of the digestive tract and upon its surface is reflected the needs of digestive disorders. Examine your tongue frequently and when you find it coated with "fur", as is the opposite picture, heed Nature's signal.

Indigestion, biliousness, dyspepsia and constipation are responsible for many of the ills that shambled. Sleeplessness, headaches, nervousness and many more follow in their train. Restore your digestion by using Beecham's Pills.

They clear the tongue, remove the bad taste, strengthen the stomach and bowels, aerlfate the liver, promote the digestion and assimilation of food and make you feel strong and well.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

She shakes her head.

"Your little friend May, She is dining with us tonight. This is your room major, next Miss Delaine's," and with a pleasant nod and smile he leaves them.

In less than half an hour Elaine has put on her simple dress of black gren-adines with its trimming of white lace—relic of the major's mother—and looking down over the balcony of the corridor sees the marquis standing at the doorway of the stairs, as if on guard.

His face lights up with a welcoming smile as she descends, and there is approval as well as loving admiration in his dark eyes as they rest upon her.

"Do you inherit your taste from your Norman ancestors, Miss Delaine?" he says; not flippantly, but with that suggestion of reverence which a man in love gives to the lightest and most trivial words addressed to the woman he loves.

Elaine laughs softly.

"Do you mean that my dress is pretty?" she says, "it is old enough to have descended from the most ancient of the Delaines."

He takes her arm within his and they cross the hall, and a footman opens the door of the drawing room. It presents a very different appearance from that which it had worn on Elaine's previous visit. It is cold and repelling no longer, but brightly lighted, and warmed into genitality by the presence of men and women in evening dress.

For a moment Elaine is almost dazzled by the brilliance, then she sees a white, gray-haired old lady approaching her, and knows the marquis introduces her to Lady Scott.

As she walks with her hostess it is a seat she sees Sir Edmund and Lady Bannister, the Isleworth, several other of the local magnates with their wives, and then last but not least the graceful form and fair face of Lady Blanche.

She is talking with Mr. Lulwood and does not move her head as Elaine passes, but the keen blue eyes see her rival distinctly, and take in every detail of the well-worn but graceful evening skirt.

But there is no sign of this conscious-ness in her face as she comes across to Elaine with a smile on her lips.

"How glad I am to see you here, Miss Delaine! It is a charming old place? I'm awfully fortunate to be staying in the neighborhood for such a delightful sojourn. They tell me that the place has been closed for years. How strict capital hall that was the other night! I shall tell papa that he must ask the major down to act as steward for our next ball at Delaine. You will come, won't you?"

Elaine made suitable responses to these overtures. But in the midst of the exchange of civilities the footman announces Lord Rex, Mr. and Miss Bayley.

May looks rather shy and timid as she enters upon her father's arm, but not at all as Elaine her pretty little face flashes into a joyous smile, and she makes her way to her as quickly as possible.

"Isn't it good of him, dear?" she says. "We never expected to be invited, and you can imagine how surprised, do think he is the most good-natured man in the world!"

"Are you speaking of the marquis?" asks Elaine with a smile.

"The dear fellow!" exclaims May. "And, oh, Elaine, what a beautiful place it is! I had no idea it was so grand! I felt as if I were coming into a church when we entered the hall. And this room! But how quietly you take it all! Ah, I forgot; you have been here before, and are quite accustomed to it. But it is all new to me—and rather awe-inspiring."

"And where is Mrs. Bradley?" asks Elaine with a smile.

"The griffin has one of her head aches, one of the worst kind," says May unsympathetically.

"She was quite mad at not being able to come."

"And Gerald?" asks Elaine in a lower voice.

"Oh, he got pouts.

"How can you be so cruel as to remind me of him? I haven't seen him since the ball, and—

"Mr. Gerald Locke!" says the footman solemnly.

May utters an exclamation of amazement, and the young fellow comes towards them presenting his frank, boyish face all aglow with cateraress.

"I have to thank you for this, Miss Delaine!" he says in a low voice as he presses May's hand.

"To thank me?" says Elaine.

"To make confession!

"Yes, I'm sure of it! The marquis asked me because May is a friend of yours."

"Oh, no, no!" says Elaine, her face rosy red.

"But it's you, yes!" he says shrewdly. "And I'm in such a work."

"A week!" "echoes May under her breath.

"Oh, Elaine, you dear!" There is no time for any further confidences of Elaine's art, for the footler announces dinner, and the marquis gives place with Lady Dormer on his arm.

The old dowager stops a moment to nod to Elaine.

"Well, my dear," she says, screwing on her eyes and peering at the beautiful face, "none the worse for your dissipation, I see. Where is that young man, your father? Tell him I want to talk to him after dinner. The Delaine's are a good-looking family," she says to the marquis as they pass on. "These two girls, Blanche and Elaine, are singularly unlike. Which do you admire most, marquis?"

BABY'S COLDS

Children's delicate digestives are easily disturbed by too much "doning." Still the little ones' cold troubles cannot be neglected.

At the very first sign of croup, sore throat, or any other cold trouble, apply Vicks VapoRub over the throat and chest. There is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on. Colds go over night, croup is usually relieved in 15 minutes.

Baree, Son of Kazan

—by—

James Oliver Curwood

(A Vitagraph Pictures with Wolf, the War Dog, is an adaptation of this story.)

SYNOPSIS

Baree, wondering is the woods, came upon Wakayon, the black bear, and, fascinated, watched him knock fish out of the pool. He learned where Wakayon cached his provisions, a discovery that solved the problem for the young wolf-dog. One day he suddenly found himself face to face with Pierrot, the trapper, and his daughter, Nepecar, the Willow, and Pierrot's dog-team had died and slightly wounded. Baree, thinking him a wolf.... Nepecar, now, pursued Baree, wounded himself beneath a great boulder.

Baree darted to the right and ran for the open meadow. Wakayon did not stir as Baree passed him—no more than if he had been a bird or rabbit. Ten more another breath of air, heavy with the scent of man. This at last, put life into him. He turned and had an lumbering after Baree into the meadow trap. Baree, looking back, saw him coming—although it was a heavy suit. Nepecar and Pierrot came over the slope, and the Willow stopped and both Wakayon and Baree.

Where they entered into the grass dip under the rock walls, Baree turned sharply to the right. Here was a great boulder, one end of it lifted up off the earth. It looked like a splendid hiding place, and Baree crawled under it.

But Wakayon kept straight ahead into the meadow.

From where he lay Baree could see what happened. Pierrot and he crawled under the rock when Nepecar and Wakayon appeared. Wakayon came to the dip, and stopped. The fact that Pierrot stopped thrilled Baree. They were afraid of Wakayon! The big bear was two thirds of the way across the meadow. The sun fell on him, so that his vast shoe like black snout, Pierrot stared at him for a moment. Pierrot did not kill for the love of killing. Necessity made him a conservationist. He he saw that in spite of the lateness of the season Wakayon was asleep—he did—and he raised his rifle.

Baree saw that action. He saw a moment later, something spit from the muzzle of the gun, and then he heard a deafening crash that had come with his own hunt, when the Willow's father had turned though his flesh. He turned his eyes swiftly to Wakayon. The bear was not humbled; he was on his knees; and then he struggled up and lumbered on.

The first flash of fear came to Baree. A second time Wakayon went down. Pierrot cried out, and at that distance Wakayon made a splendid mark. It was almighty fine for Pierrot—and the scene it was business—the business of life.

Baree was shivering. It was more than excitement that made him. He had not his own fear in the tragedy of three moments. A terrible thing had come to pass. He looked at Wakayon, who had risen again and faced his enemies. He was growling, but his head drooped, by his leg weakening under him as the blood poured from it. Then suddenly Baree whined—because Wakayon had fallen. He struggled to his feet, managed to look on him as a friend, and because of his weakness. Even then Wakayon was facing now. There was a third shot and he fell. Wakayon was down in his tracks. His big head dropped between his forpaws. A racking cough or two and then—the end. And then there was silence.

CHAPTER VIII

As Nepecar passed under the rock-walled end of the canyon, the prison in to which they had driven Wakayon and Baree, Pierrot looked up again from his examination of the wild, beautiful soul. It sent a slow grin over his face and a deeper flash of exultation into her eyes and lips.

She squeezed the ragged edges of the little meadow for signs of the dog-pack, her fingnbtts flashed back swiftly. Two years ago they had buried her pitiful mother under the tall spruce near their cabin. That day Pierrot's son had died for all time, and her heart had was filled with a vast loneliness. There had been three as the graveside that afternoon as the sun went down—Pierrot, herself, and a dog, a great, powerful husky with a white star on his breast and a white-tipped tail. He had been her dead mother's pet (on puppyhood)—her body-guard, with her always, ever with his head resting on the side of her bed as she died. And that night, the night of the day they buried her, the dog had disappeared. He had gone so quietly and so completely as her spirit. No one ever saw him after that. It was strange, and to Pierrot it was a marvel. Deep in his heart he was filled with the wonderful conviction that the dog had gone with his beloved Wyola into heaven.

But Nepecar had spent three winter at the Missioner's school at Nelson House she had learned a great deal about white people and the real God and she knew that Pierrot's thought was impossible. She believed that her mother's husky was either dead or had joined the wolves. Probably he had gone to the wolves—she was sure of while that this youngster she and her father had pursued was of the flesh and blood of her mother's pet if it was more than possible.

Baree had not moved an inch from under his rock. He lay like a thing stunned his eyes fixed steadily on the scene of the tragedy out in the meadow.

Baree wanted no appetite. It was like an invisible string tugging at his very heart. It was Kazan, and not Kazan, calling to him back through the centuries, a "call" that was as old as the Egyptian pyramids and perhaps ten thousand years older. But against that call Baree's Wolf was fighting, cut the black ages of the forests. The wolf fighting Wolf and the primitive. Nepecar was looking about her. She was smiling. For a moment her face turned toward him, and he saw the white shine of her teeth. Her red handkerchief appeared glowing straight at him.

And then, suddenly, she dropped on her knees and peered under the rock.

Their eyes met. For at least half a minute there was not a movement. She did not move, and her breath came so softly that Baree could not hear it.

Then she said, almost in a whisper: "Baree! Baree! It's Baree!"

It was the first time Baree had heard his name, and there was something so soft and assuring in the sound of it that he moved a little closer. She reached toward him, and he saw the white shine of her teeth. And her beautiful eyes seemed

Opening Scene in Pittsburgh Plant

Where Thomas Meighan Is Seen in a Thrilling Climax in "Coming Through"

Thomas Meighan's new picture "Coming Through" now at the Belleville Isolite tonight.

"Coming Through" is an adaptation by Paul Schofield of Jack Bethea's novel "Red Hot," directed by Edward Sutherland.

Here your favorite screen star in a picture that has action, thrills, love interest and beautiful photography throughout. The story opens in the Pittsburgh offices of a large steel concern. Tom is employed in the capacity of chief clerk. He aim in life, however, is to become superintendent of the plant. He has for every effort to prove that the position is deserved too like that he is entitled. He is auto-tracked right and left to make room for some friend of somebody.

After this has happened a couple of times, Tom decides to play their own game. He elopes with the president's daughter—rather a foreman's trick to put over on the poor girl, to be sure, but then love comes afterwards to straighten things out.

Tom is shipped off to Colton by the steel trust. Now Colton is a very rough-and-ready mining camps in the Mesaba's belching fire and smoke and roughest as Colton. Tom is given an unlimited schedule of production to keep up and his father-in-law fires things at him from Pittsburgh at the rate of a fast night mail "come through"—a case, as Rand I think, of returning evil for evil.

But Tom does "come through." Try and "frame him" about them. They don't succeed.

Some he does—in the finest Meighan picture to date.

Lila Lee is in pictures for the first time in more than a year, is featured in support of the star as Mary Beers is the villainous mine foreman. John Millers plays Rand, the mine dictator.

Laurance Wheat, Frank Campeau, Cia Winkelman and Alice Knowland complete the cast.

GETS DEATH PENALTY

London, Eng., March 17—The death penalty was imposed on Norman Thorne, the young Cornboro farmer convicted on the charge of murdering Miss Elsie Cameron, a London typist, in a lonely hut on the farm of Dr. Lee.

During the trial, which opened on March 14 in the Sussex Assizes, Thorne with the ultimate conviction denied his part in the tragedy. Detailing the matters events the led up to the night of the tragedy, Thorne said that Miss Cameron arrived unexpectedly at his hut on the day in question, and announced her intention to remain until he married her. Thorne, in his evidence, stated that he left the hut to keep an appointment and that when he returned shortly before midnight he found Miss Cameron suspended from a beam in the centre of the hut.

Rushing into the room he cut the rope and placed the body on the bed. Dazed and frantic, he decided to hide all traces of her suicide and burned the clothing and dismembered the body.

London Street Railway company has refused to take any improvements unless it is granted a 5 cent per fare franchise. The terms offered by the council have been rejected and the aldermen are without a policy.

Cornane Griffith Seen in New Role

Setting for "Love's Wilderness" In Canadian Wilds

A slow Cornane Griffith was introduced to movie-goers by First National that a test when "Lovely Clarissa" his latest picture was screened at the Isolite Theatre.

Cornane's roles hitherto, have ever been the little star in royal rags channels of historic ability formerly suppressed. A fifteen year personality to cast off the languid beauty of wealth and ease and find artistic action to her work. The result has been that Cornane excels perhaps the most tragedy dramatic role of her career on the screen.

Julie story by Evelyn Campbell introduces the star as a romantic young Southern girl whose disappointment in love leads her to elope with a comparative stranger. The husband, played by Ian Keith abandons her during the honeymoon in the Canadian wilds and she battles for her life with the elements.

Finally reaching her Southern home she weds her first love (Holmes Herbert), in the belief that she is a widow. The climax is reached when, on honeymoon in the South Seas, she is confronted by Keith and discovers her terrible mistake.

The ending of the story is, of course left to see.

Both Herbert and Keith have done some excellent acting here as have others of the cast. These include Blanche Cazzeau as Cornane's friend, Concordy stage of Paris, France; Imogen Fitzroy, David Torrence and others.

Director Reece Z. Leonard has provided some unusually beautiful scenes, particularly in the jungle scenes. The picture is the work of the Inspiration company, the Cornane Griffith Productions, Inc.

PAY TOWN CHEQUE AND CLEARS NAME

Middletown, Conn., March 17.—Mrs. Ellie Carroll, wife of a rubber factory worker living in this town, was acquitted $33.50 of a pitiful forgery to erase a thumb-prowed stain of suspicion from her family's name.

Clutching her legacy check tightly, Mrs. Carroll, a workwoman, little woman, appeared before the Town Court.

"Back in 1895," she began, "father turned up missing, and because we were very poor my mother had to ask the town for alms. It was a cold winter and the family was hungry before she asked. Altogether she had $32.50 from the town to pay it back with interest. She said, "I always intended to pay up," added Mrs. Carroll proudly, "but there was no one but Kilmarins were paupers."

Season Is Here For Different Dinners

When Storage Food Loses Savor Try These Dishes

(By Barbara Brooks, Kellogg Home Economics Dept., London, Ont.)

This is the time of year when food seems to have lost its savor. Unless we live where we have access to the city markets we are dependent, to a great extent upon food from our own storage supply, and this is monotonous. After the holiday season and the return to regular routine, it is harder than ever to serve meals which are different enough to be interesting.

We are going to pass on to you some suggestions given to us by a farm woman—one of those good cooks and wise housewives who knows how to feed her family so as to provide them with both food and flavor.

A favorite dinner dish of hers is cabbage stuffed with sausage meat. Remove the leaves from a head of cabbage; wash them thoroughly, then line a baking dish with several layers of them; arranging the leaves so that they just form a whole bowl or cup-shape. Fill the center with sausage meat, either made into individual cakes or into a roll. Sprinkle the cabbage with salt, pepper and bake in a moderate oven until the cabbage is tender. If tasteful material is desired, some all-bran can be mixed with the sausage meat.

A sauce may be served with stuffed cabbage. Melt two cakes cream, with one-half cup and season to taste with worcestershire. If cream is not available milk may be used.

Another substantial winter meal is Italian Spaghetti. The recipe which comes from a farm woman of Italian descent. It is simple if it can be made in tomato season and canned for winter use, but it may be made when needed, using canned tomatoes. The tomato-spiced stain of spaghetti can be bought at the grocers or tomatoes can be cooked down until a thick paste is formed.

Italian Spaghetti.

½ lb. Italian spaghetti
3 tbsps. of lard (may be used)
½ tsp. black pepper
1 sliced onion
2 tbsps. tomato paste
¼ cup water
2 cups canned tomatoes
1 tbsp. sugar
½ cup grated cheese.

Cook the spaghetti in boiling salted water. Drain, mix with tomato sauce and sprinkle with grated cheese.

Tomato Sauce

Heat the oil with the black pepper and onion and cook until light brown. Mix tomato paste and water and add, cooking for ten minutes more. Add canned tomatoes and cook 45 minutes. Add sugar and cook 15 minutes longer.

Canned fruits, jams and jellies add much to winter meals. A plain dessert of cottage pudding will be delighted with a sauce made by heating raspberry jam lukewarmed butter and sugar (hard sauce), Pieces of sparkling jelly sliftertetes up the common meringue on "floating island or bread pudding. A tart, jelly such as cranberry or currant, beaten into mayonnaise is delicious in many ways.

Canned peaches, pears, apples or pineapple can be chopped and rolled into a baking powder dough. Place this in a pan, dot with butter and pour the fruit juice around it. Bake in a moderate oven for about twenty minutes or more and cook on top of the stove until the dough is thoroughly steamed.

TOWN MUST MOVE OUT FOR INDUSTRY

Cheyenne, Wyo., March 17.—The town of Lavoye, has been literally wiped off the map during the night in that residents have taken deceived of their homes for a ruling of Federal Judge Kennedy, who has ordered that the entire village and its populace must be moved in order to make a clear path for a giant industry—petroleum.

Public buildings, business houses, homes—everything—must go, for Judge Kennedy decreed that the Ohio Oil Company, which leases the land on which the town is located from the Government for oil development, is entitled to full possession.

In the heart of the Salt Creek oil field, it has no large surrounds establishment, three weekly newspapers, numerous motion picture theatres, automobile agencies and other enterprises, but, before a month has flown, its buildings are flimsy and can be easily demolished.

Kent Motor Club at its meeting yesterday discussed the formation of an emergency road service for members.

Is Your Child Thin And Weak

Cod Liver Oil in Sugar Coat ed Tablets Puts on Flesh and Builds Them Up

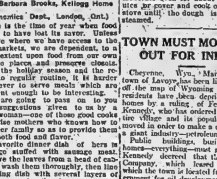

In just a few days—quicker than you ever dreamt of—these wonderful health building, flesh giving tablets called McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets will start to help any child, under-weight little one.

After sickness and where rickets are suspected they are especially valuable. Just need to give them any poor nasty Cod Liver Oil—these tablets are much easier to take the place of that good, but evil smelling, stomach upsetting medicine they surely do it.

A very sickly child, age 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

Ask Dodson's Drug Store, McKown's Drug Store, Doyle's Drug Store, or any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—the original and genuine—you have to take as candy and 60 tablets, 60 cents.

Mrs. Rose Kahn, wife of a Buffalo tobacco merchant, and Norman Mack, or Nathan McIlmoyie, Ontario nursery salesman, whose bodies were found in Mack's cottage at Erie Beach, Ontario, are pictured above, together with Cozy Dell, where the bodies were found. Mrs. Kahn, who had been missing from her home since February 28th, is said to have been a regular visitor to Mack's cottage for almost four years. The cause of death is as yet a mystery, and may not be cleared up until vital organs have been analyzed.

STOLE IN AMERICA SENTENCED IN SOFIA

Sofia, Bulgaria, march 17. — The fourth for a thief who got away with liberty bonds in Ohio to be sentenced here recently when a Bulgarian was sentenced to prison for 18 months.

The securities, amounting to $1,600, were stolen while in transit between two banks in Ohio. The loss was still unexplained when a Bulgarian giving the name of R. C. Russell entered a Sofia bank several months later, and asked for cash for Liberty bonds to the amount of $1,600. The officials of the concern sitive to an American bank brought the information from their numbers, that they had been stolen. Russell was arrested, charged with the theft, t ried, found guilty and sentenced.

Old Lumberjacks Are Almost Memory

Hardy Pioneers of Forest Absorbed with Civilization

(Associated Press Despatch)

Bemidji, Minn., March 17.—The old time lumberjack of the north is fast becoming a memory. Only a few days of logging it was he on whom the lumber depended for the staples of living, shelting, hauling and driving logs from the timber to the mills, writes J. W. Merriam in "American Forests and Forest Life."

He was a hardy, weather proofed son of French Canadian blood, who felt more at home in the comparatively cold tamarack swamps than anywhere else. If he was proud of his hair or his beard, which he showed through the unbuttoned collar of his large checked lined and visible black and red flannel shirt.

He will tell you of the days he logged in Maine by the Saginaw country of Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, how he slept, ate and cooked in the big log cabin; (his store was a firepit in the centre of the cabin, in which he cooked his sow belly and beans, which was the principle food "three times a day"); how they slept on hay and straw on the ground with their boots to the fire and would not stay in a camp where they found a "pike of Grand log used in its construction, because of the old superstition of bad luck, based on the tradition that our Saviour's cross was made of the black fir wood.

It was he who would tell the tender foot of Paul Bunyan's logging operations who logged off all North Dakota in one winter; of the blue ox that used to haul quarter sections of timber from the interior down to the Superior shore to save hauling the logs; of the blue snow when it was so cold it did not thaw during one whole summer, and it was known as the logging season of the two winters.

Things have materially changed since those early days. Now the lumberjacks are Jim from Norway, Hank from Sweden, the Finnish boy or the Slav boy who goes to the woods for the winter. Now they have separate cook shanties, bunk-houses, storerooms and offices.

SOCIAL WEARY GIRL GOES "TO THE LAND"

London, March 17.—Because she was bored with London dances, theatres and receptions, Miss Vera Prasgil, 26-year-old daughter of the late Sir George Prasgil, wealthy linen merchant, has put away her fortune and retired to a tiny plot of ground in Surrey near Chertsey, Surrey. Here where she has founded a small community of "back-to-the-land" settlers.

There are about a dozen people in the colony; one an athlete, another a comedienne and a third a poet. All are set seriously jacking at the problem of living by handiwork and cultivation of the soil. Twenty acres have been set aside as a common land, upon which has been erected a "great house" that not only serves as a general community center, but also as a haven of refuge for weary strangers. Each night food is placed in a special room known as the "tramp's room," and as there are no locks or bolts, passing wanderers have no difficulty in getting a hot meal and bed.

Miss Prasgil lives in a small hut in the centre of the common ground, and a broken-down motor omnibus has been converted into a model building for the children of the colony.

USE PEST RABBIT AS FOX FODDER

Cordova, Alaska, March 17.—Washington and other states of the Union might profit by the fact rabbit pest of Alaska has been utilized to furnish food for summer feed, in the opinion of J. Williamson, owner of the largest fox farm along the Russian River on the Kenai peninsula.

More than 5,000 rabbits were slaughtered by Williamson last winter. The meat was ground, placed in cans and put in store where it was dried, and then pulverized and stored in sacks.

The rabbit powder was mixed with water and vegetables boiled and served to foxes during the summer, making an agreeable change of diet from dried fish or porcupine.

Another form of preserving the meat is to pack it when fresh into five-gallon oil cans. Each rabbit are cut into one can. Water is poured over the meat and the can set outdoors until its contents freeze. The can is then thawed loose and removed from the block containing the meat. The block is stored in ice boxes that prevent it thawing until feeding time in summer.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, March 16.—Bulletins issued by Lord Curzon's doctors today said he had better night; that there was no further bleeding and that he was able to take a little more nourishment.

HAVE COMPLETED ALL STEEL HOUSE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Eng., May 17.—Landsdowne House, all steel house, erected everywhere except for its wooden doors, tiled roof and concrete base and chimney flues has just been Informally opened. Even the walls of the room and the ceiling are of steel. Three weeks after the last screw bit of furniture was in its place. It looks like a pretty cunning, double-storied one-floor cottage. The outer walls are made of galvanized two foot square plates stamped into the shape of stone blocks and painted to resemble the same. The roof is tiled with red Somerset tiles.

Every piece of external material is galvanized on both sides to keep it free from rust. The constructors claim that the dwelling is fireproof, and assert that it is warm in winter and cool in summer. The cost is about $12,-250 including a six inch concrete foundation.

Rome To Celebrate Music Centenary

Will Be Occasion of Rendition of Famous Work Of Palestrina

Rome, March 17—The fourth centenary of the birth in 1525 of Giovanni Pierluigi da Palestrina, the father of modern musical nomenclature and composer of a considerable amount of the most masterful music extant, in the Roman Catholic church, is being celebrated this year in Rome and is being made the occasion for the rendition for the first time of many little known non-religious works of the great master.

Although Palestrina's sacred music is universally known and much nothing has been known of his profane music, of which he left about 200 madrigals and others. Since the "vocal orchestra" erased to exist as a lay form of instrumentalists" no copies of Palestrina's profane music have existed. Of the entire body of his work, Richard Wagner published a first edition in the century half, Italian musicians as Alberto Cametti, Mosatgnor Casinini, Giovanni Tebaldini and Domenico Alaleona had point'd out that the German was not doing justice to the work of compiling a complete edition was undertaken in Italy. This edition will be issued in time during the current year.

The first of a series of contemporative concerts took place recently at the Augusteo Hall of Santa Cecilia, under the direction of Domenico Alaleona, who had published in 1896 original manuscripts the works included in the program. The symphonic and choral successfully accomplished by Alaleona is easily seen when it is remembered that the works were written with uniform notes without any indications of expression or of expression. The program included a cantata by the words of Petrarch's "chiare freche e dolci acque" and a madrigal "Vestiva i colli" on the lute of the battle of Lepanto in 1571, when the united Christian armies defeated the Turks.

PLAN TO REVIVE OLD MASTERS' MUSIC

Haslemere, Eng., March 17.—A festival of the chamber music of the sixteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth centuries is being planned for August in Haslemere, when instruments will be used corresponding time of the music. Th festival is to be staged by Arnold Dolmetsch and other members of his family and pupils will play numerous rare instruments which are known to the average music lovers of today.

The lute, the recorder, the viol, the virginal, the viola d'amore, the harmochord, the clavichord, referred to by Rousseau as the "accompanist par excellence" used in rendering the music of the old masters. English music of the golden period" (the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries) will have a prominent place on the festival program.

Test New Serum On Ottawa Cattle

New Vaccine Cannot Produce Tuberculosis in Healthy Animal

Ottawa, March 17.—(By Canadian Press).—The problem of discovering a successful immunizing serum or vaccine to combat tuberculosis among cattle," states the Health of Animals Branch of the Department of Agriculture is being worked out, and the obvious course for Canadian experts to follow continues our present eradication methods until something is found."

"Professor Calmette of France has lately produced a new vaccine which appears to deserve more careful scrutiny, but until it had been submitted to the most thorough trials upon large numbers of animals, under the most perfectly controlled conditions of different and repetitive investigations, it would not be possible to pronounce upon the safety and efficacy of this new method or vaccine.

"It is claimed that this new vaccine, although capable of multiplying in the animal body, cannot produce tuberculosis in a healthy animal. It does however, produce a marked attenuation of the disease in injected cattle a tuberculous animal. A culture of this fascinating material has been received in Ottawa, and is being tested at the present at the research station here; but in view of the fact that this vaccine is only in the experimental stage and has not been put to any general test, it would be most unwise, at this time, to apply the discovery to any great extent in this country, where tuberculosis exists only to a limited degree. A valuable new method for the standardization of tuberculin has been developed at our Hull Research.

"The Department points out that in Europe, on account of the exceedingly widespread nature of the disease, the discovery of an immunizing agent has been the object in view, but in Canada and the United States, where the percentage of tuberculosis in C cattle does not exceed 10 and 15 percent respectively, it appears feasible and practicable to eradicate the disease and keep our herds free from it. Research work in Canada and the United States has followed the line of (1) improving methods for the more accurate diagnostic agent, (3) of a comparative study of the different types of tuberculosis infection, and (2) of the relationship between infection, resistance, and active tuberculous disease.

PAINS IN LEFT SIDE AND BACK

Other Troubles Women Often Have Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lachine, Quebec.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I suffered with pains in my left side, in the back, and other troubles and other troubles women so often have.

The very short time I was using it I saw the Vegetable Compound advertised in the Montreal Standard and I wrote them the four bottles of it. I was a very sick woman and I feel so much better I would not be without it. I also use Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I cannot recommend the medicines to my friends and I am willing for you to use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. M. W. Rose, 560 Notre Dame Street, Lachine, Quebec.

Doctor Said an Operation

Provost, Alberta.—"Perhaps you will remember my case of your Compound over a year ago. I was in a bad condition and would suffer awful pains at times and could not do anything. The doctor said I could not have children unless I went under an operation. I read testimonials of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the papers and a friend recommended me to take it. I did. After taking three bottles I became much better and now have a bonny baby girl four months old. I do my housework and help a little with the chores. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends and am willing for you to use this testimonial letter."—Mrs. A. A. Adams, Box 64, Provost, Alberta.

HAIL COOLIDGE'S IDEA

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, March 16.—Reports from Washington of President Coolidge's readiness to call a new disarmament conference are given sympathetic prominence by many of the London papers which were already on record as being in hearty concurrence with the idea. It is well known that the British Government would welcome such a discussion.

JOHN McINTOSH PASSED AWAY THIS MORNING

Death Comes Suddenly to Respected Merchant Of Belleville

LOSS FELT KEENLY

Took Deep Interest in Life Of His Community

John McIntosh, merchant, died in the Belleville General Hospital this morning at 8.30 o'clock. Death came quickly following an attack late Sunday evening which made a major operation necessary.

It is a community loss, this passing of John McIntosh, the news being received to-day by hundreds with very genuine regret throughout the whole of Belleville and in many other centres in Eastern Ontario where his business activities have placed him friendships.

He was one of Belleville's most prominent citizens and took a deep interest in the welfare of his fellow men and rendered him deeply in the life of his municipality. Honorable to a fault, sincere in religion and true in friendship, he took a position gained by few others.

Stricken Suddenly

On Sunday last, Mr. McIntosh attended service in the morning and evening and was taken to the Belleville Hospital late at night for a critical operation. Last evening a second operation was considered necessary and from this he failed to recover.

Mr. McIntosh was born in the year 1849 near Inverness, Scotland, being a son of the late Mr. John McIntosh.

In the year 1868, he came to Canada and engaged at Cobourg, where he was employed for some time. Later he went to Toronto and was in the employ of Mr. Gooderham, a firm which had general business relations with Belleville, Perth and other places.

Some 53 years ago he came to Belleville and engaged in business, being for many years in the grocery line in partnership with his brother, Mr. Wm. McIntosh, late Alexander Macdonald and others.

His connection grew rapidly owing to his ability to popularity, shrewd ways and honest dealings, and soon he was at present located at Cobourg, Peterboro, Campbellford, Lindsay and Kingston, all doing well.

Mr. McIntosh was a member of Presbyterian Church and always took a most active part in its interests.

He had a fine tenor voice which was often used to advantage at gatherings and social gatherings. While he was connected with several fraternal orders he was perhaps most interested in Masonry. He was a Past Master of Moira Lodge No. 41, a former member of Quinte Friendship Chapter, a past Grand Master of the Eastern Star and a Shriner. He was a Past President of the Belleville Boys' Scout Council, and a member of the Independent Order of Foresters. In all of these societies he did what was in his power for the betterment and his passing will be deeply regretted by the members.

A widow, three sons and four daughters survive. The sons are John, George and William of this city, and the daughters are Miss Harriett, nurse in training at Toronto General; Mrs. McDonald College, Guelph, and the Misses Jessie and Alice at home, the latter a pupil of the Belleville High School. A brother Mr. McIntosh of this city and four sisters residing in Scotland, survive. The heartfelt sympathy of citizens generally will be extended to those who have been called upon to mourn the loss of a loved one.

Floral Tributes

J. O. Herity paid the following tribute to-day:

"The demise of Mr. John McIntosh has removed from a sphere of notable accomplishment, one of the outstanding Scotsmen that has achieved in a striking illustration of the fact that Canada is the land of opportunity where there is courage, enterprise and natural resourcefulness to avail of opportunity.

"Coming in our shores as a young man with neither money nor influential friends to help, he attained to a position and carved out for himself a career in such a measure as to make him out as one of those rare individuals who can rise superior to circumstance and adverse condition. In such a career there is an incentive and an inspiration to the youth of our time.

"In the very zenith of his usefulness and activity, Mr. McIntosh has been suddenly called to go down the mazes of the dark and the Great Beyond. In all seems so sadly premature when he was appointed at the threshold of greater undertakings and more important accomplishments.

"It was not for him to live out a long span of life, but in the comparatively few years of his mature manhood he built up a record of honorable achievement and he now goes out from among us, leaving a name and a memory that will always be associated with the highest business integrity greatness of heart and nobility of conduct in serve well his community, his country and his God."

His Minister, Rev. A. S. Kerr said:

"John McIntosh was always a member of Belleville's first citizens. A man wonderfully successful in his own business enterprises. He loved the society in which he lived and he had a warm hearted, genial disposition. His home life was good, and with his family was a most regular, steadfast

As a youth James Scrim, a Spaniard, who looks upon Toronto as his home, although he is residing temporarily in Hamilton, worked for fifteen cents a day in the orange groves of a wealthy man of Valencia. He has now discovered that he is the sole heir of this man and owner of the estate on which he worked. His wife was formerly Miss Lucy Brooks, an English girl. They were married in Cochrane.

TOKIO GRIPPED ONCE MORE BY GRIM TRAGEDY

Flames Have Destroyed More Than Thousand Homes

FIREMEN HELPLESS

Blaze Spreading in all Directions; Stream of Refugees

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Tokio, March 18.—Twenty thousand persons were rendered homeless in the Asakusa district northeastern Tokio to-day according to thousand buildings and resulting in unestimated casualties. The fire was brought under control to-night.

Tokio, March 18.—A conflagration, which swept over northern Tokio this afternoon, fanned by gale, destroyed more than one thousand homes by 10 o'clock tonight and was spreading in all directions.

Great confusion prevails.

Troops are on scene tearing down houses in an effort to prevent the further spread of the blaze while thousands of residents, laden with their household effects are streaming towards safety.

Firemen were helpless in an attempt to check the conflagration during the 11 drought that has exhausted the reservoirs.

The fire started in a factory at Nappori Junction, northwestern Tokio, and, borne by an unceasing gale, it soon entirely direction towards Uyano, the largest business district and site of the famous Imperial Museum and Zoological Gardens.

Cooks Triumph At St. Andrew's

St. Patrick's Day Supper A Rare Feast Indeed

Nearly three hundred people enjoyed the hospitality of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church last night, when an old-time supper was served. The table decorations were very pretty, with green predominating, an efficient staff of Convenors and their assistants helped to make the supper the success that it was. The tables were laden with sumptuous and tempting food of every description and everyone enjoyed the hearty repast.

The guests at table were Rev. Mr. Cranston of Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Riggs, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McKechnie, Dr. Maguire of Montreal, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. MacTavish and Col. Lazier.

If he'd known that such a social event reaches the point of success gained by this St. Andrew's supper last night, and the secret of the success may be traced to the co-operation of so many cooks. For once the old saying, "Too many cooks spoil the broth" was labelled as untrue.

In fact so many ladies had a hand in providing the repast that officers of the church were reluctant to have names of co-workers published, but it maintained firmly that.this would be exceedingly unfair to two score or more others, whose help put the cap on the climax.

Even the husbands of the best cooks in the city made the 178 pit cooks in the city had to admit that the co-operation-meal in the best. There was variety to meet the taste of the most fastidious and quality more than enough to satisfy the most critical.

MARQUIS CURZON REPORTED WORSE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, March 18.—A bulletin issued at 9 o'clock this afternoon by the doctors of Marquis Curzon says the patient is showing signs of lung complication.

That the condition of Marquis Curzon was calling for increased anxiety was the statement in a bulletin issued this morning. Yesterday's improvement was not maintained, says the bulletin.

Toronto—Tell gale charges again raised in Legislature by W. E. Raney, former Attorney General.

Boy Knocked Down By Light Truck

Jack Charlton, Aged Seven, Victim of Accident This Morning

Knocked down by a light truck on Coleman street at 11.25 o'clock this morning Jack Charlton, aged seven, who lives at 46 Hillside street, sustained painful injuries in the left side of the head. He was taken to the General Hospital in the police ambulance, where his injuries received attention, and later he was taken to his home. No serious results are anticipated.

Bert Gill, proprietor of the Belleville Iron Laundry, 1 Moira street, was driving his truck north on Coleman street, and a number car in front of the garage at the corner of Henry and Coleman streets, was taking on passengers. Gill turned to the left to avoid the car but the boy, with careful caution in his arms, darted out in front of the standing car in the path of the truck. Gill swerved to the left to avert striking the boy, and though driving at a very moderate rate of speed, his car swerved right around to the back of the car striking the boy on the left side of the head, throwing him forcibly to the ground.

Dr. C. William Fraser happened to be in the immediate locality and witnessed the accident. Acting promptly on the youngster up, and officer Evans failing to find a number of physicians called by phone, at home, called for the police ambulance. Dr. F. S. Arthur Herman and consent of detectives John Truesdale hurried to the scene and removed the boy to the hospital.

EXPLOSION ENTOMBS THIRTY-THREE MEN

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Fairmont, W. Va., March 18.—A hundred or more men, frantically, but hopelessly, pushed their way through the underground recess of a mine three miles from here today, in an effort to find 33 miners who were entombed last night when an explosion wrecked the shaft.

Premier Explains Government Plan

In Regard to Peterson Contract in War on Rates

Ottawa, March 18.—What the Government purposes to do, since the slips are built, is to tell Sir William Peterson the rate at which he is expected to carry cattle from Canadian ports to the ports of Great Britain. If he carries at that rate he will be paid the difference provided for in the agreement. If he does not perform that service he will not be entitled to a five-cent piece nor will he get a five-cent piece. Can anything be plainer than that?"

That speaking in the House of Commons yesterday, Premier King emphatically laid down the issues of the Government in its scheme for the control of Atlantic ocean rates.

The Prime Minister's speech came in continued debate on the contract between the Canadian Government and Sir William Petersen under which for twenty years he would have the use of seven ships and is to receive an annual subsidy of $750,000.

"The obligation is clear," the Prime Minister went on, referring to the contract. "It is there in black and white. What we are paying for is the right to control rates."

The Prime Minister delved at length into explanation of reduction in ocean rates into representations made by previous Canadian Governments. He declared that the Government was prepared to give shipping companies carrying business from Canadian ports the opportunity of entering into contract along lines identical with the Peterson contract, if personally made such a proposal to the premier of the day. But only a few evenings ago, and that after the contract had been signed, he had heard of the House. The condition was that the Government must control the rates.

Fishermen Pray As Season Opens

Picturesque Ceremony Carried Out at Old Port Of Havre

(Associated Press Despatch)

Havre, March 18—Every year, before the fishing season opens, and in their boats to the distant Newfoundland banks, they gathered together at Havre to celebrate the feast of the patron saint St. Peter. Under the the presence of Archbishop of Rouen and numerous clergy, the ceremony was carried out in the open air. The whole town turned out, and the quays were thronged with people, with flags and bunting and glittered with lights. The sailors filed reverently past the altar, each receiving the holy sacrament, and the whole congregation, in picturesque gathering, sang hymns and prayed for those who go to the sea. At the end of the prayer of the ceremony a bluff old master seaman, who has spent many years in storm came to the rail of the church and made an address to the fishermen, the language of the seafarer, to which the archbishop replied.

Then the boats left the dock one by one way with flags, their crews gathered together in the stern, and the last by the archbishop. After the religious ceremony the boats cleared the harbor, the sailors cheered, and the 1925 Newfoundland banks fishing season was declared open.

TELLS INTERESTING STORY OF CONGO

At the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium was consecutively crowded last night when Dr. Charles E. Maguire, M.P., gave the one of his several interesting lectures on the Belgian Congo, which he has visited.

Dr. Maguire lived in Africa near the Congo for some years and was able to tell a wonderful story of conditions there. He told of the use of a splendid exhibit, consisting of three different kinds of rubber, ivory, palm nuts, ostrich skins on the continent, which are being sought by the Belgian Government at Washington.

Once charged by a buffalo in Africa which he had shot three times but not mortally, Dr. Maguire told of his efforts and to this day he is carefully bandaged. Again a rhinoceros charged and ripped his back.

Dr. Maguire is a thrilling speaker with a wonderful story and he left the satisfaction of having sorry camaraderie and sympathy for Chief Jacobs and the transformation in their mode of living.

J. D. Bankier delighted his hearers with songs. Les Riggs presided at the piano. Loud and repeated applause showed the appreciation of an appreciative audience.

Rev. N. S. McKechnie introduced the speaker in a few words.

ALLEGE POLES HAVE BECOME WAR LIKE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Paris, March 18.—Polish frontier patrols are alleged by Lithuanian Legation here to have become like Prussian soldiers guards near Silvinkai, without provocation Monday night, led to have fired upon the peaceful city district by force of arms unless Lithuanians cease provocation.

BOTTLERS DANCE

Under the auspices of those connected with the Belleville Bottling Works in the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Building, a successful dance was held last night in the G.W.V.A. hall. There was a good attendance and all present enjoyed the dancing. Refreshments were served. During the evening refreshments were served. The hall was appropriately decorated for the event.

THE WATER'S FINE!

Probably the first wintery dip of the season in the icy waters of the Bay of Quinte occurred Tuesday when George Drummond, physical culturist, who is employed at the Consolidated Distilleries at Corbyville, plunged into the river for his first swim of 1925.

Drummond, who bathes early and late, as season's the favored St. Patrick's Day as a real opening date, and last year he also opened the season by taking a dip in the Moira on that day.

Raney Breaks Faith With The Leaders

Had Agreed to Expedite Business; Now Delays Debate

Toronto, March 18.—A budget debate which was achieving a record as the most dilatory in the history of the Legislature became animated late last night when W. E. Raney, in a resolution of want of confidence in the Ferguson Government. Hon. Premier Ferguson moved the motion, the substance of which he drew from Mr. Geary's statement in the Provincial Treasury—specifically from the head lame of $4,000,000 estimated to the Hydro Bank in September, 1919, in connection with the Power paid $87,000 in commissions.

Mr. Raney's caucus was largely prompted by the fact that, while Peter Smith is serving a penitentiary term for receiving $12,000 of this sum, the recipient of the remaining $42,000 has never been identified. The whole matter was a resurrection, one year the hastings of the $4,000,000 estimate of the last session of the House, and the prosecution of Peter Smith as the outgrowth of a budget debate which was believed by all members to be within an hour or its close.

The eleventh-hour manoeuvre of the Conservative Leader brought down upon him the vigorous criticism of Premier Ferguson, Hon. Mr. Lyons and Hon. Mr. Hanna, the latter charging bad faith in that Mr. Raney had agreed to expedite business. Premier Ferguson replied with respect to the closing of the debate. As unofficially arranged, and at whereby the debate was to have been closed last night, the Government and the House thereby facilitated. In view of Mr. Raney's action in thus introducing a motion of confidence, instead of having become a party to the other agreement. Premier Ferguson pointed that he could accept the Progressive leader's further contention that because his convenience in House arrangements, he was not could not be relied upon.

"If that is to be your code of procedure, I will meet you on it," he declared, stating that the debate would proceed to-night. Premier Ferguson fully set forth his position in regard to the return which Mr. Raney had presented.

So far as Mr. Raney's charges themselves, the Premier declared that they were largely with his claim that the Public Accounts Committee of the Legislature had not been impartial in probing Peter Smith's transactions, declaring that it had been influenced to press Peter Smith, rather than to get at the real strips, and that it had been influenced by the further probing because of the political stripe of those whom it might affect. A similar charge was made between Hon. Mr. Drury and Peter Smith in the latter's letter to the Premier, during charge of the Treasury Department that it looked as if the Government thing had been amiss in the McGarry. Hone Bank transaction was emphatically denied by Premier Ferguson and report of the Public Accounts Committee had been attached with the unanimous motive of sparing the McGarry incident, in accordance with the arrangement with the U.P.O. period.

Premier Ferguson charges against the committee in vigorous fashion, charging that Mr. Raney's motion was not that the report of the committee be adopted, but upon his request that of the members of the committee, U.F. O. and Labor members, that it be approved it clause by clause. He went on that Mr. Raney had not only repudiated the Drury-Smith conversation but had denied it, and he emphasized that Mr. Raney, although a member of the committee, had not attended a single sitting.

Attacks a year late, made in left field by Mr. Raney upon a committee of which he had been a member, but which he had not attended, were met with poor grace, in Mr. Finlayson's opinion, from the late Attorney General.

PAYS DEARLY FOR DISOBEYING LAW

A local electrical contractor appeared in police court this morning charged with striking a motor boat without having first procured a permit to do so. He was fined $25 and costs.

Harry Thompson, District Inspector of the Hydro Electrical Power Commission, pertinent told of repeated warnings, and regretted that he was forced to take action in court.

The man was given a lecture by Magistrate Masson.

A HAPPY EVENT

In commemoration of St. Patrick's Day a dance was held last evening at Johnstone's Academy which provided a most delightful social function. The music was furnishe dby "Our Boy's Orchestra" and the program of dances. In the latter part of the evening refreshments were served by the ladies of the Ladies' Aid Society. The hall was appropriately decorated for the event.

CONSERVATIVES OPENING ROOMS FRIDAY EVENING

Large Attendance is Expected to Mark the Occasion

MAKE HAPPY CHOICE

Hon. George Black, M.P., Will Be Speaker of Evening

Major R. D. Ponton, president of the Conservative Association, received a telegram this morning from Ottawa advising that Capt. George Black, M.P., member of the House of Commons for the Yukon, has accepted the invitation of the Mira's Conservative Association of his city to address the Conservatives on Friday evening next, March 20th, and open the new Capt. Downs of the Conservative Association here.

It is expected that there will be a very large attendance of men to hear the first-class speaker.

The new club rooms in the Robertson Block have been very nicely decorated and placed in a first class condition, and should be a very desirable permanent home.

Hon. George Black was born in Woodstock N.B., and after leaving High School, studied law. He went to the Yukon in 1898, and from 1902 had been Commissioner of the Yukon. He is leader of the Conservative party in territorial council.

During the world war, Hon. George Black successfully organized the Yukon Infantry Company in 1914 and subsequently overseas in command of the Company in 1917. Later he was in command of the 257th Overseas Company. Captain Black relinquished the command in January, 1918, and the annual consideration of $12,000 and a bonus of $1,000 was considered by service in France.

Captain Black's son is also a Captain in the Princess Patricias Regiment and was severely wounded in France during the war.

"TRYING TO DODGE THE DEFICIT"

The King Government has got the country's finances into such a mess that it is trying to dodge the deficit by bringing down the Budget before the end of the fiscal year. The reason is obvious. Desiring to submit the actual figures, it is hoped through estimates of expenditure and revenue to conceal the facts of the situation.

No wonder that the Government desires to disclose the actual figures. The February statement issued by the Department of Finance shows that during the eleven months ending February, 25th, there was a decrease of $64,970,697 in the revenue, as compared with that for the corresponding months last year. The decrease in February alone, which was a short month, was actually $4,390,081.

At this rate the total decrease in revenue for the whole of the fiscal year will run about $60,000,000. No wonder the Government does not want to admit this. No wonder it is trying its best to get the Budget down before the close of the fiscal year at the 31st of March.

A decrease of $60,000,000 in revenue would not be a misfortune, if there were a corresponding decrease in expenditure. But there has not been. Indeed, the total expenditure during the first eleven months was $1,858,187 higher than during the corresponding months of last year. While there has been a slight decrease in ordinary expenditure, this has been more than offset by an increase on capital account.

The result is that a yawning deficit confronts the country. No wonder that the King Government does not want to face the music. Hence all the haste to get some kind of a statement out before the fiscal year closes.

It is a long time since there has been such desperate manoeuvering to hide the realities of the financial situation. Take the estimates. It has been the practice to include the vote for the Canadian National Railways in the main estimates. But this year in order to leave the impression that expenditure was being cut, the railway vote was left out of the first lot of estimates given to the press. Then followed the railway estimates of $60,000,000.

The Government also has given the public the impression that all the railways got last year was $56,000,000, but a few days ago along came a supplementary estimate for them in the extent of $7,560,000. This shows that instead of the railways spending $56,000,000 last year, as had been supposed, they actually spent $63,560,000. The purpose of handing out this information piece-meal undoubtedly was to let the public down easy.

Confronted by a reduced revenue of $60,000,000, and with no reduction in expenditure one would naturally think that in its provision for the coming fiscal year the Government would prune down expenditure with a vengeance. But it has not done so. It is now known that by the time all the expenditure authorized is provided for, it will probably exceed $426,000,000 for the coming year.

In the United States the Government has reduced expenditure with a ruthless hand. During the last five years the national debt has been cut to the extent of nearly five billions of dollars. But with us the National debt is higher than it was when the King Government entered office.

Worse still, there is no relief in sight. As expenditure goes up, so taxes must go up. Either that or recent must be made to borrowing. How long can the country stand such a policy?

MAKING IT PAY

The British Empire Exhibition at Wembley lost money last year. That is, the books showed a considerable deficit. But you may usually trust leaders in the affairs of the Empire to get value for their money, even if that money appears to be lost.

Says the Prince of Wales, "The British Empire Exhibition has played an invaluable part in stimulating interImperial trade and in extending knowledge of the British Empire among all classes of the nation."

Says Sir Robert Borden of the Exhibition the British Engineers' Association bureau, in addition to introducing hundreds of visitors to exhibitors manufacturing products in which they were interested, distributed over 800 definite inquiries for engineering plant and machinery to 5,699 firms. The majority of these represented prospective orders for machinery of very substantial amounts.

And that is just a sample of what happened during the time Wembley was open last year.

THE CALL OF SPRING

Nature, answering the ardent wooing of spring sunshine, is preparing to array herself in her many-hued garb of bulb and leaf and flower that is the wonder of all creation. From the drab chrysalis of its winter home will soon burst in all its oft-repeated glory that ceaseless garment which is the despair of the artist, the song of the poet, the unsolved mystery of the ages. It is the bridal robe of spring, fashioned in the workshop of the Almighty. It is the symbol of renewed life. And as the tender ideas, the promise of an even more magnificent celestial grandeur. It is a rhapsody in color that bids us sing of love, of peace, of the joy of living.

And human kind, for whom beneath its wondrous pageant is unfolded, tries to respond in his weakly imitative way by worrying about a new spring coat or an Easter hat!

It must have been at this particular season of the year that the despairing Psalmist asked: "Oh Lord, what is man that Thou are mindful of him, or the son of man that Thou visitest him?"

A Crusade To Banish Sleep

SOME time ago a congress of Futurists was held at Milan, Italy.

According to a newspaper account a prominent Italian representative declared the quintessence of futurism to be movement and life. Real progressives, he said, must fight against everything which constitutes rest. He further declared that a sluggish life is the only really joyful one.

All my life I have heard the story of the man who valued his life so much he wouldn't waste any of it in sleep and so lost it entirely.

He was always held up to me as the prime idiot, spelled with a capital I.

But no matter how wild or impossible an idea is, along comes someone without the saving grace of a sense of humor and seriously advocates it!

So now we have a crusade to banish sleep.

Sleep is a law nature passed a long, long time ago.

Not only are we on constituted as to need sleep, but we need enough of it.

As Maude Royden, that dynamic Englishwoman, says, a man who jumps off a cliff does not break the law of gravitation; he only demonstrates it. Thousands who think they are breaking the law of sleep are only demonstrating it!

The man who keeps giving his body less and less sleep will find himself in the position of the man who tried to train his horse to live on nothing by gradually cutting down on the daily ration.

He had only one more day to go before the horse would be living on nothing when something happened that upset his plans. The horse died.

Henry Ford says a car doesn't wear out until a part wears. Neither does a man wear out until a part wears out. In this day of drive and hurry and rush the part that wears out first is usually the nerves.

Sleep is more necessary to the nerves than to any other part of the body. It fills the batteries for the next day's pull.

President of the United States once said that he took a step involving the whole country, which he probably would not have taken under other conditions, because he was wrought up and made nervously tense by loss of sleep.

How many times have big business deals been lost because a man was "on edge" from loss of sleep!

There was few things that will make a man "touchy", quick-tempered, ugly and hard-to-get-along-with, as soon as not getting enough sleep.

Lack of sleep does to your body what putting carbon in the cylinders and not in the crank-pings does to a motor car.

When you feel yourself raising, give nature a chance. Start getting more sleep.

RACING NEWS BY RADIO

(Hamilton Herald)

The chief difficulty in connection with the transmission of racing news by radio will come from broadcast stations in the United States. How can this be prevented? American broadcasters will not be amenable to Canadian law, and cannot be prevented from receiving, if they want to, to sending out the sort of racing news that gamblers desire. Nor will it be easy to prevent the owners of radio sets from listening in and receiving this information. Pretty soon, part of the necessary equipment of a handbook man, and also of everyone who is a habitual patron of the handbook men, will be a radio set.

NEW STANDARDS

(Chatham News)

For centuries, the human race has paid homage to Venus and Adonis as the embodiment of female and male physical perfection.

Now they have their critics. In plain, twentieth century slang, "they're out." Americans of the future, says Dr. Harry L. Reichard, Cleveland's health commissioner will be "taller, thinner and healthier."

Venus de Milo and Old Man Adonis says he, are "too fat."

Severe reasons for the development of a new race, as Dr. Reichwood sees it, are "lack of exercise," "throwing popularity of sports," he declares is having its effect on the manly figure.

Mr. Silver of the firm of Silver and Smith, Toronto, who own Grand's repository, was in the city yesterday buying horses for their spring show. The show will be held in the drill shed in that city, and will be after the style of the New York horse show held at Madison Square Garden annually.

The Toronto Telegram is in a mix about the weather. It says in an editorial in yesterday's issue: "Already it is spring by the almanac." Consult your almanac Mr. Telegram and you will find that spring commences on the 21st of March. Don't misprint the almanac.

It speaks volumes for the salubrity of our climate that Mr. Wm. Alford celebrated his 83rd birthday on the 15th of March—and Mr. Wm. Anderson Cabrated his 75th birthday on the day of the reception, procession and banquet. Both have been constant readers of the Intelligencer for over half a century.

Dutchy's Diary

Graft

We have received news of more graft. Dutchy Tomlinson fell off a stool ago of some thousands which has been revealed by audit in the Provincial Secretary's department. The Inspector of Prisons has been arrested on a charge of theft.

This is but another and chapter to add to a series of revelations in which Peter Smith, Clarence Bettell, Charles Matthews, Hector Bank (dictator Earl) Dutchy civic officials and many others have taken leading roles.

Yet but an insignificant part of the whole story is told. Graft is being carried out throughout the country by bum deals who may never be caught. There seems to be an epidemic in which the richest and the poorest are stricken.

Discussing the situation with a Belle ville man yesterday, he told me of one experience he had himself which is typical of what is going on in ordinary business life to-day.

This man was sent to a large Canadian city by his firm to chose machinery for the plant. He planned a visit to three firms, in order to recommend to the directors at home the best buy in the market.

Arriving at the first plant he was most courteously received. A salesman showing him around and then casually mentioned that there was fifty dollars in the deal for the Belleville man if he were to recommend this firm's machinery.

That is one form of graft that is fairly common and one which is often open to municipal employees whose duty it is to recommend equipment.

Newspaper reporters are often approached with money to leave names out of a news story or to write up a story that will benefit parties interested.

Not long ago a father came to the office of The Intelligencer. His little daughter perfectly innocent had been the victim of a scoundrel who was brought to court. This father wanted the name of his child protected and even after he was assured that in the ordinary course of events, the newspaper would not mention the girl's name he pulled out a roll of bills and asked,

"How much?"

So it goes. The blight has spread so that many people are beginning to take graft or a rake-off as a matter of course. The messenger boy collects fifty cents from the firm for a tea-cash, makes the journey on foot, and pockets the money for himself. Older chipplayers, who should know better, get out on the road and pad their expense accounts.

G. W. Gordon, speaker at the Kiwanis Club yesterday, put his finger on the disease when he stated that the best men world needs a return to conditions where a man's word was as good as his bond.

To-day's Smile

Eventide was wrapping the countryside in a mantle of peaceful delight. The boy stood on the bridge and the sweet smile upon his young face was a beautiful thing to behold. Beyond the brow of the hill a dull red glow suffused the sky.

"Ah, little man," remarked the stranger, who was rather near-sighted, "it does my heart good to see you appreciate the beautiful effect"

"Yes, sir," replied the lad. "I've been watching it for ten minutes."

"A real nature-lover, without doubt!" enthused the stranger. "And do you watch the sunsets often, my boy?"

"Sunset?" Why that's the village school burning down!"

Oshawa Council Peeved By Press

Aldermen Dislike Advance Information Being Published Unofficially

Oshawa, March 16—(Local) press cards in for considerable discussion at the Council session, the members feeling that many matters were given undue publicity and some steps should be taken to curb interviews with civic officials unless sanctioned by Council. This was the outcome of an article, appearing in a local paper yesterday, regarding the possible resignation of City Engineer W. C. Smith last night.

The article officials attended the meeting and when the matter was introduced Alderman Preston said that he was personally glad Mr. Smith was taking charge of the work but felt that the members should be more careful in their statements to the press, especially as Mr. Smith strongly denied his intention of resigning.

The matter of publishing the proposed by-law also came up before the members. Alderman G. T. Morris claiming that there was a "leak" of information somewhere and he felt the press was entitled to the Council when a matter got this information it should be kept quiet; its authority and if it is the proper procedure to have matters circulated before the Council discussed them."

FACTORY WHISTLE DROWNING CHIMES

Mr. W. Dingwall, of Oshawa during the past week offered a donation to the Council with two chimes, at the Simcoe and Victoria streets of the Board of Managers of the warden of the Baptist church. Mr. Oliver states that the chimes in the church are indeed beautiful and he thoroughly enjoyed their tuneful melody, although of late on account of factory whistles blowing at noon hour and the hymns played by the chimes. He suggested that the program of the chimes be started at 12.15 o'clock instead of the noon hour.

DEPUTY DEFENDS NEW TAX ON GAS

Speaking before the members of the Kiwanis Club in the Frontenac Hotel at King on Monday night, Hon. Peter Deputy Minister of Highways, strongly defended the new gasoline tax, stating that the people deriving the most benefit from the roads should pay for them. Mr. Squires drew attention to the fact that while the roads cost annually $25,000,000, the addition of the gasoline tax would only add $7,000,000 to the motorists' annual bill, or a sum of $7,000,000 to the motorists' annual bill, or a sum of $7,000,000 to the motorists' annual bill, or a sum of

Has Made $35,000 In Two Years Time

Remarkable Performance By Prisoner in Jail at Baltimore

Baltimore, March 18.—The case of a man who has made $35,000 in two years, although he is in prison, has come to light here. The authorities are investigating the man's business although prison officials declare that the enterprise has their approval. The prisoner in question is Burton F. Morgan, who has nearly completed a five-year sentence for larceny and false pretense.

Morgan conducts a mailing list business, maintaining an office which he directs from his prison cell. He has a number of employees in the office and a few in the prison, and his business is said to be thriving. He keeps hard at work all the time.

Col. C. B. Sweezey, warden of the prison, says that Morgan is a model prisoner and conducts his business along perfectly legal lines. Col. Sweezey is glad to see a prisoner in his charge prepare himself for life by, he said.

Morgan, in addition to building up a good business, has started cases for which two detainers were lodged against him at the prison. These cases were in Toledo, O., and Toronto Canada. He has made restitution in both cases, and prosecution has been dropped.

Boys Are Warned Allowed To Go

Pair Charged With Disorderly Conduct in Police Court

Magistrate Masson heard evidence in two unusual cases in police court this morning—unusual because they are not as numerous as they used to be—"the old days." One youth was charged with being disorderly and the other with using obscene language to a police officer, but both were allowed to go with a warning though the magistrate believed them to be guilty. Both pleaded not guilty and fought the charges.

Constable Evans this morning at 2.05 o'clock while P. C. William Evans was walking home from the police station, he said hearing four young men act in a disorderly manner at the corner of Victoria avenue and Pront street. They were swearing, he testified to-day, and shouting at the top of their voices. The officer stepped into a door-way and waited, just south of the footbridge gangway. The four appeared, two walking south on the east side of Front and the other two on the west side, when the pair on the west side came opposite the officer, he asked "what was the matter?" "Nothing", one sneered one, and they walked down towards the foot bridge. Then the officer says he heard voices from the gangway one thirty language towards him, Chief Kidd and the whole police department. Evans dropped his lunch box and gave chase, but the boys outdistancing him and escaped. Sunday morning he discovered one of the pair on the street and stopped him, but he did not divulge the name of his companion.

On the stand to-day the accused told of returning from a friend's home which he had left at 2 a.m. When nearing the corner of Pinnacle street and Victoria avenue a strange young man approached him, said "good morning" and asked for a match. He replied that he had none, but followed he and the other two chaps who had joined them down Pinnacle, talked a Front street on Victoria avenue.

He admitted that the four were talking, laughing and might have been swearing a bit, as boys do sometimes. They separated at the corner because they had to go in different directions, he going towards the footbridge and the stranger following him. He admitted having heard the officer ask "What is the matter boys?" and of answering "nothing". As they came opposite the up to Sergt debate.

Unionists And Antis Failed To Agree

Differ Over Disposition of Knox College According To Report

Toronto, March 18—Conferences between the opposing sides in the Church Union controversy beginning in the morning at the Parliament Buildings and ending in the evening at the same place, failed yesterday as result in any agreement being reached. Failure to settle the issue as it is at present constituted by negotiation was, accordingly recorded, and the matter will now have o be fought out, commencing this morning before the Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Legislature.

While parties to yesterday's conferences were sworn to secrecy, it is understood that the anti-Unionists proposal that they be given Knox College and $250,000 in endowments was the breaking point in the negotiations. The whole vexed question of the apportionment of the denominational properties themselves comes as a thing of contention for the Legislature to decide.

Both bills unionist and anti-unionist were laid over this morning, the Private Bills Committee yesterday morning. When the committee assembled at the Parliament Buildings breaking up almost in order that they might spend the afternoon in preparing for their constituents.

IRELAND IS HEALTHY

Dublin, March 17.—According to the official figures of the twenty-six general of the Irish Free State, the year 1922 was the healthiest ever known in Ireland. The marriage and birth rates increased and the death rate decreased. The death rate was 13.34 a thousand as compared with 15.29 for the ten years average 1913-1923. The births numbered 61,-690, of which 31,826 were boys and 29,-863 girls. The estimated population there has been no regular census since 1911—i.e., 4,100,000.

AURA LEE VICTORS BY LARGE MARGIN

Toronto, March 15.—Aura Lee celebrated St. Patrick's Day in an appropriate manner, advancing to the finals for the Canadian Junior championship by an 7 to 1 victory over Sons of England, champions of Quebec, in a sudden death game at Aura Lee Rink last night. The Ontario champions were better in every department of the game and again proved that the junior hockey team in the province does not measure up to the brand played in the final. The Irishmen from the north, although outclassed from the opening face-off, never gave up the fight and every minute of the game in an effort to hold the speedy Ontario six-some machine. The Sons of Ireland is the best team to represent Quebec in some time, as practically all the players have two or three more years in junior hockey, they have hopes for a championship in a year or so.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, March 18— Australia was drawn to play Hawaii in the first round of the Davis Cup competition this afternoon.

Canada will draw New Zealand in first round of Davis Cup competition Japan will play China. Included also in America's zone was Spain which will play preliminary match against Cuba winner of which will play Mexico.

SENTENCED AT ST. CATHARINES

The London police are searching for George Franks, a tramp who was arrested Sunday night last morning at the Canadian National and who was released Monday on his promise to leave town immediately. Two men who saw him a few hours later his release, claim to have identified him as the man who knocked into the head of Mrs. A. Henderson, 24 Egerton St. past a little child, who answered the door and left the woman unconscious.

COULDN'T GET ALONG WITHOUT THE MEN

(Associated Press Despatch)

Berlin, March 18.—The year's ball of Berlin's women artists, marked an important departure from a tradition of 50 years. While formerly it was a festive occasion for women only, the programme was this year not only invited, but fairly wooed.

When the women artists of the German capital started out in 1885 to arrange an annual costume party, they hit upon the novel idea, of limiting it to members of the fair sex. The present and that all women artists, whether in figure dressed as men and as men dressed as the dancing partners for the others. The ball proved a great success, among the suffragettes, who pointed out that women artists' organization as well modestly omit some male dancer asked them to have a turn on the floor, but anybody in female attire could undoubtedly find an escort to make good a dance.

But when the ball was revived for the first time after the war a year ago, it was found that the coolers woman no longer cares to count a ball of reindeers. Therefore it was decided to invite sure this year the women themselves.

CAN SHOOT PIGS IF HE WANTS TO

Stratford, Ont., March 18—For the time being at least there will be no interference in the open season for the fawned hog-burning case at Wingham According to Police Magistrate C. A. Reid, of Goderich, the law cannot protect Farmer Karl Fahrenbruch, who it is stated, at the request of Mrs. Fahrenbruch, shot and cremated ten of his pigs as a thanksgiving offering to thanksgiving for the recovery of his wife from illness. It is said by law that states that a man cannot shoot his pigs if he so desires for they are his personal property.

Mrs. Fahrenbruch, the woman who instigated the cremation, is in the hospital section of the Goderich jail awaiting trial. She will be held there until an attendant arrives from Toronto to take her to the institution for insane. London or Hamilton. The pigs' supporters are now being made out in Toronto.

MAY BE DIAMONDS

Hamilton, March 16—Port Dover is agog over the discovery of a meteorite, covering four feet of surface, is reported. Scraped of a covering of mud, the meteorite displayed a brilliance which local geologists casually explain. Local specialists believe the sparkles of the diamond family, and enthusiastic attempts of local scientists proceeded to the scene of the discovery.

INDOOR BALL LEAGUE LOOKS INTERESTING; NIAGARA FALLS OUT; CANADIENS HAPPY

Strong Line-up Seen All Around

For New Indoor League Starting Here on Friday

The new Indoor League schedule, which opens Friday night at the Armories should present some real entertainment for the local followers of rink sport.

Point Anne will have most of the old-time ball team, while the Hot Points will be represented by a number of the Intermediate ball team or aspirants for this year's team. The Canadian National should get out a strong team and they have always been loyal up in that game. Cleico can be counted on to turn out a fighting aggregation while the Wolves of the North of hockey fame as well as their rivals the Boosters, will have line-ups which will be in there at the time. The Islanders claim a good team while the Regional Castings must have something under cover when they were so anxious to step into the league.

Trenton should get behind this sport as it is a real game to watch as well as play.

Varsity Will Go West For Cup

Defeat Niagara Falls Team 9-2 on the Round

Niagara Falls Ont., March 18.—Toronto Varsity will go west to play Port Arthur or Coleman Tigers in the final series for the Allan Cup, emblematic of the Canadian amateur hockey championship, and won last year by the San Grey Rovers. The Collegians qualified for the final by defeating the Niagara Falls senior O. H. A. championships here last night, 3-1 and winning the round, 9-2. The last game to decide the Eastern Canadian championships was a fast, well played and strenuous exhibition that had the 4,5-0 fans continually on their feet cheering the home team's gallant efforts to win the round and when they saw they could not do that hoped they would at least win the game.

The Falls entered the game facing an almost impossible task of overcoming the five-goal lead secured by U. of T. in Toronto on Saturday night, and although they threw everything they had into the play their efforts were unavailing. But Varsity was not a two-goal better team to-night but, taking advantage of the Falls forcing the play and continually having four players up on the attack, the Blue and White managed to clean in three goals, the second secured when Siebert and Kitchen were serving penalties.

A Sportsmanlike Finish

Beaten on the round by a better team the Falls took their defeat like true sportsmen, and Gene Fraser, who played himself out in his anxiety to win, was carried off the ice by the Varsity players, showing the fine spirit between the winning and losing teams. Then Fraser called for three cheers for the visitors, the fans giving it with a will and the unpleasantness caused by the throwing of pop bottles near the close was entirely forgotten.

Niagara Falls played too much hockey this winter and showed it in their last few games but this should not take any credit from Varsity who show championship form in both games and deserved their victory. Congratulations must go to Connie Smythe who built up the Allan Cup finalists after losing Day, Grey, Wright and Somerville. Varsity should make a splendid showing in the Allan Cup finals in Winnipeg next week. It is doubtful if a team ever played better defensive hockey than Varsity did last night. They went on the ice with instructions to defend their lead but to win the game if possible. They did both. Ross Taylor and Jack Porter, the Varsity defence pair, were a inner combination, giving Joe Sullivan splendid protection, and all three were helped by their fine backchecking forwards harassing to the Falls' puck-carriers so closely that the majority of shots directed at the Varsity net lacked steam and direction. While on the attack the Blue and White, when they scented an opening, broke very fast, always being dangerous when they made a chance on the opposing cage.

Butch Ketterborn was back at left wing after his illness and played the 60 minutes. He had more speed than any player on either team and gave a wonderful exhibition of stick-handling, breaking through for shots, but was unable to beat Sullivan.

U. of T.—Goal, Sullivan; defence, Taylor and Porter; centre, Plaxton; wings, Hudson and Kirkpatrick; subs., Richards and Clonthier.

Niagara Falls—Goal, Mayo; defence, Kitchen and Fraser; centre, Rice; wings Hennigton and Ketterborn; subs., Siebert and Moloco.

Referee—Lou Marsh, Toronto.

NOTICE BOWLERS

Instead of running another ladies league and men's senior we are going to have a mixed league. All those desirous of entering have names in early as teams can be drawn up. Any one can join this league, for further particulars enquire at Recreation Alleys. 18-2td

Canadiens Lost Staleness on Trip

Have Interesting Time on Train in Journey Westward

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Winnipeg, Man. March 18— Jazz and a general forgetfulness of everything pertaining to hockey has taken the edge off the Canadiens. All signs of staleness from the long season's grind have disappeared after the first 2,000 miles of their luxurious journey across Canada. Manager Leo Dandurand expresses great satisfaction with superb condition of his boys.

The boys arrived in Winnipeg at 8.32 Tuesday night, aboard their private Canadian Pacific railway car. After a day of fun across Northern Ontario. As the train sped through this vast lonely country towards the plains, the interior of their car resembled a modern cabaret more than the abode of a team of champion athletes. Perched on a table at one end of their car, a phonograph blared away with "Docile Doo Doo" "Insufficient Precise," and a hundred other razz melodies, which were strangely incongruous to the wild scenery outside the train windows. Chelsies, plunked by experts, added pleasantly to the jazz atmosphere. Mild poker games flourished here and there, and bridge was the source of diversion for the lady members of the party.

When the boys climbed off the train at Winnipeg, where they were met by a large group of admirers, they were declared to be the best behaved group of athletes who ever invaded the west. Their popularity outrivaled that of the recent visit of the All-Blacks. During the three hour stay over, the Canadiens took advantage of their first opportunity to stretch their legs by touring the business portion of the city on foot.

SPORT NOTES

Watch the Intermediate Baseball outfit this year. When a team starts to get into condition at this time of the year you can depend on it, there are brains behind the organization, and that if there be any real talent in the line-up its going to show itself.

That indoor ball league looks mighty interesting. There are enough teams to make things interesting and the players signed up look good on paper anyway. The armouries floor will give lots of room for the play.

The early bird gets the worm as far as O. H. A. situation is concerned. Brantford, Hamilton, Niagara Falls are picking next years team already.

According to the Belleville scribes, the champions of the C.O.B.L. will be there this year. It's about time the old timers in Belleville started to crack as did the pocketpals—Kingston Standard. Fortunately the kind of cracks made by the Belleville ball players are good for two or three bases.

GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS

Deranged Kidneys may in time lead to serious illness. If you detect any symptom take Gin Pills. They will relieve you.

Wash Poison From Kidneys

Drink Water All Day Long and Take Salts if Your Back Hurts

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation in the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passed sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before break fast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary troubles caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieve your bladder irritation. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

The House was decorated with spring flowers. A number of ladies assisted at the tea tables.

ST. MICHAEL'S ACADEMY

The feast of the Patron Saint of the Emerald Isle was celebrated in a fitting and enjoyable manner last evening at St. Michael's Academy when some 200 people assembled in the spacious hall to honor the patron saint of Ireland and honored St. Patrick in an evening of cards, and musical numbers under the auspices of the Children of Mary.

The large crowd got seated about 8.30 and progressive euchre was soon under way continuing until 10.30, when a dainty lunch was served by the young ladies. Following this came the distribution of prizes, Mr. T. Cushine capably acting in the capacity of chief waiter. The luck winner of the five dollar gold piece, offered as a door prize was Miss Lillian Manley. Mrs. Allen captured the first prize among the ladies for the euchre. Mrs. J. Fitzgerald 2nd, Mrs. W. Frawley 3rd, and the consolation prize went to Miss Helen Finkle.

On the men's side, Mr. S. Woodcock was successful in carrying off 1st prize, Mr. Sollie 2nd, Mr. O'Hara 3rd, and consolation, Mr. Desmond.

The pleasing program which followed and which was arranged by Miss Lena O'Rourke, came as the fitting conclusion to a most enjoyable evening. The first number was a well rendered selection on the xylophone by Mr. Wm. Grant, accompanied at the piano by Miss O'Rourke, and by Mr. O'Connor on the violin. Solos by Misses K. Bawden and G. Bryce, and a duet by Misses Lafferty and Ed. Brown delighted the large crowd, spontaneous Irish numbers being rendered.

Misses Anna Lafferty and Mercede McLellan gave pleasing and humorous Irish readings. Another feature of the program was a delightful piano solo by Miss K. O'Rourke. Misses Bleck and Auger in a piano duet rendered pleasing Irish melodies.

This concluded a well balanced program and the young ladies of the "Children of Mary" are being congratulated on the excellent evenings entertainment provided. The prizes have all been won and gone, but the memory of this enjoyable Irish evening will linger on in the memories of those present last night.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

"They are both very beautiful," he says with a smile.

"That's a reason for my gaucheries in asking the question, I suppose?" replies the old lady unblushingly. "But if you had asked me I should have replied 'Elaine.'"

"I wish I had asked you," he says, "and I will tell you my name."

"She is a good girl," she remarks curtly.

"So I am told," he answers as quietly as before, but with a smile lurking about his mouth.

"Too good a girl for you to approach, now—at least, so I am told," says Blanche significantly.

"An wicked enough for my appreciation," he says.

His further, then she looks up at him.

"I won't have my little Elaine spoiled," she says simultaneously.

"Very well," he responds, still with a faint smile. "I will try and not spoil her. But how long have you been playing the part of sheep dog, Lady Dorchester?"

Never since such a wolf as you appeared in the fold," she retorts.

Elaine is asleep in Mr. Bannister, but though their places are in the centre of the room and near May—who, to her infinite joy, is the guest of honor—Elaine has a good view of the host at the supper table, and she can catch every word his voice now and again as he speaks to Lady Dorner or Lady Bannister on each side or him.

Her face looks manifestent in the soft glow of the candles which falls from the pink shades in a little of it is gold—but Elaine thinks of little else than the face to whom it all belongs, who, with no trace of a shadow of his face, plays the part of host with the perfect grace and self-possession of one who has all the world.

It is the grandest and biggest dinner party at which she and May have ever been present; the appointments of the table are superb; the footmen in rich livering perform their duties with almost noiseless precision; the room shows a gratifying amount of quality, and he finds herself saying: "No thank you," almost mechanically, as the dish after dish is offered her by the silent and not-needed servants.

Even Mr. Algernon, who deems himself quite world-worn and blase, is impressed by the splendor and tone of the room and the handsome coffee has cannot even slammer the few common places which constitute his idea of conversation. But he might as well address stone for all the attention Elaine is paying him.

She looks round the tables in search of Luigi Zanti; but he is not there. Opposite her is Lady Blanche, who has been stock, as to speak, of the musical elite and costly glass, the master pieces of art on the walls, the rich and antique furniture. She knows no better than Elaine can possibly do the value of it all; and as she looks, with just appearing to notice, a wave of covetous longing sweeps over her. All this may be hers—well, if any reliance can be placed on Fanny Ischley's assertion; if the suggestion—which is, however, scarcely an engagement yet—believes in her power, and that the marquis can be broken off and she herself can be free to play a free hand every now and then she looks across the table face opposite her critically, calculatingly. She also can find no fault in her cousin's fresh loveliness, and in the spirit and grace and radiance.

The mean Je ever si last and Lady Blanche rises, and the ladies follow her into the drawing-room.

Standing in front of the windows Elaine sees with a thrill of pleasure Luigi Zanti at the door on the far side of the room. He hears her footstep, and turns at once, and, with head and eyes, a smile upon his face.

"I was waiting and listening for you Miss Delaine," he says. "May I say how lovely you look this evening?"

"I looked for you in the dining-room," says Elaine, "and was afraid that you had gone, as I did not hear you."

"I looked for you in the dining-room," says Elaine, "and was afraid that you had gone, as I did not hear you."

"Why not you?" he comments with a shake of the head.

"No, I like music best," says Elaine, suggestively.

She conducts him to the piano where the performance of several leading airs. Then he leads her to a door opening into a conservatory. At that further and there is a door of thick glass glad and beyond that is a semi-artificial aviary. As they enter, Elaine beholds birds in all kinds and sizes flitting about in a mimic tropical forest, the flaming face lights up with a smile as she utters an exclamation of delighted surprise.

"Beautiful bird it!" he says; "it was an idea of mine, and the marquis had it carried out at once. I had to say to him at a dame ad—behold! it is fulfilled. Ah, by the way, I remember an ment!" he adds in a low voice.

"It is delightful," she says. "How I wish I knew their names!"

"Tell me what they are like," he says, "and I will tell you their names. You wonder how I can do so, do you, as seen them? The marquis spent an hour here with me the day they came, and described them. I see everything through his eyes. Do you wonder that I love him, Miss Delaine? There is no one in all the world that I love as I do him! I could tell you of things he has done, great, beautiful things, which would surprise you. There is no one like him."

Elaine's heart beats quickly, and her eyes grow moist.

"Such a man should be very happy, should he not?" he goes on after a moment.

"Yes," Elaine murmurs almost inaudibly, and looks at the floor.

Luigi Zanti shakes his head.

"Not always; there is something. No, I do not know what it is. Some thing that has happened in the past, I suppose; but he pauses a moment—"but I hope, I think, that he will see happy, that he will find some one whatever it is that has cast a shadow over his life. It will give me joy to make him happy," he adds simply, and as a matter of fact, Elaine, I must not monopolize his beloved friend."

Elaine laughs in protest.

"Pardon—he says with a smile, as he turns to her, "but I am glad that I said, I see with his eyes. You will forgive me?"

Elaine finds response impossible, and they go back to the drawing-room.

CHAPTER XV

May and her lover, Gerald Locke, are easily seated in a remote corner of the drawing-room, exchanging the soft and blissful confidences of sweethearts. He has scarcely seen the marquis but he extracted his barrister to give him a brief in an important case, and the young lawyer is in charming anticipation of his first opportunity to display his legal ability.

The major is seated on an ottoman beside Lady Blanche, and as he is the handsomest and most distinguished man in the room, he becomes quite loquacious. She is "drawing him out," so to speak, by cleverly expressed compliments of Elaine.

"She is so beautiful," says Lady Blanche, with what sounds like genuine admiration; "so unaffected. I'd no hope you will let her come to Delaine Park with me as glad to see her."

The major, forgetting that the earl has not expressed any desire to make Elaine's acquaintance, bows and smiles gracefully.

"So good of you," he says. "It will be a great treat for her. She is not out, so seldom."

"And that is such a pity," says Lady Blanche. "She is far too pretty to waste her youth as she is compelled to at Sea-field. Why, with ordinary opportunities Elaine might—" she pauses, as if of course the understanding her.

"Yes, yes," he says with a sigh. "But what can I do? You know, my dear Lady Blanche, how glad I am to speak of that. Yes, with fair play, Elaine might marry well, very well indeed. As it is," he goes on, giving his head a shake, and he looks across at Elaine with a complacent little wave, "as it is, she has had chances." He stands forward and his voice confidentially, "I think I may tell you as near a certainty that Elaine has already had an offer."

"Indeed!" says Lady Blanche, and she forces an expression of countenance interest into her face, but her eyes flash. Has the hungry expectant his offer is due form?"

Baree, Son of Kazan

—by—

James Oliver Curwood

(A Vitagraph Picture with Wolf, the War Dog, is an adaptation of this story.)

SYNOPSIS

Hidden beneath a huge rock, Baree, the untamed wolf-dog, was terrified to silence by the half-breed trapper, and Nepesse, his daughter, shoot and kill Wayakon, the Cree chief. Nepesse is daughter, but for the two hunted creatures there is one the hope in life. Nepesse went after Baree and tried to enslave him from his hiding-place. For the first time the dog knew fear, and he was the Indian princess who called him Baree.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued

In that moment Nepesse felt the pressure of the rock on her shoulder, and into the eyes that had been glowing soft as Baree there came a sudden wild look of horror. And then there came from her lips a cry that was not like any other sound. Baree had ever heard in the wilderness—wild, piercing, filled with agonized fear. Baree did not hear that first cry. But he heard the second and the third, and he listened after scream as the Willow's tender body was slowly crushed by the settling mass. He ran toward it with the speed of the wind. The cries were never—dying away. He saw Baree as he came down from under the rock and ran into the chasm, and in the same instant he saw a part of the Willow's form and her moccasined feet. The rest of her hidden under 1000 death trap. Like a maniacal Berrie Baree sprang. Never a few moments later he drew Nepesse out from the boulder she was white and deathly still. Her eyes were closed. His head could not feel that she was living, and a great moan of anguish rose out of his soul. But he knew how to fight for a life. He tore open her dress and found that she was not dead. Her heart beat feared. Then he ran for water. When he returned, the Willow's eyes were open and she was struggling for breath.

The blessed saints be praised!" sobbed Pierrot, falling on his knees at her side. "Nepesse, ma Nepesse!"

CHAPTER IX

Impelled by the wild alarm of the Willow's terrible cries and the sight of Pierrot dashing madly toward her from the dead body of Wakayon, Baree did not stop running until it seemed as though his lungs could not draw another breath. When he stopped, he was well out of the canyon and headed for the beaver pond.

Exactly wherein lay Baree's fears it would be difficult to say—but surely it was not because of Nepesse. The Willow had chased him hard. She had flung herself upon him. He had felt the clutch of her hands and the weight of her soft hair, and yet of her he was not afraid. If he stopped now and looked back, it was in his flight and looked back; it was to see Nepesse was following. He would not have run hard from her alone. Her arms and voice and hands had set something stirring in him! he was still a prisoner, a captive and a greater loneliness now—and that night he dreamed troubled dreams.

He was glad when the dawn came. He did not seek for food, but ran straight to the pond. There was little hope and anticipation in his manner now. He remembered that, as playful as animal ways could talk, Umiak and his playmates had told him they wanted nothing to do with him. And yet the fact that they were there took away from his loneliness. It was more than loneliness. The wolf in him was half merged. The dog was master.

He saw in the larger canals Baree surprised to his beaver towing a four-foot cutting of birch as thick through as a man's leg—half a dozen smaller and slimmer and supporters in that one cross. Four or five times Baree saw the beaver what might be called the bread and butter of their food supply, and always while the more highly prized barks of the birch were being stripped off in the place of meat and fish.

Baree's entire curiosity of the birch cutting after the old beaver had aloud cood it in the water, and they went on. He did not try to hide himself now, and at least half a dozen beavers had a good look at before they reached the point where the pond narrowed down to the width of a canal, and the lodge a mile from the dam. Then he wandered back. All that morning he hovered about the pond, blowing himself openly in their big mud-and-stick strongholds the heavens held a council of war. They were distinctly puzzled.

It may be that the beavers discussed the matter fully among themselves. It is probable that Umiak told the playmates of their parents of their adventures, and of how Baree made no movements to harm them, and was quite ready have caught them. It is also more than likely that the old beaver who had fled from Baree that morning gave an account of their adventures, and explaining the fact that the stranger while frightening them, had shown a disposition to attack them. All this is quite possible, for it likewise was quite a large part of a continent's history, and can perform engineering feats that nothing less than dynamite can destroy, it is only reasonable to suppose that they have some way of making one another understand.

However this may be, courageous old Beaver-tooth took it upon himself to end the suspense.

It was early in the afternoon that for the third or fourth time Baree worked out on the dam. This dam was fully two hundred feet in length. But at no point did the water run over it, the over flow finding its way through narrow breaks. Here and there it had evidently smoothly worn little hollows in which the water had taken time to accumulate. In one of these hollows Baree stretched out on the dam with his eyes on the pond. Not a ripple stirred its velvety smoothness. For an hour he took the drowsy stillness of the afternoon. The beaver colony had been dead or asleep. Not a sir they made. And yet they knew that Baree was on the dam. Where he was I am till in a warm flood, and it was so comfortable that after a time he had difficulty in keeping his eyes open to watch the pond. Then he fell asleep.

Just how Beaverton sensed this fact is not known, but it was the time to creep up quietly without a splash or a sound. Not a little family of them. For a few moments he scarcely moved in the water. Then he began to swim slowly and silent with the dam across the pond. At the other side he drew himself out upon the dam and remained for a few moments as a stone, with his eyes on that point of the dam where Baree was lying.

A few yards away Baree was almost within reach of Beaver-tooth, and the big shiny black body appearing to Baree's astonished eyes like a log. Later look, the old beaver spread his flat tail out beyond him and rose to a sit-

Internal cleanliness protects against disease

IN CONSTIPATION, say intestinal specialists, lies the primary cause of more than three-quarters of all illness, including most headaches and colds.

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted authority, but by their continued use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favor Lubrication

Medical science has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus, Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless.

Take Nujol regularly and adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. For sale by all druggists.

Heard His Parents Arranging Funeral

Boy Thought to be Dead Comes Back to Life

Madisonville (Ky.), March 18—Lying ill in bed, unable to move a muscle or utter a sound, Homer Qualls, seventeen years old, heard his mother and father there over his body and talk in low whispers of plans for his funeral. For hours the boy lay helpless, awful, knowing he was normally "came back from the grave."

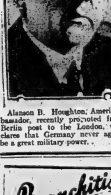

Rescue injured his skull when he fell while skating. His body was furnished, but doctors kept him alive several days with liquid food. Then one day he appeared to have died. His parents and other relatives were preparing when one of them noticed that a doctor be called for a final examination.

The doctor suddenly announced that the boy was breathing. Simultaneously the glass, and in a few hours the lad was sitting up in bed. Now he is well on the road to recovery and is able to sit in a chair in his room.

Rescue says he could hear his sorrowful parents making arrangements for his burial. He feared they would bury alive, so have, but he could not move or make a sound. The fright of his mother know he was still living. He became unconscious, just before the doctor made the final examination, it is believed.

GOOD NEWS FOR AILING WOMEN

Much has been said for and against proprietary medicines but the general impression is still interest every woman to know that in a recent contest by wide canvass of over 121,500 purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as to the results received from its use, the replies received showed that almost four out of every one hundred women had been benefited by its use. Therefore every sick and ailing woman owes it to herself to give this remarkably successful remedy a fair trial.

Best Role Yet Famed Actor Says

Conway Tearle Takes Part Of Rich Cynical Bachelor

Conway Tearle who is co-featured with Corinne Griffith in the Constance Binney production "Lilies of the Field" which is scheduled to begin a three days' engagement at the Griffith theatre on Thursday, is on record as the effect that the role of Louis Willing which he essays in this picture, is the finest ever assigned to him.

At the outset Willing is shown as a wealthy bachelor, given typical because of the fawning of designing women and grafting men. He has lost all faith in human nature, and is disgusted with the aimless life he is leading.

He determines to make a move to break away from his past associations, and on the eve of his departure leaves a large party at his fashionable apartments. Among the guests are some of the library to seek seclusion from the maddening uproar. As he crosses the threshold, he is surprised to find a girl eagerly reading his books.

Amazed and puzzled he watched her for a while, for the girl obviously was not reading such bizarre surroundings. Half an hour later Willing had found a new interest in life. He had found one of the other sex who did not try to vamp him.

The strange experiences that grew out of this meeting are fascinatingly portrayed in "Lilies of the Field," with Corinne Griffith playing the part of "the girl." The remainder of the cast includes Charles Gerrard, John Sasson, Clay Fitzgerald, Phyllis Haver, Charles Murray, Claude Gillingwater, Myrtle Stedman, Sylvia Breamer, Alma Bennett and Dorothy Brock Gish.

Mystery Scented In Auto Find

Car Found Imbedded in Mud of Welland Canal

St. Catharines, Ont., March 18—With the chassis imbedded in the muddy bottom of the Welland Canal, the body of a car bearing a license plate of the 1924 Toronto issue—No. 67358—was located by workmen walking along the bank. The find was reported to the authorities to-day and arrangements are being made to drag it from the channel. While it is possible that there may be a body in the car, the authorities do not believe that such will be found to be the case.

One night last summer some lads were swimming in the "pilocombe" on the canal near Lake street bridge, when the bridge tender, Charles Gallagher, warned them to "duck" as a steamer was coming up the canal. Such a steamer had whistled for the bridge and Gallagher's attention for the next ten minutes was directed to turning the bridge. It occurred to him that the coupe go by, but supposed it must have slipped through in the gathering darkness.

The boys thought the same. Yesterday afternoon the water was let out of the level at the point. What appears to be the top of a coupe, it is said, could be seen, as if a car was embedded in the mud. The supposition is that the coupe accidentally ran into the canal off the low bank and was caught and ground down under the steamer.

The license was issued here to Phillip Greenberg, 67 Wrona Cottage, Long Branch, for a Ford sedan. Inquiry at Lot 7 Branch this afternoon failed to locate anyone knowing the name.

Magistrate Jones, in a judgment given yesterday at Brantford, found Ioram Papadias, whose home was raided, two Canadian girls being found there guilty of keeping liquor for sale, holding that the amount of liquor and the presence of coloring matter and blood that it was not all intended for personal use. He was fined $200, with an option of six months.

Crucial Scene in Film Was Spoiled

When Four Mules Balked in "The Warrens of Virginia"

It is considered a well known fact that every good moving picture director, at certain stages of the work, has to get temperamental and raise—somebody or something. During the filming of the war scenes in "The Warrens of Virginia," the latest William Fox production, at San Antonio, Texas, Col. H. O. Van Horn of Camp Travis, had been assigned by army officials to assist Elmer Clifton in the direction of the soldiers to insure military accuracy.

An attack on a supply train was about to be staged. Col. Van Horn was with Mr. Clifton on a camera platform which happened to be built in the branches of a tree fifty feet from the ground. More than two thousand men with mule wagons and equipment were being used in the scene. All necessary orders had been given by Col. Van Horn to the various army officers directing the men. Mr. Clifton yelled "Camera" and the attack started.

Col. Van Horn began to get excited. Everything was going fine, but at the most crucial point when the hero mounted superbly on one of the post's best horses, was about to pull the stuff, four army mules refused to obey instructions and stole the scene from the hero, also spoiling the best scene.

Col. Van Horn who had the reputation of being the coolest officer at the post, when under fire, immediately lost loose. Grabbing Clifton's moustpone, he raved and ranted at those blankety blank mules until he was hoarse. He forgot that he was up in a tree fifty feet in the air and but for the prompt action of the cameraman, would have crashed over the edge, carrying Mr. Clifton with him.

"The Warrens of Virginia" will be at the Belle theatre tomorrow for an engagement of three days.

Blasting operations conducted at Chatham by members of the Ice Jam Committee in the City Council, succeeded in breaking the ice in Lake St. Clair near the mouth of the Thames River.

It is reported at London that ex-Mayor Maguire of Toronto, acting for the Famous Players' Corporation, has completed the purchase of the Grand Opera House and has the contract for the Trans-Canada Theatres, Limited.

It's Easy To Darken Your Graying Hair

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur, and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at any drug store, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

Don't worry about hair a soiled suit, we all doom to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just moisten a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

The machinery section of the engineering building at the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, was destroyed by fire yesterday morning. A short circuit in the wiring is thought to have been the cause of the outbreak. The damage is estimated at $500,000.

Hire Lord's Home As Gambling Den

Reckless Spending Brought To Light Over London

London, March 7 (By Mail)—Attention is drawn to an audacious theft, evil as the result of the conviction of the Old Bailey of a man who rented a peer's house and stole his silver.

The public may now be let into the secret of how many West-end houses of wealthy peers and Society leaders have been rented for short periods by wealthy gangs of gamblers and have been temporarily converted into luxurious gaming dens.

Shamrock of accepted social position is sent out to solicit tenancy of a reputable residence, the owner having no idea for the purpose for which it is intended to be used.

The house is filled up regardless of expense, and night after night, in a most exclusive atmosphere, play goes on for high stakes.

Ladies are barred from establishments of this kind, because they are not safe good losers as men, and because their presence might lead to trouble.

At the Old Bailey trial it was disclosed that the convicted man had lost nearly all his fortune of £20,000 by gambling. As Eton and Cambridge boy, he was now sent to prison for nine months as a common thief.

Disclosure of the gaming gang's methods resulting from the banning of quantity of silver articles belonging to Lord Queenborough, the son and heir of the Earl of Tankerville. He occupied, until this year, 20 Park Lane. Viscount Dudley's house at Independent. It Dudley's house at Independent. It was mentioned that when Lord Queenborough left his house he found Portuguese at house new playing cards about.

—Lindsay Barrowclough

The most damning evidence of all during the trial was given by Police Inspector Hollis. He stated that Thomas's magnificent was a big landowner in Wales, and left a fortune to his prisoner's father, who, in turn, left it to his son. Witness believed it was the second time Thomas had lost the greater part of it in gambling. He remembered at one time Thomas had rented Bar house demolished from the Royal Air Force, and also the hands of the professional gamblers, who, aware that he was well-known in society, let him to have in the Mayfair district, which might be used for gaming. Witness first met Thomas at Maidenhead Regatta, when he was a member of the Leander Rowing Club. Subsequently he saw him at Henley Regatta, and he also saw him at Ascot. Witness believed that Thomas was only 21 when he inherited his fortune. He first heard of a fall in the West-end, and led the police to a house near Mount Lawn, Hyde Park, where he and his friends had rented a house and stole his silver.

Windsor, Ont.—"For over six months I was ill health—was not able to do a day's work. I got very weak and lost in weight, could not eat, suffered from poor circulation, chilly all the time and had a slight cough. I doctored but still kept going down and everyone thought I was going into a decline. I finally began taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and then the use of this medicine I was completely restored to good health. I gained 15 weight, my circulation improved and I could eat. Then I went back to my work and never felt better. I have been a strong and healthy man ever since, which I owe to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."—William E. Brush, 450 Dougall Ave.

Regarding the company with which Thomas associated it is known that some of his acquaintances have been concerned in some of the biggest gaming-house ventures in the West-end. Their practice has been to put up someone of social position to secure a short-tenancy of a fashionable Mayfair house, which they have promptly turned into a gilded gaming den. A number of well-known people have been victimized in this way. The houses of several peers have been sung those which, unknown to their owners have been temporarily converted into gaming houses. No expense is spared to secure an imposing address and provide entertainment on a lavish scale, the patrons of these gambling establishments are people of wealth, accustomed to every comfort and luxury. It is the usual custom to equip such places with a well-trained staff of servants and lay in a generous stock of wines "Champers" is the game ordinarily played. Very large sums often change hands in one night, and, as the "house" takes a percentage, the profits are considerable, a number of well-to-do men and women are confirmed gamblers, and spend a great part of the year in one or the other of the Continental resorts where facilities are openly provided for playing for high stakes. In London they like to enjoy the same opportunities for satisfying their gambling instincts, and it is for reason of this that the promoters of the secret gaming-houses of Mayfair thrive.

JOHN McINTOSH PASSED AWAY THIS MORNING

Death Comes Suddenly to Respected Merchant Of Belleville

LOSS FELT KEENLY

Took Deep Interest in Life Of His Community

John McIntosh, merchant, died in the Belleville General Hospital this morning at 8.30 o'clock. Death came quickly following an attack late Sunday evening, which made a major operation necessary.

It is a community loss, this passing of John McIntosh, for the deceased received to-day by hundreds with very genuine regret. Many knew him while at Belleville and in many other centres in Eastern Ontario where his business activities have gained him friendships.

He was one of Belleville's most progressive merchants and in the interest in the welfare of the city he had rooted him deeply in the life of the municipality. Honoured in his business, sincere in religion and true in friendship, he took a place gained by few others.

Stricken Suddenly

On Sunday last, Mr. McIntosh attended service in the morning and evening and was taken to the Belleville Hospital late at night for a critical operation. Last evening the second operation was considered necessary and from this he failed to recover.

Mr. McIntosh was born in the year 1856 near Inverness, Scotland, being a son of the late Mr. John McIntosh.

In the year 1886, he came to Canada and settled at Campbellford, where he was employed for some time. Later he went to Toronto and was in the employ of John Catto Lemoh, a firm which had general stores located at Peterboro, Brockville, Perth and other places.

From this age he came to Belleville and engaged in business, being for some time in partnership with his brother, Mr. Wm. McIntosh, latterly deceased, now of Hamilton.

His business grew rapidly owing to his McIntosh's popularity, shrewd management and close attention to duties and he presently located at Coxburn, Bridge, Campbellford, Brighton and Stirling, all doing well.

Mr. McIntosh afforded the Presbyterian Church and always took a most active part in its interests.

He had a fine tenor voice which was often heard in the church services, entertainments and social gatherings. While he was connected with several fraternal orders he was especially interested in Masonry. He was a Past Master of Quinte Lodge No. 40, a former member of Quinte Priendship Chapter, a native born Irishman, a brother of the Eastern Star and a Shriner. He was a Past President of the Caledonian Society of Scotland, and a member of the Independent Order of Foresters. In all of these societies he did what was in his power for their prosperity and his passing will be deeply regretted by the members.

Widow, Children and Sister

Mr. McIntosh leaves one four daughters, survive. The sons are John, George and William of the city and the daughters are Miss Harriet, nurse in training at Toronto, Miss Ella at McDonald College, Guelph, and the Misses Jean and Alice at home, the latter a pupil of the Belleville High School. A brother Mr. Wm. McIntosh of this city and four sisters residing in Scotland, survive. The heartfelt sympathy of citizens generally will be extended to those who have been called upon to mourn the loss of a loved one.

Tributes

J. G. Herity paid the following tribute, to-day:

"The demise of Mr. John McIntosh has removed from a sphere of notable accomplishment, one of the outstanding Scotsmen of Canada of the present generation. It is remarkable success that he achieved in a striking illustration of the fact that Canada is the land of opportunity when there is courage, enterprise and natural resourcefulness to make opportunity.

"Coming to our shores as a young man with neither money nor influential friends to help, he attained to a position and carved out for himself a career in which he became as much himself as from the common rank and file to the front of our time.

"In the way of his usefulness and activity, Mr. McIntosh has been suddenly called to go down the sunset path at the zenith of his great powers. All seems so sadly premature when he was apparently at the threshold of greater undertakings and more important accomplishments.

"It was not for him to live out a long span of life, but in the comparatively few years of his mature manhood he built up a record of honourable achievement and he now goes out from among us, bearing a name and a memory that will always be associated with the highest business integrity, greatness of heart and nobility of endeavor to serve well his community, his country and his God."

His Minister, Rev. J. R. Kerr

"John McIntosh was among the number of Belleville's first citizens. He was a wonderfully successful business man. Enterprise, He loved the society of his fellow men. He was a warm hearted, genial downright, true friend of the poor, and with his family was a most regular, steadfast

TOKIO GRIPPED ONCE MORE BY GRIM TRAGEDY

Flames Have Destroyed More Than Thousand Homes

FIREMEN HELPLESS

Blaze Spreading in all Directions; Stream of Refugees

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Tokio, March 18.—Twenty thousand persons were rendered homeless and a conflagration swept north eastern Tokio to-day, destroying four thousand buildings and resulting in unestimated casualties. The fire was brought under control to-night.

Tokio, March 18.—A conflagration, which swept over northern Tokio this afternoon, fanned by gale, destroyed more than one thousand houses by 10 o'clock tonight and was spreading in all directions.

Great Confusion

Troops are on scene tearing down houses in an effort to prevent the further spread of the blaze while thousands of residents, laden with household effects are streaming towards safety.

Firemen were helpless in an attempt to check the conflagration due to the drought that has exhausted the reservoirs.

The fire started in a factory at Nappori Junction, northwestern Tokio, and was driven by a strong wind in a northerly direction towards Uyano, the larest of the suburbs, and also of the famous Imperial Museum and Zoological Gardens.

Declares Peterson Contract Unworthy

General Ross Believes People of Canada Don't Want It

Ottawa, Ont., March 18.—The report of W.T.R. Preston on the North Atlantic Trading Company did not establish that a combine existed, General A. E. Ross, Kingston, maintained in resuming the debate on the Peterson subsidy contract in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon.

General Ross made a humorous criticism of Mr. Preston, comparing him with the family cat which came home from time to time all tattered and torn and Grandmother always comforted the prodigal. The Government was the Grandmother's part in this particular instance.

The Peterson contract did not appeal to the House. It was bad in its basis and torn. Grandmother always comforted a declaration of war against the shipping companies it was an very acceptable one to many members. The preservation of the steamers would have been a more efficient method of reducing Atlantic freight rates.

Cooks Triumph At St. Andrew's

St. Patrick's Day Supper A Rare Feast Indeed

Nearly three hundred people enjoyed the hospitality of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church last night, when the old-time supper was served. The table decorations were very pretty, giving evidence that the efficient ladies' staff of Conveners and their assistants helped to make the supper the success that it was. The tables were loaded with delectable and tempting food of every description and everyone did justice of the hearty repast.

At the tables while were Rev. Mr. Cranston of Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Biggs, Mr. and Mrs. J. McKechnie, Dr. Maguire of Montreal, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. MacTavish and Col. Lazier.

It is evident that such a social event reaches the point of success gained by this St. Andrew's supper last night, and the secret of the success may be traced to the co-operation of so many cooks. For over eight hundred "Too many cooks spoil the broth" was labelled a untrue.

In fact so many ladies had a hand in providing the repast that officers of the church were reluctant to leave any of conveners published They maintained firmly that this would be exceedingly unfair to those very or more others, whose help put the cap on the climax.

Even the husbands of the best cooks in the city had to admit that the post-operative meal is the best. There was variety to meet the taste of the most fastidious and quality more than enough to satisfy the most critical.

MARQUIS CURZON REPORTED WORSE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, March 18.—A bulletin issued at 3 o'clock this afternoon by Sir Thomas of Marquis Curzon says the patient is showing signs of lung complication.

That the condition of Marquis Curzon was calling for increased anxiety was the statement in a bulletin issued this morning. Yesterday's improvement was not maintained, says the bulletin.

Boy Knocked Down By Light Truck

Jack Charlton, Aged Seven, Victim of Accident This Morning

Knocked down by a light truck on Coleman street at 11.25 o'clock this morning Jack Charlton, aged seven, who lives at 46 Hillside street, sustained painful injuries to the left side of his head. He was taken to the General Hospital in the police ambulance, where his injuries received attention, and later was taken to his home. To-day serious results are anticipated.

Bert Gill, proprietor of the Belleville team Laundry, 1 Moira street, west, was driving his truck south on the eastern street, and a standing car in front of the garage at the corner of Henry and Cole road streets, was taking on gasoline. Gill turned to the left to avoid the car but the boy, who started pursuit in his arms, darted out in front of the standard car in the path of the truck. Gill swerved to the left to avert striking the boy, and though driving at a very good rate rate of speed, his car swerved right around, the back of the car striking the boy on the left side of the head, throwing him forcibly to the ground.

P. C. William Evans happened to be in the immediate locality and witnessed the accident. After driving the truck a younger man, and officer Evans failing to find a number of witnesses called by phone, at home, called for the police ambulance. Dr. Arthur Harmon, sergeant of detectives John Trunisch hurried to the scene, and removed the boy to the hospital.

EXPLOSION ENTOMBS THIRTY-THREE MEN

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Fairmont, W.-Va., March 18—A hundred or more men, fearfully, but cautiously, pushed their way through the underground rooms of the mine where 33 men were torn today, in an effort to find 33 miners who were entombed in the pitch when an explosion wrecked the shaft.

Premier Explains Government Plan

In Regard to Peterson Contract in War on Rates

Ottawa March 18.—"What the Government purposes to do, once the estimate bill, is to tell Sir William Peterson the rate at which he is expected to carry cattle from Canadian ports to the ports of Great Britain. If he carries at that rate he will be paid to the extent provided for in the agreement. If he does not perform that service he will not be entitled to a five-cent piece. That is the whole thing in a nutshell."

Thus speaking in the House of Commons yesterday, Premier King emphatically laid down the intentions of the Government in its scheme for the control of Atlantic ocean rates.

The Prime Minister's speech came in the course of the debate on the contract between the Canadian Government and Sir William Peterson under which Sir William is to receive a bonus for five years and is to receive an annual subsidy of $75,000.

"The obligation is clear," the Prime Minister went on, referring to the contract. "It is there in black and white. What we are paying for is the right to control rates."

The Prime Minister delivered at length into explanations for reduction in ocean rates into representations made by previous Governments. Government he declared that the Government was prepared to give the Peterson company any business from Canadian ports the cp portunity of handling. Government was along lines identical with the Peterson agreement. Government had made this proposal to the president of the C. P. R. only a few months and that offer was is open at the present time," he informed the House. The condition was that the Government must control the rates.

Fishermen Pray As Season Opens

Picturesque Ceremony Carried Out at Old Port Of Havre

(Associated Press Despatch)

Le Havre, France, March 18.—Every year before the Havre fishermen set off on their long trips to Newfoundland and foundland banks, they gather together at Havre to celebrate the feast of their patron saint, Peter Gonzales, in the presence of Archbishop of Rouen, whose interest is in the commerce. The whole town turned out, and the feast of St. Peter was celebrated with flags and bunting and glittered with lights. The seafaring folk were soon up the aisles, accompanied by their wives and children. The archbishop, in picturesque Normandy attire, sang hymns and prayed by those who were to face the perils of the sea. At part of the ceremony a bluff old master seaman, who had weathered many a storm came to the rail of the choir and read the prayer for the safety of poetic language of the seafarers, to which the people responded.

All the fishing fleet in the docks was gay with flags and bunting, assembled together for the blessing of the ships by the archbishop. After the ceremony the fishermen, headed by Marcel Masselaine, the sailors cheered, and the 1925 fishing season banking season was declared open.

TELLS INTERESTING STORY OF CONGO

The Y.M.C.A.'s gymnasium was comfortably crowded last night when Dr. Malcolm Maguire, F.R.C.S. gave one of his several interesting lectures on his travels in Central Africa.

Dr. Maguire lived in Africa near the Congo River for years and was able to tell a wonderful story of conditions there. His lecture was illustrated by the use of a splendid exhibition machine and by beautiful, clear and most valuable collection of snake skins on the platform which are being used by the National Museum at Washington.

Once charmed by a buffalo in Africa which he had shot three times but not mortally, Dr. Maguire had a narrow escape and to this day he is carefully bandaged. Again a rhinoceros gored and ripped his back.

Dr. Maguire is a thrilling speaker with a powerful voice and he has the satisfaction of having a deeply interested audience intend to Christianity, and the transformation in their mode of living.

J. D. Bankier delighted his hearers with some Lee Roggs readings and at the piano. Loud and repeated applause showed the appreciation of an appreciative audience.

Rev. H. E. McKechnie introduced the speaker in glowing terms.

BOTTLERS DANCE

Under the auspices of those employed in the bottling department of the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company, Bridge street, a dance was held last night in the G.W.V.A. hall. There was a programme of dancing at present enjoyed the program of dance provided. During the evening refreshments were served.

THE WATER'S FINE

Probably the first anniversary dip of the season in the icy waters of the Bay of Quinte was enjoyed yesterday when George Drummond, physical instructor, who is employed at the Consolidated Distilleries at Corbyville, plunged into the river for his first swim of 1925.

Drummond, who bathes early and late, on account of, favours Mr. Patrick's Day as a real opening date, and last year to the day repeated the season by taking a dip in the Moira on that day.

Raney Breaks Faith With The Leaders

Had Agreed to Expedite Business; Now Delays Debate

Toronto, March 18.—A budget debate which the soldiers say is record as the most lifeless in the history of the Legislature became animated late last night and lasted until 2 a.m. A "resolution of want of confidence in the Ferguson Government, moved by W. E. Raney was the author of the motion, the substance of which he drew from the McGarry stewardship of the Provincial Treasury, and which condemned Mr. Raney for $4,000,000 awarded to the Home Bank in September, 1919, in connection with which Raney paid $57,000 in commissions.

Mr. Raney's remarks were promptly met by the fact that, while Peter Smith is serving a term of imprisonment for receiving $15,000 of this sum, the whereabouts of the remaining $42,000 has never been traced. The whole matter was a resurrection, one year after the passing of the sixth session of the last session of the House, and it prevented the House from going to a busy a budget debate which was believed by all parties to be within an hour of its close.

The deliberate manoeuvre of the Progressive Leader brought down upon him the Premier's severest criticism with respect to the closing of the debate. As Premier Ferguson explained at whereby the debate was to have been closed last evening, Mr. Raney broke it and the House thereby facilitated. In view of Mr. Raney's action there was no prospect of a vote of confidence motion after having been given a party to that agreement, Premier Ferguson stated that he could accord the Progressive leader no further courtesy in consulting his convenience in House arrangements, since his word could not be relied upon.

"If that is to be your code of procedure, I will meet you on that basis," Premier Ferguson declared, stating that the debate would proceed to-night, whether Mr. Raney did or not.

Both its position in regard to the contract with Sir William Peterson and the House thereby facilitated. CONSERVATIVES OPENING ROOMS FRIDAY EVENING

Large Attendance is Expected to Mark the Occasion

MAKE HAPPY CHOICE

Hon. George Black, M.P., Will Be Speaker of Evening

Major R. D. Ponton, president of the Conservative Association, received a telegram to-day from Ottawa advising that Capt. George Black, M.P. for the House of Commons for the Yukon, has accepted the invitation of the Men's Conservative Association of his city to address the Conservatives on Friday evening next, March 20th, and open the new Club Rooms of the Conservative Association here.

It is expected that there will be a very large attendance of men to hear this interesting speaker.

The new club rooms in the Robertson Block are being prettily decorated and placed in a first class condition, and should be a very desirable meeting place.

Hon. George Black was born at Woodstock N.B. and after passing High School, studied Law, he went to the Yukon in 1896, and since 1919 has been Commissioner of the Yukon. He is leader of the Conservative party in territorial council.

During the world war, Hon. George Black successfully organized the Yukon Regiment, which left in 1915, and proceeded overseas in command of the Commissioner's Own. He was in command of the Yukon Machine Gun company. Colonel Black relinquished command as Commissioner and its annual consideration of $12,000 and accepted to enlist with his regiment for service in France.

Hon. George Black's son is also a Captain in the Princess Patricias Regiment and has been awarded the Military Cross in France during the war.

WOMAN SENTENCED YEAR IN MERCER

The Richmond Penitentiary woman, who has been in the Shelter here for some time, was brought up for further sentence on a serious charge, appearing before Magistrate Masson this morning in police court and was sentenced to another year at the Mercer Reformatory at Toronto.

Her former sentence, dated 27, who was charged with a serious criminal offence under the Juvenile Act, was suspended and her two children will now be made wards of the Children's Aid Society. The charge in the case who was similarly charged, was dealt with by Magistrate Masson and Mrs. Her husband is Wing. Inspector T. Stanton of the R. C. M. P. laid the charge.

THE WEATHER

DAY OF QUIET'S LEADING NEWS PAPER, BELLEVILLE

A Crusade To Banish Sleep

SOME time ago a surgeon of Futuristic washed at Milan, Italy.

According to a newspaper account a prominent Italian representative declared the quintessence of fetishism to be movement and life. Real progressives, he said, must fight against everything which constitutes rest. He further declared that a sleepless life is the only really joyful one.

At any rate I have heard the voice of the man who valued his life so much he wouldn't waste any of it in sleep and so lost it entirely.

He was always held up to me as the prime idiot, spelled with a capital I.

But no matter how wild or impossible an idea is, along comes someone without the saving grace of a sense of humor and seriously advocates it!

So now we have a crusade in behalf of sleep.

Sleep is a law nature passed a long, long time ago.

Not only are we so constituted as to need sleep, but we need enough of it.

As Maude Royden, that dynamic Englishwoman, says, a man who jumps off a cliff does not break the law of gravitation; he only demonstrates it. Thousands who think they are breaking the law of sleep are only demonstrating its.

The man who keeps giving his body less and less sleep will find himself in the position of the man who decided to train his horse to live on nothing by gradually cutting down on the daily ration.

He had only one more day to go before the horse would be living on nothing when something happened that upset the plan. The horse died.

Henry Ford says a car doesn't wear out until a part wears. Neither does a man wear out until a part wears out. In this day of drive and hurry and rush the part that wears out first is usually the nerves.

Sleep is more necessary to the nerves than to any other part of the body. It fills the batteries for the next day's call.

A president of the United States once said that he took a step involving the whole country, which he probably would not have taken under other conditions, because he was wrought up and made nervously tense by loss of sleep.

How many times have big business deals been lost because a man was "off edge" from loss of sleep!

There are few things that will make a man "touchy", quick-tempered, ugly and hard-to-get-along-with, as soon as not getting enough sleep.

Lack of sleep does to your body what putting carbon in the cylinders and soot in the spark-plugs does to a motor car.

When you feel yourself missing, give nature a chance. Start getting more sleep.

Dutchy's Diary

Graft

We have received news of more graft. Despatches from Tyrnopol tell of a shortage of some thousandy which has been revealed by audit in the Provincial Sec retary's department. The Inspector of Prisons has been arrested on a charge of theft.

The is but another and chapter to add to a series of revelations in which Peter Smith, Clarence Settell, Charles Matthews, House Back directors, some Bank Clerks, civic officials and many others have taken leading roles.

Yet but an insignificant part of the whole story is told. Graft is being carried out throughout the country by men deeds who may never be caught. There seems to be an epidemic fir which the richest and the poorest are stricken.

Discussing the situation with a Belleville man yesterday, he told me of one experience he had himself which is typical of what is going on in ordinary business life to-day.

This man was sent to a large Canadian city by his firm to chose machinery for the plant. He planned a visit to three firms, in order to recommend to the directors at home the best buy in the market.

Arriving at the first plant he was most courteously received. A salesman showing him his products and then casually mentioned that there was fifty dollars in the deal for the Belleville man if he were to recommend the firm's machinery.

That is one form of graft, that is fairly common. But one which is often open to municipal employees whose duty it is to recommend equipment."

Newspaper men are often approached with money to have names out of a news story or to write up a story that will benefit parties interested.

Not long ago a father came to the office of The Intelligencer. His little daughter perfectly innocent had been the victim of a scoundrel who was brought to court. This father wanted the name of the child protected and even after he was assured that in the ordinary course of events, the newspaper would not mention the girl's name he pulled out a roll of bills and asked,

"How much?"

So it goes. The blight has spread so that many people are beginning to take graft or a rake-off as a matter of course. The newspaper boy collects fifty cents from the firm for a taxi-cab, makes the journey on foot, and pockets the money for himself. Older employees, who should know better, go out on the road and pad their expense accounts.

G. W. Gordon, ejected at the Kiwanis Club yesterday, put his finger on the disease when he stated that the best men would needs a return to conditions where a man's word was as good as his bond.

To-day's Smile

Eventide was wrapping the country-side in a mantle of peaceful delight. The boy stood on the bridge and the sweet smile upon his young face was a beautiful thing to behold. Beyond the brow of the hill a dull red glow suffused the sky.

"Ah, little man," remarked the stranger, who was rather near-sighted, "it does my heart good to see you appreciate you beautiful effect!"

"Yes, sir," replied the lad. "I've been watching it for ten minutes."

"And your pure-bred nature, without doubt!" continued the stranger.

"Beyond the brow of the hill a dull red glow suffused the sky.

"Sunset? Why that's the village school burning down!"

RACING NEWS BY RADIO

(Hamilton Herald)

The chief difficulty in preventing the transmission of racing news by radio will come from broadcast stations in the United States. How can this be prevented? American broadcasters will not be amenable to Canadian law, and cannot be prevented from divulging hours, if they want to, sending out the sort of racing news that gamblers desire. How will it be easy to prevent the owners of radio sets from listening in and receiving this information. Pretty soon, part of the necessary equipment of a bank or book man, and also of everyone who is a habitual patron of the bandbook path, will be a radio set.

NEW STANDARDS

For centuries, the human race has paid homage to Venus and Adonis as the embodiment of female and male physical perfection.

Now they have their critics. In plain, twentieth century slang, "them is out." Americans of the future, says Dr. Harry L. Reichard, Cleveland's health commissioner will be "taller thinner and healthier."

Venus de Milo and Old Man Adonis says he, are "too fat."

There reasons for the development of a new race, as Dr. Rockwood sees it, Fashion, diet and exercise. "Growing popularity of sports," he declares is having its effect on the nearly figure."

The Call of Spring

Nature, answering the ardent wooing of spring sunshine, is preparing to array herself in that many-hued garment of fresh leaf and flower that is the wonder of all creation. From the drab chrysalis of its winter home will soon burst in all its oft-repeated glory that colorful garment which is the despair of the artist, the song of the poet, the unsolved mystery of the ages. It is the bridal robe of spring, fashioned in the workshop of the Almighty. It is the symbol of resurrected life, the call to higher ideals; the promise of an even more magnificent celestial grandeur. It is a rhapsody in color that bids us sing of love, of peace, of the joy of living.

And human kind, for whose benefit this wondrous pageant is unfolded, tries to respond in his weekly imitative way by worrying about a new spring coat or an Easter hat!

It must have been at this particular season of the year that the Psalmist Psalmist asked: "Oh Lord, what is man that Thou are mindful of him, or the son of man that Thou visitest him?"

Government Expenditure

The Government has decided to disclose the actual figures. The February statement issued by the Department of Finance shows that during the eleven months ending February 28th there was a decrease of $44,970,087 in the revenue, as compared with that for the corresponding months last year. The decrease in February alone, which is a short month, was actually $4,250,061.

At this rate the total decrease in revenue for the whole of the fiscal year will run about $50,000,000. Did anyone the Government does not intend to admit this. No wonder it is trying its best to get the Budget blown before the close of the fiscal year at the 31st of March.

A decrease of $50,000,000 in revenue would not be a misfortune, if there were a corresponding decrease in expenditure. But there has not been. Indeed, the total expenditure during the eleven months was $1,858,197 higher than during the corresponding months of last year. While there has been a slight decrease in ordinary expenditure, this has been more than offset by an increase on capital account.

The result is that a yawning deficit confronts the country. No wonder that the King Government does not want to face the music. Hence all the hems and some kind of a statement not before the fiscal year closes.

It is a long time since there has been such desperate manoeuvering to hide the realities of the financial situation. Of the number of ways that has been the practice to include the costs for the Canadian National Railways in the main estimates. But this year in order to leave the impression that expenditure was being cut the Railway vote was left out of the first lot of estimates given to the press. Then followed the railway estimates of $60,000,000.

The Government has thus given the public the impression that all the railways got last year was $65,000,000, but a few days ago along came a supplementary estimate for them to the extent of $7,500,000. This shows that instead of the railways spending $65,000,000 last year, as had been supposed, they actually spent $65,500,000. The purpose of handing out this information piece-meal undoubtedly was to let the public down easy.

Confronted by a reduced revenue of $50,000,000, and with no reduction in expenditure one would naturally think that in its provision for the coming fiscal year the Government would prune down expenditure with a vengeance. But it has not done so. It is now known that by the time all the expenditure authorized is provided for, it will probably exceed $425,000,000 for the coming year.

Oshawa Council Peeved By Press

Aldermen Dislike Advance Information Being Published Unofficially

Oshawa, March 18.—Local press cause for considerable discussion at the Council session, the members feeling that many matters were given unofficially and some items should be raised to catch interviewers with civic business mentioned by Council.

This was the outcome of an article, appearing in a local paper yesterday, regarding the monthly resignation of City Engineer W. C. Smith last night.

The press attended although the meeting did not start in committee as the chairman intended. Ald. Smith was taking those steps and felt that the members should be more careful in their approaches to the press, especially as Mr. Smith strongly denied his intention of resigning.

The matter of publishing the pro posed mill rate also came up before the members. Aldermen G. T. Morris claiming that there was a "leak" of information somewhere and he felt the person who talked to the Council "When a paper gets this information it should at least quote its authority and it is a wrong procedure to have matters circulated before the Council discussed them."

FACTORY WHISTLE DROWNING CHIMES

Mr. D. Oldaway, a visitor to Oshawa during the past week offered a suggestion to the Council which was discussed at Monday's meeting and referred to the Board of Managers or the wardens of the English church. Mr. Oldaway states that the chimes in the church are indeed beautiful and he thoroughly enjoyed their tuneful melodies but the terrific din set up by the factory whistles blowing at noon drowned out the hymns played by the chimes. He suggested that the program of the chimes be started at 12.15 o'clock instead of the noon hour.

CHURCH BILLS WAIT OUTSIDE SETTLEMENT

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, March 18.—Owing to the possibility of an agreement being reached by church unionists and anti-unionists, the issue involved in the two bills now before legislature, the private bills committee will not on yesterday morning to consider the bills adjourned until to-day.

When the committee assembled, Hon. W. F. Nickle, chairman of private bills committee, stated that the church group had been in conference until eleven o'clock but as yet no definite conference were on a verge of being dissolved.

He suggested that another day be allowed which to continue the conference, aiming at settlement and committee acted on suggestion.

ONE BUSY WEEK

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, March 18.—This week promises to be the busiest of the Legislature session. To-morrow morning the Church Union battle starts before the Private Bills Committee. It will run for two days at least and probably longer. Tuesday's debate on the throne will be completed with three leaders speaking. On Thursday it is expected that the Sale bill and other Ontario Temperance Act amendments proposed by the Government will be brought down. Redistribution Bill is not expected until later. Whether House adjourns before Easter will depend upon the debate on the beer bill and terms of redistribution bill.

Has Made $35,000 In Two Years Time

Remarkable Performance By Prisoner in Jail at Baltimore

Baltimore, March 18—The case of a man who has made $35,000 in two years, although he is in prison, has come to light here. The authorities are investigating the man's business although prison officials declare that the enterprise has their approval. The prisoner, in question is Burton J. Morgan, who has nearly completed a five-year sentence for larceny and false pretense.

Morgan conducts a mailing list business, maintaining an office which he directs from his prison cell. He has a number of employes in the office and a few in the prison, and his business is said to be thriving. He keeps hard at work all the time.

Col. Eli B. Sweeney, warden of the prison, says that Morgan is a model prisoner and confident that his business along perfectly legal lines. Col. Sweeney is glad to see a prisoner in his charge prepare himself for liberty, he said.

Morgan, in addition to building up a good business, has settled cases for which two detainers were lodged against him at the prison. These cases were in Toledo, O., and Toronto, Canada. He has made restitution in both cases, and prosecution has been dropped.

Unionists And Antis Failed To Agree

Differ Over, Disposition of Knox College According To Report

Toronto, March 18—Conferences between the opposing sides in the Church Union controversy beginning in the morning at the Parliament Buildings and ending in the evening at the same place, failed yesterday to result in any agreement being reached. Failure to settle the issue as it is at present constituted by negotiations was, accordingly recorded, and the matter will now have o be fought out, commencing this morning before the Private Bills Committee of the Ontario Legislature.

While parties to yesterday's conferences were sworn to secrecy, it is understood that the Anti-Unionist proposal that Knox be given Osgoode Hall and $500,000 in endowments was not acceptable to the Unionists. The whole vexed question of the apportionment of the denominational properties therefore, comes as a thing of contention for the Legislature to decide.

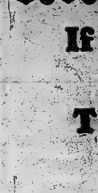

Both bills unionist and anti-unionist, were taken before the Private Bills Committee yesterday morning. When the committee assembled, however, Hon. W. F. Nickle, its chairman, stated that, in accordance with the wishes of W. S. Haney, M.P., P. for West Lambton the contending parties were endeavoring to agree by amicable negotiations. The committee sitting was accordingly adjourned to permit of conferences being held.

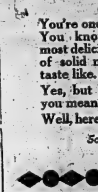

During the afternoon and evening, the opposing anti-unionist parties conferred together in the reception room of the Parliament Buildings, breaking up at noon in order that they might, during the afternoon, in reporting back to their constituents.

AURA LEE VICTORS BY LARGE MARGIN

Toronto, March 18.—Aura Lee celebrated St. Patrick's Day in an auspicious manner, advancing to the finals for the Canadian junior championship by an 8 to 1 victory over Sons of Ireland, champions of Quebec, in a sudden-death game at the Arena last night. The Ontario champions were better in every department of the game and easily proved that the junior hockey in the province does not compare to the brand played in the O.H.A. The trishmen were the early favorites, circulated from the opening bell, never gave up hope and fought every minute of the game in an effort to hold the speedy, clever Aura Lee machine. The Sons of Ireland is the best team to represent Quebec in some time and are practically all of the same boys have two or three more years in junior hockey, they have hopes for a championship in a year or so.

Boys Are Warned Allowed To Go

Pair Charged With Disorderly Conduct in Police Court

Magistrate Masson heard evidence in two unusual cases in police court this morning—unusual because they are not so numerous as they used to be in "the old days". One youth was charged with being disorderly and the other with using obscene language to a police officer, but both were allowed to go with a warning tonight the magistrate believed them to be guilty. Both pleaded not guilty to the charges.

Last Sunday morning at 4.05 o'clock while P.C. William Evans was walking home from duty, he told, seeing and hearing these two young men act in a disorderly manner at the corner of Victoria avenue and Front street. They were swearing, he testified to-day, and shouting at the top of their voices. The officer stepped into a door-way and waited, just south of the footbridge gangway. The four separated, two walking south on the east side of Front and the other two on the west side. When the pair on the west side came opposite the officer, he asked "what was the matter?" "Nothing" answered one, and they walked down towards the foot bridge. Then the officer says he heard voices from the gangway use filthy language towards him. Chief Kidd and the whole police department. Evans dropped his hunch and gave chase, but the boys outdistanced him and escaped. Sunday afternoon, he recognized one of the pair on the street and stopped him, but he did not divulge the name of his companion.

On the stand today the accused told of rejoining from a friend's house which he had left at 2 a.m. When they met the corner of Francis street and Victoria avenue a stranger young man approached him, said "good morning" and asked for a match. He obliged, and the stranger, questioned he and the other two chaps who had joined them while they talked, to Front street on Victoria avenue admitted that the four were talking loudly and that one or two were swearing a bit, as boys do sometimes. They separated at the corner because they did not all go the same way, he going towards the footbridge and the stranger following him. He admitted having heard the officer ask "What is the matter boys?" and of answering "nothing". As they came opposite the up bridge Constable Clubb, walking near the footbridge, accosted him this stranger friend asked "who that officer was who spoke to him," and when he answered "Evans, the cop" the stranger shouted the language alleged by the officer, which was highly insulting. Accused did not remember hearing any one said about Chief Kidd by his companion, however. When the officer heard the language he ran towards the pair who took to their heels, the chase leading up Catharine and over Octavia street.

Court Is Irritated

"I believe I will fine you $25 or six months," exclaimed the magistrate "Why shouldn't I?"

"I chose to believe the officer's word rather than yours, and the language used is not fit to be used by men, with young observers present for having used it."

Magistrate Masson felt that if His Worship felt that the boy was guilty he should impose some fine and teach him a lesson, and also regretted he had made a serious mistake in giving his evidence.

"Because I choose to believe the officer's story does not necessarily mean that he has committed perjury," explained the bench.

Chief Kidd did not wish to see the boy severely punished as he swore steadily, and in his opinion was not in a bad way otherwise.

SENTENCED AT ST. CATHARINES

The London police are searching for George Franks, a young negro who was arrested Sunday night for trespassing on the Canadian National and who was released Monday on his promise to behave town immediately. Two men who saw him a few hours after his release, claim to have identified him as the man who robbed into the home of Mrs. A. Henderson, 96 Kenton St., and a little child, only answered the door and stole a purse containing $9.

COULDN'T GET ALONG WITHOUT THE MEN

(Associated Press Despatch)

Berlin, March 18—This year's ball of Berlin's women artists, marked an important departure from a tradition of 20 years. While formerly it was a feature occasion for women only, the men made was the year not only invited, but fairly wooed.

The two thousand women artists of the German capital started out in 1905 to arrange an annual costume party, they hit upon the novel idea of limiting it to members of the fair sex. This meant that the women who filled the galleries dressed as men and as such became the favorite partners for their sisters. The ball enjoyed great popularity among the suffragettes, who passed out that women were not nonchalant to well wonderful until some male dancer asked them to have a turn on the floor, but anybody in female attire could join blushingly ask anybody in made garb to dance.

But when the ball was revived for the first time after the war's year ago, it was found that the modern woman no longer cares to come to a ball of masters. Therefore it was decided to invite men this year.

CAN SHOOT PIGS IF HE WANTS TO

Stratford, Ont., March 18—For the first time in at least three will be developments in the now famous Uniform Shooting Case of Wingham Resd. of Goderich, the law cannot protect animal shot by anybody, who it is stated, at the request of Mrs. Annie Hamilton, 86, and reminded the sick pigs as a sacrificial offering in thanksgiving for the recovery of his sister child-birth. There is no law that pigs may not be shot, except when his pigs if he so desires for they are his personal property."

Mrs. Jane Reynolds, the woman who inspected the carcasses in the hospital testing of the Goderich tal, adjudged insane. She will be held there until a medical board from Toronto is able to go to institution at either London or Hamilton. The necessary papers are now being made out in Toronto.

MAY BE DIAMONDS

Hamilton, March 18—Prof. Dover is sure over the discovery of a meteorite, found by A. E. Davies, of Simcoe, in a field, 100 miles west of Hamilton. In the meteorite displayed a brilliancy which local geologists cannot explain. Local scientists believe the sparkles of the diamond fumite, and yesterday Professor Dover and local scientists proceeded to the scene of the discovery.

Miss Tarlowitz, winner of the first prize, was also awarded a beauty prize in Poland about six years ago.

INDOOR BALL LEAGUE LOOKS INTERESTING; NIAGARA FALLS OUT; CANADIENS HAPPY

Strong Line-up Seen All Around

For New Indoor League Starting Here on Friday

The new Indoor League schedule, which opens Friday night at the Armories should present some real entertainment for the local followers of the sport.

Port Arthur will have most of their outdoor ball team, while the Hot Points will be represented by a number of the Intermediate ball team or aspirants for this year's team. The Christian National should get out a snappy team and they have always been well up in this game. Ulico can be counted on to turn out a fighting aggregation while the Wolves of the North of hockey fame as well as their rivals, the Rooters, will have line-ups which will be in there all the time. The Atlantic claim a good team while the Maitland Cariboo must have something under cover when they were so anxious to step into the league.

Fans should get behind this sport as it is a real game to watch as well as play.

Varsity Will Go West For Cup

Defeat Niagara Falls Team 9-2 on the Round

Niagara Falls Ont., March 18.—Toronto Varsity will go west to play Port Arthur or Coleman Tigers in the final series for the Allan Cup, emblematic of the Canadian senior hockey championship, and won last year by the Soo Grey Shirts. The Collegians qualified for the final by defeating the Niagara Falls senior O. H. A. champions here last night, 3-1 and winning the round, 9-2. The last game to decide the Eastern Canadian championships was a fast, well played and strenuous exhibition that had the 4,500 fans continually on their feet cheering the locals' initial efforts to win the round and when they drew through not 4% that hoped they would at least win the game.

The Falls entered the game facing an almost impossible task of overcoming the five-goal lead secured by U. of T. in Toronto on Saturday night, and although they threw everything they had into the play their efforts were unavailing. But Varsity was not a two-goal better team to-night but, taking advantage of the Falls forcing the play and consistently having four players up on the attack, the Blue and White managed to slam in three goals, the second accured when Siebert and Kitchen were serving penalties.

A Sportsmanlike Finish

Beaten on the round by a better team the Falls took their defeat like true sportsmen, and Gene Fraser, who played himself out in his anxiety to win, was carried off the ice by the Varsity players, showing the fine spirit between the winning and losing teams. Then Fraser called for three cheers for the visitors, the fans giving it with a will and the unpleasantness caused by the throwing of pop bottles near the close was entirely forgotten.

Niagara Falls played too much hockey this winter and showed it in this game, but they this should not take any credit from Varsity who showed championship form in both games and deserved their victory. Congratulations must go to Connie Smythe who built up the Allan Cup finalists after losing Day, Grey, Wright and Somerville. Varsity should make a splendid showing in the Allan Cup finals in Winnipeg next week. It is doubtful if a team ever played better defensive hockey than Varsity did last night. They went on the ice with instructions to defend their lead but to win the game if possible. They did both. Ross Taylor and Jack Porter, the Varsity defence pair, were almost invincible, giving Joe Sullivan splendid protection, and all three were helped by their fast back-checking forwards hanging to the Phils' rock-carriers, so closely that the majority of shots directed at the Varsity net backed storm and direction. While on the attack the Blue and White, when they seemed an opening, broke very fast, always being dangerous when they made a charge on the opposing goal.

Butch Kelterborn was back at left wing after his illness and played the 60 minutes. He had more speed than any player on either team and gave a wonderful exhibition of stick-handling, breaking through for shots, but was unable to beat Sullivan.

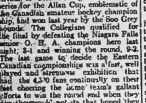

U. of T.— Goal, Sullivan; defence, Taylor and Porter; centre, Phelan; wings, Hudson and Kirkpatrick; subs., Richards and Chouther.

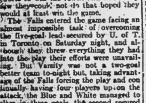

Niagara Falls—Goal, Mayo; defence, Kitchen and Fraser; centre, Rice; wings Herrington and Kelterborn; subs, Siebert and Molson.

Referee—Lou Marsh, Toronto.

NOTICE, BOWLERS

Instead of running another ladies league and men's senior we are going to have a mixed league. All those desirous of entering have names in early so teams can be drawn up. Any one can join this league, for further particulars enquire at Recreation Alleys. 18-3d

Canadiens Lost Staleness on Trip

Have Interesting Time on Train in Journey Westward

(Special to the "Intelligencer")

Winnipeg, Man., March 18.— Jazz and a general forgetfulness of everything pertaining to hockey has taken the edge off the Canadiens. All signs of staleness from the long season's grind have disappeared after the first 2,000 miles of their luxurious journey across Canada, Manager Leo Dandurand expresses great satisfaction with superb condition of his boys.

The boys arrived in Winnipeg at 8.23 Tuesday night, aboard their private Canadian Pacific railway car. After a day of fun across Northern Ontario, for the train sped through the main bush country towards the plains, the interior of their car resembled a modern cabaret more than the abode of a team of champion athletes. Perched on a table at one end of their car, a phonograph issued away with "Dardle Doo Dah"; "Inefficient Sweetie," and a hundred other razzy melodies, which were strangely incongruous to the wild scenery outside the train windows. Checkers, planked by experts, added pleasantly to the fun atmosphere. Mild poker games flourished here and there, and bridge was the source of diversion for the lady members of the party.

When the boys climbed off the train at Winnipeg, where they were met by a large group of admirers, they were declared to be the best behaved group of athletes who ever invaded the west. Their popularity outrivalled that of the recent visit of the All-Blacks. During the three hour stop over the Canadiens took advantage of their first opportunity to stretch their legs by touring the business portion of the city on foot.

SPORT NOTES

Watch the Intermediate Baseball outfit this year. When a team starts to get into condition at this time of the year you can depend on it, there are brains behind the organization, and that if there be any real talent in the line-up its going to show itself.

That indoor ball league looks mighty interesting. There are enough teams to make things interesting and the players signed up look good on paper anyway. The synopsies from will give lots of room for the play.

The early bird gets the worm as far as O. H. A. situation is concerned. Stratford Bandon, Niagara Falls are picking next years team already.

According to the Belleville scribes, the champions of the O.H.R.A. will be there this year. It's about time the old timers in Belleville started to crack as did the hockeysts—Kingston Stand ard. Fortunately, the kind of cracks made by the Belleville ball players are good for two or three bases.

GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS

Wash Poison From Kidneys

Drink Water All Day Long and Take Salts if Your Back Hurts

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from acidity, says a noted authority. The kidneys help filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning smarting sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Begin drinking lots of soft water, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast. Continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by acid irritation. Jad Salts causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which may quickly relieves your bladder irritation. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least once a year.

Mrs. T. MacDonald and Miss Rita MacDonald, Wicklow St., are visiting today for Kingston, where they will visit relatives.

The Fraser Music Club was entertained on Monday evening at the home of Miss Wylda Palmer, Albert Street. An excellent programme of English music was given. Several members of the Club were in Toronto last week attending the Mendelssohn choir concerts and gave interesting accounts of the great chorus.

The Bridge Street Methodist Ladies' Aid held a second-hand tea yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. Salman 154 Bridge St. Mrs. Harnes and Mrs. Salman were the convenors. Mrs. T. Ketchesen and Mrs. Haines poured tea, and Mrs. Claude Wallace, Miss Alice and Miss Helen Salman assisted in the dining room. The tables looked very pretty with their St. Patrick's decorations. Mrs. McKinnon sang a solo which was greatly appreciated.

Mrs. A. B. Colkins was hostess at a tea and sale of home cooking in the home day afternoon from 2 to 7, at her home on George street. Thogh a rainy day a crowd present and the proceeds were satisfactory. Mrs. J. F. Dolan received with Mrs. Colkins.

Mrs. Lafferty and Mrs. Holland were in charge of the home-cooking table. Mrs. F. S. Anderson and Miss Vondergrift poured tea.

A fine programme in charge of Miss Bawden was presented, consisting of a solo by Mrs. Joe Manley, accompanied by Mrs. Grant, a piano selection by Miss O'Reilly and a song by Miss Bawden. Mr. C. Dolan gave a reading of a man of the world.

It is the greatest and bizzest dinner party at which she and May have ever been present, the appointments of the table are superb; the fashion in rich Berlin perfects their mistress. Ions with almost noiseless precision the menu seems a gastronomical encyclopedia and he finds himself saying: "no, thank you," almost mechanically, as dish after dish is offered by the quiet silent and soft-suited servants.

Even Mr. Algernon, who deems himself quite world-worn and blase, is impressed by the splendor and taste of the room and the meal, and for a time content even stammer the few commonplaces which constitute his idea of conversation. But he might as well remain silent for all the attention Elsie pays to anything.

She looks round the table in search of Leigi Zastl; but he is not there. Opposite her is Lady Blanche, who has taken stock, so to speak, of the master plate and quietly plans the exact places of art on the walls, the rich and antique furniture. She knows far better than Elaine can possibly do the value of it all; and as she looks, with out appearing to notice, a wave of covetous longing sweeps over her. All that may be hers if—well, if any reliance can be placed on Fanny Lackley's assertions; if the engagement—which is, however, strongly denied—should ever be —between this cousin of hers and Lord Ingleby is broken off, and she thinks Blanche, is left to play a free hand for now and then she looks across at the fair opposite her curiously, but she can find no flaw in her cousin's female loveliness, only her heart grows harder and colder.

The men sit by her at last and Lady Scott rises, and the ladies follow her into the drawing-room.

Standing by one of the windows Elaine sees with a thrill of pleasure Leigi Zastl, and she goes up to him at once, and he, with a low bow, returns with outstretched hand and a smile upon his face.

"I was waiting and listening for you to play to me," he says. "May I say how glad I am that you are here?"

He looked for you in the dining room," she replies, "and when he says he provides the marquis. It has been a terrible disappointment, has it not?" and he smiles.

"Very," assents Elaine, laughing.

"It is strange how fond Englishmen are of sailing."

"I'm grateful to you for not saying Englishwomen," says Elaine, "though I think some of us are as fond of it as the gentlemen."

"But not you!" he comments with a shake of the head.

"No, I like music best," says Elaine suggestively.

He conducts him to the piano where he performs several inspiring airs. Then he leads her to a door opening into a conservatory. At the farthest end there is a door of white glass and beyond there is a magnificent aviary. As they enter, Zastl beholds birds of all kinds and sizes flying about in a subtle imprisonment. The Italian's face lights up with a smile as she utters an exclamation of delighted surprise.

"Beautiful bird!" he says. "It was an idea of mine, and the marquis has it carried out at once. One has only to hint at a desire and—presto!—it is fulfilled. He is the most generous of men!" he adds in a low voice.

"It is delightful," she says. "How I wish I knew their names!"

"Tell me what they are like," he says, "and I will tell you their names. You wonder how I can do so, not having seen them? The marquis spent an hour here with me the day they came, and described them. I too everything brough his eyes. Do you wonder that I love him, Miss Dolette?" There is no one in all the world like to him, no one! I could tell you of things he has done, of unselfish things which would surprise you. There is no one like him!"

Elaine's heart beats quickly, and her eyes grow moist.

"Such a man should be very happy, should he not?" he goes on after a moment.

"Yes," Elaine murmurs almost inaudibly. "And—he is, is he not?"

Leigi Zastl shakes his head.

"Not always; there is something—I do not know what—I can see from the hint that has happened to him in the past; but—he—passes a sorrowful life. I hope, I think, that he will be happy, that he will learn to forget whatever it is that can so sadden and sorrow his life. I would give my life to make him happy," he adds simply, and as a matter of course. "But, come, I must not monopolize his time."

Elaine laughs in protest.

"Monopolize!" he repeats with a smile. "It is what he called you; and as I said, I see with his eyes. Is it not a terrible word?"

Elaine finds response impossible, and they go back to the drawing-room.

CHAPTER XV.

May and her lover, Gerald Locke, are coolly perched in a remote corner of the drawing-room, exchanging the delightful confidences of lovers-at-arms. He has learned that the marquis has invented his barrister to Elaine in brief is an important cause, and the lady after this is offered her choice of the opportunity to display his legal ability.

The major is seated on an ottoman between the two couples, and is all flushed with excitement and champagne, he, too, becomes aware of the clock. She is "drawing him out," so to speak, by cleverly expressed compliments of Elaine.

"She is so beautiful," says Lady Blanche, with that touch of envy so sacrus and constantly admiration, "I do hope you will let her come to Delaney Pats will be so glad to see her."

The major "compliments" the earl has not yet expressed any desire to make Elaine's acquaintance, but he smiles graciously.

"So good of you," he says. "It will be a great treat for her. She goes out so seldom."

"And that is such a pity," says Lady Blanche. "She is far too pretty to be known her sweetness on the desert air of Barefield. Why, with ordinary opportunities she might—" She pauses, stops, but of course he understands her.

"Yes, yes," he says with a sigh. "But what can I do? You know, dear Blanche, how poor—but we won't talk of that. Yes, with her beauty Elaine might marry well, very well indeed. As it is," he goes on with a quiet white handkerchief a complacent little wave, "all it is, she has had chances." He bends forward and drops his voice impressively. "I think I may tell you, so near a relation, that Elaine has already had an offer."

"Indeed!" says Lady Blanche, and she favors an expression of curiosity interest into her face. She is disappointed. Has the marquis repeated his offer to Elaine?

Baree, Son of Kazan

by

James Oliver Curwood

(A Vitagraph Picture Story with Wolf, the War Dog, is an adaptation of this story.)

SYNOPSIS

Hidden beneath a huge rock, Baree, the young wolf-dog, terrified by her Pierrot, the half-breed trapper, and Nepeese, his daughter, about which Pierrot builds the fatal fire. That was slaughter, but for the two human creatures it was the beginning of life. Nepeese went after Baree and tried to entice her from her hiding-place, for the first time the dog had a name. It was the Indian princess who called him Baree.

CHAPTER VIII—Continued

In that moment Baree saw the pressure of the rock on her shoulder, and into the eyes that had been glowing with joy at Baree there shot a terrible wild look of horror. And then there came from her a cry that was unlike any other sound Baree had ever heard in the wilderness—wild, appealing, filled with agonized fear. Pierrot did not hear that first cry. But he heard the second and the third—and then scream after scream as the Indian's tensile body was slowly crushed under the settling mass. He was toward it with the speed of the wind. The cries were weaker—dying away. He saw Baree as he came up from under the rock and into the chasm, and in the same instant he sang a part of the Willow's song and her moccasined feet. The rest of her hidden under the death slide. Like a madman Pierrot began digging. When a few moments later he drew Nepeese out from under the boulder she was already dead. Silently still. Her eyes were closed. His hand could not feel that she was living, and a great moan of anguish rose out of his soul. But he knew how to fight for a life. He tore open her dress and found that she was not crushed as he had feared. Then as the truth of it entered his mind the Willow's eyes were open and she was gasping for breath.

"The blessed saints be praised!" sobbed Pierrot, falling on his knees at her side. "Nepeese, ma Nepeese!"

"When I was married I had about silk, strutting go-to suit and my girl Betty had to have seven silk nightdresses."

CHAPTER IX

Impelled by the wild alarm of the Willow's terrible cries and the sight of Pierrot digging madly toward him from the dead body of Wakiyoo, Baree did not stop running until it seemed as though his lungs could not draw another breath. When he stopped, he was well out of the canyon and headed for the river pool.

Exactly wherein lay Baree's fears it would be difficult to say—but surely it was not because of Nepeese. The Willow had chased him hard. She had been served upon him. And yet the clutch of her hands and the smother of her soft hair, and yet of her face—he was afraid! If he stopped now and then in his flight and looked back, he knew he saw if Nepeese was following. He would run faster. He had been left alone. Her eyes and voice and hands and her presence in him! In him! He was filled with a greater yearning and a greater loneliness now—and that night he dreamed troubled dreams.

Baree was glad when the dawn came. He did not seek for food but went down to the pond. There was little hope and anticipation in his manner now. He remembered that, as plainly as animal ways could tell, Usnak and his playmates had told him they wanted nothing to do with him. And yet the fact that they were there took away from his loneliness. It was more than a loneliness. The wolf in him was submerged. The dog was master.

In one shallow place Baree surprised a big beaver towing a four-foot cutting of birch and balsam as a man's log—half a dozen breakfasts and dinners and suppers in that one cutting. The four or five inner barks of the birch on what might be called the lower limb were better and potatoes of the beaver meat, which, Baree knew, lay under the roof of the willow and young alder take the place of meat and pie.

He smelled curiously of the birch cutting after the old beaver had shuffled off with it. Birch and balsam. He did not try to hide himself now, and at last the beaver had a good look at him before he came to the surface where he could observed down to the width of the stream, almost half a mile from the dam. Then he swam back. All that morning he hovered about the pool, showing himself openly in his flight, his mud-and-stick stores of which he knew he had a council of war. They were distinctly puzzled.

It may be that the beavers discussed the matter fully among themselves. It is possible that Usnak and his playmates told their parents of their adventures, and of how Baree made no move to harm them when he could quite easily have snapped them. It is also true that this likely that the old beavers who had fled from Baree that morning gave an account of their adventures, again emphasizing the fact that the stranger while frightening them, had shown no disposition to attack them. And it is quite possible, for if beavers can make a large part of a continent's history, and can perform engineering feats that nothing less than dynamite can destroy, it is hardly reasonable to suppose that they have some way of making one another understand.

However this may be, courageous old beaver Usnak took it upon himself to end the suspense.

It was early in the afternoon that for the third or fourth time Baree walked out on the dam. This dam was fully fifty feet in length, but at its point did the water run over it, the overflow finished in a fall more than seven inches. A week or two ago Baree could have crossed in the opposite end of the pond on this dam, but now—at the far end—Beaver-wouth and his brothers were adding a new section of dam, and the water was rising rapidly. Almost instantly, they had flooded fully fifty yards of the low ground on which they were working. It was a fine piece of foundation for Baree. It was strong with the smell of beaver. It was dry if it was high and dry, and there were dozens of interstices with little holes in which he had difficulty in keeping his eye from. Here Usnak had been stretched himself out, with his eyes on the pond. Not a ripple stirred its velvety smoothness. Not a sound broke the drowsy stillness of the afternoon. Beavers must have been dead or asleep, for all the stir they made. And yet they knew that Baree was on the dam. Where he lay, the sun fell in a warm flood, and it was so comfortable that at last even

Heard His Parents Arranging Funeral

Boy Thought to be Dead Comes Back to Life

Madisonville Ky., March 18—Lying ill in bed, unable to move a muscle or utter a sound, Roscoe Qualls, nine years old, heard his parents and family wail over his body and talk in whispers of plans for his funeral. Two hours the boy lay as though dead, and then he suddenly came back from the grave.

Roscoe injured his skull, when he fell, while skating. His mother was prostrated, but doctors kept him alive several days with insulin and food. One day he appeared to have died. His parents and other members of the community were when one of them suggested that a doctor be called for a final examination.

The doctor suddenly announced that the boy was breathing. Stimulants were given, and in a few hours the boy was sitting up in bed. Now he is well on the road to recovery and is glad to be back at his work.

Roscoe says he could hear his mother and parents talking about his funeral. He feared being buried alive, but was powerless to do more than utter a groan. Then one day he appeared to have died. His parents and other members of the community were when one of them suggested that a doctor be called for a final examination.

Best Role Yet Famed Actor Says

Conway Tearle Takes Part Of Rich Cynical Bachelor

Conway Tearle, who is co-featured with Corenne Griffith in the First National production, "Lilies of the Field" which is scheduled to run for a three day's engagement at the Griffin theatre on Thursday, is on record to the effect that the role of Louis Willing which he essays in this picture, is the finest ever assigned to him.

As the cynical Willing is shown as a wealthy bachelor, grown cynical because of the layering of designing women and grafting men. He has lost all faith in human nature, and is disgusted with the aimless life which he has led.

He determines to make a world tour to break away from his past associations, and on the eve of his departure stages a large party. As the evening wears away he grows weary of the age-like antics of his guests and goes to the library to seek solitude from the maddening uproar. As he crosses the threshold, he is surprised to find a girl eagerly reading a book.

Amazed and puzzled he watched her for a while, for the girl obviously was out of place in such bizarre surroundings. Half an hour later Willing had found a new interest in life; he had found love, the other sex who did not try to vamp him.

The strange experiences that grew out of this meeting are fascinatingly portrayed in "Lilies of the Field," with Corinne Griffith playing the part of the girl. The remainder of the cast includes Charles Conrad, Edith Bannon, Clive Fitzgerald, Phyllis Haver, Charles Murray, Catherine Kent, Myrtle Stedman, Sylvia Breamer, Alan Bennett and Dorothy Brock.

GOOD NEWS FOR AILING WOMEN

Much has been said for and against proprietary medicines in the medical profession. It will interest every woman to know that in a recent country-wide canvass of over 121,000 purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as to its results reported from its use, the replies received showed that ninety-eight out of every one hundred were well pleased benefited by its use. Therefore every sick and ailing woman owes it to herself to give this remarkably successful remedy a fair trial.

Mystery Scented In Auto Find

Car Found Imbedded in Mud of Welland Canal

St. Catharines, Ont., March 18—With the chassis imbedded in the muddy bottom of the Welland Canal, where it no doubt has been for several months, a car bearing a license plate of the 1924 Toronto issue—No. 67-253 was located by workmen walking along the bank. The find was reported to the authorities today and arrangements are being made to drag it from the channel. While it is possible that there may be a body in the car, the authorities do not believe that such will be found to be the case.

One theft last summer, some ladies were swimming in the "altogether" in the canal near Lake street bridge, when the bridge tender, Thomas Gallagher, warned them to "duck," as a train was coming on the canal bank. A steamer had whistled for the bridge and the approach of the train, but the ten minutes was directed to turning the bridge, it seemed to him later only casually that he hadn't noticed the same girls. Last summer it must have slipped through in the gathering darkness.

The boys thought the same. Yesterday afternoon the water was let out of the level at the point. What appears to be the top of a coupe, it is said, could be seen, as it a car was embedded in the mud. The suggestion is that the coupe accidentally ran into the canal off the low bank and was caught and stood there under the steamer.

The license was issued here to Phillip Greenberg, of Huron Cottage, Long Branch, for a Ford sedan. Inquiry at Long Branch this afternoon failed to locate anyone knowing the name.

Crucial Scene in Film Was Spoiled

When Four Mules Balked in "The Warrens of Virginia".

It is considered a well known fact that every good moving picture director, at certain stages of his work, is apt to temperamental and rave a bit somebody or something. During the filming of the war scenes in "The Warrens of Virginia," the latest Thomas Dixie production, at San Antonio, Texas, Col. H. O. Van Horn of Camp Travis, has been assigned by army officials to assist Elmer Clifton in the direction of the soldiers in tensure military accuracy.

An attack on a supply train was about to be staged, and Van Horn was with Mr. Clifton on a camera platform which happened to be built in the branches of a tree fifty feet from the ground. More than two thousand men with mule wagons and equipment were being used in the scene. All necessary orders had been given by Col. Van Horn to the various army officers directing the men. Mr. Clifton called "Camera" and the attack started.

Col. Van Horn became excited. Everything was going fine, but at the most crucial point when the hero, mounted superbly on one of the post's best chargers, was about to pull his staff, four army mules refused to obey instructions and stole the scene from the hero, thus spoiling the entire scene.

Col. Van Horn who had the reputation of being the coolest officer at the post when under fire, immediately let loose. Grabbing Clifton's megaphone he raved and ranted at those blankety blank mules until he was hoarse. He swore that he was to be a tree fifty feet in the air and but for the prompt action of the cameraman, would have crashed over the edge, carrying Mr. Clifton with him.

"The Warrens of Virginia" will be at the Belle theatre tomorrow for an engagement of three days.

It's Easy To Darken Your Graying Hair

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur, and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome, an easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients a large bottle, at little cost, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of mess.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening the hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger.

The machinery section of the engineering building at the University of Saskatchewan, Saskatoon, was destroyed by fire on Wednesday morning. A short circuit in the wiring is thought to have been the cause of the outbreak which started at 3 o'clock. The loss is estimated at $500,000.

Hire Lord's Home As Gambling Den

Reckless Spending Brought To Light Over London

London, March 7 (By Mail)—attention is drawn to the Hatfield Society evil as the result of the conviction in the Old Bailey of a man involved a poor's home and stole his silver.

The public may now be let into the secret of how many West-end houses the homes of peers and Society leaders—have been rented for short periods by a wealthy gang of gamblers and have been temporarily converted into luxurious gaming dens.

Sentence of accepted social position is but up to secure tenancy of a suitable residence, the owner having no idea of the purpose for which it is intended to be used.

The plans be fitted up regardless of expense, and night after night, in a most "exclusive" atmosphere, play goes on for high stakes.

Ladies are lured from establishments of this kind because they are not high card losers as men, and because their husbands might make trouble.

At the Old Bailey trial it was disclosed that the convicted man had lost nearly all his fortune of £20,000 by gambling. An Eton and Cambridge boy, he was now sent to prison for nine months, as a common thief.

Disclosure of the gaming game's methods, results from the carrying of a quantity of silver articles belonging to Lord Dunsilton, the son and heir of the Earl of Tankerville, Bewcastle. In for this was taken by Det. Ch. Insp. Dudley Thomas, 30 independent. It was proved that when Lord Dunsilton broke into his house he found thousands of loose new playing cards about.

Luxury Surroundings

The police evidence was one of all during the trial was given by Detective Insp. Wood. He stated that Thomas's associates was a big landowner in Wales, and had a fortune in Montgomeryshire. When in town, he lived in his own Mayfair residence, which he had rented for £20,000. Accused had lost the whole £20,000 in gambling. He was a graduate of Cambridge. After being demobilized from the Royal Air Force he became one of the professional gamblers, who, aware that he was well-known in Society, got him to take houses in the Mayfair district, which could be used for gambling purposes. He denied that he was a "Chemmy" (baccarat) player. He was a "Chemmy" (baccarat) player. He was a "Chemmy" (baccarat) player. He

LIFE AND PROPERTY IS TORNADO TOLL

NINE HUNDRED REPORTED DEAD AND TOWNS GONE

Reports Bring Awful Tale Of Devastation Wrought

TOWNS FLATTENED

Wreckage Carried Fifteen Miles; Reports Still Coming

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, March 19.—The most devastating storm in nearly half a century swept through portions of six midwestern states last night, effecting a dead and injured toll estimated at nearly four thousand, and causing property damage of many millions. Early to-day casualties were reported as 891 dead and 2,832 injured. From some sections, definite reports are lacking. Twenty-six cities and towns in five states were hit by the tornado. Fire caused complete destruction of large sections of many of these cities, the storm swept, paths being from Cape Girardeau, Missouri, to Elizabeth, Indiana with one branch of the tornado over Winslow and Tennessee and Kentucky.

So frustrated were portions of Illinois and Indiana through which the tornado travelled in a series of erratic bows, that definite figure as to the property loss proper impossible early to-day. Several towns in the path of the storm, including Murphysboro and Gale, Ill., virtually were destroyed, while fire in many places added horror to havoc. So terrific was the force of the storm that bodies were reported carried miles from the wrecked homes of their victims. Those retiring are: Messrs. B. F. Jennings, F. S. Deacon, T. D. Rusden, J. Herring, A. E. Wray and E. P. Frederick. All of these are eligible for re-election. A finance committee was instructed to prepare a budget for next year. The committee is composed of H. W. Ackerman, G. F. Ostrom, H. F. Ketchenson and C. B. Hanna.

The financial position of the Association may be gathered from the following receipts and expenditures:

Expenditures, May 1st to February 1st, $10,123.79; Receipts, May 1st to February 1st, $8,316.61; Deficit, to February 15th, $1,247.78; Balance Budget, until April 30th, $3,588.09; Needed in Cash by April 30, $4,835.87; Estimated receipts from all sources, $4,075.00; deficit $760.87.

Estimated Revenue

Dormitories, $20,000; Membership $468.00; Bowling, $515.00; General, $350.00; Subscriptions, $1,821.00, total, $4,026.00.

An effort will be made to secure by any legislation $800.87, the deficit so that the Association may enter upon its year's work free of indebtedness.

Toronto, March 19.—The fea tures of the Ontario Government's amendment to the Ontario Temperance Act now ready for introduction will be limiting of issue of liquor prescriptions by doctor to 30 per month each, and the new 4.4 per cent. beer will be sold at cafes and tables in standard hotels. There will be no bars. This information was disclosed following a Conservative caucus this afternoon.

Industrial Plant Is Still Growing

Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company Erect New Steel Tank

Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company have just had completed a new steel 100,000 gallon water tank on their lower This is the second of these huge tanks the Company has erected during the past year, both being handled by the Horton Steel Company, Limited, a Canadian concern with headquarters at Bridgeburg, Ont.

The new tank is 125 feet above ground, and is surrounded with a fire escape. It is very slightly lower than the first one put up. Both tanks are clearly visible for miles around.

This tank is another index of the remarkable expansion the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company has enjoyed during the past few years. The plant in Corbyville, has the distinction of being not only the largest of its kind in the British Empire, but one of the most modern and up-to-date in the world.

Many of the 'Old Boys" who recall Corbyville of pre-war days and earlier would indeed be surprised to see the enormous strides the plant has made in recent years. The Company is to be congratulated upon their achievements and foresightedness, Belleville is extremely fortunate in having such a healthy growing industry in such close proximity.

Barbers Agreed On Early Closing

Will Have Wednesday Afternoons From April to November Inclusive

Commencing April first, the majority of Belleville barber or "bobber" shops as they are sometimes termed in this modern age, will close at noon on Wednesdays, and this will continue until November 21st.

The life of the busy and friendly men who keep their customers clean and trim, is not as easy as it appears, they claim, and what with long hours and much standing, together with close and particular work, they feel ready for the half holiday each week by arrangement.

The barbers feel that the customers will meet with them and arrange their calls so as not to inconvenience themselves and yet enable the barbers to enjoy the half holiday each week.

HYDRO MOVE IS NOW CONFIRMED AT BELLEVILLE

Power Offices to Be Transferred to Old Bank Building

WITHIN A MONTH

Not Much Remodelling to Be Done, Mr. Smith Says

"The steady development of electrical power in this district, as well as the prospective Petawawa, is likely to relow the agitation in favor of the removal of the Eastern Ontario Hydro office from Belleville to Campbellford, the latter being the central point in the system."

The above is part of a news despatch sent from Campbellford to a Toronto morning paper.

Campbellford may agitate, and for all anybody knows, may succeed eventually, but confirmation of the Hydro's purchase of the old Bank of Montreal building at Victoria and Pinnacle streets, which came from G. H. Smith to-day, does not lend much hope to Campbellford.

The Hydro Electric Power Commission offices will be moved to the newly purchased building—the former Bank of Montreal building corner of Victoria avenue and Pinnacle street—within a month, it is firmly believed.

Only a good vision of C. B. Smith, Superintendent of the Hydro Electric Power Commission, Belleville district, can the moving be assured the Intelligencer this morning, for the final legal forms had gone through, the bust ness of ownership and leasing would commence.

There will not be a great deal of remodelling work required in the new building, Mr. Smith explained, but it will be repainted and made up-to-date before the offices are moved. All offices connected with the Belleville and Hydro Electric store on Bridge street east, will be moved to the new building.

Real March Wind Makes Presence Felt

Naughty, But Necessary For Flowers in June

"Tis said that March winds and April showers produce flowers in May, ers in June—probably orange blossoms. There seemed to be a plentiful of bloom this season if rain falls when due and winds do not blow over the city to-day should supply the needed wind.

After having read of the havoc wrought with an appalling loss of life in Illinois, Illinois and other states, by a tornado, Bellevillians are inclined to be thankful that this is the dying aquirm of the tale of the March winds. Squawking aims are of course seems to be in holding the bat steadily in position, prepared for the unexpected, and many Belleville trians down the street more rapidly than usual, apparently for greater safety in traffic.

Reports here are nearer destruction than they ever were, in the teeth of the breeze. Squawking signs are and attract attention, while limbs of some old trees, which have stood there though it is the delight of the city fathers to keep them.

First damage reported this morning was that the spire of one of the Clapp confectionery stores, East Bridge street, which was damaged by the trouble-some have received word of damage to property. The Bell Co. had not experienced much local trouble early this afternoon. They are hoping that the storm does not provide the opportunity before night fall.

In connection with the tornado which passed over Missouri yesterday it is recalled that only bay trees in the heart of the storm-swept area. He is James Thompson, brother of Harry Thompson, manager of the uptown office of the C.N.R. here. Mr. Thompson who is with a cement company in Quebec City, has been in receipt of cable from friends here, and though ill people were killed in the storm here, and the C.N.R. is believed that had he met with misfortune the officials would have been notified before this time.

MUSICAL CLUB OUT TO BRING FINE ARTISTS

Praiseworthy Move Made in Interest of High Class Entertainment

TO ENROL MEMBERS

Who Will Have Privilege of Attending Concerts Put On

The Presto Musical Club of Belleville, an organization which has already accomplished a great deal in providing high class musical entertainment for the citizens of Belleville and organizations comprising many of the most talented musicians in the city has undertaken to carry on its work on a much bigger scale.

Under arrangements completed this week, there is to be a determined effort to secure the best musical artists for one or two appearances in Belleville during the next season, artists whose remuneration generally prohibits their appearance in smaller centres.

Armed with the bitter leagnue of the past, which show that high class programs generally end up in a deficit, the Presto Club is about to get the co-operation and financial assistance of the appearance of the artists, for which purpose the Club is to enrol associate members from the ranks of those in Belleville who are not members of the Presto Musical Club and with it the right of entry to the concerts put on by the Club during the season.

This proposition is expected to appeal to scores of men and women in Belleville who have the love of some of the leading musicians in the city.

Government Meets With Mine Workers

Will Consider Proposition to Maintain Provincial Mines

(Associated Press Despatch)

Halifax, N.S., March 19.—Representatives of the Provincial Government headed by Premier Armstrong and of the United Mine Workers of America District No. 26 headed by District President John W. McCleod, opened a series of conferences here this morning, for the purpose of considering in detail a proposition made by the provincial executive on behalf of the Government Mines of the Province under a lease to the Dominion Steel Corporation and threatened with serious interruption because of the bitterly cold 1925 wage scale in effect since March 16th.

Members Startled In British House

Those Using Telephones May Not Take Their Seats?

London, March 19—Members of the British parliament who have telephones in their homes were somewhat startled recently when they ascertained that because of the instruments they might be deprived of their seat in the house. Some are asking whether they have committed a breach of the privileges and dignity of the House of Commons which says that any person undertaking a contract with the government or any company shall not be entitled to sit in the house. The telephone system is owned and run by the government. The question was brought to light by Captain T. J. O'Connor himself a member of parliament and having a telephone in his office, who announced that he would ask the attorney general if his position to introduce legislation to safeguard members who have contracts with the postmaster-general for the installation of telephone services.

Stockholm Telephone Users Not To Be Bothered With "Line's Busy" Any More

Stockham Mar. 19.—The "line's busy" nuisance in telephoning has been anticipated in this city through the installation of a new automatic system called the "waiting line." It will apply the first time some time and will be placed much in demand such as hospitals drug stores, doctor's offices, ticket agencies, information bureaus and newspapers. This is done by the creation of a special central and whenever a number is reported "busy" by the operator or the subscriber himself the connection the "waiting line" is called and the desired number duly recorded in the exchequer of the time list. When the line is clear, the connection is made.

WAS NEVER LATE

Warrington, Eng., March 18.—Thomas Corcoran, an employe in a soap works here, believes in punctuality and devotion to duty. During his 50 years' employment at the works he has not lost a single minute at any time. The reason he gave for never being late was that he always went to bed early and had a good night's rest.

In recognition of his unique record Corcoran was presented with a gold watch by his employers.

Premier "Broke" So Gives Dinner

Ontario's First Citizen is a Real Good Sport

Toronto, March 19.—Wending his way home after a recent strenuous day in his office, Premier Ferguson accosted by a man who asked him for the price of a meal. He did not seem to be the usual panhandler, and after a few questions the Premier, who, strange as it may sound, had no money in his own pockets, invited the wayfarer to dine with him and share his evening meal. Perhaps it was the fact that he was himself "broke" that gave the Premier a fellow feeling for the unfortunate.

All unsuspecting who his host was the man accepted cheerfully and Premier Ferguson to his home in St. George street, where he enjoyed a square meal fare as premiers indulge in for dinner.

Pleased With Army's Work

During the meal Premier Ferguson questioned the man about unemployment conditions, relief measures, etc. Among other things he asked him about the various philanthropic organizations in the city, and was particularly pleased with the report the man gave him in regard to the Salvation Army's work for the hungry men of the city.

The stranger told him the Salvation Army was feeding a great many men every day, and that it not for the efforts there would have been very much more suffering during the past winter than there had been.

A few days later when a Salvation Army officer made his annual call upon the Premier for a donation to the Army's self-denial fund, he found the Premier had quadrupled his last cheque and gave for his reason the story told by his random guest.

Earl Of Ypres Is Seriously Ill

Underwent Serious Operation; Anxiety is Expressed by Physicians

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, March 19.—Earl of Ypres, Field Marshal Sir John French, commanded the British army in the Field during the war underwent a severe and prolonged operation to-day.

The official bulletin says, "Lord Ypres condition after the operation is as satisfactory as could be expected but in point of necessity give rise to anxiety for some time."

The Earl of Ypres early in December underwent what was termed a major operation for the removal of a diseased kidney. There have been no recent reports of further illness.

CONGRATULATIONS

Forty-seven years ago to-day, John Newton, ex-chief of the Belleville Police Department, was born in Ireland. Looking strangely enough, the day of his arrival in Canada was also March 19th.

During that period, ex-chief Newton has experienced many changes in the population of the old Belleville, as well as the Dominion, and has had the pleasure of witnessing many changes in the position of Chief of police from which honorable he resigned but a few years ago. He is still doing valuable service at police headquarters; where he has been police court clerk since he retired from the Chief occupancy of office. He is also a Justice of the Peace.

The Intelligencer with its Chief Newton's friends legion, wish to extend to him many happy returns of the day and with calls to mind his coming to Belleville.

YOUNG LADY IS REAL LUCKY TO MAKE ESCAPE

Miss Ruby Ryan Was Sleeping Alone in Blazing House

HEAT AWAKENED HER

Rushed Into Heavy Rain in The Nick of Time

Miss Ruby Ryan, of 24 Wilkins street Belleville, experienced a fright that she will long remember when her home was burned to the ground early this morning. The young lady was awakened from her sleep just in time to get out of the house in safety.

Miss Ryan's mother had gone to Tweed, and although a girl friend had promised that Miss Ryan sleep with her, she decided to stay in her own house. She was not afraid to be alone.

She slept on a lounge downstairs instead of in her own room, which accounts for her lucky escape. About one o'clock this morning, she was awakened by the heat, Miss Ryan thinks, and on first awakening, she thought the reflection she saw was from the Quebec bridge. The crackling of fire and chunks of burning embers as big as one's fist which were falling from the stairs, were becoming enough however, and grabbing her shoes and stockings, she ran out.

Miss Ryan sat on the sidewalk in the pouring rain to put on her shoes and stockings. Soon after neighbors took her in.

The fire started in at 1.15 o'clock and the firemen made a quick run in spite of the longdistance run. Wilkins street being right at the city limits.

By the time the trucks arrived, the frame house was beyond saving and nothing was saved.

The building is only partly covered by insurance.

Detroit Paper Is Entering New Home

Free Press About Same Age as The Intelligencer.

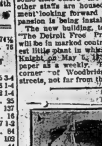

Detroit, March 19—On a site that once was part of the old Fort Shelby military reservation, there is in the heart of the downtown business district, "soaring" skyward, a new 14-story building, the new home of the Detroit Free Press, Detroit's oldest daily newspaper.

When, some time in June, the completed building is ready for occupancy by editorial and mechanical staffs, not 24 hours will have passed, since the Detroit Free Press was founded as a weekly.

Covering a ground area of 77,856 square feet, the new structure occupies the entire block between Cass Avenue and Warren Street. Above the main body of six floors rises an eight story tower.

While structural work is in process mechanical equipment already has been set up in the basement which form virtually two additional floors as a subscription to the whole. Production of the daily issue is expected some time before the new building is ready for occupancy.

The new building, to be known as "The Detroit Free Press Building," will be in marked contrast to the modest little place in which Sheldon Mac Calnell, on May 6, 1831, founded the paper as a weekly. This was at the Woodbridge and Bates streets, not far from the water front.

Ontario Department Starts Advertising

In Effort to Check Abuse of Highways by Trucks

At the Annual Dinner of the Ontario Motor League, held in Toronto in February, announcement was made by Premier George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, that the Department intends to employ advertising with the object of inviting the assistance and co-operation of owners and drivers of motor trucks and passenger cars and members of automobile and good roads associations in abating the abuse of the highways of the Province by heavy loading and excessive speeds.

In brief, the objects of this advertising campaign are to stir up the interest of the public to the desirability of more extended use of the roads so that they may be more familiar with their own Province and its highways problems, and may acquire a more emphatic appreciation of the necessity of conserving the highways by refraining from heavy loading and fast driving.

Positive benefit has come from the use of improved highways as avenues for the quickening of urban and rural relationships. The benefit of a wider acquaintance with the Province by a larger number of our people would be none the less real, although perhaps slightly intangible. Travel is an educator. The first field for travel should be the Province and the country in which people live.

The campaign will bring to the notice of the public many beauty spots in Ontario which they do not hear of and will point out the existence for many miles of improved highway throughout the various counties which may be little known to the average motorist. It will lead many Ontario people to know Ontario better.

Becoming more familiar with the extensive mileage of improved highways in the Province, the public will gain a greater and more definite understanding of the immensity of the highways problems which are being solved by county and Provincial authorities.

It will be pointed out that the beauties of scenery can be enjoyed only if the driving is at a moderate rate of speed.

It will be emphasized that the roads belong to the people because they paid for them, and that the upkeep of every class of road is needed to contribute to the cost of maintenance and repairs. In justice to the class of traffic that bears most heavily on the roads should come the greatest contributions. The co-operation suggested, therefore, not only by the public interests but in the selfish interest of the individual concerned.

The great majority of the public property. The damage done by the flying car or over-loaded truck sometimes is not apparent, but it is none the less substantial.

A belief is that traffic laws are made more only to prevent accident—not to preserve the roads. When no traffic officer is in the vicinity and no danger of accident is apparent, it is not unusual for the motorist to 'pull out' and exceed the speed limit.

By repetition and reiteration, the Department intends to lay before the public the salient features of our highways, problems and conditions, believing that such knowledge will have much the same effect largely from ignorance of conditions.

Taking the motoring public into its confidence, and explaining fully the benefits that have been and are being derived from the improved highways, the Department believes that good will and support of all users of the roads will be given cheerfully toward the same and reasonable use of the highways.

While the Department is spreading this information about highways problems and requesting the co-operation of those who use the highways, it will also point out clearly that the provisions of The Highways Act will not be abated, in any particular. Indeed, the Department will be expected in view of the information and warnings which the publicity will carry.

As it is desired to reach every motorist in the Province with this advertising, it will appear in an extended list of daily and weekly newspapers, farm journals, and publications which have developed particularly to the people.

The program will be divided into three parts: spring, summer and fall.

In the spring, the advertisements will deal specifically with the restrictions in force at the season regarding the loading of roads. The great evil of the thaw period is water. It lurks in the foundation of all roads to a greater or lesser extent. While the frost surface is hard, the foundation of clayey or heavy loading and soon becomes the same. A break in the surface is what "follows". Roads which are not laid surfaced are porous during the thaw season. Protection of all classes of roads therefore is furnished by The Highways Act.

During summer the advertisements will be addressed to the drivers of passenger cars. Courtesy will be inculcated to the public to see Ontario. These will be illustrated with sketches of lesser known beauty spots throughout the Province. Effort will not be made to direct tourists particularly to the spots which are fashionable. They will be noted only as samples of Ontario's beauty.

In fall, advertisements the losses of the advantages of moderate driving will be taught.

In each advertisement will be given a call to extend the usual tourist season by pointing out the freedom of Ontario during that season. They will contain a special appeal to the farmer who has motorist to pull out and exceed the speed limit.

These advertisements will be illustrated in the same way as the student advertisements and will reiterate the necessity for moderate driving, in the interest of the public.

"My Greatest Thrill In Sport"

Being an Account of an Adventure Which Overtook Ozark Ripley On the Nipigon.

OZARK RIPLEY

For many years I have hunted and killed all kinds of big game on the American Continent except polar bear, and I have taken most kinds of fresh and salt water game fish. But the greatest thrill I ever experienced during my thirty years, devotion to outdoor sports came to me this summer in July on the Nipigon River in the rapids just below the Canadian Pacific bridge at Nipigon, Ont.

It all happened late in the evening. The trout in the pools are the most famed and largest brook trout in the world. But just at that time they were not striking as usual on account of the exceedingly cold night. However, I decided to go to the river to try out a little spilt bamboo bait casting rod, 2¾ ounces, that I had made for casting very light lures. It would be a revelation to myself and other anglers to take trout in this manner, when fly casting is the vogue.

The water under the Canadian Pacific bridge, and below for a quarter of a mile at least, flows like a millrace. I attached to my line a small weighted feather casting minnow, just to see if the little rod would shoot it. At the first try I shot the lure at least 125 feet across the water toward the west bank and in the opposite age of fast water.

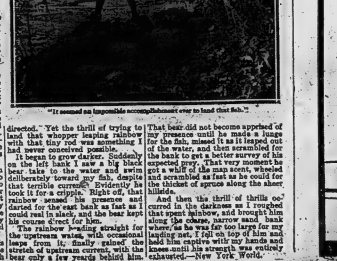

The very instant that the tiny lure struck the water the record of the only two large rainbow trout that up to then had ever been taken out of the Nipigon rose and seized my lure. He was a monster. It seemed an impossible accomplishment ever to land that fish with the little rod and the fine nine-pound test casting line. The thrill that came to that gorgeous, big darkness was incredible. The filling of money and grizzly bear was tame in comparison.

I worked in a bad light nearly an hour, and in danger of falling into that deep, swift reach; trying hard to lead that fish out of the fast water where the current would not aid it into the long upstream swirl on my side. The only thing that helped me in that fight was the generous supply of fine line I had in store on my reel to help perfect thumbing of it.

I worked up and down these rapids in despair and hope, and as the vision of the strong leaping fish directed. Yet the thrill of trying to land that whopper leaping rainbow with that tiny rod was something I had never conceived possible.

It began to grow darker. Suddenly on the left bank I saw a big black bear take to the water and swim deliberately toward my fish, despite that terrific current. Evidently he took it for a cripple. Right off, that rainbow sensed his presence and darted for the east bank as fast as I could reel in slack, and the bear kept his course direct for him.

The rainbow leading straight for the upstream water, with occasional leaps from it, finally gained the stretch of quieter current, with the bear only a few yards behind him.

"It seemed an impossible accomplishment ever to land that fish."

That bear did not become apprised of my presence until he made a leap for the fish, missed it as it leaped out of the water, and then scrambled for the bank to get a better survey of his expected prey. That very moment he got a whiff of the man scent, wheeled and scrambled as fast as he could for the thicket of spruce along the shore hillside.

And then the thrill of thrills occurred in the darkness as I roughed that leaping rainbow, and brought him along the coarse, narrow sand bank where he was far too large for my landing net. I slid on top of him and pinned him captive with my hands and knees until his strength was entirely exhausted.—New York World.

PROVING IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE GOODS

That's what ADVERTISING is doing for Wrigley's in Canada. Newspapers, magazines, bill boards and street cars all carry Wrigley ads.

Not only does the buying public respond in this generous measure but nearly 100 per cent. of the possible dealer outlets realize the possibilities of profit from the sale of an article with such popular demand and put the Wrigley display case or the Wrigley jars on the counter where it is handy for the customer.

The wise dealer appreciates the value of the subtle suggestion of Wrigley's heads when the customer is getting his change so he, too, does this even in advertising the product.

Wrigley's advertising has put Chewing Gum on the map; it has become a necessity recommended by physician and dentist. Doctors say that the chewing of gum releases juices which aid in digestion and promote better health. Dentists urge the use of Wrigley's to remove food particles from between the teeth and to massage the gums.

Wrigley's scope is another convincing of the old saying "To him that hath" Wrigley has faith in advertising and he is reaping rewards.

Victoria, B.C., March 11—Victoria Cougars won the Western Canada Hockey League championship here last night by defeating Calgary Tigers in second game 2 to 0 and winning round 6 to 1.

RECKLESS DRIVING LEADS TO JAIL

Toronto, March 10 — Magistrate Brown's axe fell, following his warning to motorists against reckless and fast driving in the city streets, when Harold McGee was sentenced to ten days in jail, and to have his license suspended for sixty days, after being convicted of reckless driving.

George Townsend testified that while crossing Sherbourne street, at Queen on the 5th at 7 p.m., he was knocked down by McGee's motor car, which was declared to have been going between 40 and 45 miles an hour. Townsend said that he was thrown some distance, his legs falling under a street car, which, fortunately had stopped after the motorman Stephen Banks, had seen the fast approach of McGee's automobile.

P. C. Tooch, who arrested McGee stated that McGee had admitted having been drinking although McGee denied this in court.

This is the first case of a jail sentence for reckless driving.

Heat

For pain - soreness

Rheumatic pains, soreness, aches, etc., call for heat. The best way to apply it is Red Pepper Rub.

This is the modern way. It so excels the old ways that there is no comparison.

Nothing else creates such concentrated, soul-penetrating heat as red pepper. And heat that doesn't burn you.

You feel that tingling heat in an instant. In three minutes it seems to penetrate the depths. Circulation is started, congestion is relieved. Pain and the soreness go.

What folly it is to suffer pains so easily and quickly stopped. What folly to let a cold in the chest go neglected. When trouble starts at night, what folly to wait until morning.

Keep Red Pepper Rub on hand. Nothing which do has such a great deal of pain. Get it now—the very utmost in help of this kind.

Fruit Merchants Roll 3243 Score

On Even Terms Now With Wanderers in Senior League

The Fruit Merchants won from the Hardware last night, Hemo, Stuart another slicer record when they rolled 3243, and but for one lonely game hung slightly over the 400 mark, the Fruit Merchants no doubt would have made a record that would have taken some beating. By the Marchant, win last night they are on even terms with the Wanderers and these two teams will be playing off next week for the winner league honors. The Hardware rolled up a mean score when they spilled the wood for 2914. This score has won nine games out of ten, but last night it was no good to them. Orlando rolled a record score for the season when he rolled 811 for his three strings and 323 for his high single. Russell was next with 735. For the Hardware Harris was high man with 641.

The 5000's won from the Wolves of the North in the C.N.R. ladies' league, Mrs. Walsh was high bowler and Mrs. Gerow next in line.

In the Nightawks' league the rot shot was from the Brewer boys with over 200 pins. Collier was high for the winners and Ormond for the losers.

The C.N.R. Express had a better till to swallow when they lost to the Bankers in the Junior league. The Express losing last night, this puts four teams tie for first place. For the Bankers Morlock was high man and Bawden was high for the Express.

The Station slipped one over the Supt's Office Team No. 1 last night in the C.N.R. league. Although the Supt's Office won the first and second game, the Station came back strong in the last game to win out by 45 pins. Meagher and Johns were high bowers for their teams.

Entertain Public And Make Money

Most Profitable Business in The United States To-day

Entertaining the public has come to be the most profitable business in the United States to-day. Whether it be in the prize ring, on the baseball diamond, on the concert stage, in motion pictures or in the realm of books, those men and women who give the public pleasure are getting the biggest returns on their investments. Incidentally any one of them is paid more than some of the high cost officials of the government.

Take the case of Ty Cobb, who became the best baseball player in the American League and who later became manager of the Detroit club. He receives a salary of about $60,000 a year, and his total income is said to be in the neighborhood of $100,000 a year. Cobb is fast approaching the millionaire class.

Then there is Jack Dempsey, the world heavyweight champion. In 1921, the year he fought Carpentier, Dempsey is reported to have had an income of $1,000,000, including his part of the fight purse, royalties, and other income. In 1923 Dempsey received $200,000 for fighting for 229 seconds and striking 12 important blows in his battle with Luis Firpo.

Babe Ruth is the Class

Babe Ruth is said to receive a salary of $52,000 each season. That's $416 more than the pay of Secretary of State Kellogg during an entire administration. In addition, every time the Babe hits a home run he gets a $500 bonus.

Then there is the case of John McCormack, the famous opera singer who received $10,000 for a single solo, sung to produce a phonograph record.

M. Chaliapin the Russian baritone, commands $4,500 a night.

Irving Berlin wrote "My Wife's Gone to the Country," one sunny afternoon and collected enough from it to pay the salary of a cabinet officer at Washington for 20 years.

Ann Nichol, who wrote the stage comedy, "Abie's Irish Rose," collected $1,200,000 last autumn and expects to get $200,000 in royalties each season for some time to come.

In discussing the "movies", one is trained to talk only in millions.

It was not long ago that Mary Pickford testified in court that her yearly income can be expressed in seven figures. Douglas Fairbanks and Charles Chaplain are paid as well, if not better.

Sabatini, who writes books, collects a few thousands a month from the "movies" beside the royalties on his writings.

Authors Wealthy Too

Authors are getting wealthy too. Harold Bell Wright the publishers have paid him a fortune of about $2,000,000 and keep adding to it at the rate of about $100,000 a year. Booth Tarking-ston of all responsibility.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

"Yes," he continued, "I don't know whether you noticed a tall fair man at the ball—perhaps you may have heard his name—a Captain Sherriff?"

Lady Blanche looks up with a flash in her cold blue eyes. "Yes, very least of information concerning Elaine, may be of value to me. Go on, please."

"Yes, I think I did hear it. Oh, yes, I remember the name. And he has proposed to Elaine?"

"The major nods with an air of great importance.

"Yes, some days ago. It was, taking it all together, a very fair offer. Not much a-one, perhaps, as Elaine, could, strictly speaking, demand, but a very decent fellow, with good expectations, very good indeed."

"And Elaine refused him?" asks Lady Blanche.

The major nods again.

"Yes, she refused him. I was sorry at the time, but—well, well, one never knows. Perhaps it was for the best." His glances round the room, and his eyes rest upon the marquis, who is standing the centre of a group.

Lady Blanche follows his glance, and her lips grow compressed again.

"She did not care for him?" she says. "Was that it?"

"Yes," asserts the major, "and I am the last man to pervade my fear against her inclinations. The heart, the heart, dear Blanche!" and he waves his handkerchief.

"Yes," says Blanche thoughtfully, "and Captain Sherwin—he is still here in the neighborhood?"

"Oh, yes, yes," says the major cheerfully. "And we, he and I, are still good friends."

"Perhaps Elaine may change her mind?" suggests Lady Blanche.

He shrugs his shoulders.

"I—don't think so. Elaine has a strong mind. But still——" He glances toward the marquis again.

"I see," says Lady Blanche with a smile. "Mike has one interest in the house at any rate."

The major laughs complacently.

"I suppose we may put it so," he asserts, "that, of course, my dear Blanche, this is quite entre nous; it is Elaine's secret, and I promised not to tell; I have mentioned it; but to you, her cousin—"

"I understand, dear uncle," she murmurs quite affectionately. "Dear Elaine, I do hope she will be happy whichever way it goes."

"Then as the major goes off with a final bow to her after his attentions on Lady Dormer, she leans back and thinks with a smile.

"Elaine has had an offaire already! Does the marquis know of it, I wonder? If not, it may be useful. It is war to the knife between me and my cousin; and though you may think yourself secure, I may win after all. How beautifully your friend, Signor Santi plays, Lord Malmer!" she says aloud as the marquis comes across to her. "What would life be without music!" and she looks up at him with a wistful softness in her languorous eyes, as if she had been listening to the sounds with her whole heart and soul.

The marquis seats himself beside her and talks for a little while; but just as it is on the point to do it is now, and Lady Blanche knows that though he is not in love with her, at present, his eyes are wandering to where Elaine stands with a group of ladies, and he is thinking of her.

"Some one has suggested a drive to the old abbey tomorrow," he says. "But I hope no one will go who doesn't care for that sort of thing. The abbey since I was a boy, and am not sure that it is not dangerous. At any rate it will serve as an excuse for a picnic. Some will prefer to ride; I will order the big coach. Does your cousin ride, by the way, dear Blanche?"

"I don't know, but I should think so," she replies. "Since Elaine has not had many opportunities for acquiring accomplishments, I'm afraid."

"No?" he says.

Lady Blanche leans back with a smile that may be described as one of affectionate pity.

"Oh, poor girl! fancy she has had rather a hard time of it. You see—" and she pauses, as the marquis, with a polite, the major, has always been so good in such difficulties.

"Yes?" he says, and he keeps his eyes on her face, as if he should stray toward Elaine with an expression which will tell Lady Blanche too much.

"Yes," she says; "But I think there's a chance of its coming to an end—to her advantage, I mean—shortly."

"As how?" he asks, without raising his eyes.

But she replies with a slight hesitation: "I have heard a rumor that it has been settled that Elaine is to

Baree, Son of Kazan

—by—

James Oliver Curwood

(A Vitagraph Picture with Wolf, the Wan Dog, is an adaptation of this story.)

SYNOPSIS

Nepcese, the Indian princess, in trying to save the dog, Baree, from under the boulder where he sought to hide, was caught by the monster and crushed to terror. Her father, Pierrot, the French-Indian trapper, rescued her. Believe that Nepcese is dead, Pierrot, enough to Soree to stroke him, and he found she was a friend, and on leaving Sul Boree was still young and untamed and began to feel, for the sight of human beings was still strange to him.

CHAPTER X

That was enough. Dropping to his four-foot footing he slunk himself down to the edge of the dam and dived over. He was neither cautious nor in a hurry about now. He made a great commotion in the water and swam leisurely back and forth under them. When he had done this several times, he cut straight up the pond to the shore of the three houses and disappeared. Five minutes after Beaver-tooth's report the word was passing quickly among the colony. The strangers have —was not boys. He was not a fox. He was not wolf. Moreover, he was very young—and harmless.

Just as in the life of every man there is one big, controlling influence, either for good or bad, so in the life of Baree the beaver-pond was largely an arbiter of his destiny. Where he might have gone if he had not discovered it, and what might have happened to him, are matters of conjecture. But it held him. It began to take the place of the old world, fall, and in the heavens themselves he found a companionship which meant all in a way, for his loss of the protection and friendship of Kazan and Grey Wolf. During the forthcoming days, followed Beaver-tooth's exploit on the dam Baree ate his meals a mile up the creek. And there were plenty of crawfish. But the pond was home. Night and day always him there, and a large part of his day. He slept on the pad of the dam, or on top of it on particularly clear nights, and the beavers accepted him as a permanent guest. They worked in his presence as if he did not exist.

One afternoon, when the tobogsan was particularly wet and slippery from a recent rain Baree went up the beaver-path to the top of the bank, and began investigating. Nowhere had he found the beaver-scent so strong as on the slide. He began sniffing and investigating by worn toe fair. In an instant his feet shot from under him, and with a wild single wild yelp he went shooting down the tobogsan. At the moment when his tail tip he found himself stopping under waters and then shooting forward for later he dragged himself up through the soft mud to the upper footing of the shore, he had taken a very well-defined opinion of beavers.

It may be that Unisk saw him; it may be that very soon the story of his adventure was known by all the amiable sats of Beaver Town. For when Baree came upon Unisk waiting in the middle of a lake-bark that overhung Unisk stood his ground to the last inch and for the first time they snarled, bones. At least Baree snarled snarled, and plucky little Unisk at like a rolled-up rhino. That was the final ovenening of their friendship—Baree's part.

CHAPTER XI

While the lonely Nepcese was shuddering over her thrilling experience Pierrot and Baree were filled still afford grateful thanks in his prayers for her deliverance and Baree was becoming more and more a fixture at the beaver-pond—Bush McTaggart was perfecting a little scheme of his own at Fur Lac Bain about forty miles north and west. McTaggart had been factor at Lac Bain for seven years. In the Company's books down in Winnipeg he was considered a remarkably successful man. The experts at the head office knew how large a year and his semi-annual report of furs always ranked among the first. After all, a man, back in the fur trade office, was one notation which an—

Only one of a dozen any other man north of God's Lake."

That was the reason why that was so. They called him Napoo Wetikoo—the man-devil. And he was. He looked it. His name whispered anisterly in the glow of tepee fires, or spoken softly and with a shudder in the factor's factory in the cars of Bush McTaggart. They feared him, and they hated him. Out of starvation and sickness, and the lights of Bush McTaggart climbed the figures of his iron rule, the more meekly, it seemed to them, did they respond to his mastery. His was a small soul hidden in the body of a man who might have been a king. And here—with the raw wilderness on four sides of him—he was the law. His word was the Hudson Bay Company was behind him. It had made him king of a domain as large as many a state, and except his own. And in return he gave back to the Company the richest harvest of furs beyond their expectation. It was not his fault that the harvest failed. They were a thousand or more miles away when it failed.

Greeson might have told. Greeson was the Investigating Agent of that district, who visited McTaggart once each year. He might have reported that the Indians called Greeson Nepcese Wetikoo because he gave them only half what they were worth. They had told the Company quite plainly that he was a devil, but Greeson had shrugged the edge of starvation through every month of the winter, he had fed them on their knees with his hands at their throats—putting the lowest price on their furs, and he had told the always had a woman or a girl, Indian or halfbreed, living with him. And so when Greeson returned his visits too much at Lac Bain. Always he came down in the spring in ocane pleasures; and in addition to that, his reports showed that he never had a rich treasure of fur that came to them from the interior.

One evening, a week after the adventure of Nepcese and Baree under the rock, McTaggart sat under the glow of an oil lamp in his "store." He had sent his little pipsie-faced daughter to bed, and he was alone. It was just six weeks ago that Sverre had brought Nepcese on her first visit to Lac Bain since McTaggart had been factor there. She had taken his breath away. Since then he had been able to think of nothing but her. Twice in that six weeks he had gone down to Pierrot's cabin. Tomorrow he was going again. Marie, the Cree girl over in his cabin, he had forgotten—just as a dozen others before Marie had slipped out of his memory as Nepcese was now. He had never seen anything quite so beautiful as Pierrot's girl.

Audibly he cursed Pierrot as he took an old at a sheet of paper under the lamp on which for an hour or more he had been making notes out of Greeson's dusty Company ledgers. It was Pierrot who stood in the way. Pierrot's trapping was something in these notes, between a full-blooded Frenchman. Therefore Pierrot was half French. And Nepcese was quarter French—though she was as beautiful as God knew even there was not more than a drop or two of Indian blood in her veins. If they had been all Indian—Chippewayan Cree, Ojibway, Dog Rib—anything—there would have been no trouble at all in the matter. He would have bent them to his power, and Nepcese would have come to his cabin, as Marie came six months ago. He would have secured French of it! Pierrot and Nepcese were between.

He smiled grimly, and his hands clenched tighter. After all, was not his power sufficient? Would even Pierrot dare stand against that? If Pierrot defied, he would have the factor all over the country—from the trapping region that lay from here down to Hay River—and from father and grandfather, and even from Baree Lac Bain. He would make Pierrot a waiders and an outcast, as he had made Greeson's predecessor. And a score of others who had lost his favor. No other trader would dare to trap or hunt across a wanderer and an outcast, as he put after his name. That would be—death! And Pierrot knew that had come down through the centuries. It was a tremendous power over men that had brought him Marie, the slim, darkeyed Cree girl, who hated him—and in spite of her hatred "kept house for him." It was the spoils way of enforcing her presence if explanations were ever necessary.

McTaggart looked again at the notes he had made on the sheet of paper. Narrowly investigatory, his own property according to the common law of the wilderness, was the Pierrot. During the last seven years he had received the services of a thousand dollars a year for his furs. For McTaggart had been made to the chief Pierrot could not completely as he had chestnut the Indians.

Pierrot was worth to him at least twice that much. He could not afford to lose a dollar a year! Pierrot would think twice before he gave that up. McTaggart was sure of it. He leaned forward in his hand and prepared to put out the light. Under his breath, cursing Pierrot and the reddish fire blazed with the fire that was in his eyes. He was an unpleasant fellow, this merciless, filled with the look that gave him the name of Napoo Wetikoo. His eyes gleamed, and he drew a quick breath as he saw that the light

Good Story At The Belle Theatre

"The Warrens of Virginia" Opens Here This Evening

"The Warrens of Virginia," was an original novel by George Cary Eggleston, recently published, suitable for his school text books as well as his fiction. The book was written into a play by William C. De Mille, (the photoplay maker), and became one of the best talked of productions, of the Warrens stage. The picture, opens at the Belle Theatre tonight.

William Fox adapted the story for the picture version, and the Warrens of Virginia" is more remarkable than the stage play. In addition to the wonderful Fox fast moving, it is notable cast, to present the parts of figures that will live in history forever.

The producer who gave to the public such pictures as "If Winter Comes" "The Connecticut Yankee," "Over the Hill," "Lord Jim," "What Price Glory," "Cat of similarly sensational pictures, has gone equally as far in the making of "The Warrens of Virginia" rank with the best productions of the new season.

It's Teddy Bears' Turn in Tub

BABY'S dogs and kittens—whether they be real pets or toys or just stuffed—his teddy bears, and all the animals and birds which he hugs and kicks and chews and adores from the time he's fed and spun and clean as baby himself, have been chosen for daytime use of the toys they love best because it is learned it will be a delight to them clean. Here's a method, however, that really cleans stuffed toys even those of rough goods like teddy bears and long haired animals.

Make a thick lather of ivory soap suds, and with a small brush, rub this briskly into the surface of the toy. Rinse thoroughly and quickly by hooking over lukewarm water and over it. Never lay the body of the toy in water. Do not squeeze. Shake as free as possible from water and hang in the sunshine, and also to a brisk wind if possible, until quite dry.

To brush out the hair of teddy bears and long-haired dogs and cats, brush lightly when thoroughly dry.

NOTE—Dr. Wiley's many books free on request. Address as literary editor of Good Housekeeping Institute, 119 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Flery Itchy Skin Soothed With Sulphur

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is as precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the trouble. Improper or dieting ement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store.

FASHIONS & FOIBLES

by Shirley Sharon

The cape ensemble is smart in the new nude and biscuit colored flannels, brown ribbed silks and lightweight jacket.

Form one of the beautiful old houses on Washington Square North that are the aristocratic neighbors of so much that is gay and bizarre and rather disreputable attractive in Greenwich Village came a smart young woman smoking an incredibly long version of the French cape ensemble. It was made of light French-gray basha cloth with the cape lined with nude-colored quilted silk. The hat was gray with a top-knot of yellow waterfilies. The new narrow frocks are being held to just a trifle at the back by plush tucks which take out a little size where you don't need it and leave it in where you do.

KANSAS FINALLY CHOOSES A FLAG

Topeka, Kan., March 19— Kansas, the last of the states without an official flag is now ready to add to its stand ard by the collecting and display at the Sesquicentennial Exposition in Washington. Where a controversy extending over ten years, the senate legislature has adopted it's a design ; roffered by the Women's Relief Corps.

The new state banner is of solid blue, bearing at its center a sunflower, whose petals enclose and surround the state seal. Above the sunflower is the world Kansas.

Thus was the sunflower given official approval as the state flower along with the state banner, and this year, too, the meadow lark was elected state bird by the school children of Kansas. Wheat and the sunflower vied with each other for the honor when the legislature debated the adoption of the flag, but the house of representatives upheld the name of the Sunflower State and the peculiarity of Kansas' seal motto: "Kansas Grows the Best Wheat in the World."

Selection of a flag design has been a controversial issue in every legislature for a decade. The two rival patriotic organizations in the D.A.R. and the Women's Relief Corps, G.A.R. auxiliary, have contended with every legislature for the adoption of their designs.

Corinne Griffith At Griffin Now

Plays Wonderfully Well in "Lillies of the Field"

Those who saw Corinne Griffith at the Griffin Theatre the first of the week will not want to miss the opportunity of seeing this favorite screen star again—this time taking the part of "Sally the girl" in "Lilies of the Field." Sally Marie plays opposite her, in the role of a rich bachelor, who is bored to death with the aimless life which his friends lead. He has taken a very cynical outlook on life, and then he meets "the girl". She does not try to ramp him, and for that reason he becomes deeply interested.

Conway Tearle is ideally suited to the part and Conway with her eccentric personality and whimsey way displays some clever acting.

TABERNACLE WINS INTERESTING DEBATE

On Monday evening of this week a pleasant time was spent in the Sunday School room of the Tabernacle church when the Young People's League of the Holloway St. and Bridge St. churches were entertained by the Tabernacle League.

Cecil Lent, President of the Tabernacle League took charge of the opening part of the program, after which he called on Mr. Russell Wotten to take the chair. The debate between Bridge St. League, represented by Mr Chas. Hyde and Miss Fraser, upheld the affirmative, side and The Tabernacle League represented by Miss Lauren Bell and Mr. Cecil McMullen upheld the negative. The speakers subjects were: The pendulum swings to the left. The pendulum swings to the right. Rev. Thomas, Prof. Bamforth and Prof. Dingle, Mr. Mabel acted as critic.

During the evening the gatherings was favored by readings by Master Asa Lloyd and piano duets by Miss Hewett Barker and Miss Kathleen Turk.

The meeting broke up about 10.45 p.m. after refreshments and a vote of appreciation to the Tabernacle League, moved by Miss Wilson and seconded by Mr. Lloyd.

The Tabernacle are now winners of the silver shield, Holloway St. team, now eliminated both Holloway St. and Bridge St.

The Germany that was considered power-stricken a year ago is now planning to purchase $50,000,000 of American gold. Arrangements for the transaction have been virtually completed. These purchases will be made without recourse whatever to the recent gold credit established for the German Government through flotation of $110,000,000 German Governmental reparation bonds.

Master At Oxford Has An Easy Time

Have Life Job With Little Duty To Perform

Oxford, England, March 19.—The (wrinkled) pants fashion of raising young men to high places has as yet found no champions in Oxford. The average age of the present heads of Colleges is sixty-two years, despite a number of recent elections. A master must be at least twenty-four, 100 and several heads who are now well on in the eighties are ambitious of debuting as Dean. The prodigious sex and sureness of these very learned men preserves the vigour of the old monastic founders who, with a belief that a sane mind could not exist in a sound body, are said to have picked upon Oxford as the most unhealthy town of their acquaintance.

The duties of an Oxford College head are neither onerous nor agitating. He personally admits all new undergraduates into his college, invites them to breakfast once or twice, and hopes that sees very little of them. Heads of colleges are not obliged even to teach or to lecture, they do not speak in Rotary Club luncheons, or indulge in feminine flummery.

Curiously enough, these men who have little to do in most instances in their respective colleges have everything to do in the administration of the university. While they dispute with the university proctors and deny its authority and object to its schemes, the most unruly fellows, they are the official purveyors, the university themselves. Meeting in a body they keenly conclave called convocation, they transact university business, appoint the university proctors and elect one of their number to be the vice chancellor, an annually created office entailing the presidency of a great American university.

Convocation meets with much ceremony in a room where no artificial light is permitted, and its meditations being strictly those of darkness. As it is an afternoon function, much more business is transacted in the lighter months than in winter.

The breadstuff of a college is a life job, regulated only by the statutes there a life job is a long job, some of the present heads having held their places for nearly 40 years. The average age of the present heads at the time of their election was a little over 56 years. Older and older are being elected heads, most of the recently elected heads having passed 59 years of age.

HER NERVES BETTER NOW

Received Much Benefit by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Chatham, Ontario.—"I started to get weak after my second child was born and kept on getting worse until I could scarcely do my housework and was so bad that I had to go to bed. I was afraid to stay alone as I thought I had a girl working for me and a week before I was able to get around again. Through a friend I learned of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took a bottle of it. I gave birth to a baby boy the 6th day of September, 1924, and still keep my own work and washing. Of course, I don't feel that way every day, but I don't get my rest as the baby is so cross. But when I get my rest I feel fine and am still taking the Vegetable Compound and am going to keep on with it until cured. My nerves are a lot better since taking it. I can stay alone day or night and not be the least frightened. You can use this letter as a testimonial and I will answer letters from women who are taking Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. CHARLES GARSON, 37 Forsythe Street, Chatham, Ontario.

Man Disappears Find Blood Stains

Vancouver Has Mystery in Death of John Smith

Vancouver, B. C., March 16—During the trip down the coast Sunday night, John Smith, 60, mysteriously disappeared from his cabin on the steamship Chastine. Blood was found on a pocket knife in the room and several drops of blood marked a trail from the cabin to the steps leading to the deck.

Smith, who boarded the steamer Sunday night at Powell River, had hired his berth, a detective here, to meet Mr. Adams.

There is no direct evidence of suicide and nothing so far to establish a murder theory, say the police who admit that the case has so far baffled them.

Blood stains were found in different parts of the cabin and the extent to which these had dried led the officers to believe that they had been there for several hours. Stains on the door opened mystified, for there was a large enough space a foot from the bottom of the door and on the door frame were fresh stains.

W. Smith, brother of the missing man expressed himself as being confident that it was not a case of suicide and said that there was no motive for such an act.

The writing man had been a prospector and miner, one of the "originals" of the Klondyke rush.

GNN kpeoalil Adlerika removes 1.80 and often brings surprising relief to the stomach. Stops that full, bloated feeling. Removes old waste matter from intestines and makes you feel happy and cheerful. Excellent for obstinate constipation. J. B. McKown, Druggist.

Former Lieut.-Governor MacCallum Grant, of Nova Scotia, was report ed yesterday to be seriously ill at his home at Halifax. The nature of his illness was not stated, but it was said at his home that he was "very ill". He left office in January when he resigned owing to ill health after occupying the Government House for eight years.

Letters To The Editor

INVESTIGATE FIRST

Editor Intelligencer:

The attention of the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce has been called to reports of stock-selling propositions in which the salesmen have been holding out the lure of prospective profits of several hundred per cent.

The question naturally arises that if such unusual profits are fairly certain of realization why it is that the promoters can find it necessary to leave the large centres and peddle their glittering wares in Belleville. In Toronto or in Montreal, as the case may be, are to be found many of the keenest financial investors in the world. It is probable that these men would permit the opportunities for such great gains to pass them if they believed the gains were likely to be made?

Those who are solicited by stock or bond salesmen or by real estate promoters to send their money to far-away fields would do well to remember that all forms of investment that offer extraordinary rates of interest or fabulous dividends are highly speculative in their character. Other than not they are dishonest and dangerous. Safe investments almost never offer to pay high dividends.

Before turning to the Chamber of Commerce [illegible] a criterion for use by the Life Underwriters Association of Belleville as a caution and a warning to recipients of life insurance claims to exercise the utmost care in placing their funds in any stock scheme or business of a doubtful character until the credentials of those behind the proposition had been thoroughly investigated the benefits had been obtained and the statements made by the selling agents had been tested out by the most positive and searching inquiry.

As a means of assistance to those having money to invest to make a wise discrimination between the bogus and the genuine the Chamber of Commerce suggested that before any documents should be signed or any funds paid over satisfactory answers should be obtained to the following questions.

(1) Does your banker or some reliable financial adviser say it is a safe investment?

(2) Will a bank lend money on the stock?

(3) Who are the men behind the company or enterprise?

(4) How much of my money goes to the salesman?

(5)—Can I sell the stock or other security offered when I need money?

The Chamber of Commerce has an investigation Committee that will do its best to obtain reliable information about any stock, bond or other form of investment that is offered for sale in the local field upon the request of any citizens. Such information will be given in a confidential way to any individual seeking it whether a member of the Chamber of Commerce or not. Our desire is to prevent as far as possible the extremely serious losses that have been incurred by many of our citizens, who could ill afford to do so, because of their inexperience in making investments and because they trusted some smooth yet-talker who was seeking his victims among the unschooled and the unwary.

All of us, within our own limited circles of acquaintance, know of many such cases where perhaps the entire savings of a thrifty man's life-time or a widow's only means of sustenance have been swept away because he had been wheedled into putting their money into some worthless stock, wild-cat, real estate promotion or other investment of a doubtful or hazardous character.

Most of this could be prevented if we would only not be too great a hurry to pick off the golden fruit that would wait until we had patiently and cautiously investigated.

J. O. HERITY,
Manager Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

FINGER EXPERT RETIRES

(Associated Press Despatch)

London, March 16.—C. S. Collins, superintendent of the identification bureau of Scotland Yard, who has made nearly 100,000 finger prints of criminals and suspects, retired recently after 39 years' service in the London police department.

From the finger prints on file in Mr. Collins' department some 2,000 identifications have been made, according to the authorities, without a single mistake. "I would stake my life on the probability that there never will be finger prints alike, even if the world goes on indefinitely," Mr. Collins said recently in speaking of his work. During the next generation, he asserted, finger prints would be much more generally used everywhere, not only in the identification of criminals, but as a matter of record in births, and numerous other directions.

DAUGHTER AND MOTHER FOUND DEAD UP NORTH

Double Suicide Alleged as Investigation is Proceeding

TO HOLD INQUEST

Father and Husband Discovers Letters and Bodies

Belleville is today acquainted with another of the grim tragedies of the north country. This time an alleged double suicide is involved by three mother and daughter, Mrs. Nettie Wilson, aged 52, and her illegitimate child daughter Gladys, 16 dead, side by side, at Fort Stewart, 5 years and they north country hamlet. Gladys' two children, those of Norcott relatives in Hastings county, were the shrews of Fraser Lake, where the tragic climax of both lives.

Three letters which were left at Mrs. Nettie Wilson, but not discovered until a week later than her death, have been found in the lake by members of the family, reveal somewhat the reasons for the double deed, it is believed, although the contents of the letters will not be divulged for the public at present. One letter was written to the woman's husband, Mr. Thomas Wilson, who, one to her girl friend, and one to her husband.

An inquest will be held at Bancroft on Monday next, over which Dr. Reed Lamb, coroner of Eldorado, will preside, and County Crown Attorney Mr. Donnan of this city will conduct the examination of witnesses. Dr. Reed was first notified of the tragedy by Dr. Hall, one of the local physicians who made this morning.

In this connection it is believed that the bodies will be taken to Belleville for the funeral from Fort Stewart. A post mortem examination will be made, it is said, on Monday.

C. E. Garnett, District Inspector of Provincial police here, first learned of the double tragedy for which Dr. Reed Lamb, coroner of Eldorado, will preside, and County Attorney Mr. Donnan of this city will conduct the examination of witnesses. Dr. Reed was first notified of the tragedy by Dr. Hall, one of the local physicians who made this morning.

In this connection it is believed that the bodies will be taken to Belleville for the funeral from Fort Stewart. A post mortem examination will be made, it is said, on Monday.

C. E. Garnett, District Inspector of Provincial police here, first learned of the double tragedy for which Dr. Reed when he received word from the north country concerning the discovery of a woman and girl—of the drowning. He immediately communicated with Provincial Constable McCoy who, it is understood, left for the scene of the tragedy on Wednesday, with the latter's return from Fort Stewart, and with him accompanying the remains of the victims. Officer McCoy returned from Fort Stewart to Bancroft this morning about 3.30 o'clock.

Found Near Shore

Though positive details are not obtainable today, it is known the bodies of the mother and her daughter were found near the shore of Fraser Lake on Wednesday afternoon by other members of the family. The woman's body was recovered at 4 o'clock and the afternoon, the girl's body one hour later. About 5 o'clock that evening, afternoon, the dead woman's husband was advised with their report and later approached the father with tearful eyes, Mr. Wilson left immediately Prior to his being awakened by his crying child, he had seen a woman resting on a couch where he had fallen asleep. His arms and went outside where he met his brother-in-law, Mr. Hall, who he saw tracks in the snow. When the bodies were delivered, they were discovered at the lake shore nearby. This greatly shocked the father.

Returning to the house, the father found the three letters which apparently to spread the alarm, as the letters intimated a double suicide pact at the lake waters. The man then got his aged father, and after a search the bodies were found.

County Attorney Donnan, in conversation with the intelligencer early this afternoon, said that he believed current position explanation would be made by Dr. Lamb. He did not believe that Dr. Lamb would hold an inquest at Bancroft, until Monday, the date set for the coroner's visit to the city. The inquest will be enlarged on Monday, it is believed, as is the custom, when identification has been made, and in the interim, final preparations will be made for the inquest.

Warsaw Fearing Chinese Invasion

About a Thousand Orientals Pay Visit in Recent Months

(Associated Press Despatch)

Warsaw, Poland, March 20.—Fearing a so-called Chinese invasion because of the visit to this country of nearly 1,000 Orientals during the last few months, the Polish government has decided that no more Chinese will be admitted until their applications have been passed upon by the Warsaw Foreign Office. The Chinese government, it is understood, is awaiting further details of the Polish government's action before taking up the question with the Warsaw officials.

The invasion began last fall when Chinese peddlers began arriving in Warsaw with Chinese wares and curios, most of them coming by way of Berlin, where they had been granted visas by German consulate. Some weeks later several hundred additional Chinese applied for permission to come to Warsaw and were granted visas and early this year there were further applicants until it is estimated that approximately 1,200 celestials had visited the country, all representing themselves to be importers.

Recalling the fact that several months prior to the outbreak of the world war then under Russian rule, was visited by several thousand Chinese, all representing themselves as Chinese Indemnity Commissioners, the Polish authorities have become suspicious. They have received reports from their agents that some of the Chinese are using their visas as trademen are in reality engaged in espionage, probably for the Bolshevist government. They speak German as well as Russian, and appear to be prosperous whether they do much business or not.

C.N.R. Honors Two Of Its Employees

Whose Total Service With The Railway in 104 Years

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Richmond, Que., March 20.—Two men whose record of service in the employ of the Grand Trunk and Canadian Northern Railway system amounts to more than one hundred years, were guests of honor at a meeting of their fellow employees and associates held in the town hall at Richmond Corner, on Friday night.

The men were Mr. Frederic A. Johnstone, and, Mr. Jos. Lambert, who retired on pension on January first, after having served 50 years each as engineer and conductor respectively.

Mr. Johnstone and Mr. Lambert were the recipients of gifts from their associates in recognition of their long and meritous service and as an expression of the esteem in which they are held by those among whom they lived and worked for many years. Mr. Johnston received a gold headed cane and a handsome smoking cabinet, while Mr. Lambert was presented with a gold headed cane and a solid leather club bag. In addition Mr. Lambert was honored with the twenty-five year service medallion of the Order of Conductors and a testimonial from the Commercial Travellers Association of the Province of Quebec. The presentations were made by Major F. L. C. Bond, General Sept. of the Canadian National Railways; Mr. A. E. McVannahan, Supt. Portland Division who also presided over the meeting.

The hall was crowded for the occasion which was unique in several respects. The outstanding feature was perhaps the presence on platform with the guests of honor, of nine former employees of the Grand Trunk and Canadian National Railways, whose aggregate service with the company totalled 420 years. None of the nine had served less than forty years continuous service with the company.

Many Attended Funeral Today

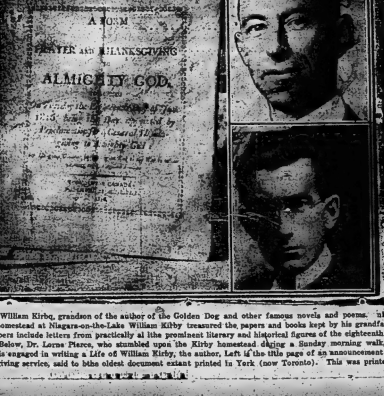

When Body of Late John McIntosh Was Laid to Rest

The great esteem in which the late Mr. John McIntosh, a merchant of Belleville for many years, was held was afternoon when scores of citizens representing all walks of life and all community were in attendance to pay the last tribute of respect to the departed at the funeral. The ceremony was under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity and many members of the craft from the city and vicinity were in attendance. A number of employees from the branch stores of deceased in Trenton, Colborne, Campbellford, Napanee and Kingston were present. The floral tributes were not only numerous but beautiful in effect, bearing many expressions of sympathy.

At the late family residence, 52 Hillcrest avenue an impressive service was held, conducted by Rev. R. J. Kerr, assisted by the Rev. D. C. Hanna, Pastor of John Street Church, at 3.30 the cortege left the house and proceeded to the Belleville cemetery where interment took place.

The burial service of the Society was taken by Wor. Bro. W. Barlow, Pt. Wor. Bro. J. Newton, W. Bro. G. Dulmage, Wor. Bro. W. H. J. Clarke, Pt. Wor. Bro. H. F. Ketchaen and Pt. Wor. Bro. E. H. Spencer, of Trenton.

Bearers were members of the craft namely Bro. H. J. Clarke, J. W. Barlow, J. G. Herity, Elliott, H. J. Hall and Dr. J. W. Kinnear.

CURZON PASSED BEYOND EARLY THIS MORNING

Famous British Statesman Was in His 66th Year

CAREER OF SERVICE

Took Government Post when Only 33 Years of Age

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London March 20.—Death to-day claimed Marquis Curzon of Kedleston, Lord President of the Council and former Foreign Secretary. The end came at 5.35 o'clock this morning after a fight against pneumonia which developed following his operation of two weeks ago. The Marquis had been ill since.

The first intimation of a break in his health came on March 5, when he collapsed while dressing in his apartments at Cambridge as which he was to have delivered a speech. The collapse was marked by faintness and nasal hemorrhages. An operation was performed four days later in London, but the nature of the trouble was not given out. Regular medical bulletins regarding his condition failed to appear mainly but bladder trouble was generally given as the cause of his collapse.

Lord Curzon was born at Kiza and Ballol College, Oxford. At Oxford he was president of the Union, the all-embracing students' organization. Upon leaving Oxford with high honors Curzon published on his University educations with travel.

Started in Voting

In his sixth year in the House of Commons Curzon received a post in the Conservative government as Parliamentary of State for India. At that time he was only thirty-two. His political career was then considered to promise to Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs. A few months later he was made baron in 1898, he was sent to India as Viceroy and Governor General, a post he retained, until 1905.

Lord Curzon was in the war Cabinet in the Lloyd-George Coalition Government and was the leader of the House of Lords in 1916. He continued in that position throughout the war and the reconstruction period. He became Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs in 1919, and continued in that office in the Bonar Law Government after the Lloyd George rule had been smashed by the Tories.

YESTERDAY'S GALE SWEPT OFF ROOF

During the high gale which swept the city throughout Thursday, about half of the roof of the building owned by Thomas Bell, the well known sanitary engineer, at 123 Pinnacle street, was blown away. The roof crashing on the lawn in front of the home of D. T. Boyd, who lives next door about at 134 Pinnacle street. Lacflig no part of the flying timber struck the Boyd home, but those in the house were naturally surprised to hear the crash and see the unusual occurrence. It was the south side of the roof which was blown off.

ORANGE GRAND LODGE DECIDES TO MEET HERE

Vote for Next Year's Session Made at Ottawa To-day

HONOR F. B. CLARK

Illuminated Address was Presented to Belleville Veteran

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, March 20.—The Orange Orangemen in Canada makes no secret of the fact that one of its chief aims is to keep Canada within the British Empire and to counteract the effect of an influx of immigrants of other than British blood. Dr. C. W. Bennett, Grand Master and Sovereign of Grand Lodge of British America, told more than 1500 people who had crowded the Orange Hall last night at the close of the fifth session of Grand Lodge of Ontario East.

He condemned the policy of allowing many foreign born immigrants into this country, when British born Settler it difficult to accommodate a rapidly growing surplus of population.

The next session is to be held at Belleville.

Recognize Services

In recognition of his services to the Order during the 30 years he was in office, an illuminated address was yesterdays presented to F. M. Clark, of Belleville, Ont., who retired last year from the post of Grand Secretary of the Grand Lodge of Ontario East. The presentation was made at the annual grand meeting of the Grand Ontario Orangemen's meeting at Ottawa.

Drastic Penalties For O.T.A. Offenders

Imprisonment Only After First Offence; $5,000 fine For Breweries

Toronto, March 20.—The heralded amendments to the Ontario Temperance Act, presented to the Province in the Speech from the Throne at the present sitting, arrived in the Ontario House yesterday and were given first reading. They are embodied in a measure of some 179 clauses, their general effect being to make the O.T.A. stronger, to reduce the number of prescriptions which permitted to liquor physicians, and to revise radically the penalties connected with the present Temperance Act.

As amplified by the explanation of the Provincial Secretary, the amendments were declared to provide for the closing of bars in hotels, clubs, restaurants and cafeterias of good standing, and of the so-called bona fide legitimate grocery stores. The bar would be allowed to continue selling this beverage, and it was emphasized that the penalties under the proposals would weigh strongly in deciding whether or not they should be allowed to continue.

Sale by clubs is sanctioned, patent medicines exempted for "medicinal" purposes are forbidden, and regulations are framed governing liquor store sale to medicinal purposes. Physicians are limited to the issue of 30 prescriptions per month, whereas they could previously issue 60. The increased quantity which can be obtained by prescription is unchanged.

Penalties Increased

Probably some of the most interesting of the changes are to be found in the penalty sections of the bill. Compulsory jail terms in addition to fines for all offences of liberal selling remain the same but imprisonment for any offence imprisonment of from two to four months, in addition to any fine which may be imposed. The penalty for illegal carrying of liquor is reduced from $200 to $50 as a minimum, but the maximum of $1,000 being unchanged.

In explanation of the b ill, the Attorney-General said that permits would be granted only to those in the best interests of the applicant and also with regard to the premises.

With regard to containers, he stated that all bottles must have a crown cork stopper, bearing on the outside and inside the name of the brewer and the character of the commodity. The bill must also have this information branded on the package.

Appeal from the decision of magistrates may be taken to the courts, during which an appeal might be lodged with the Provincial Secretary or Attorney-Hon. Mr. Nickle stated that in many cases had been made in the penalty of $100 in respect to the appeal and the deposit was made for $50.

With reference to the provision that liquor which had not been purchased from a government store be bootlegged, and in the province Hon. Mr. Nickle said that this was to prevent importation for sale.

A Common Sense Solution

After presenting his outline of the main features of the bill the Provincial General went on: "The time has come when we should have some common sense and principles and meet the problem as it should come in a common sense way. (Applause). The present limitations in the O.T.A. are artificial, cocrcible, illogical and certainly not enforceable. They have that the step we have taken is in the general interest of temperance.

I said as a previous occasion, and will help to combat the rapid increase of whiskey and alcohol drinking. At the same time there is no desire in respecting the principle of the Act, as the present law, to make it easier for the purchase of 2 1-2 per cent. proof spirits to 2 1-2 per cent. wood by volume does not make it intoxicating. The Government is determined so far as lies within its power to put an end to the bootlegger, and he will be made hard.

Dog Named "Bristol" Has Many Masters, He Is Owned By No Fewer Than 54 Nations

Bristol is a dog. He may not be the most valuable animal in the world, but he has the greatest number of masters. Bristol is also the League of Nations' mascot, and he has been officially adopted by the delegates. Bristol has chased the old Hotel National, in Geneva, as its home Bristol went with the building. He refused to desert.

The dog soon made friends with many of the diplomats who attend the league meetings and has been given many official decoration in a league session. It was decided that Bristol was receiving. So now the league appropriations, which are met by the 54 nations members carry each year a sum for the support of Bristol.

AUTO SAILS IN AIR JUST LIKE BIT OF PAPER

Strange Story Told Describing Effect of Tornado Wednesday

BLOWN FIVE BLOCKS

Wife and Children Found In Newly Ploughed Field

(Associated Press Despatch)

Dakota, Ill., March 20.—Jacob Fankey, of Hazel, Ill., says that when he was returning to his home from Stockton with his wife and two small children in an automobile, when Wednesday's tornado approached, today described the fantasy of winds.

His team left a garage to escape, Fankey said, and as he stepped from the automobile, the roof of the garage was blown away.

Next, he said, his car was tossed into the air and smashed all of his wife and children in it. He also was lifted and blown five blocks, alighting uninjured on the Illinois Central railroad tracks, he continued.

His wife and children later were found in a freshly ploughed field, and their injuries, too, were slight. He added that the last time he saw his automobile, it was sailing.

Relief Work Proceeds

Chicago, March 20.—Still prostrated, but with blurred eyes losing temporary relief, supplemented by the arrival of trained workers, of clothing and medicines, the storm stricken areas of Illinois today continued to count the terrific price in life and property of its greatest tornado catastrophe. Fatalities in that disaster in thirty five cities and towns in the area which swept Wednesday afternoon indicated a death list of between 650 and 900, with approximately 2,000 thousand injured and many other persons missing.

Temporary morgues and hospitals are filled to overflowing with tracks of the dead and injured, and many large "lines" of dead for quicker identification. Physicians and nurses from many major operations and of doors without anesthetics.

Minister Delivered Lecture In Church

Rev. Capt. Kenny Tells of The Battlefields of Europe

The lecture on "The Battlefields of Europe" given by Rev. Capt. F. B. Kenny, last night was largely attended and much enjoyed by all. Musical numbers given by the "Radio Four" were much appreciated as were the solos given by Dr. A. E. Hoffman, Mr. R. Moorehead and Mr. A. L. Stillman. The Ladies Bible Class served a dainty lunch at the close.

Many of the slides shown were made from snapshots taken by Dr. Lesp, of Toronto, and Mr. Coughlin, of Kingston, Rev. Kenny's travelling companion. The resume given of the battles of Mons, Ypres, Somme of the Great War, and gave a vivid picture of the fighting which took part in the struggle. Slides showing Washington and Oxford, Britain have been operating in blocking Bruges Ship Canal, which the Germans claimed to be the greatest naval operations of history, were exceptionally good. Some splendid pictures of Brussels were shown, the Bourse, Palace of Justice and St. Gudule Cathedral.

In the Ypres section were shown De Shatesn Line, and cemetery, pill boxes, reservation points, wire entanglements, dog outs and trenches. Zillebeck Talk cemetery showed some disabled tanks. Three hundred tanks were destroyed in the Ypres section. Views of the Cloth Churches and cemeteries were shown in the Arras section. Wood Point, Albert and Battlefields were shown to advantage. Some remarkable views of the memory of men of the 4th Canadian Artillery, and 4th Can. Division and South Africa. The second to Canadians at Vimy Ridge fame.

Rev. Kenny his hearers to Palace of Versailles a lengthy description was given. He called it the most gorgeous ex-home of royalty in the world. It was the scene of the settlement of the greatest war of history. Some views of Paris Arch de Triumphe, The Pantheon, Grand Opera house and the famous churches of Madeleine and Notre Dame. In concluding Captain Kenny said, "I trust that you remember the list of those whom the world will not without fight let die. Their names are in Flanders, but their names are immortal of those who can be obtained by prescription is unchanged.

Complaints Heard

Probably some of the most interesting of the changes to be found in the penalty sections of the bill. Compulsory jail terms in addition to fines for all offences of liberal selling remain the same but imprisonment for any offence imprisonment of from two to four months, in addition to any fine which may be imposed. The penalty for illegal carrying of liquor is reduced from $200 to $50 as a minimum, but the maximum of $1,000 being unchanged.

In explanation of the b ill, the Attorney-General said that permits would be granted only to those in the best interests of the applicant and also with regard to the premises.

With regard to containers, he stated that all bottles must have a crown cork stopper, bearing on the outside and inside the name of the brewer and the character of the commodity. The bill must also have this information branded on the package.

Appeal from the decision of magistrates may be taken to the courts, during which an appeal might be lodged with the Provincial Secretary or Attorney-Hon. Mr. Nickle stated that in many cases had been made in the penalty of $100 in respect to the appeal and the deposit was made for $50.

With reference to the provision that liquor which had not been purchased from a government store be bootlegged, and in the province Hon. Mr. Nickle said

God's Kingdom Has Come

Do you believe the Bible as God's inspired Word? Then you must believe that God's Kingdom is coming on earth sometime soon, said to the Pharisees "Ye can discern the face of the sky but can ye not discern the signs of the times". If they had they would have recognized Jesus at his first advent. The same is true today. Hear Mr. Ferris next Sunday evening in the City Hall on the "Signs of the Times". Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

The Supremacy Of Law

No nation can continue to exist that does not have laws and respect them.

Civilized society is built up around the fabric of law.

There are those who use intoxicating liquors, and who do not think the country ought to prohibit their sale and transportation.

These people have a perfect right to work for the abolition of the Volstead and the constitutional amendment behind it. But they have not the right to ignore the operation of this law as against all the others.

There are many people who have to pay income taxes, inheritance taxes and other taxes which they may be very unjust, but as long as they exist, they must be paid. The government of the country should be adhered to.

The best way to get rid of a bad law, as Grant said, is to enforce it.

Unless government enforces a law severely and justly all around, it has no right to exist.

Every effort ought to be made therefore, to assist the President and his Associates in executing existing laws. They should be obeyed implicitly. For we may be sure that whatever interferes with our personal liberty is an oppression of the will of the majority and as that will we must bow.

If every man who disagreed with the law undertook to violate it we should be a nation of criminals.

President Coolidge said: "Where the law goes, there civilization goes and stays. Where the laws fails, barbarism flourishes. Wherever scouts the law, whoever brings it into disrespect, whoever connives at its evasion, is an enemy to civilization."

Judge Gary said: "We should openly and fearlessly discuss the merits of any law or of all laws when the occasion demands. But no man has the right to violate any law, while it is in force, unless his honest, deliberate conscience compels him to do so on what he thinks to be reasonable and moral grounds. If it turns out that he was wrong in his opinion he must submit himself to be punished for violation."

Thoughtful minds are agreed upon the necessity for maintaining respect for the law. There are very few laws of us who are entirely pleased with all the laws that are passed, but we should work honestly for their repeal and not seek to violate them.

What a community would be if there were no law, that is no relegation of our own rights to higher authorities, is exemplified by Herrin. There crime is rampant. For the rule is that of violence and not of respect for law.

The less law's altogether revel to betterment. And the press agents of history do not always pick out the biggest heroes for their songs. The sword of Caesar and the test tubes of Pasteur prove this.

Dutchy's Diary

Musicians and Birds

That idea of the Presto Musical Club, in The Daily Intelligencer last evening, by which this progressive body of Belleville citizens plan to bring the high class artists for Belleville audiences, appeals to me, and I believe the Club will be surprised by the enthusiastic manner in which the public generally will rally around.

Those who have had experience in bringing in well paid outside talent know just how often the venture proves a loss to the promoters of a city the size of Belleville.

This is due not to the lack of appreciation of good music by Belleville people. Rather the situation is the result of a combination of circumstances.

Expenses incurred by such concerts are unusually high. Those making arrangements, guided by the danger of a poor crowd, must raise the price of tickets, a price often prohibitive to music lovers who cannot afford it. Again, outstanding artists get a guarantee in advance as a matter of course, and as organization is not always in a position to meet this contingency. Quite often, too, there are so many other attractions offered around the same date that only the best people.

All these difficulties would be overcome, however, were the Presto Musical Club to secure the use of five hundred associate members at a dollar and a half per membership.

The Club would be sure of definite receipts with the knowledge that there would always be a number of non-members to swell the funds. And there is no doubt whatever that its membership would get more than the face value for their membership fee.

I hope the Presto Club puts this scheme over in fine style and that the success that is their due shall be in attendance.

DEFENCE AGAINST GAS

Captain Gerd, a French military expert, writing in the Revues Quadrimestrielle, dwells with gusto on what he chooses to callen as the end of British naval supremacy." In the event of a Franco-British conflict, we are told, the British fleet can be relied on to put in no time by French submarines and the war will be over.

The French captain will strike many as ludicrously previous. Yet he represents a definite tendency in French sentiment.

Captain Gerd quotes from a recent treatise by Commander Abeille—a professor at the Ecole Superieure de Marine, to the effect that a blockade of England will consist, simply, in "preventing merchant vessels from discharging their cargoes in the dozen ports, the obstruction of which would starve out the British population."

The efficacy of the German submarine war seems to have impressed Captain Gerd. Germany had at the height of this war 150 submarines in action in the channel, the North Sea, the Mediterranean and the Atlantic. These were compelled to operate over great radii. The French would have to act only in British waters, in short and repeated cruises. This would prevent excessive fatigue to crews and ships, and would facilitate frequent revictualing, refuelling and recharging with torpedoes.

Add to this the advantages of radio and of close liaison between submarines and air forces. Neither of these were fully at the disposal of the Germans. Captain Sorb concludes that 150 submarines, half of them actually cruising, and the remainder resting or bringing up supplies, would suffice.

What if, in those circumstances, the British were driven to strive for mastery in the air? Whatever superiority they might conceivably achieve would come too late. So says Captain Sorb.

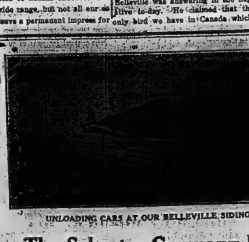

WHAT CONSTITUTES FAME?

In a museum in an European city there hangs in a glass case on a wall a sickly-carved sword. Nearby in another case are three simple glass vials, patently those of a chemist. Behind these two glass cases with their relics of antiquity a story is written so large that even he who runs may read.

The sword is the one with which Julius Caesar subdued the greater part of the Europe of his day, made of Rome the greatest empire in the world, and carved for himself a place in the pages of history that time will never efface. The lowly glass vials were some of the lost tubes of Louis Pasteur, who never conquered even a nation, much less a world, and whose only contribution to history was the discovery of the germ as man's greatest enemy, and the best way to battle this foe.

The sword of Caesar, and the swords of his legions behind him, destroyed millions of lives. The glory of Caesar has heralded through out the world for ages. The name of Pasteur is scarcely known outside the realms of science. Yet which of these two, think you, contributed most to human welfare—the doughty warrior, or the timid little chemist?

The field of human endeavor has a very wide range, but not all our activities leave a permanent impress for

Fullerton

(By Staff Correspondent)

On March 6th at a very pretty wedding was solemnized at Smithe Falls by rector Rev. Rogers where Miss Bessie Muriel only daughter of the late Alex Mather and Mrs. Mather of Smithe Falls became the bride of Clifton Fuller, the ceremony was performed in the presence of immediate relatives. The bride was handsomely attired in a travelling suit of navy blue serge with hat to match and wore a corsage bouquet of white roses. The groom's gift to the bride was a set of furs and grey suit completed the bride's attire. The bride was married from the home of her parents Smithe Falls and the following address was presented the girl:

Dear Bessie:

We, the friends of your childhood and school days, feel that it is a great honor to add to your happiness on this joyful occasion, our guest this evening.

Many years have elapsed since you left your girlhood home, but we have never lost sight of you and have followed your life with love and reverence. But twelve the duties of life is always changing and we realize that you are about to embark on a new adventure another important part of a husband and a friend to that of a wife, a mother and a home of her own. We realize also that your new name is a true choice and we feel that we could not have made a more suitable one without in some way expressing our emotions so we ask you to accept these tokens and wear for the latter value, but as a slight degree of remembering on best wishes and we are making you and yours not all join us while we sing the old song "Auld Lang Syne" the gladness of memories of the past, the happiness of the present and your guide in the future, husband and your girl friend.

Signed on behalf of the friends,

Bessie Mather

Miss Hillenbrand.

The bride was unattended where she was given in marriage by her father and the people before her departure to Fullerton Falls. Following is the address

[illegible]

It gives us great pleasure to meet together this evening and endeavor in some measure to assure you of our friendship and interest in your welfare. We have known you for some years and have been inspired by your cheerfulness and willingness always to help wherever you could in any community life. We are glad for the friendship which has existed between you and us to work out. We therefore ask you to accept this token only for the interest it would but as a slight token of our esteem.

We are glad that you are going to the city that you will be able occasionally to enjoy your company. In doing so we also bless you with you every happiness. You are about to assume new duties and responsibilities and we believe you will cred- itably fulfill the duties of a wife, a mother and good wishes go with you. May your married life be blessed with many happy years and loyal friends as you journey through life. We would say you are to forget your friends, your friends and assure you, you will not be forgotten by us.

Signed—

Mildred Harrison, Mildred Maynes, Ruby Hollister and Maggie Vance.

The Fullerton Sunday School, Sunday School of Thousaburg presented her with a beautiful fish and following address:

Miss Bessie Mullerby, Thousaburg.

Dear Friend and Fellow Worker—

The officers and pupils of the Sunday School of Fullerton Falls are coming in a few words their appreciation of your services rendered to our school.

You have been among us a number of years and we have found you a faithful worker in the cause of Christ. You have always shown yourself willing and ready to take part in the activities of our school and by your example and teaches you have been helpful and helpful and efficient and faithful in the discharge of your responsibilities.

We could not let you go from among us without expressing, though inadequately our gratitude and friendship. Your absence from our midst will be greatly missed in our village but we know that wherever you go the same thing of your loyalty will be left.

We ask you to accept this Bible that it may be a true helper for Bible in this together. We trust you will studiously read the Word of life to be found in its pages. May you accept it as the sufficient rule for life and conduct and receive much profit and enjoyment and blessing as you study it. We present it to you hoping it will be a blessing at our wedding loyal friendship.

Signed on behalf of the Thousaburg Sunday School—

Mr. A. Jones, Supt.

On Saturday evening, March 14th, the members of the lodge met and presented Mrs. David Hollinger with a beautiful oak chair accompanied by the following address:

To Mrs. and Mrs. David Hollinger, Dear Friends—

We are gathered here tonight to show our pleasure at seeing a new home established and to wish you as young people all possible happiness and success.

Long'fellow says:

Oh fortunate oh happy day,
When a new household finds its place
Among the myriad homes of earth.
Like a new star just springing to birth,
And rolling on its harmonious way
Into the boundless realms of space.

We wish to congratulate you both on the happy start you are making in life and we look forward to having you as neighbors for a long time to come.

Acid Stomach Is Dangerous

Sufferers From Indigestion or Stomach Trouble CUT THIS OUT

"Stomach trouble, dyspepsia, indigestion, sourness, gas, heartburn, food fermentation, etc., are caused nine times in ten by chronic acid stomach, says a well known authority.

Burning hydrochloric acid develops in the stomach on an alarming rate. The acid irritates and inflames the delicate stomach lining and often leads to gastritis accompanied by dangerous indigestion. Those who have an acid stomach with pepsin or artificial digestants that only temporary relief from pain by driving the sour, fermenting food out of the stomach into the intestines.

Instead, neutralize an excess of acid stomach after meals with a little hot water and Bisurated Magnesia and not only will the pain vanish but your meals will digest naturally. There is nothing better than Bisurated Magnesia, to sweeten and settle an acid stomach. It soaks up the harmful excess acid, much as a sponge or blotting paper might and your stomach acts and feels fine in just a few minutes. Bisurated Magnesia can be obtained from any reliable druggist in either powder or tablet form. It is safe, reliable, easy and pleasant to use, is not a laxative and is not at all expensive.

FASHIONS & FOIBLES

by Shirley Sharon

The new watch seen in an extremely smart frock moves in a half circle in the front, from the pocket to the back straight and narrow.

A Paris frock seen recently in the lovely little Italian dining-room at Pierre's was a chic example of the new movement in the fashion width at the hem. The black taffeta front flared below the hip while the straight back was cut on cutting about knee. The frock was made of navy crepe de Chine in a deep cream shade of old parchment and the narrow collar and binding on the sleeves was of the same material in ink red. A great Persian dreamaker was made of the same in blue and mauve, rose and lilac petals.

As a token of the happy occasion please accept this chair from the lodge.

We pray that God's choicest blessing may rest upon you both and that you may be abundantly prospered in the years to come.

Signed on behalf of the L.O.R.A.

After the presentation of the chair Mr. Hollinger made suitable reply and thanked the friends very kindly a number of speeches were made also singing after which a dainty lunch was served by the ladies.

BELLEVILLE ARTISTS APPEAR IN NAPANEE

On Wednesday evening, March 11th, a high class concert was held in the Town Hall, Napanee, under the auspices of Corbyville Lodge, I.O.O.F. Four Belleville artists gave a very delightful program. Mrs. L. Kemp sang very acceptably a soprano solo entitled "Carmena," later singing an encore number "Sweet which called for prolonged applause. Mr. Allan Bert Harrison was in fine singing form and was most appreciated in the rendering of his songs and duets especially "The Battle Eve," in which he was ably assisted by Mr. Jack Deacon, also a soloist of excellent tenor voice. The latter exce- lled himself in the rendering of two songs from the opera of Pagliacci. In the second part of the program Miss Ker impersonated Harry Lauder. The singer was repeatedly encored, the proving that folks who are not Scotch can well enjoy Scotch humor and songs. Miss Fenn, in her well finished style left nothing to be desired in her accompaniment on the piano.

STRUCK BY AXE; WOUNDED ON HIP

Mr. Robert Cooney, a resident of Monk Road, North Hastings, received painful injuries on Wednesday. While he and other workmen were engaged in making ties, a young man by the name of Vance, accidently struck him a blow with an axe on the hip, inflicting a nasty wound, necessitating several stitches. Immediately after the accident Mr. Cooney was taken to Bancroft where Dr. Embury rendered medical attention. Mr. Cooney will be on the casualty list for several days.

PUSH HOTEL PLANS

At a meeting of the provincial directors of Ontario Hotel Company, Limited Monday evening, plans were completed for financing the remainder of the hotel proposition. It is stated from Toronto that there is fair amount of success has greeted the efforts of the directors and that there is not much doubt but the provincial capital will be carried out successfully by the Push Hotel Limited. Since the undertaking was first launched much has been lost to place it on a firm basis.

After 12 years' suffering with constipation, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought lasting relief

This woman feels ten years Nemora headaches no medicine.

Think what it means to be overflowing from the still, thinking headaches, sallow skin and spiritual tiredness which are constipation's toll. But let Mrs. Revis tell you her happier story:

"Words can't express my gratitude for what Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has done for me. I suffered with constipation almost 12 years. I had severe headaches and felt tired all the time. I've taken ALL-BRAN and haven't taken a dose of medicine since. I feel fine and my health is so improved I feel like a new woman."

(Signed) Mrs. F. G. Revis
(Address on request).

CHICAGO MARKET

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, March 20.—All grain underwent severe fall in value to-day as soon as market opened; wheat tumbling down as much as 5 1-2c bushel and rye about 7c. Reports of impending failure of grain firm in Antwerp were in circulation and to-day's Liverpool quotations showed big drop as compared with yesterday. Under such circumstances, selling stampede took place here, but good sized volume of buying developed and wheat market quickly steadied. Chief opening prices which ranged from 1c to 2 1-2 c lower, were followed by many swift changes but on the general upward trend that lifted May wheat to 21@1 3-4. Corn and oats were governed chiefly by action of wheat, after opening at 7-8c to 4 7-8c off corn market reacted to a fair extent. Oats started at 3-4c to 1c loss. Later rallies were made but only part of decline was overcome.

Provisions reflected weakness of grain and also of hog market.

Got Married As A Drunken Spree

Two Toronto Youngsters Now Seek Annulment In Court

"Our friends talked of getting married, and we thought we would get married, too," stated Dorothy Doyle, a young girl 17 years of age, in the witness box in the Non-jury Assize Court when an action was brought before Justice Mowat seeking the annulment of the marriage. The parents of both parties are desirous of having the marriage annulled.

The young girl is rather prepossessing, and her story in the witness box stated that she had only known her present husband, James Deadey a month before their marriage. On the day of the ceremony she met him again at her home at Long Branch and they went downtown together and young girl went from there to New Toronto. After that they went to a place and got something to drink.

"What did you have, beer or whisky?" asked his lordship.

"Whiskey," was the reply.

Talked of Marriage

"How did the question of marriage come up?" asked her counsel.

"Our friends talked of getting married and we thought we would, too."

"What happened then?" — "We went and got a license from a Justice of the Peace."

"Then where did you go?" — "We went to Father Clancy's."

"Are you a Catholic?" asked his Lordship.—"No."

"Is he a Catholic?"—"Yes."

Witness stated then that Father Clancy was at home and they then went to Rev. Mr. Robinson and were married by him. After they were and bought some peerless and then went home to her mother's still in company with their other wedding friends.

"What happened at home?" asked counsel.

"We had my mother."

Dines over with my mother."

"Did you ask your mother's permission to get married?"—"No, sir."

"What happened then?" — "Jimmie thought he had better go and see his father, and tell him what had happened."

Witness stated that when Jimmie came back her mother put him out of the house and that she had only seen him once since then, in company with some other person. To the judge she admitted that she was intoxicated at the time of the marriage ceremony and that the whole thing was just done for a prank.

Fell Off Chair

Justice Mowat—"Wasn't your condition noticeable to the minister?"—"I don't know, but I fell off the chair and I fell afterwards when I came outside."

In further examination by his Lordship and Deputy Attorney Bayly, representing the Attorney-General, she denied absolutely that there had been any consummation of the marriage.

On the witness stand, the young girl's mother told how astonished she had been to learn that her daughter had got married. At first she thought they were only joking when they came and told her, but still they showed her the certificate. When her daughter's husband came back and told her how his father had objected, she told him he could not stay with her daughter and that the rest of her daughter remained with her and had been stopping at home ever since, as she had also not in touch with the young man.

Justice Mowat thought that while the marriage was foolish, it wasn't improper and surprised that Deadey seemed to be a nice, respectable young fellow.

Jessie Laws the young woman who had acted as bridesmaid, was called as a witness after his Lordship had refused counsel's request that she be permitted to testify privately, in order to avoid publicity for family reasons. Witness said that in applying for the license the bride-to-be had described herself as Catholic. She said that when the marriage had been performed, Deadey had "referred to it as a joke," thought he ought to go home and break the news to his father. There was, witness said particular signs of affection shown by the young couple, she said, and admitted that they had been drinking beer, but wasn't "too heavily endowed."

Deadey's Father Objected

Deadey's father testified that his son would be only seventeen on the 29th, owing to his looking adult. Deadey, Jr., he said, went on a spree every once we a month.

When his son told him he told him of the marriage, he had "only him leave the house" and, on the instruction of counsel, said he could not see his wife. His mother had readmitted him, and he was allowed to live with her. His wife is dependent on me and is not capable of looking after herself," said Deadey, senior, who said he did not know the young woman or her family.

Rev. George W. Robinson, Methodist clergyman, would not say that the couple were drunk. "I could smell liquor of him," he said.

"Was the girl he married drunk?"—"No."

"Did they commence to laugh unseemingly during the ceremony?"—"They were trying at one time; but if it continued it would stop right there."

"Is it quite customary for you to marry half-drunken people at that age?" —"No, it isn't."

The groom said he had known Miss Doyle only a month, and they had not "got along very well."

"Did you kiss her after?" asked Justice Mowat.—"No."

Deadey said he had "been on a drunk for two days" before the marriage.

Was Intoxicated

Regaling the wedding, Deadey said: "I was so intoxicated I couldn't repeat the service. The girl could only repeat one word at a time." After the four drank whiskey in New Toronto, he said, they purchased groceries and went to the home of his mother-in-law. The latter seemed "broken up" and advised Deadey to go home to see his father. He went, was told to leave, then returned to Mrs. Doyle's. Mrs. Doyle had said: "You can't stay here. I can't have you under these circumstances." He had seen his bride but once since the marriage.

To Mr. Bayly young Deadey stated that he was 21 years of age and had gone to school.

"When you saw a young woman like this why did you go and get married?" —Well those other people suggested that we all get married."

"A double marriage and the others backed out?"—"Yes."

"And that was your only reason?"—"Yes."

When Kidneys Hurt Consult Your Doctor

DRINK LOTS OF WATER ALL DAY AND TAKE SALTS IF BACK ACHES

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids, which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatic headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irritates in passage or accompanied by a sensation of scalding, begin drinking lots of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may act fine.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complication. Try it, person have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Rinkey Dinks Are Winning Team

In Game of Comparatively Low Scoring at Y.M.C.A.

In the league fixture at the Y Alleys last night the Rinkey Dinks and Bitchies were the opposing teams and as both teams had players who have been on the nine high section team were rolling very high scores. The Rinkey Dinks happened to pull out a win by 166 pins. Miss Bissett of the Bitchies earned off the high single of the evening with 159 and Miss Brown of the Rinkey Dinks took the three string with 441.

COURT HEARS HOW MONEY WAS LOST

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, March 19.—The story of how the fortune of Frank Waterhouse amounting to one hundred thousand pounds, disappeared in eight years through an alleged conspiracy against him by Lady Magdalen Wilson Barker, was unfolded yesterday in the court here during the trial of suit of the widow of Waterhouse against Lady Wilson Barker and R. F. Sheldon. The suit is for money which the widow alleges, was extorted from her husband.

Industrials Win The C.I.A. League

Won Eight Straight Games At The Recreation Alleys

The Night Hawks lost to the Flat Foots yesterday evening in the C.N.R. Night Hawks' League by the close score of 24 pins. It was a close game all the way through, the Flat Foots leading the first game by 14 pins and added another 10 pins to the account in the third the Flat Foots won out by 9 pin. Johns and Henderson were high bowlers for their respective teams.

The Alemite are coming right along in the Junior League last night they played the Rovers and although some lost out they have showed some wonderful improvement since their first game. High bowlers were Wesly for the Rovers and Jefferies for the Alemite.

The Industrials and the Coopers finished up the C.I.A. league last night, the former team winning out and also winning the league championship with 8 straight wins. A very remarkable showing. Although they won some very close games, the Industrials have rolled some very good scores, their score last night being 2646 against the Coopers' 2518. Barrett and Hayes were high bowlers.

Last night the M.P. Shops clinched the C.N.R. championship when they won from the Harrow Dept. by over 200 pins. The Shops have only one more game to play and even if they lose it won't make any difference in the standing as the nearest team have but two games to play. The same last night the Shops went into the third game with a plus in the hole and in the last game came through with one of their big scores, rolling 995 against the Express' 795. Marr and Harris were high bowlers for their teams. Prayers and scores:

Parboil the ham, simmer five minutes. Drain, reserving the liquid. Put the ham and soda crackers through a meat-chopper; mix with the tomatoes and the eggs well beaten. Chop the onion and the parsley very fine and add to the mixture. Wash the peppers, cut them in half lengthwise, and remove the seeds. Fill the pepper shells with the mixture and place them in a shallow, baking dish surrounded by water in which the ham was cooked. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) one hour. This recipe will serve five persons.

Japan's Royalty Breaks Into Poetry

Contest Held With "Mountain Against Sky" as Subject

(Associated Press Despatch)

Tokio, Feb. 20.—More than 22,000 poems were submitted for the imperial poetry party, held recently at the palace in pursuance of a custom dating from most ancient days. The subject this year was "Mountain against sky," and the judges awarded the first and second honors to the following:

"I see Mount Horomuki at the end of a field where are fleecy, sheep like scattered clouds."

The second award went to these verses:

"Drooping Mount Hira all peaks, trending Great, His and Small His, stand bold against the sky."

The royal family also were contributors, some of them as follows:

"Mount Fuji alone is white with snow although the tops of other mountains melt in the blue of the sky."

THE EMPRESS.

"I would that posture of the world in like Mount Takasago, which stands bravely against the sky."

THE PRINCE REGENT.

"I see the high peak of Mount Fuji against the sky and the people worshipping the rising sun on the New Year Day."

THE CROWN PRINCESS.

"I see clearly mountain after mountain, all clad with snow, ranging against the sky."

DOWAGER PRINCESS HIGASHI FUSHIMI.

Owen Sound Suburban Commission has appointed Robert McKnight engineer for the commission for this year at a salary of $150. Mr. McKnight is the County Engineer, and will hold the two positions during the year.

The Town of Riverside will require another public school this year to handle the rapidly increasing attendance, according to L. A. Learne, Secretary of the School Board.

"Gambler' didn't seem much wicked to me until that year I bet Pa a new hat on Bryan."

(Copyright, 1924, Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

He doesn't start, but he raises his head and looks at her steadily; then as if her meaning had become clear to him he says:

"Indeed! The man who wins you claims for his wife what no every lawful mortal—"

"Yes!" she assents promptly. "She seems such a dear girl!" And I do hope she will be happy!"

He inclines his head silently—there seems to be almost a trace of a smile upon his lips—and almost immediately afterward gets up and strolls away from her. Lady Blanche has shot her arrow at a venture, and she cannot even guess whether it has hit the mark.

Lady Scott comes to her presently and asks her to dance, and the marquis is in attendance at the piano, announcing the waltz. Elaine is never a heir waltzrated voice; but he allows her to be harmonized by some of his other men, without attempting to monopolize her, and presently she notices that he has left the group and disappeared.

It is to Elaine that he has gone.

A few minutes later, with a sharp cry over her white shoulders, he hand reeling lightly on the arm of the marquis, they stroll and the music race. He points to the slade through the trees, where the silver like a band of silver under the rays of the new moon.

"Let us go down toward the bridge," he says, and she has never stood for a moment or two in silence, and as they so he talks to her in low voice of love, the deep sound of love is spoken, is full of tenderness and devotion.

Elaine watch his face and the stone and looks down at her.

"I wonder whether you could guess how often I have been here during the last week?" he says. "Whenever I leave the house and get into the carriage I find myself strolling this way. No! don't be afraid!" he adds quickly as his ruler flies to her face. "I am not going to recoat what I said at the ball—not yet! I dare not risk a refusal! Let me live in hope for a few days longer. You shall tell me then, when you have known a little more of me. Not yet!" and he lays his hand firmly over on his arm and holds it tightly entreatingly, reassuringly.

As they stand thus their figures are outlined against the background of clear sky, and any distantly seen by two persons seated on the bank of the stream a little below the bridge. They are Fanny Inchley and Captain Sherwin, and in the intentness of their gaze they almost hold their breath.

"Is that the marquis?"

"Yes," she says. "And she is Miss Delaine. Do you know her?"

He hesitates for a moment and Fanny does not see the angry, jealous red which rises to his face.

"But of course you do," she goes on. "Why, major, he's quite a friend of yours, isn't he?"

He nods.

"Yes, I know him—I little," he assents with a breath of relief as he sees that she does not know of his proposal to Elaine.

"Do you like her, what you have seen of her? Do you like her, eh?" and she fixes on the marquis and Elaine.

He examines her face suspiciously. It is still it is evident from her tone that she knows nothing.

"I should be supposed to be very pretty and—and fetching," he answers hesitatingly.

Fanny tosses her head contemptuously.

"That's a matter of taste," she says. "Splendid! Why, she's in! It's all marks nonsense.

Sherwin's thin lips close tightly.

"I suppose she will be the Marchioness of Valmer? he says at last, coldly, and trying to speak carelessly.

Fanny nods her head, but not her eyes, from the couple on the bridge.

"No, she will not, and save quietly.

He looks at her sharply, then says in indifferent tone, though his voice trembles with suppressed excitement:

"Indeed! Why not?"

"Because she won't make a fool of herself," Fanny says, with a little laugh. "I don't know anything about it, of course, but from what I hear, and what I can see," and he sneers, "I should say you are mistaken."

"Should you?" he says, drawing a little closer to him and dropping his voice still lower. "But I am curious. I wonder what you would say if I told you that I can prevent her having the marchioness—and mean to!"

He looks at her very much as Lady Blanche had done.

"What on earth do you mean?" he demands with suppressed excitement.

"I don't know why I should tell you," she says, "but there is some fun in it now—when we know each other better—"

"Oh, come, Miss Fanny," he remonstrates, "you may as well tell me the secret, if there is a secret."

"No," and she shakes her head. "Why should I? But there is a secret, and I know it, and I mean what I say. I can separate those two as surely as the river separates the opposite bank from us."

His heart beats fast with the excitement of hope and fear. What would she not give to bring about this separation to prevent this haughty, stuck up lord, as he calls him, from marrying the woman he, Charles Sherwin, still loves? He cannot think clearly, his head tortured with the longing, quakes with the fear lest this sharp-eyed woman who has entangled him should guess his secret.

"Why should you separate them?" he asks with an unsteady laugh. "What good can it do you any wrong; it's no business of yours, Miss Fanny." And he looks with hungry jealousy at the two figures standing arm in arm on the bridge—figures which he knows by no nearly dropped a few weeks ago.

"What depends," she says, mockingly. "Wrong! No. But—well, I hate her!"

"Hate her! Why?" he exclaims.

"I couldn't tell you if I tried," and she shakes her head. "I don't know that I have said, and perhaps I shall ask you—"

"Well?" he says, holding his breath.

"To help me," she finishes. "Will you?" and she draws still nearer to him and looks up at him.

He stares in front of him with a set face as if he feared that some transient expression would betray the keen, the burning interest his words have roused within him.

"Oh, yes, I'll help you if you've set your heart upon it," he replies hoarsely. "Why and how?"

She puts her hand upon his arm.

"Should down!" she whispers. "I think they are coming this way. I will tell you when I am certain—not now, both now and why! I would tell you now if—if—I thought you cared enough. She stops and sighs and her small hand flutters on his arm.

"Of course I care not by that you mean," he says, and he puts his hand over her and kisses her.

Fanny stifles a cry of exultation. Then does her head turn to him.

"You do really—really love me?" she murmurs.

"Of course I do," he says again, but his tone would have betrayed the fatal ness of his avowal if her anxiety to accept it for truth had not blinded her to actual acuteness. "You know I do. And now what's this about the marriage part Et—Miss Delaine?"

"Not tonight!" she murmurs. "Don't let us talk of them to-night. I will tell you all everything soon, very soon. You shall see what I mean to do. You think you are going to make a great marriage in marrying a mere nobody like me, but you shall see, you shall see," and she laughs, but only once, and there are real, genuine tears in her voice and in her eyes—"you shall not be ashamed of me; no one belonging to you shall be ashamed of me. I will show them I can be as great a lady as any of them, if—if you will only love me!"

Her voice breaks with a sob, and her hands close convulsively. The old adage says that it is dangerous to play with edged tools. Fanny commenced by pretending to be in love, but love has a knack or revenging himself and turning the tables; and the first time Fanny has discovered that she has a heart, and that she has lost it to this man whom she treats with a dare. It is not active, but genuine pathos which rings in her every word, though which is as old as the world itself, "If you will only love me!"

SYNOPSIS

Bush McTaggart, the factor of Post MacBain, a brutal and unscrupulous schemer, was determined to marry Nepecee, the beautiful Indian "princess" daughter of Pierrot, the trapper. She had tired of Bush, the slim Cree girl who had been Bush's companion. McTaggart's advances were distasteful to Nepecee and aroused the enmity of her father, so the conscientious factor plotted to do away with Pierrot if necessary to win the maiden for himself.

CHAPTER XI—Continued.

He chuckled again as he made his way through the darkness to the door. Nepecee was good as belonged to him. He had been her if it came Pierrot's life. And—why not? It was all so easy. A shot on a lonely trap-line, a single knife thrust—and then Nepecee! Who would guess where Pierrot had gone? Until it was found—Pierrot would be far, far away. For the last time he had seen Pierrot, he had made an honest confession. He would marry Nepecee. Yes even that. He knew Pierrot. He had told Pierrot that when the latter was his father-in-law, he would pay him a big price for furs.

And Pierrot had stared—had stared with that strange, stunned look in his face, like a man dazed by a blow from a club. And he did not get Nepecee without trouble it would all be Pierrot's fault. To-morrow Bush McTaggart would start again for the half-breed's country, with the promise Pierrot would have an answer for him. Bush McTaggart was looking over his shoulder as he left.

Until the next to the last day Pierrot still nothing to Nepecee about his hatred of her lover and the factor at Lac Bain. Then he told her.

"He is a bad man, Nepecee," he said when he had finished. "I would rather see you dead than his wife. Nepecee. And he pointed to the tall spruce under which the canoe lay.

Nepecee had not uttered a sound. But her eyes had burned hot and dark, and there was a flush in her cheeks which Pierrot had never known before. She stood up when he had done and she seemed taller to him. Never had she looked to him more like a woman, and Pierrot's eyes were deeply troubled as they followed her graceful watched her while she gazed off into the northward land of Baie.

She was wonderful, this slip of a girl-woman. He thought of the time he had seen the look in Bush McTaggart's face—the look that was in Bush McTaggart's voice. He had caught the desire of a beast in McTaggart's face as he had followed him at first. But now—he was not frightened. He was unafraid. And he looked very resolute. His heart there was a smoldering fire. At last Nepecee turned and came and sat down beside him again, at his feet. She looked up at him, pleadingly. "What shall I tell him?"

The Widow's Son were red. Her eyes shone. But she did not look at her father.

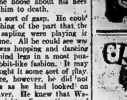

"Nothing, Nookawe—except that you are to say to him that I am the one I am going to marry, and—that I hate Bush McTaggart."

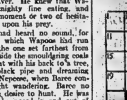

Pierrot bent over and caught her small hand. The sun went down. His heart was singing. It was a miracle that threatened the child. If there had been clouds overhead, or the stars had been less brilliant, Baree would have died as surely as Wapoos had died. With the first sweep of the sun Bush McTaggart saw in time the white star, the white-haired breast of the mate. It was not a rabbit making the sounds—he knew that. Perhaps a fisher-cat—a lynx? It was the wolf he thought of first when he saw Baree at the end of the wire. He dropped the blanket and wriggled. It was a miracle that threatened the child. If there had been clouds overhead, or the stars had been less brilliant, Baree would have died as surely as Wapoos had died. With the first sweep of the sun Bush McTaggart saw in time the white star, the white-haired breast of the mate. It was not a rabbit making the sounds—he knew that. Perhaps a fisher-cat—a lynx? "for all washing and cleaning you can't beat this soap —" says Mrs. Experience, who chooses soap for its economy and labour-saving value.

"Sunlight puts the sunshine of cleanliness into the home! For washing clothes, dishes, woodwork, floors, linens, in fact anything that can be cleaned with soap and water—I call on Sunlight. And Sunlight does its work so well and leaves everything sweet and clean.

"Sunlight really is economical, too! You see, every bit of it is pure, cleansing soap, containing no filler or hardening materials, which are only waste as far as we women are concerned.

"You get greatest cleaning value out of a pure laundry soap—and so I say, 'Always keep a good supply of Sunlight on hand.' It really improves with age." And because of its purity, Sunlight is kind to your hands and to fine fabrics and comfortable." Sunlight is made by Lever Brothers Limited, Toronto.

When Kidneys Hurt Consult Your Doctor

DRINK LOTS OF WATER ALL DAY AND TAKE SALTS IF BACK ACHES

No man or woman can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Eating too much rich food creates acids which excite the kidneys. They become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood. Then we get sick. Rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary troubles often come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys, or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a scalding or smarting, begin drinking a quart of water each day, also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, and in a few days your kidneys may see fine! This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush and stimulate the kidneys; also to help neutralize the acids in the system, so they no longer cause irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby often avoiding serious kidney complications. Try all means keep your kidneys clean; consider your kidneys at least twice a year.

Industrials Win The C.I.A. League

Won Eight Straight Games At The Recreation Alleys

The Night Hawks lost to the Flat Foots yesterday morning in the C.N.R. Men's Bowling League by the close score of 24 pins. It was a close score all the way through, the Flat Foots finishing the first game by 24 pins and added another 19 pins in the second. In the third the Flat Foots won out by 1 pin. Johns and Henderson were high bowlers for their respective teams.

The Alemites are coming right along in the Junior Industrial League. They played the Rovers and although they lost out, they have showed some wonderful improvement since their first game. High bowlers were Wesly for the Rovers and Jefferies for the Alemite.

The Industrials and the Coopers finished up the C.I.A. league last night, the former team winning out and also winning the league championship with 8 straight wins, a very remarkable showing. Although there was some very close games, the Industrials have rolled some very good scores, their score last night being 2647 against the Coopers' 2168. Barrett and Hayes were high bowlers.

Last night the M. P. Shops clinched the C. N. R. championship when they won from the Express Dept. by over 200 pins. The Shops have only one more game to play and even if they lose it won't make any difference in the standing as the nearest team have 200 pins behind. In the same last night the Shops went into the third game with 4 pins in the hole and in the last single game threw a total of 1048 pin sky scores, rolling 995 against the Express' 767. Murr and Harris were the bowlers for their teams. Players and scores:

Sees Federated Movement Coming

Moderator More Optimistic As Voting Agitation Dies Down

Toronto, March 19.—In the course of an interview on the Church Union situation, Principal Gaudier Kinnon, Moderator of the General Assembly, said he was glad to find the agitation over the vote was generally dying down. In answer to a question regarding the future relations of the Unionists and Anti-Unionists he said: "I have had several requests that I take steps to call a conference for reconsideration of some of the phases of the situation. The object seems to be that there is no one with authority to call such a conference. It would be out of the formal as it could have no official authority. The situation would probably only increase the irritation that everybody wishes to allay.

"Speaking only for myself, I am not quite sure that a conference could suggest anything better than has been done. It is true the old Presbyterian church has been divided, but under the new alignment each church can now worship in the particular church in which he will be most happy. If he wishes to have an unmodified confession of faith he will be at liberty to do so without any opposition. If he believes, on the other hand, that conditions in the organization of Canada call for a more elastic spirit, a more rapid rate of progress, he will find it in the United Church of the United Church. It does not seem to me that anything can be gained by bringing pressure to bear on either party to sacrifice its convictions. We are really better off apart.

"After Union is effected there will no doubt, be an opportunity for the suggestion of Dr. Drummond of Hamilton, of a scheme for a federated church movement, in which the various churches will retain their individuality, but will associate with one another for co-operative purposes. Should this happy result follow, and it is one I personally should strongly favor, such a federation would not necessarily be confined to the churches at present in sight. But might embrace nearly all the other Protestant denominations that would wish to affiliate. This could result in nothing but good to the country."

The Moderator paid high tribute to the attitude of the Methodist Church "Wahlung," he said, "received from the courtesy of the Methodist Church in every part of the Dominion, its patience and its treatment of us, which has gone a long way to forming the sentiment and spirit of union which after all is the heart of the whole movement. If the Legislature would give legislation which is just and speedy, and which will not involve prolonged litigation it will, I think, be what the Public very earnestly desire. Happy relations with non-Unionists are being established, and old friendships will not be disturbed in any great extent," he said. "What, ever side of the church they may take, their work will never be forgotten, and their friendship will be established and this augurs well for future relationships."

JAIL FARMS ARE OVERFLOWING NOW

Toronto, March 20.—With the jail farms at Guelph and Burwash likely to overflowing with prisoners, the Department of the Provincial Secretary is having some temporary difficulty in placing newly convicted prisoners from various parts of the province. It is said that the population at Guelph now reaches about 600, far more than is usually accommodated there. In the meantime, inmates of the gaols are being detained at county gaols.

Deputy-Secretary H. M. Robbins stated this morning that the congestion is but temporary, the result of seasonable conditions and hard times, which have led to the conviction of an unusually large number of "vags."

At the Spring Assizes which opened at Brampton Chief Justice Middleditch was given a pair of white gloves, as the docket is clear of criminal cases.

Many Are Pleased With Belle Picture

"The Warrens of Virginia" In Thrilling Story, Well Acted

Again William Fox has taken a great stage play and made it a still greater screen production. His latest feat in this direction is the presentation of "The Warrens of Virginia" which David Belasco placed in an enviable position in the history of the spoken drama.

"The Warrens of Virginia" opened at the Belle Theatre last night for a three day run and according to the many words of approval heard on all sides, the success of this romance of the Civil War as a film will duplicate if not exceed, the footlight presentation.

Robert E. Lee and U. S. Grant are the central figures of this romantic drama from the pen of William C. De Mille. The magnificent settings by the latter which brought the great national calamity of the war to a close is pictured with truth and detail in this picture.

The plot centers around the love of a young Northern lieutenant for the daughter of General Warren of the Confederate Army. In the course of events he is made to choose between love and duty, and being a soldier, he of course, follows orders and is ranked a "betrayal of his sweetheart and her family branch of the army. Reluctantly permission to visit his beloved across the line in the enemy country to carry a misleading message which will be discovered on his person. Then follows his rescue with a regiment of Northern cavalry and the result is the capture of the Southern army's supply train, but it needed by the troops on the front.

Complications arise following the capture of the supply train and a wedding is in order which the young lieutenant as the intended victim. His sweetheart, however, comes to the rescue with a regiment of Northern cavalry whose aid she solicited. They arrive in the nick of time and disperse the would-be-benchers. Reconciliation is brought about shortly after.

Lionel Wilbur J. Fox, U. S., has the role of Gen. Grant while J. Barney Sherry plays the part of Gen. Lee. Other excellent bits of character acting in this picture are given by George Backus as Gen. Warren, and Frank Andrews as Gen. Griffin, hard-boiled old Northern leader.

Elmer Clifton was the director.

Film Star Wears Wonderful Gowns

In Big Feature Picture at Griffin on Monday

Barbara La Marr brings some new and distinctly individual costumes to the screen in her forthcoming picture, "Six Days," which will be shown at the Griffin Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Miss. Josta their designer, is modiste to Society's fair fashionites, and her instructions were to lead to her creations for the film star the "Black Bay" touch of ultra-refinement in fashion.

Description of some of the gowns follow:

Negligee: This consists of a pale gray sheath, with fifteen yards of pale lavender draped elaborately over the figure. The draping is in the Cubist fashion, and the entire effect is set off by a long pearl rosary dangling among the gray and lavender.

Ball Costume: This consists of silver cloth with a train fifteen feet in length. Imported silver lace set in brilliants is draped over the cloth to bring about an entrancing Parisian sheath effect.

Gold gown: This gown consists of a bodice of gold lace with birds of Paradise worked cunningly in on the sides. A costly amount of gold was used in the making of the costume and the entire effect is set off by a bird of Paradise worn in the hair.

Feather gown: This is a black and white creation composed in the main of black and white ostrich plumes. It ran rise with it a new Parisian effect. Tied in at the side with a train of feathers, draped from the side instead of the back, it is an original and picturesque completes this costume.

Headdresses: In place of the usual hat worn in conjunction with the various gowns, Miss La Marr has had designed a series of headbands, and there is a headband to accompany each of the nineteen dresses worn by her in "Six Days," including one of silver, one of gold, one of ostrich plumes, a bird of Paradise, jewels, etc.

"Sandra" is an adaptation from the novel of the same title by Pearl Doles Bell, and presents the love adventures of a beautiful woman with a double-barrelled heart.

Firm Fights For Overshoe Rights

Claims Montreal Concern Has Infringed on Patented Design

An important legal action has been instituted by a Kitchener industry against a Montreal manufacturing company, the outcome of which will be awaited with great interest throughout Canada. The Kaufman Rubber Company has filed a suit in the Exchequer Court of Canada against the Miner Rubber Company of Montreal seeking an injunction restraining the latter company from manufacturing and selling certain designs of overshoes of which the plaintiffs claim they were the originators and which it is further alleged were registered with the government by the plaintiffs under the Industrial Designs Act.

In March 1924 the Kaufman Rubber Company introduced an improved overshoe to the trade throughout Canada and in order to secure protection registered several designs which included practically all possible combinations of buckles and straps. The new overshoes, the trade mark of which is "Adjusto" found a big sale all over the country and the local company has kept busy trying to meet the unprecedented demand. The new overshoe is provided with two straps instead of two buckles and the straps have an adjustable slide which is fitted into a dome in the side of the shoe.

It is claimed it provides three times as much adjustment as a buckle, will take care of practically any sized ankle and will fit the foot readily. The straps and fasteners are concealed in the side of the overshoe, providing a neat tailor-made appearance and eliminating practically all the trouble which was caused by buckles tearing the shoes.

Scott & Bowne, Toronto, Ont. 20-27

The combinations registered under the Industrial Designs Act consist of two buckles and two straps, two buckles and three straps, one buckle and one strap and two buckles and one strap.

It is alleged that last month the Miner Rubber Company of Montreal whose factory is located at Granby, Quebec, infringed on the rights investested solely in the Kaufman Rubber Company and has put designs on the market similar to that made by the Company. The Kaufman Rubber Company has also announced it will immediately endeavor to protect all purchasers of "Adjusto" overshoes and it will take action against any manufacturers who may infringe on their rights and also any merchants who offer for sale any designs made ter under what name or trade mark, copied from those of the plaintiffs and made by other manufacturers.

Owing to the fact that only a few cases arising out of the Industrial Designs Act which is the result of comparatively recent legislation have been heard in the courts the plaintiffs have launched their action in the Exchequer Court of Canada.

The Plaintiffs in their suit claim:

(a) A declaration that the plaintiff are the exclusive rights to the said Industrial designs.

(b) A declaration that the defendant has infringed the plaintiff's industrial design.

(c) An injunction restraining the wrongful acts aforesaid.

(d) An order for the destruction of or delivery up to the defendant of all products or articles in the possession or control of the defendant to which the said industrial designs have been applied.

(e) The payment of damages or account of profits as the plaintiff may elect.

(f) All necessary accounts and inquiries.

(g) Such further or other relief as the nature of the case may require.

(h) The costs of this action.

IRISH ISLANDERS SUFFER BY STORM

Tralle, Kerry, Ireland, March 20—The inhabitants of the Blasket Islands, off the coast, who run short of food recently during the gales which swept over this part of the world, let bonfires at night as signals of distress. The fires were seen by people along the coast and life savers were sent to the rescue. The islanders who were able to travel were brought to the mainland, and food was sent to those who remained behind. A bad fishing season, due mainly to the stormy weather, was the principal cause of the distress among the island inhabitants.

WIDOW'S COYNESS SENDS TAXES UP

London, March 20.— British war widows seem loath to take unto themselves a husband for the second time and, because of this coyness, the British taxpayers has to suffer.

When the ministry of pensions submitted its budget in March 1924, for the amount of money to be paid in pensions to war widows, it estimated that seven per cent of them would remarry during the year. Unfortunately the calculations were wrong, for, up to the present time, only four percent have married their widows weeds. Consequently the exchequer has had to grant an extra $10,000,000 to pay their pensions.

WILL ERECT NEW COLLEGIATE ON PRESENT HIGH SCHOOL SITE BOARD OF EDUCATION DECIDES

Action Taken Last Night Following Report From Special Committee

TO LOOK UP IDEAS

Comprehensive Report on Night School to Be Prepared

At new Collegiate Institute, to be erected in Belleville to provide accommodation for the accompanying number of city and county pupils, will be placed on the present site of the High School. Decision was made by the Board of Education at its regular session last evening. It is although rethought that the High School as it now stands will be joined to the new structure.

Action followed the receipt of the following report made by the special committee appointed to take the matter in hand:

"A meeting of the committee was held and it was decided to recommend the following members of the committee to be a special committee: Messrs. Ackerman, Jones, Dale, McGie and Elliott, for the purpose of conferring with architects in reference to the proposed building, site, plans, etc.; and that they be authorized to visit other municipalities to inspect other Collegiate buildings and to obtain all the information possible and then to submit a report to the board at the earliest moment possible."

The Committee recommend that the Board reconsider the question of the location of the proposed building."

Ed. Dunton speaking very favorably to the report, declared that the new collegiate, would be decided on set to the city's best site, as it would not be a liability under any circumstances.

Dealing with the site for the new building, Mr. A. Elliott said that it should be central and spoke in favor of the present High School property.

Mr. H. W. Ackerman agreed with Mr. McGie and the latter stated his view in a motion.

The motion received the support of Mr. J. Elliott. Coleman Plain was suggested by Mr. D. U. Bleeker and the east Belleville playground by Mrs. McFee. But finally Mr. McGie's motion and adopted. Deputation observing that is going abroad with the project the present High School should not be torn down.

High School Report.

A report was presented from Principal McLaurin, of the High School which showed that during the past month many pupils were out of school owing to sickness.

On March 31st the night school would automatically close and it was suggested that an exhibit be made on the evening of March 31st and invite the public to attend.

On April 1st the Easter examinations would start and continue some days.

A motion carried that a teacher from the High School and the Public School also the Attendance Officer attend the Provincial teachers' Annual meeting to be held at Toronto during the Easter holidays.

Mr. Ackerman moved, seconded by Mr. Harvey, that the committee be asked to enlist of the work done by the night school and on the evening of March 31st be concurred in.

Mr. A. McGie said Belleville had not school classes, but despite this fact altogether the proper facilities for night good work was being done.

In connection with the matter of the night school Col. Ponton moved the following motion:

"That at the meeting of the Board following the closing of the night school classes a report and recommendations be presented to the Secretary-Treasurer of the Board and the municipal Government as follows:

1 The total cost of night school in 1924-25 including all disbursements for salaries materials, rent, caretaking and all other expenses.

2 The total for 1923-24 for the same purpose.

3 The number of students in attendance continuously and the classes by classes and the total.

4 The number of teachers.

5 The avocation of those teachers indirectly how many High School teachers are employed.

6 The supplementary salaries paid to each High School teacher and to each public School teacher so employed.

7 The number of hours each teachers is engaged in teaching night school lessons.

Mr. McGie, seconded the motion which was adopted.

Many school days were lost by pupils owing to sickness.

Departmental examinations are drawing near and arrangements will have to be made in providing suitable examination tables in "King George" assembly room as this room is of sufficient size.

We also expect the usual number of candidates from the public and separate schools to write for High School entrance.

FACES FRAUD CHARGE IN DESERONTO COURT

Norman T. Johnston was arrested at Toronto for Provincial police here, and was brought back here by Provincial Constable Harry Thompson, who is stationed at Napanee.

Johnston, who is wanted at Deseronto on a fraud charge, was arraigned before Police Magistrate Henry Sofield at Deseronto this morning, and was remanded for one week.

The charge arises from alleged stock manipulations of a certain separator company which was located at Deseronto.

Master Touch is Made By Leo Riggs

Organist Given Appreciative Reception at Bridge Street Last Night

One does not have to make apologies to say that several score of music lovers who attended the recital at Bridge Street Methodist Church were carried away last evening by the splendid offerings of Mr. Leo Riggs at the organ, assisted by Mrs. Riggs and Mr. Knight in vocal solos.

Mr. Riggs appeared almost as a magician at the console in the power he has at command. Whether playing a Bach fugue, the light and sparkling "Spring Song" by Mendelsohn or deep into the grandeur of Wagner's "Pilgrim's Chorus" by Wagner, the organist supplied the master touch, bringing forth in delicious solo work or in the resounding tones of the full organ.

Mrs. Riggs delighted her old friends with her solo work and the applause given showed how highly the appreciation of the audience, while Mr. Knight's brilliant rendition of "Asleep in the Arms of the Temple" found the usual great favor with those who listened.

There was no chance to note in prices of vegetables. Potatoes sold at 75 cents a bag.

A number of stalls were located about the market where fresh meat was being cut up. Beef cuts from 10c to 18c per pound according to cuts and grades from 18c to 25c per pound.

White fish sold at 10c a pound.

Notices Benefits, But Attacks Beer

Dr. MacTavish Discusses O. T.A. Amendments at W. C. T. U. Meeting

Mrs. O'Flynn in the opening devotional exercises at the W.C.T.U. yesterday stressed the need of faith and confidence in the providence of God and dwelt on the conditions of prayer as given in John 15. I was necessary to abide in Christ and prayer the only way to obtain the legislation which humanity most desired, was to unite in sending men to Parliament who will represent the prevalent sane sentiment of the electors.

Dr. MacTavish in addressing the meeting, dwelt on the need of education and pointed out that Mr. Ferguson told a delegation which waited upon him that they should keep out of politics of education. As Mr. Ferguson is Minister of Education in the province he should be a better position than he to promote good work. He should not be content to raise a trek book on temperance on the curriculum of the schools.

Three points were mentioned among the amendments to the O.T.A. which would be beneficial, namely, the jailing of bootleggers, the locking up of offending premises and the limiting of doctors' prescriptions. The latter would be a fight against whisky beer, Dr. MacTavish said, which was the cause of much trouble and expense in the jails. All the experts agreed that 4.4 beer was intoxicating and because it contained alcohol it was a drug and therefore a menace to the juvenile effect upon the river, heart and brain.

Mrs. Strange, accompanied by Mrs. Reid, contributed a beautiful solo.

PRINTERS ENTERS TEAM IN LEAGUE

The Printers have entered a team in the City Indoor Baseball League which has the color of the Hot Points who have dropped out. The newspapermen and printers have always been a fast team in the field and will have the first chance to show their wares on Monday night next against the fast travelling Bakers Company team.

Under the rearrangement of the schedule there is no chance for the National Castings will play the Belleville Juniors on Monday night.

Maple Syrup is Plentiful To-day

Much Sold on Market at Sixty-Five Per Quart

Maple syrup was quite plentiful upon the market this morning and was readily disposed of at 65 cents a quart. The flow of sap thus far has not been as good as in former years, but the syrup sold was of excellent quality.

Fresh dairy butter and fresh eggs were a feature upon the market and were reasonable in price. Butter sold at 35 cents a pound and basket lots were procured at a slightly lower figure. Special eggs sold at 25 cents a dozen and fresh at 23 cents. Shippers are paying but 20 cents a dozen by the case lots.

A generous quantity of honey was offered for sale, selling at 75c for a four pound pail. Cream sold at 25 cents a half pint.

ALL BELLEVILLE PAID A TRIBUTE TO LATE FRIEND

Funeral of John McIntosh Largest Witnessed in Years

IMPRESSIVE SIGHT

Two Hundred Masonic Brethren Marched to Cemetery

Belleville has witnessed a number of large funerals, but one of the largest and most impressive, drew crowds which lined Front street from Victoria avenue to Bridge street on both sides of the street. Friday afternoon when the cortege which bore the body of John McIntosh to the tomb at Belleville cemetery. Quietly and reverently it moved its way through the city streets.

All Belleville paid respect to the memory of a friend who spent more than half of a very useful life in Belleville in which city, from a humble beginning, he proved to be one of the most successful and leading business men of the city and district.

His late home, 91 Hillcrest avenue, was crowded long before the service commenced at 3 o'clock. The large verandah was also filled and the overflow extended on to the lawn and to the road a block. Throngs of citizens congregated to pay their last and respects. It was a representative congregation too. Almost every Belleville business man was also there. The Masonic profession, was present. Old men were there and young men, too.

Rev. A. S. Kerr, associate minister at Bridge Street Methodist Church, conducted the services, assisted by Rev. D. Perrin, pastor of Bridge Street Church. Both ministers were well quali fied to speak in highly affectionate terms of the life they had enjoyed a long and pleasant friendship with him.

Two hundred members of Belleville's Masonic Lodges, Ionic, Quinte, Hastings and Eureka, assembled to the home in Hillcrest avenue and marched through the streets. Brother masons of the deceased were pall bearers and the floral tributes of the largest and most beautiful display of floral offerings ever seen in the city, methodically loading two touring cars which were necessary to carry also the flowers.

The staff of the McIntosh brothers was also present, Belleville was closed for as well as members of the staff of the other stores of the McIntosh chain were present. The William McIntosh and Company store was closed, and members of deceased was also closed, and members of the office and staff were present. In fact many Front street business places closed during the funeral hours and the members of the staff of the Ritchie Company Limited paid their respects to their late friend by general in a body. Business men, professional men, city officials and 221 paid had arranged to lay aside their duties, and pay their respects to the friend whom they had learned to love and respect. The floral tributes and their five motors care made up a large and long procession which followed the body of the late Sir Mackenzie Bowell has there been such an xpression of sympathy.

Though the funeral was to have left the residence at 3.30 o'clock it was unusually large attendance—all being anxious to pay their respects to the last earthly mortal remains.

The burial service conducted by Masonic Brethren, Rev. Bro. Rev. A. S. Kerr, Rt. Wor. Bro. J. Newton, V. Wor. Bro. G. Dalmage, Rt. Wor. Bro. H. Charles, Rt. Wor. Bro. H. F. Symons, and Rt. Wor. Bro. R. H. Spencer, of Trenton.

Bearers were members of the craft:— Messrs. W. Bell, Ben Bleecker, F. Herity, J. Elliott, H. J. Hall and Dr. J. W. Kinnear.

Lumberman, 98, Still On The Job

J. R. Booth Walked Length Of Train to Inspect Record Shipment

(Special to the Intelligencer)

Montreal, Que., March 21. — The largest shipment of timber for export ever sent across the vast continent Ontario yesterday enroute over the Canadian National Railway's line to Halifax. It required four trains, of one hundred and twenty cars to handle the load. Every piece of lumber in the shipment was white pine, each piece of exact dimensions as to resemble timber from British Columbia. Only in the memory of the oldest lumberman has such a shipment come out of Ontario. The lumber was all Ontario grown and it came from the Egan Estate Limited and the J. R. and E. Booth Limited, both of Ontario.

HEALTHY ACTIVITY

Belleville showed all the earmarks of a very lively, community last night. Drawing a dedication, there could not have been many citizens who spent the evening at home.

In their room in the Armouries, the Argyll band was practising faithfully. Across the road, a splendid organ recital was being rendered by Mr. Eric Briggs in Bridge Street Methodist church. In the Armouries hall a couple of hundred baseball fans were watching some good sport. At the City Hall, the horticultural society of the city were gathered together to see interesting pictures of corn growing. At the Y.M.C.A. and the Recreation Alleys, bowlers were active. In the new Conservative rooms, Captain Black, M.P. was telling a number the wrong doing of the Liberal administration. The Board of Education was busily engaged in formulating plans for a new collegiate institute.

It is a healthy sign, this community interest displayed. And Belleville homes will not suffer by it. Home life is enriched all the more by a greater interest shown by members of the home in the life of the municipality.

THE GERMAN ELECTION

The German election to name a successor to President Ebert will not result in a clear cut decison on the issue of the continuance of the German Republic. This is deplorable, but German opinion has not crystallized into two or three political parties. At best it is probable that a minority chief executive will be chosen. Possibly there has been too little time since Germany assumed the new form for those to coalesce into two or three parties with definite principles plainly stated, but until the condition is reached the country cannot have responsible government by a majority party.

Should the election indicate a drift toward a return to the monarchy it will not add to the security against further aggression on the party of Germany. The result of the elections in Great Britain and the United States last fall were met of much importance outside the boundaries of the countries themselves but that is not true of the German election. Therefore its outcome will be awaited with anxiety because of its possible bearing on the future peace of the world.

CROSS-WORD IN PULPIT

(Presbyterian Witness)

The craze for cross-word puzzles is being utilized by numerous pastors. One recently advertised that his text would be contained in a cross-word puzzle. It was shown on a large blackboard and printed copies of the definitions were distributed among the worshippers. (1). Fifteen minutes were allotted for the solution of the text was, "My son, if sinners entice thee, consent thou not." The preacher who has a worth-while message will not need the attraction of a puzzle to secure an audience. Jesus said: "If I be lifted up, will draw all men unto myself."

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

The Early Risers

All honor to early rising and kids to get up and see the dawn.

But I insist say that the early rising people as a rule are not attractive.

Among them you will find scrubwomen, watchmen, milkmen, scavengers and the like.

It looks like early to bed and early to rise is the way not to meet the best people.

For all that, I believe in early rising and think that the dawn is the best part of the day.

Health is early rising. The man who gets up and gets out of doors early and breathes the morning air is likely to get more red corpuscles than the man who spends the early hours in bed.

Virtue is early rising. Most vice takes place at night and stays up late.

Gambling is a late affair. Most of the money is lost at cards after eleven o'clock at night. Very few people gamble in the morning.

Work is an early riser. The man who has a task before him usually can see it better if he attacks it in the morning every day.

I knew a man, however, who was a professor of mathematics who never worked until after the family had gone to bed, until after midnight. Then the house was still and he got out his books and papers and could think consecutively.

There are some authors who write best at night, but I think I know more who do their best work in the morning.

Six stays up late. It is very fond of the hours after midnight.

One of John Wesley's rules for young preachers was "Get up as you wake up."

Somehow the night and late hours are associated with looseness, and the morning and early hours are associated with virtue.

Excelsiors Had Game Sewed Up

Won All Three Games at Y. M.C.A. Alleys Last Night

Last evening at the Y alleys the Excelsiors and Trailers were the opponents' heads and the Excelsiors had things pretty well their own way as they won all the three games. The Trailers kept up their reputation and were trailing 416 pins. Mrs. Lee, credited of the high single with 210 and Mrs. Goyer the three string with 613. Dutchy's Diary

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

Sunday newspapers in England have an aggregate circulation of 11,000,000, according to the Rev. J. J. Armitage, who finds the influence of these journals to be lacking in Christianity. Tolstoy readers they say in substance, according to the investigator: "Tell us do without God; let us be pagans."

Dr. Armitage declares that in 867 columns of reading matter, only six columns mentioned anything suggesting the Christian religion.

Cats Rule the Roost

One of the few London hotels which still retains an old world atmosphere has recently been modernized in so far as radio is concerned as head sets for listening-in have been installed in every room in the house. In the summer 80 to 90 per cent. of the patronage of this hotel is made up of American travellers. Until a few years ago, when the hotel was sold, it had belonged to members of one family for nearly 80 years.

New Styles Old-Fashioned

That there is little new under the sun, even with regard to women's fashions, wall pointed out by Ethert Brand, curator of the museum of Rotherham, England in the course of a recent lecture. Referring to an illustration of women dancers on the walls of Spanish cave, he said these palaeolithic belles were very near to the present day women with their high busts, chignons, tight waists and bell-shaped skirts. These cave pictures were probably the earliest fashion plates in the world, and were drawn about 20,000 years ago, declared Mr. Brand.

Another illustration from Spain showed a costume very much akin to that of the modern flapper.

As Utterly Different In Results Now As a Year Ago

To the best of our knowledge there had never been a 3-inch motor capable of producing 68 horsepower, a speed of 70 miles an hour, with gasoline economy safely over 24 miles to the gallon, until the Chrysler Six arrived on the market last year. There is no other today.

That is what scientific engineering in the way of perfected gas distribution, special combustion chambers and heat distribution does for the Chrysler Six.

There has never before been a motor in which all sense of vibration has been so completely eliminated, never before a car in which side-sway and road-weaving are absent, never before a car with an overall length of 160 inches that afforded so much usable space—generously roomy for five large adults.

Examples might be cited by the score. But you can see for yourself how utterly different the Chrysler Six is and why the eager public bought more than 32,000 Chrysler cars the first year, if you drive the car but a few minutes. We are anxious to give you a Chrysler ride, to prove it the best-built car you ever sat in.

Liberal

Seven Petersen Contract

Liberals, believing as they said, that the North Atlantic Shipping Conference, which sets shipping rates in the north Atlantic, was holding up the country with its rates, gave a contract to Sir William Peterson in England to build ten ships which are to be placed in competition in the carrying business under government control. With 500 thousand sailings from Montreal alone last year, they thought a million drop in the bucket" in the sailing world, and the loonly drawn contract to "sir William Peterson," with nothing for Canada. Liberals might start a row over, but the speaker believed they were so disarmed with their contract that it might never be heard of again, once it went to the special committee which will deal with it. It would be as successful as their Lake Rate Regulation Act, which caused American boats to cease calling at Canadian ports until the Liberal Government begged for them to do so, in contravention of their silly law.

With misgovernment and graft charges against the Liberals in 1904 and 1908, the speaker explained how they went out of power in 1911. After they had struck a blow at the heart of Canadian industry by their overthrow of the National policy. In 1921 the Conservatives were disorganized with the Union Government. It was politics and Empire that won the election then, when the fate of the Canadian Corps was at stake in France. The Liberals then denounced what the speaker regarded as the only sane way to raise an army—the draft system.

An Appalling Debt

The Federal, Provincial and Municipal debt in Canada under the King Government had increased by $4,825,000 or $550 per capital, he said, and the public debt had increased in four years $179,000,000.

King Extravagance

Government extravagances noted were the Union club purchase for King's "Salada" friend Larkin, donator to the Canadian funds. This would amount to $2,000,000 before it is completed. Then Thornton and his "friend" who was later "let out" launched into a real estate deal in Paris, buying the Scribe hotel which would ultimately cost $4,000,000, the price being a secret, also that Paris newspapers took up the cry that take-offs must have occurred amounting to $623,000 or so.

The addition of the central tower on the already palatial Chateau Laurier mess at a cost of $600,000 was to provide employment for King's Ottawa and Quebec hangers-on, not because a financial chamber was to be located in the tower for fallen soldiers.

The Liberal record for soldiers in 1917-9 exclaimed the soldier speaker. "They would appreciate a tax reduction much more," he added.

Immigration Policy

While Canada spent millions annually to encourage immigration, United States put up barriers against all save nationality but the highly desirable Canadians who flocked there. Between 1911-21 Canada spent $2,102,000 to bring in 322,000 immigrants. At the same time 600,000 educated Canadians left for the States.

Similarly capital was kept from Canada because of excessive taxation, which was felt most by the "small man." The tax here on a $4,000 income was instance was $60; in the States $22.50.

Bank Deposits Less

Bank deposits had fallen off under the King administration, and their trade with Progressives entirely for the duty of ineptitude such as woolless and cotton was cut off. As resulted in the closing of thirty textile companies in Canada in the past year, whose goods which are manufactured much more cheaply there than Canadian goods because of the duty. Canada should not be allowed to flood Canada, the speaker maintained.

"Soms say it is a good thing to have cheap goods brought in," he said, "but the good of cheap goods if there is no money in the people's pockets to buy with which to buy them." Captain Liberal asserted.

Reduction on the price of farm implements had by actual comparison with sale prices in 1921, made the implements dearer to farmers with the sales tax, and had closed twenty-four implement factories in the country.

Another Blunder

King appointed an Auditor General—a personal friend—at a salary greater by $9,000 than his predecessor, when McLean's Magazine with startling print, pointed out the blunders and overlapping civil service organization existing, as well as extravagants of the Liberal government had aroused the people to the point where they demanded an accounting. The Auditor General's duty was to investigate the civil service system, the railway deficits, and other conditions. He reported in the other day that he found that he did not have lawful power to properly overhaul the other departments than his own where he had improved the books of his 282 odd staff members and "fired" six. He had a three months' vacation in Europe and last summer took good work a unfarm with record at the opening of the Exhibition. He was supposed to have reported last year with those interesting revelations.

Robbing Resources

It was pointed out that instead of spending $170,000,000 annually for American coal, Canadians should export their own coal freely which make up the major percentage of the coal of the world. Similarly, no pulp wood should be exported until first made into paper which sells at 4 cents per pound as against the wood in the raw state at one-half cent per pound. In the same way 85% of the copper of Canada—and there is lots of it—now leaves Canada in a raw state, much of it in the form of ore. It is refined in the States, and sold at great profit back to England. This refining work should be done in Canada.

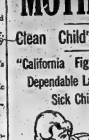

Extends Thanks

E. Goss Porter, K.C., personal friend of the speaker, extended thanks on behalf of the meeting to him for his inspiring address. He stated that Captain Black was one of the most diligent and competent workers in the House of Commons. Incidentally, Mr. Porter stated that the denunciator of the Liberal government, "would make a better job" to reverse the saying of Sir Richard Cartwright.

Social Items

Miss Helen Sinclair is leaving for Toronto where she will visit for a short holiday.

Mrs. Miller and Mrs. G. Foote of Madoc were visitors in Belleville yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Bedford of Kingston, were in the city yesterday to attend the funeral of the late Mr. John McIntosh.

Mr. Rooke, manager of the Madoc branch of the McIntosh stores, attended Mr. McIntosh's funeral yesterday.

Major R. D. Ponton, President of the Conservative Association of Belleville, presided, and in an enthusiastic opening speech, asked for, and urged co-operation and individual work in preparation for any emergency.

The club rooms, by the way, are real homelike with fresh coats of paint on the floors, new wall paper, and everything safe and spaa. They are a credit to the Conservative Association.

Cheers of confidence were given for Hon. Arthur Meighen and Hon. Howard Ferguson.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. John McIntosh and family desire to thank their many friends for their kindness and sympathy during their recent bereavement of a loving husband and father, and also for beautiful floral tributes.

Four Famous Stars In "North of 36"

Paramount Picture Coming To Belle Theatre on Monday

When a motion picture company assembles four of its biggest box office stars for one production it can mean only one thing—that that company has faith in the story and believes it will be public appeal.

Just such a thing has been done for the Paramount production, "North of 36," produced by Jesse L. Lasky, which will be the feature at the Belle Theatre for three days, opening on Monday next.

Jack Holt, as Dan McMasters, plays a role that will hold one' enthralled, as the role of a stern and fearless master, yet beneath the stern exterior possessing the gentle qualities that go to make big hearted men of all.

Ernest Torrence, scout of "The Covered Wagon" fame, is cast interesting a part in this picture. As Jim Wilkerson, rascal foreman, he is given an opportunity for a characterization entirely different and far superior to anything he has done in his screen career.

Lois Wilson, as the orphaned rancher's niece, Velma Lockhart, offers a characterization that, in a combination of sincerity, loveliness, determination and grit,

Noah Beery, playing Big Rudebaugh the villainous cattle thief, presents a type exact in every detail to the above mentioned appear in featured roles in the production. A few of the big names playing in supporting roles include Daniel Dunbar, Stanley Carr, Guy Oliver, Wm. Carroll, Clarence Geldart, George Irving and Ella Miller.

The picture is an adaptation by James Hamilton of the popular novel by the late Emerson Hough, author of "The Covered Wagon."

Absorbing Study In Human Nature

Is "Soudan" Barbara La Marr Picture at Griffin Monday

An absorbing study in human nature is afforded motion picture audiences in "Sandra," the first of a series of productions starring Barbara La Marr, which opens at the Griffin Theatre on Monday.

This picture, visualized from the novel by earl Dolts, Bell strikes an intensely human note in the natural silence of the varied characters which it presents.

The drama is enacted in the main by ten principal characters, all of them distinct personalities which will immediately be recognized as prototypes of the rest thing by motion picture audiences.

The character of Sandra is invested with a dual personality—one woman at contest with common places of home and domesticity in the other believes that happiness lies beyond the land in the winding road.

Then, there is Mate Conkley, a girl of sixteen or seventeen years, whose some fall of fun, and to whom the world contains no evil and Bobbie, her brother, is a typical Kentuckin boy, reverence, at the age where he takes himself and his clothes very seriously; while their mother, Mrs. Conkley is a contented, home-loving woman colorless and commonplace by behold. Peter Stanley is of the ruddy-poly, self-satisfied type, conventional in the extreme and who would view as a radical departure the chang ing of his brand of cigars.

Stephen Winslow is a man-about-town, suave and charming, immaculately dressed, and the direct antithesis of David, husband of "Sandra", who is a simple, spotless gentleman, most interested during his outdoor man, in caring for his wife and whose idea of a good time is fishing.

Then we have the Reverend William Hapgood a serious-minded, sincere type of young minister.

Canada Cement and Boosters Winners

In Exciting Opening Games In Indoor League Last Night

Canada Cement—5.
C. N. R.—0.
Rooster Club—20.
National Castings—15.

The City Indoor Baseball League opened in the Armouries last night with the Canada Cement Company and the Rooster Club bowling into the win column and the National Castings and C.N.R. taking a loss each. Good sport and plenty of excitement was provided for an encouraging number of fans who turned out, about one hundred and sixty seats accommodated between one and two hundred spectators.

Mayor W. C. Mikel was on hand shortly after eight to throw in the first ball, but Bill Green, league president, who was behind the ball kept a ghost of a show. The Mayor sent the ball bounding close to the lights high up on the ceiling.

"There was good and bad about that," declared the league president after the game between the Canada Cement Company and the C. N. R., provided an interesting struggle with clever playing. While the score between the Boosters and the National Castings was a bit looser, errors and heavy slugging being a feature. Both were seven innings.

Bidgood like the good old summer time of baseball days, Point Anne crew wid the railway men trotted out on the floor. Opposing them went to the box for the Canada Cement with the redoubtable Frank Gover behind the bat. The C.N.R. had Hurley pitching and Moore catching.

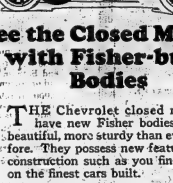

Green pitched a whale of a game and had the Belleville men guessing for four innings at least.

Cement Gets Jump

In the first frame, Canada Cement got three runs and the C. N. R. two. Sonny Green was given a free ticket and stole second. Gover followed with a roller down the first base line. F. Bennett flew out to Weir. Frank Gover went on a fielder's choice and Sonny Green was tagged on his way home by Hurley. Jack Bennett scored on a long one to Buchanan in right field who dropped it. L. Gover and Frank Gover scored. Moore opened the second for Greenwood in short. Reid popped out to Hurley.

For the C. N. R. in the initial spasm, Weir burned third base to second on Symonds's election. Maugher drew life on Reid's error in the second. Armstrong and Newton was safe when C. Marsden and Maugher scored. Buchanan walked filling the bases. Buchanan was forced at the square by fanning Green and Hurley.

Durnan, the next three frames, the Point Anne boy, blanked the C.N.R. Green getting seven strike outs. In the meantime, the Cement men gathered in four in the second due to a double by S. Green and a home run by Frank Gover.

"DIAMOND DYE" IT

A BEAUTIFUL COLOR

Directions in each package tell how to dye any fabric, whether wool, silk or cotton, perfectly, even if you have never dyed before. Just dip in cold water to tint soft, delicate shades, or boil to dye rich, permanent colors. Each diamond package contains directions for dyeing any woman can dye or tint her worn, faded ribbons, skirts, waists, dresses, coats, stockings, sweaters, draperies, coverings, hangings, everything new.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—and tell your druggist whether the material you wish to color is wool or silk.

Starting with the third, the C. N. R. steadied down and kept the visitors scoreless, until the 6th and 7th when they made one run in each frame, bring ing their total to nine.

The C. N. R. made one run in the fifth and were six runs down when they went in to bat in the seventh. Then they staged an exciting last inning rally netting five runs and having a great chance to tie the game up.

Coy Young started the rally with a nice single to right field. Then Weir, Symonds and Newton and Armstrong singled in a row,Newton coming up with a three base hit to left field, clear. But the tying run was available.

The line up:

Canada Cement—S. Green p., L. Goy, if., F. Bennett 2b, F. Goyer, c., G. Marsele, ss, R. Green 3b, Reid lb, Buchanan r. f., Callaghan lf.

C. N. R.—Weir ss, Symons, cf, and 2b, Meagher, 2 b and 3b, Armstrong, 3b and ss, Newton, ss Buchanan rf, Green lf, Hurley p, C. Young lb and cf.

Score by innings:

C. N. R.	2	0	0	0	0	0	5	2	9
Canada Cement	3	0	1	0	1	0	0	0	5

The game between the National Castings and the Boosters was more of a slugging affair, the first two innings the batteries, composed of W. Knott and A Knott for the Castings and Leslie and Folwell for the Boosters, were tight and the score stood at one apiece tight. But in the third, both sides blew up in the scoring, eight runs in all being right. Boosters had the edge in the fourth four runs rolling in for Castings scorning. It was nip and tuck then to the finish with the Boosters holding the lead.

The line-up:

Boosters—J. H. Williams, 3b; Folwell, c.; Les, 1b.; Ross, s.s.; Murray, 2b.; Murvey, r. f.; Leslie, c. f.; Lisle 2b, G'Brien, l.f.

National Castings—P. Cornell, s.s.; A. Knott, c.; J. McKenna, 2b.; W. Knott, lb.; R. Green, 3b.; F. Stenner, 3b.; Henn, c.f.; Bush, r.f.; and Clark lf.

Ken Colling officiated as umpire and put in a mighty satisfactory evening's work.

commodated at the High school and King George school may be used by the rural pupils who may write.

When Dr. Sinclair visited the auxiliary class in Queen Alexander School he recommended certain equipments. These should be procured at once as it would add to the efficiency of that class.

The report was adopted and the request of the Inspector in respect to using King George School assembly room for the holding of examinations.

Health Committee

A report was presented from the health committee of the Board and it is recommended that some certain supplies be procured, which was concurred in.

A report was presented from Mr. F. W. Ashley attendance officer relative to his work.

The report was adopted.

The committe rose and reported and the report was adopted.

Mr. McGie moved, seconded by Mr. Bleecker that some trees be planted about the King George School grounds. Carried.

Mr. McGie reported that the lot owned by Mr. R. D. Lasier on John street, for agricultural purposes by the pupils of the High School could be purchased for $800 and a barn there could be secured for an additional $400. This lot has a 85 feet frontage and is 120 feet deep. It is a central spot, only a few minutes distance from the High School.

Col. Ponton—There are 2 lots within 5 minutes of the High School and these could be secured for agricultural purposes without purchasing them.

On motion the matter was referred to the Sites building and repairs committee to investigate and report upon.

Teaching Music

Col. Ponton spoke to his notice of motion relative to the teaching of music in the school. He desired to have a committee appointed to report from this matter. The speaker stated that 30 per cent of the pupils can read music and at least 20 per cent could play and many could sing. The committe named to consider this matter is composed of Messrs. D. G. Bleecker A. Schryver, W. Harvey, Mrs. McFee and Col. Ponton members of the Board and Prof Y. F. Hunt, Prof. W. Wheatley, E. Hinbery, Mrs. M. P. Dafl, Mrs. J. Grant, Mrs. Col. Ponton, W. B. Deacon, Leo Rizzo and Miss Sinclair as an auxiliary committee to co-operate with the Board Committee in the matter.

The motion was adopted after a brief discussion as to its merits.

Mr. A. Schryver was chairman of the committee of the whole on reports, etc. Many accounts recommended by the Finance Committee were passed.

Members present were Messrs J. Elliott, chairman, F. Potter, A. Jones, H. W. Ackerman, A. Mochler, N. S. Anderson A. P. Schryver F. H. Chesher F. H. Smith, W. N. Helm, G. Sprackett, D. C. Bleecker, Mrs. F. Bowes, Mrs. Agnes McFee, Col. W. N. Ponton, J. W. Cook, W. Harvey and E. A. Geen.

ARREST MADE IN CONNECTION WITH SUICIDES

New Angle Given To Case At Fort Stewart

INSPECTOR GOES UP

Inquest Was Held Over From To-night, Officer Reports

An arrest was made to-day in connection with the alleged suicide pact which was carried out when the bodies of Mrs. Mrs. Nettie Wilson aged thirty-two, and her thirteen-year-old daughter, Shirley were discovered floating in the ley waters of Fraser lake late Wednesday afternoon last, by husband of the woman and the father.

Edward Lasie Gaine, until recently a resident of Fort Stewart is the man arrested and he will be charged with having carnal knowledge. Gaine recently left the district.

Inspector C. E. Garnett of this district Provincial Police, returned to the latest work in the sensational case at seven o'clock this morning from Provincial constable Perry McCoy, stationed at Bancroft who has been at Fort Stewart investigating this case since he was first notified to do so on Thursday last by Inspector Garnett who was notified by the fear-stricken relatives, following the discovery of the bodies, on an hour later than the other, and the previous discovery of three letters, left by the drowned woman, in which suicide was contemplated.

Inspector Garnett left to-day for Fort Stewart where he intends to be for a time into the death of Mrs. Nettie Wilson and her thirteen-year-old daughter Shirley. Fort Stewart is thirty-two miles east of Bancroft.

Long Journey

It will be a long and tiresome journey Leaving Toronto at four twelve at noon to-day the train which travels closest to Fort Stewart generally is not on a connection—arrive at Deiter, the closes railway point, the afternoon at seven o'clock. The last leg of the journey will be a fourteen mile drive to Fort Stewart in a sleigh—for there is good sleighing in the north country yet.

The inquest which was to have been held at Fort Stewart to-night has been held over, as Dr. Reed Medical Officer of Edorado did not get back to Fort Stewart to-night, the post mortem examination which was deemed advisable in one case at least. Lunch will be served in the post mortem examination to-day it is believed, but if the bodies were not buried as was resorted on Sunday, then the likely that the bodies will have to be exhumed.

When seen this morning, prior to his leaving for Fort Stewart, Inspector Garnett did not state whether or not sensational developments were anticipated by him as a result of the inquest.

"Whatever transpires at the public inquest however," he said, "will be given to the public, for it is a public matter of public interest."

Provincial Constable Perry McCoy will meet the Inspector at Deiter and direct the way to the northern hamlet of tragedy.

CHAMBERLAIN WILL REPORT ON TUESDAY

London, March 22.—Austen Chamberlain, secretary for Foreign Affairs, is expected to recount before the House of Commons on Tuesday the results of his recent mission to Paris, which has been the subject of animated discussion in the British press.

M. De Fleuriau, the new French ambassador to Great Britain will return to Paris to-morrow and almost certainly will communicate with M. Herriot thereby the outcome of his conversations there before Mr. Chamberlain addresses Parliament.

It is current gossip that the Foreign Secretary is considering the same diplomatic appointment over the failure of his efforts in the near-east appointment which are termed the preconceptions and unyielding attitude of the French and Italians as did his predecessors, with the possible exception of Ramsay MacDonald, who, coming into contact with the newly-appointed Herriot Government was able to establish a somewhat less cold atmosphere between the two nations.

A new embarrassment has arisen since Mr. MacDonald's premiership it add to the conflict between the two Governments over the Geneva protocol namely, the French war debt, for up to the present, as far as is known, no reply has been forthcoming from the French Government to the British representation to France to state that Government's views on repayment or the funding of the debt.

MANY NEWCOMERS ARRIVE AT ST. JOHN

St. John, N.B., March 21.—Bringing the largest passenger list of the season, 526, the Canadian Pacific Steamer Montcalm arrived in port yesterday from Liverpool, Glasgow and Belfast. There were two large parties on the steamer. One was in charge of Col. D.W. Stevenson, of Jordan Falls, Shelburne, N. S. He brought with 107 immigrants, mostly from Belfast and Glasgow. They are all going to Nova Scotia farms. On stage in Fleming, the majority under Eminin Settlement Act. Another second party, under the direction of John Rowtree, of Alberta, had 53 members, all from Holland.

Marquis Curzon, of Kedleston, former lord president of the council and leader of the House of Lords, who died last week.

Belleville Loses Oldest Citizen

John Burke Called by Death On Sunday After-noon

One of Belleville's oldest, if not the oldest resident, in the person of Mr. John Burke, passed away on Sunday afternoon at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Peter Johnson, corner of Bridge and Charles street. He was 91 years of age, having been born in Quebec in 1833. In early life the late Mr. Burke was engaged in the lumbering business and for many years was a farmer. For the past two years he lived in this city. He was a member of St. Michael's Church and a gentleman who was much respected by all who knew him. A widow, five sons and four daughters survive. They are: The first break in the family of eleven persons. The sons are: Peter, Valley-field, Que.; James of Paul, John of Sault Ste Marie, Patrick and Thomas of Niagara Falls. The daughters are Mrs. M. Maloney of Niagara Falls, N.Y., Mrs. Peter Johnson of this city, Mrs. Jandru of Frankford and Mrs. Joseph Fitzpatrick of Stirling. Thirty grandchildren also survive also some great grandchildren.

Desmond Burke, of Quinte, who was the King's prize last year at Bisley, is in attendance.

At present Desmond is a student at Queen's University. A number of relatives of Mr. Burke are in the city to attend his funeral.

FOUR IN FAMILY DIED FROM "FLU"

Toronto, March 22. — While the deaths of Mrs. Lulu Wright, mother and Edward Toms, father, and son, respectively of Dan Dandelion Avenue was leaving the residence of James H. Moffatt 85 Lawes Road, for St. Jude's Cemetery, Wexford, on Saturday afternoon, again again visited the home when a brother of Edward Toms Stewart Toms, aged 43 years passed away from pneumonia, making the fourth was a fourth victim, when Charles Wright aged 49 years another brother died, All three brothers were unmarried. All the father and Edward Toms, contracted influenza of a virulent type, and were dead within four days of one another. Three sons survive, Samuel, John and Albert. Also one of the survivors is now suffering from the dread disease, but it is hoped, to be a mild form.

The deaths of Mr. Toms, senior and his son, Edward, occurred on Tuesday and Thursday last, respectively, were wholly unnoticed in the Dandelth district, where the family have lived a home and highly respected, but when the deaths of the other two Wright brothers and Charles was announced on Saturday evening, the whole was in sub-mitted.

The whole was removed on Saturday night from the premises where death occurred to Wexford, Scarboro' Avenue to the residence of an old friend of the family, Mr. George Wright, of 229 Main street, from whence the funeral service will take place at St. Jude's Cemetery, Wexford, at 3.30 this afternoon.

DOG KEEPS WATCH AT MASTER'S GRAVE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Lancaster, England, March 21.—A lonely death watch began last July by Nero, a big mongrel dog recently with the end of the Canine's life coming as the stood guard at his master's grave.

When his owner was shot to death in a wife-killing suicide pact on the 31st July of last year, Nero, followed the funeral car to the cemetery. He has kept watch daily, leaving the grave a short interval only, for food. All efforts to coax the dog away failed.

Twelve Year Old Girl Is Awarded Sum Of $25,000 As Worth Of Smile

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, March 22.—How much is a smile worth? That was the question which a jury in County Supreme Court here was indirectly asked to answer today in the case of Miss Dorothy two-year-old May Goldhaar, who, it was claimed had lost her smile when she was knocked down by an automobile. The jury ordered that the owners of the car pay $25,000 for her "lost smile."

When the automobile ran over May who suffered a fracture of the skull, an operation rifled that injury, but her style set in and May's face became immobile. The eyes that once laughed were set in one strained expression and her lips were left in a twisted shape.

"I can not laugh, Dorothy cry now," May told the jury, "but it goes on just the same inside of me."

VOICE BETRAYED HIM

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, March 23.—Ave. Louise Pease of Yonkers, wife of Harry Pease, song writer, from whom she got a separation two years ago, has been searching for him for months to collect back alimony.

Two weeks ago she was listening to the broadcasting from the Broadway Theatre and recognized her husband's voice.

Subsequently papers were served on him and a local court appointed her receiver of her husband's property.

Pays High Tribute To The Departed

Memorial Service to Late John McIntosh Held At John Street

A worthy tribute to one who was a worthy citizen was paid last evening at John Street Church to the late Mr. John McIntosh by the Rev. W. T. Kerr, who was for a time his pastor. The church was filled and the memorial service was impressive. Hymns and devotions by the choir were appropriately rendered and Rev. D. Ramsay, minister of John Street Church assisted in the devotional service.

Rev. Mr. Kerr, in his opening remarks said the service was intended to God and to the memory of an honored and esteemed citizen, the late Mr. John McIntosh, a man who held no claim to goodness or virtue himself, but who, when a young man became to Canada in search of opportunities. So many like him left Scotland that that country had been depleted of her young manhood. He was possessed of a spirit that was unyielding and he had a high ideal of life.

While all his life he retained a strong liking for insurance land, the preacher said, he was nevertheless a man of many interests as evidenced by his adoption. He resided in Canadian life and adapted himself to her life. He was possessed of an industrious nature and loved his work. It was not a thing to be trifled with. Earnest in purpose when he took up a task or man.

He found time to mix with his fellow citizens in social gatherings. His fellowship with his fellow men was delighted in like many were attracted to him by his friendly and kindly greetings.

If he was partial to any at all, it was to the poor Mr. Kerr continued. Class and creed were nothing to him when he came in friendship. He sought for a man's worth, not what he was by social standing. He was a well-educated man. Here was a man who acquired a good education by diligence and application. He loved the literature and song of the land of his birth.

He also had a deep religious instinct, but did not parade it. It was too sacred for the house top. All through his life he was actuated by religious and was a source of encouragement to his associates and those with whom he came in contact.

On Sunday last after the evening service he was going to the hospital on a critical operation. In conversation with Mr. Kerr he said "I will be all right anyway". Thought of God and his companionship. He loved the service of God's house because he loved His Master. He was strongly in favor of Union Church. His christian faith was a factor in his life.

"He loved his home and its sanctities," said Mr. Kerr, and was devoted to his family. Two of his sons conducted services in Toronto and we gladly pay this tribute to a father's worth. They must be worthy of it. He was a true brother and fought the good fight of faith.

During the service Mrs. A. H. Hepburn rendered as solo entitled, "Souls of the Righteous", and Miss Pearl Gaye sang another entitled "Crossing the Bar". Both selections were in keeping with the memorial service.

TEN THUGS GRABBED $40,000 IN SILKS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, March 23.—Ten robbers, all armed with pistols, held up a waiting motor truck on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, 59th street and Lexington Avenue and escaped with silk valued by railroad officials at $40,000. They then transferred the silk cases to a truck waiting at the street entrance of the pier.

STEAMSHIP ON REEF

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Port Sudan, March 23.—Lloyd's agent reports the British steamship Hamilla of 3,281 tons from Bombay for Liverpool ashore on Wingate Reef near here. Tugs have gone to the scene to take off passengers if necessary.

The above photograph of the officers of the Canadian order of the Women's Ku Klux Klan was taken at the home of one of the Hamilton officers on the occasion of the visit of high officials of the Canadian order. It will be seen that the robes are somewhat different from those in the States, masks being worn over the eyes only, instead of covering the whole face. A thousand women belong to the Klan in Hamilton.

Huge Task Undertaken in Path of Recent Tornado

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, March 23.—Saddened by the final tragedy of its graduation, the Red Cross relief unit of its dead, Southern Illinois and Indiana today turned undaunted to the mammoth task of rehabilitation. All injured have received medical aid attention and all homeless have been provided with temporary shelter, it was announced and plans got under way for virtual rebuilding of stricken areas. Henry P. Baker, head of the disaster relief committee of the Red Cross, announced that his organization knows to rehabilitate every family affected by the storm.

GROCER HELD UP, $400 WAS TAKEN

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, March 23.—Held up by two armed men, George Lewis, grocer in charge of receiver for Hydro Electric Commission, was forced from his store into his car last after opening shop in the west end this morning while robbers relieved his till and got away with between four hundred and five hundred dollars. The police are on the trail.

CHICAGO MARKET

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, March 22.—Owing largely to an unexpected decrease of the amount of wheat on ocean passage wheat prices have scored material advance during the entire session. Failing fully off in aggregate of wheat afloat for Europe was looked upon as a factor compared with week ago. On other hand word that rains in Texas had broken drought over big section of State tend to allay fears about any great power to sell. Oats started at 34c off to 34c to 34c, May 45¼ to 45¾. Lower markets kept mostly at a fractional decline. Provisions lacked aggressive support of buyers.

CASHIER WITH C.N.R. USED OFFICE GUN

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto March 23.—John Browning, age 36, cashier at the Canadian National Railways Freight offices here, shot himself in the washroom of the offices here this morning. Borrowing requests for work earlier than usual, entered the cashier's cage, took out the revolver, went to the washroom and fired a bullet into his head. At St Michael's hospital where he was taken, little hope is enter tained for his recovery. He is a married man.

Turks Reported To Be Mobolizing

Aiming to Place 100,000 Men Under Arms Be-fore Summer

Geneva, March 23.—Extensive mobilization all over Turkey is reported here, giving great concern in quarters watching the war moves in the Middle East. The Turks, mobilizing in every important centre except Angora, are aiming to place 100,000 men under arms before Summer, which would make an army 20,000 stronger than that which expelled the Greeks.

The most radical faction of the Kemalist Government is now controlling Angora, where the rule is in the hands of twelve deputies. The Soviet Ambassador, Sourtis, is reported exceedingly active. The theory expressed here is that while Moscow is against Mustapha Kemal, the opportunist policy of the Bolsheviks is calculated to precipitate hostilities between the Kemalists and British over Mosul. It is generally believed Turks have seized the recent Kurdish revolt as a pretext for nation-wide mobilization, the purpose being to influence the decision of the Mosul boundary commission, which will finish its investigations by April 1 for report to the League of Nations Council in June. The issue is whether the Mosul oil fields shall be handed by as part of Irak under British domination.

CITY ROTARY CLUB NAMING DIRECTORS

The primary nominations held by the Belleville Rotary Club were held to-day with the following results:

Alan's father has given him a tenstory deed on 50,000 feet of land in the center of the city where property is worth its weight in gold." Lefcourt Mr. Lefcourt says.

Every Acre Can Produce More

Says Duncan Marshall at Rotary; Suggests More Schooling

"Every acre under cultivation in Canada could and should produce at least half again more than it does if it were scientifically farmed", declared the Hon. Duncan Marshall at the Rotary luncheon to-day. Mr. Marshall stressed the great importance of educational facilities for the boys and girls from the farms, declaring that no more important duty faced any of the governments of Canada than that of providing easily accessible and practical courses so the young farm people could gain new insight into their business.

Mr. Marshall's idea of an agricultural college is to have it housed on a farm and operated by the city where scientific and practical work could go hand in hand. He thought that the present large colleges were too apt to wear away from the practical needs of city life.

One of the obstacles in the way of scientific farming in Canada is the lack of appreciation of the necessity of study-ing on the part of the farmer himself", declared the speaker. He urged that every farmer should learn the pride and joy of growing a little better grain than his neighbors and breeding a little better live-stock.

Election of Directors

The primary ballots for directors were cast to-day and the results appear in another column Most of the members brought a farm ticket with them and there were present as guests a number of prominent Belleville business men. Mr. John Elliott, manager of the Standard Bank, Mr. A. B. Collins and others. Mr. Fred Osborne, President of the Board of Trade from Calgary and past president of the Calgary Rotary Club was the champion long distance visitor to the city.

Tag Day Proves Very Successful

Collect $212.05 During Saturday From Tag Sale

As a result of the tag day held here Saturday last by the Booster Club and the Rotary Anne Society, the sum of $212.05 was collected by those who were out on the early morning and the 6 o'clock Saturday night in the stores allotted to them for the sale of tags.

To this sum $50 goes to the Salvation Army for the poor and needy Christmas and $162.05 goes, minus amounted to $50, leaving a balance of $112.05, the value of which amount has been rewarded to the striking miners and their families in the Sydney and Nova Scotia coal mine regions.

Officials were in charge of the enterprise are very well satisfied with the results and were much delighted by the public who so generously assisted the good cause during Saturday. They are also indebted to the taggers who gave their time and enthusiasm to put the tag day over so successfully.

The Canden agricultural society is forcing a movement to supply a free camping ground to tourists.

LONGER TERM IF PETE SMITH NEGLECTS FINE

Appellate Court Demands $100,000 From Former Treasurer

$60,000 FOR JARVIS

Sum of $140,000 Already Paid Regarded as Restitution

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, March 23.—By a decision handed down this morning by the appellate court, Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer of Ontario, faces a jail-sentence of two years in Portsmouth Penitentiary unless he pays a fine of $100,000 in connection with his conviction last year of conspiracy to defraud the province, the alternative to forfeiture bonds on behalf of the Government. The decision was rendered this morning when the appellate court handed down a decision in connection with an appeal launched by Aemilius Jarvis Sr., against the sum of $60,000 in the same transaction. Aemilius Jarvis, head of the former bond firm of Aemilius Jarvis and Co., was given a six months term in the county jail and Peter Smith three years in Portsmouth Penitentiary and a fine of $60,000 was made collectable from the estate of the latter.

By the decision of the Appellate Court a definite fine was imposed on each, Aemilius Jarvis to pay $60,000 and Peter Smith $100,000. The Court however does not alter prison sentences already imposed, but specifies an additional five years on each, should the fines on Aemilius Jarvis Sr., recently returned to the Government of $140,000, which he claimed was his entire profit with inter est on the transaction which resulted in his arrest. The specials division holds that the money is rightfully a restitute. The fine of $60,000 is entirely separate from this.

Attorney General Dismayed

The judgment of the Appeal Court is in effect a reduction of Jarvis Smith point fine from $600,000 to $300,000 with the interest on the amount. The alternative of fines are not paid. After learning of the result of the appeal Hon. W. F. Nickle, Attorney General issued the following statement:

"It was with astonishment, almost dismay that I learned that the decision of the Appeal had varied as indicated sentences imposed by Mr. Justice Latchford Meredith. In my judgment the people will have great difficulty in reconciling themselves to the fact that so much enormously imposed on other offenders for offences against property and the criminal law in relation to property offences."

Premier Ferguson Silent

Premier Ferguson expressed himself as astonished at the decision.

When asked if he had any statements to make he replied briefly:

"I was not only surprised, but astound ed. Jarvis admitted his guilt and was a witness on commission and Jarvis negotiated the arrangement whereby Smith paid the money back to the representative of the Provincial treasury. Jarvis has failed to pay back one sou. The province was mulcted for $600,000, and I can think that I need to make say further comment."

IRREPARABLE LOSS

The destruction by fire of Madame Tussaud's Wax Works in London by a mysterious incendiary, destroys another of those irreparable losses which Canadians fail so keenly to see. Many of these perfect wax effigies, starting with Voltaire, were taken from the life and everybody knows how bewitchingly life-like most of them were. Hundreds of adults as well as children used to this cabe was policemen and others for actual officials in the premises; put questions to those dead wooden and received with surprise at their silence. Of late years the place had become crowded with new models including the Prince of Wales, Princess Mary as a Red Cross nurse, the ex-kaiser, Lloyd George and many others; and it is a great pity that new premises were not secured before the fire occurred.

Of the thousands of Canadians who have sojourned in London, it is safe to say that few or none have seen these world famous exhibits.

This establishment, like the Hippodrome and aquarium in New York was about the first "sight" to be "taken in" by the visitor from the provinces or from other countries; and, of course, New York has nothing so unique and irreparable as Mme. Tussard's.

OUR FAVORED COUNTRY

After reading this week of the tornado which destroyed so many valuable lives in Illinois, Missouri and Indiana, the people of Quebec and Ontario must feel thankful to Providence that they live in a part of this continent which is not subject to such terrible revulsions to nature.

We look in vain in the history of this part of the continent for any such disaster. People here during the winter months often complain about the climatic conditions, but they overlook the many compensating factors. Even in the winter we have many days of glorious sunshine and at other periods of the year, in addition to plenty of sunshiny days, we have have a sufficient amount of rain to ensure good average crops.

In many parts of the United States which are looked upon as more favorable in regard to climate there are periodical droughts and insect pests. We are free also of those in Quebec and Ontario, except occasionally in restricted localities.

As to the climate, the number of days that are very cold or very hot here are extremely few. In this respect, we are even better off than our North-West, where the thermometer often goes to 30 below zero, where the temperature in summer rises higher than here, and where, in order to offset the limited rainfall, they have on occasions resorted to rain-makers with questionable success.

We in Eastern Canada have much to be thankful for.

CANADAS COAL SUPPLY

Hon. Charles Stewart has made an announcement on a coal plan for Canada that means the government has been following the subject close ly. Mr. Stewart believes Canada can be made independent of potable coal supplied by the combined resources of Alberta coal from the west and Nova Scotia coal, converted into coke, from the east. Arrangements are in an advanced stage of preparation for the carrying into effect of the scheme, which, if carefully worked out, would become an established Canadian business.

3. Move traffic for Canadian transportation companies.

4. Better working conditions for the miners east and west.

5. More money circulated by the Canadian people in Canada; an increase in the buying powers of Alberta and Nova Scotia.

6. Enough Canadian money kept at home to settle the matter of dis count on our money in United States.

The people of Ontario and Quebec, the London Advertiser points out, must be prepared to assist in this work; they must have to school themselves to different methods for handling this fuel, but these things they should be glad to do, because in doing them they are performing their share in the development of Canadian trade by Canadian labor. The government is to be commended for the definite information it was able to furnish.

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

Keeping Things in Their Place

THE lady who had fainted declared that it seemed as though the walls had caved in on her and the floor had come up and hit her.

The walls belonged at a certain distance and the floor ought to have kept under her feet. The fact that they were out of place seemed that she was deranged.

If you see your grandmother riding on a pink elephant and playing the piano with her toes, you may be sure that she is pretty sure that you are under a delusion, because grandmothers and pink elephants and pianos do not belong there. They have got out of place.

Sanity consists in keeping things in their proper place.

The young girl who shot her mother recently illustrates this. She had gone fast and. Perhaps a little jazz is a good thing and a harmless diversion. But when it gets out of place and causes a girl to murder her mother something is wrong with the girl.

All amusements are a good thing in their place. They recreate one occasionally. But when a life is devoted entirely to amusements it is the most horrid kind of life. We get sick of it. The people most afflicted with ennui are those whose only business is to amuse themselves. Amusement has its place in life, but on the outskirts and once in a while. It is easy to get too much of it.

We all like to go to fires. They remain the most popular form of amusement there is. But when this desire is magnified one becomes a pyromaniac. He and her fire buildings just for the pleasure of watching them being consumed.

Eating and drinking are good things in their way. A man must eat and drink to live. But when he gives himself up to the pleasures of the appetite he becomes a glutton or a drunkard. The matter of eating and drinking has simply got out of place. The satisfying of one's bodily appetites should not be prohibited, but regulated, made to occupy the subordinate position which belongs to them.

Love is a good thing and lust is a bad thing, for love is lust out of place. Immorality is love and lust in the subjunctive, as it is said that "order is heaven's first law," and when you have become disordered and things do not remain any more in their proper relations to you it is a bad symptom.

Dutchy's Diary

Sports and Hard Luck

In Toronto last week, while I was walking along College street, I noticed a crowd. My attention was attracted by an automobile warning. It was a joyous, almost hilarious note that the Toronto Automobile Club was on a spree. Looking the source, we saw a huge truck operated by the Mail, Express and Transportation Company and in large letters for all to see were the words Toronto to Belleville.

On Saturday, it was announced in Toronto that there had been incorporated a Polar Celebration and an Old Boys Re-union for Belleville. The news was wired to all parts of Canada as part of the Canadian Press news service.

Here we have examples of two forms of advertising. The truck driver and the Transportation Company, without realising the fact, are giving Belleville good advertising in keeping the name of the city before the eyes of Toronto citizens. The announcement of the incorporations reached hundreds through the newspapers of the Dominion.

There is another form of city advertising just as good and that is the spoken and written word throughout the medium of Belleville citizens. Its worth while thinking over.

I tumbled into a seat in the day coach of the C.N.R. night train from Toronto to Montreal and found myself seated with a little Scotchman, who opened up conversation by asking what time the train arrived in Montreal. He did not ask or hint for anything else. Scotchmen rarely do. So that his story I hard luck was not told for panhandling purposes.

Here was a man who served in the British Army for three years and was thrown on his own resources again in 1919. From that time until 1923 he stayed in and around Glasgow without a tap of work. He could get it nohow, he said.

In the summer of 1923, he came to Canada, leaving his wife and two children as well as eight years of age in Glasgow. He went West with the harvesters, got work while the season was on and sent practically all the money he earned back to Scotland to his little family.

He was late in Canada during the winter of 1923-1924 and all last year until the harvest came around again. Again unemployment came until January of this year, he secured the position as a porter in a men's residence at the University of Toronto. The wage wasn't much but it was steady.

Last week he received work that his wife had died, leaving the two children alone. He was on his way to St. John to join a cattle boat of which he could work his way back.

Yet some of us think we have all the hard luck!

Oh, Please No!!

Charades will be the next worldwide fad, in the opinion of German specialists in games who have had much to do with popularizing crossword puzzles in this country. The cross-word puzzles is a direct lineal descendant of charades, they declare, and one of the many curious and interesting games which have grown out of plays on words.

To-day's Smile

It was a spires musicale. A singer had just finished "My Old Kentucky Home."

The hostess, seeing one of her guests weeping in a remote corner, went to him and inquired in a sympathetic voice:

"Are you a Kentuckian?"

—And the answer came quickly: "No, madam, I am a musician."

Norman Weir will be sentenced for jail delivery by Magistrate Maxwell, of St. Thomas, on Friday. Weir is reported as being a model prisoner since his latest escapade.

HUMAN INTEREST

(Rochester Democrat)

The one thing that has interested mankind most from the beginning and will to the end of paramount interest to people is people.

HARDER FOR DIOGENES

(Brantford Expositor)

Two more officials of the Ontario government are under arrest. If this sort of thing keeps on, it will soon be impossible for a modern Diogenes to find an honest man with an electric searchlight, let alone a lantern.

WHEN THE CAMPANILE FELL

(London Sunday Pictorial)

A man who saw the fall of the famous Campanile at Venice told me that he was about to photograph the tower when it seemed quietly to sink down on the piazza. Wonderful had been uttered about it. So some time, and everybody expected that it fell and many deaths would result. As a matter of fact, I don't remember that anybody was killed though a great wood block in the middle of the dome of St. Paul's I wonder, just "sits down" if the piers gave way—and what would there do to the men imprisoned in such a mighty beehive!

TAXATION AND TRADE

(London Morning Post)

A nation, like an individual, can stagger along under a load of debt for an indefinite time, but in the end it must become slower and slower, and the burden heavier and heavier, and the end is not difficult to predict. While this country is paying heavily for its mistakes, Italy, its foreign rivals in trade, laboring under the same disabilities, and deprived of all British manufacturers, both in the United Kingdom and abroad. Excessive taxation, by placing the British trader at a disadvantage, does in fact serve as a subsidy to foreign industry.

SUPPLY AND DEMAND

(London Daily Telegraph)

Wheat cannot be cornered, as is so generally supposed, and the chances of cornering it successfully grow less as the wheat areas of the world are extended. If prices are pushed up in Chicago and there is a surplus in Australia, there will be an increase of selling orders from the latter place and the prices will fall. But if there is a bigger world demand than can be satisfied by the visible supply, prices must rise, and nothing will depress them until, in turn, these high prices bring larger wheat areas into production and there ensues a surplus of supply.

DOING ONE'S BEST

(Journal of Commerce)

Many a poor fellow has failed on account of doing his best, while if he had done the other fellow's best, he would have succeeded. An individual should always remember that while he is doing his best, the other fellow is also doing his best. And now, it makes a big difference as to which is the best way. There is the best way to do everything. If you've got the best way, the other fellow may have already found the first way, and your best way will then fall short. Nobody has the right to expect to get to the top rung of the ladder doing his best, unless his best is the best way. It is hardly ever safe to say, "I did my best" because the chances are that a person can always do a little better if he had to do the job over again.

FASHIONS & FOIBLES

Puff sleeves and 3 collar of rose-and-white silk enhance a simple frock of dark-blue crêpe de Chine for the fashion-ist.

The question of cotton materials versus silks and wools for the junior-ite children on into their teens, is a popular matter, under the sun materials for every-day dresses which can be washed easily. The advocates of crêpe de Chine and silk crêpe argue that these materials do not crimple like the cottons and therefore do not require constant laundering and are no more expensive since a smaller number of frocks will suffice for a youngster. The style illustrated is smart in crêpe de Chine with the sleeve puffs and collar in contrast.

Sailor Nears End Of 27,000 Miles

Harry Pidgeon Has Been on The Sea for Four Years

New York, March 23.—Her bow pointed toward the United States, a 26-foot yawl with a single passenger and navigator is on the last lap of a 27,000 mile voyage of four years around the world.

She is the Islander and her skipper is Harry Pidgeon, of Los Angeles, 55 years old, who expects to reach his home port by next November. Already he has travelled alone since November, 1921.

Capt. Oscar Ferrire, master of the liner Voltaire, brought the latest news of Pidgeon on his arrival here. The Islander's approach aboard the Voltaire for a call when the ship was at St. Trinidad, British island of the west coast of Venezuela.

Pidgeon told Capt. Ferrire he desired mail sent there from the adventurers who pleaded to be taken aboard the Islander while she lay among the islands in the South Pacific and the Indian Ocean.

"Off the Cape of Good Hope vessels nearly three times the size of the yawl hovered alongside," he told the captain. "Their rubber-gloved crews sent up of my boat frequently to get the barnacles off their fough skins; and I was afraid more than pleasant for the water down there was warm."

Pidgeon said he was often mistaken for a shipwrecked sailor when drifting under an awning about 10 miles north of the mouth of the Amazon. He was awakened by a grating sound and saw several brown faces staring down at him. They were sent from a rusty British tramer which had early altered her course to rescue the supposed lone survivor of some sea disaster.

Pidgeon's tiny craft had four sails and made 10 knots once off the South east African coast. There he encountered a storm and sudden shift in the wind while he was asking his watch below. Pidgeon was with his assistant, compass, achronometer and a watch. He was six weeks at Cape Town, five weeks at the Marquesas, 3,000 miles out from Los Angeles. Five weeks at St. Helena, and three weeks at Ascension Islands, mostly Belle latter pictures, resting and, overhauling the Islander.

Pidgeon built the boat himself. Until a few years ago he was a photographer and had never seen a body of water larger than the Platte River, back in Nebraska, whence he hails. In 1920 he sailed from San Francisco for Honolulu in the Islander, with only the sextant, a watch and a general knowledge of the stars to guide him. The trip back took 42 days, but Pidgeon arrived none the worse for the voyage, after battling four storms. With him on that trip he brought an interpid youngster.

On his trip around the world he first touched at the Marquesas group, and thence to the Tuamotus in the Eastern Pacific and Tahiti. From there he sailed to the Samoan Islands and the Fiji group. His next visit was at Port Moris, New Guinea, to reach Java he passed through the Torres Straits and the Straits of Sunda to enter the Indian Ocean.

The long skipper expects to come to New York before proceeding through the Panama Canal and up the Pacific Coast to Los Angeles.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

His sat there for some minutes, then called her maid and dressed. Still uncertain and half resolved, to barrow the girl, he left the hotel and, had that occurred—for her infidelity was quite capable of the transaction—he would downstairs into the dawning room, she thought at first it was empty, then she saw a couple standing by the window. They were the marquis and Elaine, and he was standing with his hand clasping hers. The slight of that Bleche's hesitation on the spot.

Some of it what she had would play the part Fanny lashley had assigned her. Elaine should not be the Murchioness of Nairne!

CHAPTER XVIII.

Congratulations came to Elaine that evening from every one, and among the most sincere were those from Lady Scott. Even Bleche's manner was profuse in congratulating the prospective marchioness, and pressed a reverent kiss upon the hand of Elaine. Why is it that says Judas should have been a woman?

Elaine glanced around the drawing room and missing Lady Scott, went in search of him. As she crossed the hall she noticed gaps for a moment in front of the glass case, recalling her first visit to the Castle.

Half absently, her eyes wandered from the objects of interest to that still, absently, she missed something. As she the glass case, she suddenly remembered that the marquis had given the key to Gerald Locke and treated a shiver. Into her mind flashed the dagger living under the old oak bench on which Mary and Gerald had been seated on the evening of his first visit to the Castle.

With a smile of sympathy with the restlessness of lovers, she picked up the dagger, and carried it in her hand as she went on her way.

Leigh was playing softly, very softly, on the organ, and she moved her head and spoke his name.

He put up his hand and touched her.

"How good of you!" he said, and his voice was scarcely above a whisper; "I could not say what I wanted to do in the drawing-room with all those people listening, and so I asked that you came here."

His hand still rested light as a feather on her arm; his face was paler than usual, and there was a tired expression in it, the look of a man who overtaxed his nerves with work to the cost of much suffering.

"And now you have come I cannot say anything," he murmured. "Out of the fulness of the heart the mouth is silent sometimes. They have all wished me joy, and I—I want to do so, but the words—how cold, how cold they are! But if you know, if you could see my heart—" He turned his head with almost a pathetic gesture, as if his incapacity to utter his thoughts caused him physical pain. "If you could you would know what it is I want to say. When Nairne told me I was as silent as now I could only breathe my name. May I say it now? Elaine, Elaine!"

Scandalous in the face of his voice thrilled Elaine, and almost forgot the dagger in her eyes, she could not have told.

With all this heavy Enriend of yours there should not be a happier man—I think there is not—than Nairne. I love you, dear child—I may call you so? I've loved you! His voice broke, and Elaine let him raise her hand to his lips. But it was steady again in a moment as if he had overcome a great crisis in self-control. "Dear since the day he came home and told me of his love for you, before I heard your voice, I wished that what has now happened, had happened, God has been very good to him and me. Ah, you cannot know how you will be honored—I know it! There is no one like him! I am proud of that. You have pierced the mask that sometimes hides him and disfigures him, and have seen his heart. I am too, am happy tonight." And yet Elaine felt that there was something wanting in his voice as stately. "I am happy tonight, my darling, my darling! My dear lady!—is yours!" His hand quivered again, as it was in the effort to say the word. "Would that I could see your face! For I seem to have to interpret as well as I did; know it and——" He bowed "Forgive me, dearest, if I seem cold, though he did not utter it, Elaine knew that she was there.

She put her hand on his cruciform, the tears in her eyes and as she did so she let fall the dagger. It fell with a clatter on the keys.

He started and listened.

"What was that?" he asked.

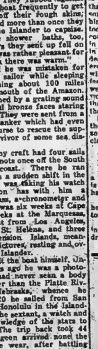

Elaine studied her voice.

"I am very awkward," she said with a laugh that flickered and died. "It is the dagger from the case in the hall."

The Nairne rose and the dagger; he said with a smile. "Are you going to kill any one?"

"No," she said; "but I found it lying in the hall, where Mr. Locke and May dropped it."

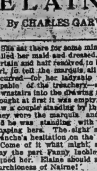

"How do you know it is a dagger?"

he asked, turning it over in his hands and feeling the embossed flowers with his sentient fingers.

"The maniac showed me the secret."

"Ah, yes," he said. "He will have no secrets from you. What are you going to do with Pierrot's dagger, Ah, the secret?"

"I will give it to him to look up," she said, "—after she hesitated a moment, half ashamed of the punishment—I don't like it."

"Nor I," he said gravely, "it is not a fit plaything for such sweet and pure hands as yours. It has shed blood—will forgive me!" he entreated quickly, for his had felt her shudder. "Give it to me, dear, and I will put it in Nairne's safe keeping."

"No," she said very softly, in a voice of womanly sympathy which thrilled him. "I am not afraid of the dagger now; I will take it to the maniac. Are you not going to see Pierrot, Monsieur Leigh?"

"Not to-night," he said very softly; "not to-night. You may see now, dear lady."

As he bent his head the sleeve of her dress touched his face. He put it to his lips with a reverence beyond words.

Elaine went down with the dagger in her hand. She had almost forgotten it in the sudden rush of emotion which filled her heart when Leigh spoke, and she stopped at the case and laid the dagger on the top, intending to tell the marquis where she had put it, and show him to look it up.

The gentleman had gone into the drawing-room during the absence, and as she entered, Elaine saw the marquis' eyes looking at her with a lovers' fond questioning.

She felt that approach her for some minutes. He knew that any attention he paid her would displease her, and with the tenderest delicacy he avoided attracting attention to their new relationship.

He asked Lady Blanche to sing, and stood beside her at the piano, dutifully turning over the music, and lingering over the pages as he looked down DUKE. Then he passed to the other side of the room, to speak to many of his guests. The major was not present, he having gone to the billiard-room to play a match-game.

SUED SISTER-IN-LAW

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Brampton, Ont., March 23.—An interesting case just entered trial, Mary Agnes was that of Robert J. Whaley, who entered suit against his sister-in-law, Miss Augusta Napleton, for more than $1,200 for board and lodging for four years, with the defendant making a counter-claim of $1,200 for work done. Miss Napleton's wife and her counter-claim were dismissed by Justice Meredith when ruled that since neither was substantiated by a written contract both were invalid.

Bafee, Son of Kazan

By Talbot Mundy

Author of "Om," "Guy Carnehan" (A Virginian Picture with Wolf, the War Dog, is an adaptation of this story).

SYNOPSIS

McTaggart, his pal Conroy, Bafee Bacca, the wolf-dog, trapped in one of his game snares, struck him a blow with a club. Bafee, by fangling him into a sack and carried him to the cabin of Sherry, the trapper. Sherry, when he demand the hand of Nepeese, the trapper's daughter. Sherry, in order to save Bafee and when she saw he had been injured she made the target of her trapper. Bafee, leaving himself, learned that Letitia is the factor's ivy. McTaggart gave her wrecked, but Nepeese rescued his dog in her arms.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued

"Let us leave them to fight it out between themselves, sister," he said, "they are two little firebrands and we are not safe. Come, Nepeese."

He shrugged his shoulders. A great load had lifted from the edge of the cloud. And then she blushed—laughed at she knew him a coxcomb—at the thought of Willow's face. A coquettish quirk of the eyebrow, McTaggart said as he walked straight at him half smiling, as she drew pool between the rivals.

"I will join you soon, most pre—you know the Factor from Lac Bain?"

There was nothing but little devils in her eyes. McTaggart thought—little devils dancing on the edge of the abyss setting his brain afire and his blood to tingling. Those eyes—the promise of delicious witches! How he would tame and play with them—some other time now. He followed Pierrot outside. In the distance Letitia sat forget felt the smart of Bawbe's teeth.

Half an hour later Nepeese came out with the dogs. She was alone, for Sherry and the Factor had been talking about something that had not been mentioned to her father. His face was strained. She thought it was the anxiety of love for which he was trying to smother as one hides unbecoming under an umbrella. McTaggart's eyes were set, but his eyes were bright. The half-breed girl knew. She knew what it was about. The Factor from Lac Bain had been demanding her hand for Pierrot, and Sherry had been telling him what she had insisted upon, and had not been prepared for

THIS POLITICIAN REFUSES INCREASE

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, March 23.—Because he opposed a salary boost voted to member of Congress in the session, Representative Henry St. George Tucker, Virginia democrat, is going to accept $2,500 annual salary due him. As a result Secretary-at-Arms Bartholdt, who is the congressional paymaster, has this statement to make: "Mr. Tucker is entitled to do with it."

Tucker's uncle was the father of representative Tucker's grandfather who, in 1816, while a member of the house, received a pay increase of $6 a day.

DEFENDS MODERN GIRL

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Eng., March 23.—Modern girls were defended by Michael Sadleir, the novelist who lectured on "Victorian Women" to the Old Old Polish Group in London.

"The modern girl is charming in look as and wonderfully adaptable to her new surroundings," he declared. "Her golf stockings are more being than her stockings. Her dancing is generally good, but except for her short skirts, if you substitute skis for bridge and dancing for golf, you have precisely the picture of the young lady of the sixties."

The extraordinary change was not in the modern girl, but in manners and customs, which affected men as well as women, said Mr. Sadleir.

GRAY HAIR IS QUICKLY MADE DARK, GLOSSY

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is many times more troublesome. Why not you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it, and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and lustrous.

Gray, faded hair, though so common, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, we get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

Salts Clears A Pimply Skin

PIMPLES ARE IMPURITIES SEEKING AN OUTLET THROUGH SKIN PORES

Pimples, sores and boils, mostly result from tainted poisons and impurities which are generated in the bowels and then absorbed into the blood through the very ducts which should absorb only nourishment to sustain the body.

It is the function of the kidneys to filter impurities from the blood, and cast them out in the form of urine, but in many instances the bowels create more toxins and impurities than the kidneys can eliminate; then the blood uses the skin pores as the next best means of getting rid of these impurities, which often break out all over the skin in the form of pimples.

The surest way to clear the skin of these eruptions, says a noted authority, is to get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Epsom Salts, and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water each morning before breakfast for one week. This will help prevent the formation of toxins in the bowels, it also stimulates the kidneys, thus causing them to filter the blood of impurities and clearing the skin of pimples.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia. Here you have a delightful effervescent drink which usually helps make pimples disappear.

On Stage 18 Years, Now 18 Years Old

Star at Griffin Started Work At Six Months Of Age

Tinsa change, as the wisecracks say, and so babies.

Seventeen years or more ago, patrons of vaudeville pay recall the baby which Hyams and McIntyre, prime favorites on the two-a-day stage in those days, introduced into their gymnasia acts. It was a lovable baby that used to bubble over with glee at the audiences and blink its wide eyes at its spotlight.

And now, in "Sandra," First National's offering at the Griffin Theatre, there appears an eighteen-year-old girl, beautiful, blond and just as lovable as the baby of yore.

She takes the title role of Mete, winsome and charming flapper who worships the exotic Sandra as exacted by Athelea La Marr, and she lends an atmosphere of wholesomeness to the drama of love and hate into which she becomes involved.

Miss Starrett got in the cast as Lelia Hyams and Lelia's life proves that once an actress, always an actress. She made her debut on the stage at the age of six months, at Hammerstein's old Victoria Theatre in New York, and she went with her mother on vaudeville tours for several years, appearing in such oldtime sketches as "Two Quakeresses," "Telephone" and "Hoggyscake." Perhaps you may remember these.

And later, when she "grew up" she became a star in musical comedy, her first appearance being in the "Girl of Dreams."

Lelia is a "discovery" in filmdom, and her work in support of Miss La Marr is so excellent that the regular patrons of the "speakies" will ever see her there again.

"Sandra" presents Barbara La Marr in a new type of stellar role—that of a woman with a double-edged heart. She loves her husband, but at the same time she is fascinated by a

Real Hair-raiser Is "North of 36"

An Adaptation of Hough's Novel at Belle Thea-tre, Now

"North of 36" is a film with as many hair-raising thrills as there are feet of film.

Produced by Irvin Willis from the novel by Emerson Hough and featuring Jack Holt, Ernest Torrence, Lois Wilson and Noah Beery, the dazzling picture, "North of 36" opens a 3 days' run to-night at the Belle Theatre.

Here's a story of the pioneers—a story of Texas (but it knows you right off your feet) the time is directly after the Civil War when the Lone Star state was the natural leader and at a loss for a market for its herds.

Word comes through that such a market is to be found far up "north of 36" and a girl is the first to undertake the perilous venture—and Texas is saved.

If there ever was a real bona-de goodness rival of "The Covered Wagon" this is it! The picture has the same air of the honest of production is conceited, but the stories are entirely different. Here there both and it will be a close choice between them! It's some picture.

Calomel To-night

HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

No more headaches, indigestion, foul breath, constipation, kidney pains. If you will but follow a doctor's advice by taking two 5-grain Calotabs (Tablets tonight at) a good drink of hot water in the morning to wash from the system all the precious day's poisons and wastes before more food is taken in. Tasteless Calotabs have no less acts on every organ of the body, stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels; so salts or acidities are necessary, does not nauseate like the ordinary calomel. Get a few of these tablets from your druggist and you will be surprised how much better they will make you feel. These inexpensive tablets can be obtained at McKeown Drug Store.

40 Kinds of Pain quickly stopped in this way

There are countless pains which one can stop—stop then and there. Pains that defied to rheumatism, to nerve-ism, insomnia and chest colds.

Millions of people have found relief in this way. Just by rubbing with St. Jacobs Oil. They have ease of mind and suffering. It is fully not to do this the moment a pain appears.

St. Jacob Oil acts in two ways. First, it causes counter irritation which relieves centre less pains. Then it brings the blood to the surface to relieve the congestion which causes other pains and aches.

Rub it on the sore spot wherever a pain appears. Rub it on the chest as soon as a chest cold starts. Don't suffer, don't take risks. And you will be forced to get relief. Keep St. Jacobs Oil on hand.

Nature will deal with the cause of the trouble. Or perhaps other helps may be necessary. But the first thing is to get relief. Stop the pain.

Some may suggest other ways to do this. But St. Jacobs Oil has done it for millions—since it for 65 years. You can rely on if your drug gist guarantees it. Let this time-tested way draw out the pain at once. Get it before the pain begins. Have it ready. You may in that way save many unhappy hours.

Westbound, the party will pass through some of the most important cities in Western Canada—Winnipeg, Saskatoon, Edmonton, stopping over at Canadian National Parks—Prince Rupert and via Canadian National Pacific Coast Steamship Service to Seattle, with full scenic seas of the North Pacific. Returning via Vancouver, Canadian Rockies, Canadian National Parks, Salt Lake City and Enter National Park through Chicago, thence back to Toronto.

The Tour is being arranged under the direction of Mr. A. E. Bryson, Principal, Bloor Collegiate, Toronto and Mr. Martin Kerr, Principal of the Earl Kitchener School, Hamilton, Ont. Full information may be secured from Mr. Bryson, 44 Silverthorn Avenue, Toronto Junct. 2543 W., also from Mr. Kerr, 4 Bonnie Ave., Hamilton, Regent 548.

While primarily designed for the benefit of teachers of the province of Ontario, the Tour is open to members of the general public and any person who wishes to join the party will be most welcome.

Kiwanians Won Last Senior Game

Flappers Play Sheiks Tonight for High Stakes

The Mic Macs were the best team on Friday afternoon when they won from the 600's by 909 pins, the Mic Macs winning each of the three games. Mrs. Yerrow was high bowler for the winners with 402 and Mrs. Austin was high for the losers.

In one of the best junior games seen in some time the Durants won from the Wolves of the North by 14 pins and also stayed in first place by the win. The Wolves lost their game right at the start when they dropped the first game to the Durants by 13pins but in the second and third Wolves came across with some good scores, winning the second game by 92 pins and the third by another 29 pins but it wasn't enough for them to win out. Most of the credit can go to Bob Moher who finished up the last two frames with 98 pins. That win for the Durants puts them on even terms with the Kiwies and the Wolves one game behind. Rutherford for the Durants was high man and Wilbur was next in line for the Wolves.

The senior league came to a close on Friday night when the Kiwanis and the Clicos bocked up for the last senior game of the season the former winning out by 157 pins, both teams playing four men aside. Fred Liberty for the Kiwanis was high man and Tom Barrett for the Clicos was high for his team.

In the C. N. R. league the Supt.'s Office No. 2 won from the Yard Dept. by 276 pins. The Office team started out for a record score when they rolled 967 besides final game, but in the second and third fell somewhat and finished up with 2807 against the Yards' 2531. High bowlers were V. Weir (93), and Kelly 515.

In the Saturday late night C. N. R. league fixture the M. P. Office won from the Road Dept. by 186 pins, both teams started out very good only one pin separating the teams at the end of the first game but in the second and third the M. P. Office broke away and finished up with above lead. Elliott was high man this entire match with 577for the winners, and E. Dickie was high for the losers.

Getting ready for their big game which takes place tonight for the cats and the Flappers and the Sheiks first staged an exhibition game at the Recreation Alleys on Friday night, the Sheiks giving the Flappers a handicap of 500 pins on the three games and winning out by 68 pins. Whether the Sheiks can repeat that tonight remains to be seen and if they don't they will have to dig down in their pockets and find enough chance to buy the Flappers a good feed, but if they do win the Flappers will have to come across with the eats. Oshawa Putting on Bowling Tourney

Belleville is Sending Down Three Teams To Kingston Too

Two teams representing the Recreation Alleys will shortly be going to Oshawa to play in their first annual tournament and Mr. A. D. McMillan is also sending up one team to represent the C.N.R.

This is the first tournament that Oshawa has put on and is for teams from Belleville, Kingston, Peterborough, Whitby and Bowmanville. No doubt Belleville should give a good account of themselves as this is no handicap tournament.

Belleville bowlers will also shortly be going to Kingston to play the return in the home and home games between Belleville and Kingston. When the Limestone City bowlers were here a short time ago they went home at the short end of the score, but from what the Kingston reports said at the time that they are going to reverse the score when Belleville goes down there.

In the ladies' dept. the following seven bowlers will take the trip to Kingston to play the ladies there in an exhibition game. The following are the highest average of each team during the winter league, Miss Geyer, Mrs. Geyer, Miss V. Bland, Miss Murray, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Ethier and Mrs. Salisbury.

The Mah Jongs will be going intact to play the Oshawa girls as soon as arrangements can be made. The Mah Jongs were the winners of the Inter-League and also for the play-off with the Wanderers.

MAYBE ITS BECAUSE HE'S GOOD PLAYER

"Howie" Morrow, tossides being probably the best centre player in the National Hockey League, is a lucky person to be on the line-up of the Canadiens.

The Stratford streak, who left with the world's champions for the Coast Sunday evening, has been in the league for eight years, and every one of those years he has been on a championship squad of some kind.

When he first started hockey his team won the Northern Hockey League Junior title for three years running, and the year following they won the Intermediate O.H.A. championships.

Then last year he came to the Canadiens, who won the world's professional title, after annexing the National Hockey League crown and this year the Habitants with Morrow playing sensational hockey won the National Hockey League title again and are on their way west to defend their championship laurels. And being only 31 years of age, he has a long hockey career ahead of him. Who can tell how many more championship outfits he will play with.

SAYS ROCKEFELLER CYCLED AT GOLF

Atlantic City, March 21—John D. Rockefeller rode a bicycle between long shots in playing golf 21 years ago, John R. White of Landerum, S. C., said in a letter to O. B. Keeler sports writer for the Atlanta Journal, recently published.

Dr. White, now pastor of the First Baptist Church at Anderson, said he was taught golf when the great I. M. Rockefeller while preaching in the Euclid Avenue Baptist Church at Cleveland. The lessons were given on the private golf course of Mr. Rockefeller.

"Mr. Rockefeller at that time," Dr. White wrote, "rode a bicycle after his long shots. He would drive, mount his bicycle and one of his men would push him along to the ball by the bicycle was a little behind it which was ice and half pint bottle of barley water. Mr. Rockefeller would take a drink now and then.

"His game was straight, playful and short. After a good drive he usually would start singing under his breath a little song, 'Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming.'"

Canadiens Lost Their First Game

Couldn't Get Going Under Western Forward Pass Rule

Victoria, B. C., March 22.—Victoria won the opening game of the world's series here Saturday night by defeating the Canadiens, 5 to 2. The Frenchmen who seemed a little tired after their long journey, could not get going properly until well on into the third period. Previous to the last their forwards were halted on most of their rushes by the Victoria defence which spared nothing in checking. Canadiens also seemed to solve the strange playing rules and made good use of the forward pass which closing in on goal.

The first period did not produce any play of championship calibre, although Victoria finished with several heavy thrusts into Canadiens' defence. The Frenchmen were all at sea on the offside pass inside their blue line, and Cleghorn and Couzi were beaten frequently. Twice Victoria broke through for goals on a similar play, the centre man feeding the puck to the left wing. Walker also in the first tally for Victoria drew hard shot, while Halderson had Vezina touched-up with a whistling shot for the first goal, which came within ten minutes of the opener.

Victoria Defence Strong

Canadiens found the Victoria defence a strong proof and most of their shots ing from a distance. Morenz and Boucher had the only telling shots, but Holmes got to them with his quick feet and Vezina went to sleep on a slow backhander that Walker lifted in three minutes after the start of the second period. Canadiens tried hard to get going, but the Victoria defence was equal to the task always. Joliat was early-ired into the boards by Anderson the first quarter of and their blows were the signal for the rest of the players to mix in, but, after Referee Ion had pulled the players apart, he handed out penalties to the players who started the fight.

Canadiens broke into the scoring column in the third period, scoring two goals. Victoria, however, evened the score in the session on Fraser's fast shot. Then came the Frenchmen's opening counter, Couzis beating Holmes from a few feet out. The advantage was short lived as Fraser tore to the scene and from the face-off and again had Vezina at his mercy. Morenz completed the scoring by getting the puck after a beautiful effort. Morenz showed up best of the visitors. The Victoria defence was a mystery to Canadiens most of the night.

Eastern Rules To-night

The second game of the series will be played in Vancouver: on Monday night. The game will erase over to-morrow afternoon and will rest up for the battle. The Canadiens hope to make a fast time showing as they will be playing under the eastern code, at which they will feel more at home.

The Arena was crowded and standing room had to be sold, but even hundreds were shut out at the door. The total attendance is estimated at 4,500. The teams:

Victoria. Goal, Holmes; defence, Loughlin and Fraser; left wing, Hart; centre, Frederickson; right wing, Walker; subs, Halderson, Foyston, Mecking and Anderson.

Canadiens — Goal, Vezina; defence, Cleghorn and Couzi; left wing, Joliat; centre, Morenz; right wing, Boucher; subs., Matz, O. Cleghorn, Headley and Ion.

Referee—Mickey Ion.

SECOND BUDGET BROUGHT DOWN BY J.A. ROBB

Allowing Last Year's Changes a Chance to Work Out

SURPLUS IS CLAIMED

Minister Says Railway Not Yet Meeting Interest On Arrears

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, March 24.—Before a crowded house to-day, Hon. J. A. Robb, acting minister of finance, presented his second budget. It was a statement in which Mr. Robb told of a heavy reduction in public revenues, yet one which he said had finished up with a surplus of revenues over expenditures of $1,923,000.

Reduced expenditures, Mr. Robb stated in the budget, in the Government policy of last year in reducing burdens of taxation. One tariff change he observed that for the present, the opportunity of an unobstructed observation of the effect of extensive tariff changes made last year should be afforded.

Points from Mr. Robbs speech are:—

1—Revenue down by $323,877,000 estimated, as against the previous year

2—Decrease in ordinary expenditure of $5,100,000.

3—Surplus of revenue over expenditures of $1,923,000 on $4,205,182 received from Greece and Rumania is added.

4—Increase of Canada's favorable trade balance with other countries $14,426,

5—Board of advisors, for which provision is made in the estimates, will inquire into tariff and other trade problems.

Mr. Robb dealt at length with the question of railway financing, stating that National Railway Company had not yet been able to meet, out of its earnings, the arrears of interest accumulated on account of these arrears of interest accumulated on account of these arrears of interest on March 31, 1914," said Mr. Robb. "They total $131,000,000, but it is not treated in our public accounts as an asset. It is held in abeyance as an overdue account."

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, March 24—Tariff changes in today's budget briefly are:

1—Export duty on electricity of 50 cus hundredth of a cent per kilowatt hour upon export. Duty payable from April 1, 1925. Rate will be equal to $1.96 per horse power year.

2—Per cent tariff changes. Principal change will be in bituminous coal. The "black coal" is retained putting it into class of coal not otherwise provided. Black coal imported United States will be dutiable at fifty cents a ton instead of fourteen cents as at present.

3—Reduction in tariff rate on well drilling machinery for deep wells and on engines for propulsion of boats over six individual fishermen will continue to be exempt from sales tax.

8—Bill to be introduced aiming at prevention of smuggling.

9—Estimated increase in revenue from taxation sales will be about one million.

10—Budget makes no change in income tax or sales tax rates.

11—Mr. Robb did not announce details of Canada Australian Trade Treaty.

CLAIM POOLROOM PACKED FOR "SALE"

Toronto, March 24.—Alleging that J. Lesbman packed his billiard room on Queen street west, with people who were instructed to play as they liked in order to give Percy Ryback and Mitch Nashbaum, alleged purchasers, the impression that the business was good and a revenue producer, a motion was made at Osgoode Hall yesterday on behalf of the purchasers for an order to continue an injunction to prevent the transfer of a chattel mortgage which was given as part of the purchase price.

C. M. Herrick, counsel for Lisbman, denied the allegations, and asked for a speedy trial. J. J. Glass appeared for the applicants.

Chief Justice Meredith directed a speedy trial of the issue, enlarged the injunction in the trial, but stayed the injunction if the money now held under the mortgage and becoming payable under it, be forwith paid into court.

FOUR YEAR OLD BOY DROWNED IN THE MOIRA

Harry Roblin Slipped on Ice Playing With Twin Brother

BODY NOT FOUND YET

Believed Current Has Carried Him Out Into The Bay

The Chief of Police informed the Intelligencer at 4:40 o'clock this afternoon that the body of little Harry Roblin was recovered off Victoria Park.

The first victim of drowning in the Moira river this season occurred just at 12 o'clock, noon to-day, when Harry Roblin, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Roblin, 378 Front street, fell into the swift current of the river from a cake of ice on which he was playing with his twin brother Walter.

The current at this point is the fast est in the river for the water rolls over the dam just a few feet away past the concrete powerhouse and at the point behind the Belvidere hotel harbs where the boy fell in. It is believed the body will have been carried out into the bay, but no trace could be found of it will be recovered soon.

The twins were playing on a cake of ice, the boys say, when they fell from a large table, which had been jammed in the river, into the water, over the concrete wall. The ice cake is still about five feet high and was resting a portion of it protruding over the walls edge.

Witnessed by Girl

Emma Barrigar, a young girl who is employed in Bingham's store at 353-354 Front street, happened to be looking out the window from a back window which overlooks the back yard. She definitely fixes the time of the accident as when she saw the boy stop into the river. She sounded an alarm but was taken up by Mrs. J. Bergman and their cries attracted men from the store as well as from the Belvidere hotel rotunda. Firemen from the Upper station also rushed to the river at the point indicated where dragging operations were carried out for a time with no success.

The twins have been a very usual attraction on Front street. During the winter they played about, until they were well known. They romped with their father and some times accompanied by a third boy brother. They frequently visited the upper fire station.

Mother's Terrible Shock

Their cart was found in the yard at the rear of the home and Walter was taken by the hand to the river bank, they found Walter, who realized that something was wrong exclaiming, "He fell in there." indicating the point at the outstretched arm. His dad was set up to the point when found. Harry was wearing rubbers and his rear coat and mitts.

Besides father and mother and the twin brother, two sisters, Dorothy and Kathleen survive.

No Inquest

Asked this afternoon if he believed the body would be found, Coroner W. W. Boyce felt satisfied that there would be no inquest.

"So far as I have been informed, the facts surrounding the accident seem to point to accidental circumstances and in that case it will be unnecessary to hold an inquest," Dr. Boyce stated.

"Of course nothing can be done until the body is found," he added.

At three o'clock city and provincial police were still searching closely with dragging operations at the point where the boy was seen to slip into the river. Ice and drift timber where the boy fell at this point while they stand on the western shore as well. A row boat has also been manned and launched between the Low er and City bridges where the current is not so swift and where it is believed the body may be carried over or to the bay in the swift moving waters.

UNCONSCIOUS FOR TWO MONTHS; LIVES

Toronto, March 24.—To be unconscious with a fractured skull for two months, yet to be able to walk on the road to complete recovery, is the experience of Walter Peet, aged 27, of 27 Marmaduke ave.

On January 15, Peet, an employee of the Partridge Rubber Co., Ltd., of 501 Yonge street, fell through a trap door to the basement and was taken to St. Michaels' Hospital. For days he was not known whether he would recover. A most difficult operation was performed by Dr. Wallace Scott, and after seven weeks of unconsciousness his recovery has been rapid.

Declares Raney Champion Personality Expert in Ontario House

Toronto, March 24—With occupants of the treasury bench or the European delegation, Premier Ferguson and the Raney amendment, the budget debate in the Ontario Legislature came for a second time last evening upon the eve of the close. The wind-up will take place to-day, when Premier Ferguson and Liberal Leader Sinclair will address the House.

Yesterday's discussion upon the amendment disclosed no softer tone towards Mr. Raney than had the scathing address of yesterday days. Hon. J. H. Cooke and Hon. W. H. Price, K.C., as Liberal Ministers, were the day's chief speakers, and they did not come words towards the late Attorney-General. Pointing to speeches which surrounded the financing of the U. F. O. Government, Hon. Mr. Cooke simply said: "That trail of suspicion leads nowhere but directly definitely then it goes to the door of the late Attorney-General." Speaking on the late Attorney-General's charge against the public accounts committee of last year, Hon. Mr. Price said the pertinent question of why Mr. Raney had not attended that committee's sittings volunteering any information which he might have in his possession. The Provincial Treasurer also called that Mr. Raney had not in other years sat, shunned the public accounts committee meetings, and he read from the House journals in proof of the Progressive Leader's activities in blocking investigations embarrassing to his Government but which had left for the present Government the discreditable condition found in the public service.

Mr. Price took up at some length the charge of $12,000 cheques cut from the Home Bank in connection with the Mulock property bond deal. Stressing the lack of any evidence to show that this sum had left the Bank possession he pointed out also that whereas the $15,000 commission to Peter Smith had been a direct cut in the books as "rebate re Provincial bonds", the $12,000 had been charged to a general "suspence account" of the Bank.

The other speakers of the day were M. Lang (Liberal, Cochrane), and M. M. Mac Bride (Conservative, Brantford). Neither approved the Raney amendment and Mr. Mac Bride especially contracted Peter Smith's downfall from the Liberal fold he associated with Mr. Raney to arrange the latter's election in East Wellington.

Mr. Cooke's found much to commend, both in the open mind with which the Liberal member had discussed the subject and in his fluency in a language which was not his own. "I welcome the day," Mr. Cooke said, "when the Pro-

REMAND GATES FOR ONE WEEK AT BANCROFT

Prisoner Being Brought Down to Belleville By Inspector

FUNERAL TO-DAY

Inquest Adjourned Until Tuesday Next; Post Mortem Held

Inspector C. E. Garnett of this district investigated matters in his way to Belleville today from Port Stewart with Edward Isaac Gates, young man who was charged in connection with the drowning of Miss Nettie Wilson, and her thirteen-year-old daughter Gertrude, by way of floating in the waters of Fraser Lake Wednesday last. Port Stewart, the hamlet where the tragedy was enacted is a little more than twelve miles from Bancroft village, and on Fraser Lake.

Gates who is single, and aged twenty-seven years, appeared in police court at Bancroft this morning, and was remanded to the county jail for one week. He was brought to Bancroft on Wednesday morning last, to answer to a charge of having caused the death, a serious criminal charge. He was arrested at Port Stewart by provincial constable Percy McCoy, stationed at Bancroft who has been conducting the investigation into this unusual tragedy since Provincial police investigations here was first notified last Thursday afternoon.

The preliminary inquest opened last night before Dr. Stead Lamb, coroner of Eldorado, and was adjourned until Tuesday next, March 31st, at Bancroft town hall. Mr. Gates' mentality, when full evidence will be adduced by Counsel Crown Attorney H. C. Donahue, who will conduct the examination of witnesses summoned on the Crown side will be a matter for the jury.

Held Post Mortem

A post mortem examination was conducted over the bodies yesterday at Bancroft by Dr. Lamb and Dr. E. T. Embury of Actinolite and the double funeral was held at Fort Stewart this afternoon in the presence of many friends, and wide-water variety here.

In court-room addition, Inspector Garnett over the long distance telephone at Bancroft this morning, the intelligencer learned from him as an inducement to the jury, that Gates today is experienced a real heavy snow storm in that part of the adjoined country at this season, at the southern extremity of which Belleville is situated. It was cold enough for winter mitts and accoverings too, he said.

The Inspector was to arrive in Belleville this evening after five o'clock, it is believed.

NEW BERLIN MAYOR TAKES OFF THE LID

Berlin, March 24—Berlin has a new chief of police. Dr. Fryessel Dr. Fessel reform. He began his new job yesterday with an announcement that his street not alone, as follows:

1.—To arrest everybody, sparking night life in the metropolis.

2—To extend the police closing hour for cafes, restaurants, taverns and other places where wine and song flow freely from 1 a.m. to 5 a.m. instead of 4 a.m. dawn of the morning after.

3—To introduce considerable freedom for dancing which is now limited to three days a week.

He declared:

"Berlin is the world city and must present itself as such to its numerous visit ors, especially those from abroad."

Ottawa—More than ten thousand home brew permits were issued in Ontario last year.

Sub Committee Will Attempt To Prepare Church Union Question For House Itself

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, March 24.—Last effort in being made to settle the question of church property before the Private Bills Committee of the Legislature, deals with it as a whole. This afternoon, after some discussion this morning, and after hearing the Unionist and non-accepting churches, were asked for from agreement, appointed a sub-committee to try and get the question in shape for large committee and House itself. If the sub-committee cannot reach definite conclusions then the items will be stored in the whole committee and probably on the House. The Private Bills Committee declined to hear counsel for two fact tions concerned until after sub-committee reports, probably tomorrow. That sub-committee is now meeting behind closed doors. The chief hour of contention in conferences held between the two church groups in the past week is the disposal of Knox College.

Born In A Garden, We Do Not Know What A Desert Is, Speaker Declares

Dr. Doolittle Delivers Happy Message to Kiwanians on Value of Natural Beauty in the Surrounding District

"The whole trouble with you people is that all you have been born in a garden and you do not know what a desert is."

This was a homely truth driven home to Kiwanians by Dr. Doolittle, president of the Canadian Automobile Association, the chief speaker at the noon luncheon to-day. He urged most strongly that the people of this district capitalize on their most attractive attractions in the natural beauties surrounding.

In introducing the doctor, Owen Hardy said he was the man who built the first bicycle in Canada, had then turned from cycling positive to motor cycling and arms, and later had the unique experience of motoring right across Canada.

In poker parlance, Dr. Doolittle said that Belleville had a "straight flush" which could not be beaten. Its attractions for tourists were the best that could be found anywhere. If properly advertised, these attractions could bring the people here a million dollars every year. Belleville could get the "cream" of the tourists.

Dr. Doolittle described briefly but in glowing terms of the high spots in the trans-Canada trip by motor lingering a moment on the awe inspiring passes of the Rockies and the beauty of the interior of the interest in the journey across the prairies, which are not necessarily as some people supposed.

The speaker praised for a trans-Canada highway which would help unify the seven provinces.

The Club expressed in no uncertain terms appreciation of the action of the Belleville High School Literary Society in sending along fifty dollars to help forward the work of the Victorian Order of Nurse.

Christian Science Answers Dr. Gordon

"Preach the Gospel; Heal The Sick" A Dual Command

The Intelligencer is in receipt of a letter from the Christian Science Committee on Publication for Ontario, correcting what is claimed to be a somewhat inaccurate reference to Christian Science by the Rev. Dr. Gordon, who recently conducted services in Bridge St. Church. The following is the letter in full:—

"Your issue of the 10th inst., contained an account of a sermon or address by Rev. Dr. Gordon. He tells of seven ways men are healed—without, by the way, demonstrating any—while rather harshly criticising the one system which he calls pista (Faith) as the last of the stage to-day", and which maintains that the Christian Science way is the "work", without which faith is dead.

"The first part of Christ Jesus' command to his followers "Preach the gospel, heal the sick" the reverend doctor possibly endeavors to do, but might expect, in the absence of compliance with the second part, that preserving discretion on the subject would make his failure conspicuous.

"The specifically mentioning Christian Science, the reverend speaker's statement "it quites or rather misquotes the Bible. I shall not name the system, but you know what it is" will not protect him from nor defeat the justice of, the corrective reply that this statement is untrue. Also, if to boldly proclaim Christ as the Son of God—the Saviour of men from sickness and disease as well as sin, as He preached and practised, is 'blasphemous', Christian Scientists accept and welcome the designation. May I, too point out that it seems a little incongruous to state 'that the Church has not been true to the teaching of Christ', and at the same time fail utterly to accurately comment on a Christian denomination which, for more half a century has proven to the world the present practicability of Christ Jesus' command.

"The good people of any community engaging an itinerant preacher, may point out to him, if in doubt of his ability to heal the sick, that Christian bodies, Gamaliel's advice, Acts. 5:38, "If this counsel or this work be not of God it will come to naught: but if it be of God ye cannot overthrow it," at least may be found even to fight against God". Christ Jesus admonished his disciples, when similarly critically tempted, Mark 10:39, 'For he that is not for us is against us' and which will do a miracle in my name that can lightly speak evil of me. For he that is not against us is on our part." Such an attitude will surely be found tolerant and Christian Sentiment in a community, that has been expected from such a visit.

AMELIASBURGH DEPUTY KEEPS COUNCIL SEAT

Judge MacLean Dismisses Charges Against George S. Wallbridge

AN UNUSUAL CASE

Not Sufficient Ballots Printed, So More Written Out

The court room at Picton yesterday was crowded with rate-payers and residents of the Township of Ameliasburgh who were particularly interested in the trial and proceedings relating to the protest made by Robert Henry Zufelt, one of the defeated candidates for Deputy Reeve at the last Municipal election, entered by him to have George S. Wallbridge, the successful candidate disqualified from holding office and unseated.

The trial took place before His Honor Judge MacLean and was not concluded until ten o'clock last evening.

Zufelt alleged that Wallbridge was not an American citizen and that Wallbridge made ballots for use in the election.

At the opening of the trial, the relator, Zufelt, abandoned the charge that Wallbridge was an American citizen as he was not in a position to prove the charge. Zufelt also endeavored to amend the Notice of Motion to include certain other charges against Wallbridge under the Municipal Act. Judge MacLean held on argument of counsel that there was no right to amend or call witnesses named in the proceedings.

Evidence was then taken regarding the charge of making ballots and it appeared that Wallbridge made more than two hundred voters were voted at Roseneath poll by any authority previously, and the Returning Officer had only supplied to the Deputy Returning Officer two hundred printed ballots. It was proved that the election the returning officer realized that the election was going to be a close one and therefore he gave a pad of blank paper to the Deputy Returning Officer with directions to write off if he should run short of ballots to make out ballots on the paper in the pad.

All Used Up.

About four o'clock on Election day the two hundred ballots had been used and more voters presented themselves at the poll. The Deputy Returning Officer then asked George Wallbridge, a candidate for Deputy Reeve, Mrs. Hookway and Mrs. Loosee to write out ballots, which they did, and which the Deputy Returning officer inspected and initialled, and handed to the Deputy Reeves. It also appeared in evidence, that the ballots were not placed in the Court Room, that of the forty-two ballots written out in hand by Wallbridge, Mrs. Hookway and Mrs. Brickman, there were no spoiled or rejected ballots among them, and twenty-five of the forty-two ballots used were written by Wallbridge.

At this stage of the proceedings Judge MacLean called in Returning Officer Frederick C. Pile, the clerk and the Return ing Officer from the Township of Sidney. He admitted, after ordering the ballots printed that he realized there would be more than two hundred voters on the voter's list. George Wallbridge on behalf of the defendant, produced one of the ballots on instructions from the Deputy Returning Officer.

Would Void Election

After further argument and inspection of the contents of the ballot

HONEST IN HIS INTENTIONS

The humorists are having their fling at a man in the Western States who made a salary of $1,800 and sent the $900 to the government because he thought an exemption of $1,000 for a single man meant that the government took everything he made over that amount.

Of course, the westerner was wrong. If his tax were four per cent. of the amount over $1,000 he owed the government only $24, and he will undoubtedly have the balance returned to him. It might be passed over as a good joke, but it is even something better than that. That westerner was prepared to pay what he considered was the amount claim of from him, although it is recorded that he thought it was rather a stiff levy. He did not consult an expert to devise a plan whereby he would be able to show that he had no taxable income—he simply vouched up what he thought was required of him.

Simpleton, you may say, but at the same time entirely refreshing, remarks the London Advertiser, in an age when most of us are figuring out how some person else can pay the bills that we are prepared to dodge.

MAKING USE OF FISH SCALES

Pearls are fashionable with the ladies at present. Real pearls, of course, are expensive, and if only those who can afford the genuine were enabled to wear them the general public would not share in this fashionable decoration.

The making of artificial pearls, however, has become quite an industry, according to the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Interior Department. In most of these imitations the bead is a glass bead. This is coated with what is known as "pearl essence. It is in this connection that Canadian fishermen become interested, for the reason that this pearl essence is produced from the scales of herring. At Grand Manan Island, off the coast of New Brunswick, there are two pearl essence plants in operation. These plants extract the essence from the fish scales and ship it to New York, where it is used for coating beads. The fishermen of Grand Manan received last year upwards of $29,000 for fish scales. That there are ample supplies of scales available may be judged from the fact that last year the herring catch of New Brunswick amounted to 22,549,100 pounds.

The Chinese have a method of producing artificial pearls by fresh-water mussels. Small foreign particles are inserted between the shell and the mussell, when these become covered by layers of nacreous, or mother-of-pearl, substance, and acquire the appearance of real pearls.

The utilization of the by-products of an industry is the means of creating much wealth, in fact, were it not for such use many industries would not be profitably operated. Canada is awakening to the need of using by-products in the development of her natural resources, and using the scales of her fish catch for the making of artificial pearls is but one of the many new being carried out.

Nothing to do but Fight

BERNARD SHAW aptly says that when once war breaks out the inhabitants of it usually say: There nothing to do but fight."

That is perfectly true.

There is no time to discuss the merits of war when once war is declared.

There is no chance to express your individual opinion.

If you are going to express your own opinion and criticise your government it must be between wars.

No matter how it may be in time of war it is "my country right or wrong—my country."

It is the same with peace-making agencies.

If there is anything done toward preventing war it must be done when there is no war. Then only peoples are in the proper frame of mind to receive suggestions and to argue intelligently.

When shots war breaks out there is such an outburst of patriotism and the people are so inflamed by hate that they are unable to see reason.

Some years have now elapsed since the end of the Great War and an American general has just been able to acknowledge that the Germans were as brave as we were and as honest.

Cannino may be supreme argument of Kings, but they are not the argument of democracy. Democracy argues between candidates.

War not only disturbs and destroys peoples, it not only demolishes property and devastates fields, but it has an effect on the minds of the people and on their hearts. For a long time it disorders their thinking and they are unable to see clearly or to feel justly.

It will be a long time before conditions are such in Germany and France that a French and German can think calmly each about the other.

When once war broke out a man must go with his fellows. Then he realizes that he is no greater than the most of his countrymen and whatever his individual convictions he must adopt theirs. If he does not do it his country will make him do it.

He must either go out and shoot the enemy and get shot by him, or else stand up against his own people and be shot by his fellow citizens.

War is a triumph of intolerance, narrowness and intense feeling. It will have no differences of opinion. Its main argument is that of force and its must all bow to it.

The forces of war are going to bring to bear upon different questions, reason and intelligence, it must be between wars. Once war breaks out there is no hope.

Press Opinions

SOME HUSTLE

(London Mail)

The Prince of Wales' energy suggests a solution of the problem of perpetual motion. He has had visit to Princess Mary—three years after her marriage—to attend a Guildhall banquet, at dinner time after a day's hunting with the Belvoir. He went from the latter end four days to the Bramham Hunt Ball at Riley Hall, Tadcaster, that night; hunted with the Bramham next day, and arrived in London the same night in time for a ball at Mrs. Benjamin Guinness's in Carlton House Terrace, given in aid of the Victoria Hospital for Children.

TROUBLE IN ISLAM

(Philadelphia Ledger)

Great Britain, France and Italy are waiting the Moslem drama. It may have vital consequences to all of them and to every white power with a foothold in Africa or Asia. Not that there is any danger of a holy war—Islam's internal wars must end and its ranks close before the green flag of the prophet becomes a menace. The continuing Islamic ferment, however, is not making the "white man's burden" any lighter and at any time may have an ominous turn for the western world.

GEORGE AND THE RADICALS

(London Mail)

The Radical Group of M. Pa. who recently added to their number now represent nearly 30 percent. of the Liberal Party in the House of Commons. As their leading spirits entertain the entire spirit of feeling for Mr. David George that the devil is supposed to have for holy water, the prospects of any effective Liberal action in this Parliament can hardly be encouraging to those who are trying to raise a million pounds for the Party outside the House. One M.P. lately stated that the members of the Radical Group were the only Liberals who knew what they wanted and where they were going. In that case the question is whether Mr. Lloyd George is going with them.

VIEWED FROM AFAR

(Gwynne Herald)

It is only when we have been abroad for some time that the petty forecround of life in the home land disappears and the shifting and momental features sound out in due prominence and in a proper relation to one another. It is from the shores of Canadian lakes that the dwarfsplying of the world and becomes visible. And it is in America, the land of dollars, that the world's scrapers and big business that we find the most intense appreciation of that wonderful spiritual history of the Celt which to us has become obscure by later and more mundane interests.

INSIDIOUS BELIEFS

(Christian Science Monitor)

Certain insidious beliefs seem to find entry into world consciousness very now and then in such a way that doubtedly they help to produce little noticeable results. Such, for example, during the war period were the aggressive suggestions from many sources which aroused on both sides anything but peaceful sentiments. Similarly today a subtle campaign is apparently being waged with a view to impressing upon thought the words "the next war", the enemy hand, even in sermons phrase appears as if "the next war" could not possibly be averted." But why should there be a next war? If half the effort that is being put into the campaign to feist this suggestion upon the world could be employed to help maintain peace, something worth while would be in process of accomplishment. The next war" must never break out. That is the best solution to all problems; that it would bring in its train.

Thirty Years Ago

A resident of the city who crosses the bay in a cutter last night from Prince Edward made the serious mistake of attempting to lead near the mineral springs. The ice was weak and the horse and vehicle broke through. The driver whose involuntary bath in a mixture of mineral and raw water was decidedly too cold for comfort, shouted lustily for assistance, and a resident of the neighborhood, bearing with him a lantern and rope, went to the aid of the unfortunate one. The cutter was damaged, and the occupant exhibited a pair of trousers in his philanthropic labors.

A Brockville man was recently married a third time. It was also his bride's third venture.

Fred Bero, Belleville, was in the city yesterday, says the Kingston Whig, arranging with C. Carey for a match in heavy lifting.

MEXICO ECONOMIZES

(Washington Post)

President Calles announces that Mexico must trim her expenses by $50,000,000 which is 8.30 percent. reduction. Last year, he says, there were 1,000 finance-tion arrangements were made with New York bankers, for a loan on the above amount. As soon as Senor Calles became President, however, he cancelled the loan and remarked that a like sum could be obtained at home if officials would renounce "perquisites."

MOTOR SERVICE IN BRITAIN

(Hamilton Herald)

Gradually the motor busses are cutting into the tramcars' traffic and the steam railways in Great Britain. These busses are lighter and numerous in all the large cities, but are not popular. Motor services are being organized, and the people appear to like them. The latest one started is the longest motor service in Britain. It is between London and Bristol and covers a distance of 117 miles. With 16 scheduled stops and a half-an-hour for lunch, the time taken for the journey is eight hours, the start at each end being 9 a.m. and the arrival at 5 p.m. The single fare is 12s. 6d. and the return fare 21s. which is about two cents a mile.

Over the same route the stage-coaches used to run a century and more ago, but they took more time to cover the distance. From London to Bristol was a "day's journey" in the old days—and it took longer than that in the eighteenth century, when roads were bad. Some of the charm of the old coaching travel may be restored by the busses, and perhaps many of the ancient wayside inns which are so conspicuous features of the eighteenth and early nineteenth century fiction, but which the railways robbed of their custom, will again flourish, adding to the picturesqueness of travel in the old land.

OLD LINDSAY MILL HAS BEEN BOUGHT

Lindsay, March 24.—The large stone flour mill, formerly the property of the Fleming estate, which in the hands of the banks and which has been idle for the past few years, is reported to be Lindsay's industrial asset was purchased on Tuesday by Messrs. Frank Cole, the Lindsay Grain Co., for $100.00. The plant carries with it a liability for $4,500 interest, which the purchaser will have to pay. The mill was sold some years ago to the Canadian Cereal & Flour Mills, Limited, which also operated a mill at Tillsonburg and Embro. These properties were sold on Tuesday to satisfy mortgages. Besides the stone mill at Lindsay, there is a brick cornmeal and chop mill and several frame storehouses. It is rumored that the mill will be occupied by the Beal Leather Company, which is at present occupying in a portion of the Dominion Arsenal plant.

THREATEN ACTION FOR RENT OF HATS

It is indeed a sorrowful plight when a town is threatened with court action unless they pay a sum of money for the rental of plug hats used during the visit of Lord and Lady Byng, to Whitby. Just such a predicament exists, however, and the town officials are threatened with a suit to recover $12 for the rental of six "stove pipes."

To date, it is said, there is a serious omission from a gentlemen's boudoir if it did not include a "plug," because the majority those days have gone forever or the town representatives have disposed of their hardware for summer covering to protect their "tiles" from the wintry blasts.

20 IMMIGRANTS GOING TO NAPANEE

Under the auspices of the British Immigration and Colonization Association of Canada, at which Mr. Joseph Foster of Moscow is the Provincial representative for Ontario East. A party of twenty boys will reach Napanee today and will be received at the Town Hall by the members of the Town Council and the Chamber of Commerce. The boys will be looked after in fine style and will then be turned over to residents of the district with whom they have agreed to work, for a specified time under the regulations set forth by the association.

Seven of the boys will be placed in homes in Frontenac County.

FROM COBOURG

Cobourg, March 24.—The executors of the estate of the late Hon. Geo. E. Oliver of Pitisburg here sold the family country home here Cobourg to Mr. Geo. Burgess Oliver. This is one of the finest properties in Cobourg and was built many years ago. The late owner, the Hon. Geo. E. Oliver, was a member of the Ontario Government for many years.

Mr. C. Cross has sold a part of Lot 23 in the 4th Concession of Hamilton Township to Robert Campbell, who will erect a modern residence thereon.

Mr. Wm. Hall has purchased a part of Lot 12, Concession 4, Township of Hamilton, from Mr. Charles Carroll.

Picton Fishermen Busy

The members of the Picton fishing colony have taken up their summer residence at Long Point, and are rapidly completing preparations for the season's fishing, which is the important item in their program. The members of the colony have recently purchased a tract of land there from Mr. T. Smith, on which they have built four bungalows, and they have otherwise improved the property until it is a splendid location for their purposes. The fishermen look forward to a good season.

Sentenced 7 Years

Lindsay, March 21.—David rarrow, aged 35 years, of Fenelon Falls, was sentenced to seven years in penitentiary plus ten lashes for committing a criminal offence against a 13-year-old girl in the house where he boarded for about a year. His Honor Judge Swayze in passing sentence emphasized the seriousness of the offence and pointed out that the maximum penalty was similar to that for manslaughter. The accused will receive five lashes the month of his admission to the institution and five the month previous to his release.

Lodge Meeting Where Masonry Was Instituted

Canadian members of the Masonic Order among the passengers of the Canadian Pacific S.S. Empress of France, now on cruise of the world, while visiting Jerusalem had the unique experience of a meeting in the place where Masonry was instituted by King Solomon in 975 B.C. This in the quarries of King Solomon, which are tunnelled 700 feet under Jerusalem, the opening being near the Damascus gate four hundred yards from the wall of the city. The party, which was conducted through the vast caverns and gazed upon the ruins of the ancient quarries from which the stone and bearing the Masonic emblem were carried away by masons of the Empress of France Masonic club.

Tax Detective Is Worrying Germans

Sticks His Nose Into Private Life to Size Income

Berlin, March 24.—Tax detectives are the latest unpleasant novelty in Germany.

The suave, well-groomed man at the next table to you in the dining room restaurant, who seems to have an unlimited interest in how many lobsters oysters and bottles of champagne you consume, is not always what he seems. Recently the report of a man who had been through the bankruptcy court.

By the time that the tax detective gets through, with his particular citizen, this latter person wishes he had adopted George Washington's principles of veracity earlier in life.

For the tax detective sticks closer than a brother to the tax dodger.

He finds out how many servants the poor taxpayer has, how many rooms his poverty-stricken wife can afford what pleasures the poor man himself affords, how large his automobile is, where his business goes and whether the big limousine which stands out of the city or rear year's profits.

The next time the taxpayer walks up to the tax bureau to pay in a small sum for his income tax he is politely asked if he hasn't made a mistake. Of course, he hasn't he tells the tax collector.

Then the fun start. What the collector doesn't tell him about his income and outgo for the previous year's mostly quite a bit.

The near-bankrupt, the seven generally dirt-dresser into his "re-stored" pocketbook, and pays, lamenting and cursing the while.

The police at the request of London bird lovers, are investigating the wanton killing of six starling pigeons found with their necks wrung in a coal yard.

SIMPLE WAY TO TAKE OFF FAT

Can anything be simpler than taking a convenient little tablet four times each day until your weight is reduced to normal? Of course not. Just purchase a box of Marmola Prescription Tablets from your druggist for one dollar, and start in now to reduce. Follow directions—no starvation dieting or tiresome exercise. Eat substantial food. Be as lazy as you like, and keep on getting slender. Thousands of men and women each year regain healthy, slender figures by using Marmola Tablets. Purchase them from your druggist, or send direct to Marmola Co., General Motors Bldg., Detroit, Mich.

The Terms astounded Henry McDonald—

When the terms of the North American Life 20 Year Endowment Policy were explained to Henry McDonald, he was at first astounded—then enthusiastic.

"Why you we're really selling me $5,000 in cash!" he declared. "The annual payments on this policy is only about half the interest any bank would charge me on a $5,000 loan.

"If I should die at any time during the life of the policy, you guarantee to hand my widow a cheque for $5,000.

"No form of saving is more convenient and none so sure or profitable."

Henry McDonald was right. As a safe, profitable investment, you cannot equal an Endowment Policy. Think what an estate for your loved ones the instant you pay your first premium.

Mr. T. J. Hannigan Tells How To Grow Gladiolus

Mr. T. J. Hannigan, well-known as a flower fancier and more particularly as an authority on the gladioli has delivered several lectures on various horticultural bodies throughout the province during recent months. In his address delivered at the annual meeting of the Canadian Horticultural Association, held in Toronto this week, a number of questions put by the many delegates present at the meeting, Mr. Hannigan, dealt with the subject of gladiolus culture and the standards of the horticultural societies about controlling the O.A.C. gathering. The address follows:

Gladiolus.

In the limiting speed at my disposal it will only be possible for me to skim briefly over a few of the various phases of the gladiolus as we know it, and I intend dividing what I have to say under the following headings:

History and Location.
Soil and Location.
How to Plant.
Ground Preparation and Planting.
Cultivation.

There is no doubt of the ancient lineage of the gladiol, some of which are "lily"-referred to in the Bible was a gladiolus, there being no mention of them in Palestine at present that it was known in ancient Greece as a weed, and also as one during the period spoken of as the middle ages, it was known in southern Europe as the corn lily.

Gladioli were grown in England more than 300 years ago, and excited considerable interest at that time as compared with the America approximately 100 years ago, but it is only during the last 20 years that the greatest amount of progress has been made in the growth of the size both of stalk and flower, in diversity and beauty of coloring, and variation of form.

The discovery of the primulinus and its introduction into England and France of the same into England gave impetus to gladioli culture, as the crosses made by Eckford of Shropshire, and Lemoine of France, about that time brought a wealth of color and a diversity of form hitherto unknown and it is really from these two that the life history of the gladioli as we know it may be dated.

From that time on the various hybridizers, breeders and growers of gladioli have labored unceasingly to improve the species, and the lists of the various flowers, known as "Gladiolus," are indebted to Deane, Kendlle, Dr. Mackie, Groff, Salbach, Cole; Kemp, of Little Silver, N. J., and Childs, Groff, of Glenwood, N. J., and a host of others whose labors have not been less assiduous and whose results are represented in terms of dollars, but in the language and sentiments of millions of flower lovers all over the world.

Where to Plant

While the gladiolus is the one of the easiest flowers to grow, remember that you cannot plant them any old place in any kind of soil, and let them take care of themselves and expect to grow prize-winning flowers.

First, you need an open, sunny location. It will not thrive in the shade, under foundations or back of the garage or barn.

Secondly, you need an open, mellow soil, sandy loam being best, but if your land is inclined to be heavy it may be lightened and loosened by the addition of sand or coal ashes.

Cultivation

Good top dressing of fertilizer preferably from stables or stock pens, which has been left to stand for some time, but blood, either liquid or dried, or fish refuse is also very good fertilizer for the gladiolus.

Ground must be ploughed or spaded sufficiently to thoroughly incorporate the fertilizer with the soil, and harrowed and cultivated so that all lumps are completely broken up and pulverized.

Planting

When your ground is ready in the spring you may start planting any time after danger of frost is over, generally beginning about the 15th April and finishing up about the first of June. Glad ioli do not germinate well in cold soil, therefore, no pick warm days to do your planting.

I have had gladioli of some variety planted on May 24 surpass those planted the first of May, chiefly because of better weather conditions. For the amateur the ideal way of planting is to make beds 4 to 5 feet wide and plant in rows crosswise, so you can cultivate with it from either side.

Make trenches about 15 inches apart and plant bulbs right side up; large bulbs 4 inches deep, 9 to 9 inches apart, depending on the size of the variety; medium size 3 inches deep and 4 inches apart; small bulbs 2 inches deep and 3 inches apart; bulblets 1 inch deep and save thickly, like peas.

In planting you may remove the outer husk or not, just as you wish. If the earth is warm removing the husk will secure quicker germination, but if early in the season, when the earth is cold, leave outer husk on for protection to nature intended.

If you have expensive varieties and wish to increase the stock, you may do so by dividing the bulbs as follows: first remove outer husks and divide with a knife from top to bottom, leaving at least one eye and one of rock on each part. Plant parts with flour of sulphur and plant same day as cut. This will give you better shaped bulbs and more bulblets, as each eye produces a flower stock and it is a common occurrence to have from 2 to 3 flower stalks grow up from a single bulb, each stalk in the fall having a bulb at the base which, according to breeding, will not be as large, be as good shape or produce as many bulblets as where there is only one or two bulbs.

Bulblets may be kept in bins, only a few, you can speed up and, in this germination by cracking or removing the outer shell either by pinching with the fingers or using a hammer, but if you have a quantity the easiest method is to coat in warm water for 24 hours which will help to loosen the outer shell.

One method of preventing the shell on bulblets from becoming hard or adhering after have been planted is to mix sand with the bulblets and brown, germination by cracking or throwing in a handful of snow occasionally.

In planting we start with bulbs, then the smaller sizes and last and follow the same method in the fall. If it is desired to keep the varieties separate as each variety is planted, put a stake at the end of the row with the same written plainly. Lath dressed and cut in 12 inch lengths make excellent stakes, and are very cheap. The name may be written in pencil and if coated thinly with shellac will last several years.

After the flowers are planted and covered do not worry. Give nature a chance. If they do not come up in a week or so, do not dig them up. They will come along all right in due time but before they come up there is some work to be done you must do. In a week or ten days after planting or looking over your garden, some morning you will notice a coarse hoe or shade all over where the gladioli are planted. No, it is not mildew, but the first crop of weeds, which, like the poor, are always with us, and the better the ground the stronger the crop of weeds.

Now is the time that a stitch in time saves nine, for if you go carefully over the ground with a hoe, cutting what is known as a Dutch roe, which only goes an inch or so deep or less, you will not only eliminate a good lot of your weed trouble, but you will also, by stirring up the surface of the earth, prevent crust from forming, and conserve the elements necessary for plant, food, but also make it easy for the moisture to get down to the roots.

The gladiolus requires a considerable amount of moisture, which in most sections in Ontario is amply supplied by nature, but it is a good insurance to have a supply of water available at all times, for when you need it you will need it badly in fact, most large growers today are using some form of sprinkler system.

But, I would ask you to remember that if you must water your gladioli do it thoroughly, so the water moistens the earth to the depth of the bulbs, as otherwise you are wasting your time, as sprinkling lightly only moistens the surface, which encourages the little feeder to come up to the surface looking for moisture, instead of going down, all of which will do if water goes down all the way.

Mrs. Dorothy Muriel Dennistoun, who has launched a suit in London, England, to obtain $6,000 which she advanced as a loan to Lieut.-Col. Ian Onslow Dennistoun, who was formerly her husband, but is now married to the dowager, Countess of Carnarvon.

However, I consider cultivation the most necessary thing in connection with successful gladioli growing, as cultivation prevents crust forming on the surface, admits of, conserves moisture and kills the weeds which rob the earth of the nourishment needed for your bulbs and spikes, so do not fail to cultivate each part of your garden at least once every two weeks, with an extra effort after each rain fall and about blooming time.

A small amount of fertilizer worked into the surface of the ground between the rows when cultivated will be of great advantage, and for this purpose I have found a combination of bone meal and nitrate of soda very effective, give excellent results, as this is easily handled and very easily worked into the surface of the ground, and you will find yourself amply repaid for the extra trouble.

In cutting bloom it is well to do so when the first bud is showing color, as they will open just as well inside, and you avoid any fading by the hot sun. In cutting your flower spikes be sure that at least four leaves are left remaining on the stalk, as this is necessary in order to prolong both roots under ground, and if your bloom is for show purposes you may retard development by keeping them in a cool cellar, while, on the other hand, you may forward development by putting in a warm light place.

Belleville Will Meet West End Y

In, the Intermediate Basketball Semi-finals Soon

London, Ont., March 24.—Toronto Weds. Edst.-Y. M. C. A. and Windsor Omars may play the first game of the finals for the senior Ontario Amateur Basketball Association championship on Saturday, March 28, Gerald E. Sculley, president, of the association, announced last night. The games are ready to start the finals on Saturday and Toronto West End "Y" officials are being approached on the subject. The toss to determine where the first game will be played has not yet been made, but may be decided Tuesday.

The Toronto series, fostered by the O. A.B.A. are narrowing down. The finals of the senior series have been reached while the semi-finals in the intermediate section are underway. Toronto West End Y. intermediate will meet Belleville in the next round, Toronto having eliminated Niagara Falls and the winners of the London-Windsor series will meet the Belleville-Toronto survivors in the finals. Windsor has a 13-point lead over London in the O.A.B.A. senior game of the series in London on Saturday night.

The junior series for the London Free Press trophy is representing the semi-finals stage. Windsor Mohawk juniors have a decided lead over the London Y.M.C.A. juniors and will play the second game of the series in Chatham Friday night. The winners will meet St. Thomas in the semi-finals. St. Catharines will play Toronto West End this week and the winners will meet Orillia. St. Thomas juveniles are leading the Windsor Blue Arrows in the semi-finals of the juvenile series.

bok His Honour Judge MacLean gave judgment declaring there was no evidence of fraud or fraudulent intent and that although it may be improper for any person to write out ballots, under the circumstances he could not unseat Mr. Wallbridge nor could he find that Mr. Wallbridge under the law was disqualified in any way. His Honour pointed out that if the ballots had not been made the whole election would have been void as the poll could not have been closed before five o'clock, and a gen many more votes would have been cast.

His Honour found that as the returning officer had made an honest mistake in the first instance that the Deputy Reeve Wallbridge had taken his seat on the township Council and also on the County Council. Major R. D. Ponton represented Crown Attorney Ketcheson, K. C. and O'Flynn represented the Relator, Zufelt.

Winter League Is Drawing To Close

Bowl Three Interesting Games at Recreation

The winter bowling leagues are all drawing to a close. Last night the Officials No. 1 and the Car Dept. finished up their games, the Car Dept. winning out by 116 pins. Brownlee for the winners was High three string man with Mr. J. D. McMillan was high for the Officials.

In a junior league game, the Bankers and the Rovers had a merry old tussle the former team winning out by 61 pins and both teams rolling up a nice total score. The Bankers got a nice lead of 82 pins in the first game and added another 115 in the second. In the third game the Rovers came to life for a 965 and cutting down the opponents' lead 142 pins. High bowlers were Fleming 630 and Hunter 584.

In an exhibition game between the Mah Jongs and the Tigers were the lock boys won out by a safe margin after spoiling the girls 40 pins.

Varsity Dropped The First Game

Score 4-0 For Port Arthur in Allan Cup Final

Winnipeg, Man., March 24.—Although University of Toronto, Eastern Canada's representatives in the Allan Cup finals, lost Port Arthur, champions of the Manitoba Association, and survivors of the Western Canada elimination series, lost the first game of the best two out of three game series here last night, by 4 goals to 0, the supporters of the Blue and White are still confident that the cup will again sojourn to the East which has been its habitat since the University of Toronto came through four years ago and took it east.

This statement may need considerable explanation in face of the apparently one-sided score last evening, but to the spectators there are numerous reasons why Varsity may still be declared to be strictly in the hunt. In the first place, precedent must be considered. In 1921 Brandon, champions of the Manitoba League and the Western Canada representatives, won the first game, and the eastern champions came back in the second with a more than sufficient majority of counters to decide the issue. This year, for the first time, the margin of victory does not enter into the calculations. A one goal win is the same as a ten goal one, it's games that count and not goals.

Chabot Was Unbeatable

Another reason is that luck must be considered. While Port Arthur did not have a lucky victory, at least one of their quartet of counters was distinctly and clearly against the losers did not have a break all night. Every one of the seven play-ers who faced Chabot in goal had great chances, but at the final moment something went wrong with the works. They were inside the defence more than once, were the wingers. Chabot, in goal, had three times as many chances to handle as did Sullivan, but he was unbeatable. Time after time the Blue and White attackers were inside, only to be foiled by brilliant saves by the "kneeling-flopping-praying Chris Benedict" of the west. Chabot was the greatest factor in the Pats' victory. While many of his saves, play on rebounds and deflections which were knotted with luck, he gave a marvellous exhibition of the goaltending art.

Sullivan Had Off Night

On the other hand, Joe Sullivan in the centre position, except for a one-man rush by Joe Scott, had a comparatively quiet night, and had the goalies been reversed, Sullivan would have won by an even greater margin than that which is the head of the lakes team secured. Sullivan has been playing great hockey during the season, and in several of the Varsity games he has been the deciding factor, so it is not fair to blame him for the defeat. One and perhaps two of the winners' goals were questionable, except by a contodian like Chabot, and as Joe's team failed to score only one was just as good as twenty for the Pats.

Wilson opened the scoring after 11.20 minutes' play when he followed through on a shot which had travelled the rebound to beat Sullivan, although the latter made a great attempt to smother the rubber, diving out of his goal but was just too late. Five seconds before the first period ended Gray tried a long shot that Sul livan never saw and the Pats had a commanding lead.

Best Goal of Night

In the third period Gray and Pudas combined for the best goal of the night. Pudas went down the centre and as he drew the defence Gray slipped on the right boards and he drilled one into the corner of the net, Sullivan never saw and the Pats had a comfortable lead.

Wilson scored the final goal a minute and a half before the end when he rushed and was worked into the corner. He made a pass out across the goal-mouth from behind although he had no team-mate with him, and the rubber glanced in off the goalie's skate.

Alemite Team And Juniors Winners

In Two Interesting Indoor Ball Games Last Night

Two good indoor ball games were play ed at the Armouries last night. A game of volleyball was the first event, Belleville Juniors, trimmed National Casings 6d and Alemite defeated Conbyville 11 to 8.

The first game was between the Belleville Juniors and the National Castings teams and it proved to be a battle royal. Due to good pitching and fielding on both sides the score was comparatively small. The Belleville juniors won by a score 4-3. In the last inning the Cast ings had the bases filled with no one out, but they were unable to score. Capt. J. Smith, the veteran ball player was pitcher for the Juniors while Stark and Aitchford took turns behind the bat. The battery for the National Castings were Tait and Reid, Hurd, Mosers. W. Grow and P. Brockell were in the field.

The second game was between the Alemite and the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company. The Alemite team appeared to have the advantage over their opponents from Consville and won out by a score of 13 to 8. A. Kerr did the twirling for the Alemite team and J. Smouve pitched for the C. I. A. Company. Although the game was somewhat one sided, it was interesting to watch. Mr. W. Grow and Mr. R. Colling were the umpires of this game.

Fredericksen Is Victoria's Star

They Defeat Canadiens 3-1 In Second Game

Vancouver, March 24.—Victoria's hockey team is the star of hockey over Canadiens in the Stanley Cup series by winning last night's game 3 to 1. Fredericksen practically clinched the game in the first period when he scored twice on beautiful individual efforts. After that the Western champions played a strong defensive game and Canadiens could not break through. Happy hors and Heather Holmes played a particularly good game in the winners' net while Fredericksen and Walker starred up front. Fraser and Loughlin were steady on the defence Rowand Cleghorn, Morenz and Conin were best for Canadiens.

Regina Wins From Aura Lee Juniors

Best Junior Game of Season Ends Flukily 2-1

Toronto, March 24.—Battling ten minutes over time Regina Pats, Allan Cup holders and junior champions of the West defeated Aura Lees, 2 to 1, here last night in the first game of the final series for the O.H.A. Memorial Trophy, emblematic of the junior hockey championship of Canada, and last season won by the Owen Sound Greys. It was a rousing exhibition, both teams displaying brilliant hockey with fast skating and clever stick-handling the feature. Not a goal was scored during the first forty-four minutes of play, when the Pats passed into the net when Acastor took a pass from Ingram whirled around the Aura Lee defence and poked the puck by Stark.

And that goal appeared good enough to win the game, as the two teams fought on and the minutes slowly ticked off the final period, but with all of the Aura Lee players with the exception of Stark up on the attack, and less than two minutes to go Stark even gave Johnny McPherson a pass, and the latter's easy shot hopped over Connell's foot into the net, sending the game into overtime.

Pats Win On Flukes

The Pats' winning goal, which came thirty-seven seconds after the overtime period had got under way, was a lucky score. Ingram rushed down the side only to be chased into the corner. But while hemmed in on all sides he managed to fling the puck out in front of the rubber, striking Dick Gossett's stick effected the lucky score. It was a heartbreaking revenge for Aura Lee as last year the Pats won in the last minutes had the Pats hemmed in the defensive zone all night long and could not break away.

That the O.H.A. champions did not again knot up the old game was due to over anxiousness on their part, some fine goal-tending by Jack Connell and a little hard luck on shots that missed the net by inches. Just after the Pats had scored what proved the winning counter Gillespie raced down the wing unchecked, took a nice pass from "Shrimp" McPherson, but after skating in on the cage hit Cunning. Then in the next five minutes of overtime, "Red" Armstrong showed the puck between Dorsey and Cunning stumbled through after it, only to shoot wide of open side of the net. Just before the gong sounded for the end Johnny McPherson blazed the puck in from the side, but it sizzled by on the wrong side of the post.

Only three thousand people turned out for the game, but they were treated to the finest exhibition of junior hockey seen in Toronto this season. The boys on both teams had everything, speed, stick handling ability and hockey knowledge. There was no way to choose between the two, but the Pats had it on Aura Lee in one point, the three-man defence that they played throughout. Sid Acaster dropping back with Dorsey and Cranstoun, while Johnny Mormon and Frank Ingram back checked desperately along the wings paralled the O.H.A. champions. They did not appear able to break through with much success until they found their whole team up on the attack and the Pats throwing all caution to the wind forged ceaselessly also, but to get the puck away from their own net.

From the puck by a fowl on the form Henry Leigh, 80, a servant on Lord Sheffield's estate at Aldership, Cheshire, contracted blood poisoning shoulder high.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

Lady Blanche left the piano, where she had been touching the notes in a dreamy, mechanical fashion and going to the window pulled the curtain a little aside.

"What a lovely night!" she said. "Come and look, Elaine."

Elaine rose and went to her.

"It is the half-moon," she said. "I like the half-moon."

Lady Blanche, instead of answering the question, whispered: "I can hear old women hear us, do you think?"

Elaine looked at her with surprise.

"Can they hear? No, I should think not. But why?"

"Well—where have you been all the time? One of the maids brought a message for you."

"For me?" said Elaine.

"Yes. Your servant—what is her name?"

"Bridget?"

"Yes, that was it—Bridget wants to see you particularly."

"Bridget wants to see me? Where? In the house at this late hour?" asked Elaine.

"No, no," replied Lady Blanche ingenuously, as if the matter were a matter of course, "you are to meet her at the bridge—there is a bridge, isn't there?"

"Yes, yes," said Elaine quickly. "But I don't understand. They should bridget want me to go there? Why doesn't she come up to the Castle to the servants' hall?"

"My dear Elaine, how can I tell?" returned Lady Blanche with affected impatience. "I—don't be frightened!" she added suddenly, as she saw Elaine's face turn pale. "I am sure, that there is something the matter. Something has happened at home!"

"At home, at the cottage?" said Elaine, anxiously. "Then you know her at the bridge—there is a bridge, isn't there?"

"Yes, yes," said Elaine quickly. "But I dont understand. They should bridget want me to go there? Why doesn't she come up to the Castle to the servants' hall?"

vince will tell us the need of substituting the English system of numbers as a universal knowledge of the language, which is that of the great majority of rich people in the world previously.

Tweed Riding vindictive.

Vic dictionary, he declared Mr. Cooke then resumed, had been unknown in the House in his opinion until the entry of the member for East Wellington, Hon. Mr. Raney. With that personal entry and election to the position of Attorney-General, however, hardly a session had passed without Mr. Raney's name creeping into the discussion. For instance, the Liberal leader declared, he used the power of his position to create Belgravia concerning the honesty of men in public life and by his vitriolic policy in dealing with Liberal councillors he had made life almost unbearable to those who had been privileged to be in office.

Referring to the record of Mr. Raney in office, Mr. Cooke pointed out that the Provincial Treasurer's salary under the U.F.O. had totalled $100,000 over every day during which the party had been in power. Such a record had been unequalled for a like space on this continent. Furthermore for a Government which had declaredly sought to impress' purity in public affairs the Government's decidedly suspicious circumstances surrounding some of the financing of the U.F.O. party.

"We will leave the late Attorney-General," Mr. Cooke then said, "to explain the ideas which has been growing up in the minds of the people that the late Provincial treasurer was not alone to blame."

Dealing With Backus.

Pursuing his theme, Mr. Cooke recalled the manner in which Mr. Raney, upon taking office, had questioned the legality of the actions of the Hearst Government. Then, when he had created the desired measure of suspicion to obscure his own actions, he had entered into his own personal contracts with Mr. Backus, by which the Province would get a revenue of three cents per acre per year from millions of acres of fine pulp and timber lands. It would have been thought, Mr. Cooke remarked, "that that would have been sufficient for the Attorney-General to do for Mr. Backus." Then, said Mr. Cooke, the Great Lakes Pulp and Paper Company was negotiating for a supply of power, and the Attorney-General used all the powers of his position and of his status as the most dominant figure in the Ministry to force the Provincial Treasurer to enter an agreement for power at $18 per horsepower, less than cost, and leasing the municipalities to pay the deficit themselves. Then, when the arrangements had been completed, it is nothing to take. When accused of all's friend, Mr. Backus, had practically control of the Great Lakes Company.

And this contract been allowed to stand, Mr. Cooke emphasized, it would have meant an annual loss of $100,000 to the Province.

He would be stressed, "in the interest at four per cent. on $1,000,000 and was a pretty nice present for the Attorney-General to make out of the strength of friendship which he had formed for Mr. Backus."

Mr. Cooke pointed out that the Ferguson Government, upon taking office, had increased the contract by $21 per horsepower, the result being that the Nipigon Power had been enabled to pay to the Government this year $451,000 of back interest due to the Province, and was in a flourishing financial condition.

"These," Mr. Cooke concluded, "are the circumstances into which one must look for the motive that is behind this amendment. Honorable members can consider how far they are prepared to follow the leadership of one whose record in public financing is formed by these occurrences."

PAINS ACROSS THE BACK

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Mitchell, Ontario.—"I have taken your medicine for a number of years. I do not take it steadily all the time, but I am never without it. I always keep it in the house. I took it for pains in the abdomen and bearing-down pains, backache and nervousness. I do not have my home to look after and study a day I could not get up. It all. I saw the advertisement in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Mrs. John Miller told me about it, too. Every time I take it, it makes me feel better and I always recommend it to my friends. I am willing to answer letters from women asking about the medicine and you may use this letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. P.J. Warnaar, Mitchell, Ontario.

The merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is told by women to each other. Many women know by experience what this medicine will do and they are anxious for others to know. Such testimony should carry more women suffering from the troubles so common to her sex to try this well known medicine a fair trial.

Do you know that in a recent census among women users of the Vegetable Compound over 250,000 letters were received. To the question, "Has it been helpful?" answered unqualifiedly by all but 5 per cent. replied in the affirmative.

This means that 95 out of every 100 women use it have been benefited. Why not have given this medicine a fair trial.

Another Cattle Story Is Here

"North of 36" At Belle Cariress Interesting Tale

Texas—1847—plenty of cattle, but no market—result: everybody broke!

—and with these few words one finds himself well into the story of "North of 36", the new Paramount picture which is the feature at the Belle Theatre tonight. The story is an adaptation by James Hamilton of the popular novel by Emerson Hough, author of "The Covered Wagon", and features Jack Holt, Ernest Torrence, Lois Wilson and Noah Beery in the leading roles.

The story is one of the wildest of adventures, led by Talsie Lockhart (Lois Wilson), red-headed, orphan, and beautiful young owner of one of the largest ranches in Texas, across unmapped plains to Abilene, the market to the north.

The difficulties encountered on the way add without number—Indians, stampedes, fiddle, storms. A (stakes) of stolen land scrip starts all the trouble, and Talsie's own attractiveness almost wrecks matters time and again.

Holt, as Dan McWaters, is an enigma; his actions are often questionable. Did he steal the scrip? It could n't be, for the picture closes with he and Talsie's marriage, and Ruth(laugh cheery), the villain, gets what's coming to him. The cattle are sold at an enormous profit and Texas is saved—and by a girl, and red-headed, at that.

Ernest Torrence plays Jim Nabours, Talsie's ranch foreman and self-appointed guardian, and, even considering his characterization of the "Covered Wagon" villain, in "The Covered Wagon", we do not hesitate to say that this is his finest role.

For the skeptics who still think that the "Wagon" was merely a flash in the pan and couldn't be duplicated in a like moon, we say "See 'North of 36'!" There's a high class cast playing in support of the leading players.

HOLD-UP MAN USED DRUGGED CHOCOLATE

London, March 24.—Major Brendon, a timber merchant of Manner road, Tebbington, Middlesex, told a Bailey trial reporter that he believed a drugged chocolate was the cause of his being held up and later associated with the firm. A box of chocolates was produced. All portrait of the chocolate one of the men in the room singing out a chocolate for Major Brendon.

Soon after driving off in a motor car with one or two of the men he lost consciousness and remembered nothing more until he awoke in hospital at Barnet.

Barbara La Marr Play Great Part

In "Sandra", the Interesting Film Story at The Griffin

The crowning achievement of Barbara La Marr's career as a star of the silver sheet is her portrayal of "Sandra" in the film of the same name, pictorialized for First National from the novel by Pearl Doles Bell.

Presented in this picture for the first time as a star in her own right, Miss La Marr reveals qualities of emotional acting heretofore unsuspected. The role of "Sandra," presenting a woman of dual personality, is one of the biggest and most interesting parts yet conceived for screen portrayal.

A woman of two natures, a conflict between the contented and homeloving personality and the other nature which craves excitement, adventure and romance, "Sandra" depicts the struggle which is going on in the minds and hearts of thousands of women in all parts of the world.

Miss La Marr has given her portrayal a perfect understanding and sympathy, keeping always distinct the two characters embodied in the one woman. Her depiction of Rusty's emphasized by the impetuous, queenly and dramatic manner in which she registers the role of "Sandra," always seeking something new and never quite finding it.

Her superb acting in this difficult portrayal is well matched by the work of Bert Lytell, Leslie Austin, Lassen Gordon, Flora Finch, Lelia Hyams, Edythe Sterne, Maude Hill and Augustin Sweeney in this production.

MOTHERS LIKE TO TREAT COLDS WITH VAPORS

Direct Treatment with Vaporizing Salve Immediately Reaches Inflamed Air Passages

It is no longer necessary to dose the children in treating croup, bronchitis, sore throat or deep-chest colds. Many Canadian mothers now use the "Vicks" method" formerly Vicks Vaporub, for the cold troubles of all the family, because it is just rubbed over throat and chest—there is nothing to take. When so used Vicks gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled directly into the inflamed air passages, loosening the phlegm and making the breathing easier.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed and stimulates the skin like a liniment or plaster and thus aids the vapors inhaled to break up the congestion.

When the Etobicoke river in Ontario went on its annual spree Brampton was well washed down in the floods. These pictures show, upper left, James Algie, Jr., with a rowboat, rescued three families, consisting of eight people, besides twenty dogs and four horses; upper right, a typical handmade raft used to rescue marooned families; lower left, Lloyd McClure, who saved Edward Gorman from drowning after he fell from a raft after being rescued from his home; lower right, one type of "fer ry" down Main street, a man-popular means of transportation with the children.

A Letter From London

By Sylvia Mayfair

London, March 7. (By Canadian Press)—Canadian and American hostesses with big plans and huge pocket-books are planning to sweep down on London for the season. Most of the dinner and ball committees Mayfair mansions have already been taken. Lord and Mrs. James W. Mitchell of Quebec are the first arrivals and are preparing a big house party which have taken in Upper Grosvenor Street. Mrs. Reginald Brock's lovely home, where she used to entertain King Edward so often, and which is now Lloyd George's chief bed for a couple of seasons, has been sold, and is to be torn down shortly, whereupon a block of flats will be erected.

Claridge House, the Earl of Shaftesbury's pivotal residence has been taken by Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, whose hospitalities are princely. There is no definite news yet of Mrs. Harry Lehr's arrival, but it will be remembered that Mrs. Brown was the most successful of that season's American hostesses, and was the only women to entertain the Prince of Wales at breakfast, at 4 a.m.

Queen's Gold Cup Movie For Canada

Queen Mary's doll's house, which many people thought to be the most marvellous part of the Wembly Exhibition last year is likely to go to Canada shortly. Quite a number of Canadian and American women have been over to London specially to see it, and the Queen's doll is said to be the last treasure cross the Atlantic, she wants to gratify everybody who wishes to see it. If it does it will be insured for a little over $2,000,000.

Mrs. Pretyman Entertains in London

Here is something that made London society sit up and take notice the other day. Mrs. Arthur Pretyman, of St. Johns, Newfoundland who is in London for a fashion for the season, bought a fine black racehorse, the other day and that night bought it to very wide colour. And the next day, Mrs. Pretyman motored down the Strand and wanted to see the time, she just looked at a small cardboard clock that had been fixed into the dash's cubby hole.

Another device of a famous Bond street jeweller is to fix alarms into the tiniest of wrist watches—they are designed for busy society women so that they shall not forget their appointments. At the given hour these tiny watches, not the big ones that are set with jewels, give out a diminutive musical cry.

Queens Ruins a Fashion

London hairdressers are sorry that the Queen of the Belgians has mingled her hair. The Queen has given the growing triumph to shingling—which means that it has reached its peak, and something else must be found. Today it is a battle Hair vs. Hat. Milliners say the hat has come to stay, and as it is not really comfortable on shingled heads, women are letting their hair grow again. A hat seen here the other day was 21½ feet across.

Margot Keeps on Talking

Margot Asquith's new book of memoirs which is to be published next month is called "Persons and Places." Which persons and what places? Mayfair shivers with apprehension. It is not yet decided whether the authors name will appear as Margot Asquith or as the Countess of Oxford and Asquith. Probably the former, as they are reminiscences gathered during her days as plain Margot.

C. M. P. at Drury Lane

Edith Day has arrived in London to say the least in "Rose Marie" the musical comedy which has made such a success on the other side of the Atlantic The scene of it, of course, is laid in Canada. This is the first time that a musical comedy has been staged at Drury Lane, and the fact that "A Midsummer night's Dream" is being relegated on gif to make way for it has aroused a certain amount of criticism, although as "The Dream" was making more money than any other play in town.

The Canadian Mounted Police figure in the plot, and there was a dilemma the other day when they were trying to get their real live uniforms, just like the C.M.P.

At the audition a sturdy little was came forward and began to sing. "Too short" signalled the producer and waved him away. "But can I say some thing?" said the little man.—"Nurse" voice in the Canadian Mounted Police." He was engaged.

Engineer Aged 94 Gave A Lecture

Spoke in Firm Voice For 20 Minutes Without Hesitation

London, March 24.—Sir Bradford Leslie, the engineer who will be 94 in August and only a year ago planned a new bridge across the Hooghly at Calcutta, gave a lecture to the Institution of Civil Engineers, Great George Street, S.W., before the Permanent Way Institution. Speaking in a firm voice, he did not hesitate over a single word in a speech full of technicalities. He produced from the platform table two specimens of steel rail each 7 inches long and many wooden models of older type rails and while speaking of their properties of weight-carrying and "non-conformability to the curvature of fish bars" held them up for inspection.

He turned to point to diagrams on a blackboard, and the chalk hanging behind him, darting from one to the other with just a second's hesitation. At last, when the younger experts gave him hearty applause for his thoroughly modern treatment of his subject, he reddened, murmured his thanks and, with a smile, sat down after standing for more than 20 minutes on the platform.

The bridge he planned recently is to replace the one of the floating type which he built in 1871 and has lasted nearly 25 years longer than the period for which he guaranteed it. He still works in the mornings as assiduously as younger men, reverses the habit of siesta, and in his leisure prepares his reminiscences for publication.

Determined to Work

Joseph F. E. Bailey, 17 year old grandson of the late Lord Glenesk has come to Canada determined to work. Recently he severed connections with the trammels of his class and make his way as a worker in this country. Lately he disappeared from Bray Upon-Colleys at Maidenhead, England, wearing a false moustache and horn-rimmed spectacles as a disguise, his family discovered him working as a labourer in the Thames. Now he says real life is not for him. He is seen at St. John, N.B., waiting for a Canadian Pacific train to whisk him to parts unknown in the West.

SHOE STOCK HAS BEEN PURCHASED

William Woodley, Jr., and Mrs. Margaret Hawes-Davis, of Toronto, have sold the stock of the Holmes & Murdoff shoe store in Belleville, and a bankrupt sale which will be extensively advertised in the Intelligencer Wednesday of this week, will commence. The sale will close the following day.

Mr. Woodley, who has been with the Holmes & Murdoff people at the Belleville branch for six years, will continue to conduct the business at the same address after the sale, with Mr. Murdoff.

HE FOUND BODY IN HIS DREAMS BEFORE RESCUE

Strange Story Told by Man Who Picked up Lad

OFF VICTORIA PARK

Funeral of Harry Robbins to Be Held To-morrow

There is one young man in Belleville who will sometimes as convinced as the significance of dreams for the rescuer of his life. He is William Robinson, 13 Bridge street, the man who found the body of four-year-old Harry Robbin, drowned in the Moira river after twelve o'clock noon, Tuesday. The body was found out near the Lighthouse, at the south end of Victoria Park, slightly west of the Lighthouse.

While sleeping early Tuesday morning, Robinson had a peculiar dream. He dreamed that he was picking drift wood from the bay in the very part of the bay south where at 1.25 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, he was to find the floating body. Especially noteworthy was his dream, a human, hand "stuck up" out of the water, and he reached for it with a rope. There was a small boy nearby and he told the boy to row out and get the police. Then he awakened.

In exasperation with the intelligence this dream gave him, he turned his thither of the body and told of the strange dream which had startled everyone who has heard of it from him.

"After I heard that a boy had been drowned," he began, "I set out to find the body, having no work to do." Last Tuesday afternoon, I pulled on my rubber boots and walked to the boat house near the Steel Rolling Mills where my row boat is stored."

Robinson rowed out through the open water to the south end of the government dock and pulled the boat up behind. The bay shore is small, and with the oar with which will not take the weight of a man. In some places however, it is deep enough for a rowboat to bear a man's weight. Again standing in the boat, Robinson began to row around in the inlet where he believed he would have to have floated during the interval of spring time.

"He didn't seem Right

"And I found the body within 300 feet of where I had dreamed it," continued Mr. Robinson stated. "As I approached the body I noticed that it was the body I had dreamed about. I knew it was the same. The hand was sticking out from the water. Before finding the body the child's mother had come to the bay and gave a distance further east than the body, it having been carried further with the waves. The boy had on his first overcoat. There is no underwear at this point of the body.

Robinson peered towards Victoria Park for assistance and shouted to those he thought the body, but could not see anyone. He then looked around the inlet's dock and saw Pete Cote standing on the dock. Robinson rowed to the slarm, and Cote called the police and city and Provincial officers answering the call, and driving to the park, took the body from the rescuer, who rowed it in to the shore after taking it from the water. Robinson had searched for some twenty minutes before he found the body.

Coroner W. W. Joyce was called to the scene and after viewing the body, deemed an inquest unnecessary. The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of Tickell & Sons Company mortuary by Constable Davis and Sergeant C. W. Joyce of the provincial police in the Provincial police car.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon from the late residence.

CHICAGO MARKET

Chicago, March 25.—Aggressive buying on part of leading commission houses together with material enlargement of export trade, led to an advance in wheat prices to-day after decline at start.

Initial weakness was in sympathy with lower quotations on wheat at Liverpool and on account of sharp downturn in corn values here. However lack of rain over domestic winter wheat belt southwest as well as unfavorable crop reports from there were chief factors in later balance. Opening which varied from unchanged figures to advance of two cents was followed by rise which carried May to $1.32 1-2 and July to 1.34. Further talking to stop losses on part of holders forced prices down and from September delivery touched lowest level yet this season. After opening at 7-8c to 1 3-8c decline sold off 2c but then weakened again. Corn were under influence of general trend, finishing at 3-8 to 5-8c off May 43 7-8 to 44 1-4c and revived and became firm. Provisions responded to corn weakness.

HIGH TRIBUTE PAID TODAY TO STATESMAN

State Funeral Given For Late Marquis of Curzon

SERVICE AT ABBEY

Large Procession Passes His Office in Whitehall

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, March 25.—The highest tribute possible for the British nation to offer to the memory of a statesman was paid at noon today in the late Marquis of Curzon, when the funeral services were held in Westminster Abbey and attended by representatives of the Sovereign, the British Prime Minister, Parliament members, leading statesmen and foreign ambassadors. The casket, of oak, from Hemsley near Eddleston Hall, Lord Curzon's ancestral home in Derbyshire, was brought from Carlton House Terrance to the ancient Abbey in a motor hearse which was followed by other motors carrying Lady Curzon, Lord Curzon's seven daughters and other members of the family.

Immediately after the hearse, camp plotors laden with wreaths and floral tributes arrived. Then the mounted police headed the funeral procession which arrived at the Abbey just as the chimes of Big Ben in the tower of Parliament Building struck the hour of 11.30. The abbey was filled with representatives of all classes of British society.

Emerging from the abbey the funeral procession went, through the crowded streets of Whitehall past Curzon's old quarters at the Foreign Office and on to St. Pancras station where the casket was placed upon the train for Kedlestone. The burial in the ancestral family vault beneath chapel of Kedlestone church.

TOOK OFFICERS TEN HOURS TO GO 24 MILES

Travelling is Severe These Days in North Hastings.

Inspector C. E. Gurnett and Provincial Constable Percy McCoy of the Provincial police arrived in Belleville late last evening with Edward Isaac Gates, the young Port Stewart man arrested by Constable McCoy Saturday, charged with the attempted suicide act which was carried out in Fraser lake one week ago to-day—Gates' home in the county jail here but will be taken to Bancroft Monday, where the inquest will be held Tuesday morning at 10.30 o'clock, before Coroner Stead Lamb of Eldorado who with Dr. E. T. Embury of Bancroft, made the post mortem examination.

Inspector Gurnett stated this after noon that Until all the dates are in charge of having carnal knowledge, with the view of the inquest, that Gates is an educated young man who has completed his H. S. course is a very respectable name in the neighborhood. Wilson County is a very respectable family.

Constable McCoy has been a busy officer since the double drowning last Wednesday, having made three different trips to the Gates home near Bancroft where he is stationed, in the week. The first two trips were made in a long sleigh drawn by a team of horses and the third one in a democrat. There is plenty of snow in the north country yet, the distance as McCoy drives it, is 24 miles and 124 as previously stated. Each time McCoy located the road it is about 124 miles by the road. Sometimes it is off to one side and again your horses in the bush floundering in a deep road. In three weeks' time he has driven 72 miles. Sometimes he has to drive to Fort Stewart from Bancroft over the ice, which at some spots, from melted snow, and having frost. The first two trips were made in about 10 hours, the third one in the democrat was a record breaker, as it took him and the democrat at 11 p.m., the party reaching Bancroft at 2 a.m. Inspector Gurnett and Dr. Lamb did not reach Bancroft until nine o'clock the next morning. Wheels on one side of the wagon turned in the ice ruts, and but the added weight of the wagon caused the horses to sink deeper and in the deep snow. On the way in from Bancroft the team of horses became tired and the party changed their cargo 14 miles, and a team was secured from Bancroft and with the tired team until the men returned.

Wakes Five Miles

On the way out the wagon went down on one side suddenly and upset, breaking the rear axle. Inspector Gurnett lost five miles away, and it was night time. McCoy walked that distance and secured a team and drove the vehicle. At five o'clock in the morning they reached Fort Stewart and had breakfast. By the way the farmers up in the north country are very hospitable and do not heard the story of hotel rates, as they charge. On the return trip in the democrat, a snow storm of three hours duration was met with, the party lasting for two full hours.

Fort Stewart is a lonely hamlet surrounding the stores which are dependent for their supplies upon freight trains

New Groceteria Is To Be Opened

Ed. Kellaway Establishing One in His Front Street Store

Belleville will have its first groceteria on Saturday next, Ed. Kellaway, well known merchant, has completed arrangements to open up such a business at the corner of Victoria Ave and Front street in the store building that houses his present grocery business.

The new groceteria will occupy the rear of the store, the whole premises being remodelled under a new arrangement of counters, lights and fixtures generally. At the time Mr. Kellaway has passed out all the changes and has completed the decorating he expects to have the establishment in the city.

Entrance to the Groceteria will be made either from Victoria street or from the front store. In connection with store of this kind operating in other cities, customers will pick up a basket, choose their goods from the shelves and pay the cashier on the way out. The cost of delivery and clerk's pay, otherwise required, is cut from the price of groceries.

Happy Time At W.C. Ketcheson's

When Several Congratulated Friend on His Birthday

A very pleasant event took place Saturday, March 21st in the form of a surprise party given by Mr. W. C. Ketcheson in honor of his birthday to about sixty-five of the young people of the congregation of Bethesda.

The guests gathered at the supper tables by the back parlor stoves from where they enjoyed a most sumptuous dinner in the form of a box supper after which the chairman, Rev. W. Bloomfield announced a toast to the health and happiness of the host, Mr. Ketcheson replied, expressing his appreciation, after which a solo was sung by Miss Irene Casey from his daughter Minnie, Greenwich, Conn., who was unable to attend.

Greenwich, Conn.,
Birthday greetings to father,—
May your days be many as the stars that are above,
As around you may be gathered the friends whom you love.
May this birthday give more pleasure
Than those that have gone before,
May the years give you many more
Than you've had in the years that the last.
I'd like to express my regrets that I cannot be with you today. Nothing would have given me more pleasure than to have welcomed everyone of your friends who gathered there, but was impossible. I just want to say, Hello Everybody! You cannot see me but I am with you in spirit and I will be seeing the jolliest time stirring maple sugar, and I always always travel fast to get sugar first.

Lots of love from one of the dearest and best of fathers in the world. For some time I remain your substitute.

"Signed on behalf of your guests Ralph Ketcheson."

Marjorie Ketcheson
This was a great surprise to Mr. Ketcheson, but he thanked the young people very kindly and expressed the pleasure of having them all with him.

After the dinner hour Mr. Thomp son, photographer, Belleville, took a picture of the group. The rest of the afternoon was spent in sports and contests, until about three-thirty when all gathered around the big kettle and had a splendid feed of maple taffy. After this the crowd dispersed thanking Mr. Ketcheson for his kindness in having many happy returns of his birthday.

CONSERVATIVES TO ATTACK "SURPLUS"

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, March 25.—When the budget debate opens to-morrow, it is expected that Conservative criticism will take largely on the assertion made in the budget that there will be surplus in the present financial year of revenue over expenditure.

In the budget speech acting Finance Minister, Hon. J. A. Robb, estimated a surplus of $1,822,000. Sir Henry Drayton, financial critic of the Opposition, continues his attack to-day. In his opening remarks yesterday he argued that there was a deficit on the year's operation of sixteen million dollars.

LOOKS LIKE A BUSY COURT AT DESERONTO

Police court proceedings at Deseronto Thursday afternoon, at 10 o'clock of the morning, as two important cases will be heard there by Police Magistrate Henry Bedford, commencing at ten o'clock. Provincial police officers here are in charge of both cases.

Norman Johnson, of Toronto, is charged with fraud, in connection with the Pelele Separator Company, formerly of Deseronto.

Edgar Jarvis is the second accused is charge with theft from William Maker.

Hector Smith, of Bewdley, appeared before Magistrate Ford of Colborne, and was fined $10 and costs for disturbing the evening meeting on Sunday last. Harry Fallis, 20, who also appeared at the same court was sentenced to 20 days on which he was convicted on a charge of common assault. He has left Deseronto, to pay his case at the court.

Plane Crashed Into School House

Airman in England Unhurt, But Young Pupil Was Killed

London, March 25.—Hurtling through the air at over 100 miles an hour, a Royal Air Force aeroplane with the Spanish council school building in half while a cookery class was in progress.

The airman, Alexander Montgomery, was killed instantly while a few yards from the scene of the accident, was but slightly injured. But one small pupil, Doris Ball, was killed and later in the South Hants Hospital, where her cookery class had been running and arrived Wednesday shortly after 10 a.m.

Her mother Mrs. Ball, was also badly injured.

Pilot Officer Montgomery had left Keeley Aerodrome, Surrey, early in the morning on a routine cross country flight.

Eye witnesses noticed traveling at a great height and speed, and then circling round the village, which lies nine miles west of Fareham.

The weather was fine and cold, and the machine appeared to be all right until the crash came.

It came so low that the village was startled by the noise and many people ran out. It was observed that as the aeroplane rose again one of the wings struck a tree on the west side of the village school.

Terrible Dive

The airman was obviously in difficulties, and he tried to circle round the school.

He negotiated the main building, missing it only by a few yards. Then he nose-dived at a terrific speed straight across the middle of the cookery school, a wooden structure 40 feet square, at the side of the main building.

The effect as the machine crashed into the building was to set it in flames.

A crash description of the accident was given by Sr. G. Lodge, master in charge of the cookery class, who was the first to rush to the scene.

"The machine passed over the school once," he said, "and then struck the tree. The airman tried to rise, but failed to get any height owing to his machine being damaged by the tree striking that all the school children stood up, and I rushed to the window, expecting a crash.

"I was just in the window I saw the machine coming with much greater velocity than an express train straight down at the cookery school.

"The noise of the impact was terrific. It would bear the screams of the children as the building collapsed.

"I rushed out and found a pool to the spot the pilot was out of his seat and was climbing out of the wreckage. He was fine was cut, and he tried to light a cigarette. Otherwise he seemed unhurt.

Rumored That Boy Fired at Teacher

Excitement in Woodstock Class Room; Detonating Cap Exploded

Woodstock, March 25.—As a result of a childish prank perpetrated more or less accidentally by a schoolboy pupil of Central Public school a rumor has become current in the city to the effect that "Bev." Moyer, youthful pupil of the school, fired a revolver at Miss H. Illingworth, musical teacher who at the time was instructing the class in singing. This has been denied and the rumor declared to be untrue by school authorities. H. E. Hepworth, the Moyer lad and the boy's father, Mrs. W. P. Moyer, Dundas street. So widespread became the rumor of the incident on that day that Sentinel-Review conducted an investigation into the matter with the result that the facts of be case were found to be of an entirely innocent nature. Miss Illingworth was seated at a desk at the front of the classroom while Mr. Hepworth was standing within a foot or two of the lad's desk. Shortly before the end of the singing period on Thursday afternoon, Mr. Illingworth and he pupils of the class were startled by a loud report and the musical instructor next perceived smoke issuing from beneath your Moyer's desk. Addressing Miss Illingworth, the lad report mystified him for a moment and he was under the impression that he had stepped on a pumpkin seed. On closer inspection of firecracker placed on the floor by one of the pupils.

Miss Lund, who was in charge of the class during Hepworth's absence, demanded that the boy responsible for the explosion stand up. Young Moyer rose to his feet and was sent to Principal Hendershote who sent him home for the remainder of the day.

According to the explanation of the Moyer boy, he had been playing with a revolver which he found at home and had removed the powder from the cartridge case. In scraping at the cartridge case the detonating cap had exploded, giving the impression of a revolver shot.

"At first I did not see Dora Ball. Then I found her lying amongst the debris of the room. She was bleeding, was injured in the face and unconscious.

"The poor little thing had put up her hands as if to shield herself. Both hands had received terrible head wounds and was senseless."

Mrs. Ball's grief

"There was a pathetic incident in the village that night. The sobbing parents of Dora Ball came back from the South Hants Hospital to tell her sorrowing sisters, Miss Newberry, that their little girl was dead.

Mr. Ball is an officer on H.M.S. Revenge, Dover Mrs. Ball was left with Dora, until she died, but she never regained consciousness.

"She was the light of our lives," said Mrs. Ball, with tears in her eyes. "She went off to school that morning so happily. It was a wonderful day to meet, and her last words to me were, "Oh, I do feel proud, mummy, in my new frock."

Miss Booker, the cookery mistress, who was in charge of the class at the Woolston, near Southampton, but her home is near Arundel. She had received consciousness at night and was making favorable progress. The other pupil, Emily Cox, who had hurt her leg, was able to leave hospital.

Toronto-Essery's motion censuring work of Public Accounts Committee last year defeated in House.

CHURCH SUPPER ENJOYED BY MANY

At Holloway Street church Sunday School rooms last night one of the established cooks of that church excelled themselves and put on a supper which has been unsurpassed there. The tables were loaded with good things to eat, and the hungry crowd that attended did ample justice to the supper. Following the splendid supper a social affair, but many outside guests were entertained, and everyone had a down visitors.

The supper committee was presided over by Mrs. Upper, assisted by Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Bowerman and Mrs. Bateman, who consisted of a piano duet, "The Poet and Peasant" played by Professor Bamforth and Mr. Dawson; a vocal duet by Mr. and Mrs. Layfield, entitled "Whispering Hope"; a reading by Colonel Putman; "A Slave Song" by Mrs. Lelli; "Mary's Lamb," a solo by Mrs. Spanner; a reading by Mrs. Mott; a duet by Miss Upper and Mr. Spanner; a solo by Mr. Putman; and a solo by Mrs. Blackburn, Mr. Spanner and Colonel Putman.

The proceeds were very satisfactory although the exact amount received it has not been estimated.

King George Will Tie Up With Radio

Should Important Constitutional Questions Arise While He Cruises

London, March 25.—King George will be in touch with his people and spend the greatest part of March cruising in the Mediterranean, will be in constant touch with officials of state in London by radio. Should important constitutional questions arise while the king is abroad he would be notified by radio and consulted by radio to make any decisions deemed necessary.

Modern invention in this respect have greatly simplified matters of state. Ministers with other years have British rulers left British soil for foreign parts. Whenever Queen Victoria journeyed abroad she was accompanied by a minister, and every state decision which was required her personal signature was dealt with by the minister who was then passed on to the queen for her decision.

In connection with King George's cruise it has been recalled in London that King Edward dispensed to a large extent with ministerial aid in the system of using a lithographed signature for certain documents. It is the service, and similar affairs, has absolved King George's predecessor, a friend who was a constant annoyance to royalty in his private life.

Most of the British rulers have been keen sportsmen. Miss Grace Lockhart, perhaps the most enthusiastic of them all as the playedness in admiration cruise in warmer climate after the rules recovery from influenza and bronchial trouble. Queen Mary will not enjoy herself under circumstances entirely to her liking. Queen Mary loves the sea for the sea, but King George, ordinarily is not bothered by rough weather in the least.

Many Notables Come From Athens

Little Village May Lay Claim to Much Fame

Kingston, March 25.—What's in a name? Tourists may laugh at the village of Athens on the Palisades, a village near here, but if Athens of this province cannot point to great personalities, it is not Athens of Ontario is century.

The woman who hailed Li Hung Chang's train and broke down the strong tradition of Old China, the cabinet ministers who peopled the Great West, a doctor who gave his life in the Japanese-Korean war, these are only a few of the contributions Athens has made to the world.

And the story remained unaltered and untold until a recent Sunday morning when in the Athens Methodist church the pastor, Rev. H. E. Warne announced that by the grace and favour of Athens Who Have Won Distinction." At the outset a distinguished was drawn in a number of the members of the district. One, a celebrity of Athens, Hollow signed as the "Queen of Plum Hollow," whose notoriety spread with her remarkable show. Barbara Hack whose distinction was not known until a century after her death, and then by two natives who raised at Prescott a memorial to her honour as the mother of North American Methodism.

In Public Life

From that distant past stood out two names both alive, Sir Clifford Sifton and Dr. Leonard Howard King. From the country had of the Farmerville Grammar sch. of its cabinet minister in the Federal Cabinet was a big step Not many homes could boast less that humble Sifton house that had the double honor of having also supplied a member to the young province of Alberta—the Hon. A. C. Sifton. But she had made other contributions to government cabinets in John F. Wood Controller of Inland Revenue and Customs, and Hon. Dr. R. F. Preston, of the Ontario Government. She has been to the bench; their Honors Geo. W. Greene, of Alberta; A. A. Fisher, junior Judge of Renfrew, and Judge H. S. Mott of the Toronto Juvenile Court not to speak of other townsmen who have been members of the Dominion senate and houses of parliament.

First Woman's Hospital

Dr. Leonora Howard King left home as a young school teacher to obtain a new path for women in the medical profession. From Ann Arbor College to Victoria, China, was a long way via Cape Horn and a bold adventure. On her arrival she was called to visit the sick wife of Li Hung Chang, then the ruler of the Chinese Empire. Through imperial curtains a royal hand was thrust according to the custom of the secluded Chinese women. She pleaded to see the Royal patient. Her plea was granted, and in a moment it was over for the woman-hood of China and the triumph of western healing. When Li Hung Chang proposed a recompense for the cure, she boldly asked for the first women's hospital in China. He gladly built it, and she was its superintendent for nearly half a century. Her husband has been a faithful minister of the Gospel and together they still work for the land of their adoption.

Pioneers to West China

Nearly 40 years ago the Methodist Church determined to enter China. She needed new adventure, culture and faith. Strange that Athens had them in waiting. Loaned to Kingston for higher equipment for the task, they responded—Omar L. Kilborn and George E. Hartzell. One was a doctor and the other an evangelist. The doctor reached his distant field a widower, his wife being the first Canadian to be buried in that Western Mission field. Kilborn's work ended on furlough four years ago, and his mantel has fallen upon his family, all volunteers for China.

Dr. William James Wall was a Glen Elbe lad who gravitated to Athens for his education. His next step was to mission work in New York city. There he married Dr. Hosmer Sherwood and they volunteered for Korea. He had a peculiar passion for helping people, and the flames of his devotion never abated till, after overcoming the hatred and hostility of the Koreans, death claimed him as a victim of disease contracted upon the battlefield between the Japanese and Koreans. His widow still carries on and next year welcomes as her associate her son Dr. Sherwood Hall and her son Dr. Sherwood, who was formerly Miss Botteral of Athens.

Service and Drowned

Dr. Charles W. Service, also of the West China Mission, is a son of the Athens parsonage. His father was Rev. William Service. So early did he scent his life work that he was a boy preacher in those days. Marrying Miss Bobbie Morgan, a nurse of the Brockville Hospital, they volunteered for West China. Other hands reared the pioneer hospital in the capital Chentu, a Chinese Montreal. Here for years he has been the superintendent. His daughter in Toronto are preparing to join in mission work as their preparation is complete. Rev. Dr. Drummond's work is in Southern China where he is doing a great work under the Presbyterian Board.

Barbers Must Put Up The Blind

Montreal City Council Motion Would Prevent Gambling Parties

Montreal, March 24.—Hereafter all barber shop windows must be left uncncumbered with heavy shades after hours, and especially on Sundays, so that the passing cop may be able to sweep the interior with one stern look and see that dealings unlawful are going on. If a motion that will be presented on Monday at the meeting of the city council is approved.

Ald. Arthur Vallancourt of Mercier ward is sponsor for the above resolution and in presenting it he will tell his confreres that it is the same measure that applies to taverns and pool rooms. He has received many complaints from citizens that many of these barber shops are the rendezvous for card players after closing hours and on Sundays and some hefty gambling goes on.

By keeping the shades up the passing patrolman will be able to keep tab on those places and exacting the same surveillance that taverns and pool rooms are subject to. This will effectually put a stop to impromptu parties and many abuses in the opinion of the aldermans.

A horse belonging to Colonel Fox, V. C., Bedfordshire Regiment, was electrocuted by coming into contact with a cable blown down by the gale at Aldershot.

While her parents were out, Annie McCartney 15, of Lisdoo near Dundalk, received injuries from which she died through her clothing catching fire.

FASHIONS & FOIBLES
by Shirley Sharon

The new bob just does 'em, Ginger, P. and does them well—it presents the slim youthful line of the sheath coat in vest case at the hem.

Tan sheath silhouette is undergoing a gradual change. It is real, slim and narrow as ever, in many of the newest and smartest Spring models; but in many others, fullness is introduced at the hem in front by circular flares, kick plaits, etc.

The new case has a fresh look and you don't see "Tan" has entered on the scene.

Lacking the bravado which marked her attitude following her arrest, the bobbed-haired girl of the cafes and jazz bands went into court a thoroughly subdued young person.

Tired of Atlantic

"I don't think I am going to take the witness stand," she said. "I've been trying not to think of it. I've gone through so many tests. I never want to cross an ocean another minute. They've given me all kinds of mental examinations, some of them ridiculously silly."

Dorothy's youth may save her from life imprisonment for the slaying of her mother. That was the indication from the questioning of the first jurors called.

OVERNIGHT NEWS

The King has approved the appointment of the Earl of Klein, as High Commissioner of the Church of Scotland succeeding Rt. Hon. Donald Lacaite miner, whose appointment by the Labor Government last year caused a sensation because previously only noblemen had been considered eligible for that office.

Youthful Slayer Faints In Court

Dorothy Ellingson Lacks Bravado Displayed When Arrested

San Francisco, March 26.—Dorothy Ellingson, 16-year-old "jazz baby", collapsed in a dead faint at the first session of her trial for the murder of her mother. The girl rose from her seat beside her counsel, took a step or two toward the exit from the court room and fell forward to her knees, limp.

Mrs. Kennedy, deputy sheriff, and Bailiff Harry McGovern rushed her up and carried her into the jury room. First aid treatment was given the girl and consciousness quickly returned.

"Dear me!" she repeated, over and over.

With a court attache on each side she was able to walk from the jury room after a few minutes' rest. She was taken to the jail hospital in the same building, walking across the "Bridge of Sighs" with unsteady step.

Counsel said persons would examine her during the recess and determine whether or not her collapse was serious.

Wits at Thought of Crime

There was little in the session to unnerve the girl, but frequent reference to the crime for which she is on trial apparently was more than she could stand.

During the session one juror was passed, two were excused, and definite announcement was made by the defense that insanity would be its plea. As the jury selection continued, the girl toyed with the handle of her vanity box and when her mother's name was mentioned she shifted uneasily.

"I want a jury of men," Dorothy said shortly before she fainted. "No matter what the result, I only hope it will soon be over."

Lacking the bravado which marked her attitude following her arrest, the bobbed-haired girl of the cafes and jazz bands went into court a thoroughly subdued young person.

WHAT IS THE USE OF LIVING?

What is the use of living when a woman gets up in the morning as tired as when she went to bed at night, with headache, backache, dragging-down pains, nervous, irritable and despondent? These are all symptoms of ailments peculiar to her sex which make life a burden. Every woman in this condition should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a good old-fashioned remedy made from roots and herbs. It contains no narcotics or harmless drugs and for fifty years has been restoring women to health and strength and the joys of living.

Wanderers Won League Play-off

Defeated Fruit Merchants By 199 Pins at Recreation Alleys

The Wanderers were the winners of the senior bowling when last night they played off with Fruit Merchants winning by 199 pins. Both teams rolled up some big scores, the Wanderers getting over 1312 for their last game and the Fruit Merchants 1161. The Wanderers started right off the bat to take the game away in the first game they getting a single load of 29 pins and finishing 61.66 pins more in the second, in the third the Wanderers rolled their highest score of the evening averaging 419 for the last game. This puts the Meridens out of the running and the Wanderers play off again on Friday night with the Hartford team of the Brunswick trophy. Four of the Wanderers were all well over the 600 mark with Lynch high bowler and J. Jones and the way for the Merchants.

In the opening league game between the Greasy Five and the Never Sweat the former team won out by 165 pins. Conrad had Knott rolling the highest score for their teams.

In the C. N. R. ladies' afternoon league game the Mic Macs added another win to their string of victories and are tied on the head of the list with the 6000's were the losers yesterday and although they rolled a nice score they only got set up 22 pins. Mrs. Austin was high bowler for the 6000's and Mrs. Yorrow was high for the Mic Macs.

The Alemite boys were a little off color last night but not to the K. of C.'s in a one-sided score, the Knights coming up a nice total score of 2691. P. Barrett had a-night, on when he rolled 299 in his last game and 619 for his three strings.

The Officials No. 2 and the Road Dept. fighting for their winter schedule last night, the Officials winning the game by 206 pins. The Officials are off to a good start and kept up their good bowling all the way through to the finish. High bowlers were Walsh 223 and E. Dickie. Players and scores:

Physical Activity Is Going Strong

Big Program Laid Out For Spring and Summer Months

The Physical Committee of the Y met on Tuesday with a full turn out, Chairman G. B. Smith presiding. The report on Basket Ball showed a fine season with the Intermediate team in the Quinte finals to play West End Y.M.C.A. in the near future. Stan Nunn reported for Volley Ball stated that a city league or Tournament would be run off for the City Championship, and a team would likely be sent to Toronto to compete in an International Tournament open to North America, when teams were expected from Buffalo, Cleveland and other cities.

The Circus Committee reported that they had been fortunate in securing the services of Dingaling and Bungaling brothers for their Big County Circus to appear in Belleville in the near future this would be their Fifth annual appearance and no doubt would be a very pleasing event.

A brief outline of proposed Spring and Summer activities were out lined by Physical Director Phil Brocket as follows. April, Circus, School Swimming Campaign; May, Indoor Athletic meet, Swimming instruction, Corrective Gym work, Promotion of Tennis and Soft Ball with new courts to be secured in the City. Track and Field Athletics, Harriers, Shop athletics, Soccer Football, hikes and trips, canoe trips, Polo, Tennis, team and group games, Athletic meets, relay races, baseball, etc. July, Senior Canoe trip two weeks through Kawartha Lakes.

AMENDMENT MADE IN RESIDENCE RULE

Winnipeg, March 25.—The Canadian Amateur Association at the final session of its annual meeting here yesterday, gave three months' notice that its agreement with the United States Amateur Hockey Association would end and that at the end of that time all clubs affiliated with the Dominion body would be debarred from playing with teams affiliated in the United States association.

An exception was made, in that Canadian teams will be allowed to play against clubs not affiliated with the United States Amateur Hockey Association.

The association decided that in order to qualify for play the following season a player should take up his residence in the town or city his team represents by May 15.

The ruling regarding international hockey came after a letter had been read from the United States Amateur Hockey Association, in which it was stated that the United States body could run its own affairs independent of Canadian teams.

TEX RICKARD MAY BE SENT TO JAIL

Trenton, N.J., March 25.—Strong indication that George C. (Tex) Rickard and probably all of the defendants in the Dempsey-Carpentier prize fight conspiracy case will be sentenced to Atlantic penitentiary was given by Judge Bodine in United States court here Monday in granting a motion by counsel for government until next Monday at Newark.

Walter D. Van Riper, acting for all the defendants, argued that sufficient time had not been granted to allow counsel to proceed through the testimony and prepare an appeal.

"I suppose that an appeal will be taken ?" Judge Bodine inquired of Van Riper.

"That depends on the nature of the sentence, Your Honor," he replied.

"Well, when you come into court next Monday you had better have your appeal papers prepared," the Judge concluded.

Previously the Judge had spoken of the case as being a flagrant violation of the law. He said that the defendants or their agents had taken the films into twenty states.

WILD GEESE ARE BACK FOR SPRING

The wild geese are back. "Follow the geese to the north," days has supplanted, "Follow the swallow" days of the song. Last evening hither seven o'clock a flock of about 100 wild geese flew north wards over the west side of the city. They flew so low that the flapping of their lusty wings was quite audible, and though traffic was not forced when they moved, the geese were "honking" all the while. They travelled in a northwesterly direction.

This practice is said to indicate an early spring, and with the cheer-upping of voices and the joyful shrieking of blackbirds heard this morning, adds to the spring indications.

TALK NEW RINK FOR PETERBORO

Peterboro, March 25.—A movement to give Peterboro an artificial ice rink in time for next season's campaign, is on foot in the city and a representative of the entertainment company which built the Stratford Arena has been in consultation with a number of local enthusiasts.

There is nothing definite to give out but an announcement is looked for in a short time.

AN UNIQUE DEBATE ON THURSDAY NEXT

The dramatic dialogue-debate which will be staged in the City Hall, Belleville, on Thursday, March 27th, commencing at 8 o'clock is a rather unique departure in prohibition propaganda methods. Four speakers take part, representing a member of the Provincial Legislature, a member of the Dominion Parliament and a citizen prohibitionist. They indulge in an argument or debate which begins at times heated and which is backed full of argument, fact, humor and interest.

The gentlemen taking part are well known: Mr. H. Ruthven Mc-Donald, Canada's premier barrister, not only is one of the principals in the debate but also contributes to the programme of the evening a number of songs. Mr. A. E. Smith was Labor member in the Manitoba Legislature and therefore speaks from the inside in regard to Parliamentary affairs. Mr. H. Spence is known as a prominent prohibition worker.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

CHAPTER XIX.

Elaine started at the sound of Charles Sherwin's voice, and shrank behind Hilda; but she was not very much alarmed: it did not occur to her to be afraid from Geoffrey, that she had been entrapped into coming to this solitary spot and, indeed, Charles Sherwin might have speech with her; and as she shrank back she felt looked round for Bridget.

"Here you—have you seen our servant, Bridget, Captain Sherwin?" were her first words. He expected to meet her here; she sent a message to say that she wished to see me."

"I have not seen her. She is not here," he replied, his eyes shining with a fierce face even in the moonlessness, "and I must have seen her if she had been here, for I have been waiting for some time—waiting to see you!"

"To see me!" said Elaine. "How did you know that I should be here?"

His wrath face flushed.

"I thought that as it is such a beautiful night you might be tempted to come out and—"

Elaine drew her shawl round with an unmistakable gesture of preparation to go.

"Of course I cannot remain with you," she said gently but firmly. "I came out to meet Bridget and—Good-night, Captain Sherwin. I cannot guess why you wish to see me, what you have to say to me, and—indeed, I must go," she broke off, for he had taken a couple of steps which placed him in front of her, and so shooed the path.

"I beg you to wait—to wait for only a few minutes," he said. "I have to say something to you that it is my duty to tell you, that you ought to hear—And he still barred her way.

Elaine colored, and her eyes flashed.

"You are presenting me from passing, Captain Sherwin," she said in a low voice that trembled with indignation—not fear.

"I know it!" he responded hastily, and with a mixture of shame and bravado. "I know what I am doing. You drive me to it! You force me to take this course. You have avoided me—separated yourself from me—"

Elaine stopped him.

"I have not avoided you," she said with a quiet dignity of rebuke, "And—I do not wish to be unkind—but you have no right to suggest that we have been more than acquaintances, Captain Sherwin."

"No!" he said quickly, his face flushing, his eyes turning to the right and left of her, and avoiding her direct glance. "No, not more, as we should have been, more, if it had not been for—but I will not mention his name yet. Not until I have heard from your own lips that—that it cannot be true."

Elaine was silent a moment.

"What is it you wish to know?" she said, gently.

She disliked this man who was cowardly as a low voice, but one that she hesitated nor wavered. "But it is true. I am engaged to be married to Mr. Nairne."

He put his hands to his lips, and stood silent for a moment in silence; then he said:

"I thought it would be. I would not believe it! You to marry him! Do you know what he is?"

"From the looks of them Wyatt children, my notion is the drug-gist will soon be havin' calls for his tooth combs."

(Copyright, 1924, Associated Editors, Inc.)

"Pray let me pass, Captain Sherwin," she said indignantly, "Can you think that I will remain to hear you speak thus of the man whose wife I have to be? Let me pass, please!"

"Wait!" he said. "I—beg your pardon, I did not mean to offend you. But I implore you—I ask you for your own sake—"

"It cannot be for my good that I should remain, arguing with you in this purpose. I repeat that I—that you do not come up to the Castle to-morrow, and say what you have to say to father?"

Sherwin hesitated, "I will not cross that man's threshold.

"Yet greater to utter vague slanders behind his back," said Elaine, her indignation getting the better of her patience.

His wicked and stood gnawing his under lip.—

"You do not—I am afraid of him!" he said between his teeth.

"I think—but it is not of much consequence," he went on, said Elaine controlling herself. "I cannot. I will not remain here, Captain Sherwin, and if you still persist in detaining me I shall be compelled to call for assistance."

"Do not," he said, half defiantly, half pleadingly. "What I have to say to you had better be said to you alone. For your own sake, for the sake of others. "If you call, I shall threaten and tell what I know to anyone who comes. Then you will have occasion to—to—"

"Let me pass!" exclaimed Elaine. "If you have not mad, you are behaving very wickedly and cowardly. Captain Sherwin, you know, I have told you, that I am the promised wife of another man, and yet you dare to detain me as you have done!" The tears of outraged womanhood stood in her eyes. "It is cruel, it is unmanly—"

"Stop," he said hoarsely. "I cannot bear such contempt from you. I don't deserve it—what have I done to merit such scorn, beyond loving you with a passion you spurn as a man who is a thorough-paced scoundrel—"

Elaine's face became pale, and her lips quivered as she confronted him with flashing eyes.

"You call me, Marquis of Nairne—" She stopped, breathless. "You are a coward, Captain Sherwin, a coward who detains a lady against her will, and slanders her to her face! Beware to his face. I do not believe a word you utter. Let me pass!" And with her hand actually raised as if about to strike him, she took a step forward.

Baree, Son of Kazan

—by—

James Oliver Curwood

(A Vitagraph Picture with Kit, the War Dog, is an adaptation of this story.)

SYNOPSIS

Nepeese daughter of Pierrot, the trapper, carried Baree, the young wolf- dog, from her father's cabin into the woods. She was fearful of the return of Shaw-Tah-part, the factor, whom, a few minutes before, she had pushed into the terrifying foot chasm when he made unwelcome advances to her. She met her father, who had learned that MacTaggart had blood-poison, the result of a bite on the hand by Baree when the factor found Thorpe in one of his traps.

It was not like other'wise Baree had known. It was an inundation sweeping down out of the blackness of the skies. Within five minutes the interior of the broken shelter was a shower-bath—half an hour of that torrential downpour, and Nepeese was soaked to the skin. The water ran in little rivulets down her back and breast; it trickled in tiny streams from her drenched braids and dropped from her long lashes, and the thickest under her arm as she held To Baree—it was almost as bad as his nose-drowning, for in spite of his fight with Pierrotcrabbe, and he snuggled closer and closer to the warm shelter ing arm of the Willow. It seemed an interminable time before the thunder relief far to the east, and the lightning died away. I one distant and intermittent flashings. Even after that the rain fell for another hour. Then it stopped as suddenly as it had begun.

With a laughing cheer Nepeese rose to her feet. The water gulped in her moccasins as she walked out into the open. She paid no attention to Baree—and he followed her. Across the open in the tree-tops the last wild storm clouds were drifting away.

Nepeese looked down and saw Baree. He was standing clear and unleashed, with freedom on all sides of him. Yet he did not run. He was waiting, wet as a watercat, with his eyes on her expectantly, and there was a pleasant toward him, and hesitated.

"Go, you old fool—away, Baree. I will leave you free. And now we must have a fire!"

A fire! Any one but Pierrot might have said that she was crazy. Not a stem or twig in the forest that was not dripping! Any one could have tinkle of running water all about him.

With her wet clothes clinging to her lithely, she went to work. Quickly she crossed the fuzzy open and bared the under bark of a dead birch. Then she knelt down, and with her knife began carving off the dry inner bark. A handful of this she placed close to the wigwam, and on it she heaped load after load of wet wood—until she had a great pile. From a bundle in the wigwam she secured a dry birch-bark. At the first touch of its inner bark the bark flared up like paper soaked in oil. Then she hour later the Willow's fire—if there had been no forest walls to stop it—would have been seen at the cabin a mile away. Not until it was big and red did she put on the first green wood on it. Then she built a tripod of green poles and over these sticks stretched the blanket out to dry. After that she began to un bundle.

She drew a deep breath, and her eyes shone with a delicious happiness. Slowly her mouth former into a round red O, and she called to him softly as she slipped on her wet moccasins and followed the creek into the forest. A hundred yards from the open she came to the edge of a pool. It was deep and full to the brim, for the rain had fallen here before the storm. She could hear the purple and brush of water. She ran full speed surface the stars above. For a moment or two she stood poised on a rock with the cool depths half a dozen feet below her. Then she flung back her head and sang like a slim white arrow through the star-light.

Baree saw her go. His hard tip flung him back. For half an hour he lay flat and still, close to the edge of the pool, and watched her. Some times she was just under him, floating silently, her hair forming a cloud darker than the water about her; again she was cutting with her arms almost as swiftly as the otters he had seen—and then with a new delight he saw Pierrot appear, and Baree's heart would quicken as he waited for her. Once she was gone a long time. He whined. He knew she was safe, for the beaver are the otter, and he was filled with an unreasoning relief when she appeared.

So their first night passed—storm, the cool, deep pool, the big fire, and later, when the Willow stoltos and the blanket had dried, a few hour's sleep. At dawn they returned to the cabin. It was a cautious approach. There was no smoke coming from the chimney. The door was closed. Pierrot and Bush Mc-Taggart were gone.

CHAPTER XVI

It was the beginning of August—the Flying-up Moon—when Pierrot returned from Lac Bain, and in three days more it would be the Willow's seventeenth birthday. He brought back with him two pairs of new moccasins—shoes for her hair, real shoes, which she wore with a new pride. The Frenchmen at Nelson House, and chief glory of all, was some wonderful red cloth for a dress. In the three winters she had spent at the Mission these two things had made much of Nepeese. They had taught her to sew—as well as any half breed girl could sew, and at times there came to the Willow a compelling desire to do as they did.

So for three days Nepeese worked hard with a needle, and on her birthday she stood before Pierrot in a fashion that took his breath away. She had piled her hair in great glowing masses and coils at the crown of her head, as Yvonne, the younger of the English women, had taught her; and in the front of it had half hidden a vivid spray of the crimson fireflower. Under this she had tied with a blue ribbon one of the flush of her lips and cheeks came the deepest tint into them. Her eyes also and sinuous beauty of her form—as the cloth had been stitches winters and at Nelson House. And under the dress, which fell below her knees, the Willow-bower had quite forgotten the proper length, or the fact that Pierrot's arm encircled the coup de maitre of her toilet, real stockings and the wonderful shoes with high heels! Even in that when she left him, followed by Baree, and limping a little in the tightness of her shoes, she smile faded from his face, leaving it cold and stern.

There was a change in Pierrot. During the three days of her dress-making he seemed to have settle into content to notice their change, and Pierrot had tried to keep it from her. But in the seventeen days on the trip to Lac Bain, and

Your doctor advises internal cleanliness

HE WILL tell you that the first results of constipation — headache, sleepless nights, biliousness, backache, etc.—warn that the body is flooded with intestinal poisons. Unless these poisons may cause the breakdown of health and lead to serious disease.

Laxatives and cathartics do not overcome constipation, says a noted physician, but by their constant use tend only to aggravate the condition and often lead to permanent injury.

Why Physicians Favour Lubrication

Medical science has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus, Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. For sale by all druggists.

Buck Jones In The Painted daLy

Inside Story Told of Film ing Feature Playing At Belle

Now "The Painted Lady," made Buck Jones, the William Fox western star, look his iron cowboy nerve and sticking self control at one of the most amazing inside stories told about the making of the William Fox-Edmund Cobb Studios, Hollywood.

They were "shooting" a Cavalier Century Unlimited, Youthful love scenes of "The Painted Lady," but were not rocking with "Thrills in Life," as secretary of wine, women and jazz.

On an adjoining set, Buck Jones in a western mystery drama was supposed to capture a bandit ranch leader and settle the feud. shoot looking and spooky.

Suddenly Buck lost his acting nerve and acted like a purely varietal villiers. He just couldn't act. He threw up his hands and trembled.

The trouble was the "stunt" but director Chester Bennett of "The Painted Lady" sent Buck Jones to the remedial appreciated safety of the "petting party" is the latest fad. He looks a rapid fire jazz orchestra, and so Buck put it in his director.

"You can't go spooky or scared when you're playing a love scene at least I can't."

Buck says "The Painted Lady" is the best known girls role for the bourbon blues, she's one to appear in. Her name is Dorothy McGuire. She's smile and erotic Dorothy Mackaill, at the Belle Theatre on Thursday.

Hubby And Wife Together Again

Mr. and Mrs. Barthelmess Appear in "New Toys" At Griffin

Mary Hay designed many of the frocks she wears in "New Toys" in which she appears opposite her husband, Richard Barthelmess.

Mary is unpretentious and because she wanted them simple and yet bewitching, she was obliged to have them made from her own patterns.

Miss Hay also designed many of the gowns she wears off the screen. Recently she designed three effective evening gowns which she calls her flower dresses. One of the gowns is a sun-flower dress. It is made of a pale yellow satin veiled with the same shade of chiffon. The wide circular skirt is of chiffon and is also pale yellow. Down the side of the skirt is a cascade of sun-flower colored petals of chiffon with bronze and there a touch of brown to suggest the centre of the sun-flower.

The second dress is a water lily dress, made on the same design. It is of white chiffon with a deep band of dark green about the waist to suggest the stem of the water lily. Near the hem of the skirt are scattered petals of white satin and the spray of the flowers at the waist.

A rambler dress is of pink silk with chiffon roses at the bottom of the skirt of a real rose scarlet. The flowers are very loose and give just the contrast of the pale pink and scarlet in a startling but effective way.

The film costume which Miss Hay wears in "New Toys" was made under her supervision and her entire success wardrobe, including gowns, was the result of long planning and many camera tests for line and color.

"New Toys," a John Robertson production, will be presented at the Griffin National at Griffin Theatre on Thursday, Fri., Sat.

It is the first time that Mr. and Mrs. Barthelmess have appeared on the screen together since D. W. Griffith's "Way Down East."

Election In June Seems Sure Thing!

Early Budget, Closure and Other Signs are Being Noted

(By P. L. Brown)

Ottawa, March 25.—The main topic of conversation in the corridors of the House today is an election. That there will be one this year seems now certain to be,sure of. But the question is, when. That the Government is working for something is apparent from the hurry-scurry we are living and in the conservative ranks there is much disgust expressed at the action of Friday night in forcing a vote on the Peterson contract, when most of the Conservative members were away for home. This action is unprecedented in the history of Government proceedings, and those who are closely in touch with political situations, claim that the Government are forcing things so that they can get their decks cleared for action for an election.

An Election in June

The methods adopted of closure, the bringing down of the Budget, these weeks earlier than last year. The organizing of various constituencies, the getting of candidates in the field, all seemed to one thing an election and that soon—the month of June.

Members of Parliament are discussing the situation. One man is figuring out how the Government can manage it to win some, they claim, they can force closure. They can do pretty nearly anything they want with the help of the Progressives, and there is no doubt but that the Progressive party is beginning to realize that if he and his Government are to make their great plunge, that they had better do it now when the water looks fine. Sure, Mr. King has just finished a lecturing tour in the West. What matter does it if the lectures were confined entirely to superficial questions which in a way is superficial way. He is astute enough politician to know that his mass of friends—at least a big majority of it still is the care of those that heard them, and on the Quebec side those who will vote as he tells him in the Prairie Provinces.

Rumblings in Quebec

In Quebec there is a situation that must be alarming for Mr. Beckerdike's protege. There are rumblings in the land of the habitant, which augur well for just what Quebec would like them to be. The factories are busy, busier than they have been. Unemployment is making itself felt, and the Quebec farmer is beginning to realize that when there is a lack of employment there is of course another market for all of his revenue. A solid Liberal Quebec is beginning to unite on itself, itself. It is beginning to see that his promises of the past, promises, and no fine promises beget confidence in the manufacturer, a spend money on his own when they have nothing to promise. There are those in Quebec and see the handwriting on the wall as far as Canada is concerned, there is something in done. They see a promise—big one perhaps—of railway redabbling with ocean rates and the establishing of a company to take charge to break an alleged combine when the same government makes no move to stop the trend of starvation wages and the land through lack of industry. It sees a government that is content to draw red herrings across the trail of the depression in Canada, rather than face the issue squarely on the tariff question. It sees a Government Agents with figures to make the finances of the country look prosperous, when that same government knows that most people believe in prosperity, like. But the people of Quebec, and the country in general, know that it has been proven that liars can figure and that never has there been such glaring examples of this as has been shown in the short time that Parliament has been in session this year.

Contrasting Policies

The people of Quebec are beginning to realize all these things. They are quietly contrasting the policies of the two parties—Liberalism and the Conservatives—and they now see that the Conservative policy is one for the betterment and welfare of Canada as a nation—the welding of all sections of one together, the protecting of what is ours, against the inroads being made by our wealthy neighbour to the south, by the encouragement of home trade. They may have been loath to admit it, but admit it they can, and the longer the Government stays away from an election the surer will it be that feeling grows to grow—with what result.

And Premier King knows it. He knows that one of two grandstand byelections cannot save him. He knows that the inroads he has made among the people—who vote,"are feeling the pinch, and so are his Government be feels that the sooner he has it over and done with before Quebec can change it. Quebec will change at the first opportune time. The Bloc is turning and gaining footsteps every day, and if the Bloc turns in Quebec where will the Liberal Party be.

Election in June

In Ontario the people there are fully aware of what is going on. In the factory districts business is at a ramp pant, business is stagnant, capital is afraid. Capitalists in Ontario, yes even in the United States, are "scared" to invest in industrial concerns—particularly concerns which are dependent to a certain extent on a protective tariff. And, why shouldn't they? Why should anyone invest money in a concern which is under a Government may force to close its doors through the tariff being done away with from their goods. But the people of Ontario are aware that not a single plank in the fine promises made by the Government before the last election has been fulfilled. The returned soldiers and the Grand War Veterans know just how they have been treated with regard to pensions. They know that the industries of Ontario are in dire straits, and a government may also lose pole for Ontario, another black eye for Western provinces and another for Quebec.

Premier King Knows It

And Premier King knows it. From the highways and the byways, his political agents are getting what the reverberate. It is even said that the liberals have stated that as far as Ontario is concerned they are not out looking, and they also know that the Conservatives are in the same position as they are the more certain the King Government is to go down to defeat.

With Ontario against them, with rumblings in Quebec, with the fact that seasonally rumblings in the land of the habitant means a growing storm before a deluge—with the Progressives in the confident of wrecking their power, with the rapid growth and sentiment in Alberta with which the Conservative Party is being received in the West, there is what is there left for Premier King to do, but to jump who they see tempest looks good.

Election in June

It is said he those wet up to polities that the talk a year and an election this June is not only possible, but probable. Many of the members that way. The methods of the Government in the House of late, the Progressives are looking glum, the Liberals are looking for an election and behind the scenes there is an activity in organization work that certainly shows how the wind is blowing. It is said that the next session of a Federal Election is called in June.

The anniversary Independent of Dublin, Ireland, in its subleaders gives convenience to the silliest while about traffic in Canada. It quotes, in exchange, the report of a committee appointed by the Social Service Council of Canada, what action is to be taken against the "feeble-minded" for sending children to Canada.

Darken Hair! Look Young

NOBODY CAN TELL WHEN YOU RESTORE GRAY, FADED HAIR WITH SAGE TEA

Grand mother kept her hair beautiful by darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Nowadays we just call it Sage Tea Compound, because it's already darkening at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known down town druggist says everybody uses Wyeths Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft bush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy soft and beautiful.

Acids Cause Bad Kidneys And Bladder

DRINK LOTS OF WATER ALL DAY LONG AND HELP KIDNEYS TAKE A LITTLE SALTS

Too much rich food forms acids which excite and overwork the kidneys in their efforts to keep you free from poisons, the skin becomes sallow, you have backache and suffer from rheumatic twinges. The urine is scanty, full of sediment, channels often get irritated, obliging one to get up two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's poisons, and relieve the bladder and end all misery, get from any pharmacy a few ounces of Jad Salts from the pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then appear.

This famous salts is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep our vital serious kidney and bladder disorders.

By all means drink lots of good water every day. Have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

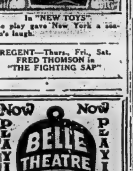

Calomel To-night, HOT WATER BEFORE BREAKFAST

No more headaches, indigestion, bad breath, constipation, biliousness. If you will but follow a doctor's advice and take two Carter's Calomel Tablets tonight ,or) a good drink of hot water in the morning to wash from the system all the poisonous daily's poisons and wastes before nave food is taken in. Tand Calomel Is harmless acts on every organ of the body, stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, no salts or acidities are necessary, does not evacuate like ordinary calomel Get a few of these tablets from your druggist and you will be surprised how much better they will make you feel. These inexpensive tablets can be obtained at Corbett's Drug Store.

More Are Going Out To Crow Lake

New Cottages Being Erected—H. R. Pierce Reports Here

Crow lake as a fishing and campingground needs no introduction to Belleville. It will be interesting to Hastings county people, however, to learn that Crowe lake, its shores and islands, will offer greater inducements to camper and recreation seekers this summer than ever.

Mr. H. R. Pierce, of Marmora who was in Belleville Tuesday, told the Intelligencer that eleven acres which make up the beautiful Rawn island, have been subdivided into ten desirable lots on which quaint and picturesque cottages are to be built by owners. One of those lots was sold last week to a prominent Cleveland man who with scores of his American brothers, and their families, has long been sold on the beauty and healthful qualities of Hastings county, especially Crowe lake and district.

Birch island will be restricted too, as no boat houses or objectionable structures will be allowed built on the shores of the island, but must be built in a reserved area, though the centre of the island which forms the common, backyard of all ten cottages.

Crowe lake not only attracts fishermen in the summer but invariably brings back citizens in the autumn for deer hunt. Less than a month to the north of Crowe lake, deer, wolves and bears are also back aplenty.

Crowe lake attracts among others, Parkinguard, the big league baseball player at the close of each of his strenuous seasons on the diamond.

Those who are developing that part of our playgrounds have bargained themselves into a club which boosts the district and mails an interesting prospectus to prospects. Recently an enquiry letter was received from a Brooklyn man who is looking to locate in that district for the summer.

Asked if it was true that the Marmora lumber and trapper had actually shot two wolves with one shot as published in Toronto, Peterboro and Belleville newspapers recently, Mr. Pierce assured the Intelligencer that he did. The pelts were on display at Marmora and have been sent to New Bedford, Mass., where they are now on display advertising North Hastings.

Many Detours To Be Made This Year

Department of Highways Paving Several Sections Alohg Highway

According to an announcement made by an engineer of the department of public highways for Ontario at the opening meeting of the Cobourg Motor league on Tuesday, this summer will see a great many detours on the provincial highways in those united counties, but as detours mean better roads they should be put up with without grumbling. It is the intention of the department to pave between Bowmanville and Newcastle, thus continuing the paved highway from Toronto, also from Port Hope five miles westerly. Between Cobourg and Grafton, and Brighton and Trenton and from Trenton easterly to Bayview Cheese Factory will be paved this year, the time for the opening of bids for some of the contracts being up this week, while the other contracts will be tendered for later, so that the work can be completed this year. It is also intended to pave the Cobourg-Peterboro-Port Hope paving will be finish ed by June. When this work is completed it will mean that there will only be about 25 miles paving to complete the work in the united Counties, which have the largest frontage of any municipality in the province. The cost to the counties upon the paving will be in the neighbourhood of $140,000, and how to finance the provincial roads will be the counties' next problem. It is a problem that has been referred to a committee by the county council and this report to be presented at their June session.

PICTON NEWS

Picton, March 24.—Impressive indeed was the service at the United Church on Friday afternoon at the funeral obsequies of the late Miss Elizabeth Dopkley. The LO.D.E. of which deceased was a valuable member, attended in a body as did also the public and high school pupils. The centre aisles of the auditorium of the large church were entirely filled with school children who marched under the direction of their respective teachers. The floral offerings were magnificent. Rev. J. J. Mellett had charge of the service. A beautiful duet was most sympathetically rendered by Mr. F. A. Waldon and Mrs. (Dr.) Philp.

Mrs. W. S. Blakely entertained last week at her beautiful home on Main street, in honor of her guest, Mrs. (Rev.) Mounteer. The parlors were prettily with home grown tullips, hyacinths and daffodils which much admired. The guests included many former friends of Mrs. Mounteer. The hostess was assisted in service by Mrs. Philip Brown.

Mrs. James Worrell has been elected president of the Women's Wild Rose in the place of Mrs. Ruth Dwight, resigned.

Mrs. Alfred Strickland has return ed home after a visit of several weeks with her daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Jinks, Rochester, N.Y.

Rev. W. MacConnell, M.A., dominion organizer for the Presbyterian church, spent a few days last week as the guest of Rev. C. L. Cowan.

The Easter Lamb tea train was in Picton Saturday and was visited by many towns people as well as farmers from all over the county. Much interest is being shown in this exhibit all along the line.

Picton automobile dealers are busy preparing for the automobile show to be held in the Armouries on March 26th to 28th.

Mr. and Mrs. J. de C. Hepburn have returned from a visit with friends in Toronto.

Mrs. Richard Fine was hostess to a party of lady friends at the tea hour on Friday afternoon, Jonquils charm to the pretty decorations of the parlor and living room room where the evening was spent in social visiting. The hostess was assisted at the tea hour by her daughter, Mrs. A. P. McVarnel and her two little daughters, Eleanor and Artie and Mrs. Harry Pine.

After 12 years' suffering with constipation, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought lasting relief

Think what it means to be spared healthily free from the dull, throbbing headaches, sallow skin and perpetual tiredness which are constipation's toll. But let Mrs. Rose tell you her inspiring story:

"Mold can't come in my home since Kellogg's ALL-BRAN." Mrs. Rose writes. "Before I ate it I suffered terribly from constipation, but dull headaches left me. For the past 12 months I've eaten ALL-BRAN and enjoyed perfect health. I'm 10 years younger. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a wonderful food."

(Signed) Mrs. F. S. Rose, 1000 Lafayette, Gary, Indiana

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with bitter wheat is ready to eat. Just eat it! Tastes so Mrs. Rose and thousands of others. It is a built food that doctors recommend. It is guaranteed to be permanently effective, if eaten regularly, or the purchase price will be returned by your grocer. Only ALL-BRAN brings sure relief.

Eat at least two tablespoonfuls daily in cereal, or as you wish, with every meal. Try the recipes given on the red-and-green pkg. All-Bran is a nature's own way of cleaning the intestines. Made in London, Canada. Served at leading hotels and restaurants. Sold by all grocers.

Fire at Consecon

Consecon, March, 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Spring, Brighton, have been visiting Mrs. Spring's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. French. Mrs. Wesley Hamilton painted Rev. H. Wolfsmin to Salem, on Sunday morning, for the afternoon service. B. Garretsee is very ill at his home. He was taken down on Sunday. S. Chase and Eldon Walt were visitors in the village recently.

C. G. Fox was a caller at R. Blakely's on Wednesday. F. Young is very ill. Mr. Blakely has a bad f jor, yesterday, but present assistance saved the situation. R. Maidens, an old resident of this locality, came here from Toronto and resume residence, owing to his poor state of health. Miss Waldron, Trenton, was in the village on Wednesday in the interests of I. B. S.

Auto Tires Stolen

The provincial police have been notified that some unknown persons entered the storehouse of William Davy's general store at Clarence Creek one evening and stole four automobile tires.

The thieves got into the building by tearing off some or the boards on one end of the building. It is understood that this is not the first time that the building has been entered and goods taken away.

Mr. and Mrs. Davy, who reside about fifteen yards from the store house, did not hear any unusual noises on Friday evening.

It will be a very difficult matter for the police to trace the tires as Mr. Davy does not know the numbers of them.

Ate Strychnine Tablets

Brockville, March 25.—The five-year-old daughter of Hosiah Wood, living on a farm near Mountain Station, is dead as the result of having eaten a number of tablets containing strychnine which her mother had obtained some time ago and which she had placed upon a high shelf out of reach.

In her absence her two daughters climbed upon some bags and reached the shelf, one of them eating several of the tablets. She died a few hours afterwards.

Remanded Without Bail

Deseronto, March 25.—Mrs. Petrie, who is charged with fraud in connection with the stock manipulations of the Creemery Separator company, which was to have been established in Deseronto, appeared in police court Saturday morning. He was remanded to jail on March 20th without bail.

Provincial Constable Thompson, of Napanee, went to Toronto and brought the prisoner back to face he trial, after the hearing he was taken to Belleville, where he will be detained in jail until his case is called.

Cheese Meeting held

Elginburg, March 25.—Spring-like weather is enjoyed by all after a long, severe winter. Clarence Stover has purchased a touring car. MAUSOLEUM IS SURE SUCCESS FOR BELLEVILLE

Plan to Begin Construction On May the 15th

IN "CHAPEL CIRCLE"

Will be Turned Over to Belleville Cemetery Company

At the local Office of the Canada Mausoleum Limited it was learned this morning that the proposed modern community mausoleum for Belleville is an assured reality. It is reported that satisfactory received for shares made by local citizens have been beyond all expectations and the management has already been prompted to make preparations for commencement of construction on or about 15th May. The Company's construction outfit is at the present time completing the erection of a beautiful mausoleum at Oshawa, after which operations will be started here.

It is stated that Belleville Mausoleum is bound to be erected in the "Chapel Circle" in Belleville Cemetery, it to be the handsomest building of its kind for size, barring none. The structure will contain 720 compartments for permanent entombment, and also will have incorporated in the building a Receiving Vault, located in the basement, which will be of distinct utility to all critics of the dead. It will may desire to hold services and receive temporary interment during winter months. Special features of embellishment in the Chapel and exterior will be adorned in part with a cathedral-like atmosphere. The whole structure is to be finished in various types of beautiful domestic and foreign marble, polished and relieved with bronze ornaments set in bronze sash. The exterior is being finished in natural stone and with the extension of bronze, giving a massive, swarming to a permanent structure. The mausoleum, the construction will be turned over to the Belleville Cemetery Company in order that they will be the administration and maintenance, with no further charges or responsibility to the crypt owners.

The Belleville community mausoleum idea for the disposal of mortal remains is finding wide acceptance throughout the thickly settled and well-to-do and increasing number of buildings that are being completed every year. It is established that they are more fire proof and stain proof than any of the United States and Canada and, in the last few years, have increased in prominence in the following cities of Ontario, St. Thomas, Stratford, London, Chatham, Windsor, Barrie, Galt, Stratford, Kitchener-Waterloo, St. Catharines, Oshawa, and the city of Toronto has most of three immense mausoleum structures with a total of nearly four thousand compartments.

This is a Busy Week For Prince

Getting Ready for Long Trip to South Africa

London, March 26.—This is a very busy week for the Prince of Wales who is leaving Saturday on his tour, of South Africa and Australia. He will be away from England at least six months. The Prince is adding speed to his hectic visit with friends at many friends' farewell as possible, there being not one public engagement on his schedule this week, that as guest of honor at the Royal Arthur Academy on Tuesday. On Friday he will make his "official" farewell to Wembley Exhibition, which will be re-opened to the public in May.

Much of the Prince's time is being spent in clearing up his business affairs before leaving England and is making final arrangements that will be possible to participate in one short hunt with his favorite fox hounds before he goes. The Prince, however has given up any idea of taking a polo team out as formerly, which knows racing events, at which the heir to the Throne excelled, with the end of England's Rowing, are usually present.

Grateful Relaxation

Although the Prince's daylight hours are fully occupied, he has not yet given up his evening pastimes of the theatre and dance. Nearly every evening he drops into at least one west-end dance club with a party of friends for an hour.

As the day for his departure approaches, the Prince's public appearances are hailed with more than usual enthusiasm.

Saturday night he attended a light opera at a theatre in the Strand and the crowds that assembled to watch the Prince and the other celebrities of his party held up traffic for some minutes. Men, women and children rushed toward the Prince as he came out of the theatre, attempted to grasp his hand, clung to his arms and scarcely escaped being overcome from his excited ovation. He received these friendly demonstrations from his subjects good-humoredly, smiled and bowed as well as he could considering the jam around him.

Radio on Station

He is taking his private Kenwide, which is to take the Prince on his southern tour has been ordered with the latest wireless equipment, a receiving set having been placed in the car. It is stated that he will be able to listen in at sea. The speech he is to deliver upon his arrival at Cape Town, and his later speeches at Johannesburg, Pretoria and Durban will be broadcast.

A number of Belleville people are making the round- the-world trip on the Canadian Pacific S.S. Empress of France. The photograph shows Mrs. A. M. Stewart, Miss Hazel A. Taylor, Mr. Robert Tannahill and Mr. Henry Taylor, all of Belleville, together with Mrs. Harry J. McIntyre, of Hamilton, seated on the terrace at Shepheard's Hotel, Cairo, and will then proceed around America via San Francisco, Balboa, Colon, Havana and New York docking at the latter port May 23.

Moira Victim is Interred To-day

Many Attend Sad Funeral Service of Harry Roblin

Since Tuesday night, scores of adults and children have visited the Roblin apartment, 278 Front street, where Harry, the fourteen months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Roblin, who was drowned in Moira River on Tuesday afternoon, lay in the tiny casket.

The sad funeral service at 2 o'clock this afternoon was attended by an unusually large crowd, when Rev. Dr. F. E. Malott and Dr. E. N. Baker, Principal of Alma College, conducted the impressive service.

A profusion of flowers marked the respect shown the interred family and deceased.

Interment was made at Belleville cemetery, the pall bearers being four young friends of Norman Croft, Glen Calnan, Kenneth Grills and Fred Clarke.

ALLEGED CROOKS ARE MUCH WANTED

Guelph Ont., March 26.—Warrants for the arrest of J. H. Petrie of Aldershot, Ontario, and Norman Johnston, of Orangeville, were sworn out by the local police today when the two men failed to appear in court a to face charges of obtaining money under false pretenses from a Mrs. Nellie Small, of Preston, formerly of Erin, Ontario.

The arrest of Petrie and Johnston was brought about as a result of the alleged fraudulent sale of stock in a corporation known as mentioned to reports, they are wanted in several places in the Province.

According to information received by the police, warrants for their arrest will be taken into custody recently at Deerborn, and it is understood that they are unable to come to Guelph owing to the fact that a charge is pending in Toronto's whereabouts, are at present unknown.

ARE GETTING READY IN NEW RIDING

Peterboro Ont., March 26.—Havelock Conservative are getting themselves ready for the coming election by closing up their ranks in a new organization. The Conservative Association of Havelock has been formed for the new riding of Hastings-Peterboro with the following officers: Hon. President, Hon. W. A. Mc Lean; Vice-President, Mrs. W. A. Mc Master; Chairman, T. D. Lancaster; Secretary, H. H. Brewster; Secretary-Treasurer, Ray Williams.

The meeting at Havelock was called by the new president of the Liberal Association of Northumberland County and A. J. Mayers, mayor of the same town, is the secretary-treasurer. They were elected at the annual meeting of the association held in Brighton.

The Prince's brother, Prince Henry, will accompany him to Portsmouth for the start of the tour on Saturday.

Last night the Prince of Wales went to the Hippodrome Theatre to see John Barrymore's "Hamlet." It being the first occasion that Royalty has witnessed the actor's production in London. After the play the Prince received Barrymore and congratulated him upon his fine presentation of the Shakespearean role.

FATHER'S SERMON PROVED TOO TRUE

Ottawa, March 26.—How suddenly, and with what little warning the dread tragedies of life strike the average home, said Rev. R. H. Waterman, rector of Beechbrook Anglican church, Beechwood, Que., during his evening Sunday night, on the storm which overtook Jessie Christ on the Sea of Galilee.

Rev. Mr. Waterman's little son, Norman Waterman, aged 2 years 3 months, died, fatefully, poisoned as a result of drinking the contents of a large bottle of vapor cresolene. The boy died within a few moments of drinking it.

The child left his father's bed while his father was asleep and obtained the bottle from a nearby table, the medicine being kept in such a bottle for convenience. He drank almost the entire contents, but died before medical aid could be summoned.

REPULSE WAITS IN SPLENDOUR FOR PRINCE

Wales Leaves for South America and Africa Saturday

PLANS DAILY WORK

Cruiser Equipped with Mechanical Horse for Prince's Use

Plymouth, March 26—Everything is in readiness aboard H. M. S. Repulse for the Prince of Wales' voyage to South Africa and South America, beginning Saturday. The grim battle cruiser has been scrubbed and polished until she looks like a jeweled ship with brass and picket blazing in the sun, and her decks and sides spotless. This is the twelfth succession ship of war to bear that name under the union jack. The "Repulse" will be the crack ship of his majesty's fleet during the time the Prince is aboard. She is 794 feet long, of 36,000 tons, carrying main battery of six 15-inch guns and crew of 1,200 men with useless capable of hurling the whole mass through the water at 33 knots an hour. All the time the Prince is aboard he plans to carry out a daily program of gymnastics. The gymnasium apparatus includes a mechanical horse to substitute the bucking rides in which the Prince has indulged extensively this year.

Over Ten Thousand Brewing Their Own

Is Interesting Report for Ontario Tabled at Ottawa

Ottawa, Ont., March 26.—Ten thousand and forty-nine Ontario people are notice of their intention to brew beer for themselves and families in 1924, it was stated in the house today by Mr. Euler from the Department of Customs and Excise, acted for by Mr. Bureau, progressive member for East Lambton. Mr. Euler sought information about beer and whiskey licenses. The return explains that home brewing is allowed by license, but the possession of utensils for that purpose must be reported to the Department of Customs annually for taxation or seizure. This year 1,945 persons who had such utensils up to Feb. 20.

Last year, the biggest number of notices, 2,743, was sent from Toronto. The next biggest was from Hamilton, with 1,000, London sent 357 and Ottawa only 71.

In 1922 and 1923 six distilleries and 21 commercial breweries were operating in the province. In 1924 the number of breweries increased to 23 and distilleries remained at six, those were renewals of licenses issued before the Ontario Temperance Act was enacted.

Amendment is Due From Conservatives

Expressing Non-Confidence in Government and Advocating Higher Tariff

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, March 26.—Conservative amendment to the Budget will be moved, it is understood, when Hon. Henry Drayton resumes the Budget debate in the House of Commons this afternoon. The amendment, it is expected, will express non-confidence in the government, will challenge the existence of a surplus on April 30th, declared by Hon. J. A. Robb in his budget speech and will put forward a statement advocating higher and more protective tariff.

REDISTRIBUTION UP

Cities Are to Gain; Drafting Church Union Bill

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, March 26.—Caucus of Government supporters this morning discussed redistribution, lights on all vehicles, sessional indemnities and natural gas bill.

The indemnity question occupied only a few minutes and there is no opposition to an increase in pay. The principles of redistribution were laid down by the premier. County boundaries will be maintained as far as possible. New seats will be in large cities, and northern Ontario is also likely to get much increase in its representation. Another principle of the skeleton bill, which Premier hopes to introduce in the house within the next few days is that rural unit of representation will be considerably smaller than the urban unit.

All Argument Heard

A sub committee of the private bills committee of the Legislature considering a church union legislation conducted a session this morning. Deputations from both sides of the question were heard. The committee has now heard all argument it intends to hear and will devote its time now to drafting a bill to be submitted to the House of Assembly.

Sub committee of nine meets again tomorrow morning to consider draft bill.

Great Reception Given Napanee Boys

Whole Town Turns Out to Welcome New Comers

Napanee, Ont., March 26.—Not every newcomer who arrives in Canada is accorded the distinction of a civic reception and the welcome of the leading lads who stepped off the International Limited here Tuesday, will present a memory by which to mark the final step in the journey from their new homes. The boys all British born of course, were met by the train brought to the Dominion through the instrumentality of the British Immigration and Colonization Association of Canada, organized at Halifax and Toronto Autonia and then proceeding to their destination over the lines of the Canadian National Railways, with a brief official welcome.

The spirit of the occasion was so thoroughly infectious that everybody that the taxi owners of Napanee generally, in their usual manner, transported the boys and their conductors from the station to their homes. The farmers who had made application to the Britain Immigration and Colonization Association of Canada were all on hand and with them came a number of friends who were so impressed with the fine, outstanding appearance and manly bearing of the boys, that Mr. M. J. O'Brien, the Dominion representative who had accompanied the group to Napanee, was fairly overwhelmed with applications from those who wanted to get similar boys, and the successful farmers were all eager to get them for sale. From the mayor to the clergymen everybody had a word of welcome for the boys, but for downright enthusiasm there was nothing to compare with the speed and alacrity with which the lads grasped their opportunity and put them into the town's leading business houses to learn the ropes and make genuine supplies of ice cream.

Boys Are Contented

After various legal formalities had been completed, the boys were given each one of each boy with his new employer and there was no doubt at all but that they were all pleased with the way things were going.

It is the aim of the British Immigration and Colonization Association of Canada to place these boys in all parts of the Dominion, the figure for this season being set at 1,000. Some have already reached the country and the experiences of the first group will be a most satisfactory nature. The boys brought out are carefully selected young men who come from families who are willing to send their sons to the care of the association, no institutional boys being taken.

When a farmer makes application for the services of a boy he signs a legal application from his clergyman and from his bank and receives a letter of introduction from the association that he will provide for the boy a comfortable home and give him a proper

FELT CASE RAISES A NUNUSUAL POINT

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, March 26.—In a creditor who buys goods from a company which is in bankruptcy court entitled to set off debt to him against debt which he is chased. Judgment on his point was reserved following Saturday before Mr. Justice Fisher today.

The case is that of the trustee of Cobourg Felt Co., raised the question. A creditor named Weaver to whom the Company owed $2000 but bought goods worth $534.67 after the company had become bounded with its creditors at 60 cents on the dollar. The judge agreed that plaintiff set off would be to give Weaver preference over other creditors. H. J. Smith, K.C., for the creditor contended that goods were intended to apply on the debt of the company. That the dividends he had already received would be less than 60 cents on the dollar.

TRYING TO DODGE THE DEFICIT

The King government has got the country's finances into such a mess that it is trying to dodge the deficit by bringing down the Budget before the end of the fiscal year. The reason is obvious. Declining to admit what the actual deficit is hoped through estimates of expenditure and revenue to conceal the facts of the situation.

He wonders that the government claims to disclose the actual figures. The February statement issued by the Department of Finance shows that during the eleven months ending February 28th there was a decrease of $54,870,097 in the revenue, as compared with that for the corresponding months last year. The decrease in February alone, which was a short month, was actually $4,760,681.

At this rate the total decrease in revenue for the whole of the fiscal year will run about $60,000,000. No wonder the government does not want to admit this. No wonder it is trying its best to get the budget down before the close of the fiscal year at March 31st.

A decrease of $60,000,000 in revenue would not be a misfortune, if there were a corresponding decrease in expenditure. But there has not been. Indeed, the total expenditure during the first eleven months was $1,858,127 higher than during the corresponding months of last year. While there has been a slight decrease in ordinary expenditure, this has been more than offset by an increase on capital account.

The result is that a yawning deficit confronts the country. No wonder that the King Government does not want to face the music. Hence all the haste to get some kind of a statement out before the fiscal year closes.

It is a long time since there has been such desperate manoeuvring to hide the realities of the financial situation. Take the estimates—it has been the practice to include the vote for the Canadian National Railways in the main estimates. But this year in order to leave the impression that expenditure was being cut, the railway vote was left out of the first lot of estimates given the press. Then followed the railway estimates of $60,000,000.

The government also has given the public the impression that all the railways got last year was $56,000,000, but a few days ago came a supplementary estimate for them to the extent of $7,5000,000. This shows that instead of railways spending $56,000,000 last year, as had been supposed, they actually spent $63,500,000. The purpose of handing out this information piecemeal undoubtedly was to let the public down easy.

Confronted by a reduced revenue of $60,000,000 and with not reduction in expenditure one would naturally think that in its provision for the coming fiscal year the government would ignore down expenditure with a vengeance. But it has not done so. It is now known that by the aims of the expenditure authorised is provided for, it will probably exceed $425,000,000 for the coming year.

In the United States the government had reduced expenditure with a ruthless hand. During the last five years the national debt has been cut by the extent of nearly five billions of dollars. But with us the National debt is higher than it was when the King Government entered office.

Worse still, there is no relief in sight. As expenditure goes up, so taxation must go up. Either that or resort must be made to borrowing. How long can the country stand such a policy?—North Bay Nugget.

THE GASOLINE TAX AND ROAD MAINTENANCE

Quebec and Ontario both propose to levy a tax of three cents a gallon on gasoline. Quebec already has a two-cent tax, while similar levies are made in the west.

The gasoline tax is a new way of meeting an old problem—that of providing for road charges, says the Monetary Times. Road finance has had an interesting history. At first roads were private or semi-private undertakings and were made self-supporting and even profitable through toll charges. Toll roads were common in the early history of the British and American colonies. The feeling of the time was that life was essentially local; commerce and communication were exceptional.

Then came the view that this commerce was the very life-blood of progress. Road-owners hold the key; they could throttle communication by excessive charges, while at the same time the roads themselves were bare by passable. Roads became public undertakings, municipal and provincial. They were free to the user, because every one used them, and the cost was met by a property levy.

The system lasted until the advent of the motor car, a comparatively recent innovation. The motor car is not as common as was the horse-drawn vehicle twenty years ago. It is used for commercial purposes by only a small section of the community. But every dollar its use is not limited to the immediate neighborhood of the owner. It would be obviously unfair to charge property owners along the way, for the cost of a motor road constructed for the use of motors, while vehicles from a distance used it.

The provisions have charged licenses fees for the use of motor cars. These license fees have been applied towards the capital charges and the maintenance of the roads. The system has two objections. In the first place, visitors from outside a province pay nothing towards the cost, and secondly, the tax is the same, irrespective of the use made of the car.

The gasoline tax aims to remedy both these evils. It falls in proportion to the use made of the roads, and necessarily applies as well to those who travel through a province from outside. It is fair that motor roads should be provided at the expense of motorists, and the exact tax required per gallon can be ascertained by experience.

CHIEF CAUSE OF CRIME

Mr. Justice Kelly made a very significant remark in his address to the grand jury at Hamilton, alluding to the character of many of the criminal charges to be tried at the assizes the judge said that fully 66 per cent. of the criminal cases brought before him for trial during his judicial career had been sexual in character.

This statement will not surprise students of psychology who believe in the Freudian theory ,that almost all human motives and actions have their origin in the sex instinct or are influenced by it.

This is probably an extreme view; but it is undeniable that sexual impulse is one of the most potent factors in the shaping of human character and conduct. And like all other powerful influences, it is powerful both for good and for evil. How it can be so controlled and directed as to produce the maximum of good and the minimum of evil is one of the most important problems than can engage the attention of moralists and scientists, teachers and preachers, parents and scientists.

The most reliable safeguards against abuses and perversions of the sex instinct are those which are provided in early life—pure and whole some home influences, intelligent home training, parental vigilance and counsel as the child approaches, adolescence. And parental example counts for even more than parental precept. How can young people be expected to keep their minds and their lives clean when they know that one or other of their parents is unclean in mind and conduct?

JOHN BULL NOT BROKE

Kansas City Star:

The British Board of Trade issued an estimate the other day of that part of their national income which is derived abroad. The earnings for British invest ments in foreign countries are put down at slightly more than one billion dollars for the year 1913. Last year they were slightly under one billion dollars. If the average interest rate was 5 per cent. the amount must have mounted to near by eighteen billion dollars. The busted Britisher seems to have saved a bit from the wreck. You have to hand it to John Bull. He has a way of looking out for himself.

DOOM OF PROTOCOL

Boston Transcript:

The dominions though swell on the League, have yet to grant the principle of a free people possessing in general the inherent right of self-determination. For Australia in the Pacific or Canada, whose shores are washed by the Atlantic, to hold anything else in view, would be political and social surrender. We have thus the spectacle of the United States and the dominions aligned on a policy which must protect their respective interests and historians will marvel that the draftsmen of the peace protocol ever conceived that anything else would be the case. The peace protocol was an attempt at interference with the fundamental rights of young peoples and for this reason was born moribund.

Uneven Bricks

It is essential that a road should have a smooth surface.

A brick sticking up or a brick sticking down is equally faulty.

Bricks that sink below the surface are called "hang 'ee marm". Bricks that stick up are called "scarer backer—don't'em.

Those whose individuality is pronounced are the bricks that stick up. They cause a good deal of trouble in the world, sometimes unnecessary and sometimes helpful.

On the contrary, there are people who seem to have no individuality. They are mere depressions. It is as annoying to meet these people as to meet those who are prone to protuberance.

It was said of McKinley that he was agreeable to everybody and his main capacity was for getting along smoothly with all classes.

On the contrary, President Wilson was a brick that stuck out. He had too much individuality.

A girl is popular when she presents a uniform surface. She must not know more than a man, nor be richer than her husband, nor smarter than those around her. If she is, she arouses the inferiority complex. She may be envied, but she will not be liked.

In one of the recent musical comedies a business woman wanted to succeed in society. She wondered why she was not more popular among the men. She had taught this man to play golf and that man to play chess, and helped people generally. Her grandmother told her that she must not have any ideas of knowing more than a man. If she confined her remarks to three—"Yes", "No," and "Aren't You Wonderful?"—she would get along much better. In fact she would have them eating out of her hand before a week was over.

She adopted her grandmother's advice and the results were satisfactory. Every man thought she was a remarkable girl because she could say "Yes" or "Aren't you wonderful?"

It behooves most of us to conform in most things. A man wears a suit of clothes like other men, not because he has no personality, but because he does not want to quarrel over the question. It is not worth while.

He saves his energy to concentrate upon more important subjects than clothes. Hence he is well-dressed in the sense of being dressed like everybody else.

Of course there are times when a man must express his own opinions and stand by his principles, but one should not be too pronounced unless he has made sure that the issue is worth while.

Most things are not worth quarrelling about. It is better to let them go than to raise an issue.

Today's Smile

"So, you don't like my whiskey any more?"

"No, he has absolutely ceased to interest me."

"I wonder how he's taking it?"

"He's not sure I'm dying to know."

FAIR DEAL FOR MAN AND MASTER

(Toronto Globe)

No one can have any serious fear that this country is being forging ahead for industrial supremacy, provided that the workers in that field are given an ever to their advantage to achieve and hold this position. Undoubtly, the conception appears to find no place in their method. They are in favor, for the settlements of the trade union leaders. Here and there on the trade possible occasions some reasonable Labor figures will make an appeal that the employer should act as fair a deal from the employer as the latter expects and exacts for himself. Every where in the past year, the period that trade has shown the gradual recovery it is in evidence, and with demands that tend to strife it almost before it is born.

BLACKHEADS

Blackheads go quickly byra simple method that just dissolves them. Get two ounces of peroxide powder from your druggist, rub this with a hot, wet cloth briskly over the blackheads and you will wonder where they have gone.

Thirty Years Ago

First 3/4 warm and nice this June,
Then it's dreadful cool;
Spring has started rather soon
Playin' April fool.

Two dog fights on the market this morning caused a small panic among the lady buyers.

The Globe in its issue of today gave illustrations of the late snow blockade on the C. O. R. A bank at Hillier Gully was seventeen feet high.

A farmer, whose team ran away this morning coming down Murney's Hill succeeded in pulling up the frightened animals on the bridge. It was a good piece of driving and the farmer, who sat with him in the sleigh and didn't appear to be frightened, was also deserving of credit.

HASTINGS CONSIDERS A LARGER SCHOOL

Hastings, March 26.—The Public School Board met with three new members, appears to have definitely decided to proceed for the improvement of the school accommodation in Hastings, a matter that has been before the public for years. The present prospect is that a by-law may be passed and will be put up as soon as the building season opens, and the structure will be completed in time for the opening of the fall term. One of the proposed new rooms is to be covered by the continuation classes.

Class Rooms Crowded

There are at present over 190 pupils attending the Hastings Public school and these are looked after by T. W. Chaplain, principal, and Miss Maud Spiers, his assistant. There is an average attendance of about 94 in the junior department. The number of teachers is inadequate according to regulations, the building is antiquated, and has been officially condemned. Hastings has arrived at the point where something must be done if legislative grants are to be continued.

No Hope of Consolidation

About a year ago a definite movement was made in the interests of a consolidated school. An appeal from the Department came from Toronto and explained to the trustees the details of the system. The proposition was to take in four or five of the adjoining rural sections and consolidate them with the Hastings school. The Department officials visited the country districts, but when it came to the issue, the questions of expense and transportation appearing to be the stumbling blocks.

Want Final Answer

Secretary Doughty of the School Board has been instructed for a written expression of their attitude on the question of consolidation, so that Hastings trustees may have something definite upon which to work. There is little hope that any of these answers will be favorable to consolidation so that it will then be up to Hastings to go it alone.

KINGSTON MAYOR LIKES PROGRESS

Mayor Thomas B. Anglove, of Kingston, is pleased over the passing of the civic budget on Monday night, and feels satisfied that the city is making splendid progress in these most trying days.

The Mayor has secured some interesting data based on the 1924 roll from the tax rolls of 1924, which shows that out of twenty-four cities in Ontario, Kingston is the twentieth lowest in land valuation, the twentieth lowest in building valuation, and the seventeenth lowest in the total assessment, which includes land, buildings, business and income assessment. There are eleven cities that have a tax rate of 35 mills and lower, and thirteen cities which have rates from 30 1-2 mills to 66 mills.

Bench Determined To Combat Crime

Gives Sentence of 25 Years To Two Hold-up Men

Montreal, March 26.—Convicted of charges of theft with violence, Jim Lung, Chinaman, and Charles Flemming, negro, were sentenced to twenty-five years in the penitentiary by Judge Mount, yesterday.

The offence occurred on February 18, when Chin Lee, an employee in a club on Lagauchiere street was assaulted, beaten over the arm with an iron bar and robbed of $553 which he was carrying home from his office.

The Chinese defendant entered the witness box yesterday morning and testified in his own defence. He had gone to the club in question on the night of February 18 and had "sat in" at a gambling game. Cleaned out of all his money amounting to $40 he declared that he asked the proprietor of the place to return him something as he was penniless. He was met with threats, he told the court, and ordered from the place. He then decided to get back some of the money which he claimed had been taken from him in a "crooked" game and subsequently attacked the man in charge of the tables in the place.

In sentencing the pair to 25 years in the penitentiary, Judge Mount pointed out the gravity and frequency of cases of theft with violence.

A judge who allowed himself to be influenced by pleas of clemency in such a case would be acting in a true interpretation of his duties, he declared.

The crime was premeditated. The defendants had taken the precaution to blacken his face with shoe polish, thereby attempting to disguise himself as a negro showing that the affair was carefully planned.

SIR ADAM BECK NOT LEAVING YET

Baltimore, Md., March 26.—Sir Adam Beck to-night denied the report that he is planning to leave John Hopkins Hospital, where he has been a patient for several weeks, for London, to take part in the public ownership conference. He said that he intended to remain at the hospital for several weeks yet.

"My physician, T. B. Purdue, has not yet told me when it will be possible for me to leave Johns Hopkins, he said. "I have no definite plans. Although no definite date has been set for leaving, I know that I shall remain for some time. All my physician tells me is that I am getting along very well and resting comfortably. I feel much improved."

Dr. Pachker added that he did not think Sir Adam should risk leaving the hospital at this time.

SNAPPING PADLOCK ON OLD BREWERY

New York, March 26.—Up in the folds of the storied Catskills, where the spoons of the mousaing gave Rip Van Winkle the flagons of beer that put him to sleep for twenty years, a padlock will be snapped on a brewery that ran twenty-one years before the Mayflower turning out beer for the Hill Billy Dutch of the New York backwoods since 1609.

Kuhlman Brewery at Elleraville is to be closed for two months, a victim of the campaign of Emory Buckner, new York's Federal Prosecutor. It will be the third brewery Buckner has closed in a week.

Mrs. Huntington Wilson, wife of a former assistant secretary of state, on landing at Cherbourg, France, from the Olympic, informed the police that she had lost the victim of robbery aboard the ship. A chinchilla coat valued at $30,000 is missing, she said, together with a diamond studded handbag, worth $850.

It was under the auspices of the Masonic fraternity of which deceased was a member and a number of the brethren attended. Rev. Dr. A. Brown, of Holloway Street Methodist Church officiated. At Belleville cemetery interment was made from H. J. Hall, J. Newton, R. McCrindle and E. J. Dotrcott, of Toronto took part in the burial services of the society. A number of beautiful floral tributes were sent expressions of sympathy. Bearers were members of the craft, officiating: H. J. Hall, W. J. Carter, J. W. Barlow, C. Walters, E. J. Vos and E. J. Dorricott; the latter two from Alpha Lodge, Toronto.

LEONARD R. BRANT

Yesterday afternoon the body of the late Leonard R. Brant was consigned to the tomb at Mohawk cemetery. At the family residence, Murney street, Rev. C. B. Clarke, rector of Christ Church conducted a brief service, after which the body was taken to Mohawk Church near Deseronto where Rev. Mr. Creegan conducted the burial services of the Anglican Church. Deceased was a student of the Belleville High School, and a number of fellow students attended the funeral. The floral tributes were many and beautiful. Bearers were, G. Brown, F. Hill, W. Codling, A. Hudson, C. Hilton and A. Lanoux.

NOTICE!

The School Attendance Act provides that unless lawfully excused a boy child over five and under eight years of age who has been enrolled as a pupil and every child between eight and fourteen and fourteen and sixteen years of age must attend school for the full terms during which the school is kept open in the section in which the child or adolescent resides. Violation of the provisions of this act for which parent or guardian is subject to the provisions therein set forth.

Absence from school or irregular attendance not only causes serious loss to the child concerned but also retards the progress of the other pupils. Will parents and guardians kindly take warning and see that their child or children are kept more regular at school.

MARCH

On February 28 nineteen hundred-twenty-five
The lamb and lion of adage old
In consultation met, I'm told
To discuss the weather—mild or cold.
Said the lion to the lamb, "Now what shall it be
Will you usher in March as it ought to be
Will you give them warm winds and sunshiny days
That freckle their noses with their hot sunny rays?"
Will you say, "Go say," said the lamb meek and mild,
"But when will you enter with weather so wild"
Oh not till the people, so easy to fool
Have decided the weather will no longer be cool.
"Not 'till they've put aside their fur coats,
Have left off their goloshes, and sailed in their boats,
Have doomed their spring hats and slippers so fine,
Then, I'll blow in, when the sun ceases to shine."
Oh! how they'll shiver, when they feel my cold blast,
They will scold and wish they had not been so fast
To don their thin robes and they'll say "I don't see Why the weather should so change, as he."
Now 'twas only by chance that I'm able to tell
Of these plans, so guard 'gainst it well

Lest you be deceived by these days of warm and fine
And fulfill the wise prophecies of old lion.

CHICAGO MARKETS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, March 26.—Material break-upturns in prices of wheat resulted early today from continued unfavorable advices regarding crop conditions southwest and west. No rain was reported for in any section, where drought has been complaining of. High winds and dust storms over parts of Kansas and Nebraska tended further increase anxiety, during which time, fired from unchanged figures to one cent higher were followed by succeeding setback but then by close which carried May at $1.09 to $1.09½ July to $1.04. Corn and oats as well as wheat had an upward trend owing to extremely dry weather southwest and west. It was contended that dry areas would be thus forced some into market for feed grain. After opening unchanged to 1-16 higher corn eased down a little but soon advanced to $1.13 1-4. Oats started advanced to $1.13 1-4. Oats started at 1-8c to 3c up. May of 53 and later continued to ascend. In line with grain provisions market was firmer.

Belleville MAUSOLEUM

The Ideal Plan of Entombment From Every Coneivable Standpoint

When you contrast earth burial with entombment in a beautiful, permanent building of this character, the advantages of Mausoleum burial are at once apparent.

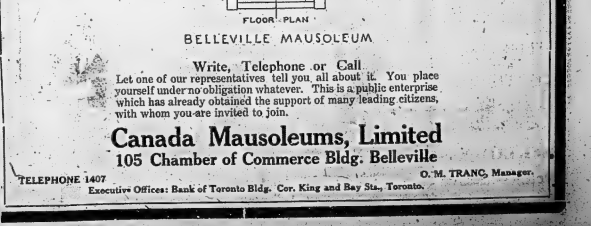

Consider, for a moment, the floor plan of the building, as illustrated by the diagram printed below.

In the centre of the building, directly within its massive bronze doors, is the chapel, where, sheltered from the elements, no matter what the season of the year, the last services are held in comfort prior to the remains of the departed being placed in their last resting place.

To the right and left of the chapel are the long corridors, lighted by tall windows at each end. The walls of these corridors consist of the marble tablets which face each compartment for the inscription and marble ledges on which the floral tributes are placed.

Everything is beautiful, permanent, and kept forever in good condition by the cemetery authorities under a special perpetual care agreement. No ugly, weed-grown, neglected plots with tottering, weather-stained monuments. No bewildering and depressing mazes of monumental stones. Here, in this building, as in the hallowed precincts of a cathedral, the survivors may come and visit the tomb of their loved ones at all seasons of the year.

And yet, with all its advantages, entombment in the Belleville Mausoleum need not be nearly so costly as earth burial frequently is.

CANADA CEMENT AND C.N.R. INDOOR WINNERS; LOCAL BOWLERS BEAT KINGSTON

Indoor Game is Taking With Fans

Two Good Games Played Last Night; Managers Meet To-night

With the introduction of new soft ball players of experience and ability, and the enthusiastic return of local artists of the indoor version of the "dizzies" to the game, there promises to be "fireworks" in the league which is now under full swing at the armouries two nights each week. Fandom too is well represented at the games which produce battle grounds.

Friday evening two more games are slated, when the Printers meet the Class team in the first encounter at 8 p.m. and the Atomite team faces the Belleville Juniors in the second battle.

In order to make necessary alterations in the indoor baseball schedule, a meeting of the executive and the team managers has been called for this evening at 7.30 o'clock at the Belvidere Hotel.

It is urgent that every officer and team manager be present. The reason for the meeting is to re-arrange the schedule in order, to oblige the last team which is barred after the schedule was drawn. The Genesee boys are also desirous to be drawn in the first game next Friday they play.

Last night saw two good games in the Armouries in which the Canada Cement Company and the C. N. R. were the winners. The Point Anne men captured their second game when they defeated the newly organized Printers by a two to one game and those who saw it are convinced that the Printers will be a hard team to beat before the schedule has been completed.

Though Sonny Green, the fast twirler for the Canada Cement, did not show up Reid took his place in good style and held the Printers guessing for four innings. The Printers trotted out a dark horse, F. E. O'Donahue, advertising manager of the Intelligencer, who shut out the Point Anne crew during the last four innings. Had he been used earlier in the game, the result might have been different.

There was more slugging in the second game between the C. N. R. and the Boosters, Class with Weir and Company having the edge. The score was 11-6. The Boosters had at least as many actual chances to even things up, but fell down in the pinches. There was some good infield work displayed by both teams and given a few more breaks the Boosters may do better next time. Walt Gerow and Ken Collins called them and got away without a scratch.

Belleville Men Trimmed Kingston

Score Was 2845 to 2682; Flat Foots in C.N.R.

The Belleville bowlers came back from Kingston last night with a scalp tucked under their belts and the regret of the return game between the Belleville bowlers and Kingston which took place at the Frontenac Bowling Alleys last night before a record crowd of spectators which crowded all the available standing room, the total score being Belleville 2845 and Kingston 2682.

Although the locals didn't run away with the game or smash any records they rolled a fairly good score considering that they were on strange alleys and using different bowls from what are used here and also the rubber bands being different on their pins. Belleville got most of the breaks all the way through the game and no doubt if Kingston bowlers had a few more breaks the scores might have been reversed as one bowler in particular, (Spencer), picked the head pin about seven times in the last game, and even at that they lost the last game by 68 pins. Belleville started off like a house afire, Dorsey making five straight strikes to start out with making the boys sit up and take notice. The locals in this game rolled, 1013 against 847. In the second and third games the locals weakened somewhat but the lead of the first game was enough to carry them through to a win. So much about the game. While the boys were having supper it was suggested by one member of the party that the best way was to provide the eats on the way home (said provide this had reminding of the with the wine) After the first game it was found one bowler was so far down on the list of the others that the remaining thought there was nothing to it any more as far the eats were concerned, for in the second and third game the scores were reversed somewhat and when the smoke of battle had cleared off all the score added up it was found that Arthur Donahoe was to provide for the eats and he sure paid for it. All in all a good time was had by all and let it be said here that Kingston has two of the best bowling alleys that will be found anywhere as far as accommodations are concerned, with a rest room both for ladies and gents, and all neatly kept. The Flat Foots were the winners in the C.N.R. Night Hawk League in the Recreation Alleys yesterday morning. The losers being the Bell Tel. In the second game the Flat Foots rolled up 1015 making the game very close here. High bowlers were Henderson 518 and Cooke 476.

In the ladies' C.N.R. afternoon league the Wolves of the North won from Hope by 324 pins. This is the second loss for Hope, and in the first game was top once more, Mrs. Pringle and Mrs. Varley were high bowlers for their respective teams.

The Durants lost to the Marsh Engineering Works three points in the other league and kind of complicates the league once more putting the Express Dept. on top they having two more games now to play and the Durants and Wolves of the North tie for second place. This also gives the Marsh Tread a good chance, but whether they are in the league or not that's known. Hollowell bowlers were Dunnott 530 and Rutford 554.

The M.P. Shops went through the C.N.R. league without a loss. Last night they played the Supts Office No. 1 and won out by an even 600 pins, winning eleven straight games. Harry was right in form last night when he split the wood for a total of 722. For the Office team Oy Young was high bowler. Players and scores:

VARSITY LOST OUT AT LAST MINUTE

Defeated Aura Lee at Toronto Last Night 5-2

Toronto, March 26.—Regina Patricias defeated Aura Lee 5-2 last night, making it two straight wins in the series for the junior championship of Canada, and will meet West the O.H.A. Memorial Trophy after a one-year's stay in the East. While there was some doubt as to the best team after the first game on Monday, the Pats proved their superiority in no uncertain manner last night, and deserve the bonous won. The speed of the Abbot line, and the ability of each to take advantage of opportunities, early won them through in their third try for the junior title. It was a hectic game from start to finish, and the closing and exciting of the long season. Just after Pats had tied the score on Aura Lee in less than thirty seconds after the start of the second period, "Shiney" McClemont and Dorsey got into a fight, over what neither knows, and be it was expelled from the game by both teams, including the subs and Ingram, who was serving the penalty, was on the ice standing toe to toe exchanging punches. The police finally got into the affair, and when it was all over "Shiney" McClemont and Dorsey were in the penalty box having a good laugh and apologizing to each other. And when Regina took the lead near the close of the period on a score by Campbell, who swiped in the rebound off Morrison's long shot from the side, the goal was disputed and the umpire changed. The Arena was packed, one of the largest crowds of the season attending, and the spectators were on their feet cheering from the time the puck was faced at the start of the game until the finish.

PETES MAY LOSE FAST WING PLAYER

Irvin Bailey who played right wing for Peterboro last year was in touch with Eddie Gerard of Montreal yesterday, and it is understood the former Toronto boy accepted terms to play for the Montreal next season.

Colds

In the chest—
Apply Red Pepper at once

Not a plaster, not mustard. Not any old-time method. The modern way is Red Pepper Rub.

Nothing else applies such concentrated, such penetrating heat. And that doesn't hurt. The old ways can't compare.

Rub it on the chest where congestion exists. A cold is congestion, you know. At once you feel the tingling, penetrating heat. Circulation starts, congestion is relieved. And soon you will feel the cold leave.

This is just the age-old method of dealing with a cold, perfected by modern science. Red pepper, applied in this way, does what old ways could not do. Use it once and you will use it always. The difference will quickly show.

But have it ready—get it now. Every hour saved at the start of a cold may save many hours of trouble. Be ready to loosen it at once.

WOMAN WILL SUE TORONTO DENTIST

Toronto, March 26.—A novel point of law is developed in a claim filed by Frank Regan Jarrister, on behalf of Mrs. Ethel McCann against Dr. E. W. Paul in the County Court Wednesday afternoon. Plaintiff claims damages for breach of contract, holding that the defendant, while operating on one of her teeth, failed to take out the entire tooth, and that as a result infection set in, occasioning her great suffering and considerable loss and damage.

This is one of the first cases on record in Canada where damages are claimed for breach of contract of this character most of the others on file having alleged malpractice.

JITNEY PASSENGER HURLED OUT WINDOW

Hamilton, March 26.—Hurled through the side curtains of a jitney motor-car, Bert Gapes, Lamoreaux street, landed on the curb when the car in which he was a passenger collided with a car driven by John Wilson, 19 Ferguson avenue south, at the corner of Gore and John streets yesterday.

The jitney, owned by Nick Carvazzie, 720 King street east, was travelling at a fast rate of speed, according to the story Mr. Wilson told the police.

The jitney passenger was badly shaken up and painfully bruised, while the jitney car was damaged and the passengers in such an unceremonious manner, veered to the side of the road and crashed into a Hydro pole. Both cars were badly damaged.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

He put out a trembling hand, and grasped her arm.

"Stop! wait, don't call!" he said in her ear. "I'm not lying. It is for your own sake that I dont tell him what I have to tell it his face; for your sake and to prevent the scandal that my failure you as well as him. I love you too much for that."

Elaine laughed a laugh that cut him like a stroke from a whip. Indeed, she wished to cut him now; she wished to vanish him.

"Love! love!" she repeated contemptuously. "You must think me as mad as yourself, Captain Sherwin. Such a word from you is an insult. Are you incapable of understanding it; you blaspheme the sacredness of the word? You keep such language for those who may value them from your lips."

"I understand—I know what you mean," he broke in vehemently. "You —you are thinking of—of Fanny Inchley."

Elaine repeated the name mechanically in her agitation; she had almost forgotten it.

"You think because—because I have amused myself with her that I care for her! Care for Fanny Inchley!" he laughed contemptuously. "She is nothing to me; she is no more than—than the leaf on the stream there."

Elaine made a gesture of impatience and indifference.

"I tell you the truth," he went on eagerly. Hurriedly. Pleads have been telling lies of me and her, I daresay. I implore you not to believe them; there is not a grain of truth in them! It—it I have shown any attention to Fanny Inchley—"

Elaine broke in, with a stamp of her foot.

"Captain Sherwin, your friendship or flirtation with Miss Inchley has no interest for me. Let me pass—"

"But I must tell you, I will," he persisted. "I say if I ever paid her any attention it was only that I might hear news of you, that I might see some one who was near you. As to anything further between us"—he lauched huskily—"I should be mad indeed to think seriously of the niece of the Marquis of Nairne's housekeeper!"

"Let me pass—let me pass!" said Elaine. "Captain Sherwin, I have listened to you. Be satisfied. Nothing you can say against Lord Nairne can have the least weight with me, and it is useless to keep me here—"

"I know that nothing I can say against him will move you," he retorted plucking at his lips and scoring his face from under his half-closed eyes, "but I can prove something—"

"I will not listen—I care nothing for anything you can say or prove," she broke in. "Captain Sherwin, I advise you for your own sake to allow me to return to the Castle. Lord Nairne has been before protected me from your impertinence—"

His face went livid.

"Curse him!" he exclaimed. "You are mad on that! But I've had enough insulted to let you go! Yes! Go! I won't detain you any longer. Go and carry his insults to him; harts my revenge on him at least!"

He stood back and leaned sullenly against the rail, with folded arms and agitated face.

CHAPTER XX.

Elaine moved forward, but as she got a step-beyond him she paused. She would not insult him by any show the slightest step of fear before this man; but where was her brother? She had found dislike and contempt. But her misunderstanding had passed, and caused at it.

"That young you, does it?" he said, insultively. "You don't wish to see him, I'm told."

Elaine flashed round upon him, and drew to her full height, pointed to the sky.

"Those stars might fall, and you—I would not believe you—before I believe Lord Nairne!" she said with bitter scorn. "He bit his lip and stared at her.

"Are you sure of that?" he retored. "You and marry him, and you will learn whether I can or cannot."

Then his mood and manner changed suddenly, and he stretched out his hand toward her.

Baree, Son of Kazan

by

James Oliver Curwood

(A Vitagraph Picture with Wolf, the War Dog, in an adaptation of this story.)

On this day there came up from the south McDonald, the government magistrate. He was gray and grizzled, and a great, free laugh and a clean heart. Two days he remained with Pierrot. He told Nepesse of his daughter at home, of their mother, whom he worship and more than all things else on earth, and before he went on in quest of the last timberline of Berkinton he took pictures of Willow as he had just seen her on her birthday: her hair piled in glossy coils and masses, her red d'roe, the high-heeled shoes. He carried the negatives on with him, promising Pierrot that he would get a picture back in some way. That he was in no strange and apparently innocent way as it came in the end.

SYNOPSIS

Nepesse, daughter of Pierrot, the trapper, look Baree, the wolf-dog, into the woods and the two grow to manhood there. Baree was still untamed, but the girl was determined to make a man of him. Nepesse was quarter-Indian, with French blood also in her veins. In a few days she would be seventeen years old and her father had brought her no gifts. Pierrot had alone and hesitated for a new dress. McDonald, the government map-maker, arriving, took photographs of the girl in her birthday finery.

CHAPTER XVI—Continued

It was late in August when Reese saw the first of the big silver-tipped Kazan and Gray Wolf. During the summer Pierrot allowed his dogs to run at large in the forest in the center of a lake two or three miles away, and twice a week he netted fish for them. On one of these trips Nepesse accompanied him and took Baree with her. Pierrot carried his long caribou-gut whip. He expected a fight. But there was none. Baree joined the pack in their pash for fish, and ate with them. This pleased Pierrot more than ever.

"He will make a good sledge-dog", he chuckled. "It is best to leave him for a week with the pack, ma Nepesse."

Reluctantly Nepesse gave her consent. While the dogs were still at their fish, they started homeward. Pierrot's canoe had stolen well out before Baree discovered the trick they had played on him. Instantly he leaped into the water and swam after them—and the Wilder helped him into the canoe.

Early in September a passing Indian brought Pierrot word from Bush Mc-Taggart. The Factor had been very sick. He had almost died from the blood-poisons but he was well now. With the first exhilarating tang of autumn in the air he was off with his canoe for Pierrot. But at present he said nothing of what was in his mind to Nepesse. The Willow had always regarded the Factor from Last Bain, for they were a thrill of wilderness summer, was in her blood. She went on little trips with Pierrot, helping him to raise out the new trap lines that would be used when the big snows came, and on these journeys she was always accompanied by Baree.

"By midwinter I will have him the finest dog in the pack, ma pere!" —

This was the hope for Pierrot to say what was in his mind. He smiled.

"I am going to send you down to the school at Nelson House again this winter, ma cherie," he said. "Baree will help draw you down on the first good snow."

The Willow was tying a knot in Baree's leather leash. She looked at her feet, and looked at Pierrot. Her eyes were big and dark and steady.

"I am not going, mon pere!"

With a shrug of his shoulders Pierrot watched her.

After all, was he not afraid? Would his daughter have turned sick if she had been happy at the thought of leaving him?

"Saints be blessed!" he murmured. Then—aloud—"Pardieu! Dis Queuse who knows what to do?"

CHAPTER XVII

Back to Last Bain, late in September, came MacDonald the map-maker. For Bush McTaggart, chief investigating agent, had been Bush McTaggart's guest at the post, and twice in that time it had been necessary to take to the open upon him while he stretched full him. The Factor, himself little stirred to her son, a fact which would have made happy if at home was Gregson. He was carpetered with the wild, sensual beauty of the Cree girl, and McTaggart, without jealousy, endured him for his own sake. He was tired of Mercy.

McTaggart told Gregson this. He wanted to get rid of her, and, if he—Gregson—would immediately take her off with him it would be a great favor. He would make it worth his while. A deep snows came, he was going to bring his daughter of Pierrot Du Queuse to the Post. In the rottenness of their bro hood he told of the love affair, the manner of his reception, and of the in ence—right at the climax. In spite of this, he assured Gregson, Pierrot's girl would soon be at Last Bain.

It was late that MacDonald came. He remained only one night, and with Gregson left behind he was added fuel to a fire already dangerously blazing. Out of curiosity he accompanied him a day's journey on his way. When he returned to the Post Pierrot was gone. He was glad. He sent off third runner made curtains for the women people, and the message. "Don't beat her. Keep her. She is free."

Along with the bustle and stir of the beginning of the trapping season McTaggart brought to Pierrot his honor for the coming of Nepesse. He knew what she was and what opportunities and the other things. He had the log well painted white with the lead and oil the were intended for his York boats. Cotton curtains, also from town down, and so were steel bolts; the Indian wife of h chief needed more cooking for the winter down, she he confiscated a small phonograph that should have gone on to La la Biche. He had an idea, and he counted the days as they passed.

Down on the Grey Loon Nepesse and Nepesse were busy at many things, a busy that at times Pierrot's fears of the Factor at Lac Bain were forgotten, so they went out of the Willow's mind entirely. It was the Red Moon, and it thrilled with the anticipation and excitement of the winter hunt. Nepesse carefully dipped a hundred traps in boiling caribou-fat mixed with spruce grease, while Pierrot made fresh deadfalls ready for setting on the trails. When the was gone more than a day from the cabin, she was always with him.

It was the Willow's voice which Baree had learned to understand, and the movement of her lips, her gesture, the point of her body, the changing moods which brought shadow or sunlight into her face. He knew what she meant when smiled; he shook himself and, after jumped about her in sympathetic rejoicing, when she laughed; her happiness was a part of him, a stern word from her was worse than a blow. Twice Pierrot had struck him, and twice Baree had sprung back and faced him with bared fangs and a angry roar. Ever after along his back standing up like a brush. Had one of the other does done this, Pierrot would have held him to account. It would have been mutiny, and the man must be mastered. But Baree was always safe. A touch of the Willow's hand, a word from her lips, and the snarl was gone and all the anat went out of his throat.

Pierrot was not at all displeased.

"Diev! I will never go so far as to try and whip that out of him," he told himself. "He is a big dog—that—a wild beast—and her slave. For her he would die!"

So it came, through Pierrot himself—and without telling reason for it—that Baree did not become a sledge-dog. The old trapper had guessed, but was never told, like the others. Nepesse was afraid that Baree was always safe. A touch of the Willow's hand, a word from her lips, and he was always settled and the snarl went out of his throat.

Pierrot was not at all displeased.

"Diev! I will never go so far as to try and whip that out of him," he told himself. "He is a big dog—that—a wild beast—and her slave. For her he would die!"

So it came, through Pierrot himself—and without telling reason for it—that Baree did not become a sledge-dog. The old trapper had guessed, but was never told, like the others. Nepesse was afraid that Baree would have thought that was in Pierrot's mind. To himself Pierrot chuckled. He would never know that Nepesse kept Baree always close to him, even to the point of lulling him to sleep with remarkable skill and cunning on his part. With himself he reasoned:

"If I make him hate me, he will hate all men. Mer-cie! That will not do."

So he looked into the future for Nepesse.

Cleopatra Painted Her Pretty Face

History of "Painted Ladies" To Be Shown at Belle To-night

Should girls and women paint? Should cosmetics be outlawed by law?

This pressing social problem is vividly and colorfully treated on the screen in "The Painted Lady," coming to the Belle theatre tonight where it will run until Saturday.

Thaddeus Bell, who in all things, change and often, like the time taken, are subject to change without notice. But they generally break out again, like epidermic, or recur in cycles.

This use of paint is apparently as old as the human race. In fact Darwin was right in supposing that the race only became human when it first began to paint according to most recent scientific research. The reverse "exhibit" is likewise true that "painted ladies" are the monkeys of men.

Girls and women who paint can however silence the male who objects to painting out them. Men painted first; it probably being several centuries before the weaker sex female was permitted to paint for adornment.

From the painted caveman to the "painted lady" of the William Fox photoplay, the line of pains and purgeres passes fascinating facts and features of history and literature.

The queens and princesses of the Nile knew powder puffs and lipstick. Cleopatra was a craftsman at putting on the paint. Ingenious souls even invented poisoned lipsticks; every convenient type wanted to let a man have "just one kiss."

The jazz-shod crowds that skittishly rocked the famed dancing gardens of ancient Babylon, making them a joyword, had their full quota of "painted ladies."

Lily sticks and vanity cases are said to have been discovered on the ancient sites of Sodom and Gomorrah.

In Biblical times, so today, feminine paint is automatically associated with sin.

The beauties of Ancient Greece, at Vail tribadisms of painted life in its smart set, the fast set of Athens, Corinth and points east, applied to paint brush. And it's interesting to note that Phryne, whose beauty sculptured art has never been equalled, painted the whole form of both their gods and goddesses.

Sappho, Semiramis, Thais' et al'l The "Painted Lady" of the Fox photoplay is different. She's wintesome. She'll lke her.

Barthelmess Plays In Merry Comedy

"New Toys" At Griffin is Story True to Life

It is doubtful if there is anything funnier than amusing mistakes, especially those have relatives or friends involved. Amateur theatricals play a large part in Richard Barthelmess' First National comedy, "New Toys," now at the Griffin theatre.

"New Toys" is built about the trial and tribulations of a married life in its first trying two or three years. The scenes with his parents, the scenes in the cafe and, when domesticity begins to pall a bit, the scenes with the bill collights. How she is cured forms the basis of a delightful comedy. The role is played by Mary May (Mrs. Barthelmess).

Amateur theatricals are features of every town and hamlet in America. Curiously few dramatic efforts are attempted to utilize them as a play-basis.

TABLE TENNIS TOURNEY PLANNED

The play for the table tennis "Y" championship will commence at the Association on Monday the 30th. Irene Castle Sues Her Former Hubby

Trial Commenced To-day at Ithica, New York

Ithaca N. Y., March 26.—The two actions brought by Mrs. Irene Castel Trevan McLaughlin against her former husband, Robert E. Treman, of Ithaca, are set down for trial in Supreme Court in this city today.

Mrs. McLaughlin is suing R. E. Treman in the first action to have a deed set aside the conveyance being to property on Cayuga Heights, formerly known as the Treman home and now occupied by the Sigma Chi fraternity at Cornell University.

The second action is listed as one for the conversion of securities, which Mrs. McLaughlin claims to have received during the time she was Mrs. Treman and living in Ithaca.

Mrs. McLaughlin allows in her papers that her former husband executed several deeds which transferred the title to property to her. She also claims that he worked on two Montreal newspapers, has been arrested in Gibraltar, Spain, and with two companions on the charge being concerned with breaking and entering a shop. Tuckington assumed the magistrate by making a defence that his action was to obtain a journalistic scoop and added that he had obtained notoriety in Montreal by the same method of getting news.

Chicago Opera Star Dons A New Robe For Old Role

MUCH as Marguerite Namara enjoys the roles that fall to her as one of the stars of the celebrated Chicago Opera Company, there is, another, and very different, role which she likes to play.

When opportunity permits, Madame Namara enjoys going into the kitchen to play the role of cook. On such occasions she wears an unusual Japanese robe, purchased during a recent trip abroad, which makes the role of cook all the more fascinating.

The favorite product of her capricious whim is a cake, known as a marshmallow cake, made according to the famous starch own recipe. This is the way she makes it:

Namara Marshmallow Cake
1¼ cups Sugar
½ cup Crisco
1 cup Milk
2 cups Flour after sifting
Whites of 3 Eggs
1 teaspoonful Baking Powder
1 teaspoonful Salt
1 teaspoonful Orange Flavor
Bake about 20 minutes in moderate oven.

Icing
Whites of 2 eggs, beaten stiff, 1 cup granulated sugar and 1 cup water until it threads from spoon, mixed with beaten whites of eggs. While still hot add 1 cup marshmallows.

Note—Our readers may obtain free a new booklet of Miss Namara's recipes, The Record Service, 353 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

The Germs

Cold in the head comes from germs in the membranes. They cause the inflammation, followed by nasal flow or discharge.

Apply Ely's Cream Balm in the nostrils and breathe it. It is antiseptic. Relief is almost instant. The head is cleared, the inflammation soothed, the discharge subdued.

That's the right way to deal with a head cold. Fight the germs where they are. Then never again let a head cold get started. Apply Ely's Cream Balm at once, or any druggist for a bottle and watch its quick effects.

CURED HIS RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting trunk and machinery. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Tremor did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work on the farm daily. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may cure yourself in like manner without operation, if you write to me. Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 472 L. Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Believe me this advice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life here or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

SULPHUR SAFE TO HEAL SKIN

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck or scalp, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or disfigurement, declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Sulphur and improvement shows next day.

Because of its germ destroying properties nothing has ever been found to take the place of the sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had an unsightly skin trouble can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even Dry, Chronic cases yield to its use.

Get a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and see it like cold cream.

Hamilton Woman in Matrimonial Trouble Again

Hamilton, March 26. — Declaring that his wife "is her business" and nothing else in front of an open window in order to catch cold, Frederick Stokoe, husband of the couple's third in police court here Wednesday morning.

He was charged with assault. Her husband declared the assault did Mr. Stokoe was brother-in-law to Sir Edward Beddall, head of the Royal Mint, England.

Stokoe declared that "all sent goes would be perfectly relief to him." "It would mean peace," he added.

Somewhat of a boatsmall was burst when the name of O. T. A. Inspector MacCready, recently transferred from this city to Woodstock, was introduced Stokoe declared he objected to his wife going to Woodstock on Monday. He had finally told her she might go providing she did not take any travelling bag and returned the same evening.

He testified that, unbeknown to himself, she borrowed a valise, in which she placed "her personal and curling irons." She had not returned until the following morning, about noon.

He objected, he testified, to her receiving sums of money from Mr. MacCready for helping him to discover stills. He believed that any moneys due his wife for such services should be paid to his wife by Government cheque.

C.P.R. SENDING OUT SEEDS TO STATIONS

Montreal, March 26.—Sure indication of the advent of spring is afforded by the arrival of the floral consignment of the Canadian Pacific Railway which is now being distributed. Thousands of packets of seeds are being distributed to all company stations along the three thousand miles of track. Between now and May a very large number of trees, shrubs and other perennials will be shipped out while at the end of May bedder plants will be sent out in hundreds of thousands.

GETTING TOO FAT? TRY THIS—REDUCE

People who don't grow too fat are the fortunate exception. But if you find the fat accumulating or stiffening somewhere, you will be wise to follow this suggestion, which is endorsed by thousands of people who know. Ask your druggist for Marmola Prescription Tablets and follow directions. One dollar is the price the world pays. Get them from your own druggist or send price direct to Marmola Co., 502 Stephenson Bldg., Detroit, Mich. By doing this you will be able to reduce steadily and easily and consequently, without starvation diet or strenuous exercise. Start taking them to-day and see results.

Work Worn People

Find Renewed Health by Improving Their Blood

If you feel run down, it means that your blood is thin and watery, that your vitality is low. Your feet are easily chilled, you do not sleep well and you are tired when you rise in the morning. You find no pleasure in your meals and are listless and dispirited at your work. You have no energy to enjoy yourself.

Thousands of men are run down by the anxieties of work. Thousands of women are broken down by their home hold girl, with tired limbs and aching backs; thousands of girls are pale listless and without attraction. It all means the same thing — thin and watery blood, vitality run-down, anaemia, poor appetite, palpitating heart, short breath.

The best antidote to this. Get new blood and with it new vitality. There is no difficulty in doing this. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, build up and enrich the blood, which brings with it new health and vitality. The man, woman or girl who takes Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is never run down. Their friends notice your vitality; they see what a fine appetite they have, and how much they enjoy life.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c a box from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

TO INVITE OLD BOYS OVER C.N.R. RADIO

Kingston, March 26.—An evidence of the way which is being done by Dr. W. W. Sands, secretary of the Old Home Week, it may be mentioned that he is now in communication with Major Graham, A. Bell, deputy minister of railways and canals, Ottawa, with a view to getting him to authorize the issuance of an invitation to all Kingston old boys and girls through the C.N.R. broadcasting station at Ottawa.

In view of the fact that the broadcasting service has been used for sending out invitations for other old home week associations, in the province, Dr. Elgin expects that the deputy minister will agree to the request.

PROGRESSIVES VISITED SMITH?

Toronto, March 25.—It is stated at the Parliament Buildings that within the last two weeks at least two members of the Progressive group in this Legislature visited Peter Smith in Kingston penitentiary. It is stated that he said to them that if his sentence, especially his liability for the former fine of $4000, was not mitigated in some way, he would have more to say about the alleged "outrage" perpetrated before his regime as Provincial Treasurer.

It is stated that it was as a result of this statement that Mr. Raney introduced his amendment to the budget referring back to the pre-1918 "mill rate."

AMENDMENT GIVEN SECOND READING 70-24

O.T.A. Changes Pass Early This Morning in Ontario House

RANEY UP AGAIN

Proposed Special Committee To Determine Beer's Potency

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, March 27.—Debated throughout afternoon and night the government's bill amending the Ontario Temperance Act and providing among other things for 4.4 per cent. beer, to double strength of the beer now being sold in the province at the present time, was given a second reading at 2 o'clock this morning by a vote of 70 to 24.

Following the defeat of an amendment proposed by Mr. Raney by similar division.

The Progressive leader's amendment provided the party's dissatisfaction at the present legislation, and urging the appointment of a special committee to inquire into and determine whether the proposed beer is an intoxicating liquor. Progressives and Liberals lined up solidly for the Raney amendment with the exception of S. Mahon, Sturgeon Falls, E. Proulx, Prescott; J. A. Bruneau, East Ottawa, and E. F. Tellier, North Essex.

On the motion for a second reading, four Conservatives voted against it, government—J. D. Bellhouse, East Northumberland; Aaron Sweet, Dufferin; J. Patterson, South Victoria; and A. H. Acres, Carleton.

Debate Gosses

The Raney amendment, moved towards midnight, was little more than the Progressive party's protest, in more tangible form than their speeches, against the passage of the legislation. It came as the culminating point in the long debate which Opposition after Hon. Mr. Nickle had signified the legislation as being the salvation of the temperance act. Mr. Liberal Leader Sinclair had criticized the measure of its weakness, but because of its weakness, he declared, it was clear that it represented the broken pledge of a Prime Minister, and after Mr. Raney himself had presented an academic thesis, with which he was more or less familiar, that beer of 4.4 per cent. beer was intoxicating. As worded by the Progressive leader the resolution asserted that "the bill be referred to a committee to determine if it is to be banned by the Prime Minister with instructions to withdraw and report." Mr. Raney's liquor contained 2.5 per cent. alcohol by volume is an intoxicating beverage."

Radio Club Hears Of Radio Troubles

Norman Wickett of Toronto Gives Interesting Talk at Meeting

President J. W. Lill presided over a meeting of the Radio Club of Belleville at the Chamber of Commerce last night. After the minutes of the previous meeting were read by the Secretary, Mr. Lill introduced Mr. Norman W. Wickett, representative of the Canada Battery Co., Ltd., Toronto. Mr. Wickett by the Club's splendid address on what batteries are composed of, their working, care, how to avoid ills. He stated that one should never hook up old batteries half run down, but new batteries because old cells will take the strength from the new ones. This is the reason for so many Radio fans complaining that their batteries don't stand up. Mr. Wickett also told how you could get much clearer reception sometimes, by changing your aerial, by running north and south, change it to the east and west, or vice versa. Also two aerials with separate ground wires, one running north and south and the other east and west and compare them on a good night; the one and then the other aerial given the best results. Better results are obtained by using larger lead-in, they last much longer and are much cheaper to buy in the long run and there you have your 25% volt batteries, to use a 45 volt.

Mr. Wickett also told the Club to buy the best Rheostat on the market as a leaky Rheostat causes a lot of trouble.

The Secretary states that the Radio Club members who did not attend the last meeting, which missed a real talk on Radio and battery trouble, Mr. Wickett extended an invitation to all Radio fans here to come to him with their batteries and other troubles at John Ament company's store. He will be in the city until Saturday night. The Club members started his battery tester which was very interesting to all members. The little apparatus just costs $250.00, it also tests all makes of batteries.

Anyone desiring a Radio License can obtain same at Secretary's office, 31 Bridge Street, East.

Interesting Sketch To Aid Temperance

Rev. B. Spence, A. E. Smith And Ruthven MacDonald Entertain

The Dramatic Debate which was given at the City Assembly of the Dominion Alliance was well attended Monday night. Rev. B. Spence, Mr. A. E. Smith and Mr. Ruthven McDonald argued about Prohibition.

Mr. Ruthven McDonald contributed three solos and was accompanied by Mr. Leo. B. Reger. These were very much enjoyed by the crowd.

Mr. H. W. Ackerman acted as chair man for the evening. Misses Bessie Carswell and Nora Rackwood, two old dents at the Business College, assisted in the play as stenographers.

The opposite was taken a member of the Provincial House receiving a letter from the Premier, although he dislikes being bothered by these Prohibitionists who make him get into trouble with his constituents, he dictates a letter to Mr. Spence, assuring him of absolute sympathy with the cause, but reforms him to the Federal member.

An appeal to the Federal member is just about as satisfactory, as he refers him back to the Provincial member. As constant Mr. Brown speaks that was sent here to a conference at the same time, although neither knows that the other is to be present. A dramatic scene follows.

In the last scene the time has shifted to ten years from now. The three meet again in a hotel lobby and review the progress made during those years and find that practically every country is under prohibition. The whole theme of the debate some interesting and in attractive facts were made known, in favor the alcoholic contents of the new beer.

Worker Crushed In City Brewery

Tank Fell to Floor Injuring Eugene Wheeler at Noon

When the hook of a hoist which was lifting a heavy tank in position at the Belleville brewery broke about 12.35 o'clock noon today, the tank pitched to the floor carrying with it Eugene Wheeler, about 28 years old, who was injured internally when it crushed against his body.

Dr. J. J. Robertson and Dr. S. R. Ketcheson were summoned to the plant where they examined the man's injuries, later calling in Dr. Hall and Dr. Jances in which Wheeler was removed to the General Hospital by Secretary D. T. Boyd and Detective Sergeant J. Ellsworth.

Wheeler, who lives at 57 Moira street east, is not believed by the attending physicians to be seriously injured.

CHICAGO MARKET

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, Mar. 27.—Indications of wet weather southwest, especially have been threatening the winter crop, gave traders and fast buying orders today after an early advance. Initial strength was due to the unexpected rise in Liverpool quotations and to continued very favorable domestic crop reports from west and southwest. Later upturns in values here however, heavy selling led by houses with eastern connections resulted soon in sharp break. Opening 7-8 to 7-8 higher was followed by many rapid changes in which May went down to 81.63 and July 84.35. Corn was dull after an early advance. "TOC H"

The simple but beautiful ceremony of lighting the lamp of maintenance performed by Lord Byng at the Toc-centre "Toc H" on Saturday, draws public attention to a movement fraught with significant possibilities. No better interpretation of the spirit of the institution could be given than that of the governor-general—"all that is good in citizenship." In that concise but comprehensive phrase is conveyed the ideal of the founders and the purpose of continuity the movement in peace time. For though "Toc H" had its origin in the Great War, the first club being set up on the Ypres front as Poperinghe, it served as a haven of peace. "We considered the war was a right one and a just one," declared Lord Byng, on Saturday, adding—"and God knows we do not want another." There is nothing of a martial nature in the perpetuation of the club and its extension throughout the Empire. The idea of Talbot House at Poperinghe was that of comradeship and service. The motto is adopted was a paraphrase of Dante's famous line, substituting amability for despair: "All ye that abandon you who enter here." And within its walls there was neither officer, private, Red Cap nor confraternity of good soldiers united by a common sentiment of loyalty to themselves and to the democratic ideals for which they fought.

"Toc H" was the telephonic identification for T.H., the initials of Talbot House, the name given to the club in memory of Gilbert Talbot, son of the Bishop of Winchester. The conception of the club house was due to the Rev. P. B. Clayton, rector of All Hallows, Barking by the Tower, London, who in 1915 rented an abandoned house in Poperinghe as a meeting-place for the officers and men of the Expeditionary Forces. The founder was himself present in Toronto on Saturday, having visited points in the United States and being on his way to the Canadian west and then to Australia, where the lamp lighted by Lord Byng will be left as a memorial to the two sons of the governor-general of the commonwealth. As showing the non-military character of the organization, it is stated that two thirds of its membership is made up of men too young to have served in the war, coming from all classes and of diverse religious and political opinions. The one test of membership of service—the resolve to live as "good citizens," to use the apt definition employed by the governor-general.

WIVES AND MONKEYS
CLASSIFIED.

In America the idea that a wife is the personal property of the husband, and that therefore he can be held to answer for anything which he, in the exercise or the failure to exercise his authority, lets her do has nearly disappeared from both the statute books and customs. The old theory lingers only in the wife's exemption from the duty, even in criminal charges, of testifying against the husband in respect to wrongdoings other than against herself.

In England there has been no such change in the legal attitude and this week a husband was joined in bearing a penalty inflicted on a wife, though there was no evidence that the event still be worthy the man From Street.

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

The Function of Friendship

THE Chief value of a friend is that he understands.

There is something about true friendship that enables one to appreciate and encourage the best in his fellows.

It was said of Wordsworth and his sister and Coleridge that they were the three boons with a single soul. Yet many years Wordsworth stunted and excellent material because Coleridge appreciated him. When he was an old man his work was recognized and he was made poet laureate. Said he did not do much good work after that. The people applauded him and did not read the fame that was coming to him, but the friendship had ceased to work.

It is said of Mahomet that he would not have composed the Koran and took by his devotions if his sister had not encouraged him.

The confidant belief and trust of some person is necessary for us. It is a rock to lean against.

This is the best function of a good wife, to appreciate her husband. More divorces have occurred because one's good qualities have not been appreciated than for any other reason.

One good thing about love is that it is the best appreciator in the world. It can understand and see that which is good. It is the unagnet that draws forth the good.

Many wives continually nag their husbands and call attention to their little defects, but do not seem to see their startling qualities. When a wife can see past the defects to the real qualities of a man, she becomes a true helpmate. She is more than a wife; she is a friend.

There is a friendly glint makes the world a sociable place. To know that someone understands us and appreciates us gives us a comfortable and homey feeling.

There are those who are able to carry out any idea or to stand for any principles, alone. They need someone to lean upon, someone who believes in them and appreciates them. For we all have our periods of depression and doubt.

Even John the Baptist was afflicted with a spirit of doubt when he sent word to the Christ asking if he were really the Messiah.

Jesus answered with the twelve apostles about him. He needed the consolation and help of appreciation. And every man that does anything in the world needs someone to stand by him and recognize the value of what he is doing.

Without this we are liable to be overcome in our moments of depression. We are liable to lose faith in ourselves and in our destiny.

Dutchy's Diary

The Foreign Country

A reader of the Daily Intelligencer has jumped in to the vanish of the north country. Bates, a former resident of the north, he does not see eye to eye with the description given in this newspaper of the wonderful territory of North Hastings which was published last Wednesday and took of a rough trip by police officers and answered all that reads from Bancroft to Fort Stewart. He says:

It has been very interesting indeed to one who was for many years a resident of the north and therefore will sympathize with conditions in general there, to read the articles which have been published in your paper during the past few days, especially the one in the issue of March 25.

We are greatly regretting the sad tragedy which has occurred and that has caused the police and medical men to go out[illegible] such hardships in travelling, we wonder since when have these conditions arisen.

One wonders whether that Bancroft and Fort Stewart were in the Arctic Circle, instead of being just slightly higher above them. Belleville, [illegible] seems to think that your reporter described, which, by the way, sounds much more like a description of the Arctic than of the north land. Sand Banks finished of the Fort Stewart road as we know it. How unfortunate that the weather broke down five miles from any settler, which would necessarily mean that the settler was not in a better spot. We would ask where on the road it might have happened? Surely no settler was available and no more shining, otherwise our friends could have seen a "habitant's cabin" in a short distance of the accident. Then whether our friends travelled by way of MacArthur's Mills, past the Garnet Graham, Dunbridge, thence to the old Snow Road to Hermon and on to Bancroft. We were very pleased to have the condition of the road so graphically described. No doubt, since this has been brought before the public, money for repairing will be more easily obtained.

Our curiosity was greatly aroused by the reference to the mine sidled by the "northern point." For years, six "two merchants" and "the good and respectable farmers" of the township little realized! have gotten their supplies from the two daily trains from Detlor, as the freight trains only stunts into the mine during the summer months to transport the lumber from the camps.

It is very gratifying to learn that the old friends have not lost their sense of hospitality, for we fervently find such hospitality farther south.

Truly the whole description of the north reminds one of the lady's belief that bedbugs could be picked off the trees up there and that the people lived on the smell of the pines and the rabbit tracks.

Yours for enlightenment,

A READER.

Perhaps the reporter might have written a different story had he taken a trip himself. As it was, he reproduced faithfully the story as told by the officer himself.

Belleville is only eighty-eight miles from this country in the north, the difference between the temperature of the two places is known in sharper contrast. No doubt there are many places more "wild" than North Hastings, but few comparatively undeveloped tracts are situated close by such a long settled spot as Belleville. It is perhaps for this reason that Belleville people are prone to become mildly excited over the stories of the life of our neighbors in the north.

Interesting News From Surrounding Places

MANY VISITORS TO LIVE STOCK TRAIN

Napanee, March 5th.—As a proof that the farmers in this part of the country are fully awake to the importance of better live stock and whether in pale, fat-free cattle or sheep, there is a pleasure to report that there was a great influx of farmers in town, who came on purpose to visit Dominion Live Stock Special Train," which was stationed here from 9 until 5 p.m. Tuesday. Some came from long distances. All parts of the country were represented. Many came from Tamworth and other points in the township of Sheffield, and quite a number from places beyond the county's borders.

J. Langland, a representative of the local branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, reports that the farmers in his district are both years in growing more stock, improving the quality of their stock, in all lines. Last year in the corn testing competition there were 19 acres entered, this year 35 besides additional soil samples. Like improvement is taking place in all the other branches of the farming industry.

The train is well worth a visit and needless to say is well equipped in every respect. The cars are fitted to provide a continuous stable from one end of the train to the other. Visitors may thus start at the best cattle and of the train and pass through to the rear cars, viewing the live stock exhibits in safety and comfort. An expert in charge of each car acts as demonstrator and also answers questions of visitors.

She has tried Cod Liver Oil, but the ill-smelling nasty tasting stuff upset her stomach and made her feel worse than before.

Doctors and good pharmacists know that Cod Liver Oil is full of vitalizing vitamines that make flesh producing appetite, restores vigor, builds up the power to resist disease and obtains easy nervousness.

But it's horrible tasting stuff and every day people are taking it who for doctor's are prescribing and the people are just learning that they can get better results with McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, which Dolan's Drug Store, Doyle's Drug Store and druggists all over the country are having a tremendous demand for.

It is a wonderful upbuilding medicine for skinny, backward children, especially after sickness and 50 tablets only cost 60 cents.

One woman gained 10 pounds in 22 days and if any skinny man or woman can every put on 5 pounds in 30 days your druggist will gladly return the purchase price.

But be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets.

Tells How To Talk On The Platform

Professor Gives Tips to Ambitious Public Speakers at Hamilton

Hamilton, March 27.—In itself the address of Prof. W. H. Greeves of Victoria College, Toronto, to the Chamber of Commerce business training course class at the Technical Institute was a remarkably fine exposition of his subject, "The Art of Public Speaking," even aside from sense and meaning of what he said.

Mr. F. Macpherson, principal of the Normal school, presided as chairman. He explained how important ability to express oneself was in business. Prof. Greeves had fifteen years' experience teaching in Ontario, Queens University, Kingston, and Victoria College, Toronto.

Prof. Greeves stated that every phase of public speaking had three expressions—verbal expression, tonal and pantomimic expression. All were closely related. The first, inventing, thinking thought and feeling, was the most important. First of all one should have something to say before speaking, publicly or otherwise. It was not easy to express oneself pleasantly, forcibly and intelligently. Everyone, some time, imagined himself capable of delivering a real thriller of a speech, but upon sitting down to prepare the speech inspiration often fled. However, some men, that did not doubt but that they were a few before him in the hall were able to speak on any subject, at any time, to any audience.

The basic thing, once the speaker was on his feet, was an intelligent and sympathetic realization of every single idea of the speech in logical sequence. As he speaks his mind must be doing several things. The audience must perceive sympathetic to the dramatic and emotional qualities of his subject, so that he may express them to his satisfaction. Given these points the next most absolutely necessary that the speaker should have the technique of public speaking.

Pantomime General.

Verbal vocabularies differed in various countries, went on Prof. Greeves, but tonal and pantomimic expression was international because it was natural. Babies cried and laughed the same the world over. The voices and boys were languages. Tonal inflection could give the words, "I never said that," sixteen different meanings, said the professor illustrating by using the word in the eight or more tonal inflections. Voice and body could express thought and feeling independent of words.

Prof. Greeves advised his audience to study his impressions, voices, and motions of others, and their own as well, in himself, his perfectly happy tone in the "dirty, flirty, old Union station in Toronto, watching and listening to people passing through. It was an interesting study.

It was important for the speaker to speak in steady, normal tone. To obtain this it was necessary to inhale so as to fill the lungs and exhale the breath as tone, not just as air. He'll-breathe. It was also necessary to take a deep breath, just enough to fill the remaining space.

Prof. Greeves gave a description of how the respiratory muscles furnished the power and explained how the vocal cords the tone, and the entire respiratory system the sound. That was the natural, proper method of speaking. He showed how bad habit of not breathing like voice at the end of every sentence, was formed.

For every vowel sound the jaw should be dropped sufficiently to let a plum might be inserted between the teeth. Usually the jaw opened there was no room for articulation. Speech had three stages—expression for expressive modulations of voice. The two most important modulations, practical to every-day use, are pitch and force. In animated conversation the speaker's pitch is constantly shifting. Force, Mrs. Basil Gray being the first young was also important. Most men, and worse yet, stimulate the lower ones mostly in the lumber camp.

To speak in a high-pitched voice wrecked the speaker's nerves and his hearers' too.

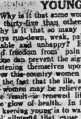

Modulation

It was impossible to make any change in the modulations of the voice or body without some definite significance. Each change of voice had a meaning. The downward inflection of voice exhibited the assertive frame of mind, while the upward trend showed an apologetic disposition, very badly common in business men. Many defects were due to speakers not thinking what they were saying. The young fellow made the mistake of telling his habitual tone-speaking instead of his subject matter. Public speakers should use their subject matter. Each speech must have a thought content behind it.

Another modulation, tone color, revealed imagination and expressed emotion. It was best learned inadvertently. Dr. Gouvea advised: read, imagine, and feel emotional. He says on selections, Each person should be in the habit of reading aloud to his or her voice. One might be making a perfect fool of oneself at the time unknowingly.

Rhythm

The modulation of rhythm showed the degree of intensity with which a speaker felt his subject. Rhythm 27-36.

EARLE & COOK COMPANY

15-YEAR-OLD BOY WOOS WITH VIOLIN

New York, March 27.—A violin under his arm and $7.60 in his pocket, John Stadjevich, 15 years old, has set out to win fame for himself and fortune for his family. Applauded for his playing at the "Hippodrome," he hopes to make the wide world his audience.

The Hippodrome's management reported to the police yesterday he had left his home on 203d Street and Webster Avenue, Brooklyn. He said that John had left a note telling of his ambition and that his home on Monday, presumably to attend the Temple Beth Sholom, 203d Street and Bainbridge Avenue, where he was one of the bright students.

Investigation disclosed that John had given his money from his earnings to his parents, purchased a suit to fit his beloved violin and paraded forthwith the secret of the great master.

Deaths And Funerals

MRS. ELIZA W. LLOYD

Mrs. Eliza R. Lloyd died yesterday at the residence of her niece, Mrs. C. Donovan, 1 South Park street. The late Mrs. Lloyd was 76 years of age and was predeceased by her husband, William Lloyd, 25 years ago. She moved to Belleville from South Bend, Indiana, four and a half years ago, to make her home with her niece. She had been sent this afternoon to South Bend, Indiana, for interment.

SIDMER FAIRMAN

The body of the late Mr. Sidmer Fairman, who died suddenly at Rochester, on Tuesday, arrived here yesterday and in the afternoon was interred in Reid's cemetery, Thurlow Township. At Canniton Methodist Church Rev. F. Farnsworth, Pastor officiated service, assisted by Rev. H. H. Kenny, of the Tabernacle Church City. Many relatives and friends were in attendance. Rev. Mr. Farnsworth gave an impressive discourse his subject being, "The Way to Heaven." Rev. Mr. Kenny spoke in reference to the deceased and the godly life he led. After the service the body was taken to Reid cemetery. The floral tributes were many and beautiful in design. Bearers were Messrs. Huffman, H. Spencer, F. Hicks, G. F. Reid, B. and C. Pitman.

NOTICE!

The School Attendance Act provides that unless lawfully excused a very child over five and under eight years of age who has been enrolled as a pupil and every child between eight and fourteen and fourteen and sixteen years of age not employed for the full terms during which the school is kept, open to attention in which the child or adolescent resides. Violation of the provisions of this Act for each parent or guardian is subject to the provisions therein set forth.

Absence from school or irregular attendance not only causes serious loss to the child concerned but also retards the progress of the other pupils. Will parents and guardians kindly take warning and see that their child or children are kept more regular at school.

W. F. ASHLEY,
School Attendance Officer.

Here and There

A total of 1,005,873 barrels of apples have been shipped to the English market from Halifax since the beginning of the shipping season on September 24. London took 554,715 barrels and Liverpool and Manchester came second and third with 267,823 and 172,685 barrels respectively.

Eighty-four thousand automobiles are now being operated by citizens of the Province of Quebec equivalent to an average upkeep of $500 per year each, a total expenditure for maintenance alone of $28,000,000 every year, according to figures supplied by the Montreal Automobile Trade Association.

Around 16,000 horses were shipped from western Canada to eastern Canada in 1924, most of them coming from Saskatchewan. This province is maintaining its lead as the greatest horse-breeding centre of the Dominion, with a total of 1,170,145 head, an increase of 24,44 per cent over 1923.

The steamship "Princess Marguerite" successfully passed her trials on Clydebank when she developed an average speed of 22.56 knots and a best run of 22.8 knots per hour. Together with the "Princess Kathleen" she will be used on the Seattle-Vancouver-Victoria route this coming season.

Monsignor Heylen, Bishop of Namur, Belgium, and permanent president of the Eucharistic Congress, arrived at St. John, N.B., last week on the "Montrose." His Lordship was on his way to Chicago where he will make preparations for the Congress, to be held there in June, 1926.

Ivan Shregel, Canadian Pacific Railway representative in Jugoslavia, interviewed here recently, stated that his countrymen were 95 per cent. agriculturists and that he felt certain that in the mutual interests of both countries the future will, in the field of immigration, lead to closer and closer relations between Canada and the Kingdom of the Serbs, Croats and Slovenes."

A romance of the peerage and the steerage was personified by F. E. Hailey, grandson of the late Lord Glanusk, who arrived at St. John, N.B., last week among the third class passengers on the "Montrose." Bailey, who is just 17 years of age, was so struck with Canada that he ran away from Bray Court Colleg at Maidenhead and after a number of adventures realized his ambition by sailing on the "Montrose."

The largest batch of Clydesdale horses that has ever sailed from the Clyde, valued at £10,000, was embarked recently on the "Marloch." It consisted of 14 stallions and 3 fillies, and there were also ten Percherons from Antwerp on the "Montreburn," while ten more Percherons and Belgians will be shipped at a later date. The horses were purchased by Mr. W. J. McCallum, of Brampton, Ontario, and Brandon, Manitoba.

Letters To The Editor

CHURCH MERGER MORALS

To the Editor of The Intelligencer:

Sir:—"Merger" is the wording of the Act. "Merger," not "Union," is correct. "Union" is a drawing together of free people, a right that all should have. But "merging" a tree, church, wiping it out by civil law, when its members wish to remain in it, is tyranny, and is declared by Privy Council of the Empire has therefore yet to be made against this latest tyranny, for the safety of religious liberty now and in future. Meantime, apart from its tyranny, note its morals.

The latest sample of these morals is its reports on the vote. When the first ballot, day after day, has given a constant majority against it; when the total vote to date is ninety-five hundred and for it and one hundred thousand against it; when in Ontario, the main body of the Church, the vote is ninety-nine thousand for it and seventy-one thousand against it, that Merger gives, day after day, in the public press, to large headlines, "Church Union's Far Lead"—"Union Leads, 2 to 1"—"2 to One"—"1,447 congregations for Union to 855 against," etc., etc., all to create a blot of the real vote, and never a hint that the majority of those 1,447 "congregations" are small stations, some of which have neither church nor reported membership.

Of these 1,447 "Union Congregations" in all Canada, 154, about one-third, are given as in Saskatchewan, while the total church membership of the fifteen Presbyteries in the Province is a little more than half the membership of the one Presbytery of Toronto.

One of these fifteen Presbyteries in Saskatchewan is named "Kamasca," and has been acclaimed all over Canada as a "large western Presbytery, unanimous for Union." That "Presbytery" has two self-supporting pastoral charges, and it has fifteen aided charges and mission fields, with sixty-two "congregations" and stations. Its total reported membership is 781, and its sixty-two aided "congregations" have a total reported membership of 488, an average of less than eight members each. How would the law deal with a flank thus representing its assets?

But the morals of the Merger is reporting the vote mark its whole course. It runs true to form. Note some instances of many——

1. Its pronouncements are given office in the Presbyterian Church on their taking solemn vows "to maintain and defend the same" and "to follow no divisive course from the present order established thereby" even if they are using their positions, thus obtained, to blot out the Church entrusted to their care.

2. They entered into unanimous agreement and declared to the people that "Union . . . does not carry the consent of the entire membership"—and have "practically unanimous action"; and when they found a great and growing opposition, they applied to Parliament to force the Merger and blot out the Church in spite of the people; their action is "a matter of record."

3. The Merger constantly points to the twenty "Articles of Faith" in the "Basis of Union" as its Doctrinal or Religious Belief, with never a hint that no one is asked to subscribe to those "Articles of Faith."

4. It pretends to retain the rights of the people, when not a member of its General Council need be first elected to office by the people, as is the case with the Presbyterian Assembly.

5. It tells the people that they can "call" their minister "as at present," but seldom lets them have that the right of appointment shall rest with the Presbyterian Committee, as in ordinary official power unknown in the Presbyterian Church.

6. It professes to answer Christ's prayer and to do away with "competing, waste and "secretists strife", and it is insulting the Lord's prayer, and with overlapping, waste and strife wherever unknown in Canada.

"Many" said the Master, "shall come in My Name and shall deceive many." "By their fruits ye shall know them". This Merger has come in His Name and has deceived many. But its ever-growing numbers, as they come to know it, the people are turning against it: fifty thousand in the first year in 1911, another fifty thousand at the second vote in 1915, and one hundred thousand in the third vote, not yet complete.

And the Presbyterian Church, strong and true and free, a Church of the Word of God, will continue,—one, many of her people, but "scattered and maimed will yet return to their Mother Church.

May I note, in closing, the kindness of Anglicans and Baptists in many places in forcing the use of their buildings to Presbyterian minorities, when the church homes which they and their fathers have builded have been taken from them by a great and cruel wrong.

Ritchie Ladies Beat The Trailers

Was Anybody's Game Up Until The Last Few Rolls

In the ladies game at the Y alleys last night the Trailers and Ritchies met and the latter proved victors by 40 pins. The Ritchies took the lead in the first game by 16 pins but the Trailers were right in there fighting and at the end of the second game had reduced the lead to 7 pins and in the last game it looked as if it was going to be any body's game but the Ritchies made new life in the last two frames and won out. Miss B. Hainbert took the high single of the evening with 210 and Miss Shields the three string with 488 while for the Trailers Miss Bryles was high with 418.

No Grant Coming For Baseball Team

It appears now as though the C.N.R. baseball club of the G.O.A.B. league will not receive the $500 grant which they recently asked the city councillors to contribute to their cause. At the committee meeting of the city council last night, a motion was passed that no action be taken in the matter, the motion carrying almost unanimously. There was no discussion in the matter whatever.

President N.F. North of the C.N.R. ball club recently addressed the city fathers as a regular council meet should support a club with $500, should support a cub with $500.

You'll Get Rid of Blackheads Sure

There is one simple, safe and sure way that you can get rid of blackheads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxide powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads a few minutes—the pores and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxide gets into the water dissolves the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

Help Kidneys By Drinking More Water

ALSO TAKE A LITTLE SALTS IF BACK HURTS OR BLADDER BOTHERS

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get excited and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean the way you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can easily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then be fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder misery.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

Belleville Bowlers Leading In Oshawa

About 200 Pins Up on the Nearest Competitors

Although the local bowlers who went to Oshawa yesterday to play in the tournament didn't roll a very big score they are about 200 pins up on the nearest competitors in the second day of their tournament.

The locals would have had a nice score only for two of the bowlers rolling slightly over the 400 mark. Hartnell was high man with a 670 score and Moore with 651 was next. Scores:

Morell	248	204	199—651
Hartnell	181	191	298—670
Quastrocchi	145	121	167—433
Bell	134	193	159—487
L. Barrett	222	265	173—670
Total			2702

Redmen Hounds added another score to their string of victories yesterday morning when they won from the Night Hawks by 195 pins. Although Harry Pringle for the Night Hawks rolled up a nice total of 658 some of his partners fell badly. For the winners Edwards was high man with 653.

Although the Canal junior team have never been in the running as far as the league championship was concerned they had the satisfaction of winning from the three teams that are now tied for first place and doing the most damage of all. Last night they hooked up with the Egmont and right off the bat they started out to win getting a lead of 143 pins in the first game and losing the second by 43 pins. On the third they came back stronger again to add another 123 pins, high bowlers were Cumming 628 and Hawkins 594.

The Sunta Office No. 2 won from the M. P. Office last night in the C. N. R. league by 144 pins. Vera Weir bone in good form rolling 678 for his three strings. For the M. P. office Elliot rolled the highest score. Players and scores.

Cage Semi-final Here On Wednesday

Belleville has Good Team to Stack Against Toronto

The Belleville Y. M. C. A. were notified on Friday that the basket ball team would meet West End Y. M. C. A. here on April 1st and in Toronto April 8th, in the O. A. B. A. Semi-Finals when her to meet Windsor or London in the finals on 15th and 18th.

Under the supervision of Phil Brockel, the Belleville basketball team has been practising regularly and are in fine shape for the chances. It is rumored that they have worked out several snappy plays and will go on the floor with a grand offensive play.

Of course the West End team of Toronto is one of the best and will take clever playing to beat. The game here on Wednesday night next should be a humdinger.

SON STOLE COAL, MOTHER IS JAILED

Hamilton, March 27—Julia Gall, Northcote street, was sent to jail for a month for stealing coal. Saturday her son pleaded guilty to three charges of stealing coal and the magistrate thought she was to blame. He said he was sorry for children who appeared in juvenile court week after week. He could not send them to jail because he believed they were encouraged at home to steal.

"In this case I am quite satisfied the woman knew by the coal she was getting," he said.

Mrs. Gall denied the theft and said if her son stole coal she knew nothing about it.

Acids In Stomach Cause Indigestion

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain
How to Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion sourness, burning, gas bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicious stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the indigestion symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases but only an alkalizer to neutralize acidity and from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a heaping teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. The delicious stomach relief you crave the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

Teams have agreed to adhere strictly to the schedule and postponements or switching of games will not be permitted. Teams should be on the floor at the time allotted for their games. Point Anne are allotted 8, o'clock games to allow players a chance to catch the 9.40 C.N.R. train home.

Umpires added to original list are W. Gerow, B. Frechette and W. Mills.

Both games tonight should be good. The Printers have had a chance now to size up their line-up and expect to make a good showing against the Corbyites men, while the Alemite Junior team should be one of the fastest of the season.

BELLEVILLE WILL ENTER VOLLEY TEAM

Word has come through from Toronto that the Open Volley Ball tournament, will be held at Central Y. M. C. A. on Saturday, April 4th, teams are expected from several Ameriigan cities, the Belleville team will likely send a team to this tournament, Stan Nurse represents Belleville for this competition.

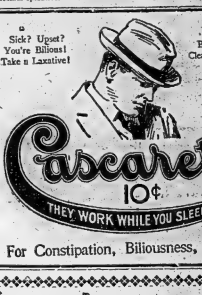

The Belleville Y.M.C.A. has some good material to choose from for this journey and with any kind of breaks should make a good showing in Toronto.

RUTH'S FIRST HOMER

New York, March 27.—The match of the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Yankees through Dixie to the north began at St. Petersburg, Fla., yesterday with a salvo of homers. Babe Ruth made the occasion an interesting one for the fans by hitting his first home run of the season. This was after Zack Wheat, Earl Combs, and Jake Fournier had all bettled the ball for four clouts. The Brooklynites won the contest by 4 to 3. It was the first of a series of eighteen games that the Yankees and Dodgers are scheduled to play on neutral home.

Dr. J. G. Hoosick, of Bowling, has been elected president of the Quinte County Medical Association.

Shirts, with an upper cut of checked stripe, have broken the monotony and practicality of the middle part of the two-piece dress.

THE newest form the separate skirt, except as part of a tailored suit, has been so torn to shreds and tatters and the high skirt so much in evidence that the suspender skirt with many buttons and sewn on buttonholes is a welcome change. It is new, it is a change and it is extremely becoming with gaily colored petticoat blouses of crepe de Chine or fancy cotton voile. It is frequently made in the "high" shades of bright green, scarlet and powder-blue flannel for the country, and in the softer shades of rose geranium, beige and meadow-green kasha for in town.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

"Elaine! for God's sake stop and listen to me. I will show you some thing, I will prove to you that I have not been lying or boasting without cause. I have the marquis in my power—Yes! Look at me! Do you think I were lying? By Heaven, I speak the truth!"

Elaine looked at him, half fascinated by the evident earnestness of his voice and manner, and yet, angry with her self for stopping.

"I do not believe you," she began.

"I do not expect you to," he broke in sullenly. "You have called me a liar and a coward often enough for me to know that, but if I prove it to you, if I show you something that will, that must convince you."

She laughed.

"Show it to the marquis!" she said with bitter scorn.

"Very well!" he responded with a calmness which astounded her. "I will show it him—you shall show it to him, Elaine—because, for your sake, you will. There would be a scene, I know that. If I prove to you that you should not, cannot, marry him, you will keep the matter secret even at the risk of the major's; you'll consider him—"

He put his hand in the breast pocket of his coat and brought out a sheet of paper, which, as a man does, he'd treasure he is loth to part with.

Elaine half turned from him, looked at him attentively. She had no wish to go now. The moment she had determined to believe that he was a liar, she had the power—as he certainly had the will—during the remain, all her thoughts were for her lover, and her spirit rose with the keen instinct of love to its defense.

She watched him closely.

"Will you promise me," he said hurriedly, "that if you believe me when you have seen this letter I hold in my hand you will keep it a secret, and break with the marquis?"

"I will give you no promise, Captain Sherwin. I will make no compact with you," she said calmly. "I do not care whether you show me this letter or not. I do not care what it contains. I do not believe—"

"Then take it!" he said, with a sudden burst of passion. "I have tried to break it to you, I have tried to prevent a scandal, but you—Take it!" and he thrust it forward.

Elaine took the letter in her hand and looked up at the sky; a light cloud was passing. She shook her head.

"Wait!" he said in a tremulous whisper. He struck a wax match and held it over the letter. "Now," he said hoarsely, "Quick!"

In the flickering light Elaine read the note; read it twice, then she uttered a cry and shrank back from him—from the letter itself.

But the next instant, as if ashamed of her weakness, she looked up defiant. Ur.

"It—it is a lie!" she gasped. "A foolish, wicked lie." Her hand went up to her eyes as if to clear away a mist that had fallen before them, and she pushed the hair from her brow. Then she looked at him steadily, breath, unflinchingly, and forced a laugh from her lips, that had slowly grown white in the length of time that took contempt. "It is a forgery, a clumsy forgery," she said, speaking in a quiet, cold, scornful way.

He shook his head. He was trembling with the excitement of fear and passion.

"No," he said sullenly, dogredly, "it is genuine, it is not a forgery. What would be the use? You would find out for yourself—my self would find out in a few hours."

She drew back against the rail and grasped it with her hand. Her breath came in tortured, painful gasps, above the regular beat of the oars, and the struggle that was going on within her brain, the terrible agony, pain and dread, that was racking her heart.

"What are you going to do?" he asked, watching her out of the corners of his eyes.

She did not speak, but a heavy sigh broke from her trembling lips.

"You believe it," he went on. "You cannot help it. I see you believe it, however much you doubted it at first. I doubted and disbelieved it at first. There is only thing you can do! Go and break off the engagement with him and go home to your mother. Then I will be asks the reason—"

He broke off short. It was evident to him that she was not listening and did not hear him. She stood, the hand he clutched in her hand, her eyes fixed upon her face, white, deadly white, in the moonlight. Lot's wife in the moment of her disobedience into the senseless salt could not have been more motionless, more despairing.

He took advantage of her mental paralysis and drew near to her and touched her.

"Elaine! Elaine! For Heaven's sake look—don't take it to heart so! After all, it—it is not too late. If you had married him—but you did not! But it is not too late. Listen to me. I have always loved you, I love you still. I love you better than my revenge. Let—let yourselves be forgotten—and let us be friends."

She turned her marble-white face toward him, at first as if she did not comprehend; then she shuddered and put up her hand to keep him off.

"Don't touch me, don't me!" she murmured hoarsely, not passively nor indignantly, but with the dull stupor of despair. "Do not speak to me. Go—from this night—never speak to me again. I—I cannot bear it."

He winced as if she had struck him, and his hands dropped.

"That is to be my reward for saving you from—that!" he pointed to the letter. "Very well!" I was a fool to expect anything else from such as you! You—you—me. You shall have cause to do so, Lady Elaine, by to-morrow every scandal shall know the story! Yes, I'll publish it far and wide!" His face flamed with the evil qualities of a weak, selfish nature. "Ay, I'll let the world know what a scoundrel he is. And if at the same time it learns what a victim you'd have been—well, shall your own fault! You hate me! You—you shall have cause. Before the week is out the story of the masquin and his dupe will be in all the papers. [illegible] She stepped, breathless with rage. "I'll never forgive you for that speech, Miss Delaine, never! Hate! If it comes to that—I hate you as well as love, and I will prove that I can!"

She stood until he had finished it, as if probable that she did not comprehend half of the hurried, sensational threat—she also moved not; at his movement his mood changed once more, and he sprang after her.

"Elaine! Elaine—I did not mean it!—you drive me to it! Come back—stop—listen to me! Give me back the note! I have you."

She turned and looked at him—a look that made his hand drop to his side, his shifty eyes close, his whole being, as it were, collapse. Contempt, scorn, loathing, were all compressed in that look.

Without another word he let her go.

She moved off the bridge like one who has suddenly been stricken blind. Indeed, she was unconscious of the direction she was going, of time and space.

As the lights of the Castle windows came in sight, commingling with the rays of the moon, which pierced the leaves of the shrubbery, she felt the earth shake and reel, and with a cry she fell to be heard at even a few yards' distance, she fell prone to the ground.

CHAPTER XXI.

The billiard-room occupied, as exceedingly merry party. The major was in gay spirits, pitted in a match against Sir Algernon. The marquis was a witness of the contest, and had made a bet in favor of the major. He waited until the game was finished, took up the scoreman which Sir Edmund had laid upon his son, and then, handing the major to the fresh game, went back to the drawing-room.

There were only two ladies present: Lady Scott, placidly asleep, in her chair, and Blanche Kelsie standing by the mantel-shelf, with her small, dainty shod foot on the fender.

"All goes to bed?" he said.

"All except me—two, and one of them is asleep, and the other is wide awake, I'm sure!" said Lady Blanche.

His face fell. He had hoped to have seen, to have had a word—one little word—with the beautiful face she stood to stairs.

"And Elaine, too?" he said, with a smile that only thinly veiled his disappointment.

"Oh, Elaine can, she has not gone to bed," said Lady Blanche regarding the sharp point of her Turkish slipper critically. "She is out on the grounds."

"Into the grounds;" he repeated, glancing at the clock on the mantel shelf. "Are you sure?"

Baree, Son of Kazan

—by—

James Oliver Curwood

(A Vitagraph Picture with Wolf, the Dog, is an adaptation of this story.)

SYNOPSIS

Pierrot the trapper and Nepesse, his Indian wife, make the trapping line cruise to see what animals had been caught, and Nepesse finds the pet dogs of her father, Kazan. Pierrot, who was in love with Nepesse before she married her father, Baree, the wolf-dog, always hated Pierrot. Pierrot, who wanted a pet of the dog, but Pierrot occasionally struck the dog. "If I make him hate me, he will kill me," explained Nepesse. The father was looking into the future for Nepesse.

CHAPTER XVII—Continued.

Now the tongue-filled days and cold, frosty nights of the Red Moon brought about the big change in Baree. It was inevitable. Pierrot knew that it would come, and like the mate she Baree set-tled back on his haunches and howled up at the Red Moon, Pierrot prepared Nepesse for it.

"He is a wild dog, ma Nepesse," he said to her. "He is half wolf, and the Call will come to him soon. He will go into the forests. He will disappear at times. But we must not hasten him. He will come back. Ka, he will come back!" And he rubbed his hands in the moon-glow until his knuckles cracked.

The Call came to Baree like a thief, entering slowly and cautiously into a forbidden place. He did not understand at first. It made him nervous and uneasy and so restless that Nepesse frequently heard him whine softly in his sleep. She was waiting for something. What was it? Pierrot knew and smiled in his inscrutable way.

And then it came. It was a night, a glorious night filled with moon and stars, under which the earth was white-ing with a heavy frost when they heard the first hunt-call of the wolves. Now and then during the summer there had been the lone wolf-howl, but this was the tonguing of the pack; and as it swept through the silent silence and mystery of the night, a song of savagery that has its origin in the Red Moon down through unending ages, Pierrot and Nepesse felt the first quiver that which Baree had been waiting.

It as instinct that had aroused it. His muscles grew taut as pieces of stretched rawhide as he stood by in the moonlight, facing the forests from which, floated the mystery and thrill of the pack-call. Nepesse had heard him whine softly; and Pierrot, looking down at his dog, could feel that he was properly could see him trembling.

"It is Kazan," he said in a whisper to Nepesse.

Then it the call of the blood that was running swift in Baree's veins—not alone the call of his sire, but the call of Kazo and Gray Wolf and of his forebears for generations unnumbered. Pierrot and Nepesse, people, he could not had whispered and he was right. He had caught the call of the wild and, for it was she who had gambled upon, and she was the one to answer it. She uttered no sound, replied not to the low cries of Pierrot, but held her breath and watched Baree as he slowly faded away, one by one, in the shadows. In a few moments more he was gone. It was then that she stood straight, and flung back her head, with eyes that glowed in rivalry, with the night.

"Baree!" she called. "Baree! Baree! Baree!"

He must have been near the edge of the forest for she heard a slow, swift, long breath or two before he was back at her feet. Then he leaped, straight as an arrow, and he whined up into her face. Nepesse put her hands to her head.

"You are right, mon pere," she said. "He will not go. He loves, but he will come back. He will never leave me for long." With one hand on Baree's head, she pointed with the other into the glistening blackness of the forest, and to them, Baree!" she whispered. "But you must come back. You must. Chesmas!"

CHAPTER XVIII

No longer in the days of old, did the darkness of the forests hold a fear for Baree. The night-hunt no longer filled him with terror. He was at home in the open, and in the vigor of his full prime. Every day and night, and from forth his deference of night and space, his warning to all the wild, and his acceptance of the Brotherhood.

He ran straight into the darkness of the north and west sinking low over the bushes his tail dropping, he—a sat-ed wolf-world as the wolf runs at the night trail. The pack had swung down north, and was travelling faster than he was at the end of half an hour he could no longer hear it. But the long wolf-howl in the air was nearer, and three times Baree gave answer to it.

At the end of an hour he caught the pack scale swinging southward. Pierrot would dearly have understood. Baree quarry had found safety beyond water or in a lake, and the muskrats were on a fresh trail. By the time not more than a quarter of a mile of the forest separated Baree from the lone wolf, he the lone wolf was also an old wolf, and, with the directness and decision of long experience, he swerved in the direction of the hunted, comprehending his trail as that he was heading for a point half-ry three quarters of a mile in advance of the pack.

He was a trick of the Brotherhood which Baree had yet to learn; and the result of his ignorance, and lack of skill and had taken within the half hour he found himself-near to the pack of fatigue he was able to join it. Then came a long and final silence. The pack, had sailed down to kill, and in their fever-ish-ness they made no sound.

Baree had not forgotten Nepesse. A dozen times he turned his head last and when the pack had picked out accurately the direction in which the cabin lay. But he did not turn back. A thrill was in the air, a fever in the fur, the mysterious something which he had not known before. His hunger, even while fading out of the moon and comes and went and leave, was not sufficiently keen to make him hunt for food.

Just as the sun was colored when the glow of the moon and stars died out, the pack came to a sudden halt in the open spaces was a thick white frost in which he fell, clearly at times the low of the wolf-throats. He had travelled, steadily for hours, a great many miles in all, and he was not the least bit first light of the day came.

It was the beginning of the meeting with that for which he had been seeking. In the air was an odor, familiar by the cold down—a tiny amphibeaste that lay on the ice like a rider, beside the trail. With her head toward him and waiting for him as he came out of the shadows. Baree had never been near, stood Mystery, the young wolf.

There was not a fortnight's difference in their age and yet Mahegun was the larger of the two. His new body was as long, but she was slimmer, more sinuous and graceful, and almost like the legs of a fox and the head of a wolf. Baree, in a slightly bent bow, began of swiftness almost equal to the wind.

When the sun rose, half an hour later, it found them still in the open country, with the pack, while a deep frieze of forest under them, and beyond the edge of a timbered plain which broke like a ghostly shroud in its mantle of frost.

Mystery was young, but sought the hunt-ing-call of the Brotherhood, and she caught it. They were tired, a little, during the night with the first of autumn's cold nave with the fine thrill of autumn-ation and restlessly sensitive to the slightest movement or consciousness of companionship.

To the harrowing wild things of the forests, clawed and winged, the big snow was the beginning of the world-carnival of slaughter and feasting, of wild adventure in the long nights of merciless warfare on the frozen trails. The days of breeding and hunger-hood, the peace of spring and summer—were over; out of the fiery east, the wakes of the Northland, the call of all flesh-eating creatures to the long hunt, and in the first trill of it living things

"The easy way — wash clothes with less labor"

Mrs. Experience gives her method of getting clothes spotlessly white merely by soaking.

"It's so easy, really! There's no hard rubbing, so wearing on clothes—no boiling, no toiling over washtubs. Here's the way I do my weekly wash.

"I merely soap the clothes lightly with Sunlight Soap, roll them up tightly and put them to soak for 10 minutes or an hour. That's all. Sunlight dissolves all dirt and grease-spots, so that in rinsing, the dirt just runs away. A pure soap like Sunlight rinses away quickly and completely; an impure soap stays and spoils the clothes.

"For dishes and all housework, Sunlight is excellent and really economical, too, because every bit of it is pure, cleaning soap. And more good news—Sunlight keeps the hands soft and comfortable." Lever Brothers Limited, Toronto, make it.

were running low. Starvation night, and that's watchfully, and with suspicion Yonik made it all new to Baree and Mahegun; their blood ran swiftly; their feet, fell softly; their ears were attuned to catch the slightest sounds.

The Painted Lady Unusually Good

Many Interested at Opening In Belle Theatre Last Night

Hues of a glittering rainbow—hints of a South Sea sunset—shades of a tropic night! "The Painted Lady" made her startling dramatic entrance at the Belle last night. Gay birds of plumage might well gaze with envy at her shimmering gowns. Wiles of fashion might become envy reflect her brilliance. There were moments, indeed, when Painted Lady did not blossom forth in splendid array, but those moments passed and allowed the eyes to rest after looking at the Flamboyant display.

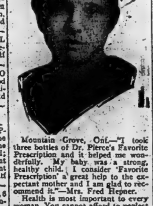

One wonders if Larry Evans, who originally wrote the story, for the Saturday Evening Post, ever supposed that his "Painted Lady" would come so strongly in the flesh. Director Bennett, the director, has made the presentation strongly dramatic, beautiful with the strange, lure of the tropics. He has portrayed the effect of the tropics on white men who shown this same lure, that holds for those unaccustomed to its shock, threatening nights, but on the tale creepingly true.

George O'Brien, playing the leading part, will fitted to the character of the seagoing lad who "gets his love over some men who pursues to the end of the world the man whom he rightfully hates, who fights to the last ditch for those things that love holds priceless. O'Brien is a fine man hero in a most convincing film story. No lily white hands in Jack Dow's acting. He's good stuff and six feet high.

Dorothy Mackaill as "The Painted Lady," delivers a finely polished performance. She has the power of easy expression, of moving her hearts, and men's, too, the rythm of a true artist. Her interpretation of the character is always in keeping and always interesting.

George E. Buchanan, of Detroit, believes in romance. He believes in it so much that last year he took 48 Detroit boys for a trip to Alaska. This year he is going to take a good many more and he will include Canadian youngsters. He has been visiting in Toronto and his object is to find some boys willing to take a holiday in the Far North next July. Mr. Buchanan, who was born near Chatham in Ontario, has developed this unique hobby owing to having himself been taken on a trip to Alaska forty years ago when he was a boy.

New Toys Proves To Be Decided Hit

Richard Barthelmess Makes Story of Home Life Realistic

Richard Barthelmess is back on the screen of the Griffin Theatre in his latest photodrama "New Toys."

Unlike the glamorous "Classmates" and the thrilling "Way Down East," "New Toys" confines its action strictly to problems of the present day home. It weaves a story, however, and reaches a climax which proves as tensely dramatic and as thrilling as anything Barthelmess has done.

Incidentally picture patrons are invited here to become acquainted with Dick's wife. Mary Hay plays the leading feminine role in "New Toys" and is the woman in the screen for the first time since she was wooed and won by the star during the filming of the Griffith production. Meantime she has carved out an enviable name for herself on the speaking stage.

The story of "New Toys" is appealing because of its sheer realism. It presents a young couple in the early stages of married life, settling down to a future of supposed happiness with their first home and baby. These are the "new toys," as they call them.

The "toys" begin to pall upon the wife, and after a couple of years she succumbs to the lure of the theatre. In this she is secretly encouraged by a form er suitor and a former sweetheart of the husband.

The characters introduced—meddling neighbors, pseudo friends and open enemies of the little home—and the situations which their interference bring about are striking in their close application to life. The "new toys" and their collapse in domestic tragedy are the culminations of the homely incidents of actual happenings.

Hepatism finally returns to the shut tered home, but not until its' accounts have traveled a heart broken path of human tribulation.

The role of the husband is ideally suited to Barthelmess, affording him a wide scope of emotional acting of the type in which he shines. Miss May Hay lets into the enactment of the wife with a histrionic ability and understand ing that is a delight.

The production was made for First National by John S. Robertson, under supervision of Charles Hoyt, and was adapted from the stage play of the same title, which had a long run at the Henry Harris Theatre in New York. The play was written by Milton Herbert Gropper and Oscar Hammerstein, the adaptation being by Josephine Lovett.

Woman of 75 says Kellogg's ALL-BRAN cleansed system of constipation's poison

Stop constipation and enjoy good health, keynote of letter.

If you suffer from constipation, there is good cheer for you in Mrs. Levy's words:

"On my seventy-fifth birthday I take it as a privilege to let you know what it has done to Kellogg's All-Bran that I am now entirely well. I have been compelled to take no medicine or other aid to overcome constipation since I discovered unsolicited Kellogg's All-Bran, the poison in my system has been absorbed without the aid of purgatives. I heartily recommend All-Bran to all who suffer from constipation with unlimited praise."

Yours gratefully,
(Mrs. Fannie Levy,
(Address on request).

Don't let constipation drag you down. Cleanse your system of its poisons. Thousands have regained their old-time vigor and vim, stopped constipation forever, by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Relief guaranteed or money refunded. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream. See the recipes given on the package. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made in London, Canada, and by all grocers. Served in leading hotels and restaurants.

Boys Threw Baby Into Vacant Lot

Found Infant to be Hindrance in Selling the Carriage

Montreal, March 27.—While Mrs. Berhard, of 14 Oldfield avenue, apartment 2, was in her house getting some wraps at noon yesterday, she left her baby carriage at the door for a few minutes and when she returned she found that the carriage was gone. Meanwhile two little boys, far from the police are looking, eager to make a hit, were on the side, were parading down the street with the carriage and going from door to door attempted to make a sale. Finally they reached No. 211 Aqueduct street and the occupant of the house, finding the carriage a very good purchase for the price of $1.25 had decided to buy.

The woman examined the vehicle on the outside and was about to hand over the money to the eager salesmen when she happened to look inside. Lying comfortably on its back with its finger in its mouth, and chubby legs kicking out happily was a healthy looking eight weeks old baby, the property of Mrs. Bernard, who was by this time frantically calling on the police of No. 6 Station to find her child.

Boys Made Escape

The boys just as much surprised as the woman, wasted no time, but rushed off with the carriage contents and all. They next turned up at a house on St. Felix street, but this time the baby was absent and the sale was made.

Constable Patry was sent to investigate and after much trailing he found the infant lying in a vacant lot on the C.N.R. property, near Aqueduct street. The child showed why contented and not at all put out by its experience. It was returned to its weeping mother's arms and the carriage was brought back later.

The robbery and incidental kidnaping occurred shortly after noon yesterday and Detectives Lebire and Langlois are now hot on the trail of the responsible parties.

OLD BOYS' REUNION COMMITTEE MEETS

The adjourned meeting of the Old Boy's re-union committee will be held in Judge Wills' chambers, Court House (to-morrow) Saturday night, when important business will be transacted.

It is important that all members of the executive be present as important business awaits their consideration, chief among the business items being the final drafting of the invitation which is to be believed will be printed in phamplet form and forwarded to all old boys and girls.

HOPE TO FINISH ALL BUSINESS BEFORE EASTER

Believed Ontario House Can Carry Out This Program

NIGHT SITTINGS

Amendments Promised to O.T.A. Bill in Committee of Whole

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Toronto, March 28.—With but ten working days left, if the Legislature is to close by Easter, there will be quite a batch of important business to be dealt with during the coming week. Adjournment by Good Friday is believed quite possible, however, with night sittings. It is hoped now that the sub committee of nine appointed by the private bills committee may survive at a solution of the church union controversy and amalgamate the "pro" and "anti" bills so that there need be no debate in the House. There is to be a "Sabbath day" on the agricultural and dairy committee's report, and several interesting, if somewhat, "academic" resolutions remain on the order paper.

The Government's bill amending the Ontario Temperance Act went through second reading sitting, in the small hours of Friday morning. W. E. Raney K.C., Progressive Leader, in the course of a three-hour address, moved an amendment that the bill be referred to a select committee to determine if beer with 2.5 alcoholic content by volume is intoxicating. The divisior bells rang at 1.40 a.m. after a dozen members had participated in the debate, and Mr. Raney's amendment was lost on a vote of 74 to 20, four Liberals and the two Laborites present voting against it. A motion being made to go on the main motion, for second reading, the vote was 76 to 24, all the Conservative members withheld support: Messrs. Acres, Belford, Patterson and Sweet.

Amendments to the bill will no doubt be proposed in committee of the whole: In fact, Karl Homuth, (Labor, St. Waterloo) thought he did not stay for the sittings announced a batch of amendments which the Labor group proposes to introduce. Mr. Homuth took the curious course of attacking the bill as "a backward step" and then declaring that with amendments it would be made a workable Act. The proposed changes of the Labor group consist chiefly of restrictions of sale, the chief being the confining of distribution to standard hotels. The other Labor members, Peter Heenan of Kenora, and J. F. Callan, Rainy River, voted for second reading and for bill as did the four Liberals alluded to previously: Frontz, Tellier, Magwood and Pickel. Of addicts, A. Bowman (Lib. Russell), states that had he been present he would have voted for the bill.

Large Crowd See Bridge Street Play

Young People of Bridge Street Church Repeated 3 Act Comedy

The young people of Bridge Street Church repeated the three act play entitled "Miss Dearlove and Company" in the Sunday School rooms last night and played to a capacity audience.

The players, who took part were Helen Latimer, Theo Reid, Ada Ketchenson, Marian Ketchenson, Ruth Bond Dorothea Bond, Dorothy Pudney, Ethel Wheeler and Ida Axtell.

These ably performed parts, and made an interesting playlet. Between acts musical numbers were supplied by Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Wood, the former a vocal soloist and the latter violinist with a reading and an instrumental duet by Misses Doris and Florence Venning.

CORBYVILLE NEWS

The regular meeting of the Advisory Committee of the Cacco Club was held in the Council room on Wednesday, March 25th, at 12.30 p.m. and matters of importance were discussed.

The Cacco Ball Rifle Club still holds the centre of the stage, the ladies being more interested in it than ever. Mr. Borgue was unanimously elected instructor of the Club and a Committee of two was selected by the Chair to purchase a "Bull" ammunition and target.

Mr. Goyer was appointed Manager of the Ladies Basketball activities.

The first Inter-department basketball match was started on the new floor and resulted on Thursday during the noon hour and it was an exciting game closely fought all per. The Plant "Never-Swats" secured a challenge to the Office "Never-Sweats" after a half hour hit, full of grimpy play excitement, the game ended in a draw, the score being 5-5. The office staff did sweat and the plant team did even better than that, therefore thoroughly enjoyed the contest. We are all anxiously awaiting the play-off.

Crowded Market Sees Much Business—Dairy Products Stationary

Despite the inclement weather there was an exceptionally large market, the interior of the market building being filled to capacity as well as the square.

Maple syrup was very plentiful and sold at a reduction over last week's offering. Prices today were 60 and 65c for a quart and $2 a gallon, All offered for sale was sold.

The ruling price for fresh dairy butter was 35c, but in a few instances basket lots were procured for 32c and 33c a pound. Cream sold at 25c a pint.

Special eggs brought 27c a dozen and strictly fresh 25c a dozen. Shipping eggs brought 22c and 23c a dozen.

Chickens Still High

Dressed chickens still command a high price, selling at $1 and $1.50 a pair, according to quality. In some cases as high as $2 a pair was asked. A few chickens sold at $1.50 each.

There were no changes to note in the price of vegetables. Potatoes sold at 75c per bag.

Meat cut up at the various stalls sold readily. Veal was plentiful, selling at 12c to 16c per pound according to cut. Beef sold at 10c to 15c a pound and pork from 15c to 20c a pound.

Dr. Sedgwick Takes Methodist Church

But Is Not Yet Ready For Christian Guardian Editorship

(By R. E. Knowles)

Toronto, March 28.—(C.P.)—The train was just about to pull out of the Union Station, when I ran down the stairs and scholarly and clerical Dr. W. H. Sedgwick, Alert Medical Presbyterian Church, Hamilton.

"Is it true," I asked, "as stated in several papers, that you, although pledged as a Union minister, are considering the possibility of remaining with the Presbyterians of Central Church, Hamilton?"

The genial minister looked at me quizzically. "Not a scintilla of truth in it," was the swift response. "I am a Union minister. Central Presbyterian people would not insult me by even proposing such a thing. They are too high-minded a people to even dream that either did minister would recant like that."

His interrogator was about to turn away, when a sudden revelation came. "But I'll tell you something," the doctor added, with a twinkle. "And I think the news is remarkable. I have been offered the Editorship of the Methodist Church Publishing House, Toronto, soon to be known as the Metropolitan United Church."

"And did you accept?"

"I did accept—after considerable hesitation and reflection."

"Is not Dr. Stafford due for staff another year there yet? Where will you go in the interim?"

"Well I am for the intervening year, to have charge of St. Andrew's Methodist Church, Montreal."

"Then," my interrogator gasped, "is that all, Dr. Sedgwick?"

"Why do you mean?"

"Anything any other surprises, I mean. Have you been elected president of the Wesleyan Conference of England, or Editor of the Guardian, or any other little thing like that?"

"No the new," responded the smiling minister, "I am due for the train began to move, "one has to work up gradually. You know." The ministerial genius for the Methodist Cathedral settled back in the railroad pew and opened up a newspaper.

United After Fifty Years

Nyack, N.Y., March 23—Fifty years ago when Thomas Allen returned after 27 years of army duty in India to his home in Scotland he was told that four years before his mother, father, sister and brother had moved to the United States. Mr. Allen, at the age of 56, after years of searching he met his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Allen Mitchell, 102, who lives near here and planned with her to look for their brother. Mrs. Allen, who is thought to be in Philadelphia.

USE PISTOL, SWORD, NOT YET SATISFIED

Paris March 28.—Gilbert Charles and James de Rolestay Reus, who had quar relled over a point of honour, fought their second duel in a week yesterday. They tried pistols last week, but their marksmanship was poor and nothing happened. They fought swords to-day, and during their sixth passage at arms Charles put the point of his sword through his antagonists forearm. Honor was satisfied, but the duellists were not, refusing to be reconciled.

Curling Season is Drawn To Close

Prizes Presented and Happy Social Evening Spent At Rink

Activities in the Curling Club for the season of 1924-25 were brought to a close last evening when in the rink on Dundas street, prizes won were presented. Some fifty members were present and the evening proved to be one of rare enjoyment. From the early part of 8 o'clock ing until 10.30 progressive euchre was played, after which a well prepared luncheon was served. This was followed by community singing and a number of selections by the Bon Ton orchestra.

Mr. H. A. Fish, Vice President of the club presented the prizes. The club cup was won for the second time in succession by rink skipped by Jack Symons the players being W. Gilbert, R. Hepworth, W. Symons and Jack Symons.

Local bonspiels were held during the months of January and February for the cup. The members of the Symons rink were winners in January and prizes were given to each member of the rink.

Skipper Jack Hardens rink won and prizes were given to each player in the rink.

Members of the rinks which were running up in both bonspiels were also awarded prizes. The prizes were suitably engraved by the club executive and brief addresses were given by several players.

The season was one of the most successful in the history of the club.

CADET BENEFIT MUCH ENJOYED

The concert for the benefit of the cadets of the Prince of Wales School was well attended last evening and a substantial sum was taken at the door proceeds to go for the purchasing of uniforms. Mayor Solmes occupied the chair and the program furnished by Mr. Atkins of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa. Mr. Atkins conducted the Belleville Kiddies so successfully for a number of years and his service at their concerts received out to several encores. He never fails to please. The other numbers contributed were by the cadets and members of the Community Club and were as follows:

Community Singing

Piano Solo—Miss Eugene Harkins.

Two reels of pictures—Mr. Atkins.

Duet contributed by the male quartette—Miss Beulah Harkins and Miss Marion Turner.

Duet—Selection of first aid by the cadets under the instruction of Mr. Mowat.

Community Singing—Lady Marie Harkins and Eddie Turner. This song with its local hits was a feature of the evening and was encored a number of times.

Musical number—Mrs. Harkins, Bulbulin Harkins, Mallie Harkins and Miss Marion—Mr. Atkins.

Pyramid building and the letters P. C. W. were formed by the Cadets under the instruction of the principal of the school, Mr. J. E. Hall.

Dialogue—May Brooker and E. Hurley.

Way down East—A sketch in which the following took part: Mrs. Martha Harris ,Miss Bessie Hart, Miss Thelma Turner, Gordon Hart and Mr. Turner.

Program closed with The King.

SCHOOL IS WRECKED BY HEAVY EXPLOSION

Pittsburg, March 28.—An explosion early yesterday wrecked the public school building in the suburban village of Jacob Jacobs, the janitor has been arrested and police are now busily searching the ruins to the belief he was responsible. Investigators said the explosion was not accidental and a reward of $1,000 was offered by Chief Michael Thomas Pfarr for information leading to the arrest of those responsible for wrecking the building.

"The blast occurred shortly after six o'clock this morning and rocked houses and broke windows within a radius of several blocks. One corner of the two story brick building was wrecked completely and the remaining walls and room were cracked and left swaying under the weight of surrounding rafters. A one-story frame annex was blown to splinters. A fine alarm was sounded in the firemen were unable to find any trace of fire, leading to the belief that the explosion was of incendiary origin. Officials that the building had been bombed.

Cardinal Praised Girl's Dress

New York, March 26—It's not very often that a prominent cleric compliments young women on their attire, but Cardinal Hayes handed a bouquet to the 150 members of the Cadet Nurse Corps, which is a war time measure and communion service in the chapel of St. Patrick's Cathedral. The Cardinal declared this is a hard age in which to live, but that the girls are setting the modest dress of the club members.

Button Lodged in Throat

A button stuck in the throat of Gwendolyn Mosley, a small Lansdown girl, lodged in her throat and it was necessary for her to be taken to Kingston General Hospital, where it was successfully removed by Dr. Hall.

Plenty Of Action In Indoor League

Good Crowd Sees Ciaco and Belleville Juniors Win

Two interesting games of indoor baseball attracted a fair crowd of fans and provided plenty of fun and sport at the Armouries last night.

In the first seven inning tilt, Ciaco defeated Belleville Juniors 6-5 in a close contest. Just managed to oust the Printers out of a victory by 7-4.

In the second game, the Belleville Juniors defeated the Alemite nine in a one game game by 12-4.

The Printers have not played together except in two games and with new faces in the game last night, they lacked the machine like finish of the Ciaco crew who play each day together. Printers were weak with the stick and their fielding was not snappy enough for the indoor game. They were up against a competent pitcher in Symons, who also robbed them of hits by fielding his pegs neatly. Though Ciaco ran seven over, they did not hit Dan O'Donoghue's delivery freely by any means. They may beat however of three or four good clouters who managed to connect for long hits, and stretched them to the proportions of home and slow fielding on the part of the Print gang. O'Donahue was seeking 'em over all evening and had many of them baffled. He deserved to win on his performance if the team has been able to connect for runs,all the bat. Cook caught a good game though he did stop a few with his face. Outside of O'Donahue, Symons at third and Pete Belanger in left field were the best all round helpmen the Printers had, Ciaco battery was the class of both games, easily so.

In the second game, fans saw action galore as the both teams feature heavy hitters who have had plenty of hard ball experience and who know a thing or two about baseball in any league. The Juniors are a group of youngsters who will be seen in action later in the season as Belleville's junior ball representatives, and they are at home while covorting about the Armouries floor. Alemite also presented hard ball players and experienced soft ball players, so the game was exciting.

The most pleasing feature of the league games to date lies in the fact that competent umpires have been officiated, who know how, and any decisions handed out being fair, have yet witnessed. In the first game Jack Hardy and Bill Symons was behind the plate, and he handled the game exceptionally well. Stan Nurse and Fred Adams on the bases were equally satisfactory. In the second Walt Gerow who always gives satisfaction went behind, with Ken Colling and "Twig" Wright on the bases. The double header Monday night should prove interesting too.

The line-ups:—

Ciaco—J. Hurley, c.; F. Symons, 1b.; Jeffrey, 2b.; Gerow, ss.; Belanger, lf.; Wood, cf.; Moxam, as.; A. as.; Allan, r.f.; Ketcheson, c.f.; Barriage, lf.; H. Lloyd, c.f.; M. Sy-

Canadians Meet In Southern State

Judge Deroche and C. H. Vermilyea Attend Unique Gathering

The Daily Intelligencer has received a copy of the Clearwater Evening Sun, published in Clearwater, Florida, containing the following account of a meeting attended by two Belleville men:

For the first time in the history of Clearwater a large company of men sang "God Save the King." The occasion was the monthly dinner of the Men's club of the Peace Memorial church. The distinguished guests of the evening was Mr. W. W. Hitts ex-mayor of the city of Toronto, Canada, and Judge Deroche and C. H. Vermilyea of Belleville, Ontario, and John Willsem, President Alex Stott in very happy vein welcomed the speaker and asked them to lead the company in singing "God Save the King." Afterwards Mr. Stott had them sing "America." The boys, contrary to general expectation knew the words.

Mr. Hitts spoke of the value of cooperation and from a deep and religious personal experience gave many illustrations of the value of cooperation.

Following the address by Mr. Hitts, the minister, Dr. Dunnell, who also is a Canadian by birth, but a citizen of U. S. A., spoke of the city of Toronto, and called attention to the fact that Toronto is not only a great center of learning and wealth but is known the world over (by its national exhibition. Many of the visitors present had attended Toronto exhibition.

The colony of Canadians is growing in leaps. They are greatly enjoying the bowling and golf.

CANADIENS STAY IN THE RUNNING

Victoria, March 28.—Canadiens stayed in the running for the Stanley Cup by defeating Victoria Cougars 4 to 2 in the third game of the series here last night before 4,000 fans. Canadiens played their best hockey since coming West with Howie Morenz standing out as the best player on the ice. Sprague, Cleghorn and Joliat were also good, while Hayes and Benoit in the Canadien goal saved his team numerous times and was given a great support by Canadiens' Pacers. Frederickson was effective in centre.

UP TO 30 YEARS

Los Angeles, Cal., March 28—Kid McCoy was sentenced to prison terms of three to thirty years yesterday for the shooting rampages the morning after the slaying of Mrs. Teresa Mora. McCoy's previous sentence of one to fourteen years was imposed in connection with Mrs. Mora' death will be served concurrently with the new sentence.

McCoy was sentenced by Superior Judge Fricke after rejection of his attorneys for a new trial had been denied.

Y'S MEN CLUB HOLD MUSICAL EVENING

The Y's Men Club met last evening at the Association building and many members were in attendance. Mrs. Adams was chairman and it was a musical evening and the program provided was much enjoyed. Violin selections were rendered by George Stevens and Arthur Henry gave two solos.

At the meeting on Friday evening next, the members of the basketball team of the Y will be guests of the Club and a special program for the occasion is being prepared.

WAS SOUND SLEEPER FARMER LOST BARN

Petrolia, Ont.,March28—Fire totally destroyed the frame barn and all the contents of Dan McCaw, a well known farmer residing on Centre Line two miles East of here while the family were unaware of the destruction. About 4 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. McCaw was awakened suddenly by a heavy result and when he looked out he saw the barn a mass of smouldering ruins.

The loss is estimated at $6,000. There was insurance, eight head of cattle and three sows were burned while fifty tons of hay and 300 bushels of grain as well as implements, buggies, harness, etc., were utterly destroyed. The nature of the fire remains a mystery. It is supposed the building was struck by lightning.

WOMEN TO BOYCOTT THOSE SELLING BEER

Lindsay, March 28.—Threats of boycott of local grocers who handle beer, 44 beer have been made loudly follow ing the stores handling the brew. The week two prominent grocers were called up over the phone and warned to discontinue the merchants that certain boozeroom in the town had decided to boycott all grocers handling the beer.

A canvass of the local grocers discloses the fact that none of them are very anxious to handle the new beverage. Some of them state, however, that if there is a demand for the beer on the part of their customers, they will certainly stock up in order to hold a trade that might drift to the merchant who would make it a specialty.

Want Power Developed

The Leeds and Grenville Counties Council has placed itself upon record as favoring the development of electric power on the Rideau canal system and has asked the Hydro-Electric Power Commission to bring about an early development to the same.

GERMANS VOTE FOR FIRST TIME FOR PRESIDENT

Seven Candidates Are in the Running, Including Ludendorff

CLEAR MAJORITY.

Successful Candidate Must Beat All in the Field

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Berlin, March 28.—For the first time in its history of more than a thousand years, dotted with turbulent reigns of margraves, electors, kings and emperors, the German nation to-morrow will be given an opportunity of electing its head through the medium of popular ballot. The late Friedrich Ebert, first president of German republic held his office by virtue of a vote of the national assembly in 1919 by which he was designated provisional president. It was by an act of the Reichstag in 1921 that Eberts provincial status was changed to a regular one, his term to expire June 30, 1925. His sudden death advanced the date two months.

The law for the election of a president provides that the candidate must obtain a clear majority of all votes cast, to be declared elected. As there are seven candidates in the running, chaotic in Germany seriously believes that any candidate can obtain a majority. The law therefore provides that a second ballot shall be taken at which a plurality election day has already been fixed for April 26. This time the candidate obtaining the highest number of votes will be declared elected, regardless of majority rule. The presidents term is for 7 years.

Candidates are Karl Jarres, Vice-President of Mayor Street, Otto Braun, former Premier of Prussia, Prof. Wilhy Heichen, Democratic party candidate, Dr. Marx, former Chancellor and centre party candidate, Premier Held of Bavaria, leader of Bavarian People's party, Ist nodinse and General Ludendorff, Fascist candidate.

REMEMBER THE VICTIM

The Ottawa correspondent of the Border Cities Star, in discussing Miss Agnes Macphail's advocacy of wages for criminals serving time, says: "Her remarkable opening statement unintentionally suggests that money assured in this way, or at least a portion of it, should be used to compensate individuals who have been the victims of the criminals in question." Miss Macphail's idea was that money earned by a prisoner should be turned over to the dependents of the prisoner or held in trust until such time as his sentence expired. The only feature not mentioned in the debate in the House was the position of the criminal's victim. Surely he is entitled to first consideration. It is a fact that a mental individual derives little satisfaction from the knowledge that a man who stole from him is serving time in some penitentiary. Therefore it is reasonable to argue that the aggrieved person has a better right to the criminal's wages, if any, than has the criminal himself. It is likely that Miss Macphail will bring her resolution up again next session in which case she might incorporate a few changes along the lines suggested.

PROFANITY EXCUSED

Whatever its faults, the promanager is tolerant of minor evasions. As an example of this, an Englishman tells the following story—surely an unique one to Canadian ears:

There was one a woman who came across a Canadian minister driving an ox-team. The minister was swearing loudly and lustily. The lady objected.

"I'm sorry, lady," the minister replied. "But I bought these oxen from a very profane Scandinavian and this is the only way I can make 'em work. And I gotter earn my daily bread same as you."

"I beg your pardon," was the reply, "I didn't understand." So saying she passed out of his life. But the morals is plain. Half the World does not know why the other half cusses, and it behoves us all not to be too harsh and censorious.

THE BASEBALL GRANT

When the executive of the C.N.R. Baseball Club of Belleville met last December at the Y.M.C.A., officers for this season were appointed, and a suggestion made that representatives visit the City Council at a later date, asking for a grant from the city to the C.N.R. baseball club before the season commenced. The idea met with favour at the meeting.

Recently President N. F. North of the club met the councillors at a city council meeting and in an address, presented reasons why he believed the council should grant $600 to the club.

Thursday night in committee, councillors tabled the communication which they had received before President North addressed them, asking for the grant, without one word of discussion.

The C.N.R. baseball team of Belleville, as Mr. North pointed out, is one of the best advertising mediums of the city. Twice a week from Victoria Day until well into the autumn it places Belleville on the sport pages of Toronto newspapers. Almost every day it causes story or comment to appear in the local and district press. It provides high class sport for baseball lovers—and who does not like baseball—throughout the summer half holidays. It brings business to the Exhibition Park which should encourage the Parks Commissioners; it brings people to the city to see the games—and the city incidentally where they spend their money. It advertises "our" railway, and anyone who considers the subject a moment may readily name other probably lesser but nevertheless beneficial results of the C.N.R. ball team.

Winning the Provincial championship, the Central Ontario League pennant and Johnston cup but amplifies any glory which the team achieves by its existence as a team in the League, yet when it asks for a grant—the matter is not discussed pro nor con.

In fairness to the city councillors however, it must be stated that a detailed financial statement of the C.N.R. baseball club—which must needs be a financial success, especially after successful seasons when the semi-finals and finals are reached with bumper gate receipts—if submitted to them, might improve them more strongly than the repetition of undoubted words of worth for the club. Men who are elected to office to handle the business of 18,000 people must combine care with thrift, and better than anything else, they prefer to deal with the facts. Probably if they were shown the real need of the grant, they would be more considerate with a matter which should receive consideration.

The city councillors in these stringent times are endeavoring to entrench. They do not propose making expenditures without most searching inspection of the cause, and in this instance even the legality of the grant is doubtful, it has been said.

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

Reputation

WHO steals my purse steals trash," says Iago, "but he who filches from me my good name robs me of that which not enriches him, but makes me poor indeed."

Human beings are so constituted that most of them value their good name as they do their life.

They spend their days in building up their name. It means to them what other people think of them. So it means veritably their opinion of themselves.

When a name is taken away or its value lowered, it is as if life itself had been lowered. Hamlet says: "Very few of us would care to live if our reputations were stolen." Shall indeed is the number of those who can live on alone despite what everybody thinks of them.

The record books of the courts of the county by which the editors of a blackmailing publication were sent to jail and made to pay a fine has been received with much favor by the public.

Blackmailing is so profitable a business as it is dangerous. It belongs in the same category as holding a man up in the street at the point of a pistol.

In the one case it is "your money or your life"; in the other case it is "your money or your reputation." And to most people reputation and life are synonymous.

Our reputation is in fact so dear to us that many of us value station in life more than we value life itself.

We blow out our brains when we lose our money or become the subject of some scandal, or are otherwise disgraced.

This may be very foolish, but it is human. It shows how deeply we are all engrossed in the business of keeping up our reputation.

Unfortunately reputation is as unstable as life itself. It is at the mercy of any babbling tongue. We do not need to tell a lie about anybody in order to slander. An innuendo is enough.

For instance, it is undoubtedly true of any woman that "she is no better than she ought to be." But to say that about a woman is to intimate that she is a bad one.

Along with women, ministers of the gospel are peculiarly subject to the attack of the blackmailer. Their stock in trade is their reputation; the several orders in which they are held for probity and purity of motive. To have these qualities assailed is to ruin their usefulness.

There seems but one answer to the blackmailer. It is to throw him out immediately.

Whoever pays the slightest bit to him puts himself in his power and his payments are never stopped.

One is sometimes tempted to think that Benjamin Franklin was right when he insisted that there should be perfect freedom of the press, but it should be limited by the right of everybody who wanted to, to lick the editor.

Perhaps if more editors were licked at certain times in the past we would have had better newspapers before this.

Press Opinions

NO POWER FOR EXPORT.

(Hamilton Herald)

Every unit of electric power that can be developed in both provinces will eventually be required in them and more than most people imagine. As it is Sir Adam Beck is warning us that a power famine in Ontario can be expected as early as next year, and he is arranging to prepare for it by installing steam plants. If exported power could be recalled upon giving reasonable notice, there would be less object too to export; but it is natural that once the power is in use across the line a vested interest is created, and it will be almost impossible to recover it for use at home.

Why should not the water-power at Carillon Falls on the Ottawa River be developed jointly by the provincial authorities of Ontario and Quebec? They have the right to do so. Power rights in the boundary river are shared equally by the two provinces. Why should they not make use of their opportunities and share in the advantages?

Dutchy's Diary

Snow and Geese

Most people in Belleville, Prince Edward and lower part of Hastings County are gladdened by the arrival of spring. Few regret the passing of the snow and cold winds. We look forward eagerly to the comfortable days of summer time. How different the attitude is in contrast to the spirit behind this statement from McArthur Mills, North Hastings published in the Bancroft Times this week:

"We were pleased to pet the snow so the men can continue drawing pulpwood and poles.

* * *

We were waiting at the South Station for the 8.40 to steam in from Toronto. On the platform were five or six men wrapped in their own thoughts, all strangers.

Suddenly from the direction of the bay there came the noise of wild geese—like the terse conversation of mysterious people who must talk while they work. And in a twinkling those wild geese had that group of men together swapping stories about shooting and bird habits as if they had known each other for years.

It's a sure game to drawing it might be observed that most men are about as sociable as geese, and feed but a small degree to get together.

"The cruelest thing in the world is—That's what someone calls the Grand National Steeplechase which was run yesterday over the course at Aintree."

This famous race through the field may not be the cruelest thing in the world but the course is the most difficult that horses are asked to negotiate. Many experts in the Old Country believe the test is too severe but the fact that at least one winner in former years and numerous other horses win have raced in the classic before, started in the "National" again yesterday, is rather in favor of the contest as the severest test known to the turf—one in which pace and horse both must have Spartan courage.

Much has been said about the severity of the course. It is one of more than four and one-half miles over all sorts of obstacles, some of the fences being upward of five feet high and flanked on either side by yawning ditches that blanch the stoutest-hearted riders, and can only be negotiated by the highest type of steeplechasers. That horses frequently fall and sometimes are killed or suffer injuries that call for their destruction has failed to bring about a lowering of the fences or a reduction in the distance. The course was laid out as a supreme test of jumping quality, and the steeplechase authorities of England evidently believes that the end justifies the means.

The Grand National was first run in 1839 and it has frequently had more than thirty starters.

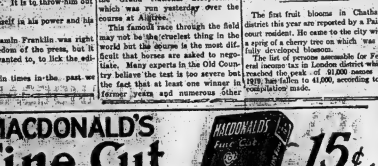

To-day's Smile

During a railroad accident a young man came rushing out of the train yelling that a woman had fainted and wanted to know who had some liquor. Several flasks were offered. After tasting each, he finally selected one flask and started to drink it, explaining: "Seeing a woman faint always did upset me."

Why Men Crack

When on the Highway to Success

"Slackening pace," Doctor Kennedy tells us, "is one of the commonest signs of nervousness. Another is physical unrest. People showing signs of nervousness when you examine them closely are twisting their eyebrows, shrugging your shoulders, swinging one foot when you're not crossed; or when you cannot sit at a desk or table without continually tapping with the fingers."

THE warning symptoms, as outlined above, are well worth careful study because with this knowledge you can detect the indications of failing nervous energy while yet there is time to prevent serious results.

Your digestive system has failed to supply proper nourishment to the nervous system.

On this account outside help is necessary, such as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, before you can get back your strength and vigor.

You will not be using this restorative treatment long before you are sleeping and resting better, appetite and digestion will improve and you find yourself well on the way to health and happiness.

JUMPS COUNCIL TO BE MARKET CLERK

Trenton, March 28.—Declaring that he "would be happier with something to do," Alderman Walter Stocker automatically walked out of the City Council chamber last night to the office of the toll-gatherer of the city's market, and is called. Thursday night, when at a meeting of the Property Committee, his tender for $975 for the market tolls for the year commencing April 1st 1924 and ending March 31st, 1925, was accepted, and the late alderman became the new Market Clerk.

Exclamations of "are you sincere" and "do you really mean it" from his colleagues of the Property Committee greeted the reading of Mr. Stocker's tender, the marked change for $700 which was enclosed, being music residence of his good faith. "I want a job of some sort," declared the tenderer, whose chief fly to bid for such a position, while holding the office of a city father, was once closed by Chairman M. McIntyre, City Clerk Armstrong, however, decided the matter of the procedure by saying that Mr. Stocker was quite at liberty to tender for the position, and, if successful, would automatically vacate his seat in the City Council.

The action will necessitate the immediate naming of another alderman to fill the vacant seat, as Mr. Stocker assumes his duties on April first, and the next meeting of the Council takes place after that date.

GLORIA SWANSON "HER LOVE STORY"

That's the title of Gloria's latest Paramount picture, at Allan Theatre production which comes to the Belle Theatre next Monday. The story is the adaptation by Frank Tuttle of Mary Roberts Rinehart's novel and magazine serial, "Her Majesty, the Queen." In fact with the leading man's role typical of all the star, and others in the strong supporting cast include George Fawcett, Robert Agnew, Harold Goodwin, Sidney Herbert and other big names well known on both stage and screen.

To voice the opinion of the editor of the magazine in which the story appeared, "Mary Roberts Rinehart is one of the most remarkable personalities in this country. If some man wrote all the novels, all the plays and all the perfectly wonderful stories that she's written, we—meaning we men—would all get up on our feet and say, "Here is one who can produce more fine stuff than any living human being."

But doing this—and a lot more—has been only one of Mrs. Rinehart's jobs. She has borne, trained, stumbled and launched five fine sons. And between times, written "The Man in Lower Ten," "Tish Plays," "Bab," "Tish," "The Bat," "Dangerous Days," and so many others that I won't try to recite them all.

"And now she has written the tenderest love story in many a day."

Now that is putting it mildly, "Her Love Story" is said to be the best Swanson picture ever made, and when one recalls "The Humming Bird," "Society Scandal," "Manhandled," and others, that must be some picture. It's a story of a beautiful young princess, crowned against her will to marry the

Talmadge Girls Worth that Much to Movie People

How much is a screen star worth—dead?

The question seems preposterous, but the fact remains that should Constance Talmadge die today the Joseph M. Schenck subsidiary estimates its loss would aggregate $1,000,000. For that reason the producers, through the Behrendt-Levy Company of Los Angeles have taken out policies for that amount on the lives of both Constance and her sister, Norma.

Other policies also were taken out to cover accidental injury or disfigurement of the stars which would preclude their future appearance on the screen. In addition to this, both Constance and Norma carry personal policies of large amounts.

These stars perhaps other than any others, subject themselves to danger in the making of pictures. In the filming of her latest First National, "Learning to Love," Constance had a narrow escape from death. A heavy bank of electric arcs, temporarily placed, crashed to the studio floor, narrowly missing her as she worked.

The picture, which portrays Constance as a girl graduate trying to select a husband, will be shown at the Griffin Theatre Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS IN TIRE CONSTRUCTION

Backed up by forty years of successful manufacturing in Canada of various rubber products, Gutta Percha and Rubber, Limited, will shortly announce through these columns the introduction of a new type of Cord Tire, which for dependable performance and security from tire trouble will be a revelation to all discriminating motorists. These new generally oversize, medium - priced Tires are entirely new in Canadian Tiredom, and constitute a development in tire making that will undoubtedly be received by motorists with a good deal of enthusiasm.

This new "Gutta Percha" Tire is extremely designed to meet the needs of motor car owners who desire the wonderful riding comfort and cushioning effect of balloon tires, but who are not willing to make a change in the wheel size of their car, and who want the easy steering qualities of ordinary high-pressure cord tires. The specially designed semi-flat tread of this new "Gutta Percha" Tire, combined with special treatment of the inner layer of cord fabric, have resulted in a tire which will give long mileage, ease of control, and a road smoothness effect that is indeed a novel experience where the way is rough.

These tires will be sold exclusively by Belleville Vulcanizing Co., Moira street who claim that the new Tire is taking very well.

Contest for Boys and Girls

The week of April 13 to 18 has been announced as "Be Kind to Animals" week. Now, I know all our boys and girls are kind to animals and many of you have one or more as pets. The Editor of this Page wants to hear about these pets, what they are, their names, your care of them and any cute things they have done.

For the best letter from boy or girl telling about this or her pet, Aunt Anne Hastings will give a prize of $1.00. The letter must reach me not later than April 12th. The shortest letter and those worthy of mention will be published on the 19th or 20th of April. Only boys and girls under twelve years of age coming within the limits of this contest. Stories must be true. Sign your name, address and age, and address all letters to Anne Hastings, Intelligencer Office, Belleville.

THE INCHCAPE ROCK

(Building of the Bell Rock Light).

Many poems are unknown, for what reason it is difficult to explain, to the modern schoolboy that used to delight his youthful grandfather.

Who has declaimed Southey's spirited ballad of the "Inchcape Rock," once so popular, to a bashful audience? Whose young voices in their teens, unashamedly reciting their lines and consequently reciting them spiritedly at the climax, still proclaim from the school platform to their untiring fathers and mothers how "Sir Ralph, the Rover, tore his keel; For down they came and swam around, The sailors swam in on every side, The ship it sailed beneath the tide!"

It is to be feared not; Southey is a neglected poet nowadays. But the story of the Inchcape Rock—or Bell Rock as it is otherwise called in our day—is interesting from the first.

Sir Ralph, the Rover, tactlessly removing the sacred bell, boasted over the reef by the pious and benevolent Abbot of Aberbrothock, and his ship was set wrecked upon the unguarded rock. It is like the good Abbot, in spite of the tradition then of history, but a bell there was long presently to be.

The building of the present Bell Rock Light, as it is usually called, is the "Northern Lights and Lighthouses" is an epic of the sea, the tale of the rock in the sea and the Abbot's bell. It was in 1800 that the Commissioners for Northern Lights were instructed to build a tower on the long, low, lonely reef of twelve miles from the coast of Scotland, where two thousand feet long, entirely submerged at high tide, and fallen almost away on all sides to deep water.

Until the year 1807 no work for a full height work was possible only on the summer days of the year, and even then during but five hours a day. It was before the era of electricity, and all the materials were dependent on the perilous and difficult manoeuvring of sailing craft in the complex, baffling, and often fickle, sudden, change—manoeuvring, unbreakable even in calmest weather, and continually turning against them.

Once while some of the men were at work on the rock their vessel and tender broke adrift in the night and was driven ashore.

The workmen were too intent on their work to observe their danger, but not so their engineer, Robert Stevenson, a man who, like Southey, was a poet in his way, and who had created their plight only by his power and brilliance.

Nor he said nothing and only when they had come home and had time to read the fish realize that they were cavalry and were duly likely to be drowned before the boats could beat back. Indeed it was not their own boats that he feared, that fortunately came to their rescue just as the water was beginning to lap about their feet.

They were drenched, exhausted and terrified that out of thirty-two only eight could return to work next day; but after a day's rest the twenty-four others also returned their nerve and were back on the job.

The tower a hundred and twenty feet high was completed in 1810.

It still stands, though its ruddy and classical light, as the late Robert Scott called it, now shines from a modern lighthouse with vastly improved power and brilliance.

BEST CURE FOR WORRY

"Let those who can do good works," wrote Mr. Arnold Bennett in the Saturday Magazine, "cure for worry, depression, melancholy brooding, is to so deliberately forth and try to win one's sympathy the gloom of somebody else. And let those who can't do good works make a determined effort to do them."

"Let all think kindly of others never criticise them, never condemn, never judge; on the contrary, let all condone. Above all, justify, seek to comprehend, and to put themselves in the place of others. The mental attitude has to be cultivated. It cannot be adopted by a mere good resolution.

"We must ask ourselves about a thousand times a day, 'Who am I to sit in judgment?' We must learn to perceive the absurdity, the impudence, and the preposterousness of sitting in judgment to err is human to forgive ought to be divine. Here is the final form of benevolence, and it will produce the finest form of satisfaction—a satisfaction which increases from day to day and only reaches its maximum when life ends."

Warns Girls Against Drink

"Keep away from that fizz-drink girls." This is the counsel of Dr. Bliss Carnochan, of Brooklyn, the oldest active woman doctor in America. She is 78 and still at the picture of health, so her advice ought to be worth while. Here are the rules of no benefit to the modern woman she declares.

"Don't be refreshments, and welcome, too,

While the money your pockets so free-ly

Will be used by the ladies in the usual way.

"But in the blacks to suit the occasion. It may not be poetry, but it "Slit the bill" and incidentally "the treasury." Some day, perhaps, rhymes may be made from odds and ends, and mathematical around the community. The verses can be run off on a typewriter and not cost much in cash pockets.

Won't you write sense?

"Certainly not!" is the contributions from the lady who once signed herself as above. Is the Music silenced or just temporarily? Is the Spring coming with flowers? Or are the children tiding up all your time?

NATURE LORE

By Wallace Havelock Robb

MIKE POOLS THE GULLS

"Come on, Mister! with your fish," this from one of the newsboys that had come down onto the pier to see what all the row and laughing was about.

Here's old Mike and his shadow and another pelican too. This new pelican looks more like white than Mike looks like himself!"

Such a jabbering among the boys and girls was nothing compared to the row the gulls kicked up.

The man with the baskets of fish was ready to thank the fun but he had not expected such a rush of birds.

The sea gulls are very quick to find out where there is anyfoodbeing handed out. All one has to do is to raise a hand and wave it then one gull, the nearest one, looks over and, seeing the word and honour, they can tell by the look in your face, whether you are going to eat it or feed it. Some they are the daddy gulls, for daddys and mothers generally know when somebody is fibbing.

Anyway, here was Mister man with the fish and here were the gulls and here pelicans all waiting to see what would happen.

If the trip had made up his mind to throw the fish down to the gulls he would be changed his mind. He decided to only throw half of it. He got his hands full and gave a few fish around to the boys and girls and everybody got ready.

The fish were thrown, and to see what we could call good big goldfish. I smelt a shiny but not gold.

Birds are more friendly with little boys and girls than with big folks, so they knew some nice treat was coming.

They were ready enough, the man, and everybody drew back ready to throw. Together, now, one, two, three, GO!

Fish, fish, fish, what a terrible clatter and splatter, splatter, splatter.

Here's a gull that is fairly hollow. And here's another that is hardly empty.

And look at that one, what a joke. He grabbed too much and perhaps he'll choke. But he spit it out, for another try and the pelican pouched it in one gulp. Then the pelican juggled a little to get the fish to head first and he ate it down.

Mike got a couple of little fish for some and the Pelican Mikes got hardfish of course.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

"Sister throw the pelican a fish so he can get it before an ygull gets near and one of the boys.

The man still had about half the fish for he had kept some and he handed every boy and girl a fish or two and the gulls was so mixed they could manage to throw a little fish into the water so low, close to the pelicans and at a time when no gull was about, so the poor pelicans could have a chance to get it before somebody else. But it was no use, he pelicans managed to get one or two but the gulls were too many.

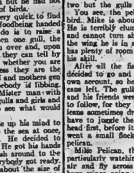

You see, the pelican is a very big bird and his stomach as big a one. He is terribly clumsy in a small space and cannot turn about quickly. But on the wing he is in a different world and has plenty of room to go fast and show his skill.

After all the fish were gone, Mike decided to go and get some fish on his own account, so he and the other pelican sailed off. The gulls knew where Mike and his friends were going and decided to follow, for they knew that Mike had been successful before. So all the gulls have to jungle the fish up and get it head first, before it will go down, so off went a small flock of gulls after each pelican.

Mike Pelican, the old fellow I was particularly watching, would lie in the air and fly across the water with his wings wide going down on the water but, my, how fast he went. The gulls wings went faster but he always managed to keep ahead of them.

Whenever Mike would see a fish in the water, near the top, he would dive for it about and dive, just closing his wings to the water, then up again, one, two. Whew, what a splash. He would go right under. Sometimes he would be too slow in coming up and the gulls would come in time to get over him before he could swallow the fish.

Once, when Mike dived, he was close enough to them as much as say, "Well, smarties, you are too slow," whereupon Mike's head appeared before he could jungle the fish, he held a fish back under water. The thieves had missed the fish and swam away for another try. Mike's head appeared and he swallowed it quickly with a loud laughing quack.

JUST IN PASSING

"Cheer, up, then, soul of mine! Be not downcast,
The troubles, worries—all will soon be past.
Forget the things behind.
Press on. The world is blind,
Before is oft-times hope.
Who loses life will find Pain at last."

—M. L. McLeod.

One of the Best

I hope you all went to see "North of 36". It was a real picture, wasn't it? Some of the scenes I'll not forget in a hurry. I have said before if there is a better actor in American filmdom I have yet to see him. "The Covered Wagon" which I remember was a fine picture, but "North of 36" has it beat all hollow, to use the words of the Nicest Man.

When Gladstone Fell

Mr. Gladstone used to insist that after one received a personal shock even if no actual harm were done, it was necessary to remain perfectly still for at least ten minutes. One day he slipped on the pavement, and although not in the least hurt or shaken he pulled out his watch and remained seated on the ground for the necessary period. Fancy if a policeman had come along!

The blind man put his hand to his head.

"I heard a voice, a man's voice, Nabrue. I thought—he hesitated—I thought he called out as—as a man would call if he were in danger."

"Is that all?" asked the marquis with deathlike calmness.

The blind man was silent for a moment.

"Is it, Nairne?" he asked.

"Why do you question me?"

"Yes, I question you!" responded the marquis savagely. "What else did you hear?"

Leigh hesitated.

"—I think I heard Miss Delaine call you."

The marquis gripped his arm.

"Come away!" he said.

CHAPTER XXII.

The two men walked toward the house in the gloaming, Leigh knew by the marquis' voice and manner that something had happened, but, with the delicacy of mortal agony which had smitten his acute ears just before the marquis had appeared on the scene, he refrained by in them. The clouds had gathered together during the few minutes and it was evident that a storm was approaching. The air was close and oppressive and the birds had ceased their song.

At one of those moments the marquis saw some object lying at the front of them on the gravel. He stooped and picked it up and, guided by the blind man's arm, it was the rose and lily dagger. As his fingers touched it they seemed to burn and he shook it with dew, as he had at first supposed.

"What is it that you have picked up, Nairne?" asked Leigh.

The marquis held the dagger in his then he replied in a low voice:

"Nothing."

The blind man turned his sightless face to him with troubled questioning; but he did not repeat the words.

The marquis let the dagger in his hand for a few moments, then he slipped it into his pocket. He knew he could not have grown more white or haggard but there was a new expression in it, and a strange one for the Marquis of Nairne's face to wear: it was one of dread and fear.

POEMS Old And NEW

"BLACKIE"

As yet there's not a blade of grass
To meet the morning glances,
But Blackie finds his voice again
And sings in rainbow chances.
They're all about life's happiness,
With ne'er a note of sorrow—
Dear heart! he does not stop to guess
What's in the morrow's furrow.
Whistle, Blackie! Whistle, Blackie!
Whistle, Blackie! Whistle, Blackie!
The best of blue that's over you
Is all I need to see!
Oh, who would call you mad, my dear,
Or hold you in derision?
Oh, who would not be glad, my dear
To share your happy vision?
The snows are still upon the hill,
And spring is hardly sighted
But there's a ray of cheer today—
As it bless you, you're delighted!
Whistle, Blackie! Whistle, Blackie!
You're the boy for me!
The best of blue that's over you
Is all I need to see!
Oh, you're a dream, and I've a dream,
That grids the greyest weather,
And both within that little gleam
Of blue were born together.
And now we'll sing in Hope's employ
Till doubtful days are over—
Till you can take your pick of joy
Till I can walk in clover!
Whistle, Blackie! Whistle, Blackie!
You're the boy for me!
The bit of blue that's over you
Is all we need to see.

—J. J. Bell

THE OLD HYMNS

There's lots of music in 'em—the hymns of long ago.
And when some grey-haired brother sings the ones I used to know
I scarter want to take a hand—I think of Mother and I croon.
On Jordan's stormy banks I stand and cast a wistful eye
There's lots of music in 'em—those dear sweet hymns of old.
With visions bright of lands of light and shining streets of gold;
And I hear 'em ringin'-ringing where the congregations go,
From Greenland's icy Mountains to India's coral strands.
Yes, there's lots of fervor of holier, sweeter days,
When the likes of the love of God bloomed white in all the ways;
And I want, for I need, that simple faith of the old-time meetin's tune,
Till "I can read my title clear to mansions in the skies."
I'm needin' needful singing books in them old days—we know
The words, the tunes and every one—the dear old hymn book through!
We didn't have no trumpets then, no organs built for show;
We only sang to praise the Lord "from which all blessings flow."
An' so I love the good old hymns, and when the time shall come
Before the faith has left me, and my singin' days are numb
If I can hear 'em sing them then, I'll pass without a sigh
To "Canaan's fair and happy land, where everything is bright."

—Frank L. Stanton, in the Atlanta Constitution.

Answers to Correspondents

By North—You're as welcome as the flowers in May! In my "auld days" I used to keep a scrapbook in which were pasted all such verses as you enclose, and it was to it I turned for the rhymes used for the "Acrostic" and I have it here.

"This little nonce is sent to you
And this is what we wish you'd do:
The little notice you gladly take
For a special purpose is meant to be,
Now measure your waistline inch by inch"

And see that the measure does not please.

For each small inch you measure round,
In the pocket put a penny piece.
The game is fair you will admit—
You "make" the money, I "make" it.
Then bring it to the——at the hour of eight,
The——will be the date.

This Little Brandon Lassie Is Never "Dosed" for Colds

The Brown Now Use the "External" Treatment Croup and Cold Troubles.

Mrs. John Brown, of 426 24th St., Brandon, Man., is the mother of this fine little girl and one of the many Canadian mothers who now use the vaporizing salve, Vicks VapoRub, in treating the sickness of their little ones. Using Vicks for some time Mrs. Brown writes:—

"I have eight small children—aged from one to seventeen years—and will certainly say that Vicks is the only cold remedy I have in the house all winter. If the cold is in the child's head I just put a little up each nostril and give relief in a short time. If it is in the throat I rub Vicks well in at night and by morning the cold has almost disappeared. I find Vicks far more satisfactory for home—in fact, I use it too for myself and find relief in a very short time. I always recommend Vicks to my friends especially those who have children."

Vicks is the external direct treatment for colds. It relieves through the skin—is ointment and inhaled as a vapor. It is the ideal treatment for children's colds. Just 30c, 60c and $1.20 a tin.

God bless Mummy. I know that's right,
Wash't it fun in the bath tonight?
The cold on nurse's chest is to be hot,
Oh! God bless Daddy—I quite forgot.
If I save my fingers a little more,
I can ree, Nanny's dressing-gown on the door.
It's a beautiful blue but it hasn't a hood,
Oh! God bless Nanny' and make her good.

Mine has a hood, and I lie in bed,
And pull the blankets right over my head,
And I shut sly eyes, and cut up small,
And nobody knows that I'm here at all.
Oh! Thank you, God, for a lovely day
And what was the other I had to say?
I said "Bless Daddy," so what can it be?
Oh! Now I remember it, God bless me.

Baree, Son of Kazan

By James Oliver Curwood
(A Vitagraph Picture with Wolf, the Wo-Dog, in an Adaptation of this story.)

SYNOPSIS

With the coming of the ice-filled days and nights of the Red Moon, a change came over Baree. Napoyer, the trapper's daughter, had made a pet of him, but Baree was half wolf and of the call of the wolves he fled, to pack his own, as Pierrot, the trapper, had predicted. "Go, Baree, for some day you will want your home back." Baree relayed the wolf-call and joined Mukwayan, a grizzly old-wolf, who also was seeking the pack. The eyes of both were attuned for the shrilling sounds from the wolves.

The snow grew deeper under their feet. In the open spaces they waded through it to their knees and it continued to fall in a fine, white cloud that descended steadily out of the sky. It was near midnight when it stopped. The clouds drifted away from under the stars and the moon, and for a long time Baree and Mukwayan stood without moving, looking down from the bald crest of a ridge upon a wonderful world.

An hour after they entered the plain they came suddenly out of the west the tracks of the wolf-pack. It was not far distant, probably not more than a mile away from the foot of the ridge and the sharp, quick yapping that followed the first outburst was evidence that the lean, famed hunters had put up sudden game, a caribou or young moose, and were close at its heels. At the voice of her own people Mukwayan laid her body close to her head and was off like an arrow from a bow.

The unexpectedness of her movement and the swiftness of her flight put Baree well behind her in the race over the plain. She was running blindly, favored by luck. For an interval of perhaps five minutes the pack were so near to their game that they made no sound, and the chase swung full into the face of Mukwayan and Baree. The latter was not half a dozen lengths behind the young wolf when a crashing in the brush directly ahead stopped them so sharply that they tore up the snow with their braced forefeet and spurt haunches. Ten seconds later a caribou bull burst through and dashed across an open spot more than twenty yards from where they stood. They could hear its wet pantine as it disappeared. And then came the pack.

At sight of those onrushing gray bodies Baree's heart leaped for an instant into his throat. He forgot Mukwayan, and that she had run away from him. The memory of the stars went out of existence for him. He no longer sensed the chill of the snow under his feet. He was wolf—all wolf. With the warm scent of the caribou in his nostrils, and the blood-lust to kill surging through him like fire, he darted after the pack.

It was as if Baree had belonged to the pack always. He had passed so naturally to other gray wolves had join in from out of the bush; there had been no ostentation, no welcome such as Mukwayan had given him in the open and no hostility. He belonged with these slim, swift-footed outlaws of the old forests, and his own jaws snapped and his blood ran hot as the smell of the caribou grew heavier, and the sound of its crashing body nearer.

It seemed to him that they were almost at its heel when they swept into an open plain, a stretch of barren without a tree or a shrub, brilliant in the light of the moon and stars. Across this the broken carpet of snow sped the caribou a score hundred yards ahead of the pack. Now the two leading hunters no longer followed directly in the trail, but shot out to the right and to the left of the pursued, and like well-trained soldiers the pack split in halves and spread out like-shape in the final charge.

The two ends of the fan forged ahead and closed in, until the leaders were running almost abreast of the Caribou, with fifty or sixty feet separating them from the pursued. Thus, adroitly and swiftly, with deadly precision, the pack had formed a horseshoe cordon of fatal fangs which there was but one course of flight—straight ahead.

Baree had found his place in the loser of the horseshoe, so that he was fair in the rear when the climax came to well in the rear when the climax came to well in the rear when the climax came to well

"The Story of Petroleum"

A famous film

The fascinating story of a substance more valuable than gold, explained and demonstrated by W. A. P. Schorman, Petroleum Engineer.

To Be Shown at
THE CITY HALL, BELLEVILLE
WEDNESDAY APRIL 1st, at 8 P.M.

PETROLEUM—the name that means life or death to the nations—the possession of which means supremacy or servitude in war or commerce.

Petroleum—a product that is of vital interest to every man, woman and child in Canada.

See how prehistoric animal and vegetable matter has been transformed into petroleum, the 20th Century wonder product.

How the pioneers locate the likely deposits of petroleum bearing sands. How they raise the derricks and sink the shafts. How they blast out the oil pockets. How gushers act. How the oil is pumped up from hundreds of feet below. How it is stored. How they lay pipe lines across hills, valleys or rivers. How the oil is forced through hundreds of miles of pipe lines to refineries far distant from the producing wells.

How the "Go Devil" chases dirt out of the pipe lines. How the oil is received at the refineries and how by many distilling and refining processes, calling for vast and costly mechanical equipment, they produce gasolene, benzine, lubricating oils, fuel oils and petroleum coke, all from the original "crude".

An Educational Film—yes—but a film that grips your attention. Shows how man has conquered one of Nature's greatest sources of energy — Petroleum.

Admission is FREE but by Ticket Only.

Tickets may be obtained while they last from our Belleville branch or from our dealers in your vicinity. Look for the British American Oil Pump.

A WOMAN'S SUFFERING

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sherbrooke, Montreal, Quebec. — "I am one of thousands who have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have great faith in it. I can safely say it has relieved my troubles and I will never be without a bottle of it in my house. Since my last baby was born I suffered from pains and backache and would feel so tired I could not do my housework. I have been taking the Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine and I feel so different. I recommend it to all my friends and hope it will prove other women who are suffering from the troubles I had." — Mrs. Thos. H. Gardner, 231 Evelyn Street, Verdun, Montreal, Quebec.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for the new mother. It is prepared from roots and herbs, contains no harmful drugs and can be taken by the nursing mother. It is worth in restoring the mother to normal health and strength is told again and again in just such letters as Mrs. Gardner writes.

A recent canvass of women users of the Vegetable Compound shows that 96 out of every 100 women taking the medicine are benefited by it. They write and tell us so. Such evidence entitles it to all it is daily receiving from women. It is for sale by druggists everywhere.

FASHIONS CHARMING AT MONTE CARLO

The yearly frequenters of Monte Carlo say that never have the fashions there been lovelier or more becoming, and why? Modes in the hills while winter lingers all other places have when spring arrives. It is assuredly a reign of color; Gone are the middy blouse and tots of serge of yester-year, and their place warm-bright of the rose, and peach tints, apricot and lemon red, much sand and cream, soft rather light blue, and a family of pastel greens from the green of moss in the darkest corner of a wood to the green of foam-touched waves. And all women, old and young, wear these colors. There are no middle-aged and elderly frocks any more, and much that smart uniform of the grey haired matron, has been buried and entirely. I have not seen a black day frock or ball-gown since I came to Monte Carlo, and I have come to the conclusion that a elderly woman is a gown of that gracious, kindly pale blue or misty grey with big shadowy eyes can be as lovely in her way as the young girl who chooses the same tints.

Perhaps the Paris couturier has tampered a little with the long straight line which makes every figure youthful, but all they have really done is to add such variations as circular flounces, pleats, godets, tucks, etc., and so safe can these materials in use—even the woollens—that the tale effect is not lost. Gently softened a little in the front while the back takes a straight and unadorned course. The hemline mounts rapidly, and you are not really smart in Monte Carlo if your frock is much below the knees. But your hemline may be irregular or scalloped, giving you more length here than there, or, if of lace, it may be longer than in other materials, because its transparency will not show stockings which are so fragile that their life is short. There are more afoot in Monte Carlo devoted solely to the sale of silk stockings than I have ever seen elsewhere—every kind of stocking at every price from the silk and lace hosiery like cobwebs, the hand-embroidered and rhinestone studded variety, to the perfectly plain the relationship. Take, for example, a gown of yellow crepe gracefully draped on the side with a bunch of luxury orange ostrich feathers which was worn by a French brunette beauty at the Hotel de Paris last night. It was the most exquisite for having over it a wrap of burnt orange ostrich feathers in crepe of the same shade. And there is no end to the combinations in all the fascinating shades of red which are to be seen in evening gowns with wraps to harmonize.

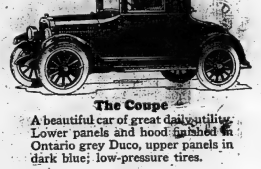

"KING" IS DEAD

Kingston, March 27.—"King" Boo-Hoo," the bear mascot of Queen's Football Club is dead. Since "King" has been in ill-health for some time and following a consultation, it was decided that his removal was absolutely necessary, and so he faced a firing squad, led by ex-Lieut. Jack Macgillivray.

The cause of raising London's tax rate, which is now hoped to keep at or below last year's rate of 34.5 mills, was placed last night by the City Council, on the Board of Education, which is asked to accept last year's school rate. It is also requested to defer the appropriation of $2,000 for Cadet uniforms till a plebiscite can be taken in December.

After gaining a notable victory by forcing heir employers to grant them wage increases of two and a half live a day, striking Fascist metal-workers in Lombardy, Italy, quietly returned to work. More than 100,000 had joined in the walk-out. The wage scale under the new contract will be officially drawn up at a conference of Italian fascists and union representatives at a meeting of Fascist chiefs to be called by Premier Mussolini.

NEW ELECTION IS NECESSARY FOR GERMANY

Final Returns Show No Candidate Having Received Majority

LUDENDORFF IS OUT

Late War Leader Trailed Hopelessly in the Rear

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Berlin, March 30.—Final returns from yesterday's residential election in Germany, announced this morning, show that none of the seven candidates received a majority as required by the constitution making a second election necessary. The second polling day has been fixed for April 26. Strongest set gainers in the election were Socialists, who jumped at the expense of Communists.

Berlin March 30.—Four-fifths of Germany's total vote in the preliminary presidential elections Sunday showed no candidate was elected, that the Republican parties are leading the reactionaries, and that Dr. Karl Jarres, Nationalist-elate of the Nationalists and the People's party, is topping the Socialist, Otto Braun, with 3,000,000 to 2,500,000.

The Republicans together polled about 11,000,000 votes out of the 31,000,000 counted early this morning. Former Chancellor Marx, Centre, of Catholic, has 3,000,000, and Professor Hellpach Democrat, has 1,500,000.

The Communists have lost heavily since then. Ernest Thaelmann's total is 1,200,000. Premier Held, of the Bavarian People's party, has received 850,000. General Ludendorff's Fascists were lost in the shuffle he has received only 285,000.

If there is no bitch in the proposed Republican coalition of Socialists, Democrats, and Catholics, the next president of Germany will be elected April 26, will be a Republican. In yesterday's elections the reactionaries were left well behind Jarres and showed nearly their full strength.

Marx probably will be the coalition candidate.

Forty Seven Are Confirmed Sunday

Right Rev. E. J. Bidwell, B.D., Bishop of Ontario Preaches

Christ Church was crowded last night when the Right Rev. E. J. Bidwell, B. D., Bishop of Ontario, preached there at the Confirmation service, and confirmed forty-seven candidates.

The sermon, based on the text, "Ye shall not see my face except your brother be with you," and he expressed his conception of Christianity as being founded on two great truths—the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of man. The Christian Church in the midst of Christ and his apostles is a great brotherhood, and the whole purpose of life is to secure from self into the realization of brotherhood with all men. Those who have been confirmed were thereby pre ering into fuller membership in the brotherhood.

The music was especially good, Mr. Batchelor taking the solo part of the anthem very acceptably.

Cocoanut King Is Giving Away Money

Starts in Late but is Making Good Progress

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, March 30.—Leopold Schepp, known as the "cocoanut king," and who for sixty-five years has been accumulating a fortune through production of cocoanut by-products, will be out at the age of eighty-five to "give away" his wealth. The "give away" thoughts are not on the subjects and as a start he presented fifty of his warehouse employees with checks varying from $400 to $5,000.

Now he has turned to the youth of New York and as an initial step has announced that $2,500,000 of his private wealth be set aside for the building up of a "boy's welfare institution."

The institution will be on the objective the starting up in business of boys who have "proved worthy" Mrs. Schepp intends securing applicants from church dignitaries and Sunday School teachers. When the boys are "ripe" and if they have lived up to a two year plan, including abstinence from drinking, which the "cocoanut king" himself stimulating, they will be given $300 and started in whatever career they choose. Church denominations will play no part in the selection of boys for Mr. Schepp's welfare league. His two cardinal beliefs, he says, are: "All roads lead to Heaven."

"There are 365 different ways of worshiping God and all of them are right."

Therefore the said philanthropist has never joined a church but "worships God in his own way." He would like to see Catholics, Jews and Protestants unite in some great common religion, he declared.

W. H. Hamilton, Canadian woodsman, is seen on the tree; 100 feet high, on which he broke the world's record by climbing from the ground, sawing off the top, and sliding back down in eighteen minutes.

Cobourg Captain Ferry is Found Dead; Was Stricken And Drowned in Bath Tub

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Rochester, N.Y., March 30.—Captain F. D. Ferry, of Cobourg, Ontario and master of car ferry Ontario number two, was found yesterday in a bath tub in his cabin. Captain Ferry, a native of Bright's Grove, is believed to have been seized with an acute attack and in falling struck his head against the faucet standing him. When found by the chief officer, the captain's body was lying in the tub with head and shoulders submerged. The doctors number three took the body to Cobourg, where interment will be made.

Wilson Inquest Opens To-morrow

Investigate Deaths of Mother and Daughter at Fort Stewart

The inquest into the deaths of Mrs. Nettie Wilson and her thirteen-year-old daughter, Shirley, whose charred bodies were taken from a hole in the ice on Fraser Lake on Wednesday, March 18th, will start at Bancroft tomorrow afternoon, and will continue less previous to the northern village.

Inspector R. St. Gemmott of the Provincial police, the young man arrested in connection with the alleged murder pact, County Attorney B. C. Donnan and others will take the nine o'clock train from Toronto Tuesday morning, arriving at Bancroft at 3.35 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The coroner's inquest will be opened before Coroner Stead Limit of Eldorado. The inquest will be open to the public, and Inspector Gurnett hopes to hold the preliminary hearing at Madoc the immediately after the inquest.

Cultured Lady Is Alleged Thief

Believed She is Head of Big Shoplifting Gang

New York, March 30.—Madame Jane Dow, cultured and refined, clad in black from head to heel, was arraigned for shoplifting at West 35th court on Saturday.

Detectives suspect she is head of a ring of shoplifters, who have preyed upon big department stores in several parts of the country and have worked a profitable game by stealing shop assistants' returning them for "cash credits," as if they had been bought.

After her trial her friends or detectives from Oyster Bay and Bay Shore, the woman in black was escorted in by Mrs. A. H. West, thirty-seventh Street. When her baggage was examined, detectives were struck by similarities between Jane Dow and Mrs. West, the prosecutor was told by the Australian delegation. They were billeted in private homes so that they saw the actual life of the people—"with the powder on and with it off." The Senator thought they were a charming people, they had an unique institution in that was served a forenoon tea as well as an afternoon tea.

The speaker described their trip to Zululand. The Zulus were pro-eminently a race of warriors. They fought off the weaklings just as the Spartans used to do. They had their warriors many strong, healthy women and they would produce a virile race. He also spoke of the Zulu dances. These dances are held infrequently, and several hundred men are said as about seven hundred women take part. They congregate on a sloping hillside, and march in martial fashion in their native dress which consists of targets, feathers and skins of animals. Then they sing war songs. Senator Wilson's lengthy account of the address that it was a most novel and striking sight. The soldiers were fine strapping fellows, perfect specimens of physical manhood, in the course of their dance they made evolutions as though they were about to attack, which made the spectators feel for the moment that they were any place else than where they were.

Scene of Boer War

During the address he recalled the battlefields of the Boer War, including Spion Kop. The South African boys done a great deal to erect monuments to those who died in the war. There were not many trees to be seen in this country. The Senator had seen more trees in his trip from Ottawa to Belleville than he had seen in the whole of his stay in South Africa. Most of the trees there were the eucalyptus, and flowering trees, which were no use for building purposes.

The speaker spoke in high terms of the missionaries among the natives. In the technical schools which are there the work compared favorably with the work of the schools here.

On the grounds, he said, on one side are the girls playing hockey and on the other the boys play football. This is a stupendous work, and a great problem but half of the natives are now Christianized, which is a marvelous achievement.

The Victoria Falls, which the speaker described as being much grander than Niagara Falls, appealed to the visitors very much. Senator Wilson made by also described the ostrich farms, which the visitors saw. They visited mines, and the process of irrigation which is necessary to employ there.

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, who was a former colleague of Senator Willoughby's at Cornwall, moved a vote of thanks for the splendid and instructive address.

Late Coming Back Is Hailed to Court

Young Married Man in Trouble; Police Court News

John Rickett, young married man, hired a car from Horace Yeaman, proprietor of the Checker Taxicab Company Sunday to go to Point Anne He would not be gone more than three hours, he said. Rickett returned at eight o'clock this morning and as Yeaman had reported the car stolen, the city police held Rickett, who was remanded to jail until tomorrow morning.

He told of motoring to Colborne instead of Point Anne, his girl company being there. He was late and had come here from Oshawa a few days ago. When he is married Yeaman was charged with hiring the car to him, he is a taxicab driver as a result of the happening. Bail was fixed at a minimum $5. Rickett, who has hired cars from Yeaman before, owes a bill of $4, and on one previous occasion when he was delayed with a car, he notified Yeaman that he would be late home on time.

Inspector Barry B. C. Donnan intimated that if the Oshawa cousin did not prove to be such, a theft charge might be laid against accused, the penalty for which is one year in jail.

He Fooled Himself

It cost one motorist $5 and costs to hit the "forty mile per" speed on the Belleville-Trenton highway, on the highway last night. He explained having left Belleville east from Point Anne late at 25 miles per hour, and when he had gone through the dust it stirred up, bothered the women folk in his car, so he proceeded to pass the small car and the police machine which was ahead of the small car. To do so he hit the forty mark and Provincial Constable R. J. Wilson made the mark on his memo pad, which brought the offender to task to-day. He might have been charged with reckless driving.

Normal Case More

Arrested early Saturday morning on Bettes street where he had fallen in the mud, a local man appeared on the police court docket on Monday as an over this morning. He was fined $5 and costs of $3.50 when he pleaded guilty and paid the fine, after receiving a lecture. It was the first lecture in three months—since the Christmas season—that he had had.

Used Old Markers

For driving a motor car on the highway with 1924 markers a motorist paid $5 and costs this morning. This is the first case entered in the court this season. Provincial Constable R. J. Wilson laid the charge.

Page Mickey McGuire

There is a new comedy at McDonald avenue way who would doubtless reward the active interest he would "shin" up a tall tree nearby and rescue her pet cat on Sunday last. Miss Mickey also has taken up. The woman called Chief Brown of the Fire Department this morning, and he with P. S. Harman drove out to attempt a rescue. The cat was over 70 ft. high, the ground is too soft to warrant the safety of the apparatus being driven over it. The tree is too high to reach with a ladder, it is said. It is hoped, however, that an active boy could rescue puppy.

Valuable Dog Poisoned

If the Belleville dog poisoners are never located they will be a nation taken against them which will cause them to regret their unlawful activity. Veterinary surgeons here report many cases of poisoned dogs recently, the latest being Saturday last, when a valuable collie dog was found dog owned by Mrs. Mary Faulkner, Front street, poisoned. It will be a great relief in the neighborhood and certainly not a vicious dog, died from strychnine poisoning, and naturally the owner is greatly annoyed.

MISS MARGARET THOMPSON

Young Girl Killed When Car Crashed

Car Moved Supporting Columns of Damaged Store Which Collapsed

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Windsor, Ont., March 30.—Attempting to turn on to Ouellette avenue, off London street, a roadster driven by Gerald Lessard of this city crashed into the corner of R. Hall's furnishing store, knocking the supporting columns out of place and causing the building to collapse upon occupants of the car. A young girl, Laurette Dube, 16 years old was killed and three companions injured.

The injured are, Alfred Pentland, driver, Germain Dube, 18 years old and sister of deceased, all of Windsor, and Peter Girard 109 Turnbull road, Walkerville. The injured will recover.

POPE PIUS CREATES CARDINALS TO-DAY

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Rome, March 30.—At a secret consistory held by Pope Pius to-day, Monsignor Vicente Casanova Morel, Archbishop of Granada and Monsignor Ilundain Esteban, Archbishop of Sevilla, were created Cardinals. The Pope delivered allocution in which he expressed his regret at being able to make satisfying communications to Secred College despite past reports of persecutions which catholics were suffering in certain countries.

POLICEMAN POINTS CHAPMAN AS KILLER

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Hartford, Conn., March 30.—Alfred E. Atwater, New Britain Police Sergeant, testified today he had seen Gerald Chapman, sensational bail looter, shoot patrolman James Skelly in a New Britain department store last October 12. Dramatically pointing to Chapman who was seated at his attorney's table he said in tense tones: "That man there did the shooting". Chapman did not flinch under the accusation but his cold blue eyes never left the policeman's face.

WIFE IN HOSPITAL HUSBAND ARRESTED

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Hamilton, March 30.—Mrs. Laura Gilardi, 792 Burlington street, is in the general hospital suffering from bullet wounds from which it is feared she will die. Her husband, Guido Gilardi, is in jail under arrest on a charge of shooting her. His condition is reported to be serious. It is believed that he attacked his wife and then turned the knife on himself.

ATLANTIC FLEET TO SALUTE REPUBLIK

(Canadian Press Despatch)

On Board H.M.S. Rodney, March 30.—The British Atlantic fleet which has been engaged in combined naval and first exercises in the Mediterranean, will salute Gibraltar today at the request of the Prince of Wales to salute the Repuse on which he is making a tour on his voyage to South Africa and South America.

Old London Traffic Must Be Speeded Up, So Slow Taxis Are to be Arrested Soon

(Associated Press Despatch)

London, March 30.—Slow moving taxicabs are to be barred from certain crowded streets or avenues. There are so many public vehicles here with normal drivers or conductors that it is worn that they cannot keep pace with the modern motor traffic. The matter has been called to the attention of Sir Henry Mayborn as chief of London's traffic committee. The "snail" taxis are all right for some of the oldest London inhabitants, second class passengers, but they must keep out of the way of the fast, up-to-date cars or they will be arrested for holding up the traffic.

Cruising cars on the lookout for fares, also are to be restricted and ordered to speed up.

Nine Men Tried To Kidnap Dancer

Sensational Story Told in Witness Box in India

Bombay, March 30.—Mustaschoon Mutarda, a beautiful 22-year-old Indian mautch girl, once the favorite of the Maharaja of Indore, told a sensational story on the witness stand when the case known as the Malhar Hill trial opened in the city sessions court at the Bombay presidency. Vast crowds attended against the court.

Nine men of Indore, some of them of great prominence, charged with attempting to abduct the girl, after she had made her escape from the Maharajah's household and taken asylum in the home of a wealthy Mohammedan merchants named Abdul Kadir Bella. The tenth man under charges was Dr. Baiks Shukla who was pardoned when he turned King's evidence.

Took Belleville People To Africa

Senator Willoughby of Saskatchewan Proved Most Interesting Speaker

Senator Willoughby of Saskatchewan was the speaker at the open meeting of the Women's Canadian Club, held Saturday evening at the Armouries, when he described a trip taken by himself in company with other ecclesiastics to Africa under the auspices of the Empire Parliamentary Association.

The object of the visit was to become better acquainted with the people of Africa. It was not a trade delegation nor a political proposition, but a purely social affair.

The Canadians left Quebec and went to Liverpool, and from there to London, where they were well entertained. They sailed for Africa after a few days. At Capetown they saw the Parliament in session. Some of the questions were asked in English and some in Dutch. It was necessary to have a working knowledge of both languages there. At Durban they were greeted by the Australian delegation. They were billeted in private homes so that they saw the actual life of the people—"with the powder on and with it off." The Senator thought they were a charming people, they had an unique institution in that was served a forenoon tea as well as an afternoon tea.

W.C.T.U. HEADS CLAIM GROCERS ARE OUT OF IT

Declare The Clause is Coming Out of the Amendment

LATE WIRE NEWS

Jail Breakers get Additional Sentences; Floods in Quebec

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, March 30.—According to information in the hands of the W.C. T.U. in Ontario, the clause in the Ferguson Beer Bill which permits the sale of beer by grocers will be withdrawn from the bill.

Mrs. Gordon Wright, Dominion President of the W.C.T.U. in Canada says "Yes, we do confidently expect that this clause allowing sale of beer in groceries will be withdrawn."

HOMES ENDANGERED

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Quebec, March 30.—The waters of Beauce and Chaudiere Rivers have started their spring rise and residents of Beauce Valley are in fear that their homes will be swept away by floods Some towns and villages have already suffered damage. In St. George's, water stands four feet on some streets of the town. Traffic on streets is confined to boats.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, March 30.—The two prisoners in the Toronto Jail, Andrew Morrison and James Moss, who last night made an attempt to break jail after wounding Guard Richards, were sentenced to two years each in addition to serve an additional two years for the offence.

MAY SHIP 3,000 HEAD OF BUFFALO

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, March 30.—The next great trek of the buffalo from the Northern plains will be by box car, if it takes place at all. The herds at Wainwright National Park have increased to such an extent that the number which could be supported in a year is known. The government, it is learned, is considering the possibility of shipping a thousand or more head from Wainwright to the Wood Buffalo Park Reserve in Northern Alberta. It is proposed to round-up only young animals as it has been found impracticable to ship the older stock.

The federal department of interior has opened negotiations with the railways as to the charges on such freight.

It is estimated that not more than 2,000 head should be held at Wainwright, as the total number which the reserve can support is limited, and despite the slaughterings many hundreds of the animals the National park holds in excess of 8,000 head.

THE WEATHER

Fresh northerly winds, partly cloudy and cool to-day and Tuesday.

A PLEASING RECORD

For those who supported the Conservative party at the last provincial election, there must be considerable satisfaction in reviewing the record of the Ferguson Government since it has taken over office. There is much reason, too, for the claim that this record attaches the support of many in the ranks of the Liberal party.

From the time the Conservatives stepped in with a broom to clean out dirty politics, which was turned to very timely use by the present premier, down to the present moment, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson and his colleagues have shown refreshing initiative in promoting sound and progressive legislation.

The evidence of an administration of economy shown in the recent budget of the Hon. Mr. Price, effected by the reduction of costly Royal Commissions and by the general application of sound business methods, is most pleasing to burdened taxpayers. At the same time, the government is seeing to it that such necessary work as road building and other requisite public works is not being hurt by this economy.

New taxation needed to pull the province out of the state of debt into which it was plunged by the Drury regime has been placed where it will be felt less, the gasoline tax being considered generally as a fair one.

The intense interest which the Government is taking in the development of Northland has, as pointed out in the address in boys' welfare shown in the aid supplied for the new boys' home to the east of Toronto, the unostentatious, but business like, plans to bring Alberta into Ontario. The small part of a large program is justification for the long life of the present administration.

Happily for the people of Ontario, the Ferguson Government has four more years to apply sane methods to the general conduct of the affairs of the province and nothing but dire misfortune can prevent the establishing of a record equalled only by the late Sir James Whitney.

THE STRIKE SITUATION

Unless political expediency forces an early settlement present indications are that the strike of the Nova Scotia coal miners will be fought out to a finish with the chances favoring a protracted rather than a short struggle.

After April 6, the men will be entitled to International Union strike pay. President John M. Lewis has promised this, but it is stated that owing to the weak financial position of the International, the assistance will be limited to $10,000 a week, a small dole when it is considered that about 9,000 strikers and their families have to be supported. However, by buying coarse foods in bulk, and rationing supplies instead of cash, it is said to be surprising how far experienced strike leaders can make such funds stretch.

Meanwhile, relief funds solicited from all over the Dominion, are keeping the mines, going for the critical first 30-days of the strike, during which no international support is available.

The most hopeful peace factor is the weariness of a provincial election. It is considered unlikely that Premier Armstrong wants to go to the country with an unsettled strike on

Dr. Frank Crane's Daily Editorial

The Growing Unity

A REPORT has it that German Music hall artists are to appear again in France.

No more significant piece of news could be announced.

It is true that they have already performed in French music halls, but they had to disguise themselves as Poles, Czechs, Swiss, as anything but Germans.

The French would have none of them. The French artists expressed their indignation at unpatriotic itinerants, in public and semi-public meetings, and swore that never again should a German attraction be seen in Paris.

And now they have suddenly quit. They are declaring that they are disinterested and that they have no objection to the reappearance of German entertainment.

Hatred and grudges die out. They cannot live forever, and possibly this is a better indication of their disappearance than the study of protocols and treaties would reveal. The statesman and his deeds amount to much, but what the people and the caterers to the people's amusement do is much a subtler indication to stir more.

Even when the Olympic Games were held in Paris a short time ago there were no German competitors. At that time German athletes and German music hall entertainers were not welcome in the French capital.

Now we learn that Germans are to sit upon the committee to make arrangements for the Olympic Games in 1928. The German cyclists are to race in Paris and German football players are to compete with Frenchmen.

We are to hope that if, in the realm of sports and amusements, there is a renewal of friendship, it will not be long before there is a renewal in the political atmosphere.

Protection cannot be practiced in amusement. There must be free trade. The arts of entertainment has no boundaries.

This vital problem would still be Britain's future attitude. But it would probably suit Britain admirably to hold the balance of power as she has done over the continent—not for the purposes of war but for those of peace and closer co-operation all around.

Press Opinions

AN ENGLISH HUMORIST

(New York Times.)

Sir Charles Higham (pronounce it Hum) is here in the interest of tea. He advocates 4 o'clock tea in American business houses. He says: The efficiency of the office workers is lowest at 4 o'clock, in the afternoon. With a cup of tea you can increase efficiency up from 50 per cent. to 75 or 85 per cent."

He tells how to make tea. "Allow it to steep for five minutes," says he; from which, by process of deduction, inflation and telepathy, we see that Sir Charles must have large leather pockets and addition to his tea interests and is thinking of raising fluid at the moment.

Further he observes, Sir Hiram Maxim's are of the few countries in the world that can be prohibition because of the purity of the air. In the United States the air is so pure that you get plenty of oxygen and are really not in need of a stimulant stronger than tea.

Sir Charles is said to get $100 a word for saying those things, which ranks him the highest paid humorist on earth.

JOHN A.'S SON

(Vancouver Province)

It is rather startling to learn in a dispatch from Winnipeg that Sir Hugh John Macdonald has passed the 75th birthday. The years have a way of piling one on top of another silently and often of announcing with a sudden shout that they have attained a great altitude.

While his father lived, it was impossible to look upon Hugh John as more than a boy. John A. Macdonald looked so completely himself that there was no room for any other member of the family. The great premier could not long after his son's election to the House of Commons in 1891, and four years later, when the Tupper ministry was formed, Hugh John, a young liberal of a great name, and, it was hoped, some of his father's political genius, was made a minister of the interior. The portfolio was an important one though not so important as it afterwards became, but the young minister did not have very much opportunity to show what he could do as administrator, since the ministry had only been in office two months.

Of the men who were members of the Tupper Cabinet, only Sir Hugh John Macdonald and Sir George Foster remain. If Sir John was the junior minister the baby of the group, now only one of the old and tried political war horses is left and the man who was the baby minister is Sir Canada is getting on in years.

MAKE PRISONERS PRODUCE

(Hamilton Spectator)

Prisoners are maintained in a state of idleness which not only is demoralizing to themselves, but entails loss in several dependents no grievous hardships. If convicts were set at useful employment, the money thus earned being appropriated for the benefit of their dependents, or if they have none, to be accumulated to enable them to make a new start in life after they have served their term, it would obviously be good, wholesome for the prisoners affected. Would it serve the public interest as well? Would it tend to increase the number of offenders, thus by reason of profitable employment, which is not always available to honorable citizens? These questions, however, in the opinion of expert penologist must be taken. Prison reformers are of the opinion that such a reaction would lessen the number of criminals rather than increase it. Probably the only satisfactory way of settling the point would be to try out the experiment in a province.

Archbishop Matheson, of Rupert's Land, who lives in Winnipeg, per Kildonan, where he was born, was asked about the recent lamentations of the Bishop of Gloucester, as to the condition of the Anglican Church in Canada, and said they dont amount to anything, and that Gloucester has said them before.

FIND PROPER HOME FOR ANCIENT CLOCK

Albany, March 30.—The tower clock which was awarded first prize at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia in 1876 has found a permanent home in the new campanile be ing erected on the campus of the State Teachers' College at Cedar Falls, Ia.

The clock, built by the late Charles Fasoldt of this city, has been in the possession of the Fasoldt family until the present time. A few weeks ago Dudley Fasoldt, grandson of the builder and owner of the timepiece, announced he would give it to the institution, offering to set it up and care for it. More than 1,000 applications were received within a week after Mr. Fasoldt's offer had been published. They came from churches, colleges, municipalities and commercial organizations.

Officials of the State Teachers' Colleges at Cedar Falls have guaranteed that the clock will have the best of care by the institution's own mechanics and electricians. The campanile in which it is to be installed is located on high ground and the clock will be visible for miles. The clock, in its half century of existence, has shown a maximum variation of less than 10 seconds a year from solar time.

FIND A HOT WATER LAKE OF 50 ACRES

Bellingham, Wash., March 30.—A second hot water lake, 50 acres in extent, has been discovered in the Mount Baker national forest in northwest Washington, it was announced here recently by W. G. Elliott, prospector and explorer, who said he found it last summer. The other lake of hot water in the Mount Baker preserve is about 25 acres in extent.

The new lake, Elliott said, is at an altitude of about 5,000 feet, and he estimated the temperature of its waters at 113 degrees Fahrenheit. It is located in very rugged country in the east of Mount Baker.

Three hot springs have been located in the Mount Baker national forest.

Was Not The Blow That Caused Death

Fredy Dadswell, Trenton Man, Died in Toronto Hospital

The death of Fred Dadswell of Trenton at the Toronto General Hospital on March 12 was accentuated according to a verdict returned by a Coroner's Jury at the Morgue, Toronto, since was given that the deceased, a month prior to his death, received an injury to his head while repairing cars at the C.N.R. yards, Gilmour, Ontario. S. J. Washington, who was working with Dadswell at the time, stated that an iron bar with which the latter was attempting to cut a bolt slipped in his hand and struck him a glancing blow on the head, stunning him for a few minutes.

Dadswell seemed to recover completely from the blow, but was sent to his home in Trenton, receiving treatment there from Dr. F. Farley. He seemed to be progressing favorably until around March 10, when it was thought advisable to send him to the Toronto General Hospital on account of a relapse in his condition.

Dr. W. L. Robinson, who performed the autopsy, stated that the immediate cause of death was pneumonia. The post-mortem examination revealed a fracture in the skull of the deceased which would not be apparent from the surface. Witness stated, however, that this fracture would not in itself have caused death.

Dr. A. H. McConnell was the Coroner and Francis Moore represented the Crown.

CATCH BOOTLEGGERS IN ACT OF SELLING

Lindsay, March 30.—A well-known local man who is known to many as "A Dollar and a Half Cash," was detected by Officer Storey in the act of putting over a sale of booze here at the corner of Kent and Lindsay streets this morning. The officer watched with interest a conversation being carried on between the man and a prospective customer. The former was seen to leave his boarding quarters and on return Officer Storey proceeded to nip the sale in the bud. However, the sale had actually taken place when the officer bore down on the pair. He took possession of the liquor, (which consisted of one 8-ounce and two 6-ounce bottles) and arrested both men. At a session of the police court the bootlegger was fined $200 and costs, which means 30 days in jail. As the fine is not paid a four-months' sentence must be served. The purchaser of the liquor was fined $100 or three months in jail. He promised to pay the fine.

The bootlegger claimed he purchased the liquor from an Ontario man, paying $10.00 for the supply.

Marry Early To Be Happy, He Said

Chicago Divorce Judge Offers a Few Observations

Chicago, March 28.—Young man and young woman! If you seek happiness, don't wait until you are 30 or 35 years old before marrying.

For early marriages, says Judge Joseph Sabath, Chicago's champion divorce court jurist, as a rule prove happier than late marriages.

Judge Sabath can speak with authority on the subject of marriage and divorce for in the last five years he has heard 15,000 divorce cases. Through his efforts more than 1,150 couples who went into his court to have their marriage annulled, have been reconciled.

"Young men and women should marry as soon after they have reached their maturity as possible," he says, "providing they love and understand each other.

Waiting until he is 30 or 35 imposes a period of single cussedness on the individual. He looks upon marriage from the wrong angle. He regards it as an investment that must be safe.

"Marriage is not an investment. It is an adventure to which every life and soul is entitled."

And Judge Sabath cites his own case as an example.

"I was only 18 when I was married, he says. "My wife was the same age. We ran away from our home in Chicago to Kenosha, Wis., eloped in the wagon.

"I was earning only $10 a week as a clerk in a clothing store.

"That was 37 years ago. And today we are just as happy as on the day of our wedding. We have three children. All married young.

"Too many young men wait until they are in good financial circumstances before they get married. That is a mistake, for too often when a man has made a little money he changes his mind about marriage.

"Marriage is a union of two lives and the best time for two lives to fuse is before they have become so set in their individual ways that growing together becomes difficult.

"Although I am an advocate of early marriages. The advice of parents should be considered always.

"But once a man and woman are united, the parents of neither should interfere. Even if they think the union is not a desirable one, they should help their children in making the marriage successful and happy instead of hindering them.

"Above all, the man and woman must know and understand each other before taking the most important step in their lives.

"Both should appreciate the value of money. They must realize that marriage is a give and take proposition. They must be willing to shoulder their burdens together.

"In many of the cases that come before me, I find that the trouble has begun before marriage. Many people do not regard marriage as the creation of a sacred union, but simply as an act resulting from the physical attraction of the sexes.

"Fleeting fancies and superficial sentimentality is often all there is to account for many unions."

Three Teams Are Tied For First

In Junior League at Recreation Alleys; Rotarians Play Kiwanians

The 6000's won from the Quints D's in the C.N.R. ladies' league at the Recreation Alleys on Friday by 117 pins. The Quints's have been playing in hard luck and haven't been able to win from the win column, but some of these days luck is going to change and will make the fast teams step along. Mrs. Austin had the highest score for the winners and Mrs. Morgan was high for the losers.

The junior league came to a close on Friday night when the Wolves of the North and the National Castings played in the last schedule game, the Wolves winning out by 96 pins and tieing the Stars and the Express for first place. These three teams will be playing off this week to see who wins the whole league, and the team that play off with the Fruit Merchants for the junior league championship. Mrs. Alexander rolled the highest score of the evening for the winners and Mrs. Turner was high for the Castings.

In the C.N.R. league the Station took a full out of the D. & B. Dept., winning out by 347 pins. The Station bat the first game by 18 pins, but came back strong in the second to win out by over 200 pins, although they lost the third game by a small pin head in the second to carry them through to a win. High bowlers were Sloan 588 and Johns 543.

On Saturday night the Yard and the Express-Bat Rotarians had the C.N.R. league and although the Express won out, the game goes to the Yard as the winners were short three bowlers, so that played an exhibition game. This brings up the C.N.R. league, it being the last league that the local alleys cover and only one postponed game taking place during the eleven weeks of the season. The C.N.R. will be bowling their new league about April 6th.

Rotarians To Play Kiwanis

On Tuesday night at the Recreation Alleys, the annual challenge game between the Rotarians and the Kiwanis takes place. Last year the Kiwanis won from the Rotarians, three different times rolling. On Tuesday there will be two teams of each club playing and the match been mentioned if the teams have to buy the eats or not.

The second bowling league starts playing at the Recreation Alleys some night this week, as soon as the schedule can be drawn up. There are about sixteen teams in this league and it is divided into two sections, A and B, the winners to play off at the end of the season. This is the first mixed league that the Recreation Alleys have put on, and no doubt there should be plenty of fun and excitement through the schedule.

THE PROTEST OF A WET

Now here I am a common fellow,
A white man, too, not black or yellow,
Quietly mind my own affairs,
And let the others tend to theirs.
I work my way like you or him;
You know that now, don't you Jim?
I'm not a bum, but you don't diver;
I like my "suitlee" when I'm dry.
I feel I need my little fun,
I'm free and white and twenty-one
I'll drink, whoever I sins
Exactly what you'd call a Saint.
I voted for you at the polls,
I think you meant to give us back
our big bowls,
But that make laws, I must entreat,
To tell me what to drink or eat.
You'd settle on the wagon high,
Midway between the earth and sky,
And I'd be left alone, you say,
You'd turn on me the garden hose.
You may perhaps, but I don't know,
If liberty is dealt this blow.
I'll see my booze in a Boze,
And sell it for one decent jar.

G. H. HILLIARD

The two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. George Hasson, Chatham, was painfully burned about the arms when a pan of hot water upset, part of the contents striking the boy.

Napanee Players Win Mixed Doubles

Badminton Tournament was Held in Belleville on Saturday

At the armouries on Saturday evening an interesting tournament took place between players from the Napanee and Belleville Badminton Clubs Mixed doubles were played between the teams also ladies doubles. In the mixed doubles the Napanee players proved to be more expert at the game than Belleville players and in the 26 games played won 21 against 15 for Belleville. The losers showed considerable improvement over previous games with Napanee. There were a large number of spectators present during the progress of the tournament and e videnced much interest in the game.

The ladies double game resulted in a tie, both securing the same number of points. The mixed double team from Napanee was as follows.

Capt., D. M. Ham and Mrs. G. P. Carr.

Mr. H. H. Rose and Miss J. Benjamin

Mr. W. J. Wiggins and Miss D. Dibb.

Mr. W. D. Baker and Miss C. Miller.

Mr. A. L. Dafoe and Mrs W. S Wilson.

Mr. C. C. Walker and Miss C. Grange

Mr. C. C. Walker took the place of one of the Napanee players otherwise was unable to be present.

Belleville players were as follows:

Capt. and Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson.

Major E. E. Graham and Miss Tofield.

Lieut T. J. Wills and Miss McTrow.

Major F. O. Keefer, M.C., and Mrs. Keefer.

Capt. P. M. T Little and Mrs. W. E. Scott.

Lieut Hubert Jones and Miss M. Keeler.

While in the city the visitors were the guests of Major R. J. P. and Mrs. Graham and were entertained at dinner.

At the conclusion of the tournament the players were the friends remained to the officers mess in the armouries where refreshments were served by men here at Major Graham's HOME.

The visitors enjoyed keenly the hospitality extended to them while in the city.

FORMER BELLEVILLE BOY MAKES GOOD

Neath Bay, March 30.—Coach Stan Burgoyne, who had charge of the local juniors for the past two years, left for Minneapolis, where he will have charge of the Duluth team in their U. S.A. H. A. games with the Millers and will probably sign up as manager-coach of the Duluth organization for next year.

The Duluth Club has been after his services for some time, and had he not signed with the locals last fall it is probable he would have been in charge of the Duluth outfit.

Burgoyne, a former resident of Belleville, played his first hockey experience as a player on a junior O. H. A. team in this city. His rise in the hockey world has been rapid both as player and coach. Toronto he is recognized as the only one of the best in the coaching line and his services are continually sought.

Frank Arnold, age 65, London hide buyer, who has been in ill health for the past year, died suddenly during the night.

Received Fortune For 2 Hours Work

Dempsey Gets $1,235,500 For Hour and Fifty-Seven Minutes

Including the one-sided battle with Willard, from whom he won the heavyweight championship, Jack Dempsey has fought exactly one hour and fifty-seven minutes in six days and nights in return for his victories over Willard Brennan, Miske, Carpentier, Gibbons and Firpo. Dempsey has received $1,235,500 for his services. The purse with Willard of three rounds netted $275,000.

For stopping Miske, also in three rounds the champion's bit was said to be $50,000. The affair with Brennan, who was flattened in twelve, yielded $100,000, while the little bolder drew $200,000 for knocking out Carpentier in four. $265,000 for winning on points in fifteen rounds with Gibbons and $242,000 for punitive Firpo to sleep in two.

Jack Richter's unmasted dumpers combat with Willard, Brennan, Carpentier and Firpo, the champion's share totalled $910,000. Brennan and Firpo were whipped at Madison Square Garden, as the Polo Grounds, respectively, under the provisions of the boxing law, which prohibits bouts in New York save Athletic Commission.

Dempsey, therefore, collected nearly $600,000 for beating under the protection of the Empire State and $200,000 for his mill with Carpentier in Jersey City, which would seem to indicate that the greater part of his wealth is due to the liberal leanings of the metropolitan sporting public.

Following the rules of the New York Commission that Dempsey is entitled to a fight for the title as he has formally accepted the latest challenge of Harry Wills, the negro heavyweight, Tex Rickard's matchmaker Kearns, still insists that Dempsey will fight Wills "if a promoter who is willing to make a suitable offer can be found."

This line of talk isn't good. Kearns has been handing it out for almost five years.

If Dempsey doesn't tear the outcome of a fifteen-round glove fight to a decision with the barrier, he can remove the negro contender's claims by covering in; Wills' forte immediately, and answering Kearns to skin articles of agreement.

This act would remove Dempsey from the picture for an indefinite period and would pave the way for proper negotiations from several New York promoters.

James Deforest, match maker of the Polo Grounds drew $1,250,000. Curworster and the champion attracted $1,500,000 at Boyle's Thirty acres in Jersey. Wills hattle no doubt would be the biggest drawing card, were he to be matched for $1,000,000 according to estimates. Even that case, Dempsey's share would exceed $600 000.

If the champion isn't afraid of Wills, he certainly has a right to be much money as he has earned in one hour and fifty-seven minutes.

It is hard to believe that Dempsey will not manage to wipe out the present opinion that he has shown the white feather.

CHICAGO MARKET

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Chicago, March 30.—Owing largely to lack of adequate rain in domestic winter crop belt, wheat made an overnight leap here today in early dealings. The fact that world shipments were smaller and that amount of wheat on ocean passage had decreased by 1, 910,000 bushels tended further to lift values. Selling to realize profits led to only temporary setback in prices.

Opening which ranged from 1-4c decline to 1 3-4c advance was followed by drop to 31.35 3-4 for May but then by rise which carried that month to 31.52 1-4 corn and oats were firm helped by wheat strength. After opening at 3-4c decline to 3-8c advance May $1.09 1-2 to 1.10 corn underwent fraction gains all around. Oats started 1-8c to 3-8c lower May 42 3-4 to 43 7-8c. Later all months showed some advances. In line with hog market, provisions were weak.

If Rheumatic Eat No Sweets
Says Glas of Salts Helps to Overcome Rheumatism Acid
Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly, keep the feet dry, avoid exposure, and above all, drink plenty of good water and avoid eating an excess of all kind.
"Rheumatism is caused by body waste and acids resulting from food fermentation. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine. One secret of the skin are also a means of helping the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work; they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this waste and acids, which keep accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.
At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoon ful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste matter, also to stimulate the kidneys, thus often relieving the blood of rheumatic poison. Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

ELAINE

By CHARLES GARVICE

They reached the door in the tower and the marquis unlocked it. Something appeared to be waiting with the key or key, for he did not open the door without some difficulty.

When they entered the smell hall he arrested Luigi's progress for a moment by a gesture of his arm, and listened. The house was quite still. Then he led the way to the library, and, guiding Luigi to a chair, went to the window and looked out at the night—dark now as pitch—with a vacant, troubled gaze.

Luigi Zanti was the first to speak; and his words came as if he found silence intolerable.

"What — what has happened Nairne?" he said, with the pale face in the direction of the marquis. "I know that something is wrong. I can hear it in the tone of your voice, feel it in your manner."

"We must leave here tomorrow morning, Luigi," said the marquis in a husky voice.

"Leave — to-morrow?" exclaimed the Italian. "You cannot mean it! And—your guests! What of them, Nairne?"

"I care nothing for them," said the marquis almost inaudibly. "Lady Hurst will be here for the few hours they will remain—and—"

"I—I don't understand!" exclaimed Luigi, trembling. "If you can tell me what has happened, for God's sake do, Nairne! This mystery—! Remember I am your friend, and that the sound of your voice—its strange and silence—terrifies me! Speak, speak, dear! Where are we going?"

"I do not know," responded the marquis, wearily. "It does not matter. Out of England we are going. The better though one cannot escape the consequences of one's blatant folly though he go to the end of the world! I have been a fool, an arrant fool!" And he laughed bitterly.

Luigi Zanti drew his trembling hand over his face.

"You must tell me, Nairne," he said. "I have had so much to leave me in ignorance. Why do you say this? and why are you leaving the Castle so suddenly? Are the Major and Elaine gone with us?"

The marquis let the curtain fall, and leaning against the window, looked at the anxious face.

"The Major and Miss Lelaine are certainly not going with us!"

"Miss Delaine—why do you speak of her in that way?"

"It is the way in which a gentlemen speaks of a lady with whom he has finished. He broke off with a groan. "My God, I do not know why I am acting! I can scarcely put the meaning to your words or point I feel as if I were going mad!"

Luigi pushing hair back as described his first meeting with Elaine on the bridge, when he was witness of what he now believed to be the light of desperate circumstances, to have been only a lover's quarrel.

"From that moment, I am convinced, it was her intention to discard her old lover, and strive to win the marquis. Within three days of her arrival the prestige until tonight; and if any one had told me that she, Elaine—your friend, my friend, pure-souled Elaine, my girl sweetheart—could have treated him in the darkness of the night—

The blind man sprang to his feet, his white face turning to his nephew, eyes staring.

"It is a lie! a cruel lie!" he rupted.

The marquis regarded him with a self-contemptuous smile.

"If I may, deluded Luigi, it is the truth. I myself have seen them!"

"You—you saw them!", breathed Luigi.

"Yes," the marquis said grimly. "I saw them. Stop. I tell you I walked unthinkingly round the shrubbery, and did not hear me. I suppose. I saw them quite plainly. She was standing leaning against the rail, her hands clasped behind her, her face addressed in some entreaty to her, I could see his face, for it was the face of a man half-mad with despair; just the face a man would show after—after he has killed him for another man—better match! I could not hear their words; if I had heard, I should have turned and left them, like their faces, their attitudes were significant enough. He was trying to make give me up, to go back to him; that was the only thing I could think of, and that was that he had some hold on her. I guessed that; but power—for she became conscious. The young fellow produced a letter."

Luigi covered his face with his hands and listened breathlessly.

"It was a letter, of hers, no doubt; and no doubt a compromising one. Perhaps he was holding it over her as a threat. They came to terms at last, I suppose. At any rate, he gave her up better relationship, and she seemed overwhelmed by joy and relief. She turned it back—I imagine that he saw that by relinquishing the letter he had not a hold on her—but she refused. I could not hear, however, I can see something not to break in upon them and hear from her. Yes, it cost me something." He leaned his head upon his hands in silence for a moment, then he went on in a wavy voice. "But I pitied her, and I pitied her. I saw it all so distinctly—the hideous comedy. Heaven knows what pressure may have been put upon her; what inducements she had to do it. I am a bit

Learning To Love At Griffin To-night

In Which Constance Talmadge Shows How to Get Husbands

Anita Loos and John Emerson, President of the Actors' Equity Association, are co-authors of Constance Talmadge's new First National photoplay, "Learning to Love" now showing at the Griffin Theatre.

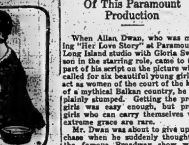

The Emerson-Loos combination wrote eight of Constance's best comedies, among them "A Temperamental Wife," "The Virtuous Vamp," "The Perfect Woman," "Woman's Place," "Erasmus's Affair," "The Love Expert," "In Search of a Sinner," and "Polly of the Follies."

They also wrote "The Social Secretary" for Norma Talmadge, and six for Douglas Fairbanks, among the latest stage play, "The Whole Town's Talking," which had a long run in New York last winter, will soon be produced in London.

In "Learning to Love" Constance shows modern girls the various ways to capture a husband. She cast includes Antonio Moreno, Constance's leading man; Johnny Hines, Wallace MacDonald, Byron Munson, and Ray Hallor, four of Constance's film sweethearts; Emily Fitzroy, Edith Chapman, Alf Goulding, Edgar Norton, and Percy Williams.

Make Your Garden Grow

"LOINGE Lizards" of the type that annoy parlor plants may be dangerous to the life of a plant a dose of soap and water, a small amount of sudsy water daily, made from pure, white soap, is a wonderful insecticide, hastens growth and gives rich color to the leaves. Once a week or fortnight, pour a cupful of soapy water about the roots.

Plants need to have their faces washed, too, to keep them healthy and cheerful. Unlike children, they will not object when you set to tackle the "corners."

Prepare this pet by agitating the plant on an oil cloth, or if the pet is not too large, it may be taken to the cellar where the water may be used to advantage instead of barreling the floor. Wet a sponge in a basin of warm water with a little soap in it, and wipe off every leaf, one at a time. Wash all the leaves, front and back, the sponge as it becomes soiled with dust from the plant. Then with clean water, a trifle cooler than the first, wash the leaves again. Then, with the water nearly cool, wet the sponge and squeeze out the leaves, pull in the sun to dry.

Lillian Gish Busy Fighting Her Agent

Relationships Between Actress and Alleged Financee is Brought Out

New York, March 2.—Lillian Gish's will and the alleged secret contract in the screen star to Charles Duell, aroused official attention in the Federal Courts.

The actress' will named Duell, who is seeking to annul a contract appearing under other management as selected executor without bond. Her entire estate was bequeathed to her mother. The document was signed on June 30, 1923.

At the same time, Dorothy Gish, sister of Lillian, and wife of James Rennie, drew up a will making Duell executor, bequeathing her thousand $30,000 and leaving the rest of her property to her mother.

Mrs. Gish drew a will too, appointing Duell executor, without bond, to divide her estate between her daughters.

The three documents were introduced by Max Steuer, attorney for Lillian in show the dominating power possessed by the motion picture producer over the Gish family.

Lillian's reported engagement to Duell was discussed by George Newgass, her former attorney who subsequently severed relations with her on inspiration company.

When Lillian was confronted by evidence tending to show that he had advised Lillian to take $60,000 in percentages on "The White Sister," and that he permitted the girl to let Duell, as trustee draw her salary, he said in justification:

All Over Town.

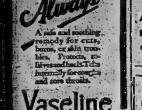

"I thought that was all right because of the engagement between them. It was all over town."

Steuer also brought out examination on that statement, demanding to know whether or Lillian had told him of the engagement, which Miss Gish denied, saying that Duell was a mere friend.

"I am sure Miss Gish never mentioned it, but Duell told me about it last summer. He said he was engaged to Miss Gish, or rather that he had been engaged."

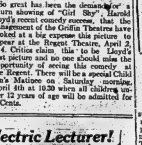

Steuer asked him:

"You mean that the first time he revealed his joy over his prospective Gish.

She's Truly An Electric Lecturer!

YOU'VE heard speakers who were "electric," but Miss Olwyn is one of those, for he lectures for the New York Edison Company, she gives fascinating talks on the history of electricity, its generation and distribution, and its use in the home.

Over her own small electric table stove, surrounded by a battery of electric utensils, Miss Olwyn does not need to talk. Her cooking speaks for her. Probably the only place where is there such fudge as Miss Olwyn makes is in herself in stats that there's really no secret to it—and to prove that she shares her recipe with us.

2 cupfuls Sugar
2 cupfuls Cream
2 tablespoonfuls Cocoa
2 tablespoonfuls Butter
1 teaspoonful Vanilla extract
1 teaspoonful Lemon extract
¾ cupful chopped English Walnut meats
¼ cupful Sultana Raisins
1 tablespoonful Cream of Tartar
Pinch of Salt

Put Cream, sugar, cocoa, salt, and milk into saucepan, and stir till it boils to 240 degrees, or until it forms a soft ball when tested in cold water. Remove from fire, add raisins, cream of tartar, meats, and extracts, and beat mixture until thick and creamy. Pour back on stove, and heat, stirring constantly until melted, then pour into greased tins. When partly cool mark into neat squares. Sufficient for thirty squares.

Miss Olwyn regularly gives classes free to any who wish to learn electric cooking at the Edison Household Service, 540 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Be Beautiful! Darken Hair

TRY GRANDMOTHER'S OLD FAVORITE RECIPE OF SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay grey! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the grey hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Belleville Firm is Key Industry

Marsh Engineering Works Selected by British Publication

In November last, the Marsh Engineering Works was recognized by the British and Colonial Review, of London, England, to furnish them with information for an editorial on activities of this firm. The data was supplied which was expanded into the following article:

When it is considered in fact how many ways the use of power serves us to-day it is not surprising to find that a very large proportion of industrial activity is devoted towards the provision of tools designed for its application.

There is perhaps, no branch of mines which has undergone such progressive evolution as that of Engineering. To-day we enjoy immeasurable benefits still betable to its development and indeed are scarcely able to appreciate their value.

In this article we desire to draw the attention of our readers to a phase of engineering activity in the great lumber ing region of Canada, by virtue of the selection of Messrs The Marsh Engineering Works, Ltd., of Belleville, Ont., who are famous for their Hoisting Machinery.

Hoisting Machinery in relation to the lumber industry is one of the most important factors to be considered as efficient hoisting apparatus is absolutely essential for this class of work and a prime requirement.

In selecting the Marsh Engineering Works as a responsible concern, engaged in this class of production, we are guided by the fact that their machinery is in demand from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and used by large contractors, lumber companies, miners, etc., throughout Canada. There is no better testimony of a product than the support of the demand which it enjoys and in this direction the firm are able to provide ample substantiation.

By way of brief historical introduction—Marsh Engineering Works Limited is a development of an old established concern in Belleville which came into being in 1866, before the Canadian Pacific Railway was a dream. A brick foundry and a machine shop comprised the plant which was erected in a spot in the centre of the town to cater to the surrounding lumber community by G. & J. Brown, the original founders. At the outset the manufacture consisted of a box stove and also a line of mowers, reapers, horse rakes, hoisting mills and other agricultural machinery.

In 1897 the Company was incorporated and commenced building. In this, however, they were not successful and went into liquidation in 1901. The next incumbant, L. W. Marsh, and the machine shop remained idle for another year, both of the site, with siding and storage facilities and with the exception of a gasoline, into which Marsh and Henderson Limited leased the plant.

Mr. Henthorn died in 1911, and his interests were acquired by the surviving partner and the name changed to Marsh Engineering Works Limited, in which Mr. Henthorn's widow provided by the Company to-day is for operation by steam, electricity, both of hand and power, and they have evolved a range which is a distinct convenience to meet almost any form of demand for this kind of service.

A very large collection of Mine Hoists are manufactured at present from 10 to 50 H. P. These are of two distinct types, namely, drums, Friction Drive, p volving and Friction Friction are engaged. Load may be lowered by gravity, without expenditure of power, controlled by the powerful band brake. Fixed drums keyed fast to shaft. Friction named revolve in either direction at speed driven by the reactive power. The load is under absolute positive control at all times.

The illustration herewith will indicate the style of product. With regard to the material and workmanship incorporated in these units, this is well established as being of first class quality.

The most modern type of Skidding and Loading Machinery for moving logs more quickly, at less cost and with increased profit to the Lumberman, is that manufactured by the Company. Their Steam Power Hoists have been used for many years by Lumbermen. These are made in 8 sizes from 10 to 70 H.P., to lift up to 15000 lbs. on a single line with 125" steam pressure and they are so adapted that a single drum hoist may be converted into a double drum hoist with the greatest facility and with complete ease.

Marsh Steam Hoists are proven money makers and labour savers, as thousands of lumbermen can testify. Firewood and water are always available many ways the ideal power for hoisting in the woods, and steam power in purposes.

Many of these Steam Hoists, in the sizes more commonly used by lumbermen, can be furnished on wooden skids and then moved easily over rough ground when changing working location either by horses, or by their own power.

Gasoline, Electric and Hand Power Hoists are also provided in suitable capacities and on the embodiment of the same principles.

In addition to Hoisting Machinery the Company also manufacture Mine Cages, Cars, Skips, etc., as well as a general line of plain and sheet steel work such as tanks, smoke stacks, flumes, etc.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads: that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxide powder (you can get it at any drug store) mix a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads brisk—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Six blackheads like all blackheads, no matter where they are, simply disolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

My European Excursions

By EDWIN ROBERT PETRE

A Northern Inland Voyage.

For nearly a hundred years this unique inland voyage has waited for me and the accommodations provided for it. I go the palatial little steamer, the Jund I think it was called, made the two and a half days from Gothenberg to Stockholm one of the most restful and interesting experiences of my life. Two-thirds of the way use is made of the natural waters of rivers and lakes, but the wooden shores that you can almost touch from the steamer's deck, the waterfalls of Trollhattan, the Lesko Castle and burial place of Queen Sanern, the third largest lake in Europe past old Wnas Castle, and the villas on the isle of Vislingen, has left me with the memory of a fairyland. At times the steamer was brushed by the trees under which it journeyed, so closely did the land accompany it on the voyage.

"Adventures Up To Your Elbows"

Most Americans know, or did know when they went to school, that Columbus sailed from Palos in Spain, but very few have as yet been on the little excursion out of Seville to return his call. Many glaces do not print he little place, because the little servant by the Tinto is now almost deserted, but it is worth discovering. Like so much in Spain, it is one of the unspoiled, unfrequented haunts of the "beaten track." It is still true, as Don Quixote remarked, that Spain is a land "where there are more opportunities to other Sancho, of putting our hands into what are called adventures up to our elbows." Here are the vestiges of Phoenician enterprise, Roman luxury, and Moorish elegance—a perfect set of dignity and picturesqueness. Here it wasn't a carefree chance, I clambered among the cities of old Castile.

Winter Sports in Norway

Norway is the rendezvous for the lovers of the ski this year, and English men and Americans are here in large numbers. In some places everybody uses ski, for the reason that if you leave out of your house by your back 'n a few seconds you are floundering up to your waist in soft snow. The art is the best of this snow world and the miles of mountains and woods and the utter stillness of a white world broken only by scores of other ski pioneers. Finse appears to be the ski man's paradise. Day after day we used to up over the snows climbing laboriously for hours and then you turn and it is downhill for many minutes you are down at your hotel again.

Determined to put a stop to motor speeding on the Cockfosters-Barnet road, the Police Commission there has decided to appoint a motorcycle officer to the legal force.

ENGLISH TOWN OF YARROW SUFFERING

Jarrow, England, March 30.—This industrial town on the Tyne, where it was scarcely possible to hear anyone speak for the clanging of hammers and pneumatic riveters, has fallen to a very dull and something like gloom exists there.

Workers in the shipbuilding and steel works, turning out millions of pounds worth of ships and material, today 2,500 workers out of a population of 36,000, are drawing the dole; there is only one ship on the stocks of the yards and many furnaces have been closed down for three years. Lack of trade, absence of money and lessened demand for war vessels and armament are mainly responsible for the present depression.

AIRPLANES CARRY GOLD

London, March 30.—Two and a quarter tons of gold were carried by two airplanes from London to Paris recently. This method of transport was chosen for its speed and to lessen the risk of theft, although the risk was not entirely eliminated. The bullion was carried under special metal-bound cases and was guarded from the time it left the bank until its arrival in Switzerland, its eventual destination.

Never Suffer From Pains You Can Stop

Most of the pains you suffer can be stopped at once. They include rheumatic pains, soreness, lameness, headache. And the congestion of chest colds.

The way is to rub the pain with Dr. Jacobs Oil. Cause a counter irritation. Or relieve the congestion by bringing the blood to the skin. A moment does this, and comfort follows before the rubbing stops.

St. Jacobs Oil has done this for 55 years. It has saved people tons of pain. Anybody who has used it will tell you that these pains are folly. Just rub rubbing and the pain is gone. It seems too crude—too simple. Then Nature has a chance to cure while you rest in comfort.

This time-tried method, proved by millions. You will never find anything better. It is sure and soothing, and it doesn't burn. Have it ready when the pain begins. Keep it on your shelf. The cost is but 35 cents.

And the time is bound to come when it will save someone about you many hours of pain. Ward off the suffering which is so unnecessary.

TO FINISH CASE UP IN BANCROFT LATE TO-NIGHT

Inquest Into Death of Mother and Daughter Started To-day.

DOCTOR TESTIFIES

Thirteen-Year-Old Would Have Been Mother Soon.

By Ward Kerry.

Bancroft, March 31.—At the inquest opened here to-day into the death of Mrs. Nettie Wiseley and thirteen-year-old daughter, Shirley, who were found drowned near Fort Stewart early last week, three letters from the mother were entered as evidence, but were not read in court.

One of these, addressed to a friend, left behind by mother to her parents and the third to a friend, Myrtle Ashe. The contents of these communications it is believed will throw all the light required in the investigation which has engaged the attention of a great section of Ontario.

The inquest was opened here at 10 o'clock this afternoon with Dr. Stead Lush of Eldorado presiding. There were not many spectators in court; Bancroft correspondents of Ottawa, Toronto and Belleville were well represented.

One of the first witnesses was Constable Wright of the Provincial Police who told of finding the bodies at the bank of the river.

Absent Was So Mother

Dr. Kimberley, the next witness, told the results of the post mortem held and told the court that the thirteen-year-old girl would have been a mother in two months time.

The inquest is expected to be finished up in quick order and The Intelligencer was informed that the arrival of Edward Gates, uncle of the drowned girl, who is charged with a serious offence, will begin jamediately after. Hopes are held that it will be completed late to-night.

Looks Like New Industry in City

Standard Paving Company Considers Repair Plant In Belleville

There is every prospect that the Standard Paving Company will establish a repair plant in this city. This company has a plant in the west and in the east of the province and is desirous of having one in the eastern part of the province, and Belleville is favorably considered. The company wants about 2 acres of land and a frontage on the Marsh Engineering Works is preferable.

A verbal offer has been made for the land in question but a formal offer is now before the company. If the plant is established here, it will mean a payroll for a number of men. The City Council will make every effort to have the company locate here and has the following recommendation was unanimously passed last night:

That the Mayor, Chairman of Industries, Chairman of Public Works and City Engineer be a committee to negotiate with the Standard Paving Company re the purchase of a site for their repair plant, with power to act.

DOES BARN INCLUDE THE FOUNDATION?

This was the legal point His Honor Judge E. H. McLean determined Monday last about 11 a.m. in the Belleville Court House. The defendant Ketcheson sold a strip of his farm to Ontario Government to enlarge the provincial highway in the Township of Sidney and Ketcheson was to remove the barn. There was a barn on this strip of land which Ketcheson was to remove to the highway and Ketcheson then sold the barn to the plaintiff Demill who moved with Demill to move this barn back off the highway and Demill had to do the balance being about 12 feet. Ketcheson moved the barn about 7 feet, but did not move the stone foundation. Demill moved the barn and moved the stone completed the foundations, and sued Ketcheson for damages. Judge McLean held that the barn included the found ations and gave judgment for the plain tiff for $100 and costs. Mr. Mikel, K. C. for plaintiff; E. Guss Porter, K. C., for defendant.

Isolated by a broken gas main Macleod, in Southern Alberta, is left without light, heat or water by freezing weather. Gas fuel is used at the power house. Efforts are being made to rush repairs.

Criminals Fool New York Hotel Clerk, Escape With Thousands Of Dollars

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, March 31.—Two policemen were wounded in a pistol battle with the robbers this morning, following a daylight holding up in Hotel Aberdeen, just off Fifth Avenue, from which the bandits escaped with cash and jewelry totalling several thousand dollars in value.

The police followed the hotel robbery as one of the most daring in months. Only two men who assisted in the robbery had registered at the hotel three days ago. This movement was returned to the hotel with another man and acted the night clerk, escaped from the safe's package which he had deposited when he registered. While the clerk was opening the safe, the two men drew revolvers. Two other robbers with pistols drawn then entered the lobby. Hurriedly rifling the safe they robbers escaped. A pistol battle between Fun gilmeen and two police men began when a policeman attempted to stop the gunmen's speeding automobile.

Would Make It One Long Thoroughfare

Under the head of unfinished business at the council meeting last night, Mayor Mikel referred to the fact that from Dundas street to the upper C. N. R. station there was one continuous street, paved. He said there was some confusion especially to strangers, owing to the fact that there were two names to this thoroughfare: Front, Mill, and Station streets. His Worship suggested that it be designated as one street with an appropriate name.

A motion was carried that the matter be referred to the Public Works Committee to report upon.

BUS SERVICE IS NOW ASSURED IN BELLEVILLE

Mayor and Clerk Authorized to Sign Agreement Made Out

FOR EAST SIDE ONLY

Agreement Sent Back For Revision Several Times

There is every indication that in the near future a motor bus line will be established in the eastern part of the city. Yesterday afternoon the special committee of the Council having the matter in hand met, and a report which was practically the same as that unanimously adopted with a suitable recommendation as follows:

"Your Special Committee appointed to consider the application for the permission to Mr. F. Rawson to operate a motor bus line in certain streets of the City of Belleville in accordance with Council's action on our interim report have had the Solicitor for the Applicant submit to us a draft agreement. We have been using the agreement for revision and now feel that we have ready an agreement which is fairly comprehensive and have submitted it to our City Solicitor for study. He along with all members of the Committee after a final reading have agreed to advise the Solicitor for the applicant has approved of it.

"In our opinion the service is a desirable one and we would recommend that the tyrpes of buses using the streets and that the application be granted under the provisions as set out in the attached form of agreement and we would further recommend that the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to sign the agreement on behalf of the City."

Recommended that the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to sign the agreement between the corporation of the City of Belleville and Frederick Rawson of No. 4 Cedar Grove covering the operation of a motor bus line on streets on the east side of the River Moira—as designated in the agreement.

HAVE NOT DECIDED ON ELECTION DATE

Ottawa, March 31.—The Government has not decided on a date for a general election. So far as I am concerned, the matter has not been considered," said Premier King to the House yesterday afternoon.

The premier was asked by whom Robert Forke, leader of the Progressive, read a telegram from Saskatchewan over which Peg which quoted Hon. E. J. McMurray, Solicitor-General as suggesting an election. Forke made the statement in Parliament. While Mr. Forke was speaking Hon. Lucien Cannon, Chief Liberal, Lonenburg, called to the Progressive leader: "Shoot the pompous John," and the House rocked with laughter while the Prime Minister rose to make a reply.

Over 350 Guests At Annual Banquet

Orange Ladies Provide good Program For Visitors and Other Friends

Over three hundred and fifty men were attended the fourth annual banquet given in the Orange Hall, Belleville, by the ladies of Lydia Lodge, No. 396. The colors of the Lodge Purple and White predominated in the decorations which were tastefully decorated by Mrs. Ellis. The tables were bountifully filled with all the good cats that go to make a banquet a success. Guests of the Orange Lodge came from Picton, Frankford and Napanee.

Brother Geen, Provincial Grand Chaplain gave a very inspiring address. Other visitors included Mayor Mikel, and Provincial Grand Secretary Brother F. M. Clark. Readings were given by Sister M. Wood Alyea, which were rendered in fine style. She was cordially received and graciously responded to an encore.

Sister Kennedy was presented with a gift in recognition of faithful service as Lady Chaplain for a period in office. She made a suitable reply in a few words. Other speakers and sisters spoke very encouragingly of the work being done by the Association. Many thanks are due Brother Charles who acted as Chairman of the evening, filling that capacity faithfully and well. The evening closed with the singing of "God Save the King."

Cobourg Father and Son Found Killed

Murder and Suicide is Theory Held by Authorities

Cobourg, Ont., March 31.—Discovery yesterday afternoon of the bodies of William Reid, 70, and his son, Henry, aged 43 years, and in a room in an unoccupied house on the northern outskirts of Cobourg brought to light a shocking tragedy. The throats of both had been cut, and on a shelf lay a blood-stained razor, which is believed to belong to the elder. Apparently Beare had slain his son, fatally wounded himself and put the razor on the shelf before he was dead, dying, to the floor, but Chief of Police Ross said last night that he had been unable to find any motive for the deed. Suspicion fell on Beare somewhat through brooding over the long-continued illhealth of the boy. The father, while he had been unemployed for several months, is not thought to have been in any great straits.

Little is known about the movements of the two since they left their home on Percy street about nine o'clock yesterday morning. The boy had been away from birth, and had had little opportunity to go to school. Beare told his wife that he would take him to a chiropractor in Cobourg. They did not return for the midday meal.

About four o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Beare became alarmed at vacant house on Elgin street, they being prospective tenants. Mrs. Hubble stepped into a room on the ground floor and saw the two bodies lying close together. Chief of Police Ross and a doctor were soon on the scene, and it was found that father and son had been dead several hours. The house in which their lives were ended is near the Union Cemetery and about one and one-half miles from the hogge of the Beares.

William Beare was born in Cobourg and had lived in the town all his life. He bore an excellent character and was regarded as a good worker, although since the temporary shutting down of the local furniture factories there he had been employed, he had been unable to find work. He had shown no sign of mental trouble. Besides his widow, he is survived by two grown-up daughters who live in Toronto.

Coroner Dr. George Ferris formally opened an inquest last night and, after hearing the evidence of Chief Ross as to the condition in which he had found the bodies, adjournment was made until April 8th at 8 p.m.

Hon. H.H. Stevens Attacks Budget

Tells Government Sane Method of Relieving Canada's Ailments

Ottawa, March 31.—Hon. H. H. Stevens, former Minister of Trade and Commerce, made his initial speech of the session this afternoon yesterday of the Government before prorogation, at the conclusion of his speech, he recommended as remedies for Canada's economic ills, the following: the Government inaugurate a policy which would switch some of Canada's purchases from the United States to other sources and eliminate the adverse balance of trade with that country of $222,000,000; encourage the immigration of British people to Canada by removing "irritating and overburdensome" restrictions; by reducing or adjusting the tariff so as to direct our vast reserves of raw material for use in Canadian industry on a large scale, by large, to discourage the reckless export of raw materials and make certain that Canadian power is to remain subservient to Canadian needs; and to adopt such an attitude toward the motherland and sister dominions as will lead to greater solidarity and unity of the Empire in trade matters.

In dealing with the budget debate, he described it "as a subtle expedient, deliberately designed to create a guilty and morbid Government from the just indignation of an awakening public opinion." He pointed out that the Government had claimed surpluses in four years amounting to $157,984,000, and during that time had received from the British Government on money owing to Canada $123,000,000, the total of surplus and repayment of capital from Great Britain, $280,984,000. The Opposition would have all applied to the reduction of the national debt, but the facts were that instead of the national debt being reduced by over $300,000,000 there had been an increase of $9,430,000. From this, he deduced that the Government had sought out these surplus at any time during that period, and had also concealed the receipts received from Great Britain for current expenditure instead of applying it to reduction of the debt.

Business Strangled

Not only had there been no reduction in taxation, he said, but business was strangled by excessive taxation, and out of work, 2,300 factories closed, and the purchasing power of the people reduced $123,000,000. There had been a drop in revenue from the sales tax clearly indicated there was a falling off in the domestic purchases during the past fiscal year of $20,000,000.

From Canada's borrowings abroad in the United States and Great Britain, Mr. Stevens pointed out, Canada continued to face annual interest charges of $153,000,000, while Canada's trade balance with the United States, it was necessary to pay $150,000,000 annually in interest on investments, owing them $150,000,000 and an adverse trade balance of $159,000,000. Thus, he said, the money Canada had to pay to that country annually was $309,000,000. Her trade balance With Great Britain, Canada had a favorable balance of $50,000,000 annually, and an unfavorable interest balance of $150,000,000, leaving Great Britain to pay Canada $100,000,000 annually. With $309,000,000 to balance the account. With $309,000,000 to balance the account, Canada had to send $216,000,000 to balance external trade accounts.

He claimed the export power tax virtually established the principle of taxation on exports, and that it would develop a vested right that would be embodied in the future. "This principle would confer power a tool rather than a product of economic necessity," he said, "will fix a definite limitation of expansion for Canadian industries, especially that of lumber. It is a recess around the neck of Canada with the United States capital sat on the free end of the rope." He concluded: "This Government is now charged before the people with gross indifference to its own pledges; with deliberate misrepresentation; with duplicity of policy and utter disregard of economic necessity and with administrative practices that will deliver Canada bound and shackled as a vassal into the hands of the United States."

Gathering of Bar Promotes Peace

Says W. S. Herrington, K.C., To Kiwanis Club Here To-day

W. S. Herrington, K.C., well-known in Belleville, was the speaker at the regular Kiwanis Club luncheon at the New Queen's Hotel at noon today and sought to entertain a very interesting story of its visit of the Canadian and American Bar Association to England and France last summer. Among several arresting observations which Mr. Herrington made during his address was that that gathering was one of the strangest gatherings held since the conclusion of the great war.

He sketched the entire trip from beginning to end, pausing here and there to tell a humorous story or two, incidents and experiences that stood out in the memory of the trip. The first banquet Courts of London, Mr. Herrington went for a time on Grey's Court on Whitehall to listen to talks by historians back three centuries to the time when young barristers were first banded together for mutual benefit and ate on the rich kitchen fare that was heaped up in the old institution.

He told of visiting Henry Biggar in the Records office, where the Doomsday Book, the Magna Carta and the Scrap of Paper were kept and of his meeting with Lady Sharpe, Nazanne Old City and Lord Mayor and Magistrate also gained by the United States Bar Association. Other incidents included a hitherto unknown respect for English law and the English people.

And to Kiwanians, one of the features of his address was his statement that he would like to see the Kiwanis Club at a future date to speak again.

THE ANNUAL MADNESS

What is the funny odor that assails you the minute you step into the front yard these warm evenings? Turpentine! Mother is painting the stairs, and around the border of the living room, and a mere man has to walk about his own castle on rickety planks that are supposed to protect the new floor. Bosh!

Why are all the carpets hanging on the railing of the front porch? What is the disorder in the kitchen? What mean these mops and pails, and ladders and queer-looking paper hangings? Whence came the strange bare spaces on the walls, and why is it that the family has had canned baked beans for dinner for three successive nights?

Need you ask? Do you not know that spring house-cleaning time, that period of dreadful efficiency, is here, a little earlier than usual? This is the season for raking up the year's grime, a sigh over the size of the ash pile, and for realizing that your clothes are beginning to look shabby. The house may have looked all right to you. But if there is a shrewd woman in it, it will shine in the darkness any night next week. Doubtless 'tis a needful time, but the manfolk find it bewildering, disturbing and painful.

THE DEFICIT APPEARS

As has been expected the King Government really has a deficit on the financial year. This is the real point in the Budget Speech delivered by Hon. J. A. Robb. He claims a surplus of $1,882,000, but as he arrived at this by treating as a loan certain sums due to the Canadian National Railways and the Government Merchant Marine, there is actually a deficit of $18,204,000 on the year's operations.

Nor is this all. It the same method of arriving at the state of the finances had been followed by Hon. W. S. Fielding there would, as Sir Henry Drayton has pointed out, be a deficit of $60,000,000 for the new bond guarantees for the Canadian Nation al represent $64,000,000.

Proof that a surplus does not exist is to be seen in the admission of Mr. Robb that during the year the net national debt has been increased by 18,703,838. Last year he said that the debt had been reduced by the amount of the surplus. It follows that this year there really having been no surplus the debt has been actually been increased to this extent.

Some remarkable figuring has been done in order to arrive at the pretended surplus. In the first place it is admitted that total revenue for the year will be $852,800,000 below that for the corresponding eleven months of the preceding year, it will be seen that the estimate is very optimistic. But let's go at that.

The total estimated expenditure, Mr. Robb puts at $842,177,000, or only $1,844,076 below that for the preceding year, according to his own figures. And yet with an expenditure almost equal to that of the preceding year, and with nearly $53,000,000 less to meet it, Mr. Robb figures out a surplus of $1,882,000.

But not satisfied with this, Mr. Robb says that $4,000,162, in the form of back interest, which Greece and Rumania have promised to pay on their loans, should be added to the $1,882,000. This feeling had not yet been cleared for upwards of a mile. Some hundreds of people, many of them coming many miles, assisted with oxen and teams. When at the end of sixteen days no trace of the body had been found, the hopers still kept on the job, there were as many as 95 working at once. And they did not let up until success crowned their efforts on the seventeenth day and the surviving parents had the pleasure of having the body of their little son restored to them for Christian burial.

AN ABLE UNDERSTUDY

(London Correspondent)

Lord Reading leaves an able understudy in Lord Lytton. Reading has suggested Earl Reading's retirement as Viceroy, though he has still a year to serve, and Lord Lytton's succession was expected in Downing street. Lord Lytton, at present Governor of Bengal, is only 49, but has experience and unites a handsome presence with a cultured intellect, as the grandson of one great literary figure and the son of another. For Lord Lytton had "Owen Meredith" as his father, as well as Bulwer Lytton as his grandfather. The latter's writing genius and has some perfectly good verses to his credit. Born at Simla, educated at Eton and Cambridge, he married Emelia, the only daughter of Sir Trevor Chichele-Plowden and one of his sisters became Mrs. Gerald Balfour. The present Viscount Knebworth, was born in 1903.

THIS IN CANADA

(Woodstock Sentinel-Review)

The male participant in a hazy wedding which the Toronto courts are asked to annul, admitted, in giving his evidence, that the idea of the ceremony originated in a spirit of fun. Such a statement is so unusual as to be almost incredible, and the time of the Toronto Magistrate was wasted when he was asked to repeat, and that for a minute he could not recall the bride's name. The bride, it appears of age, admitted that before the ceremony she had had several drinks of Scotch whiskey. The minister of the gospel who performed the ceremony testified that the young woman was not drunk, but that his smell liquorous the bridegroom. No doubt we shall continue to talk about the sanctity of marriage and to be properly shocked when a case is shown by our neighbors across the line.

BLOWING HOT AND COLD

(London Mail)

I asked Bernard Shaw's help how he liked returning to the east winds of England after basking in the sun of Madeira. "I am impervious to both," he replied. "I am neither hot nor cold, both!" I asked. "No man who has any work to do has time to think about the weather," he returned. "I am indifferent to those, who having nothing better to do, make a hobby of the weather. Since my return I've heard nothing but cackle about the cold. How! I got hot all over at the thought of it!"

To-day's Smile

The old merchant mate, who retired from the sea, and by his own management, and selfishness bred a small boy to hammer at the cottage door every morning at dawn and bawl:

"Cap'n wants you on the bridge!"

"What sort of a morn'n' is it?" "Ain't a dog's fit to go out, rain an' blowin' like boggery!"

"Then tell the cap'n to go to hell!"

And he settled down once more into the warm pillow.

Friend Dog

A STORY has been published somewhere about a boy who ran away from home and gave as his reason that "there was not even a dog."

And the story was well called morbid.

The boy who was called morbid was placed on a farm where there were hens and chickens, dogs, horses and cows, and he became satisfied and happy.

What he needed was the companionship of dependent creatures.

The dog is the one animal that keeps us from being lonely in this universe. We are strangers to all others and they all have a certain fear of us.

Maeterlinck says that the dog is the only animal that really loves man.

This appeal of love, especially upon it is outspoken and intelligent, calls out all the best that is in us. The dog usually appeals to the best that is in man. Very many persons who seem to be of no account in the world have a dog that loves them. This animal sees in them lovable qualities that no human being can see.

It is said of a dog that he never tells tales, answers back, or scolds. He is also ready for play and as a rule he is affectionate.

Children naturally take to dogs. They find an element of companionship in them that is lacking in people.

Every boy wants to be the owner of a dog. For if he is recognized as this owner he will be treated to give it food and water, even more careful than of his own meals.

The reason why any boy neglects his dog is that he thinks, "Somebody will feed it," that the responsibility is not up to him.

Of all the animals that are glad to show their affection to their owners, dogs lead the list. It is as though this one member of the animal creation was looking up to man with the veil that separates mankind from the rest of creation, looking with longing and affection.

We have often wondered how the first dog was discovered, who was the first man that found out about him. In some way the dog showed his affection for his master. For some reason he is endowed with an instinctive love of his human being. He will cling to that human being through thick and thin, it makes no difference if he is poor or rich. In fact often the poorer he is the closer the dog comes to him.

The dog looks up to his master as a man looks up to God. He gives him unquestioning devotion. He is ready at any time to sacrifice his comfort and even lay down his life for the man to whom he is attached.

Affection is so rare in this world, and mankind so largely lacking in it, that it is a reserve to discover it in the dog. And now we are justified in speaking of the companionship of this animal when they have turned away even from the companionship of their fellows.

Even a boy is discouraged or troubled or lonesome, and boys often are, there is a quality of silent sympathy that he gets from his dog companion that he can receive nowhere else. It is a sympathy he understands and appreciates.

If there is danger in keeping a dog, it should be remembered that there is danger in everything, and the advantages far out number the dangers in this case.

My European Excursions

By EDWIN ROBERT PETRE

"The Value of Obscurity"

No matter where I meet a Swede who knows that I travel a lot, but he will say to me, "Mr. Rockefeller is in the city!" And I always have to say, "Yes," because it has been the misfortune to Milton as say city in this part of the world. For Tarrytown is somehow more perhaps Constantinople is its only competitor. But Tarrytown is the city of a rich Venice, the swan of the Adriatic, the northern Naples upon the banks of lands by Hudson. The waters about it have come from the west that-ward, and the shores of hitherto unexplored island and on the largest island stands the palatial mansion of the world's richest man, one of the richest men in the world, a wonder for a long century.

"For Business and Pleasure"

I have always thought it was characteristic of Americans, as opposed to the official classifications of foreign rulers, that they travel "for business and pleasure." "For business or pleasure," one class, not two, as in Europe. "Public" must be because as many Americans when they go to Europe travel "for business and pleasure," combining utility with beauty, instruction with delight in but a good degree. If there is no other way of seeing Europe, make it your business" to see it. Some Americans even want to confer with some investigation that they may have over here the real "inside" some "market" you need to view rose up. Lord of American I must ever here some over on such "excuses," but they are excuses that never hurt any business yet.

Letters To The Editor

CREDIT ON THE PUBLIC SCHOOL COURSE FOR THE STUDY OF "OP" MUSIC

Mr. Editor:

Dear Sir—It will be of interest to many who have taken the Public school study and also to our public and high school teachers to know that a movement is being made to establish a system of credits for certificates, music study for the Province of Ontario; similar to that already in use in many parts of the United States. At a session of the Music Section of the Ontario Educational Association, held in the Toronto Conservatory of Music, the membership of 1,000 was discussed and a paper was read by G. D. Atkinson, B.A., Registrar in the College of Education and the University Schools which suggested the plan of credits for music as private music study. It is a fact that on account of the great number of music study by pupils in high schools, a very large number of them are discouraged from the study because of the time required for the theoretical studies, and this at a time when their minds are most impressionable. The bands more plastic than they will ever be again, is nothing short of a calamity and especially so, in the case of a gifted pupil, whose love for music was the only one subject in their examinations they might still continue their musical study. There is no need to urge the educative value of music, or the mental discipline that comes in daily practice, in refining influence on the character of a child, and the necessity for a high appreciation and patience required.

The proposal is simply a good boon to a school or College, has of her services being in connection with the Public schools, after satisfactory of the school, and yes no allowances are made that the Public schools seems reasonable that a study so useful and necessary in our schools should be given definite recognition as optional subject in the matriculation examinations, subject to a plan to be decided upon by the educational authorities. Over one hundred and two hundred musicians of Toronto have already given their support to the plan, and it is to be hoped in Provincial wide. The Music Teachers' Association of Ontario asked for their signatures to this petition.

Dr. A. S. Vogt, Dean of the Faculty of Music of the University of Toronto, is being requested to present the plan before the Educational department and it is hoped that that action definite re-

ADDRESS GIVEN AND PRESENTATION

On Wednesday evening, March 4, 1925 Trenton Chapter, No. 68, O.E.S., was favored with a splendid address by Mrs. Mary Chadsley, of Belleville, filled beautifully and appealingly with them, before their departure for their new home.

The following address was read by Mrs. Harvey Chadsley and presentation made:

Mrs. Way, Sadie and Mabel Chadsley:

We, your sisters and neighbors of Meadowvale, gladly yet sometimes here this evening to pay our kindest respect to you and say goodbye and also to extend to you our very best wishes for the continuance of happiness and prosperity in your new home.

We feel we could not let you leave unnoticed, without expressing in some tangible way our appreciation of you as kind friends, especially in your business relations and ever ready to lend a helping hand.

On any, and all occasions, you have shown a spirit of willingness on your part, to do all that was in your power and as a slight token of our respect and esteem, we ask you, Mrs. Way, to accept this literary table, Miss Stratton, the Bible, and Earl, a purse to purchase a ring, for your future home. Lastly we trust with happiness, health and contentment.

Signed on behalf of the community—

Mrs Edna Ketcheson,
Mrs.Wm. Weir

Mrs. Way and Miss Stratton responded in a few words, although taken by surprise and expressed their duty appreciation of their gifts. This was followed by all joining in and singing "For they are jolly good fellows." Lunch was then served and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing and games.

Cheese Meeting Held

Wolfe Island, March 31.—The patrons of the Wolfe Island cheese factory held their annual meeting on Tuesday. The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted. Everything was satisfactory and the books showed a small balance on hand. D.J. Cosgrove was appointed secretary-treasurer. The appointment of the salesman was left over for further discussion. Some suggested that Mr. Wilson, Pittsferry, acted as salesman. John O'Shea is to make the cheese for $1.95 a cwt, and the total amount of whey cream and all the whey for his pigs.

After Mother's Life

Kingston, March 31.—Mrs. Archibald Currie, Innisdale, is in Kingston Hospital recovering from wounds inflicted by her son, aged 23, who recently returned from United States. Last Wednesday the young man was released acting temporarily. In the afternoon, a teacher in the Hall School, when passing the Currie home, heard cries for help. The father and the soldier son arrived in time to save Mrs. Currie's life. The son had attacked her with a large knife, which had cut her badly in head and wrists, and when help arrived the young man had her on the floor trying to cut her throat. The son was placed in Rockwood Asylum.

Royal Yacht Was Upset in Launching

King's Vessel Not Very Seaworthy; Built More For Comfort

London, March 31.—With the consent of the Admiralty, Parliament was assured to-night by George Lambert, the Liberal member, that although the life of its monarch is one of the most sacredly units of the far-flung British Empire.

The royal yacht Victoria and Albert is not designed in stable form and the hand yacht, ever built, but one that would be comfortable in all kinds of weather. As a flying residence, she is considered admirable. As a seagoing boat outside rough water, she is far from comfortable, besides being unstable.

Queen Victoria's idiosyncracies were largely responsible for the deficiencies of the craft. The Victoria and Albert, in the yacht service of the Queen, was constructed at Pembroke for the late Queen's Diamond Jubilee year at the express command of Queen Victoria, who was named after the vessel in May, 1899, by the then Duchess of York, now Queen Mary.

Queen Victoria being accustomed to having her own way in regard to many alterations in the yacht's design to suit her wishes of the moment, many of the structural changes thus made, the vessel became so top heavy that at the time when a launch was made, no boat bee out of the building dock. Weights were consequently shored and the craft was practically reconstructed. Yet in spite of these changes, the vessel remedy her inherent defects it was found impossible to turn her into a really seaworthy vessel.

Under the direct the work of the late Sir William White, director of naval construction and when the vessel was launched on the first attempt at floating, it was he who had to bear the brunt of the criticism. Sir William was severely censured by the Admiralty, and left his subordinates to bear the blame they were devoted service.

The yacht is 330 feet long, 50 feet in beam and displaces 4,700 tons. Though fitted with the ablest reciprocating engine, she can still steam at 20 knots, but if forced she can attain greater speed. By Queen Victoria's desire, the accommodation was made very rather than speed. Great attention was paid to "safety" devices, the Queen being exceptionally courageous and strong. Owing to her deep draught, the yacht is said to be able to put to sea comparatively few Mediterranean ports. She carries, however, a powerful launch, suitable for the King can use to go ashore at any place he wishes.

Not Luxurious

Compared with the latest ocean liners, the accomodation aboard is by no means luxurious. Very roomy, however, and spacious, situated in the after part of the vessel between the two funnels, are the royal suite, but are not ostentatiously furnished. They contain a sitting room and a bed room and also the King will occupy during the cruise. Adjoining these, are a bedroom and bathroom for the Queen.

The Queen's sleeping apartment is furnished with satin wood. The walls are white with panels in mirrors. The King's bed room is similarly furnished, except for the panels, while the furniture is of a darker shade.

A short passage leads from the King' bed room to the writing room the furniture of which is upholstered in blue leather.

On the port side of the deck is the drawing room, which is tastefully furnished in Sheraton. Aft of this the Princess Mary's room, which is white and gold, and forward of it the Prince of Wales' room, very simply fitted up.

There is a private dining-room in the central position of the main deck, where the motion of the vessel is least felt.

On the upper deck are their Majesties' dining-room, with a seating capacity for 26, and reception and smoking rooms, with a promenade deck above. By arranging a series of decks of the upper deck can be made into a pleasant lounge in fine weather.

A grand staircase leads down from the state deck to the royal apartments, but there is also a passenger elevator.

The cabins which the King's medical attendants are accommodated amongst those allotted to their Majesties' suite.

The lower deck is devoted to cabins for the royal servants, together with the royal kitchens, pantries, etc.

Through essentially a yacht, the Victoria and Albert is listed as a unit of the navy, and her maintenance is defrayed under the naval estimates.

The crew number approximately 240. Service aboard her is still eagerly sought after by the men of the navy, short cut to promotion that it used to be. King George was brought up in the navy, and is imbued with the idea of advancement by merit alone.

Exiled on Island Over Two Years

Missionaries Tells Strange Story of Lonely Life Under Trees

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Capetown, South Africa, March 31.—A strange tale of exile on the lonely isle of Tristan da Cunha, which big almost midway in the middle of the Atlantic between South Africa and South America, was told by Rev. Martyn Rogers when he arrived here recently on his return to England.

In 1921 Mr. Rogers took his young wife out to the lonely Tristan da Cunha for three years' mission; and now after working as doctor, missionary and school teacher in the world's most isolated community—Tristan da Cunha is almost ten thousand miles from the nearest steamer land, and almost as much from Cape Town—he is getting back with his wife and a two-year-old son Richard, who is the first white child ever to be born on the island.

The Rogers' have been no mail boats at Tristan, when the Rannoe de Larmoges steamed up to the island on her way to Cape Town the nearest chance that Mr. Rogers was able to leave.

"To be born on Tristan da Cunha seems badges," said Mr. Rogers, "it feel always as though we are living on the moon. Towards the end of our stay the island was getting very much overcrowded my health suffered, and my wife and child were beginning to feel the hardship. The island potato crop failed. Cattle died, and we were for only a few times a week.

"But I do not regret one moment of the time we have been there," he said. "There was so much to do. My wife's school, together in the world's smallest ages ranged from 4 to 40—every day. There were services on Sunday and every day. Often we had to attend serious accidents, and, although we were there as a work open, we had my troop of Boy Scouts. I was able to help myself domestic and religious subjects to the people among whom I worked.

"The greatest hardship of life on Tristan is the length of time between mails. Our only link from the outside world. Weeks are spent in vain longing for the white sails of the ship that should call for but one mail a year.

"It was just after daybreak on Feb. 4 when someone shouted "Sail-ho", instant the taste was uncovered. Men and Women left their kitchens and ran to their look, regardless of other livestock for bartering purposes. The men dashed down to the beach and launched their canvas boats.

Captain Jones, the master of the Larmoges, offered us a passage.

We visited a few sick people, held our farewell church service, and married two couples. At the service the sounds of the church organ were drowned by the roar strains of the wedding hymns. I will never forget that service.

"On the Beach some of the women stood on the rocks and loudly they could not bear to part with her; but the steam was now lifted, and as we were leaving the islanders gave hearty cheers for the missionary, and three more for Captain Jones.

The inhabitants of Tristan da Cunha are descended from British servicemen to send a washing to the island annually, by Mr. Rogers said.

Tests of samples of milk supplied at lagersall conducted by Dr. T. L. McKitchie, M.O.H., indicated that milk of a high quality is being distributed in the city during March. All samples tested much higher than the required 3.5 of butterfat and 13 of solids.

FIND NEW ROLE FOR CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Rome, March 31.—A new role for the cross-word puzzle has been discovered. It is being used by lonely Americans and English" travellers in Europe as a means of finding fellow countrymen and compatriots.

The English-speaking exile sets his solitary meal in a forgiet" restaurant, tavern or cafe, and lays the Princeps opening in front of him his newspaper despite the disapproving glances of the waiters. He looks about him, searching the most likely possibility as an Anglo-Saxon, and declares mentality-ally, but loud enough to be overheard, "What is the name of a three letter word meaning 'historical authenticity'?" The answer is a blessed snare, or a not-licable crackling of the fire is followed by something like, "Now let me see——

BERNARD SHAW PLAY IS WELL RECEIVED

Toronto, March 31.—Bernard Shaw's latest and by far his greatest play "Saint Joan, with the famous actress Mrs. Patrick Campbell in the title role, was given by a remarkable cast and the origin at New York Theatre Guild, Toronto, opened their Canadian tour of Ontario here to-night at the Princess theatre before a fashionable and distinguished audience. The production was not the same produced at Guild and is on its previous engagement earlier in the season. A Chatty Letter From Old London

Tetrazzini Springs a Surprise; Theatre Boxes Going; Duchess Writes Diary

(Canadian Press Despatch)
By Phyllis Mefarlane

London, Eng., March 31—The Throne room at Buckingham Palace when the Prince of Wales held his first Levee,—his father, King George not being well enough to appear—is fashioned on one side by some small windows, hardly noticeable, but evidently for Throne Room itself.

Nobody, indeed, seems to have noticed that when Wales, looking very resplendent though rather shy in the uniform of a Colonel of the Welsh Guards, was receiving 900 diplomats, officers and Ministers of State, Queen Mary was watching him through one of the windows. No women are ever present at a Levee, and her actual presence therefore (as she would be, being evidently fulfilled his first monarchial duties to perfection for his mother beamed approvingly throughout.

By the way, on the eve of leaving England for the Mediterranean, in the munificent Royal yacht the King and Queen suddenly realized that if they went abroad at any of the usual places ports that they hope to call at, neither of them would be able to speak French or Italian very fluently. The Queen used to be—but I suppose the Royalty but has not practised for many years.

So Lady Joan Verney, a beautiful girl, is going with them to act often through any expedition they may venture on.

Visitors Set Pace in Princely Parties

Entertaining is going full tilt on a princely and extravagant scale this summer. Lady Queensberry entertained at dinner for the ex-Minister Bell on Wednesday night, subsequently kind of a squarson dinner, table decoration, flare and beautiful flowers. Guests from the London Zoological Society swam about in crystal tanks and bowls which had been sunk into the table and illuminated. Real seaweed and fungi grew in the bowls.

Lord and Lady Granard are back at their lovely house in Hallan Street, Mayfair. The Earl's famous Napoleon dinner service, in which every fork and spoon bears inset a rare jewel, will be in constant use and the Granard menage is one of those where all the servants wear silk knee breeches and powder their hair.

Tetrazzini Gives Savoy Diners Thrill

Tetrazzini is the most unconventional of divas, and when she was dining in the Savoy Restaurant, the night after she had broadcast by radio to the world, about 1000 diners were suddenly thrilled to hear somebody singing.

Signor Rochetta, who used to play at Mont Carlo, thought he would pay the Prima Donna a compliment by playing her favorite aria, Doubtless "O lovi di quest'"; but it was too much for

MARCEL DUPRE

Noted French organist and composer, returning to Paris after having given a series of organ recitals in the United States and Canada. He played on Christmas Night three years ago, but this last event was quite unexpected and unconventional.

Tetrazzini, who, accompanied as usual with the famous orchids fad—mostly these bigeous fiver,—began singing.

This is not the first time she has sung in the Savoy Restaurant. She says

Theatre Boxes Going

The new London Theatres that are now being built have no boxes. Management say that the day of the box is over, and are satisfied that "it has taken the public so long to see what uncomfortable parts of the theatre they are. The young Princess hardly ever use a box but much prefer being in the front row of the stalls. It has been noticed that the Prince of Wales when he visits the theatre is almost invariably to be found in the front row of the stalls right at the left hand side and he generally slips in just after the curtain has risen.

Duchess and the News in Brief

Big bids are returning to favour so rapidly that the London General Omnibus Company are trying to rearrange the seating of their buses. It is no longer possible for two women wearing the big hats of the present day to sit side by side in comfort on the seats at their present size.

As Savile Row tailor gave show for men two mornings ago, but men themselves are not quite used to this sort of thing. Cocktails, of course.

The Duchess of York is going to publish her diary of her African tour on her return.

London women are re-adopting their fur capes and are wearing them as jumpers. A contrast is provided by the wearing of rather of jade strung tightly around the wrist between the row of pearls.

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 1

Tea as a Beverage

Tea first became known in China nearly 3000 years before Christ. In that country tea was greatly prized, both for its remarkable qualities as a beverage and for the almost religious ceremony attached to the drinking of it. Up to the sixth century, tea was used only for medicinal purposes. Even in the seventeenth century it cost $25.00 to $50.00 per pound. All tea caddies were constantly kept under lock and key. Today when even fine quality like "SALADA" costs less than one-third of a cent per cup, it is not surprising that the consumption of tea is increasing tremendously.

DOBBIN ON SNOWSHOES IN ROCKIES

Taking heavy load to Phoenix Mines. Inset, Horse on snowshoes. Right Top, Cossayuy that Trail Riders Traverse.

IT looks funny and it sounds even funnier, but after all why not? It's bad enough to carry 140 pounds on two feet in deep snow. Figure for yourself what it would be like to contemplate the poundage even though it is distributed over double the human allowance of footage.

This genial idea was put into practice by Walter J. Nixon member of the Council of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies and it was found to work out quite well. In the particular instance shown in the cuts, the task was to break the trail through deep snows to the Phoenix mines in British Columbia and this onerous task would have been impossible without some such device as the one depicted.

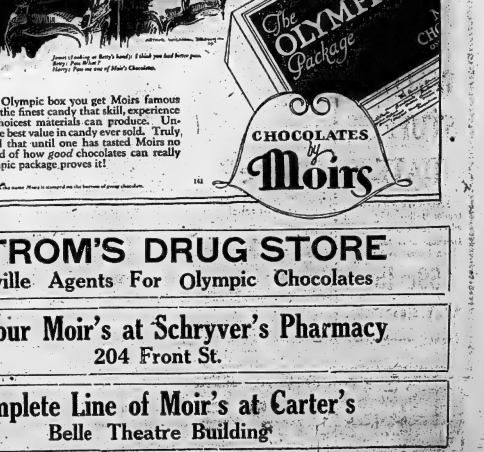

The idea of the Trail Riders Order came into being one rainy day last summer on a bed of white heather under a tent in the Canadian Rockies about 7,000 feet above sea level. There were present or nearly about 32 saddle or pack horses and 14 trail riders who had ridden or tided along the Kootenay from the Crossing to the river's unmapped source in Warm Field Basin and had landed on the plateau, beside Tumbling Glacier at the head of the Wolverine River. It was there and then decided to form the Order and buttons were awarded to those who had travelled distances on the trail from 150 miles down to as low as fifty miles. Among the 2,500 mile button holders is Mr. Nixon.

The first Pow-Wow of the Order was held last summer in the Yoho Valley and with the co-operation of the Canadian Pacific Railway accommodation at the Bungalow Camp at Takakkaw Falls was supplemented with twenty Indian tepees and a large circular tent decorated as a Sun Dance Lodge. It was expected that 150 people would be present, but actually no fewer than 207 were counted at the inauguration. It was at this function that the bronze plaque of Tom Wilson, one of the outstanding old-time guides of the Canadian Rockies, was unveiled.

The next Pow-Wow will it is stated take place next summer at the 10-year beside Wapta Bungalow Camp after a three day (46 mile) cross-country ride from Marble Canyon on the Banff-Windermere Road. The trail to be used calls at the Vermilion Paint Pots, climbs up Tumbling Creek to the Wolverine Plateau where it connects with a new trail over the High Alps east of Helmit and Goodair, and after dropping down to Goodair Creek rises again alongside McArthur Pass to Lake O'Hara and so to Wapta. This route traverses some of the most spectacular scenery in the world.

Membership in the Order of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies has increased greatly in the first year of its formation. At the August Pow-Wow there should be nearer a thousand than the 200 odd participants in the function last year.

OSHAWA BOWLERS GET READY FOR 1925

Oshawa, March 31.—That the Oshawa Lawn Bowling Club would have the best year in its history in 1925 was the unanimous feeling, which prevailed at the annual meeting of that organization held in the old City Hall. The meeting was well attended and activities for the year were outlined. The club has enjoyed considerable success since its inception and although last year was an exceptionally bad year in bowling circles, the club's finances are in excellent condition.

Dr. A. A. Farewell who is at present in Florida, was the choice of the members as president for the ensuing year while P.A. Blackburn, city treasurer, was chosen as vice-president.

City Basketeers Ready For Fray

In Good Shape to Meet Toronto in O.A.B.A. Semi-Final

The local O.A.B.A.- Intermediate squad indulged in a stiff workout in the Y. M. C. A. gym last night in preparation for tonight's final fixture against West Ends' fast travelling basketeers. Every member of the local machine was going "Great Guns" for the entire practice period, and in the opinion of Coach Ellis will have a mighty fast clip. JAPS INTERESTED IN BOXING GAME

San Francisco, March 31.—James R. Fish, state adjutant of the American Legion, has received word that as the result of Legion activities in Tokio, boxing has been introduced into the curriculum of Japanese military academies.

This came about through a mixed boxing-jiu-jitsu match arranged in the Tokio post of the legion at the request of General Ugaki, minister of war. An American army team was expected with a Japanese expert. The Japanese won the match, it is said, but on the resumption of the match the American officer claimed a right in the law that ended the exhibition. General Ugaki then ordered that boxing be taught in the military schools.

TEX RICKARD IS FINED $7,000

Newark, N.J., March 31—George L. "Tex" Rickard, nationally known fight promoter, yesterday was fined $7,000 by United Judge Robion for conspiracy to violate the law regarding illegal transportation of prize fight films. Rickard and four co-defendants were convicted in Federal Court in Trenton on March 19 on the charge, which was brought in connection with transportation of the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films.

Fines were given the other four convicted men, as follows—

Fred Quimby, New York, motion picture producer, $7,000.

Jasper C. "Jap" Rhinn, Washington and New York newspapermen $7,000.

Teddy Hayes, of Los Angiese, former secretary to Jack Dempsey, $1,000.

Frank B. Flournoy, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, $1,000.

Sore?

Rub with Red Pepper Instant relief

The way to relieve soreness, lameness, muscular pains, etc., is red pepper.

That's the new-day way, the quick, efficient way. No old way compares. Nothing else creates such concentrated, such penetrating heat. And a heat that doesn't hurt you.

You feel that heat instantly when you apply Red Pepper Rub. In three minutes it seems to penetrate the tissues. The circulation is started, congestion is relieved. The soreness and pain departs.

Think how many hours of pain Red Pepper Rub may save you. Everybody finds many needs. Have it ever ready. Get it now. Then when pain starts, or a chest cold, turn to this as relief. It is usually but a matter of minutes. Try this for comfort's sake.

TO CHARGE TRACKS $7,500 PER DAY

Toronto, March 31.— Legislation to accede to the Province on a bilateral $175,000 in revenue was introduced into the Ontario House yesterday in the form of a bill to increase the daily tax upon all new tracks, not-red hell mile skke, to $7,000 per day. Hon. Mr. Price Provincial Treasurer, said Premier Ferguson's request for the new legislation which received the enthusiastic first reading.

In explaining the bill, the Treasurer stated that it had a grave object, which should be to put an end to any track for a seven-day period full before $1,000,000, a rebate of $2,500 per day would be granted. He explained that at present mile tracks paid a license fee of $2,500 daily whereas half-mile tracks paid only $2,500 daily. Such an arrangement, he declared, was manifestly unfair because of the fact that some of the half-mile tracks were conducting betting operations in excess of those of the mile tracks. In this connection, he instanced the Dufferin half mile track, where the betting last year ran over $1,000,000, a figure not reached by five or six of the mile tracks and consequently left with the $1,000,000 total achieved at the Woodbine, the best patronized of the Ontario courses.

The increase in revenue to the province from the new impost, Hon. Mr. Price stated, would be $175,000 per year.

Printers Deeper In The Cellar

While C.N.R. and Belleville Juniors Step Up a Bit

Excitement ran high at the Armouries last night in the first city league indoor game, when the local team won out from the National Castings in a great battle, 7 to 1. Good baseball featured this contest, the final score being 7 to 1.

The Printers ran into a barrel of hard luck and were completely snowed under by the Belleville Juniors who were travelling at a fast clip throughout. The Printers carried away a 14 to 2 defeat, and the score just about indicates the play.

In the first frame, the C.N.R. boys scored three runs in the second, one in the third, two in the fourth, and three more in the fifth, while the National Castings, tied things up with one in the second, and three in the third. The Castings broke the ice in the fifth, but didn't keep the lead long. The Railway men hammered E. Knott, the Castings twirler, for three in the sixth, which was sufficient to put the game on ice. Castings could get no more than one in the final session.

Both Knott for the losers and Hurley for the C.N.R. pitched steady ball and were backed up with a fair brand of fielding.

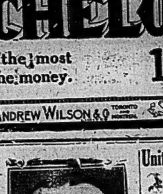

The C.N.R. line-up: Meagher, 3b.; Armstrong ss.; Young 1b.; Newton, c.; Symons, 2b.; Darby lf.; Elliott, cf.; Gerow rf.; Hurley, p.

National Castings: P. Cornell, ss.; S. Knott, 2. R. Knott 3; McKennan, 1b.; P. Cornell, 2b.; A. Knott, 3b.; Sheen, rf.; Hunt, cf.; Evans, lf.

The less said about the Printers' game the better. The Juniors played good ball and their opponents were about as bad as they could be. Barlow, recognized as one of the snappiest indoor ball players in the city, started at first, but found his eye bothered him and had to drop back. Lorne Cook, catcher had his thumb dislocated by one of O'Donohue's fast balls, and was out of the game at the end of the second. Others contributed enough errors for six games. However, the losers will have a stronger outfit on Friday next and a little interest game should be the overall.

The standing to date is as follows:

Teams	Won	Lost
Belleville Juniors	3	0
Canada Cement	2	0
C.N.R.	2	1
C.I.A. Co.	1	1
Allenite	1	2
National Castings	1	3

NOT AGREED YET ON PARKING SCHEME

The special committee of the city council having in charge the matter of suitable places for the parking of cars, with a view to improving the situation on Front street, met yesterday afternoon. It was recommended that the following area be designated by by-law as parking places for automobiles:

1.—Victoria Avenue on the south side from Front Street to Pinnacle Street, using the system of diagonal parking only.

2.—Pinnacle Street on the east side from Campbell Street to Station Street using the system of diagonal parking.

3.—The Market Square, all three sections, comprising the front of the Police Station and in front of private entrances, using diagonal parking, and the use of the Market Square to be subject to the provisions of the By-law regulating the lease of the Market.

Ald. Robinson was opposed to the report as he considered that some park could be used for parking purposes.

A motion carried that the report be referred back for further considerations.

United States Is Seriously Charged

Frenchman Declares it Massacred 3,500 Haytians

Paris, March 31.—Massacre of 3,500 Haytians is one of the charges brought against the United States by former Minister Henry Lemery, now former Minister Henry Lemery, now Senator representing the West Indian Colony Martinique, in the French Parliament.

Lemery, an American occupation, he declares "Haytians have endured a period of great severity," and the United States has imposed by force of arms "a political, economic and financial treaty which is nothing but a treaty of annexation of the Island."

Lemery asserts: "Liberty of speech and press have been reduced to the simplest expression, and the American officials—paid four times as much as natives—are doing all they can to eradicate the French language in the schools, and implant Anglo-Saxon culture."

He comes his charges of violence:

"One day 340 peasants were massacred for daring to protest against the methods of the American. The United States has re-established Negro slavery. Americans stopped a local riot by means of bombs dropped from airplanes. Men, women and children—none were spared."

Lemery concludes his stinging attack by warning the French that the Antilles are threatened by the United States.

Gabriel Perreux, the French writer who often draws attention to the fact that Haytian emigres are coming here in crowds, bitterly complains about the present situation. They implore France, which they consider their spiritual mother, to intervene, or at least, to bring their case before the League of Nations, he says.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Ainsworth of Boston are visiting in Belleville today.

Miss Myrtle Harrison of Lotis is spending a couple of weeks in Belleville.

Mrs. Hodgins, of 163 Church street, has gone to Plainfield owing to the illness of her mother.

Mrs. Mallory, of Belleville, is the guest of both her friend Miss Jessie Bongs, of the Third Line Thurlow.

Rev. and Mrs. Ramsay have left Belleville for Toronto to attend the funeral of Mrs. Ramsay's brother, Andrew J. Hall, Indian Road.

Mr. T. G. Bell, Isabella street, has returned home after a three months' visit to California. Mr. Bell visited practically every city in the state.

Master Jos. O'Leary, son of Mr. and Mrs. O'Leary, 25 Bridge St., who has been under the care of Dr. Crook with a very serious case of pneumonia, is improving nicely.

The Presto Music Club was entertained last evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Wilson, George Street, a very delightful evening was spent, a program of exceptional interest rendered. The club was pleased to welcome as new members Mrs. and Mrs. Leo. Riggs, whose musical abilities are all well known in the city.

Luigi raised his head. He seemed to have been considering the question. Then he turned to you, Nairne," he said, almost inaudibly; "but still—yes, I don't cannot believe guilty of the treachery nor charge her with. There is some black, some mistake, some misapprehension. It is a terrible enigma.

"It is all too plain, alas! I have told you what I have seen; nothing if it you can. God knows I would be glad to have you clear her! I would give all I possess to wipe out the remembrance of the scene; I would give half the years remaining to me to declare her innocent, to put her back in my heart and mind as she stood in my sanctuary an hour!—ago. Come ,what is your explanation, Luigi?"

The blind man shook his head.

"I do not know, I cannot think of any, and yet—forgive me, Nairne—my faith in her is greater than yours."

The marquis sighed.

"You have not seen her and the man to Lear them. They have had the scene second-hand. What explanation is possible? You can, in his blessed innocence, that she stole out of the house to meet the man who was her lover, and that the latter has passed from him to her. My God, if she had only trusted me. If she had only known me better! Why, Luigi! if she had come to me, told me all, I could still have loved and forgiven her, I would not have hesitated a moment in yielding her up. She should have had this man for a husband, and me for a friend as long as his life lasted. But now—"

"You will be her friend still, Nairne! The marquis sighed.

"Yes, because I cannot help it. You know that I love her still. I have said I pity her. Poor girl, poor child! Yes I will be her friend—I will help her to get her heart's desire. This man is a cad and a coward, and altogether unworthy of her, but as her heart is set on marrying him, I will help them both. But I cannot see her again, cannot!" he repeated hoarsely, almost fiercely. "The sight of her would unman me, drive me mad! God help me! I love her all the more now that I have lost her! And it is not only that I have lost, but all hope and care for life is over. But I won't speak of myself. an sick and weary of existence, and life seemed so bright, so precious, an hour—only an hour!—ago!"

Luigi felt his way across the room and touched his friend's arm.

"Nay! God help you," said! give you strength to bear this, Nairne!" he said! solemnly. "Only with that knows—all may be explained, cleared up."

The marquis shook his head.

"Never," he said. "It is all over! There is no hope for me. I can feel that. But I will think of her."

The blind man stood with bowed head in silence for a moment, then he said in a low voice:

"What—what was that cry we heard, Nairne?"

The marquis looked up in a dull, heavy way.

"Cry?"

"Yes. Just before you returned to me I heard—I told you—the cry of a man in pain, of fear, of terror."

The marquis drew his hand across his brow.

"Yes, yes, I remember," he said. "I don't know. An owl, perhaps."

"An owl!" said Luigi.

"You cannot tell. What else could there have been? Was there anything else?"

Luigi hesitated a moment.

"Nothing but what!"

Luigi's face looked wan and tired indeed.

"I heard Et—her pass me," he said in a scarcely audible voice.

"It was not she who cried out!" asked the marquis.

"No, it was a man's voice. I—I am sure of that. It was a terrible cry, Nairne, as though he were in pain."

"It must have been an owl, or some bird," said the marquis indifferently, but indistinctly. I was almost deaf and blind and stupid with my misery! Luigi—"

He looked round for a candle, and Luigi heard in his voice the note of a match box.

As he did so his hand came in contact with the rose and ilty dagger.

He started, and withdrew his hand as though—

"When—when did you hear two cries?" he asked slowly.

"Just before you came back to me. I cannot tell how long I was sitting there."

"And you heard nothing else, no other cry?"

"No one but Elaine."

The marquis looked with his hand to his forehead, his eyes fixed on the ground. Then he shook his head, as if his wearied brain refused to follow the train of thought any longer.

He lit the candle and took thy blind man's hand and led him from the room and upstairs.

CHAPTER XXIII.

After he had left Luigi at his own apartments, the marquis went slowly down the broad staircase. The men tal shock which Elaine's supposed treachery had produced had, as he had said to Luigi, deadened his faculties and half stupified him. He stood for a few minutes but in thought, or rather struggling for the power of thought, in the middle of the hall, then he went slowly toward the library. He could not see her again. Should he write to her? Would it be better to see her father, and explain the whole matter to him? He could not decide. One thing only was he certain: that it would be better for him and for Elaine that they should not meet again.

As he passed the drawing-room door he glanced in absently, and was going on to the library, when something glowing in the room attracted his attention. The room was dark save for the lights reached it dimly from the library and shra in the hall, and he took a small lamp from a bracket and went into the room.

As he did so he saw a woman lying on a couch, her arms outstretched, her face resting on them.—The whole attitude was eloquent of misery and of sorrow, and as he approached and the light of the upheld lamp fell upon the figure, he saw that it was Elaine.

Baree, Son of Kazan

James Oliver Curwood

(A Vitagraph Picture with Wolf, the War Dog, is an adaptation of this story.)

SYNOPSIS

Baree, the wolf-dog, had left the cabin of Pierrot, the trapper, to join the half pack that the wolf-dog would not have him—he was only half-wolf, and back to the cabin he went, to the guardian and pet of Nepesse, the trapper's daughter, henceforth. One day Pierrot received word from Nepesse of the factor, asking him to go to the post and help in the general store for a few days while McTaggart was away. He was a strange person, this same Pierrot to wonder.

CHAPTER XIX—Continued

And Nepesse said Pierrot. Mateo expects me to bring him back."

From the stove the willow bent her head. "Then you will go?" she asked, her face again at Dellar's answer.

"He said nothing about that. But mon—Oh, it will be a great change for life'n me-lle."

Pierrot nodded.

"Possibly, Netootan,"

When Dellar was about to leave the next morning, Pierrot said:

"Tell Mateo that I will leave for Lac Bain the day after tomorrow."

After Dellar had gone he said to Nepesse:

"And you shall remain here, m'sheer. I will not take you to Lac Bain. I have had a dream that the factor will go on a journey, but he has lied and that he will be sick when I arrive at the post. Yes, it is true. Nepesse can that you care to go—"

Nepesse straightened suddenly like a reed that has been caught by the wind. "Pierrot!" she cried, in surprise that Pierrot, flushed and rubbed his hands.

So it happened that on the second day after the fox-hunter's visit Pierrot left for Lac Bain, with Nepesse in the sled, leaving him good-bye until he was out of sight.

On the morning of this same day Black McTaggart rose from his bed with it was still dark. He had a task to come. He had hesitated at murder—at the killing of Pierrot, and in his hesitation he had found a better way. There would be no excuse for Nepesse.

He ate his breakfast before dawn and was on the trail before it was yet light. Purposely he struck due east, so that in passing up from the south and west Pierrot would not strike his sledge tracks. For he had made up his mind that Pierrot must never know and must never have a suspicion, even though it cost him the loss of Nepesse to travel that he would not reach the Grey Loon until the evening of the day. It was better to be a day late, after all, as it was possible that something might have delayed Pierrot. So he made no effort to travel fast.

There was a vast amount of brutal satisfaction in McTaggart's self-planning what was about to happen; and he revelled in it to the fullest, with no chance for disappointment. He was positive that Nepesse would not accompany her father to Lac Bain. She would be at the cabin on the Grey Loon alone.

This alonenese was to Nepesse burdened with no thought of danger. There were times, now, when the thought of her father was a pleasing one, when she wanted to dream by herself, when she visioned things into the mysteries of which she would not admit even Pierrot. She was growing into woman-hood—just the sweet, closed bud of womanhood that the first kiss will wake the soft velvet of girlhood in her eyes, yet with the mystery of woman stirring gently in her soul, as if the Great Hand were beckoning her from the shadows of her self-imposed task to a fuller longer. At these times, when the opportunity came to dwell upon her future, Nepesse would put on the red dress and do up her wonderful hair as she saw in the pictures of the magazines Pierrot had sent to her from the post at Lac Bain.

On the second day of Pierrot's absence Nepesse dressed herself like this. She had left her hair coming down in a shining glory about her, and about her forehead bound a circlet of red ribbon she was not yet dressed. Today she had marvelous designs. On the wall close to her mirror was pinned a page from a woman's magazine, and on this page was a figure cut out of coil. Fifteen hundred miles north of the sunny California studio in which the picture had been taken, Nepesse, with pout of red lips and puckered forehead, was fighting to master the mystery of the girl's curls!

She was looking into her mirror, her face flushed and her eyes aglow in the excitement of the struggle for fashion one of the covered ringlets from a tress that fell away from her left ear, when a door opened behind her, and Bush McTaggart walked in.

CHAPTER XX

The Willows's back was toward the door when the latch lifted, and Nepesse faced the cabin, and for a few seconds she did not turn. Her first impression was that it was for some reason husband returned. But even as this thought came to her she knew it was impossible, a snarl that brought her suddenly to her feet and to face the door.

McTaggart had not entered unperceived by her and his wife, as he had thought, and his keenly cast outside. He was standing with his face toward her—and at Nepesse—in her wonderful dress and flowing hair—he was staring with a stunned for a space at what he saw. Fate, or accident, was playing against his own interests.

It was not a long interval in which the two stood and looked at each other—terrible to the girl. Words were unnecessary. At last she understood, understood what her peril had been that day at the edge of the chasm and in the forest, when fearlessly she had played with the menace that was confronting her now.

A breath that was like a sob broke from her lips.

"Mateo!" she tried to say. But it was only a gasp—an effort. She seemed choking.

Plainly she heard the click of the iron bolt as it locked the door. McTaggart advanced a step.

Only a single step McTaggart advanced—but in the time Nepesse had regained like a cavern thing. He hap. ened to stand in the doorway, and in that one warning snarl—until Mr. Taggart took the step. And then, like a flash, he saw his self-made mistake. Nepesse, every hair of his body on end and at the sight of the wolf, McTaggart lunged back against the barred door of wood from Pierrot's fire-place, and it would have been over. But an instant was given Nepesse, and instantly came. In that moment man's hand and brain worked together with more than brute understanding; and as Baree launched himself at the Factor's throat Nepesse was at the fire-place, and explosion almost in the Willow's eyes.

It was a double report, a shot from the pin with McTaggart's automatic. Baree fell short. He struck the floor with a dull sodden sound, and Nepesse, with a cry, was at his side. She knelt and put her arm about his body. McTaggart lunged nervously as he advanced with his weapon to the bolster. He knew that only a brain shot could have killed Baree.

With her back against the farther wall Nepesse was waiting. McTaggart could see her hand burning back from the door hallway to her.

"Nepesse, I have come to make you my wife," he said.

She did not answer. He could see that her breath was choking her. She raised her hand to her throat. He took two more steps and stopped. He had never seen her like this.

"I have come to make you my wife, Nepesse. To-morrow we will go to Lac Nelson. Come with me, and then back to Lac Bain—forever." He edged the words out as an afterthought. "Forever," he repeated.

Longer, and more words. His course and his determination rose as he saw her shake her head in refusal to his offer. She was powerless. There was no Pierrot was gone, Baree was dead.

He had thought that no living creature could move as swiftly as the Willow when his arms reached out for her. Before he knew it she darted under one of his out-stretched arms. He made a grab, and his fingers barely caught a bit of her hair. He heard the sound of her feet as she leaped and flew to the door. She had thrown back the bolt when he caught her and

Simple Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of black heads, that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any druggist—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads, lightly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply disappear. Blackheads are only simply a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that clog in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads and you have nothing left. Keep the pores clean and in their natural condition.

when there is trouble. Have you a bad—dark brown—taste? A headache? Is your skin muddy? Then you are suffering from biliousness—your liver is not working properly. These messages call for your attention—immediate action. Ignore them and a general mix-up of your system will follow. Flatulence and headaches will be followed by acute indigestion, inability to do anything, to think, to work, to play.

Beecham's Pills will relieve the present trouble and prevent worse. They will relieve constipation, aid the liver to do its work. Swiftly, gently and thoroughly they remove all disorders of stomach, liver, bowels and kidneys. Improvement comes with the first dose and healthy conditions follow. The wiser thing to do is have on hand this remedy which for fifty years has been bringing relief to thousands.

Lilac—and white—checked gingham with collar and cuffs of cora colored cotton rep, banned with the check makes an adorable blouse for a girl.

The use of gingham for frocks and panties is purely an American idea for American children. The French have gingham only as a fabric for kitchen or country house window-curtains, and as most material that is as gay and fresh as it is practical. The English use cotton prints for these little straight-edged dresses with short kimono sleeves and a little fullness at the neck, while the French use the same style for wool jersey in bright jade green, powder blue, geranium and castor colors. Instead of it, a light weight wool is chosen for this style, which is also good for crepe de Chine, cotton crepe, etc.

NERVOUS BREAK-DOWN

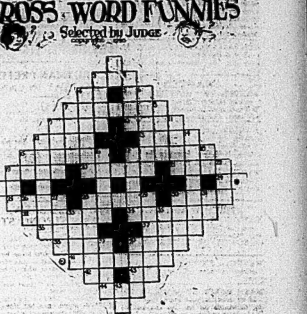

Pains in Back and Legs Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Ford, Ontario.—"I had a nervous break-down, as it is called, with severe pains in my back and limbs. The doctor I was taking for which left me very weak. I was nervous and could not sleep. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and sent much time in bed. I was in the family way and had been for years before Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me by my neighbor. Before I had taken five bottles I was getting up in the morning and before the bottle was taken I was out, doing all my housework and cooking. During my sickness I had been obliged to get some one to do my work. I am glad to say that thanks to the Vegetable Compound I am now able to do all my work and have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Purifier and Sanative Wash for Internal Compound, and I certainly recommend these medicines to any one who is not enjoying good health. I am quite willing for you to use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. J. Sergeand, 130 Jos. Julien Avenue, Ford, Ontario.

Nervousness, irritability, pains in the back, headaches and weakness are symptoms to be noted. Women suffering from these troubles, which they attribute to other causes, should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. All druggists sell this medicine.

Learns Too Well The Art of Loving

Constance Talmadge Plays With Antonio Moreno in Amusing Play

If you are curious to see how the divorce mills of Paris grind out decrees for American Heiresses you have the opportunity in LEARNING TO LOVE one more playing at the Griffin Theatre.

Constance as a sub-deb just out of Boarding School, thought she had plenty to love. Her flashing eyes and piquant personality had wrought havoc with the hearts of her college boy admirers and she glanced to the feet that she was engaged to three of them at once.

Then with the appearance of Antonio Moreno in the role of her guardian she experiences a feeling she cannot diagnose. It happens to be the true breed of love which Constance had never known.

Their marriage is followed by a threat ened scandal, resulting from the intrigue protests of her forgotten fiances; and her husband, in order to save her, refuses to live with her.

It is then Constance rushes to Paris and the divorce mills start grinding on her case.

All ends happily, of course, but not until Constance has undergone many thrilling as well as ecstatically and amusing episodes which brings LEARNING TO LOVE into the foreground of her comedy.

Others in the cast include Emily Stevens, Edith Chapman, Johnny Harron, Ray Hallor, Al. Goulding, Wallace Mc-Donald, Byron Munson and Edgar Norton.

CLERGYMAN PREFER TO STAY IN CANADA

Montreal, March 31—Canon Alan P. Shatford, rector of St. James the Apostle Anglican Church here, has declined a call from a Philadelphia church. In making public his refusal Sunday, Canon Shatford stated that his life as a Canadian and a British subject "must continue," and that he "did not wish to follow the procession to the United States." He admitted, however, that the call offered both a larger field of activity and substantially greater emolument.

THIS HOME BREW WAS STRONG STUFF

Port Arthur, Ont., March 31—When officers of the provincial police raided a forged shelter in the town bet. Saturday they were greeted unceremoniously by an explosion of what is believed to have been "home brew." Sergeant Malloy, head of the squad, was badly burned by the blast.

The explosion was caused by the spilling of the liquid on a hot stove when the foreigner attempted to remove it hastily.

BRANTFORD DOCTOR HEADS KLAN HERE

Hamilton, March 31—At a local meeting of the Canadian Ku Klux Klan Saturday afternoon, attended by about 100 members gathered secretly in a large hall, all garbed in their hoods and robes, a new head Brantford physician was elected Imperial Wizard for the Dominion.

"Twelve Grand Dragons were also chosen to represent the twelve provinces and states where the order has established branches to date.

"Who were those elected?" The Herald's informant was asked.

"When the photograph we have promised to take on the city hall steps is made the public will then learn the identity of our only Ku Klux Klansman chosen as Imperial Wizard but of the Grand Dragons as well, replied the informant.

The public were warned, following the conclave, of impostors and adventurers in wn members for anti-British organizations under the name of the K. K. K.

Queen's Life Isn't All Bed of Roses

As Gloria Swanson Shows in "Her Love Story" At Belle

Gloria Swanson, in her latest Paramount picture, "Her Love Story," which opened at the Belle this afternoon furnishes ample evidence that Kipling knew what he was talking about when he said: "The Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady" are sisters under the skin." Only 1 Gloria's case it isn't a Colonel's lady, but a Queen who shows us that under the thin veneer of royalty she is just a woman.

It may be somewhat of a shock to a good many ordinary folks to learn life isn't all a bed of roses even to a Queen. Of course, she lives in a beautiful palace she wears stunning clothes worth a king's ransom, she is surrounded by numerous servants who are ready to fulfill her slightest wish, but all these material luxuries do not bring when she is separated from the one she loves.

"Her Love Story" is based upon Mary Roberts Rinehart's absorbing story, "Her Majesty, the Queen," adapted to the screen by Frank Tuttle. Gloria has the role of a princess who secretly marries a brave young captain of the King's guards. Her father disregards this marriage which was performed by a spray and forces her to marry the King. A son is born to her—the son of her guardsman-lover. She confesses to the King that the child is not his. The result is that she is banished, and the King proclaims the boy as his own.

How her overwhelming love for her boy leads to greater sacrifices, her desperate struggle for happiness with the one man whom she has never ceased to love and the final thrilling and satisfying ending are strikingly portrayed in a series of tense dramatic situations that rug at the heart-strings.

Never has Gloria looked more beautiful or played her part with greater sympathy and understanding. Her gowns are a revelation. Beauford Jobydeian was elected Imperial Wizard for the Dominion.

Government Shows How To Rush Work

Much Business Accomplished At Yesterday's Session in Toronto

Toronto, March 31—First passage of the supplementary estimates, the last of another important lap in the work of the Ontario Legislature for the present session. The House will receive its further estimates and will go into a full committee tomorrow with which data it will have before it practically all of the program which it is hoped to complete before Easter.

Yesterday's sitting of the chamber provided a study in expeditious rarely attained in the annals of parliament. In the course of a sitting lasting for only an hour and a half, 26 bills or shards given their reading, two new bills were given first reading, seven bills were given second reading and eight bills were passed through the committee stage without amendment. In short, a program which had been expected to occupy the House until well on into the evening was accomplished in time to allow of the adjournment.

Outstanding amongst the legislative matters to be considered during the day by the House was the municipalities' interest on payments overdue to the Highways Department, and increasing the tax on race tracks to $7,500 per day uni formly, both of which measures were placed before the chamber for the purpose of receiving the sanction of the royal, which accord second reading was the school bill of the Prime Minister, which gives a new definition of county pupil, and a method of determining the cost of resident and county pupils.

One new Government measure introduced by Attorney-General W. H. G. S. Henry, to amend the Highways' Act, provides for the closing of interest on overdue accounts against municipalities. There had, he said, been some difficulty in getting municipalities to pay promptly. The bill also provides for deducting from amounts due to the counties the confesses to the Department of Provincial Highways.

Defines County Pupil

The Premier's bill to amend the School Laws was given second reading without discussion. Hon. Mr. Ferguson, explaining that its details could be discussed in the committee stage. The most important amendment, according to the Premier, was the new definition of "County pupils". This states that County pupils are those who reside, or whose parents or guardians reside, in the county but not within the limits of a high school district or of a town or village which maintains a high school, or which a continuation school is established within the county. In cases of dispute as to liability of the county for cost of education, the matter is to be decided by a judge.

The mode of determining cost of education of resident and county pupils is also set forth in detail.

Another clause of the bill gives teachers and inspectors the right to withdraw all monies paid-in under the old superannuation fund scheme. Provision is also made for school boards to provide transportation of pupils in urban as well as rural municipalities.

WAR BRIDE MISSING WILL INVESTIGATE

Halifax, March 31—Duncan Gammon, 30 years of age, an ex-service man, native of Picton County, is being held here by the police in connection with the disappearance of his war bride, who has been missing since September last, when she was to have sailed from Quebec to visit her family in Wiltshire, Cheshire, England.

The husband stated that he accompanied Mrs. Gammon as far as Quebec, where she embarked for England. Police Chief Palmer said this morning that he had not been able to verify the sailing from Canada.

Letters written by Mrs. Gammon to her parents told of her contentment with her husband. However the police they have heard nothing from her since September last. Gammon met his wife while he was with the Canadian forces overseas.

TOOK TWO DRINKS OF BEER PER VOTE

Berlin, March 31—At least two steins of beer were required for every ballot cast in Sunday's presidential election The polling places generally were located in beer cellars. A below-voting stein of beer to permit the last minute deliberation so necessary to a wise marking of the ballot was usually necessary. After depositing the ballot in the box another stein of iced amber was then drained to celebrate the electors good judgment.

The ice on the Saugeen River moved out Tuesday and the fishermen are busy preparing to place their nets and commence the season's work. This is a couple of weeks earlier than usual.

Alice, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Dolkin, North Dunwich, met with a painful accident at her home, when she slipped and fell on the cement steps. Her left arm was badly injured and several stitches were required to close the wound.

No Flapper Will Share His Millions

So Newly Rich Inventor Tells the Whole World

(Associated Press Despatch)

San Francisco, March 30.—No flapper wife is going to share George Cantlon's millions, he declared today in a statement to the world. "I am not going to be married, theoretically at least, to any millionaire as the result of a decision of the United States Supreme Court," he said, "nor am I going to embellish his claim to fame by becoming the mother of a child that will be born to me because of a decree of divorce. I feel that the time has arrived to let the world know my position, so that I may be expected to do a lot of idiotic involving contracts when I return. Nothing doing, sweetheart, but, nothing sure, he wasn't going to get married.

The decision in favor of Cantlon was rendered in appeal from a federal district court in the state of Washington. He had sued the American Smelting & Refining Company which he accused of appropriating Cantlon's patent of his invention of a device to speed up the smelting of copper.

According to counsel in the case, several other companies are involved in the ruling, which, if not upset by the Supreme Court, may net him as high as $20,000,000. Officials of the American Smelting & Refining Companies, however, say that they are not involved in the refund of more than $200,000. They expect to appeal.

Meanwhile Cantlon continues to live in the modest water front hotel that has lodged him in recent months. Since the news of the decision has spread, he has been receiving more mail than he can read. He said he was getting many letters from women, who complained of loveliness and envious coldness and relentless cruelty.

"Beauty Mean Anything to Me?"

Tactfully Cantlon refused to talk of beauty, love, kisses and such. Lately since the high court ended with him, he has been quite inclusive to love-secret, editorial amenities. The waits of his rooms are adorned with photographs of movie actresses, but that doesn't mean anything, he explained.

"None of those flappers are going to get me," he affirms.

Cantlon is 47. At the age of 14 he ran away from the family farm in Kansas. He had but two cents in his pocket.

In 1890 he discovered the Wonderful mine, a cropping of surface silver ore near Clifton, Ariz. He sold his claim for $1,000. In his prospecting he absorbed a great deal of metallurgy and geology.

For a time he digressed from mining to join an expedition sent into Mexico for the American Geographical Society. He left the expedition in the wilds of the Sierra Madre mountains a year later and drifted to Chihuahua, where he worked at the smelting end of mining.

Years of Reverses

Later Cantlon wandered over Colorado, Idaho and Oregon, following the gold camps. For a while he ran an assay office. He also worked as far as Birmingham, Ala., and then, in Pittsburgh, began an intensive study of metallurgy, but lacked the funds to our me it. His invention lagged for eight years. It took him all that time to get the figures ready for the patent office. Cantlon's diary, which figured in the evidence at the trial, is a long recital of disappointments, of ill-health and reverses during years of reverses.

He offered testimony intended to show that his contrivance found instant acceptance in the mills and were widely used, while he received no compensation. He said that it was possible under his process to treat 700 tons of ore in a furnace in 24 hours, whereas under the old system but 200 tons could be treated.

Two years ago Carson lost his case in the federal court at Seattle. Her reversal of this finding was his first victory in 10 years of struggling to patent and market his invention.

REPRESENTS LABOR!

Hamilton, March 30.—Characterizing the federal government's fair wage reg ulations as a "farce," Tom A. Flett, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, severely criticized the "Canadian Fig Syrup" given nauseating and indigestible matter right out of the bowels and can have a well, playful child smile.

Millions of mothers depend upon this gentle, harmless laxative. It never sickens or overacts. Contains no narcotics or soothing drugs. Say "California" to your druggist and avoid counterfeits. Insist upon genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages plainly printed on bottle.

Children Love Its Pleasant Taste

If your little one is out-of-sorts, won't play, acts cross, languid, not naturally active, has a bad breath, coated tongue, or stomach-ache, it's a "hint." Don't scold. Just ask for a few drops of "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages plainly printed on bottle.

C.N.R. Colonization Director Says Mid-Western Farmers Dissatisfied

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Montreal, March 30.—Increased interest in Canada on the part of farmers throughout the mid-western states of the United States is reported by Dr. W. J. Black, Director of Colonization and Development Canadian National Railways, who has returned to Montreal from a trip of inspection to the western provinces and mid-western States. Dr. Black is of the opinion that an encouraging increase over last year in the number of farmers who will move to Canada from the United States may be expected. The fact that the march of the land seeker is farmers in the mid-western States is high prices and is not yielding a proper return on the investment, is causing many of these farmers to turn their attention to Western Canada where land prices are low and crops on the average, good.

It is among such men, Dr. Black pointed out, that the Canadian National Railways desire to reach, since the real object of the Colonization Department is not to bring in farmers but to attract experienced farmers who will settle along the lines of the system and be of double benefit to the country by building up the uncultivated territories of Western Canada and adding to the traffic of the company in the same time.

Dr. Black stated that his experience in Great Britain and during his recent trip in the United States have convinced him that it is not a difficult matter to secure immigrants, once a railway desire to settle in urban centres, but that considerable care has to be exercised in bringing to Canada settlers who are capable of earning a living from the land. The class of immigration has just begun to flow forth this year and advices received by the Colonization Department of the Canadian National Railways indicate that applications are obtaining from the organization work done in Great Britain during the past year. The movement will be started at Halifax this week end, has on board 166 settlers, being brought out by the Colonization Department of the Canadian National Railways and the number which is due next Saturday has another large party on board.

BUCK THE PROMISE

Victoria, B. C., March 30.—Regardless of the restrictive immigration bill that everyone in British Columbia must be vaccinated as a precaution against the spread of smallpox, there will be no compulsory vaccination in Victoria, the city council decided.

TWENTY JAIL-BIRDS ATTEMPTED ESCAPE

Toronto, March 30.—Chief Thomas Richards, war veteran of 483 Sorauren Avenue, is in the General Hospital, suffering from as yet undetermined head injuries as the result of two explosions last night in the Toronto Jail, attempting to make a jail delivery about 7.30 on Sunday night. The two men, both of whom are in jail awaiting trial, are Frederick Basher are James Moss, who was recently convicted of theft and sent to jail for months for shoplifting, and Andrew Morrison, sentenced to a year in jail for the theft of an auto thieving. The prisoners will appear in the Police Court this morning on a charge not yet defined. That Richards was not killed by the fiendish devices of the prisoners was the courage of Guard Arthur Edwards, 201 Victor Ave., who, when he heard Richards' cries for help, ascended to the third floor, rescued Richards from the smoke, and dragged him to the main floor, two storeys below. Two other inmates of the jail were freed by Moss and Morrison, but none of them got beyond the second floor, due to the fact that Edwards and Governor Basher halted their way with leveled rifles.

CITY SPENT $600,000 FOR 4 NIGHTS' FUN

Rio de Janeiro, March 30.— The carnival of 1925 is over, and the city to-day is resting from its 4 hyge days and four nights of merry-making. Banks and business houses are closed, and the street cleaners are hauling away carloads of colored paper from the principal streets like snow in an American city after a winter storm.

Confetti and serpentine cost more this year than they did in 1924, but even the increase in price did not prevent a huge consumption. One hundred tons of the former and 250 of the latter were used on the streets by the pleasure-seeking crowds, it is estimated. Next fall for the jubilation is placed at $600,000.

No music were worn this year on account of recent political disturbances.

MOTORIST PAYS ENGINE DAMAGES

San Mateo, Cal., March 21.—A man should show some consideration for a locomotive, Judge Justice of the Peace Valter Jind recently in assessing Ralph Jamieson $67.75 for damages with his automobile a Southern Pacific engine proceeding pleasantly along its own right-of-way.

The evidence indicated that Jamieson drove his car down the railroad, parked it on the tracks and went to sleep. Awakening at the train crew said they had to awaken Jamieson after he had been carried for 50 feet on the cowcatcher. The locomotive got the worst of the encounter, Jamieson was not hurt. His car was not badly damaged. Railroad officials said it cost $67.75 to have the engine repaired in the local shops. Jamieson was in the court entered judgment accordingly.

AGED OSHAWA LADY DIED FROM BURNS

Oshawa, March 30.—Sustaining terrible burns about her arms, legs and body, Mrs. Ann Bragg, 137 King Street East, died at the Oshawa Hospital last Saturday night. About the time, a lady of 75 years, had been burning rubbish in the backyard of her son-in-law's home, 137 King Street East, and it is thought that the wind blew the flames toward her dress. Her clothes were instantly ignited. She rushed into the house, enveloped in flames, which were extinguished by relatives and neighbors, but not before the victim's body was terribly burned and practically charred.

Fire Chief Cameron, who was summoned, secured two physicians, Drs. Cameron and Bird, who ordered the unfortunate woman's removal to the hospital. Her recovery was regarded out of from the first, owing to the nature of the injuries and her advanced age.

FATHER, SON-JOIN PATCH DIFFERENCES

Buffalo, March 21.—Ten years of estrangement between a father and son and a son will end on April 1, with the merging of the Rand Company, Inc., and the Kardex Company, both situated in Tonawanda, N. Y., under the name of the Rand Kardex Company, Inc. The genius and capacity of the father, James H. Rand, Sr., president of the Kardex Company, developed the merging companies in practically parallel fields and won them recognition as America's two largest manufacturers of visible card record systems.

The Rand-Kardex Company, Inc., will have an authorized capital stock of $10,050,000.

The merger gives the Rand-Kardex Company factories in Canada and Germany in addition to the plants in the United States.
